BIG NO MAJORITY

Assured in Quincy on the License Question.

Very Largely Attended Meetings Held.

Henry H. Faxon Expected to Question Mayor Bryant.

Quincy Music hall was full to overflowing Sunday evening at the grand union No-license rally, although five other largely attended meetings were held in different parts of the city. It is estimated that 200 to 300 were unable to gain admission to the hall, and that over 1200 were present.

After selections by the Quincy City band both outside and inside the hall, Dr. C. T. Sherman, president of the No-license league, welcomed the audience.

Letters of regret had been received from ex-Mayor Hodges, ex-Mayor Fairbanks, ex-Mayor Porter, County Commissioner Wright, Representative Fallon, and Candidates Wilson and Richards for Mayor.

The letters of the last two were read in full, and both advocated a continuance of the No-license policy, and Mr. Wilson promised to faithfully enforce the liquor laws if elected.

On the platform beside the speakers was Rev. F. A. Frigugliett who strenghtened the cause by his presence.

Hon. W. B. Rice was introduced to preside and spoke in glowing terms of the city of Quincy; its advantages, location, schools, history and progress, but said its freedom from the curse of the saloon was its greatest attraction. He urged an increase in the No majority.

Ex-Mayor Hall advocated eternal vigilance in fighting the License question, and appealed to the manhood and womanhood, to patriotism and chivalry, for children and homes. There is no argument in favor of license, but an injury pure and simple in every light.

E. J. Edmunds of Saugus added convincing arguments against license, and reminded the voters of the duty they owe to over 25,000 people. The saloon curse was worse than small pox and other scourges. Twenty saloons can teach more vice, he said than 100 schools in ten years can counteract.

John O. Hall, Jr., the treasurer of the league made an earnest appeal for funds, and a collection was taken while the band rendered a selection.

Mayor Bryant said as a citizen it was for the best interests of the city that No-license prevail. As Mayor he urged the people to vote No as the moral effect of a large majority against license is far reaching. He hoped there was not one present who would vote yes. A large No majority gives the Executive of the city and the Police department the best encouragement to enforce the liquor laws.

The address of Rev. Fr. Johnstone was perhaps the most convincing of the evening. He said every citizen should be against the saloon evil. It was unquestionably the greatest evil of our country. It was the parent of disorder and begets poverty. He specially appealed to father. No laboring man had enough money for rum, and at the same time educate and clothe his children. It was impossible he said to rear sons honorably with saloons in our midst. Vote NO for protection of daughters. Vote NO as christians. No man, he said decisively, can resist the saloons.

Fr. Johnstone also showed how all liquors are adulterated with poisons, and told of the unhealthy action of alcohol on the heart and blood.

Theophilus King was the last speaker, and first complimented Fr. Johnstone on the plain, wholesome and true statement he had made of the case. He urged a large No majority.

The meeting closed at 9.15 with the singing of America by the audience accompanied by the band.

Swedish Meeting.

Every available seat was occupied Sunday afternoon at the No-license meeting in the Swedish Baptist church, and considerable enthusiasm was aroused. The addresses which were made in the Swedish language were by Rev. J. A. Bernhard, Rev. J. A. Bjork, Rev. H. Hansone and Rv. A. Swanstrom.

Socialist Meeting.

A temperance meeting under the auspices of the Socialist club was held Sunday evening at Hancock hall. Representative James F. Carey of Haverhill was the speaker, and his remarks were frequenty applauded by the large audience present.

Levi H. Turner presided and in opening he said the Socialist club was a political organization in the fullest sense of the word. The local club had been largely increased in membership and all were invited to join.

He spoke of efforts made in the past to have a bill enacted by the Legislature permitting the establishment of municipal coal yards, and that this year an effort would be made to amend the constitution to that end.

A brief entertainment followed which included songs by little Miss Axelberg, readings by Charles H. Sargent, vocal solo by Miss Carlson, and a recitation by a little five-year old.

Representative Carey was then introduced. He opened his address by saying that by the feeling, the coal trust evidently had this hall in its hands.

To some the Socialist movement was like patent medicine; to some a theory, or scheme; but it was not a dream or theory but an expression of industrial development. It points to the logic of human events.

He traced the present system of industry step by step from barbarism up to capitalism. It was wrong to say it would stop here, for the inevitable evidence was that the trend was from competition to co-operation. Socialism was a step toward a higher civilization and capitilization is going the way of other systems.

He then turned his attention to the liquor problem. He declared that drunkards were made by the competition system, as condition make drunkards. Men who have been confined for ten hours in a shop at the bench becomes exhausted, and when exhausted will look for some kind of stimulant to forget his misery. The only remedy was to improve the conditions of the laboring class which could only be done by the co-operative system as proposed by Socialism.

At South Quincy.

The No-license rally in Doble's hall Sunday afternoon was well attended. Mr. George Forsyth presided and after a short address introduced the speakers, John D. Mackay, Esq., Supt. of Schools Parlin, Rev. James Todd and Rev. W. W. Barr.

Each of the speakers treated the question from a different point of view and the ground was pretty well covered. Mr. Mackay's discussion was on the line of municipal economy. Mr. Parlin spoke on the moral aspect of the situation and contrasted the condition of school children he had met in license towns with the general comfort and happiness of the children of Quincy.

Messrs. Todd and Barr told of impressions they had got in the different towns and cities in which they had held pastorates in the past.

The chairman invited any license advocate who might be present to give his views, assuring him of a respectful hearing, but there was no response.

The literature of the Citizens' No-license League was distributed at the close of the meeting.

At West Quincy.

A meeting under the auspices of St. Marys Total Abstinence Society was held at St. Mary's hall, and addresses of Rev. A. F. Roche, Rev. Dr. John T. Mullin, and ex-Aldermen John T. Shea of Cambridge did much to keep Ward Four in the No-license column. The attendance was large.

At Quincy Point.

There was a goodly number present Sunday evening at the Washington Street Congregational church at the No-license meeting. The address was by Rev. L. H. Austin, pastor of the church, who gave an able talk on the evils of intemperance.

At Wollaston.

The Wollaston Congregatspnal church was crowded Sunday evening with an audience which believes in No-license for Quincy. The chairman, Rev. Mr. Chase introduced the speakers: Mayor Bryant, Councilman N. G. Nickerson, Mr. Herbert Bailey and Rev. Mr. Webber. The speakers urged all present to use their influence so that the No-license vote this year will be larger than ever before.

At Atlantic.

The entertaining illustrated lecture of Rev. E. N. Hardy drew a crowded house at Music hall, Atlantic, on Sunday evening. Fully 400 were present. Mr. Charles Scammell rendered a cornet solo, and Charles Taylor assisted M. P. Hayward with the stereopticon.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

CONGRESS IN SESSION

Trusts Will Be the Most Important Topic of Discussion

LEADERS NOT OF ONE MIND

As to Exact Method of Dealing With the Question—Will Expedite Appropriation Bills to Leave Margin of Time For Other Matters

Washington, Dec. 1.—When the house convened today to enter on the final session of the 57th congress a perfect deluge of bills dealing with the trust question in all its phases was thrown into the legislative hopper. It is admitted on all sides that this will be the most important topic of discussion. Indeed the leaders incline to the belief that beyond the appropriation bills and routine legislation it will be the only general subject on which there is a chance of action at the short session.

As yet the leaders have formulated no measure and there exists quite a wide divergence of opinion as to what can or should be done. The president's recommendations on the subject are awaited with interest. The most conservative opinion among the Republican leaders seems to favor an appropriation for the enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law. Such an appropriation, it is pointed out, could be placed on one of the regular appropriation bills and put through both houses without difficulty, whereas any amendment to the law itself, no matter how conservative, would likely meet opposition.

It is not improbable when the leaders ascertain exactly what can be done that a caucus of the Republicans will be called to agree on a measure. Meantime the trust bills introduced probably will be referred to the judiciary committee.

The leaders already have resolved to expedite the appropriation bills as much as possible, in order to allow the largest margin of time for other matters. Mr. Cannon, chairman of the appropriations committee, believes that the legislative, executive and judicial, and the pension appropriations bills can be disposed of before the holidays. His committee will go to work at once and prepare the supply bills as rapidly as possible. The legislative and pension bills probably will be read before the end of the week.

One of the first things the appropriations committee will be called to do, however, is to prepare a bill to provide for the coal strike commission. Judge Gray, chairman of the commission, has written a letter to Mr. Cannon asking for an appropriation of $50,000 to defray the expenses of the commission, to pay its clerical force and to furnish such compensation for its members as the president may fix. The appropriations committee will meet today to prepare a bill which, it is believed, will be presented and passed this week. No opposition to it from the minority is anticipated.

The admission of the territories of Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona as states of the union will be the subject of general importance to receive the attention of the senate.

After the omnibus territorial bill passed the house last session its friends in the senate were so insistent on action by the senate and so strong in point of numbers that in the interest of other pending legislation a unanimous agreement was reached that the committee on territories would report on the bill Dec. 3 and that a week later the bill should become the unfinished business of the senate, which means that unless the measure shall be displaced by vote or by unanimous consent it will occupy the first place on the senate calendar until disposed of.

A protracted debate in the senate is probable. The friends of the house measure claim to have the support of all the Democratic senators and of from 15 to 18 Republicans. There is, however, determined opposition on the part of some of the Republican leaders, who deny the omnibus bill has the strength its friends claim for it.

Other questions which, in addition to the appropriation bills, are expected to receive the attention of the senate at this session are the trusts, the tariff and Cuban reciprocity. It is possible that the Cuban question may be postponed until the pending commercial treaty with the Cuban government shall be transmitted to the senate, but there has not been any determination on that point. Very few Republican senators admit the probability of any change of the tariff law during the present session, but some bills to modify present schedules may be introduced and speeches made thereon. Some senators speak of the creation of a tariff commission as a possibility, but there are differences of opinion as to the ability of such a body. There is quite a unanimity of opinion favorable to anti-trust legislation and this opinion goes to the extent of predicting results along the lines indicated by Attorney General Knox for the amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Serious Mine Explosion

Shamokin, Pa., Dec. 1.—Four men were killed, three fatally and five seriously injured by the explosion of gas in the Luke Fidley colliery. Officials are now conducting an investigation, but have not yet announced the cause of the explosion. They are of the opinion that a miner carelessly opened a safety lamp.

THREE GREAT CANYONS.

Yosemite, Yellowstone and Grand Canyon of the Colorado Compared.

The justly famous Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone is, like the Colorado, gorgeously colored and abruptly countersunk in a plateau, and both are mainly the work of water. But the Colorado's canyon is more than 1,000 times larger, and as a score or two new buildings of ordinary size would not appreciably change the general view of a great city so hundreds of Yellowstones might be eroded in the sides of the Colorado canyon without noticeably augmenting its size or the richness of its sculpture. But it is not true that the great Yosemite rocks would be thus lost or hidden. Nothing of their kind in the world, so far as I know, rivals El Capitan and Tissiack, much less dwarfs or in any way belittles them. None of the sandstone or limestone precipices of the canyon that I have seen or heard of approaches in smooth, flawless strength and grandeur the granite face of El Capitan or the Tenaya side of Cloud's Rest. These colossal cliffs, types of permanence, are about 3,000 and 6,000 feet high; those of the canyon that are sheer are about half as high and are types of fleeting change, while glorious domed Tissiack, noblest of mountain buildings, far from being overshadowed or lost in this rosy, spiry canyon company, would draw every eye and in serene majesty "aboon them a'" she would take her place—castle, temple, palace or tower. Nevertheless a noted writer, comparing the Grand canyon in a general way with the glacial Yosemite, says: "And the Yosemite—ah, the lovely Yosemite! Dumped down into the wilderness of gorges and mountains, it would take a guide who knew of its existence a long time to find it." This is striking and shows up well above the levels of commonplace description, but it is confusing and has the fatal fault of not being true.—John Muir in Century.

Sympathetic Inks.

Rabelais compiled a curious list of inks of a sympathetic nature, which were largely in vogue in his days. In his book entitled "Pantagruel" he makes his readers acquainted with Panurgue's exploits in trying to decipher the invisible characters of a letter which a Parisian female had written to Pantagruel. "He held it up before a fire," says Rabelais, "to see if it was written with spirits of ammonia mixed with water. Then he placed it in water to discover if the writing had not been done with sirup of tithymal. When this would not work, he held it over a candle, which would have brought out the characters had they been written with the juice of white onions. By rubbing a part of it with nut oil he tried to find whether it had not been written with the sap of a fig tree. And if frog's blood had been used in the place of ink the milk from the breast of a woman suckling her firstborn daughter would have betrayed the secrets of that letter."

Two of a Kind.

An old woman recently entered an optician's shop and asked to look at some spectacles. Choosing a pair, she asked the price.

"Five shillings," was the answer.

"And how much are they without the case?"

"I could not sell them for less than 4s. 10d.," said the tradesman, who was determined to get all he could.

"Do you take off twopence for the case?" queried the woman.

"That is all. The case is worth no more than twopence," was the reply.

"That is good news!" ejaculated the old lady, with a sigh of relief. "It's the case for mine which I have lost."

So saying she laid down the twopence and marched off with the coveted case before the astonished shopkeeper had time to interfere.—London Answers.

Origin of the Red Cap of Liberty.

The red cap of liberty had a very prosaic origin. Instead of being the "Phrygian bonnet" it is just the galley slave's headgear. The Swiss of the Chateauroux regiment sent to the galleys for their share in the Nancy riots were released and came into Paris with the red caps still on their heads. "They are the victims of despotism," said the people, forgetting the circumstances of the riot, and so the red cap became the favorite with the extreme party.

Toothache.

If one has a toothache and can't reach the dentist, try this method of temporarily allaying the pain: Cleanse and dry the hollow tooth with a bit of cotton. Then put in a small cotton plug dipped in creosote or oil of cloves. Cover this with another bit of dry cotton, or, still better, a little beeswax and cotton kneaded together. This keeps out the air and downs the "misery" until a dentist can be reached.

Cockney.

"That Englishman Simkins is very well fixed, isn't he?" inquired Polk.

"Well," replied Jolk, "some people think so, but I know he hasn't a bit of property he can call his own."

"Nonsense! He lives in his own house."

"That may be, but he calls it 'is hown.'"—Philadelphia Press.

Disenchantment.

"How did you enjoy your visit to the Bermudas, Uncle Jed?"

"I was a good deal disappointed. The onions didn't come up to my expectations. Why, I've eat better Bermuda onions right here."—Chicago Tribune.

An Old Family.

He—Miss Bellacour claims to belong to a very old family.

She—Well, she's justified. There are six those girls, and the youngest of them must be at least thirty.

AN AVERTED TRAGEDY

[Copyright, 1901, by C. L. Sherwood.]

It was only yesterday at breakfast that he had asked, half in earnest, whether she expected company, and she had granted a certain reasonableness to the question, for there was twice as much meat on the table as was necessary; also it was the first of the month and their prenuptial figures on the cost of living had been more than doubled, while the prenuptial earning capacity had in no way increased.

So, though this first manifestation of a spirit of criticism cut her two-month-old wifeliness, it was passed over, for John was very loving toward her. She was duly sorry about her extravagance and, with a pat on the cheek, told him she would try to figure more closely.

But this morning they had eaten in silence. She could not speak, for she was on the verge of tears. Neither did he speak, except to say that she did not understand, but would when she had thought it over.

Now she had thought it over and almost decided that she had never, in the two years of their acquaintance, known the real John. She almost reached the conclusion that he had deceived her, that he was not the sunny, open faced boy he seemed, but a brute who could not control his own temper and who took pleasure in coldly and cruelly showing it to her.

So she cried in the cozy little front room of the little house in the suburbs, and the torn collar on the dresser in their room was to her mute evidence of his true self.

The truth of the tragedy was this: The collar he had tried to put on that morning was frayed and saw toothed, old and useless. He had scratched his neck, and he had said, not altogether pleasantly, that it should never have gone to the laundry, and then, vindictively, she thought, he had deliberately torn it in two.

All it meant to her was the loss of her ideal, and that was everything. And then he had not seemed to see how she felt. The words in her mind were, "Now we know that he never could know and never could understand."

It looked that way, and helplessly he also realized it, though perhaps it should have been, "Did not understand."

He had quoted the lines himself as he left her, but he quoted them verbatim, with the proper pronouns, and then was sorry they had come to his mind.

All the way to the city it worried him. Why had she not answered him when he had spoken to her immediately after the collar episode? It had always brought an answer—that hearty, kindly, "What's the trouble, Mrs. John?" his pet name these two months. Then he said, "If she's going to get huffy and quiet about nothing, all right."

But as he thought it over perhaps he had not been exactly affable at the table. He had kissed her goodby, however, and her response was of the passive, dutiful variety. It made him blue to think of it.

At the office he found that he had to recheck all his additions, and the second bookkeeper was spared the usual "jollying." By 9 o'clock he found that he was shading every figure made.

There was one page in last year's cash-book similarly disfigured, the day after she had accepted him. So he stopped work and sharpened his pencil. By the time he had used up two inches of it and the neat pile of red shavings had grown to magnificent proportions his brow was less clouded, and he reached to the side of his desk and rang a messenger call.

* * * * * * *

It was 11 o'clock when at the door of a certain little house in the suburbs a tearful little housewife took a package from the blue coated messenger of peace. The flowers were violets, her favorites, and this was the note with them:

Dearest Mrs. John—Probably I am a brute, probably I don't understand, but anyway I want to let you know I am sorry. I haven't had any great peace of mind since I left you, and I thought it might make you feel better to let you know right away that I really wasn't very angry when I tore up the collar—that is, not any angrier than any man ever is when he puts on one of those saw toothed things. And if you'd had the experience with starched linen I have you'd appreciate this; but, thank goodness, you're not mannish enough to have run to them. (You'll have to read this twice to catch my meaning.)

The fact is this: In my boarding house life I always tore up a collar the moment it showed signs of dissolution, but I haven't a doubt that I paid laundry bills enough, at 2 cents per, on useless collars to keep us in theater tickets for a year. So, there.

Q. E. D., as we used to love to write after problems when we were in the high school.

Well, I've got to catch up on some work I mixed up this morning, so will close. Hope you like the flowers. Will be home by 5 at latest. Lovingly, JOHN.

At 5 o'clock on the little porch of the little house in the suburbs stood a young housewife in a fresh lawn gown, with fresh flowers scattered through it and pink ribbons twisted about it, where they ought to be—at least so John thought, for it was his favorite gown.

She wore a bunch of violets at her belt, and—well, they got inside the little hall with all the haste that was meet and seemly.

CLAIMS PILED UP

Street Railway Which Had Many Accidents Goes Into Receiver's Hands

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 29.—William Schofield of Boston was yesterday appointed by the superior court of Middlesex county as receiver for the Marlboro Street Railway company. Mr. Schofield will at once take charge of the road and operate it until further notice.

The receivership was applied for by the company itself on the ground that it could not meet the claims for damages against it on account of several accidents on the Hudson division last summer. Three of the 135 claimants for damages against the company refused to accept the proposition of counsel for the company to pay them $25,000 in full settlement of their claims. The attachments against the company aggregated $113,000 and as all efforts to have these removed proved unavailing, there seemed no other course left but to have the receiver appointed.

The entire stock of the Marlboro Street Railway company, whose road is only 4½ miles in length, running from Marlboro Junction to Hudson, is in the hands of 13 men. The company's capital stock is $80,000. It is mortgaged for $80,000 and has an unfunded debt of $72,000, making its total liabilities $232,000.

New Haven Police Slow

New Haven, Nov. 29.—William D. Moore, an alleged pickpocket, said to be one of the most clever crooks in the country, was locked up as a suspicious character last Saturday. After he was arraigned in the city court, Moore went to jail in default of bonds of $1000 and his case was continued until today. Meanwhile the police got out new warrants against him, and these were about to be served by detectives yesterday when Moore, whose attorneys had secured bonds for him, left the jail. In spite of an exciting pursuit across the city, the man escaped.

Popular Summer Hotel Burned

Jackson, N. H., Nov. 29.—Gray's Inn, one of the best known summer hotels in the White mountains, was totally burned last night, together with Woodbury hall and all outbuildings. The total loss is $175,000. The property was owned by Charles W. Gray, who, with his family, were living at the hotel during the winter. The fire was due to a defective electric light wire. The hotel was a very popular summer resort and had accommodations for about 250 guests.

Denies Bribery Allegation

Woburn, Mass., Nov. 29.—Alderman Greaney, against whom charges of bribery have been made by President Brady, was on the stand for three hours at the investigation last night, and denied that he had ever offered to sell his vote for $1000 or that he had been given a position of $1000 a year on the Bristol county street railway for his vote on the street railway franchise. This was in contradiction to the statements made by President Brady.

Two Bodies Still Missing

Providence, Nov. 29.—The body of Albert W. Brewer, one of the three from the Pentecostal Collegiate institute, drowned at Scituate while canoeing, was found yesterday afternoon by dredging. It is expected the bodies of Miss Moon and Ernest W. Perry will speedily be recovered.

Serious Charge Preferred

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 29.—Allen B. Vose was yesterday held in $1500 for a hearing next Tuesday in connection with the death of Catharine P. Buckley of this city. The young woman died, it is said, from an operation of criminal nature.

A Disastrous Conflagration

Rat Portage, Ont., Nov. 29.—A spark blown into a pile of cedar started a conflagration yesterday in the Rat Portage Lumber company's yards at Norman. Twenty-five million feet of lumber, as well as Lemay's shipyards, six steamboats, two barges and 11 dwellings and a stable were destroyed. Desperate attempts to prevent the flames reaching the residence portion of the town were successful.

A Triumph For Vice

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—The raid of vice dens by the police last week were shown to be improperly conducted when Judge Audenreid yesterday discharged Louis Zimmerman and nine women captured in the wholesale swoop of disorderly houses. The discharges were on the ground that the arrests were made upon warrants containing none of the names of the persons taken into custody.

Negro Vagrants Sold at Auction

Lancaster, Ky., Nov. 29.—Sheriff Lawson attracted a large crowd before the court house yesterday by the sale of three negroes, two women and a man. Charles Anderson, sold for 12 months, brought $7, and the women, Belle Griffin and Emma Reed, sold for one and three years respectively, brought $5 each. The three were convicted for vagrancy and ordered sold to the highest bidder.

Gotham's Fire Chief Fired

New York, Nov. 29.—Chief Edward F. Croker of the fire department, who was recently tried on a series of charges, was yesterday declared guilty by Fire Commissioner Sturgis and was dismissed from the service, the dismissal to take effect Dec. 1. Chief Croker declined to make any comment on the sentence. He will appeal against the decision.

Dillon to Soon Leave Hospital

Chicago, Nov. 29.—John Dillon, the Irish parliamentary leader, has practically recovered from his illness. The authorities at Mercy hospital say that he probably will leave there Sunday.

TREACHERY OF BOERS

Charged In War Story Written by General De Wet

EASIER TO FIGHT BRITISH

Than Burghers Who Proved False to Their Own Colors—Charges Indirect Murder of Women and Children by the English Army

London, Dec. 1.—"Had not so many of our Burghers proved false to their own colors, England, as the great Bismarck foretold, would have found her grave in South Africa." That is the keynote of the Boer General De-Wet's book entitled, "Three Years' War," published by Archibald Constable & Co. in London and dedicated by the Boer general "To my fellow subjects of the British empire."

It is perhaps the most remarkable book by the most remarkable leader that any recent war has produced. The concise, simply-told tale of the extraordinary campaign is marked throughout with the stamp of truth. The baldness of the narrative only serves to bring into striking relief the fiery passages where a strong man literally blurts out his soul in pathetic regret or bitter denunciation.

In thus taking the public into his confidence DeWet loses nothing of the glamor with which his exploits in the field surrounded him. In criticising he spares no one; Boer and Briton come equally under the lash. DeWet declares that whatever the English people may have to say in discredit of General Buller, he had to operate against stronger positions than any other British general. Throughout the work the Boer general has but slight praise for Lord Roberts and little more for Lord Kitchener. General Knox is almost the only British general who seems to have struck De Wet as a commander with real military genius.

Of "Tommy Atkins" he has many kindly words to say and declares, "the British were far from being bad shots." The comparative immunity of the Boers from harm DeWet constantly and most fervently attributes to the interposition of God. "If any reader," he says, "is eager to know how it was I kept out of the enemy's hands I can only answer, although I may not be understood, that I ascribed it to nothing else than this—it was not God's will that I should fall into their hands. Let those who rejoice at my miraculous escapes give all the praise to God."

Nevertheless the book teems with accounts of military and other strategies by which DeWet outwitted his pursuers. Frequently he recounts cases of desertion and panic among his own men when his entreaties and sjamoking were all of no avail. DeWet pays a tribute to General Cronje for his bravery, but declarees he lost at Paardeberg only on account of his fatal obstinacy to leave the laager as he was advised to do by General Botha and by the writer himself.

Regarding his own forces, DeWet writes: "It was far easier to fight against the great English army than against treachery among my own people, and an iron will was required to fight against both. Once, if only our orders had been carried out a little more strictly and if only the most elementary rules of strategy had been observed in our efforts to break the British lines of communication, Lord Roberts and his thousands of troops would have found themselves shut up in Pretoria, where they would have perished of hunger. It was not the skill of their commander-in-chief that saved them."

Of the blockhouse DeWet is frankly contemptuous. "The blockhouse policy," he says, "might equally well have been called the policy of the blockhead." The writer emphatically defends the right to blow up railroad lines and trains as the usuage of war, and he declares he never missed an opportunity to do so. The so-called war against women and the misuse of the white flag by the British is sternly denounced by the Boer general, who says: "That such direct and indirect murder should have been committed against defenceless women and children is a thing I should have staked my head could never have happened in a war waged by the civilized English nation, and yet it happened."

His last word is an injunction to his fellow-countrymen to be loyal to the new government. "Loyalty," he says, "pays best in the end, and loyalty alone is worthy of a nation which has shed its blood for freedom."

The book contains a magnificent portrait of the author by the American painter, John S. Sargent.

Paid Visit to His Family

Lockport, N. Y., Dec. 1.—C. Braithewaite, who was serving a term in the county jail here for forgery, and who escaped Thanksgiving night by sawing a bar and sliding down a rope made of blankets, returned to the jail last night and gave himself up. He explained that he could not resist the longing to go to his family in Toronto on Thanksgiving.

Robbers Commit Murder

La Port, Ind., Dec. 1.—Wesley Reynolds, aged 16, employed as clerk in the bank at Westville, was shot and killed early yesterday by robbers who had broken into the place and were about to blow open the safe. The men escaped in a stolen rig. Examination showed evidences of a desperate battle. More than 20 shots had been exchanged.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Thanksgiving and Weather Conditions a Boon to Retail Dealers

New York City, Nov. 29.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Weather conditions have provided the only important developments of the past week in the business world. Excessive rains in some sections, notably the southwest, facilitated distribution of heavy footwear, overshoes and kindred lines, while seasonably low temperature at other points increased the movement of winter wearing apparel. These influences, together with a large Thanksgiving trade in food products, stimulated retail dealings very materially. Jobbing and wholesale trade is fully maintained, and manufacturing plants have orders far ahead, but in many cases the coke shortage retards operations. Railway gross earnings are fully maintained.

A distinctly firmer tone pervades the market for footwear, orders coming forward freely for spring goods. Most factories have secured sufficient business to assure activity for two months, and some order books are full up to March.

There is still no inclination to place large orders for distant delivery of cotton goods, but a steady current demand fully absorbs the limited stocks and buyers are often compelled to hunt for desired lines of staple cloths. Printed and woven-patterned goods for spring are selling freely on forward business. The better tone that appeared some weeks ago in woolens has finally caused a moderate advance in staple lines for spring.

Wilson's Plans For Princeton

Chicago, Nov. 29.—"My hobby is to establish in Princeton university a system of tutors like that of England, which shall throw the seniors and the juniors upon their own resources and start in them habits of independent thinking. By doing this we shall give Princeton a distinction, such as will remove it entirely from competition with other colleges." In these words President Wilson of Princeton university expressed his hope for the future of the great educational institution before 100 of its alumni who had gathered in his honor here last night at a banquet.

Tamayo Out of Cabinet

Havana, Nov. 29.—At a special meeting of the cabinet yesterday it was unanimously decided to accept the resignation of Secretary of Government Tamayo. The Republicans are jubilant at the practical removal of the president of the Nationalist party from the most important cabinet position and claim that this step means the breaking up of the party. President Palma and the late Secretary Tamayo have always been close friends and it is rumored that the president will provide another position for him.

Savagery In the Philippines

Manila, Nov. 29.—Constabulary Inspector Hendryx, who has been stationed in Samar island, was killed last Tuesday by a band of ladrones. His detachment of constabulary was routed and Hendryx and one soldier were surrounded and killed. The Sultan of Bacolod, professing friendship for America, has written a letter to Captain Pershing in which he calls Americans "hogs who eat hogs" and challenges them to fight.

Attempt to Hire Assassin

Geneva, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Jacob Glick, proprietor of a variety store, has received a letter from Seneca Falls asking him to find a person who would murder F. G. Miller, a real estate agent of Seneca Falls. The letter contained $10 "for expenses" and said $1000 would be paid to the person who did the job. The case is being investigated.

Colombian Invaders Routed

Caracas, Nov. 29.—The Colombian invaders under Generals Garbiras and Espiritu Morales, after several defeats, were obliged to recross the frontier Nov. 26. They left numerous prisoners in the hands of the Venezuelan troops and a quantity of ammunition. The revolutionary general, Matos, is still lying sick at Willemstad, Curacao.

CARRIES THE STRAIN

Quite a strain on a child to grow. You find it about all you can do to live along as you are and keep well. Your child has to do all that and grow besides. Some children can't stand the extra strain. They get weak and sickly as a result of it.

This is where Scott's Emulsion does some of its best work. It is a strong "growing" medicine. It starts up new life in the backward child and strengthens the weak ones.

Scott's Emulsion takes all the extra strain and carries the children along until they are strong enough to stand it alone.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

ELEPHANTS.

Few Grow Nine Feet High, the Majority Being Under Eight Feet.

The average term of an elephant's life, although there is no precise information on the point, is seventy or eighty years. The elephant is not in full vigor and strength till thirty-five. The most ready way of forming an approximate idea of the age is by the amount of turn over of the upper edge of the ear. In young animals, sometimes up to the age of eight or nine years, the edge is quite straight. It, however, then begins to turn over, and by the time the animal is thirty the edges lap over to the extent of an inch, and between this age and sixty this increases to two inches or slightly more. Extravagant ideas are held as to the height of an elephant. Such a thing as an elephant measuring ten feet at the shoulder does not exist in India or Burma. Sanderson, who is admitted to be the best authority on the subject, says the largest male he ever met with measured 9 feet 10 inches and the tallest female 8 feet 5 inches. The majority of elephants, however, are below eight feet, and an animal rarely reaches nine feet, the female being slightly shorter than the male. The carcass of an elephant 7 feet 4 inches tall weighed in portions gave a total weight of 3,000 pounds, so an elephant weighing two tons should be common enough. The skin was about three-fourths of an inch thick.

A Great Speech.

A lawyer whose eloquence was of the spread eagle sort was addressing the jury at great length, and his legal opponent, growing weary, went outside to rest.

"Mr. B. is making a great speech," said a friend to the bored counsel.

"Oh, yes; Mr. B. always makes a great speech. If you or I had occasion to announce that two and two make four, we'd be just fools enough to blurt it right out. Not so Mr. B. He would say:

"If, by that arithmetical rule known as addition, we desired to arive at the sum of two integers added to two integers, we should find—and I assert this boldly, sir, and without the fear of successful contradiction—we, I repeat, should find by the particular arithmetical formula before mentioned—and, sir, I hold myself perfectly responsible for the assertion I am about to make—that the sum of the two given integers added to the two other integers would be four!"

Served Him Right.

"Yes," said the sad looking chap, "I was a gay burglar once, but an accident put an end to my career. You see, I was a humorous chap too."

"You look it," said the wise guy under his breath.

"I got into an art gallery one day by telling the janitor that I was a picture taker. I took a lot of them, too, among which was one of Plugugly, the champion prizefighter of 1845."

"Did they catch you?" asked the wise guy.

"No," replied the sad looking man. "Plugugly's portrait was next to my solar plexus, and I had to drop them all. It was such a striking likeness."

Of course it was to be expected that the sad looking man should get the worst of the fight that followed.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

He Had Not.

At one of the public receptions at the White House during the second Cleveland administration Mr. Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) was presented to Mrs. Cleveland. On shaking hands with her he gave her a card, asking simply, "Will you please sign that?"

Mrs. Cleveland glanced at the card to find nothing but the words, "He has not"— written across it. She looked in amused perplexity to Mr. Clemens for something further, when the latter explained:

"My wife said if I came here I would be sure to come with my goloshes on; but I haven't, have I? So I wish you would sign that for me to give her."

Mrs. Cleveland looked down at his feet and then laughingly wrote her name on the card.

The Way of a Woman.

"I hate to be contradicted," she said.

"Then I won't contradict you," he returned.

"You don't love me," she asserted.

"I don't," he admitted.

"You are a hateful thing!" she cried.

"I am," he replied.

"I believe you're trying to tease me," she said.

"I am," he conceded.

"And that you do love me."

"I do."

For a moment she was silent.

"Well," she said at last, "I do hate a man who is weak enough to be led by a woman. He ought to have a mind of his own—and strength."

He sighed. What else could he do?—Chicago Post.

Took No Chances.

"Yes, sirree!" exclaimed the boodle politician. "I claim that, despite what people say against me, I have never in my life taken a penny of dishonest money."

We hold our breath.

"Because it is my invariable rule," he continued, "to bite all coin and make sure it's good before I deliver."—Baltimore News.

Two Points of Difference.

"The difference between the cow and the milkman," said the gentleman with a rare memory for jests, "is that the cow gives pure milk."

"There is another difference," retorted the milkman. "The cow doesn't give credit."

For every self made man in the world there are ten who are self unmade.—Chicago News.

FOR MAYOR
CHARLES M. BRYANT

Good Afternoon.

The President is not much of a hunter of turkeys, bears and such small game, but he is great on wildcats.

The Citizens No-license League will say in their paper that "General Apathy, General Confidence, and General Humidity are the worst enemies of the No-license cause." Let each one help to roll up the "No" vote.

It is said that Wards Five and Six will be almost unanimous for the reelection of Mayor Bryant tomorrow. In the other wards he will also receive good votes, and there seems no donbts of his reelection by a handsome majority.

The independent voter will make no mistake in casting a vote for Councilman James H. Elcock of Ward Four, who is a candidate at large. He is a man of mature years, with business training, and experience in the City Council. He is a taxpayer, and against reckless expenditures.

It is a pleasure to learn that all the candidates for Mayor of Quincy this year are in favor of a continuance of the No-License policy, which has been so successful for twenty years. Mayor Bryant, by his presence and remarks at two meetings and candidates Wilson and Richards by their letters, left no doubt as to their attitude. Now for a big "No" vote. Make it 3000 if possible.

The ballots prepared for the City election tomorrow are seriously defective in more than one particular, but it is an open question whether Mr. Bryant or Mr. Wilson will benefit. First, the political designations of the two gentlemen are in different styles of type which is entirely unnecessary. Second, the word "Republican" appears nearest the square for the cross for each gentlemen. Mr. Wilson may thereby get many Republican votes and at the same time lose many Democratic votes. Mr. Wilson is entitled to have the word "Democratic" against the square, and Mr. Bryant has a right to object to his rival having the word "Republican" nearest the square. On the Ward One ballots Councilman Bass may also lose votes because the word Republican does not come next to the square as he has a right to demand. Candidate Stewart in Ward One might also raise objection; he has a straight party nomination but it does not abut the square for the cross.

BRYANT VOTES.

Has Gained Each Time in Wards One, Two, Three and Six.

Hon. Charles M. Bryant has now been a candidate at two Republican caucuses, and at one election. The votes he received by wards are summarized below. Last year his election day vote was about fifty per cent. in advance of the caucus vote. If his total tomorrow is in like ratio he will receive about 2300 votes.

Ward 1,	222	248	269
Ward 2,	140	178	190

Last Year's Vote for Mayor.

A summary of the vote for Mayor in Quincy last year will be of interest. C. M. Bryant carried four precincts, F. L. Jones five precincts and F. W. Tirrell one precinct, as follows:

	Bryant.	Jones.	Tirrell.	Turner.	Blanks.
Ward 1, Pre. 1,	120	152	45	20	7
Ward 1, Pre. 2,	128	174	111	7	6
Ward 2, Pre. 1,	68	80	56	1	2
Ward 2, Pre. 2,	110	89	101	17	5
Ward 3, Pre. 1,	101	170	134	16	1
Ward 3, Pre. 2,	84	206	50	39	1
Ward 4, Pre. 1,	164	55	132	24	10
Ward 4, Pre. 2,	114	100	137	19	8
Ward 5,	384	232	27	23	8
Ward 6,	274	95	101	40	9
	1547	1386	894	206	57

A comparison of the number of names on the voting lists for the municipal election this year with that of a year ago shows that there are 294 more names this year. The following table tells the story:

	1902.	1901.	Increase.
Ward One, Prec. One,	431	410	21
Ward One, Prec. Two,	500	492	8
Ward Two, Prec. One,	279	239	40

City Council Business.

A large number of reports will be received at tonight's meeting of the City Council from the several committees who are making an effort to clear up the matters before them.

The Committee on Streets will report on the fotlowing matters: Paved gutters on Lincoln avenue, extending Brook street under the railroad, petitions for location for the New England Telephone Co., location for tracks for the street railway from Washington street to Saville street, extension of Belmont street, relating to grade crossings, relating to bill for edgestones, use of lighter rail on the Quincy Point bridge, laying out Franklin avenue, paved gutters on Independence avenue, Bennington and Goddard streets, extension of Quarry street, laying out portion of Federal avenue, improving Prospect street, draining and grading Edison street, widening East Howard street, laying out Cottage street, Morton street, extending Buckley street, laying out Belmont street, laying out Smith and Charles streets.

The Committee on Public Buildings will report on the orders for leasing the reservoir as an ice pond, and on the order for public scales.

Telephones Out of Commission.

A wire leading to a telephone junction box at the corner of Copeland and Common streets became crossed with an electric power wire Saturday afternoon. The cable was burnt out, which put out of commission the trunk lines of the Southern Massachusetts Telephone Co. leading from Brockton and places south to Boston.

A number of local telephones in the West Quincy district were also put out of working. A gang of telephone men were sent to remedy the trouble, but it was not until after several hours' work that through lines were in working order again.

Newsboys wanted at 6 o'clock election night to sell Ledger extras.

Thomas Lennon is seriously ill at his home on Granite street with pneumonia.

W. S. Sayward of Wollaston has gone to Portland for a week on a business trip.

Now the football season is over the boys are hunting up their skates and hockey sticks.

Mrs. Julia W. Swan of Abington is the guest of Mrs. W. W. Ewell of Foster street.

Mrs. J. F. Curtis of Miller road, has been confined to her bed the past two weeks by sickness.

Albert Boynton of Boynton & Russell, who has been very ill with a bad foot, is reported to be doing well.

Murdock Gillis, after several weeks' absence at Prince Edward Island, has returned to his home on Chestnut street much improved in health.

The Ladies' Guild of Christ church will meet on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, with Mrs. John Downes, at the National Sailors' Home.

The auxiliary of the Womans Board of Missions will meet Tuesday at 3 P. M with Mrs. A. A. Lincoln, Grand View avenue. Reports of the annual meeting at Washington will be read by the delegates.

The Edward Hewitson Associates Glee club will meet this evening in the Wollaston Baptist vestry. Now that the football season is over, it is hoped the boys will show up in goodly numbers.

Councilman Langelier was 29 years old on Saturday and it was an eventful birthday, as a seven pound boy arrived at his house. Mr. Langelier is secretary of the Republican City Committee, and these are busy times with him. Congrntulations.

The Hyde Park Gazette says, the multiplicity of candidates from the only city in the county for county custodian is evidently due to the fact that the balm of appointment was neccessary in view of the fact that the Republican candidate for the county commissioner was defeated and something must be done to save the country.

There are some voters in Ward Five who are just beginning to realize that there is a city election tomorrow. No such interest as was aroused by the vigorous personal campaign of last year is evident this year. The voters seem to think that Mayor Bryant has done well and deserves a second term. The temperance people commend him for his enforcement of the No-license law in Quincy.

At the Wollaston Congregational church Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Chase preached a sermon to the parents on the needs of the boys and girls. He spoke of the gymnasium and playground as highly necessary to the youth of both sexes, and of church as the final salvation for all. This idea of doing something for the girls and the boys is Mr. Chase's hobby, which he has ridden during the past year with notable success.

Pept-iron is The Most Up-to-Date Preparation of Iron,

Agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach, and readily assimilated by the most delicate system.

It does not injure the teeth nor cause constipation, and is taken with great satisfaction by persons not able hitherto to take any form of this wonderful curative metal so much needed by the pale, weak and run-down.

Peptiron puts iron into the blood, color into the face, strength into the nerves. It gives ruddy health.

Peptiron is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

MAYORALTY VOTES OF PAST.

Republicans Have Won in Eight Years and Democrats in Five Years.

Tomorrow the fifteenth municipal election of the city will be held, and it will be of interest to review the votes of the past for Mayor. Although Quincy is a Republican city, the Democrats have been successful in five years and last year an independent was elected. The Republicans have won out in eight years. The Republican vote has ranged between 1099 in 1889, to 2036 in 1900, and the Democratic vote between 906 in 1889 to 1888 in 1896. Previous to 1899 there was no third candidate and the blanks and scattering vote amounted annually to less than 80. The vote by years follows:

Year.	Republican.		Democratic.		All others.
1888,	Porter,	1258,	Hodges,	983,	—

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

Tourist Rates via the Seaboard.

Winter tourist tickets are now on sale at greatly reduced rates, via the Seaboard Air Line Railway, to all points in Florida, also to Cuba and Nassau, as well as to Pinehurst, Camden and the leading Southern Winter Resorts.

These tickets are good for stop-over, either going or coming, until the end of the winter season.

The Seaboard is the short route from the North and East to Florida and the South Atlantic States.

For further information and Book of Winter Tours, apply to Agents of the Seaboard Air Line Railway and those of connecting lines. Also for "The Land of Manatee," about a region on the west coast of southern Florida, in three booklets: No. 1, Historical and Descriptive; No. 2, for Gardener and Fruit Grower; No. 3, for Tourist and Sportsman. Ask or send for the one you want. C. B. Ryan, G. P. A., Portsmouth, Va. 22-5t

Disgusting Scene.

According to reports there was a lively scene in City Square Saturday night, shortly after the arrival of the late train. Among the passengers to arrive on that train were three women who had looking upon the wine when it was red in the cup. In other words they were drunk and almost helpless. They felt very happpy, but were so far gone that they had to have assistance to enable them to keep their feet, and as it was one measured her length in the street. What made the affair more disgusting was that the husband of one of the women came to the depot to meet her and when he found her under the influence of liquor the air was blue. As friends of all the women were willing to take them home, no arrests were made.

Granite City Club Expands.

A special meeting of the Granite City club was held Saturday evening to take action on enlarging the quarters of the club. After some discussion it was voted to take the room on the upper floor now accupied by the Master Builders Association. It is proposed to cut an archway from the present parlor of the club to the new room, which will probably become the parlor. The need of larger quarters has been made necessary by the large increase in membership during the past year.

The club now numbers 114 members and has several applications for membership awaiting action. It is the only business men's club in the city proper, and numbers among its members nearly all the business men of the city.

Companion's Christmas Packet.

Can you think of a gift more certain to be acceptable than a year's subscription to The Youth's Companion? Is there any one, young or old, who, having once had the paper in his hands and looked through it, did not wish to possess it for his very own? It is a gift which, far from losing its freshness as Christmas recedes into the past, grows more delightful, more necessary to one's enjoyment week by week.

If you wish to make a Christmas present of The Youth's Companion, send the publishers the name and address of the person to whom you wish to give The Companion with $1.75, the annual subscription price. They will send to the address named The Companion's Christmas packet, all ready for Christmas morning, containing the Christmas number. The Companion Calendar for 1903, lithographed in twelve colors and gold, and subscription certificate for the fifty-two issues of 1903.

Full illustrated announcement of the new volume for 1903 will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address free. The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley street, Boston, Mass.

TODAY'S COURT.

Edward Madden and John Malie were arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. The formers case was continued until Dec. 15, and the latter's until Dec. 7.

Silas H. Sherman was arraigned for drunkenness at Weymouth. Case continued until Dec. 20.

William Henry was arraigned for drunkenness at Randolph. Case continued until Dec. 15.

LEDGER EXTRAS

ELECTION NIGHT

At 6 o'clock.

Newsboys Wanted.

Mrs. Catherine Lapham.

The death of Mrs. Catherine M. Lapham, mother of Frederick Lapham of the City Employment office, removes from our midsts a noble, industrious woman, who was always ready to help in time of deed, particularly when the call was made for volunteers to prepare hospital garments at the time of the Spanish war, by the Woman's Relief Corp, 103. She went forward, did all the cutting and overseeing of the making the same.

She was almost three weeks at the Quincy City Hospital and spoke of the kind treatment she received a few days before she died, but being in poor health the past four years, she was not able to battle with pneumonia.

Her funeral took place from residence of her oldest son, Mr. E. G. Sanborn on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Julian Johnson of the St. John's church, read prayers over the body. Interment was in Dorchester. Much sympathy is felt for her youngest son Frederick, as he was always her constant companion, and deprived himself of many pleasures for the sake of being with his mother. Two sons, Frederick and George, and one daughter, Agnes, survive her.

Mr. Vincent's Lecture.

A much larger audience greeted Mr. Leon H. Vincent, Saturday evening at Colonial hall, when he gave his third lecture in the Quincy Tennis club series.

He said as the club was composed of men and women he thought it only fair to the women that one of the subjects of his lectures should be on a woman, so he had selected Charlotte Bronte as the subject for the evening.

He told wittily of Miss Bronte's parents, her home life and surrounding, and under what difficulties her best known book Jane Eyre was written. Although Charlotte Bronte and her brief life are well known to all, Mr. Vincent's original and delightful way of handlting his subject made the evening a most entertaining one, and the plain little woman increased her hold on the literary world.

The last lecture in the course will be on Balzac, on Dec. 6.

Slight Fire.

An alarm was sounded from Box 136 at 1 o'clock Sunday for a slight fire in McDonnell's block on Water street, near the corner of Quincy street.

The block is occupied by stores on the street floor, and the upper floor as a dwelling. The fire started in the tenement occupied by a Mrs. McCarthy, and was probably caused by a cigar or cigarette coming in contact with a curtain. The fire was extinguished before the department arrived with a loss that will not exceed $5.

Maine Woman Probably Poisoned Her Two Daughters

KILLS HERSELF BY HANGING

In the Home of a Deputy Sheriff, to Whose Charge She Had Been Remanded—Abrupt End of Case Which Promised to Be Highly Sensational

Dexter, Me., Dec. 1.—Mrs. Hattie L. Whitten, who was arrested Saturday on suspicion of having poisoned her 9-year-old daughter, from whose funeral she had just returned, committed suicide yesterday by hanging from a bedpost while in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Curtis. Her death ends, as far as the law can be invoked, a case promised, from the suspicions held against Mrs. Whitten, to be as sensational as any inquired into in Maine for a long time.

Mrs. Whitten was suspected of having caused the death of an elder daughter, aged 11, on Sept. 19 last, and this body had been exhumed. The deaths of the children was given in the certificates as meningitis and heart failure respectively, and as the end came suddenly in both instances it is pointed out that Mrs. Whitten's husband died suddenly two years ago. At that time there was talk by the people of the town about Mr. Whitten's death being peculiar, but no inquiry was made.

After the funeral on Saturday, and while the girl's body was at the cemetery awaiting interment, physicians held an autopsy, finding traces of arsenic and strychnine. Mrs. Whitten's arrest followed. Without delay a coroner's jury was empanelled and on evidence presented reported that the girl's death was due to poison administered by the mother. The body of the elder girl was then exhumed and the autopsy held. Mrs. Whitten was arraigned in court, pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder, was held until Tuesday for a hearing and remanded into the care of Deputy Sheriff Curtis. She was taken to the home of her son, Lewis, who is married and lives here, for the night.

At 10 o'clock yesterday Deputy Sheriff Curtis took her to his home. She was allowed to remain alone in the room while changing her dress and her request for two towels from her grip was granted. Curtis then remained in the room until 2 o'clock, when he left her for five minutes to feed his horse. In that short time she tied the towels together, made a noose with a square knot and fastened one end to the top of the old-fashioned bedpost, five feet from the floor. When Curtis returned he found her hanging from the post, with life extinct. Another towel found inside her dress showed that the act had been carefully planned before leaving home. It was learned she had told her parents that all would be well after 2 o'clock.

Information was given out yesterday that George E. Brewster, the local druggist, testified at the coroner's inquest that Mrs. Whitten purchased laudanum at his store on Sept. 13; Sept. 18, ounce of arsenic "to kill rats;" Nov. 20, five grains strychnine; Nov. 22, one-half ounce of laudanum; Nov. 24, one ounce arsenic and small bottle of castor oil.

The next day after the first purchase of arsenic, Fannie, the 11-year-old daughter, died suddenly after suffering many convulsions. Nov. 24, the day of the second purchase of arsenic, Jennie was taken sick and died three days later.

Dr. Murphy, the attending physician, says the poison was undoubtedly given in oil that it might pass through the stomach into the intestines. This would have prevented the successful use of a stomach pump. Tuesday morning Mrs. Whitten mailed a postal card calling Dr. Murphy to attend the girl, regardless of the fact that he lives only a half-mile from where she was stopping, and has a telephone.

The autopsy showed evidences of poisoning in the stomach, intestines and brain, warranting the sending of these parts to Professor Robinson of Bowdoin college for analysis. The usual symptoms of strychnine poisoning were shown. The stomach and intestines from the body of the daughter who died Sept. 19 were also sent to Professor Robinson.

Mrs. Whitten was about 45 years old and came here from Dover, Me., three months ago. Her husband died at Dover on Jan. 24, 1901, under similar suspicious circumstances, but there was no investigation. The two daughters were insured for $50 and $85 and it is believed their deaths were sought for this trivial sum.

A NEW KNITTED MUFF.

Something Especially Nice For a Child at Christmas Time.

A dainty Christmas present for a little girl is a knitted muff. The materials required to make one are one-quarter pound of double Berlin wool, a yard of ribbon, one-quarter yard of silk or sateen for lining, one-half yard of wadding and elastic to draw in the ends. Bone knitting needles, size No. 6, are best for this work. Cast on these needles 60 stitches, knit 10 rows in ribs of 2 plain, 2 purl. Eleventh row—knit 1, put the wool round the needle twice, knit 2 together twice, repeat to end of row. This forms the holes for running in the elastic and decreases the number of stitches 12, leaving 48. Twelfth row—purl. Thirteenth row—plain, fourteenth purl, fifteenth plain, sixteenth purl, seventeenth plain, eighteenth purl, nineteenth plain. Twentieth row—plain, winding the wool twice round the two first fingers of the left hand with each stitch to form the loop knitting. Twenty-first row—plain; repeat these 2 rows 3 times, forming 4 rows of loops. Twenty-eighth row—plain. Twenty-ninth row—purl. Thirtieth row—knit 1, put the wool round the needle twice, knit 2 together, repeat to end of row. Thirty-first row—purl. Thirty-second row—plain. Thirty-third row—purl. Thirty-fourth row—plain, with loops. Thirty-fifth row—plain; repeat these 2 rows 3 times. Forty-second row—plain, forty-third purl, forty-fourth plain, forty-fifth purl. Forty-sixth row—plain, forty-seventh purl, forty-eighth plain, forty-ninth purl. Fiftieth row—wool round the needle twice, knit 3; repeat to end of row. This forms the second row of holes for elastic and brings the number of stitches back to 60 again. Fifty-first row—purl next 10 rows of ribs, 2 plain, 2 purl and cast off.

To make up the muff procure a double piece of wadding and cover with the sateen to fit the inside. Sew neatly to each end, just within the holes for elastic; run the yard of ribbon into the center holes and tie into a bow; run about a quarter of a yard of elastic in the holes at each end and join. Work with double wool a chain of crochet sufficiently long to slip through the muff, go round the neck and tie into bows. Make a full tassel for each end, and this completes the work.

XMAS PINCUSHIONS.

Ornaments For the Dressing Table That May Be Easily Fashioned.

A charming Christmas remembrance takes the form of a pincushion representing a robin redbreast merrily perched on a snow covered twig. Fashion the bird's body from brown cloth, adding a pair of real wings if these are easily obtainable; otherwise the feathers may be worked with wool. Paint his breast a vivid red or, as before mentioned, work in the color with bright red wool. Real feathers may be added to the tail. Two pieces of stout wire will form a pair of sturdy legs. The bird's beak may be made of painted wood, while the eyes can be fashioned of two beads. Affix the model to a piece of tree branch, neatly varnished and covered with wool to obtain a snow effect, and the pincushion is completed.

ROBIN REDBREAST PINCUSHION.

A pincushion that will serve as a trinket box in addition to its chief use may be made as follows: Select a deep square cardboard box about five inches deep and eight and a half inches long. This line with thin silk, putting a wadded covered silk pad at the bottom and attaching the lid (from which all edges have been removed) to it by two little gummed straps of china ribbon. Pad the top of the box to a nice depth and cover with satin, with which also cover the outside of the box. Place a deep frill of satin all round the edge of the lid, on which a spray of flowers can be painted or embroidered, and your pincushion is complete.

Novel Slipper Bag.

A novel idea for a slipper bag is to get a piece of black or red baize and work the word "Slippers" in crochet cotton on one side. It looks pretty, if the letters are made big enough, to have a few silver sequins sewed here and there on them. Round the bottom of the bag and up the sides, if liked, boot buttons can be sewed as a decoration.

A box of two or more hollow ground razors is a useful present for the man who shaves himself.

WATCHING POLITICS

Republicans Not Inclined to Rush Ahead With Financial Legislation

Washington, Nov. 29.—The story that Secretary Shaw intends to make a plea in his forthcoming report for some definite system of improvement of the currency does not agree with the inferences drawn here from recent conversations with him. He has repeatedly expressed himself in opposition to the branch banking device as well as one or two others proposed for spreading over a wider surface the responsibility for expanding or contracting the bank circulation; but when it comes to affirmative suggestions he seems to have in view only the general idea of a broader basis of circulation with substantially the same agencies of issue as now. It is probable, therefore, that he will recommend only legislation to liberalize the character of security required behind the national bank note; if not going so far as to advocate a currency based on assets in the largest sense of the term, at least asking that something besides government bonds shall be included in the available list.

It is not expected that the secretary's recommendations will bear immediate fruit, but there is reason to believe that, as they are very well known to certain of the senate leaders, they have been discussed with approval by these men, and that some forward step may be taken in the next congress. A strong suspicion prevails here that the program of the Republican leaders in congress is to lie low till they see how things are shaping themselves on the Democratic side for 1904. If the Democrats seem likely to prove at all weak on the money question in their national platform, the Republicans will probably push a currency bill to the front and let it hang suspended there during the campaign. The finances are not yet "out of politics."

Cattle Exclusion Worries England

London, Nov. 29.—The exclusion of American cattle has caused a feeling almost amounting to consternation in the shipping and meat trades. Fears are expressed that the interdiction may be extended to imports from other United States ports which would result in a great rise in the price of meat, as only a few steamers have large refrigeration space for dead meat. The board of agriculture is exercising the utmost precautions.

Hope For Bannockburn's Crew

Montreal, Nov. 29.—News from various sources received here yesterday regarding the missing steamer Bannockburn has inspired the hope that her crew of 20 men may be safe ashore somewhere on the mainland north of Michipocoten island. While some doubt still exists, the company officials are confident that the crew escaped, although the Bannockburn lies a wreck on the rocky north shore of Lake Superior.

Three Young Huntsmen Killed

Kansas City, Nov. 29.—Harold H. Merrick, aged 14, a high school student of this city, accidentally shot and killed himself yesterday while hunting near Wolcott. James Gist, aged 14, was shot and killed at Oxford by his brother while they were hunting. The 14-year-old son of H. H. Boyd of Belleville was killed while hunting, his gun being discharged while he was pulling it through a fence.

Rap at American Mob Law

Berlin, Nov. 29.—The Kreuz Zeitung, discussing Ambassador White's recent letter regarding the treatment of Hebrews in Roumania, says the Roumanian Jews are far better situated than the American negroes. They are not treated with the same contempt and do not suffer lynch law, nor are Jewish funeral processions in Roumania mobbed as in New York and Chicago.

Roosevelt Earns Negroes' Gratitude

Norfolk, Nov. 29.—At yesterday's session of the conference of the African Methodist church, representing 75,000 negroes, strong resolutions were adopted expressing gratitude at what is termed President Roosevelt's broad and philanthropic letter with reference to the appointment of Dr. Crum of Charleston and heartily commending his attitude toward the negroes.

Noble Action of Confederates

Norfolk, Nov. 29.—Confederate veterans, survivors of Company C, Thirteenth regiment, Virginia cavalry, have started a fund at Western Branch to erect a monument to the memory of General U. S. Grant in Richmond. The fund starts off with $1 for each survivor, and contributions will be solicited until a sufficient sum shall have been secured to erect the monument.

THE MOTHER'S APPEAL.

MOTHER.

O, Mr. Saloonman, I beg you don't sell
The stuff to my son that may send him to hell;
Remember how dear to my heart he must be,
And let him to-night return sober to me.

SALOON-KEEPER.

They licensed me, madam, to sell him the stuff,—
The fool ought to know when he's had enough.
You can't expect me to refuse all who come;
My business it is to sell drinkers their rum.

MOTHER.

O, Mr. Saloonman, I beg you to think
How much it may mean if you sell him the drink.
His soul's in peril, don't wreck it for gain;
Don't make it another young life you have slain.

SALOON-KEEPER.

Go yonder, and talk to the men who have said
I may sell—to the voters who stand at the head
Of the church where you pray; don't be whining away
In this place they have licensed—go yonder, I say.

MOTHER.

O, Mr. Saloonman, they say you may sell;
But whose is the sin if you send him to hell?
He buys at your bar what must bring him to shame;
For all that may follow God holds you to blame.

SALOON-KEEPER.

No, madam, the sin's not mine at the first;
For it shall I be the only one cursed?
The men who permit me to sell are the ones
To settle with God if I ruin your sons.

UP TO UNITED STATES

To Take Decisive Stand Regarding Blockade of the Orinoco River

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Dec. 1.—The United States is confronted with the question of declaring its attitude regarding the blockade of the Orinoco river, which has been declared by the Venezuelan government. The British authorities say they have asked United States Consul Smith the intentions of the Washington government regarding the steamer Manzanaris, which is now here. Some days ago the British authorities announced their willingness to convoy the Manzanares up the Orinoco, but withdrew their offer on the arrival of the United States gunboat Nashville, on the ground that the United States, now having a warship in port, should convoy its own merchantmen. Consul Smith is confering with Admiral Crowninshield and Admiral Sumner, it is believed, with regard to the Manzanares. The Nashville is suited to the purpose of convoying the Manzanares, but no action is possible until instructions have been received from Washington.

The United States is the only nation which has not taken a decisive stand regarding the blockade, and it is claimed that this situation is embarrassing American commerce.

Since the proclamation of the blockade 1375 ships of all nations except the United States have entered and left the Orinoco, and it is insisted that this fact constitutes the best evidence possible that the blockade is ineffective.

Uneasiness In Venezuela

Caracas, Dec. 1.—General Velutini has been appointed minister plenipotentiary to France. He will renew the diplomatic relations between the two countries, which have been ruptured since 1894. The precipitate nomination of Velutini is due also to the fears entertained by the Venezuelan government of complications with Germany. The news that Germany will send three warships to reinforce the German squadron in Venezuelan waters has produced a feeling of great apprehension.

Adverse to Elopers

New York, Dec. 1.—Right Rev. George C. Houghton, rector of the "Little Church Around the Corner," announces that hereafter he will not marry any persons not known to him or vouched for by persons whom he knows. He draws the line at "secret marriages" and marriages unsupported by family recognition. For the marriage of theatrical couples in particular the "Little Church Around the Corner" has become famous. Many eloping couples have been married there recently.

Thought Americans Were Monsters

Manila, Dec. 1.—Captain Pershing, with 60 men, has completed a march across the island of Mindanao from Camp Vicars to Yligan. Captain Pershing visited the villages of Madaya and Marahui. On his way to Madaya he found the Moros were surprised to learn that Americans were not monsters 10 feet tall, with horns and tails. No hostility was shown towards the column on the march.

Charged With Killing Bride

Elwood, Ind., Dec. 1.—Mrs. Charles Dubois, a bride of but a few months, was found dead in her room yesterday. The side of her head was crushed. The coroner held an inquest, which led to the arrest of the husband of the dead woman, who is charged with her murder.

OF WORLD-WIDE FAME

England Loses Her Greatest Non-Conformist Preacher

DEATH OF JOSEPH PARKER

Removes a Man Whose Thunders From the Pulpit Have Reverberated Around Thrones—Could Give a Look Equivalent to a Blessing or a Curse

London, Nov. 29.—Dr. Joseph Parker, minister of the City Temple, who had been seriously ill for some time past, died at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Joseph Parker, for 30 years minister of the City Temple, London, was one of the world's most famous divines and England's greatest Non-Conformist preacher. He is the last of that celebrated trio, of which Dr. Newman Hall and Dr. Spurgeon were the others, a trio which every visitor to the British metropolis wanted to hear. Dr. Parker was born at Hexam-on-Tyne, April 9, 1830, and was educated at University college, London. He came of a long line of North-country Puritans. His father, a stern Non-Conformist, of whom he ever spoke with love and reverence, was a Northumbrian stonecutter.

It was in his native village that Joseph himself preached his first sermon—an outdoor sermon. As a young minister he contended with the Secularists of Banbury, where he had a charge for five years, and a doughty champion of orthodoxy they found him to be. In Manchester he was minister of Cavendish chapel for 11 years. He has been settled in London since 1869. His church, known as the City Temple, is one of the largest and most imposing Non-Conformist churches in Great Britain. He was honored in his own country by being elected to the highest position in the gift of the Congregational churches—for the year of 1884 he was chairman of the Congregational union of England and Wales.

His writings are very numerous. Dr. Parker was an orator and a poet, and is perhaps the best representative of the independent principle in church policy in England. He was a man of marvellous power, a true prophet, and notwithstanding his eccentricities, one of the warmest-hearted and most gracious of men. Theologically, perhaps, it might be best to describe him as advanced in theology and conservative in his interpretation of the Bible. He took the lead in every good work, and never hesitated to speak boldly in behalf of any cause which needed his championship.

Dr. Parker possessed all the eccentricities of genius, and his manner prevented some from appreciating the wonderful richness of his thought. In his own personality he was always interesting. He was a rather tall, broad and burly man. He had an enormous head and a lofty forehead, from which the long gray locks fell on either side like a lion's mane, and small piercing eyes gazed out upon the world from a rough-hewn, massive face. His manner of speech was always sententious. Although a man of the strongest convictions, he was catholic in his tastes. But he never temporised.

When he saw evil he preached against it, and the thunders from his pulpit have reverberated around thrones. He drew to himself world-wide attention by his denunciation of the sultan for the Armenian massacres; of Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, for the baccarat scandal; of the prince and Premier Rosebery for their appearance on the race course; of the rulers of China for the Boxer outbreaks; and, more recently, of King Edward VII for brewing beer while on a visit to Lord Burton at Burton-on-Trent.

Dr. Parker was a friend of the late Henry Ward Beecher, whose acquaintance he made in 1873 at the meeting of the Evangelical Alliance in New York. He lectured in this country in 1887, and he delivered a eulogy on Dr. Beecher for the benefit of the Beecher monument fund. For this latter he charged $700, but refunded the money in the face of a bitter controversy which arose over the propriety of his action. He never was convinced, however, that he was not entirely in the right in this matter.

This "Old Ironsides" of the London pulpit was as forcible in the expression he could put into his features as in any words that issued from his lips. And this is saying much, because in the use of language he was one of the greatest of living geniuses. By his words he could overwhelm one in a torrent of eloquence or he could crush one with just an adjective. But he could also damn without words—just a look such as he could put on is enough for either blessing or cursing. It is proverbial that this greatest of Non-Conformist preachers, had he taken to the stage, would have been a great actor.

A serious fault in his delivery was that sometimes his voice was so explosive that one could not catch the burning word he was hurling out, and at other times one necessarily failed to hear what was said, because his voice was suddenly dropped. This was a defect which increased with the years, and lately it became so serious as to make his attendance at his church hardly more than gratifying than provoking. Another defect used to be his lack of self-control and the fact that he would sometimes become so indignant as to show all the signs of downright anger, and so violent in invective as almost to savor of vulgarity.

THE BLONDIN MURDER

Startling Points Expected to Develop In Trial Begun at Boston

Boston, Dec. 1.—The trial of Joseph W. Blondin, who is charged with the murder of his wife, Margaret, in April last, and which promises to be one of the most notable cases in the criminal annals of the country because of the many curious circumstances involved, commenced here this morning before Judges Stevens and Braley. The indications are that the trial will be protracted, as more than 50 witnesses have been summoned by the government, while a large number has been called for the defense.

Blondin and his wife roomed at 43 Green street, this city, and the latter was last seen alive by the landlady, Mrs. Halligan, on April 27, 1902. On June 10 her headless body was found in the woods in Chelmsford and a few days later the head was found in a small creek a quarter of a mile away. That night the body was identified as that of Mrs. Blondin.

Search was at once made for Blondin and it was ascertained that he had left the city and for months the officers were engaged in travelling through the eastern and middle states and Canada, running down all sorts of alleged clues only to be disappointed. During most of this time Blondin was at work in a factory at White Plains, N. Y., and it was not until Feb. 25 of this year that that he was arrested at New York, where he had gone from White Plains to make application for a fireman's license.

It is understood that the defense of the prisoner will claim an alibi. The government claims to have some new evidence regarding the weapon with which the body was decapitated and it is said that the trial may develop some new and startling points.

Sailors' Hardships

Boston, Dec. 1.—Turbulent weather has been experienced by both trans-Atlantic and coasting vessels the past week. Saturday's gale was the most violent of any this fall. Yesterday, also, as other vessels made port, came word of marine accidents. The most serious of those was the loss of the Belfast, Me., schooner Pendleton Brothers. The crew were saved and landed by a steamer in New York. The Prince Edward Island coasting steamer Jacques Cartier was wrecked in a storm Saturday on the island, but no life was lost. The crew of the fisherman Blance were taken off by a gallant crew from a Norwegian steamer near Sydney, C. B. On our own Cape Cod shore both Monomoy life saving crews did their first serious work of the season in succorring vessels in distress.

Triple Tragedy at Providence

Providence, Dec. 1.—A tragedy in which jealously aroused by the detection of the murderer's double dealing figured as the motive was enacted in this city when Henry Crotchford, colored, 23 years of age, shot and killed his sweetheart, Miss Ella Lewis, pursued and attempted to kill Mrs. Lewis, her mother, probably fatally wounded another girl, Miss Mabel Nixon, and then closed the affair by sending two bullets through his own head. All the women were colored.

Won't Buy Trust's Products

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 1.—The local cigar makers and trades and labor unions have instituted a boycott against the cigar and tobacco store of the alleged trust. Pickets are on duty in the vicinity of the store and the names of any members of the unions observed to enter or leave the store are recorded for the purpose of penalizing them. This is done despite the fact that the store has a large quantity of union-made goods, which are being sold at cut prices.

Defender to Be of Bronze

Bristol, R. I., Dec. 1.—That Tobin bronze will be the material from which the cup defense sloop now in course of construction at the boat shops here has been definitely decided upon. The merits of bronze as compared with steel are thought to be unquestioned, chiefly because of the excellent polish which the metal takes and its superior qualition to withstand corrosion from salt water.

Under Prohibitive Bail

Boston, Dec. 1.—Bail of $10,000 each was ordered by Judge Barnard in the Brighton court for Charles Libby and Charles Murphy, arrested on suspicion of being concerned in burglaries in Brighton district, and they were bound over for the next session of the grand jury. The police consider that they have important criminals in the two men.

Perished From Exposure

Adams, Mass., Dec. 1.—John Creeran, 60 years old, was found dead beside the road a short distance from the Adams town farm. Creeran went to the farm a week ago and Saturday afternoon he went to the village, about three miles distant, and on coming back lay down to rest on the spot where he was found dead. Death was probably due to exposure.

Says Coal Famine Is Over

Boston, Dec. 1.—In the opinion of Kellogg Durland, one of the lieutenants of President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, who is visiting in this city, there is no danger of a further coal famine this winter. He says that practically the daily output of the mines is the same as before the strike.

Death of Painter Moore

Hartford, Dec. 1.—Nelson A. Moore, the veteran landscape painter, died at his home in Kensington yesterday. He was stricken with apoplexy Saturday and remained unconscious until his death. He was born in Kensington in 1824.

THRIFTY BOER LEADERS

Kruger and Leyds Said to Have $2,500,000, With More Coming

Berlin, Dec. 1.—The British government is telegraphing to all the ports of Germany making inquiries concerning a number of Boer gold bars worth $950,000, which it is supposed have been brought to this country from South Africa within the past fortnight. The bars are destined for former President Kruger and Dr. Leyds, and, it is presumed, had been concealed in the northern Transvaal. Great Britain will endeavor legally to attach the gold, if it can be located, on the ground that she is entitled to all the assets of the Transvaal because she has assumed responsibility for the debts of that country, including the bonds issued prior to the war.

General Botha's reply to Secretary Chamberlain that the late Boer government had no assets was strictly true as far as he knew, but since receiving Chamberlain's letter Botha learned that Kruger and Leyds have in their possession $2,500,000. Botha requested them to turn over this gold for the benefit of the Boer people, but Leyds refused, averring that the money was to be used in upholding the Boer nationality in the future. Botha has notified Leyds that unless the gold is given up legal proceedings will be brought against him.

The Texas Has More Trouble

Newport News, Va., Dec. 1.—Officers of the battleship Texas decline to discuss the accident which disabled one of the turrets of that vessel during the target practice off the Virginia capes and a statement for publication was refused. It is said that the failure of the recoil mechanism of one of the guns to work after the gun was fired partially wrecked the turret. The shock is said to have caused breaks in the plumbing aboard ship, resulting in damage by flooding to several cabins and storage compartments.

Army Beats Navy at Football

Philadelphia, Dec. 1.—In the fourth contest on Franklin Field between the football elevens representing the army and navy, the young tars were decisively beaten by the land-lubbers by the score of 22 to 8. As a football contest it may be called mediocre, but as a society event in footballdom it was a gigantic success. There were distinguished guests from both fighting departments of the government, and prominent citizens from nearly every section of the United States.

Philippine Agriculture Blocked

Manila, Dec. 1.—The efforts to restore agriculture in the Philippine islands have been blocked by a dearth of field animals. Ninety percent of them died in the original epidemic of rinderpest and of the small number imported since many have died. The general cultivation of the plantations is impossible without field animals and the absence of any immediate prospect of getting them leaves the agricultural situation in a serious condition.

Many Victims of Explosion

Chicago, Dec. 1.—A boiler in Swift & Co.'s plant exploded Saturday. Thirteen lives were sacrificed and scores of employes, visitors and others were injured. Huge boilers were sent through the roof of the structure and hurled hundreds of feet. Nobody within the boiler room survived to tell the story of the accident, and it may never be known what caused the explosion.

Town Has a Firebug

Great Barrington, Mass., Dec. 1.—A second attempt within a week to burn a large 2½-story block owned by Edward F. Searles was made yesterday. The fire started in the second story among a quantity of wall paper, and on this floor was a large portion of the dry goods stock of Rorrison Bros. This was mostly destroyed, causing a loss of $11,000. The building was damaged to the extent of $1500.

Sentences Aggregate 130 Years

Knoxville, Dec. 1.—Harvey Logan, the alleged Montana train robber, was given 10 sentences, aggregating 130 years. Eight sentences are for 15 years each, to be served concurrently, and two sentences are for five years each, to be served concurrently. This reduces his sentence to 20 years.

Thinks Cattle Disease Is Checked

Boston, Dec. 1.—Dr. Peters of the bureau of cattle inspection says that he believes the outbreak of the disease has been checked. Some curiosity has been expressed as to whether the owners of herds would be reimbursed or not for the losses occasioned by quarantine and disinfection.

Heirs Wanted For Fortune

Vienna, Dec. 1.—The heirs, some of whom are living in the United States, are wanted to an estate valued at about $100,000, left by Heinrich Oesterreicher, a miser who recently died here. Oesterreicher left a brother and two married sisters living somewhere in the United States.

Carnegie Regaining Strength

London, Dec. 1.—Andrew Carnegie, who has been ill here for the past fortnight, was able to get up for the first time yesterday.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Tuesday, Dec. 2.
Sun rises—6:54; sets—4:13.
Moon sets—6:40 p. m.
High water—12:30 a. m.; 12:45 p. m.

The month just closed was exceptionally warm, especially east of the Mississippi, where the temperature averaged 6 to 10 degrees above the November normal. The month was also dry.

Generally fair weather will prevail except along the coast, where there will be rain, turning to snow.

Early Training.

You are what you make of yourself. If your early training has been of the kind to inspire in you respect for truthfulness, for justice, for morality, for unselfishness, for honesty, then you are in a fair way to enjoy the blessings of this life and you have no occasion to fear for your hereafter. No man is perfect. But those who observe the Golden Rule will find life much easier, happier and brighter.

Your home is what you make it.

The time you spend in your home should be the happiest of the day. Each one should try to make the home life of each other member of the family as bright and cheerful as they can. If their efforts are sincere, family jars will diminish.

Your town is what you make it.

If you have no interest in the success of your town, if your efforts are applied only toward individual gain, if you fancy you are independent and have little or no thought for your neighbor, if you do not have a friendly interest in his efforts to succeed, your town will reflect that spirit and each one might as well fence off a small section, get into the enclosure and stay there. If you should occasionally give your neighbor a kindly push toward the goal he is striving to attain then you are doing as you would be done by.

Your churches, your Improvement Association, your Men's Club, and the many other organizations, fraternal, social and educational, are all just what you make them. Nothing more. If they are dead and accomplish nothing the members are responsible. If the ideas you have lead you to criticise those who are giving their time and their best efforts to the success of an undertaking, it may be, after you have thought the matter over, that you might put your ideas to a useful purpose. It is easy to criticise. But after all criticism is necessary. It is the manner in which it is done and the source from which it usually comes, that offends.—Fairhaven Star.

Better Than a Plaster.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The game wardens in various parts of Maine have reported 103 cases where moose were illegally killed during the past year. This number represents nearly 33 percent of all the moose killed in Maine during that time.

Secretary Young of the Maine state board of health reports that there have been no new cases of small pox for several days and that those who are ill are convalescent.

John Coburn, 57, who lived alone, was found dead in his home at Seabrook, N. H. He had upset a lamp, setting fire to the house, and was suffocated.

A loss of $10,000 was caused by a fire in the wood conveyer in the sulphite digester room of the Oxford paper mills at Rumford Falls, Me., which have the contract for making postal card paper for the United States government.

Newton Taylor, a weaver, was run into by an electric car at New Bedford, Mass., and almost instantly killed. A wrecking car had to be used to lift the car from the body.

BRAINTREE

Mrs. Lydia French has gone to Dorchester for the winter.

Mr. Alonzo Dyer and family spent Thanksgiving in Kingston.

Thanksgiving, Mrs. C. J. Hobart of Washington street entertained Mr. and Mrs. George Crane and Mr. Thompson Crane of Quincy Point.

The storm signal from Blue Hill Observatory was plainly seen by residents of South Braintree, Monday afternoon, between 4 and 5 o'clock.

At the Installation of officers of Rural Lodge, Quincy, Tuesday evening, the following people from this place were present: Dr. and Mrs. Brett, Mrs. Eliza Pierce, Miss Estella Pierce, Mr. Carroll Holbrook, Miss Alice Holbrook, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Torrey, Mr. C. C. Mellen, Miss Mabel Mellen, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reed, Mr. George Call, Miss Clara Call.

Mr. Baxter Torrey who died at his home in Weymouth last Thursday aged 88 years, was well known in this town. He was the oldest member of the Union church of this place and a sister of Mrs. E. A. Carter of Washington, D. C.

A well attended union Thanksgiving service was held at the Union church on the morning of Thanksgiving day and a very able and instructive sermon was preached by Rev. Melvin S. Nash, pastor of the Universalist church, Weymouth.

Capt. John Haggerty of the U. S. Army who has lately returned from several years service in the Phillippines has been in town on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius White of Sterling street. Capt. Haggerty who is a former Braintree boy was at one time connected with Co. K. 5th Regt.

The members of Susannah Tufts Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held a very largely attended meeting Monday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. A. G. Bowditch on Quincy avenue. Mrs. Charles of the Deborah Sampson Chapter of Brockton read a very interesting paper on "Pembroke" and Mrs. Hatch the regent of the same Chapter gave an interesting talk on the growth and work of the Brockton Chapter. A lunch followed the business meeting.

Mr. George Ricker, who has recently purchased the Anderson estate on Ash street, is making extensive improvements.

Messrs. Nat Wales and Alva Morrison were among those from Braintree who witnessed the game at New Haven last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barbour, and Mr. and Mrs. Perley E. Barbour spent Thanksgiving with Mr. John A. Barbour at Wollaston.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Arnold of Holyoke are spending the Thanksgiving holidays with Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Arnold, Middle street.

The Home Missionary meeting of the First church will be held in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon. Supper will be served at half-past six o'clock, to which all are invited.

Mrs. S. W. Curtis of Norfolk Downs spent Thanksgiving day with her grandson's family on Storrs avenue.

Herbert Plumer of Cornell College Ithaca, N. Y. is spending his vacation with his parents.

Mr. Walter E. Severance enjoyed his Thanksgiving dinner at his home in Lynn.

George Loring is to move to Wollaston where he is employed at the Tubular Rivet Works.

Mr. George Willson of Hayward street has severed his connection with the Fore River Ship and Engine Works.

George B. Loring has just completed a twelve foot tender for C. O. Miller, to be used with his naphtha launch.

The place lately vacated by Mr. George Clapp, West street, has been rented to out of town parties.

There was a very pretty dancing party in the hall last evening under the direction of the Entertainment Committee. Just enough were present to render dancing a delight, which it certainly was under the seductive strains from the Braintree Orchestral Club. Mrs. Virgin, Mrs. F. Eugene Dyer and Mrs. George Wheeler served as matrons and Harry L. Patten, Leonard Newell, Mr. Nat Wales, Mr. Alva Dow were the ushers who made all things pleasant. Punch was served during the evening.

SEVEN MEN ACQUITTED

Alleged Marion Whitecaps Found Not Guilty

TAR AND FEATHERS CASE

A General Admission That Something of the Kind Occurred, but the Jury Found, After Long Deliberation, That the Men Established Alibis

Plymouth, Mass., Dec. 2.—After listening to a great mass of contradictory testimony, the jury in the Plymouth superior court, at 1 o'clock this morning, decided that the seven men of Marion accused of tarring and feathering James McDonald were not concerned in that now famous case, and returned a verdict of not guilty. The men thus cleared of the charge are Messrs. Andrews, Bates, Bumpus, Gifford, McLeod, Potter and Silva, all of Marion.

The jury was out eight hours, but the court waited for them, and when shortly before 1 o'clock the foreman notified one of the court officers that a decision had been reached, the little court house was soon ablaze with lights. Judge Harris, who had gone to bed at the clubhouse, was summoned, as was District Attorney French, but Mr. Cummings, counsel for the seven men, had gone back to Fall River, confident, as he said, of the outcome.

The jury and the seven men were in their seats when the court arrived and in response to the usual question by the clerk the foreman replied that the jury had found the men not guilty in every case.

The district attorney was perhaps the most surprised man in the court room, but he took the verdict good humoredly. Judge Harris at once ordered all seven men discharged, and after thanking the jury adjourned the court. The entire proceedings occupied scarcely five minutes, and at 1:10 a. m. the court house lights were out and the Marion tar and feather case was over, at least as far as the seven men were concerned.

It was a joyful little crowd that filed out of the court house and sought the hotel, for there was no chance of returning home until long after daybreak. There were very few outside of those immediately concerned and a few newspaper men in the court room, as the verdict was not expected until the usual time of opening the court this morning.

The length of time occupied in the discussion of the case was in a measure necessary, for according to the judge's charge the case against each man had to be taken up separately. It was because of this separate consideration that nearly all the court officials, as well as all the spectators who have frequented the court room every day during the trial, went home and to bed.

Not one of the jury would talk of the case or discuss the evidence. Each one the trial was over and hurried off as soon as the court adjourned.

The charge from which the seven men were exonerated by the jury was that of rioting and rioutously assaulting James McDonald and Mrs. Clara Potter of Marion, on Aug. 6 last. The men were further charged with going to the house of Mrs. Potter and forcibly carrying off McDonald to a gravel pit where, it is said, he was tarred and feathered. In the meantime, according to Mrs. Potter's story, she was also taken out of the house and stripped nearly naked. McDonald, it is alleged, was given a ride on a rail and afterwards hustled out of town in a wagon. It seemed to be generally admitted that something of this kind occurred in Marion, but the seven men accused successfully established an alibi in every case, and have been cleared of being concerned in the affair by the jury's verdict.

Unsatisfactory Reports From Havana

Washington, Dec. 2.—General Wood's reports for 1899 and 1900 show that Havana was exceedingly healthy as a result of the American methods of sanitation enforced. The state department is now advised that a relaxation of this system is taking place gradually, but surely. The sanitary inspectors are said to be more lenient and there are numerous violations of sanitary laws.

Actor Becomes a Murderer

Philadelphia, Dec. 2.—Mrs. Kate Hassett, aged 28 years, leading woman in Keith's Eighth Street Theatre Stock company, was shot and killed last night by Barry Johnson, an actor. After the murder Johnson attempted suicide. He is not expected to live. The cause of the tragedy is believed to be jealousy.

Mail Sack and Contents Missing

Danville, Ky., Dec. 2.—The loss of a sack of mail containing $14,000 in drafts and checks from the internal revenue office here and $9000 in bank checks and drafts, besides registered letters from various parties, was reported yesterday. The sack was stolen or lost 10 days ago.

Sensational Gambling Raid

New York, Dec. 2.—One of the most sensational raids ever made in New York took place late last night when District Attorney Jerome, with a strong force of police, broke into the palatial establishment said to have been conducted by Richard Canfield as a gambling house. Entrance was effected by smashing in the basement windows. The lower floors were vacant. On the fifth floor a panel in the wall proved to be protected with stout steel plating. When this had been battered in the police say that they discovered an enormous quantity of gambling apparatus. Canfield, with half a dozen men who were found with him in the house, were arrested.

A Leader In His Line

New York, Dec. 2.—Professor Henry Mitchell of Boston died from heart disease in this city yesterday. He was born in Nantucket, Mass., in 1830. At the age of 21 he entered the government service as civil engineer. He led an expedition under Count de Lesseps on the Panama canal project. He was a member of many scientific societies and clubs.

Goes to Face the Music

Philadelphia, Dec. 2.—Charles F. Kelly, the former speaker of the St. Louis house of delegates, who was arrested on his arrival here from Europe last Friday on the charge of bribery, left for St. Louis last night in the custody of a detective, the necessary requisition papers having been secured from Governor Stone yesterday afternoon.

The Accident to the Texas

Washington, Dec. 2.—From two to three weeks, it is estimated, will suffice for the repairs to the two 12-inch gun return cylinders of the Texas, which were split in gun practice last Saturday. The Texas will leave Norfolk as soon as the repairs are completed for the combined maneuvers of Admiral Dewey's fleet.

Enforcing Anti-Trust Law

Kansas City, Dec. 2.—The Kansas City court of appeals decided yesterday that the combination of brewers that exists in this city is a trust and as such it is unlawful. Any man who owes money to a brewer in the combine need not pay his bill, and the brewer cannot collect the debt, even by going into the courts.

HOW A WOMAN GOT HER STRENGTH BACK.

She Took Our Vinol with Good Results.

WE WANT EVERY ONE TO KNOW ABOUT IT.

READ WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY. COME AND SEE US.

We don't want any one in this city to drag themselves through life in pain and misery for the want of enough strength to feel well and happy.

If you feel listless, without ambition and run down, it is a bad sign.

You are running grave chances. You are in a condition to be attacked by most any disease.

This feeling of debility is a symptom that your system is generally demoralized. You should take a tonic.

You should take Vinol, which we know and will guarantee will restore your strength.

Following is one case where it did this. Mrs. T. H. Boyle, of 56 Chestnut St., West Newton, Mass., says:

"Last spring I used one bottle of Vinol. At that time I was all run down and sick. I find that it did me lots of good, and by its use my strength came back to me."

Vinol is a delicious preparation, containing the active curative principles that are found in cod-liver oil, dissolved in a delicate table wine.

Vinol acts directly on the stomach, aiding digestion and at the same time creating a healthy appetite. It gives strength and vigor to every organ of the body.

We endorse Vinol, and guarantee its action, and will gladly refund to any one who is not satisfied the money which they paid for it.

PATERSON HURT.

Struck by Train While Rescuing a Chum in Canada.

The following letter received by the Ledger today tells of an accident to a well known Quincy boy while in Canada. Mr. Paterson has been active in the management of the South Quincy and Fore River base ball teams and other sports in this city, and friends will be sorry to learn of his injury.

Milestone, Assiniboia, Canada, Nov. 27, 1902.

Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

A young man from your city was injured Nov. 26, and as I do not know his relatives address, possibly they can be notified through your paper. How I got your address was, I found a number of Ledgers that he had received from his home, as he said, and am writing you this note to inform you of the young fellow's misfortune. His name is Arthur H. Paterson.

Perhaps I had better go into detail so you can get the right information. Last evening, Nov. 26, we intended to move our outfit from Moosejaw to Milestone, and he and a friend got off the train intending to go over to the store to purchase some supplies. Young Paterson got off the train safely, but his chum, named Peterson, slipped under the wheels. Paterson, never thinking of his own life, jumped to aid his chum, but was caught by an outgoing train and hurled many feet in the air. We thought he was killed, but he miracuously escaped death, and examination shows no broken bones. If he is not injured internally we believe he will pull through.

The boys in the outfit feel very blue over the accident, as the two fellows who were injured, were the general favorites along the whole division. Peterson lost one leg but would have lost his life had it not been for the quickness and bravery of his chum.

Kindly insert an item in your paper to his parents may be able to know about him. I shall telegraph you if he is in a very dangerous condition. He will not want for money or care, as the boys in the outfit will save his life if money can do it.

The accident came unfortunately for him as he had just been promoted to the position os assistant foreman of the bridge department. Thanking you kindly for this favor, I remain, yours respectfully, M. Murphy.

Fifty Dollars from Street Railway.

Mayor Bryant has received from H. E. Reynolds, superintendent of the Quincy division of the Old Colony street railway, a check for $50, as the company's contribution to the Hospital week collection. Mayor Bryant forwarded the check to the Hospital trustees.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

Both Sides Confident of Success.

Wards 5 and 6 Solid For Bryant.

Wilson Men Claim Wards 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Grand weather prevails today and a very large vote is being polled. Without exception every precinct of the city cast a larger vote this morning than at the recent State election, and the total may go over 4,200 or 4,300.

At this election Butler brook will be to Quincy what the Harlem river is to the State of New York on election day. Mayor Bryant with sweeping majorities in Ward Five and Six will probably come to the brook with about 700 to the good. Mr. Wilson may carry the other four wards but by much smaller majorities. Unless Ward Four gives an old time Democratic majority it will be impossible for Mr. Wilson to meet his opponent at the brook with 700 majority, but he must do better to win.

Some are predicting an increased Yes vote on the License question, but it is probable that the phenomenal No majority of last year will be increased.

The Vote of 1900.

The vote of 1900 for Mayor affords better comparison than last year, there being three candidates then as this year, a Republican, Democrat and a Socialist. The vote this year may be 100 to larger:

	Hall, R.	Keith, D.	Marden, S.
Ward One,	455	303	12
Ward Two,	229	230	13
Ward Three,	345	390	56
Ward Four,	336	465	12
Ward Five,	860	140	43
Ward Six,	311	136	25
	2,036	1,664	161

Election Returns.

Last year the official returns of the election were received at City Hall as follows, and they should be as early tonight:

	H. M.
Ward One, Precinct One,	4.55
Ward One, Precinct Two,	6.09
Ward Two, Precinct One,	6.15
Ward Two, Precinct Two,	6.15
Ward Three, Precinct One,	8.52
Ward Three, Precinct Two,	6.08
Ward Four, Precinct One,	5.24
Ward Four, Precinct Two,	6 08
Ward Five,	7.27
Ward Six,	7.53

Daily Ledger extras will be issued before 6 P. M., and will probably have the head of the ticket complete.

Ward One.

The vote by hours of the Ward One precincts at City Hall was as follows, compared with last year:

	In 1902. Pre. 1.	Pre. 2.	In 1901. Pre. 1.	Pre. 2.
At 7	52	58	53	54
At 8	106	112	97	116
At 9	169	170	148	172
At 10	209	210	177	212
At 11	229	242	204	251
At 12	248	272	229	263
At 1	305	316	268	282
At 2	336	359	293	371
At 4	—	—	344	426

The election officers in precinct one are Messrs. Kittridge, Dunphy, Goodridge, Walsh, Jenness and Dunn, and Officers Hanson and Conway are on duty.

The precinct two officers are Messrs. Packard, Davenport, Coyle, Goss, Cook and Murphy. The police, Officers Goodhue and Milford.

Both precincts of Ward One had cast a larger vote at 1 P. M. than at the same hour in December 1901, and the grand total of the ward will be nearly 800.

The only woman of the ward who had voted up to 1 P. M. was Miss Dewson of Adams street.

Ward Two.

Quincy Point is keeping its end up with the other wards, and is polling a large vote. It would not be at all surprising if this ward gave Bryant a majority in spite of the claims of the friends of Mr. Wilson.

In precinct one the voting was a little light during the first hour but it picked up later, and at 11 o'clock 174 votes had been cast, or about 15 more than at the State election at the same hour.

When the polls were opened this morning neither the clerk or deputy clerk reported and C. C. Mueller was elected clerk.

In Precinct Two the voting at 11 o'clock was greatly in excess of the recent State election. At that hour today the number of votes cast, allowing for the box jumping, was 225, or nearly 25 more than at the State election.

There is quite a local contest in the ward for Ward Councilman between Mr. Thompson and Mr. Stone. These gentlemen were tied for third place at the caucus so both are running independent. Mr. Thompson was seen about the polls this morning and he feels sure of winning.

The election officers on duty are:

Precinct one,—Moynihan, Mueller, R. H. Newcomb, Cleverly, Burrell and Cain. Police,—Officers Larkin and Stewart.

Precinct two,—E. W. Newcomb, Kelley, Keating, Kennedy, Gatcomb, and D. J. Ford. Police,—Officers Ferguson and Donovan.

The vote in Precinct One at 2 o'clock was 226.

Ward Three.

The South Quincy ward is polling a large vote, and if they keep it up all day an unusual large vote will be cast. The Democrats are claiming the ward for Wilson but give no figures. The Republicans, however, say they will hold their own. It is conceded that the three Republican Councilmen will be elected.

In spite of the fact that a large vote is being polled it is very quiet about the two polling places. In Precinct One, at 10.30, the box registered 230. This is an increase of twelve votes over the recent State election at the same hour.

In precinct two, the Republican precinct, 195 votes had been cast at 10.30, which is an increase of nearly forty votes over the State election at the same hour.

The election officers on duty are as follows:

Precinct One,—Messrs. Cahill, Mc Calder, Elrick, Marnock, Kelley and Sullivan. Police,—Officers Cahill and Johnson, Precinct two,— Messrs. Williams, Boyle, Campbell, Pratt, Heany and Shea. Police,—Officers Curtin and Corbett.

The vote of Precinct two at 2 o'clock was 322.

Ward Four.

The West Quincy ward is turning out a phenominal vote today. The voting at the State election was considered unusually large, but the voting during the early hours today surpassed it. The Democrats are claiming the ward for Wilson by 200 majority, but the Republicans claim they will give them a surprise.

In Precinct one, at 10 o'clock, 184 votes had been cast against 166 at the same hour at the State election. In Precinct two, 275 votes had been cast against 248 at the same hour at the State election.

The election officers on duty are as follows:

Precinct one,—Crowley, McCormick, Burke, King, Fuller and Williams. Police,—Officers Bradley and Kaliher.

Precinct two,—Teasdale, Markham, Eagan, Campbell, Walters and Shortle. Police,—Officers Reddington and Hinchon.

Ward Five.

The following officers are within the railing at Wollaston: Messrs. Sherman, Chase, Olney, Richmond, Dineen and Twitchell. Police,—Officers Lyons and Bowdon. The voting continued briskly up to 9 o'clock when 455 votes had been cast. There was very little excitement since the feeling was strong that the ward would go for Mayor Bryant almost unanimously.

The ward committee is not particularly active this year, though carriages are as usual in use to bring in the delinquent voters.

Mayor Bryant was early on deck, and at 9.55 cast the 453d vote. He does not expect Ward Five to cast over 600 votes this year, although last year 674 were polled.

At 10 o'clock the total vote was 495 which is 15 less than at the recent State election when 510 voted up to 10 o'clock.

Strange to say many went to Boston forgetting to vote in spite of numerous signs posted in prominent places reminding all to "Vote Early."

Only one female vote had been cast at 10 o'clock, since there is no local candidate for School Committee.

The feeling is that it is a quiet election in Ward Five.

The Ward Five vote at 1 P. M. was 595, against a total of 679 at 4 P. M. at the last City election.

The vote of Ward Five at 1.30 was 595.

Ward Six.

The Atlantic ward is getting out a good-sized vote and it is believed that a very large majority of them are making a cross against the name of Mayor Bryant.

The total vote of the ward at 12.30 o'clock, was 458, or within 61 votes of the total number at the municipal election last year.

In precinct one the vote at 12.30 was 240 or 15 more than at the recent State election. In precinct two the vote at 12.30 was 218 or 18 more than at the recent State election. There seems to be no question but what the three Republican Councilmen and School Committee man will be elected.

Precinct two is what is known as the Socialist precinct and no one was found who wished to make any predictions as to how this precinct would go, other than that Bryant would get a majority.

The election officers on duty are as follows:

Precinct one,—Messrs. Pope, Drew, Edwards, Jr., Dolan, Whall and Sherwin. Police,—Officers McCarthy and Thorn.

Precinct two,—Messrs. Poland, Canty, Duggan, Maxwell, Beale and Shea. Police,—Officers Hunt and Donovan.

What are Humors?

They are vitiated or morbid fluids coursing the veins and affecting the tissues. They are commonly due to defective digestion but are sometimes inherited.

How do they manifest themselves?

In many forms of cutaneous eruption, salt rheum or eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languor, general debility.

How are they expelled? By

which also builds up the system that has suffered from them.

It is the best medicine for all humors.

Mrs. Hewitson and her daughter Carrie of South Central avenue, have returned from a trip of several months to New York and western Massachusetts.

Maple lodge, K. and L. of H., will initiate several candidates at its meeting on Wednesday evening, also elect officers for the coming term. A collation will be served.

The Wollaston Choral Union meets Wednesday evening at 7.45 in the Unitarian vestry. New members will be admitted and work on "The Rose Maiden" will be resumed.

Miss Florence Howe of Bigelow street, who has been an assistant teacher at the Quincy and Lincoln buildings has accepted a school at Northboro, and entered upon her duties on Monday.

Two hot houses at the Monatiquot greenhouses, each over 100 feet in length, are given to carnation, while nother is devoted to green goods, not of the bunco variety, but smilax, asparagus, springers, maiden hair fern, etc.

The grass fire in Merrymount Park Sunday afternoon was taken care of by the Fire department without an alarm. From the Wollaston beach the long line of red fire with the uppouring clouds of smoke made a beautiful picture. If the Park Commissioners saw to it that the grass was burned each year under proper control, the beautiful shade trees would be benefited.

November, with its unusual warmth and sunshine, has gone and December came in white capped trees and lawns, and a coldness of winter is in its breath. During Sunday evening it commenced to rain, which later turned into snow, but only a little fell, just enough to make the earth look like fairy land on Monday morning. Early in the day, travelling for people and horses was difficult on account of the ice.

Dr. Todd for Superintendent.

A new departure in the method of conducting its mission work in New England was undertaken by the Presbytery of Boston at its meeting in the First Presbyterian church, Roxbury, Monday. For several years this work has not been under the supervision of a superintendent, and it has been found necessary to appoint to the position a clergyman who can give the enterprise his care and attention. The choice of all the members of the Presbytery was the Rev. James Todd, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Quincy, and he was appointed to the position. The Rev. McLeod Harvey has accepted a call to the First Presbyterian church at Worcester.—Herald.

MANY REPORTS.

At Regular Meeting of the City Council.

Petition to Legislature for Boulevard Construction.

Legal Tangle Over the Chubbuck Street Nuisance Order.

The City Council took important action at its meeting Monday evening looking toward the construction of the Metropolitan parkway from Hancock street, Atlantic, via Quincy bay shore; Merrymount park and the Furnace brook valley through the Willard school grounds to the Blue Hills reservation. The State has already made all the takings, and now the Mayor is authorized to petition the Legislature to make appropriation for construction.

Councilmen Fallon, Gassett, Langelier and Meyer were absent.

JURORS.

The following jurors were drawn: John F. Merrill, William E. Howe, Michael F. O'Brien, E. Frank Mitchell, Stephen B. Little and Patrick P. Burke.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Mayor sent a communication from the Board of Health stating that its appropriation for contagious diseases was exhausted.

Laid on the table until later when an order was offered authorizing the treasurer to credit to appropriation for contagious diseases the amount received from the State on smallpox cases. To Finance committee.

NEW CONSTABLES.

The Mayor announced the appointment of John C. Porter, A. H. Maxwell and Walter H. Cobb as constables. Confirmed.

PETITIONS.

The New England Telephone Co. petitioned for permission to attach wires to poles on Winthrop avenue. Laid on table until later when order was offered.

John Fletcher petitioned for refund of taxes paid on property not owned by him. To Finance Committee.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Finance reported favorable on the order transferring $175 in the Police department. Rules suspended and order passed.

The same committee reported order appropriating $940.35 to pay bills of 1901 of the Poor Department. Ordered to a second reading.

The same Committee reported order for $300 for fuel for the Fire department. Ordered to a second reading.

The same Committee reported orders refunding $2 poll tax to Lemuel K. Hirtle, and $33 for tax title to John H. Dinegan. Ordered to a second reading.

STREET REPORTS.

The Committee on Streets reported upon the following orders, all of which were accepted except where noted:

Reference to next Council on order for $700 for paved gutters on Lincoln avenue.

Leave to withdraw, on the extension of Brook street under the railroad track. Upon motion of Councilman Nickerson this was referred to the next Council.

Granting permission to New England Telephone Co. to attach wires to poles of other companies. Took second reading.

Granting location to the street railway for a location for tracks from Washington street to Saville street. Took second reading.

Granting New England Telephone Co. relocation of poles on Coddington and Sea streets and Quincy avenue. Ordered to a second reading.

Leave to withdraw on petition to lay out Belmont steet.

No legislation necessary on abolishing grade crossing.

Reference to Finance Committee on bill for edgestones.

Granting Old Colony street railway permission to use lighter rail on Quincy Point bridge. Rules suspended and order passed.

Reference to next Council, on laying out of Cottage avenue, Charles street, Smith street, Morton street, Franklin avenue, extending Buckley street. Paved gutters on Independence avenue, extension of Quarry street, acceptance of Federal avenue, widening East Howard street, $700 for Prospect street, and $800 for Edwin street.

THAT ICE POND.

The committee on Public Buildings reported no legislation necessary on the order authorizing the Mayor to advertise for proposals for lease of reservoir as an ice pond.

CITY SCALES.

The same committee reported reference to next Council on order for $500 for public scales in City Square.

BOULEVARD PETITION.

The Committee on Legislative Matters reported an order authorizing the Mayor to petition the Legislature for $200,000 to build the Parkway on location secured in Quincy. Adopted.

CHUBBUCK STREET NUISANCE.

The City Solicitor gave a verbal opinion on the matter of damages by abolishing the nuisance at the corner of Washington and Chubbuck streets.

He said it was a question of fact rather than law. If it is a nuisance it will have to be abated. If the work is carried out in such a way to damage land the city will have to pay. You cannot take private land for public purposes. It might be constructed so it would be a damage. He would suggest that the Commissioner consult with the Solicitor as he went along with the work.

Councilman Adams asked if pipe was put under the brook and the property benefitted if betterments could not be paid.

The City Solicitor should say not. The city had no authority to assess betterments for draining land. If land became more valuable by being drained and there was a claim for damage, the fact that the property was improved would be taken into consideration in making the award.

The Commissioner of Public Works in reply to questions said the plan was to lay the pipe in the brook and then fill it up even. The outlet was at Bent's creek.

The order was referred to the Finance Committee.

Councilman Nichols offered an order for the Committee on Election to meet tonight.

Adjourned at 8.45 to meet next Monday evening.

November Court Business.

The report of Probation Officer Francis A. Spear shows that there were 88 criminal cases before the district court during the month of November. Of this number 42 were for drunkenness; 5 for assault; 8 for disturbing the peace; 3 each for bastardy and larceny; 4 for neglected children; 2 each for violation of by-laws and cutting shade trees; 1 each for assault on an officer, conveying mortgaged property, cruelty to animals, habitual school offence, lewdness, malicious mischief, neglecting to send child to school, rape, stubborn child, selling milk below standard, threat and tramp. There were also five liquor cases.

The ladies of the Wollaston Methodist church will hold their annual Christmas sale at the church this week.

Fainting Spells

always indicate a weak heart. They are usually preceeded or followed by palpitation or fluttering, and there may be pain in left side, a smothering sensation and shortness of breath. Such a heart should be treated at once, before the disease develops beyond control. Heart disease is as easily cured as other troubles it taken in time.

"I was subject to fainting spells, and many times I have fallen on the street. I was often compelled to sit down while walking to avoid falling. When physicians failed to help me, I took Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and was completely cured."

A business meeting was held after the serving of refreshments. Mr. Horace Jenkins was chosen president and Miss Edna Staniford treasurer. The next meeting will be held with Miss Mabel Reed.

Hewitson Associates.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. George Soule, the Edward Hewitson associates met at her new home on Prospect avenue Saturday evening. There was a large number present as some of the college members were home on their vacations.

President Fowler presided. The club was interested to learn of the financial success of the recent "Peddlers' Parade." After a short business meeting the associates were invited to the dining room where light refreshments were served.

President Fowler had the entertainment in charge and everyone enjoyed the evenings' sport. Professor Olin of the Transcript, a ventriloquist, captivated all with his skilful representations. He proved himself an expert ventriloquist. The club regreted that the expected soloist was not with them, nevertheless they were all pleased with Master Carl Fowler's sweet voice. Miss Parker of Wollaston also favored the club at the piano.

After college songs Mr. and Mrs. Soule were thanked for opening their home to the club and the members adjourned at 10 o'clock.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

REGULATION OF TRUSTS

Stands Apart From the Question of Tariff Revision

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Declares That Our Prosperity Has Always Come Under a Protective Tariff—Quick and Radical Changes Undesirable—Interest of Capital and Labor Must Be Brought Into Harmony With Interest of General Public—Matters Relating to Cuba and the Philippines Touched Upon

The president's message delivered to congress today deals largely with the trusts and the labor problem. It declares for trade reciprocity with other nations; for a conservative revision of the tariff, and an enlarged navy. The president informs congress of progress in investigating the titles of the isthmian canal grants, and of the practical completion of the Pacific cable to Hong Kong by way of Honolulu and the Philippine islands. The following abstracts give the most important points of the message:

No country has ever occupied a higher plane of material well-being than ours at the present moment. Great fortunes have been accumulated, and yet in the aggregate these fortunes are small indeed when compared to the wealth of the people as a whole. The plain people are better off than they have ever been before. There are more deposits in the savings banks, more owners of farms, more well-paid wage workers in this country now than ever before in our history. Of course, when the conditions have favored the growth of so much that was good, they have also favored somewhat the growth of what was evil. The evils are real and some of them are menacing, but they are the outgrowth, not of misery or decadence, but of prosperity—of the progress of our gigantic industrial development. This industrial development must not be checked, but side by side with it should go such progressive regulation as will diminish the evils.

I believe that monopolies, unjust discriminations, which prevent or cripple competition, fraudulent overcapitalization, and other evils in trust organizations and practices which injuriously affect interstate trade can be prevented under the power of the congress. The question of regulation of the trusts stands apart from the question of tariff revision.

Our past experience shows that great prosperity in this country has always come under a protective tariff; and that the country can not prosper under fitful tariff changes at short intervals. Moreover, if the tariff laws as a whole work well, and if business has prospered under them and is prospering, it is better to endure for a time slight inconveniences and inequalities in some schedules than to upset business by too quick and too radical changes. Unquestionably business interests will best be served if together with fixity of principle as regards the tariff we combine a system which will permit us from time to time to make the necessary reapplication of the principle to the shifting national needs. There must never be any change which will jeopardize the standard of comfort, the standard of wages of the American wage worker. The cases in which the tariff can produce a monopoly are so few as to constitute an inconsiderable factor in the question; but of course if in any case it be found that a given rate of duty does promote a monopoly which works ill, no protectionist would object to such reduction of the duty as would equalize competition. In my judgment, the tariff on anthracite coal should be removed, and anthracite put actually, where it now is nominally, on the free list.

Exactly as business men find they must often work through corporations, and as it is a constant tendency of these corporations to grow larger, so it is often necessary for laboring men to work in federations, and these have become important factors of modern industrial life. Organized capital and organized labor alike should remember that in the long run the interest of each must be brought into harmony with the interest of the general public. Every employer, every wage worker, must be guaranteed his liberty and his right to do as he likes with his property or his labor so long as he does not infringe upon the rights of others.

It is earnestly hoped that a secretary of commerce may be created, with a seat in the cabinet. The rapid multiplication of questions affecting labor and capital, the growth and complexity of the organizations through which both labor and capital now find expression, the steady tendency toward the employment of capital in huge corporations, and the wonderful strides of this country toward leadership in the international business world justify an urgent demand for the creation of such a position.

I urge the adoption of reciprocity with Cuba not only because it is eminently for our own interests to control the Cuban market and by every means to foster our supremacy in the tropical lands and waters south of us, but also because we, of the giant republic of the north, should make all our sister nations of the American continent feel that whenever they will permit it we desire to show ourselves disinterestedly and effectively their friend.

On July 4 last, on the 126th anniversary of the declaration of independence, peace and amnesty were promulgated in the Philippine islands. Not only does each Filipino enjoy such rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness as he has never before known during the recorded history of the islands, but the people taken as a whole now enjoy a measure of self-government greater than that granted to any other Orientals by any foreign power and greater than that enjoyed by any other Orientals under their own governments, save the Japanese alone.

The receipts of the postoffice department for the fiscal year ending June 30 last amounted to $121,948,047.26, an increase of $10,216,853.87 over the preceding year, the largest increase known in the history of the postal service. The magnitude of this increase will best appear from the fact that the entire postal receipts for the year 1860 amounted to but $8,518,067. Rural free delivery service is no longer in the experimental stage; is has become a fixed policy.

Stubborn Fire at Boston

Boston, Dec. 3.—Fire in a 3½-story wooden building on Albany street, occupied by lumber dealers, caused a money loss of about $75,000 and resulted in injuries to three firemen. The building held an unusually heavy stock of mahogany and other solid woods, which made the fire a stubborn one to deal with. A dozen fire engines, together with two horseless engines and two fire boats, poured thousands of gallons into the building for several hours before the fire was subdued.

Financial Stumbling Block

Washington, Dec. 3.—Following the change in the Colombian negotiators, steps have been taken to immediately resume the exchanges. Dr. Herran, who is to conduct the negotiations for Colombia, has an appointment to meet Secretary Hay today. The real difference now is as to the compensation to be paid Colombia, which seeks an increase of annuity to the sum of more than $500,000 per annum.

Vessels Given Up For Lost

Port Towusend, Wash., Dec. 3.—U. S. revenue cutter Bear arrived yesterday from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, after one of the most tempestuous voyages ever experienced during the 13 years the vessel has been detailed for Arctic service. Captain Tuttle thinks little hope can be entertained of ever hearing of either the schooner General Siglin or the steamer Dawson City, both overdue from the north.

Attempt on Life of Mikado

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 3.—Steamer Kaga Maru, from the Orient, brought news of an attempt on the life of the Emperor of Japan while en route to the scene of the maneuvers of Kinshin. A number of conspirators arranged to blow up the royal train, but the police authorities learned of the plot and the would-be dynamiters fled. They were not captured.

Good Afternoon.

Evidently the Republicans of the city to a very large extent have adopted the suggestion of the Ledger "to bury the hatchet," because the total vote for Mayor Bryant, the Republican candidate is larger than was ever before given a Republican candidate, and in fact larger than was ever given to any Mayoralty candidate of the city. The Ledger is pleased to have been on the winning side, and we feel that we can at this time unite in congratulating Mayor Bryant upon his handsome re-election.

Now, if the people of the city give their Executive their united support, and an occasional word of praise, instead of unwarranted adverse criticism, it will be to the advantage of our city and conduce to pleasanter feelings than have prevailed to quite an extent this year. We hope also that the Mayor and others will be charitable to Henry H. Faxon, who may have been on the wrong track, but who has done much for our city in the past and is now an old man. Give him an appointment as constable if he desires it, and make him happy if possible.

There are great problems before our city which require the best thought: how to provide for the rapidly increasing population—schools, police and fire protection, etc.; how to make the many improvements demanded, many of which seem imperative; how to provide the funds without placing the valuation upon real estate too high. Quincy cannot shut down upon special improvements; and it cannot easily curtail on current expenses of departments.

Quincy has a very large school population, the proportion being far in excess of most cities. The city covers a large acreage, and has an unusually large mileage of streets, which are subjected to heavier travel than in most small cities; some very large industries have found within a year or two that Quincy was the most advantageous site for them to locate, and they are of such gigantic size that they almost revolutionize our city; so much so that our population may double in ten years. No city has a more brilliant future, if advantages are taken of the situation.

Mr. Wilson is also to be congratulated on his excellent run. With the exception of Mayor Adams who received 1888 votes one year, no Democratic candidate ever received as many votes for Mayor as were given Mr. Wilson. He also carried as many wards of the city as his successful rival, and six precincts where his rival carried but five. Quincy is a Republican city by nearly 1,000 at State elections, so that it is always an up-hill fight for any Democratic candidate.

The No-license people of Quincy are to be congratulated on the vote of Tuesday. Not alone because they carried the city 2604 to 1346, but the fact that the No vote gained more than the Yes vote, that more than one-half (2604) of all those registered (4925) voted No.

One year of license is usually enough, and a bitter experience. Fitchburg which voted Yes 80 majority last year turned about and gave 126 majority against license.

☞ Mr. William Gillott could not get the scalp he was looking for on the election day.

NO-LICENSE.

The No Gain Larger Than Yes Gain.

THE CITY SOLIDLY REPUBLICAN.

Elect Mayor and 19 of the 23 Councilmen.

Tuesday's election was decisive. It showed that Quincy is a strong Republican city, and the banner No-license city, The Mayor-elect and 19 of the 23 Councilmen are Republicans, and the "No" majority on the License question was larger than in any city which voted this week. Not a precinct of the city gave a Yes majority.

Mayor Bryant is re-elected by 232 plurality and lacked but a few votes of a majority. The totals were 2,053 for Charles M. Bryant, the Republican candidate; 1,821 for George H. Wilson, the Democratic candidate, with independent nominations; and 283 for William T. Richards the Socialist candidate.

The five Republican candidates for Councilmen at-large were all elected, the lowest with a margin of 449, and Councilman Adams with a lead of 756 over Councilman Elcock who ran considerably ahead of his Democratic colleagues.

Ward One proved the pivotal ward and pushed the rush line of the Republican forces from Butler's brook to Elm, School and Quarry streets. Mayor Bryant carried Ward One by 40 plurality. Had Mr. Wilson carried it by 200 as some claimed, the city would have been Democratic.

Ward Five gave Mayor Bryant, a resident of the ward, 399 plurality, and Ward Six added 130.

Mr. Wilson carried Ward Two by 81, Ward Three by 145 and Ward Four by 171, and won in six precincts out of the eleven.

Councilmen Bass and Meyer are re-elected in Ward One, with C. H. Hardwick a new man between them. Councilman Stewart who ran as a Democrat nearly defeated Mr. Meyer.

The tie vote at the Republican caucus in Ward Two probably defeated one of the Republican candidates, as it divided the Republican vote among four, while there were but three Democratic candidates. Councilmen Whiton and Thompson are re-elected, and the Democrat is ex-Councilman Cleverly.

The Republican candidates for the Council in Ward Three had a walkover although they had five rivals. Councilmen Diack and Piper are re-elected and Julius Johnson is a new man.

It was easy as usual for the Democratic candidates to win in Ward Four, but one of the Socialists was only 80 behind. Councilman Hughes is reelected but his colleagues John J. Reardon and Richard H. Walsh are without experience.

Ward Five returns Councilmen Nickerson and Polk with Mr. Charles A. McFarland as new timber: all Republicans. The Socialist candidates received larger votes than the Democrat in this ward.

Ward Six was the only ward to return a solid delegation, all Republicans, President Alden and Councilmen Langelier and Hadlock.

James H. Churchill was reelected at-large on the School Committee, and Dr. Peirce in Ward Six. Ward Four sends a new member, William J. Foley elected as a Democrat.

The complete vote revised by the official figures is printed on the first page, and is the first correct report.

Book-keepers, stenographers, and typewriters, whose occupation requires physical endurance, besides quick intelligence and mental effort, will find bread made of the best for them. It feeds both body and brain.

The totals for candidates at large are given.

The total vote of the city was 4,265 against 4,124 at the recent State election and 4,095 at the last City election. The vote by precincts at the three elections and the number of registered voters is compared below, Tuesday's vote being in the last column:

	Voters on lists 1902.	State vote 1902.	City vote 1901.	City vote 1902.
Ward One, P. One,	431	364	344	373
Ward One, P. Two,	500	398	426	426
Ward Two, P. One,	279	230	207	250
Ward Two, P. Two,	398	319	322	345
Ward Three, P. One,	512	428	422	443
Ward Three, P. Two,	427	368	380	375
Ward Four, P. One,	470	396	385	406
Ward Four, P. Two,	464	441	411	456
Ward Five,	810	662	679	651
Ward Six, Prec. One,	341	272	519	291
Ward Six, Prec. Two,	293	246		249
	4,925	4,124	4095	4265

At Wollaston.

The handsome vote received by Mayor Bryant in Ward Five, is a compliment to his personal popularity and an endorsement of his administration by his neighbors. A few disgruntled Republicans voted for the Democratic candidate, but not as many as was rumored. The total vote, 652 was far short of what it should have been with a registration of 810, but very little interest was shown by the voters. In fact the majority expected Mr. Bryant to poll even more votes than he did.

The No-License vote though large as usual was not what it should have been. There were 40 blanks as against 24 last year showing that many do not regard this question as important.

Election Returns.

The returns from the several voting precincts came in promptly election night, and at 7.20 the last official returns had arrived. The result was known, however, long before that from unofficial returns received by telephone. These gave Mayor Bryant a plurality of 202 but later returns brought these figures up to 232.

The usual election night crowd gathered in the corridor about City Hall, and they got their returns from the City Clerk's room where they were received.

Mayor Bryant arrived at City Hall early in the evening, and modestly received the congratulations extended to him by both his friends and political opponents.

The crowd did not remain long after the final returns were received and at 9 o'clock only a few were left.

Outside the boom of cannon and the burning of red fire told that some were celebrating Mayor Bryant's retension in office for another year.

The first unofficial returns were received from Ward One which showed that Mayor Bryant had carried the ward by 40. Then one precinct of Ward Three came in. Following close upon this was a telephone report from Wollaston to the effect that Mayor Bryant's own ward had given him a plurality of 399. Then came the first cheer of the evening, as the result was certain.

The first official returns came from Precinct one at 5 o'clock. These were followed by Precinct two of Ward Three at 5.15, and Precinct two of Ward One and Precinct One of Ward Four at 5.30. The other wards came at intervals of a few minutes until 7.30 when Ward Five the last ward came in.

The following official returns were received at the following hours:

	H. M.
Ward One, Precinct One,	5.00
Ward One, Precinct Two,	5.30
Ward Two, Precinct One,	6.40
Ward Two, Precinct Two,	6.55
Ward Three, Precinct One,	5.55
Ward Three, Precinct Two,	5.15
Ward Four, Precinct One,	5.30
Ward Four, Precinct Two,	6 30
Ward Five,	7.20
Ward Six, Precinct One,	5.50
Ward Six, Precinct Two,	5.42

Ledger Extras.

In some of ths election extras of the Daily Ledger last night the votes for Messrs. Bryant and Wilson became twisted in Wards Two, Three, Four and Six, the Bryant vote in Precinct 2 in each case being transposed with the Wilson vote in Precinct 1. Several editions were issued, in all over 3000 copies which were sold by an army of newsboys. The first edition went to press at 5.10.

Quincy Assembly.

Friday evening of this week will occur the first of Quincy Assemblies, the social event of the season which many people young and old are anticipating with so much pleasure.

Not only will it bring together those who enjoy dancing and social converse, but many who do not ordinarily care for dancing and evening parties, have generously taken tickets to assist the work of the Quincy Home Science Association, which, as in former years, will be the recipient of any money remaining after expenses are paid.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

BY Virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Francis A. Frigiuglietti to Albe C. Clark and John Robertson, Trustees under the will of Joseph W. Robertson, deceased, dated the 24th of July, 1901, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, book 902, page 513, for breach of the conditions in said mortgage deed contained, and for the purpose of foreclosing said mortgage, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, on THURSDAY, the 18th day of December, A. D. 1902, at three o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage deed, namely:

A certain lot of land with the buildings thereon, situated in said Quincy, and bounded and described as follows, viz: Beginning on School Street at a stake about one hundred and sixty feet from the southeasterly corner of the land now or late of Benjamin Curtis, thence running northeasterly bounding southeasterly on land now or late of said Curtis to a large elm tree on the bank of the brook; and continuing in the same course to the centre of the brook; thence running westerly, following the centre of the brook, to School street; thence on School street to the point of beginning. Containing 8,000 square feet more or less; excepting however from the above described premises the triangular parcel of land measuring sixty feet on said School street, sixty feet on the centre of said brook, and forty feet on the remaining land; which triangular parcel was released by deed of said Joseph W. Robertson to the St. John's Catholic Literary and Athletic Association, dated April 5th, A. D. 1890, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, lib. 637, fol. 61, and containing 1200 feet more or less.

Said premises will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes, assessments, and tax sales, if any there be.

Two hundred dollars will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale; other terms at sale.

Collection of Taxes.

Since the letter of A. L. Baker, the Tax Collector of 1901, no one claims that the present official has excelled the record of Mr. Baker. In 1901 the tax levy was $375,123.64, but Mr. Baker collected in taxes more than this, as he made war on the delinquents. His tax collections during the year 1901 were $386,855.02, or $11,731.44 in excess of the levy (besides sewer, sidewalk and street sprinkling assessments), as follows:

Tax of 1894,	$7.28
Tax of 1895,	2.60
Tax of 1896,	368.16
Tax of 1897,	113.96
Tax of 1898,	1657.88
Tax of 1899,	60,805.92
Tax of 1900,	94,884.48
Tax of 1901,	229,015.40
Total.	$386,855.08

Fortunately the rain hung off until today. It was an ideal day for election on Tuesday.

Court of Land Registration.

TO George D. Hayward and Frank Ferdinand of Boston in the County of Suffolk, Anna Hayward, Sarah H. Hayward, Herman F. McIntire, individually and as Trustee, John Swithin, Trustee, and Jonathan Eliphas Hayward of Quincy, J. Parker Hayward, Charles A. Hayward, Susan P. Wainwright and Joseph Crane of Weymouth, and Lemuel A. Hayward of Braintree, in the County of Norfolk and said Commonwealth, and Francis I. Amory, Leverett S. Tuckerman and Francis B. Sears, Trustees under the will of Jeanne P. Amory, late of said Braintree, deceased, and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by the American Tube Works, a corporation duly established and existing under the Laws of said Commonwealth, and located at said Boston, to register and confirm its title in the following-described land: A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situate in said Braintree and bounded: Southerly, easterly and southerly again by land of Susan Perkins Wainwright; westerly by Quincy avenue; northerly by land of Joseph Crane; westerly again by land of said Crane and land of Herman F. McIntire; northwesterly by land of said McIntire; southwesterly by land of said McIntire for a distance of 10.1 feet; northwesterly again by the southeasterly end of a private way for 40.25 feet; southerly by said private way and a private way known as Hayward avenue; westerly, southwesterly and southeasterly by land of John Swithin and Herman F. McIntire, Trustees of Fore River Real Estate Trust; southwesterly by land of heirs of Daniel Hayward, northwesterly by Hayward's Creek; easterly again by land of Frank Ferdinand; northerly by land of said Ferdinand; northeasterly again by Hayward's Creek; southeasterly by land of Jonathan Eliphas Hayward; northeasterly, northwesterly and northeasterly again by land of said Hayward; northwesterly, northerly and northeasterly by Hayward's Creek, and northeasterly and easterly by Weymouth Fore River. Together with the beach, shore and flats adjacent or appurtenant to the above described parcel of land, also a right of way over said private way and over a private way known as Hayward avenue to Quincy avenue.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Court of Land Registration, to be held at Boston, in said County of Suffolk, on the twenty-ninth day of December A. D. 1902, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, LEONARD A. JONES, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of December, in the year nineteen hundred and two.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Rain again.

Inauguration, Monday Jan. 5.

Mr. G. W. Jackson of Elm avenue has returned from his trip to Nova Scotia.

The illumination from the large fire in Boston Tuesday evening was visible from Quincy.

Mrs. J. J. Hirtle of Beach street has been visiting relatives in Weston for the past week.

Mr. John Thomas of Wollaston is building a house for his own occupancy on Standish avenue.

Mrs. Lemuel Pitts of Highland avenue has gone to Denver, Col., to visit her son, Ralph Pitts.

There were one or two miner scraps in City Square Tuesday evening owing to the excessive use of liquor.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Wollaston Congregation church, met at the parsonage this afternoon at 2.30.

George L. Gill Rebekah Lodge will nominate officers for the ensuing year at its regular meeting on Thursday evening.

The Registrars of voters will meet Thursday to hold a recount of the votes for Councilmen from Ward One, and perhaps on other petitions.

On Thursday evening the monthly sociable will be held in the Baptist church, Wollaston. A musical and literary program has been prepared.

The first games in the bowling, pool, billiard and whist tournament of the Norfolk County league will be held at the Granite City club Thursday evening.

The candidates for the position of custodian of county buildings were before the County Commissioners on Tuesday. No definite action was taken however.

The friends of Mrs. William Washburn will be pleased to learn that she has returned to her home on Arlington street much improved in health after an absence of two months.

Mrs. George H. Wilson, of Revere road, picked a large rosebud from a bush in her garden on Tuesday. Several bushes were in bud and blossom before the cold spell.

Frank Wild, of the granite firm of Field & Wild, had the misfortune to have his leg broken last Friday afternoon by a heavy block of granite falling upon it.

A large casting of 38,000 pounds for the Fore River Company was teamed to the works Tuesday, requiring eleven horses. It halted in front of the Stone church during Monday night.

Mayor Bryant left City Hall Tuesday night before nine o'clock and went directly to the rooms of the Merrymount club where he bowled a few strings, as a bit of recreation after the excitement of election.

A horse attached to a wagon loaded with beer ran away on Hancock street near Beale street election day. The team was capsized and smashed and some of the beer was lost. The horse ran toward Quincy but was soon captured.

Inquiries as to the price of coal are numerous in Wollaston. Shepard's agent was instructed this morning not to take any orders for two weeks. The people hardly realize that there is very little hard coal to be had even at $10 per ton.

Andrew Stewart, who was defeated for Councilman from Ward One by Andrew A. Meyer by three votes, has petitioned for a recount. It is also probable that there will be a recount for Councilman from Ward Two as Eugene R. Stone was only defeated by James F. Cleverly by four votes.

Much unfavorable comment was heard at the action of three members of the Republican Ward Committee from Ward One for 1903 in openly working at the polls on Tuesday for the Democratic candidate. Equally open to criticism was the active part taken by the Tax Collector and other city officials.

Mr. Frank Wild, of the firm of Field & Wild, had the misfortune to break his leg last week Friday. He was down in the quarry superintending the men when a large stone slipped, throwing him and causing a bad break. He was conveyed to his home on Granite street in the ambulance, and is now resting comfortably under the care of Dr. Gordon.

Rich Experience.

Dr. Todd, should he accept of the office to which he has been elected, will bring to it a rich experience in executive missionary works which is most valuable. He was for two years a synodical missionary in Wisconsin; five and a half years chairman of home missions in the largest missionary Presbytery in the State of Michigan and was serving a second term as chairman of Synodical home missions in Michigan when he accepted the call to Quincy where his work has been crowned with success. He served an apprenticeship of seven and a half years as a pioneer missionary on the western frontier.

Should Dr. Todd accept, he will not necessarily leave Quincy or resign his pastorate, but may resign when his duties increase.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

TODAY'S COURT.

Henry Carlson was fined $3 for disturbing the peace at Quincy.

Daniel J. Sexton was fined $5 for drunkenness at Milton.

Clarence Faulkner was arraigned for admitting minors to his pool room at Quincy. Case continued one month.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.
E. J. MURPHY,
L. G. MURRAY,
S. F. COPELAND,
G. A. LORING, Wollaston.

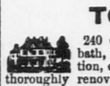

J. F. Sheppard & Sons are overrun with orders for coal and it is impossible to fill orders fast enough. Orders are filled in their turn but if an order was filed today it will probably be over a week before it is reached.

—The Austrian emperor's crown was recently photographed in order to correct imperfect representations of it on coins and official documents. The crown is regarded as one of the finest works of European goldsmiths. The material alone is worth $500,000.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by all druggists.

TO LET.

240 Goffe street, House 8 rooms, bath, furnace, gas, sewer connection, etc. Premises have just been thoroughly renovated, and are very desirable. Small family for permanent occupancy desired.

VOTERS OUT IN FORCE

SOCIALISTS MAKE GAINS

Fitchburg Goes Back to No-License Column—License Vote Shows an Increase, While Cities That Remain "Dry" Have Decreased Majorities

Boston, Dec. 3.—Two features stood out prominently in the results of the municipal elections in 15 of the 33 Massachusetts cities yesterday, and they are the tremendous vote polled and the strength of the Socialist party.

The Republicans were invariably successful with their mayoralty candidates except in Brockton. Here the Socialists regained the city which they lost to the Republicans last year, but the party went down to defeat in another stronghold, Haverhill, by the margin of 14 votes.

As usual, there was much interest in the outcome of the license question, upon which each city votes yearly. Fitchburg was the only one to waver, changing back to no license after a year of liquor selling. In the other cities the general tendency seemed to be in favor of license, those favoring it doing so by increased majorities, while the no license votes in "dry" cities were all reduced.

The 13 cities rolled up a total vote of 73,746. Of this total, the Socialists polled 10,500 votes, or over 14 percent of the total, which shows a good increase over the 9 percent which they polled in the state election. The Republicans polled a vote of 28,930 and the Democrats 20,549, while there were 13,789 cast for independent candidates.

In New Bedford Mayor Ashley was elected for the ninth time and the party which takes his name in local politics won all along the line. There was a large majority vote for license.

James E. Tolman was elected mayor of Gloucester, receiving 1499 votes, Mayor French, the regular Republican nominee, who aspired to a seventh term, receiving 1242 votes. For the first time in many years the Democrats placed a full city ticket in the field, but only one of that party was elected. The city voted for license by 508 majority.

Everett E. Stone (Rep.) was elected mayor of Springfield and with him a Republican board of aldermen and all of the common council except four members. The city voted in favor of license by a majority of 2447.

Henry R. Watson (Rep.) was elected mayor of Haverhill by the small plurality of 14. The entire board of seven aldermen is Republican, as are 10 of the 14 councilmen. The city remains in the license column by 853 majority.

Alexander L. Grant (Rep.) was elected mayor of Lawrence over James F. Leonard, the present incumbent, and candidate for a fourth term. The joint ballot will be a tie, each party having 12 members. The city went for license by 2432.

The Socialists won at Brockton, former Mayor Charles H. Coulter turning the tables upon Mayor David W. Battles (Rep.) by 1100 votes. The city continues in the no license column by 1011. The city government will stand 12 Republicans, 11 Socialists and 5 Democrats.

Murray D. Clement was re-elected mayor of Waltham and the city again voted no license by a majority of 692. The board of aldermen will stand 16 Republicans and five Democrats.

Northampton re-elected Henry C. Hallett (Rep.) as mayor for a second term. The city voted for license again by 1408 yes to 1070 no. Five Democrats and two Republican aldermen were elected. In the common council the Democrats elected 11 and the Republicans 10.

Mayor Walter B. Morse (Rep.) was re-elected mayor of Marlboro. The city government will be strongly Republican. The city voted for license by its usual large plurality, the vote being 1605 yes and 945 no.

Mayor Richard E. Warner (Rep.) was re-elected at Taunton. The city went for license by the largest majority in his history, the figures being 3018 yes, 1812 no. The referendum favoring giving members of the police and fire departments life tenure was defeated. The city council will be strongly Republican.

The result of the Pittsfield election was a surprise, for although the Republicans elected Harry D. Sisson for mayor, the Democrats secured control of both branches of the city government, which will enable them to break the three years' deadlock over municipal offices and continue the present encumbents in office. The city remained in the license ranks by an increased majority over last year.

Fitchburg elected the independent citizens' candidate for mayor, Charles H. Blood. The citizens' temperance party elected four of the six aldermen and also elected many of their candidates who received the endorsement of the independent citizens' party to the common council. The vote was against license by a majority of 126. Last year the vote was for license.

The Spanish cabinet has suffered a defeat in the chamber of deputies by the adoption, by 96 votes to 86, of a motion of censure on the minister of marine for authorizing the contract for the construction of two new training ships without previously obtaining the consent of the cortes.

AFTER EQUINOX

The season has changed. Cold winds, damp air, coughs, colds, grippe, pneumonia—that's the order of events.

This is the time of year for those with weak lungs or a tendency to heavy colds to fortify themselves against exposure by taking Scott's Emulsion.

Regular doses give great protection to the throat and lungs. What's the use of staying near the edge when such easy treatment will keep you out of danger.

For obstinate colds, for old coughs, for catarrh and bronchitis Scott's Emulsion is a standard remedy. You can feel the effects of even a small bottle.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

NO TIME BEING LOST

In Endeavor to Eradicate Foot and Mouth Disease In New England

Boston, Dec. 3.—Matters are rapidly shaping themselves for vigorous handling of the foot and mouth disease in this state. Yesterday the situation was canvassed comprehensively, and brought from Dr. Peters, the chief of the state bureau, a statement that there are 700 cases of the disease among 25 towns.

The arrival of Dr. Salmon, chief of the United States bureau of animal industry, brought arrangements for establishing close quarantine to a head, as he sanctioned what had been done and gave various orders which will quickly bring all New England under observation of staff officers of the bureau of agriculture. His first conference was with his own men. Later a statement was issued in the form of interrogatories and answers. By this it is seen that Dr. Salmon believes the situation is very disquieting, that it is impossible to tell when the disease will be eradicated, that no cases are known outside of New England, that cattle exposed to infection will not be immediately slaughtered, and that the government will give reasonable compensation to cattle owners whose animals are slaughtered under direction of the federal government.

Anxiety here has now turned to the milk supply in the knowledge that much of the infection is in herds of cows which have been contributing to the supply sent to Boston.

SUDDENLY STRICKEN

Ex-Speaker Reed Suffering From Severe Attack of Stomach Trouble

Washington, Dec. 2.—Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed had a sudden and quite severe attack of gastritis last evening. He was prostrated for a time, but Dr. Gardner, who was called in, succeeded in relieving his patient. The sudden illness of the ex-speaker caused considerable alarm to his friends, but at a late hour Mr. Reed was getting on better than had been feared earlier in the evening.

At 10:45 o'clock Dr. Gardner made the following statement: "Mr. Reed had an attack of acute gastritis this evening about 6 o'clock and is resting very quietly now."

The doctor said that he would not call to see his patient again during the night unless summoned, and that he did not expect this to happen, as Mr. Reed was improving.

British Opinion of Message

London, Dec. 3.—Some of the London morning papers regard President Roosevelt's message as disappointing inasmuch as, according to their view, he adopts a cautious and conservative policy rather than a revolutionary one in dealing with the trust question and the tariff. On the whole, however, there is not a strong disposition on the part of the press to strongly criticise the message.

Captain Stevens Not at Fault

San Juan, P. R., Dec. 3.—The charge against Captain John A. Stevens of the American schooner John I. Snow, of fatally shooting a pilot named Frank Stoddart last Saturday, has been dismissed. Captain Stevens' defense was that the shooting was accidental.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

THE BLONDIN TRIAL

Jury Goes Sight Seeing and Afterward Listens to Evidence

Boston, Dec. 3.—Introduction of evidence in the Blondin murder case was begun yesterday afternoon on the return of the jury from a trip to Chelmsford, where Mrs. Blondin's body was found, and to the Green street house in this city, in which the Blondins lived in April, 1901, and from which the government claims Mrs. Blondin's mutilated body was carried away in a trunk. The trial is now beyond the preliminary stage, for the jury has been made familiar with the locality of the crime and has heard a witness tell of finding the body.

The chief incident in the court room, from which the general public was excluded yesterday, was the report that Blondin's wife, the one he married in Canada, and by whom there are children, was within reach and would appear as a witness. The attorneys in the case were non-committal.

Blondin exhibited great interest in the trial yesterday, and although he did not take copious notes as on Monday, he constantly consulted his lawyers, especially during the cross-examination of the first witness. He did not take advantage of the opportunity to go with the jury on its trip, although the court had instructed the officers to take him if he desired to go.

Food Speculators Outwitted

Manila, Dec. 3.—The price of rice has been broken and the native operators have insured the supply of this foodstuff at reasonable rates. The Philippine commission, when a rice famine was threatened, secretly purchased upward of 20,000 tons of rice in order to prevent possible combinations on the part of the operators with the view of raising prices. Its action broke the prices.

HEARINGS ARE RESUMED

Miners Give Further Testimony Before Commission

"SOMETHING IN THE AIR"

Construed to Mean That a Settlement May Be Reached "Out of Court"—Proceedings May Otherwise Drag Along Into the New Year

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 4.—The anthracite coal companies and their employes having failed to come to an agreement during the Thanksgiving recess of the strike commission, the hearing of the miners' side of the case was continued yesterday, and unless something is done by the lawyers on both sides to curtail matters its proceedings will surely run into next year.

With the reassembling of the commission yesterday, however, there was a revival of the talk of a settlement "out of court." Nothing definite has been done and neither side has approached the other, so far as can be learned, regarding further negotiations, but as one prominent attorney expressed it, there is something in the air. The lawyers on both sides have heard the rumor, and profess they know nothing about it, "but would not be surprised if something in the way of an agreement is reached before the hearings are concluded."

Chairman Gray, speaking for the commission, again expressed the hope that efforts would be made by both sides to agree on as many points as possible and said the commission was ready to lend any conciliatory help to bring about that end.

Six witnesses were on the stand during the two sessions yesterday. They were President Mitchell, two photographers, two practical miners, one of them a Hungarian, and the wife of a German miner. Mr. Mitchell was on the stand for a short time only and was called to show that a 20 percent increase in wages did not mean a corresponding increase in the price per ton of coal. The photographers produced about 50 photographs they had taken of the homes of mine workers in the Hazleton region, which territory was under investigation yesterday. The two miners testified with reference to wages paid and working conditions at the collieries of Coxe Bros. & Co., an independent concern in the Hazleton region, and the woman, whose husband is employed in the Coxe mines, told a general story of poverty.

The commissioners at times seemingly were impatient at the way the proceedings dragged. While they had a half dozen witnesses before them, they did not learn much more than they already know. On their trip through the coal fields they saw houses whose general appearance was worse than those pictured yesterday, and they also received much information along the lines presented yesterday from the men in the mines which they visited. They are anxious for the documentary evidence, such as wage statements and other data bearing on wages and conditions. This was strongly evidenced when they eagerly seized upon the duebills handed up by the Hungarian witness. Every member of the commission examined these and had questions to ask about them.

One of the commissioners said it was principally a question of wages, and they wanted these facts as quickly as they could get them. In this connection there was considerable discussion between attorneys for both sides and the commission regarding the documentary evidence. Both parties to the controversy had agreed to try to agree as far as possible on a summary of the great mass of figures that the hundreds of accountants for the different companies are computing, but the task is such a stupendous one, taking in as it does, about 145,000 men and boys, that neither side is yet ready to go into that feature of the investigation.

Survivor Goes to Prison

Elyria, O., Dec. 4.—Thomas Gallagher, one of the four robbers who attempted to enter the house of the Meach brothers on the night of Oct. 14, was found guilty yesterday. The jury recommended the prisoner to mercy and he will get from 10 to 30 years in prison. Gallagher's three companions were killed by Jarvis Meach on the night of the attempted robbery.

THE BLONDIN MURDER

Jackknife Introduced as Article With Which Victim Was Decapitated

Boston, Dec. 4:—An ordinary jackknife was offered in evidence by Attorney General Parker in course of the Blondin murder trial yesterday and the questions put in direct examination to Assisstant Medical Examiner Meigs of Lowell, when this article was exhibited, leads to the belief that the prosecution will claim that the defendant decapitated his wife Margaret with it.

Attorney Morrison for Blondin protested vigorously against the admission of the knife as an exhibit, but he was overruled by Judge Braley. The knife is now one of the murderous exhibits in sight of the jury. This was the chief incident of the day, and the government followed it up with testimony from Mr. Meigs that such an article might have been used in cutting off the head of Mrs. Blondin. Dr. Meigs further testified that in his opinion the woman died of asphyxiation, and that decapitation was made at a considerable interval after death.

Up to this time the government had not intimated that it would produce in court a weapon other than the axe found in the brook at the time Mrs. Blondin's head was recovered. More stress was laid upon the finding of the axe by the defence than by the government. Most of the evidence yesterday went into grewsome details of the discovery of Mrs. Blondin's body and it was not until near the close that the government began to outlines its case, with Attorney General Parker taking active part.

Judge Ordered Nicolaus' Acquittal

St. Louis, Dec. 4.—Henry Nicolaus, the millionaire brewer and director in the Suburban Street Railway company, who was on trial on the charge of bribery in connection with the passage of the suburban bill in the city council, was acquitted last night, Judge Ryan having ordered a verdict of acquittal. The defense claimed that the state had failed to show knowledge or intent. Circuit Attorney Folk contended that Nicolaus would not have signed notes for $125,000 without knowing to what use the money thus obtained was to be put.

Considering Anti-Trust Bills

Washington, Dec. 4.—The sub-committee of the house judiciary committee to which was referred the anti-trust bills met yesterday and devoted several hours to the consideration of these measures. Considerable attention was devoted to consideration of the bill which requires all corporations engaged in interstate commerce to file returns disclosing their true financial condition and of their capital stock with government authorities. It also imposes a tax upon such as have outstanding capital unpaid in whole or in part. The committee hopes to be able to make a report to the house before the holiday recess.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Senator Morgan yesterday presented a bill to the senate authorizing the Spanish claims commission to take cognizance of claims growing out of injuries caused by the destruction of the battleship Maine in the harbor of Havana.

Heavy Loss of Life and Property

San Francisco, Dec. 4.—While the steamer Progreso was lying at the wharf of the Fulton iron works yesterday an explosion of oil tanks occurred. As a result 12 men are missing, a score were injured and property valued at $200,000 was destroyed. The disaster occurred while 40 mechanics of the iron works and 20 employes of the ship were on board.

WILL BE AS ONE STATE

Senate Bill to Admit Oklahoma and Indian Territory

NEW MEXICO AND ARIZONA

Not Referred to by Committee on Territories—House Passes Bill Appropriating $50,000 to Defray Expenses of Coal Strike Commission

Washington, Dec. 3.—The senate committee on territories yesterday agreed to report a substitute for the house omnibue statehood bill. The substitute provides for the admission of one new state to comprise the territory now included in Oklahoma and Indian Territory, the new state to take the name of Oklahoma. The bill as reported makes no reference whatever to New Mexico or Arizona.

The decision of the full committee is in accord with the conclusion reached by the Republican members, with the exception of Senator Quay, who voted with the Democrats. The vote was 6 to 5.

The status of the Indians residing in the two territories is defined in a proviso in the first section of the bill. This section authorizes the inhabitants of the two territories to adopt a state constitution and then says:

"Nothing contained in the said constitution shall be construed to limit or impair the rights of person or property pertaining to the Indians of said territories so long as such rights shall remain unextinguished, or to limit or to affect the authority of the government of the United States to make any law or regulation respecting such Indians, their lands, property, or other rights which it would have been competent to make if this act had never passed."

As usual in the admission of states all male citizens are authorized to vote for delegates to the constitutional convention and there is a provision added extending this privilege to Indians who are members of any of the tribes located in Indian Territory. These Indians are also made eligible to become delegates to the convention. The total number of such delegates is limited to 120, 60 each from Oklahoma and Indian Territory. The federal judges in Indian Territory are made to constitute the final canvassing boards for the vote in that territory. The statehood convention is to be held at the seat of government in Oklahoma Territory.

The constitution adopted is to be submitted to the qualified voters of the proposed state for ratification or rejection as usual in such cases. In case of acceptance, a proclamation of the president will be the final act necessary to admit to complete statehood.

The new state is to be allowed four representatives in congress until the next census, two United States senators and a full quota of state officers. Liberal provision is made for the public school system of the state.

The house yesterday passed the bill to appropriate $50,000 to defray the expenses of the anthracite coal strike commission and then adjourned until Friday, when the London dock charge bill will be considered. There were two hours of discussion on the commission bill, during which the president's course in creating the commission was highly commended except by Mr. Benton, a Missouri Democrat, who contended that the commission was created without authority of law or constitution. There was some criticism of the feature of the bill allowing double salaries to members of the commission now in government employ and also because the bill left the amount of the compensation of the members to the president. But all amendments were voted down. The bill was passed without division.

Representative Smith of Michigan presented a resolution in the house calling upon the secretary of state for information relative to the shooting of William Fitzgerald by Godfrey Hunter, Jr., son of Minister Hunter at Guatemala City, Guatemala.

JOHN O. HALL, JR., Treasurer.

A Similar Experience.

The wreck on the Boston & Albany Railroad at Longwood on Tuesday night, whereby Engineer Jones was caught beneath his engine and his life crushed out, and others were injured, vividly recalls to Capt. Benjamin King of Wollaston a similar accident which happened to him near the same spot Sept. 12, 1848. He was then sixteen years of age and fireman. The engine jumped the track and Engineer Silas E. Ellis was crushed. King was buried beneath the boiler and almost roasted but was rescued nearly dead, with a broken shoulder and other injuries which laid him up for nearly a year.

Capt. King was well acquainted with Engineer Jones who was killed this week, and speaks highly of him. He also recalls a similar fatal accident which befell Engineer James McCoy in 1849.

Mr. King who was struck in the head with a stone on the day of the State election is slowly recovering. He is able to take a daily walk, but his head is bound up and he says it feels sore. He appreciates very much the sympathetic letter of Mayor Bryant, and the constant attention of members of John Hancock lodge of Odd Fellows and friends.

Quincy Point Vote.

The vote of Ward Two for Mayor was Bryant 246 and Wilson 321, a plurality of 75 for Wilson. The vote by Precinct was: Bryant,—Precinct one, 94; Precinct two, 152. Wilson,—Precinct one, 147; Precinct two, 174.

FOOT BALL SEASON

Review of Work of the Wollaston Eleven.

Won 7 and Lost only 1 Game.

Comments on Individual Work of Members of Team.

The foot ball season is over and it is unfortunate that it should end with two disappointments for the Wollaston team after so good a showing as was made in the first eight games.

Wollaston opened the season Oct. 4, with the Hingham game. Hingham had a lighter team but put up a plucky fight. Wollaston won 28 to 0. and showed signs of developing a good eleven.

Porter A. A. was defeated 12 to 0 on Oct. 11. In this game Wollaston was weakened by the absence of several players.

Hyde Park A. A., on October 18, was the heaviest team played this year. Her linemen outweighed Wollaston 20 pounds per man, but the snap and spirit with which Wollaston charged counterbalanced the weight, and Wollaston won 6 to 0.

Boston Y. M. C. A. played Wollaston to a standstill on October 25. Both teams were about of the same weight and so evenly matched that neither had difficulty in advancing the ball in the first half. Each team succeeded in scoring six points by straight playing, and Y. M. C. A. scored six more on the Carlisle trick of shifting one entire side of the line over to strengthen the other side, and then going around that end with every man in the interference. This play proved good for sixty yards, and a touchdown. This was the only long run made against Wollaston throughout the season. In the second half the same play was tried again, but lost ten yards. Wollaston scored another goal, tying the score 12 to 12. It was hoped that this game might be played off at a later date, but Y. M. C. A. had a full schedule and could not give us a game.

Tufts, '05, on November 10 proved light and soft. Some one of their men was injured on nearly every rush. The game was so delayed as to be very unsatisfactory. After ten minutes of playing they were so used up that time was called for the first half. In the last rush of this half, four of their men were injured two of them being obliged to leave the field. The second half was also cut to ten minutes and the game ended with the score 12 to 0.

In the Linwood game on Nov. 8, Wollaston first began to show signs of life. Linwood had a good team and played good foot-ball between the wrangles. The teams were evenly balanced, and the game was interesting in spite of the delays caused by their kicking. Wollaston out-played them and won 12 to 0.

Carrolton came next with a reputation for slugging and dirty playing. They held Ayer down to 12 points played a strong tie game at Framingham and defeated both Hyde Park and Dorchester. They played a good defensive game, but were unable to advance the ball. In spite of their reputation they were the cleanest set of players to visit Wollaston this year. They scored a goal from the field from the thirty yd. line. This was the only attempt at goal from the field tried against Wollaston. Carrolton was the only team that came so confident of winning that they talked about the size of the score. Wollaston won 35 to 5.

The game with Ayer A. A. was the talk of the season among those interested in the team. It was played at Ayer Junction, Nov. 22, about forty supporters accompanying the team. Wollaston took the ball, on her fifteen yd. line, from the kickoff and carried it steadily to Ayers 20 yd. line where they lost it by the referee. Then Ayer scored by blocking two punts and receiving the ball on a fumble. In the second half Wollaston repeatedly endangered Ayer's goal line only to lose the ball by the decisions of the umpire. With two minutes to play Taylor got a clear field on a double pass only to be brought down by an un-uniformed substitute, from the side line. Wollaston out-played Ayer at every feature of the game and gained more yards in the first three minutes of play than Ayer gained in the whole game. Score, Ayer, 5; Wollaston, 0.

Ayer has the reputation of not being scored against, a hollow reputation when one comes to know their methods of winning which is by hook or by crook. Like Dorchester they are unable to lose on their own field. This was Wollastons first and only defeat and to those who saw the game it proved a difficult pill to swallow. However, I don't think Manager Hooley or the town of Ayer will soon forget the visit they received from Wollaston.

The game for Thanksgiving day was arranged with Boylston A. A. who failed to appear. A team was picked up on the field which gave a very interesting exhibition and brought a lot of good material to view for next year's team. They scored a safety on a poor pass for punt and a touchdown on a forty yd. run by Atkins. Score 29 to 7.

This was the last game of the season, although one more attempt after no less than six previous ones had been made—to arrange a game with Dorchester. Each time they had an excuse. They were clearly out for money. Their expenses in coming to Wollaston could not exceed three dollars, but they laughed at fifteen. We offered them twenty to come Thanksgiving. They refused but later expressed their willingness to come. In their next letter they claimed to have a game with North Shore. As the game between North Shore and B. Y. M. C. A. had at that time been widely advertised we came to the conclusion that Dorchester was not over anxious to play Wollaston. But so many requests were received Thanksgiving day, one more attempt was made to get them out here. A game was arranged for Nov. 29, Wollaston agreeing to everything they asked. They had no excuse, so agreed to come.

On Nov. 28 Dorchester telephoned that they could not come out because six of their players were injured Thanksgiving day. It is doubtful if Dorchester ever had any idea of coming here to play, although they offered Wollaston a guarantee of five dollars to come to Dorchester.

THE TEAM.

The Wollaston eleven was made up of good individual players and considerable team work was developed toward the end of the season.

Both Fergerson and Otis played snappy ball at the ends, while Ferguson showed his ability to play a strong game at either guard or tackle.

Baker, although unable to play regularly, helped out the ends in good shape. His tackling under punts as well as his quickness in discerning trick plays spoiled many gains for the visitors.

Ripley, Welch and Gearwar played the tackles and all three made good. Ripley and Welch had weight in their favor and proved difficult men to handle both on the offence and defence. Many good gains were due to the highways which Ripley and Welch opened up in the line. Gearwar was light but outplayed his opponent in every game. His snap and grit made up for what he lacked in weight.

Kemp played a strong game at guard being impregnable on the defence. He was good for from three to five yds. every time he carried the ball.

Tabb at left-guard handled his man everytime. The features of his playing were tackles in the open field and his ability to get into the interference after besting his opponent.

Linnell played a star game at center. On offence he put the ball in play without a hitch, and on defence with Tabb and Kemp made the center resemble a stone wall.

Ago received a sprained ankle in the Hingham game and was unable to get out again till the end of the season. But for his unfortunate injury, he would have been a great help in the line. He played in the Thanksgiving Day game and showed up strongly.

Miller at left-half proved a great favorite with the supporters of the team. His brilliant tackling and running in kickoffs and puts was particularly strong. He carried the ball hard and fast.

Scharnagel at right-half was a fine ground gainer and proved good for his distance whenever asked to carry the ball. His thirty and forty yd. runs around the end were numerous.

Fowler was a tower of strength in backing up the line, and many times hurled line plays back after apparent gains. He carried the ball well. He received injuries at Ayer which put him out of the game for the rest of the season. If Dorchester had appeared Saturday, Fowler would have been greatly missed behind the line.

Capt. Taylor played an all-round good game, ran the team in fine shape and showed excellent judgment at quarter. On the defence he held the team together, and his encouragement made every man get in and dig. The whole team was in perfect harmony with him and worked like a machine, with Taylor at the lever. His individual playing was one of the greatest features of the game. Running in punts and his faculty of being on the stop at the moment Wollaston's punts were received, his hurdling and frequent long runs of 60, 70 and 80 yds for touchdowns, made his playing always interesting. He proved a very efficient captain, quarterback and all-round man. The success of the team is largely due to his interest both on the field and in the management.

Saunders although unable to play every game, showed up in good shape both in and back of the line.

Mr. Osgood managed the team particularly well. He gave up a great deal of his time and worked hard to make the season a success. Many thanks are due him for starting and maintaining the eleven.

G. R. Kent aided materially in the managment and proved an efficient collector on the field. His services were appreciated perhaps more by the managment than by the spectators at the games.

RESUME.

The season has been a success from every stand point, It has been an attraction to hundreds of people. It has drawn from every section of the city and demonstrated that athletic teams can be run successfully in Quincy. If properly supported there is no reason why we can't have a better season nex year than we have had this year. The small surplus left in the treasury will be devoted to a dinner for the players. They have certainly earned it.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

Five Cows and Three Horses Also Lost.

Large Barn on Penn's Hill.

Cause Probably Incendiary and Got a Good Start.

Quincy was visited early this morning by one of the most disastrous fires it has had for a long time. Indications point to an incendiary as the cause, and Chief Engineer Williams believes the fire to have been the work of some such party.

The fire which was discovered shortly before 3 o'clock was in the large barn on the Joseph Adams estate on Penns hill owned by Miss Mabel Adams and occupied by Arthur C. Pettee.

How long the fire was burning before it was discovered it is impossible to say. A locomotive engineer on the New York, New Haven & Hartford was probably the first to discover it, and although he sounded his whistle for nearly ten minutes no one was aroused who took any interest.

In the meantime the fire was burning briskly, and the hope of saving the live stock in the barn was rapidly growing less. Then Mr. Hunt a milkman from Braintree, pulled the door bell of Chief Williams' house, and informed him that there was a big fire on the hill.

The chief rushed out but not a person was in sight. On the hill was a large barn a complete mass of flame. The country round about was as light as day, but not a human being could he see.

He rushed back to his house and notified the Central fire station by telephone, and then ran to Box 32 and sent an alarm from that box. It was then 3 o'clock. While that box was sounded someone on the hill pulled Box 34. This however caused no confusion as the apparatus was on its way.

When the apparatus arrived the flames were coming out from all sides of the building from the roof and even from the cupola. It was a roaring furnace. In the barn were five cows and three horses which had long ceased to suffer.

It was impossible to save the building. It was however surrounded by streams and finally drowned out, but not before it had practically been destroyed.

According to Chief Williams the fire apparently started in the centre of the building.

Aside from the cows and horses there were destroyed about twenty tons of hay, farming implements, and some furniture owned by Miss Adams which was stored in the building.

It is hard to estimate the loss but Chief Williams places it at $6,000. Of this amount $4,000 is on the building which is covered by insurance. The loss on the contents is placed at $2,000, and insured for $1,125.

Although the recall sounded about 6 o'clock this morning, firemen were kept at work all the morning pitching out the hay. A line of hose was also laid from the hydrant on High street. As the hay was thrown out and exposed to the air it would blaze up, but was immediately soaked with water.

To Settle With United States

Mexico City, Dec. 4.—Secretary of the Treasury Limantour has asked congress to authorize the payment of $1,420,682 Mexican currency to the United States, together with $43,050 interest thereon, in accordance with the award of The Hague arbitration in the matter of the pious fund. The expenses incurred in the proceedings, amounting to about $73,000, have already been paid.

Maher Meets Another Defeat

Philadelphia, Dec. 4.—Kid Carter last night knocked out Peter Maher in the second round of what was scheduled to be a six-round bout. Maher floored Carter once and was himself knocked down three times. His last fall was due to a right cross on the jaw, from which he was unable to recover.

Peers Not In Evidence

London, Dec. 4.—The house of commons had the educational bill under debate yesterday and adopted the third reading of the measure by 246 votes to 123. The bill was immediately sent to the house of lords, where, in the presence of only three peers, it was formally read for the first time.

Rebels Adopt New Plan

Port of Spain, Dec. 4.—Agents of the Venezuelan insurgents in Trinidad say that a new plan of campaign has been adopted so that the centre of the republic will in future be the scene of the operations, which, they claim, are certain to result in the entry of General Matos into Caracas.

Government Loses Thousands

Danville, Ky., Dec. 4.—Revenue stamps to the value of $39,000 are missing from the internal revenue office of the Eighth district. This discovery was made by the officials investigating the recent mail pouch robbery. Beside these, stamps, checks, drafts and registered letters aggregating many thousands more are missing.

Vessel Is Buffeted by Gales

St. Johns, Dec. 4.—Steamer Numidian arrived here yesterday from Liverpool, three days overdue. She reports having experienced hurricane weather in the Atlantic. Other arriving vessels bring similar reports and have sustained general damage in the gale which has also swept the northern coast.

Johnstone Cannot Recover

Philadelphia, Dec. 4.—Barry Johnstone, the actor, who murdered Kate Hassett, and then shot himself, is dying. The physicians have given up hope of saving his life, and their efforts have been to render his death as painless as possible.

There's nothing so bad for a cough as coughing!
There's nothing so good for a cough as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral!

A cough means a great deal to a young person, when there is a family history of weak lungs, with perhaps a case of consumption itself. Coughs weaken the tissues, congest the membranes, and prevent healing. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral controls the congestion and inflammation, and the cough disappears. Your doctor will explain, for we give all doctors the formula.

COERCION IS PLANNED

To Obtain Financial Satisfaction From Venezuela

A NAVAL DEMONSTRATION

Decided Upon by England and Germany—Debtor Inclined to Wait Until Attitude of United States Is Ascertained—Declares Ability to Settle

London, Dec. 4.—Great Britain and Germany, according to official statements made here, have commenced punitive measures against Venezuela. German war vessels, it is stated, are already on the scene of the contemplated action, and Great Britain by tomorrow should have a squadron there capable of coping with any resistance that Venezuela might offer.

Meanwhile The Associated Press correspondent is informed that no definite answer has yet been received from Washington by the financiers here who wish to bring about a pacific settlement. An important communication one way or the other is expected from Washington today. If the United States is willing to give its moral support to the request that Venezuela be allowed time to fulfill the suggested bargain the plans thereof will at once be submitted to the British foreign office. If Washington refuses to suggest to the European powers that Venezuela be allowed time it is probable that the financial house now interested will drop the plan altogether. In the latter alternative the Venezuelan delegation here is likely to submit the suggested settlement to the British and German governments with an application for time to admit of their entering into negotiations with other financial interests.

The Venezuelan delegates maintain that their status has been seriously affected by the adoption of the aggressive measures just announced, but they declare that it would be obviously bad policy, in spite of the critical position of their country, to make any suggestion to Europe until the attitude of the United States, both as a joint creditor and a largely interested political power, had been ascertained.

The Associated Press correspondent is in a position to state that Venezuela offers the payment on a unified loan of over $3,000,000, interest yearly, guaranteed by the customs with the establishment of a European bank at Caracas to superintend the collection. The whole plan is on a basis similar to that on which Brazil satisfied its European creditors. If such a method is now followed, the Venezuelan delegation maintains that all claims can eventually be met, whereas it alleges that the temporary seizure of the customs would so disturb the commerce of the country as to practically render it impossible to satisfy the European bondholders, and would bring with it the danger of another revolution.

All these details are still unknown to the powers who have ordered their warships to Venezuela. In spite of the announcement of joint action by Great Britain and Germany, the foreign office exhibits not a little perplexity over the Berlin dispatch of Dec. 1, announcing that President Castro had handed to the German minister at Caracas a written acceptance of part of Germany's claims, sufficiently comprehensive to delay the presentation of a joint ultimatum by Germany and Great Britain, if not rendering it altogether unnecessary, and also stating that it was understood that Great Britain's demands would be satisfied. Not the slightest official information to this effect has reached London.

The Golden State's Big Bill

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 4.—Deputy State Comptroller Douglas has started for Washington to institute proceedings looking to the collection of $4,420,891, due the state of California by the United States government for Civil war claims.

DISEASE HAS FIRM HOLD

More Than Three Thousand Cattle In New England Suffer

Boston, Dec. 4.—Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, who is in New England directing the work of stamping out the foot and mouth epidemic, reports that the situation is very serious and that there are about 3000 cattle in herds known to be affected. New cases are constantly being found. Extensive outbreaks of the disease have occurred in Vermont, but Dr. Salmon believes the situation can be handled by slaughtering and disinfecting there.

Shipments of cattle may be made to Great Britain from Portland, Me., while the foot and mouth disease is being fought in New England. A cable from England states that the British government will allow cattle loaded at Portland to be landed in Great Britain if they can be got on board ship without passing throught an affected district.

Honored by His Associates

Boston, Dec. 4.—There was a notable gathering of Massachusetts judges and attorneys here last night, when the Bar association of the County of Middlesex gave a dinner in honor of Chief Justice Holmes of the supreme court of Massachusetts, who has been recently appointed as a member of the supreme court of the United States. The speakers all paid high tribute to the guest of the occasion, who responded briefly but feelingly. He said that he had feelings of sadness in thinking of what was to come. The future was a great venture into the unknown, for he was to have a chance to take a share in the development of the whole country. In such a case, the forces of one's soul rally, and one will not falter.

Gompers Defends Organized Labor

Boston, Dec. 4.—In a lecture given by Samuel Gompers under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club here last night, he dwelt at length on the reported criticisms by President Eliot of Harvard of the labor unions and particularly on his statement that "the modern strike-breaker is a good type of an American hero." Regarding this Mr. Gompers said that if President Eliot is right, then Benedict Arnold was a patriot and Judas Iscariot a saint. Organized labor makes sacrifices, assumes burdens, and its members are sometimes social outcasts, are victims of the black-list and have to suffer hunger and privations simply to secure better conditions for themselves and those who come after.

Miss Broad's Murderer Unknown

Cornish, Me., Dec. 4.—A coroner's jury yesterday completed their investigation of the murder of Miss Olive H. Broad and rendered a verdict that she came to her death by violence at the hands of some person or persons to the jury unknown. Miss Broad was 63 years old and was employed in a local clothing factory. She was murdered on Aug. 21, being struck down by a heavy blunt instrument, and shot through the head.

Alleged Theft From Mails

Portland, Me., Dec. 4.—Ambrose H. Fessenden, a Portland postoffice employe, was arrested last night by inspectors, who allege that their prisoner has been robbing the mails. The officers say marked money was found in Fessenden's possession when searched. The accused is about 50 years old and has been employed in the postoffice for 15 years. Fessenden claims the money found on him was his own.

Socialists to Contest Election

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 4.—Tuesday's election is not accepted by the Socialists on the face of the returns and they have petitioned for a recount of the entire city. Moreover they expect to scrutinize every ballot with the hope of finding enough defective ones to overturn the mayoralty result, H. R. Watson (Rep.) being elected by only 14 over P. B. Flanders, the Socialist candidate.

Two Gifts of $50,000 Each

Boston, Dec. 4.—A New Englander who does not wish his name to be known has given Oberlin college $50,000 to form a part of the new $500,000 fund for the endowment and equipment of the college. The gift was unsolicited. The same donor gave $50,000 to the previous $500,000 fund. The gift was announced yesterday.

May Have Been Set by Tramp

Waterbury, Conn., Dec. 4.—All of the fine modern barns, ice houses and henneries on the farm of Thomas Kelly, on Lake Quassapaug, were burned last night. The loss is $9000. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a trespasser. It is thought that the charred remains of a tramp may be found in the ruins

Hub Aldermen Don't Walk

Boston, Dec. 4.—Hack-hire bills of members of the board of aldermen were audited at city hall yesterday and the total for seven months is $9,181.50, divided among 11 aldermen. Alderman Tinkham did not put in a hack bill. The total breaks all records for a similar item of expenditure. The estimate is for over $15,000 for the year.

Alleged Marine Insurance Swindle

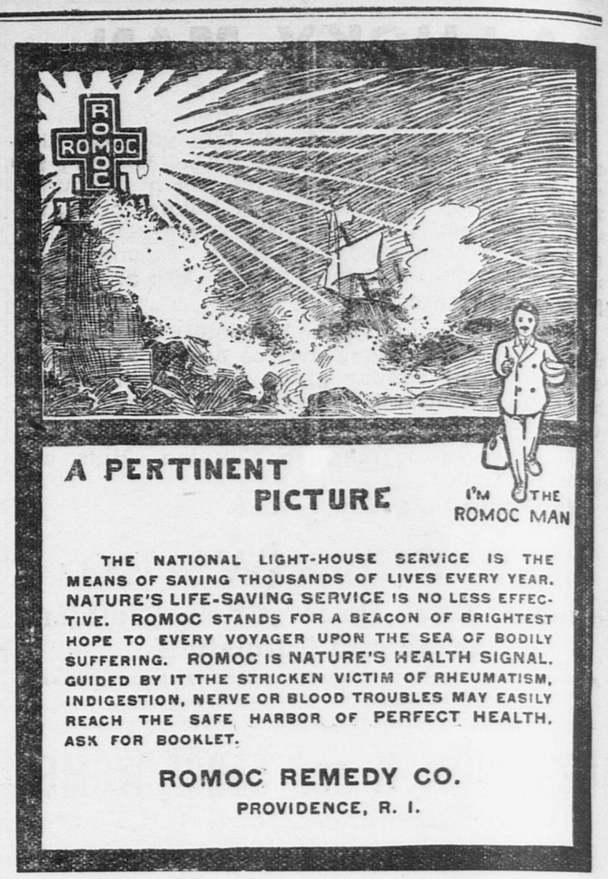

Liverpool, Dec. 4.—Captain Alder Nichols, who was arrested here on the charge of feloniously casting away the British schooner Bessie Dodd, from Cadiz for St. Johns, off the coast of Labrador, Oct. 25, in order to obtain the insurance on the vessel, was yesterday committed for trial. The Bessie Dodd was refloated by salvers who subsequently towed her into St. Johns.

Invoice Figures Incorrect

New York, Dec. 4.—Collector Stranahan has ordered the detention in bond of a considerable importation of Japanese silks consigned to M. Mendelson & Co. of this city, because five invoices have been returned from the appraisers' stores showing that the actual weight of the silks was greater than was put on the papers.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

FIREMEN OVERWORKED

Twenty-Four-Hour Stretch In Mines Without Relief

MINERS' LIVES IN DANGER

If Tired Men Should Fall Asleep at Their Post—Clergyman Says Miners Have No Homes, but Merely Habitations—Settlement Talk

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 5.—At yesterday's sessions of the anthracite strike commission the representatives of the mine workers continued to call witnesses, mostly practical miners, who told their story of conditions as they exist in the Hazleton or midde coal fields. The miners tried to show by these witnesses that the Coxe and other companies had violated the agreement entered into by both sides, when the commission was appointed, that the strikers should return to work and be given their old places back where they had not already been filled. Some of the witnesses called testified that they were not given back their old places and maintained that men prominent in unions in the various localities during the strike were discriminated against.

The commission has decided to invite the mine inspectors to appear before them, because the miners claim that the workmen fear to inform the mine inspectors of dangerous or unhealthy places in the mines because the mine inspectors are usually accompanied by some representative of the company, who may cause the man's dismissal. This is a new point before the commission.

Jackson Ansbach of the Hazleton region was an interesting witness yesterday because he is the first fireman to appear before the commission. He said he received $1.57 for a day of 12 hours and his assistants $1.26. On every other Sunday, when he and his assistant shifted from day to night work, they were compelled to work 24 hours straight without relief.

This statement caused a buzz through the court room and every commissioner straightened up and became more interested. In answer to a question put by the commission he said he was off duty one day every two weeks, thus working six days one week and eight days the following week.

"Supposing you should fall asleep when you work in the long shift of 24 hours, what would happen?" asked Mr. Darrow.

"Well," he replied, "if I slept long enough the fans would stop, gas would accumulate in the mines and if an explosion took place some men would be killed: that's all."

Rector Hussie of St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic church, Hazleton, was the next witness. He said he had an intimate knowledge of conditions in and about Hazleton. When asked to explain the general conditions as he found them Father Hussie said he had lived in the coal regions practically all his life.

"The conditions in this region," he said, "are deplorable. The mine workers are barely able to exist. I have been in their homes. They are not homes, but merely a habitation, a resting place. They are frugal, conservative, reasonable, and a God-fearing people."

Continuing, Father Hussie said that during the suspension of work the mine workers and their families were more pinched than before; that they were most economical in many things and barely existed. Families cannot be kept together. He related instances of poverty and said that it took one man six years before he was able to pay off a funeral debt of $200. In reply to further questioning, the witness said he had examined 50 or 60 mine workers and found that only three of them were able to save any money. He had examined the tax lists of Hazleton and found that in a population of which perhaps 70 percent was made up of mine workers, only 89 employes out of 1723 persons assessed owned their own homes. Father Hussie said the newspaper reports of violence in the Hazleton region were exaggerated.

Andrew Mattey gave information regarding the alleged importation of Slavonians to the Coxe mines. He told how he had been paid to go to Hazleton and meet the "greenhorns" who had been "shipped" by his mother from Europe at the request of himself. He had been asked to make this request by a foreman employed at the Coxe mines. Judge Gray, evidently thinking that the alien laws were being violated, became greatly interested and leaning towards the witness, he said: "When was this?"

"Seventeen years ago," replied the Hungarian.

"Oh," said the judge, as he leaned back in his chair, and a wave of laughter swept over the court room.

Rumors of possible negotiations looking towards a settlement outside the commission continue to be heard. Lawyers admit having heard such rumors, but say they know nothing about a possible settlement. The opinion still prevails here and rather strongly, too, that the operators and the miners will agree on most points before the commission concludes its hearings.

A Change For the Better

St. Louis, Dec. 5.—Julian Ralph, the newspaper correspondent and author, who suffered a severe hemorrhage here Tuesday night, is reported to be progressing toward recovery. He is still confined to his bed.

Interesting Labor Decision

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 5.—In the supreme court at Albany yesterday Justice Howard granted an injunction restraining the Painters' union of this city from in any way treating William Potter as not a member of the union. The injunction orders that he be restored to membership pending trial by the courts. Potter is the man who was expelled from the union because he is a member of the militia and as such served as a private during the Hudson valley strike. He has been refused employment by every master painter in Schenectady on the ground that he was not a union man.

Voters Failed to Turn Out

Toronto, Dec. 5.—Prohibition will not be introduced into Ontario for some time to come, although a majority of fully 40,000 of the total votes cast yesterday were in favor of bringing into effect what is known as the liquor act of 1892. The total votes secured by the Prohibitionists will fall short by 66,000 of the total of 212,000 required to make the act effective. In the majority of the constituencies only about one-third of the average vote was cast.

Death of Minister Buck

Washington, Dec. 5.—The death of Minister Buck has been confirmed in a cablegram received from Tokyo. No details are given. It is expected that the remains of the dead minister, who was a veteran of the Civil war, will be brought to Washington for interment at Arlington, where the minister selected a burial site for himself about two years ago. Mrs. Buck is understood to be in Tokyo.

Ghouls Out of Business

Indianapolis, Dec. 5.—A scarcity of cadavers for legitimate use in the medical colleges here and in Louisville is said to be impeding, and prices of bodies have risen to unheard of figures. The scarcity is attributed to the Indianapolis investigation. There probably has been no body snatching in Indiana since the investigation began.

Objects to Cuban Methods

Washington, Dec. 5.—Estes G. Rathbone, who was convicted of irregularities during his incumbency as director of posts of Cuba, and who was pardoned after the American occupation ended, was at the Capitol yesterday for the purpose of pressing his petition for an investigation of the methods used in his conviction by the Cuban courts.

Houston Strike Ended

Houston, Tex., Dec. 5.—The street car strike was settled late yesterday afternoon and the cars at once began running. The men get a scale calling for 18 cents an hour for the first year, 19 cents the second year, and 20 cents thereafter, which is an increase of about 6 percent over the old scale.

LINCOLN HOTEL HORROR

Victims Were Hemmed In Like Rats In a Trap

BUILDING WAS CONDEMNED

As Unsafe For Hotel Purposes, but Was Crowded With Guests—Those Unable to Reach Windows Quickly Were Suffocated

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Fourteen men met death by suffocation yesterday in a fire which occurred in the Lincoln Hotel. Thirteen of those who lost their lives were stifled while lying in their beds. One was taken from the building before life was extinct, but died on the way to the nearest hospital.

Coroner Traeger, after inspecting the building, united with Fire Chief Musham in declaring it to be a veritable trap and that it never should have been used for hotel purposes. Chief Musham declared that there were such wide cracks in the floor that the smoke poured through the building in clouds, rendering escape extremely difficult for those on the upper floors.

There was no fire escape on the front of the building, although one was in process of construction. The scaffolding was up and from it dangled several ropes, down which a number of people slid to the pavement after all escape by the stairway had been cut off.

The hotel was four stories in height and contained an unusual amount of rooms for a hotel of its size. After the fire Chief Musham declared that they were the smallest rooms he had ever seen in any building. Had there been fewer partitions, he declared, the chances for life or those sleeping on the upper floors would have been greatly increased.

F. A. Smith, proprietor of the hotel, declared that there were, as nearly as he could judge without his books, about 125 persons in the hotel. It was, in fact, filled to its utmost capacity.

Night Clerk Webber discovered the smoke pouring through the halls shortly before 6 o'clock and did his best to alarm the guests, but the smoke was so dense and increased in volume so rapidly that he was able to arouse only a small number and was then compelled to grope his way to the street to avoid suffocation. The guests came ring down the one stairway from the windows in all stages of undress and several leaped from the windows of the second story to the sidewalk below and escaped without serious injury. A number of men, turned back by the smoke in hallways, which prevented them from finding the stairs, swung down on the ropes placed in the front of the building by the workmen who were erecting the fire escape.

The firemen saved many lives by carrying people down the ladders from the windows. The smoke on the inside of the building was so thick and so pungent that the firemen were unable to do more than take the people from the windows. Those who were not able to reach the windows in a few minutes after the fire broke out were suffocated.

The fire in itself amounted to very little. A portion of the third and second floors was burned and the blaze was extinguished within 40 minutes after the first alarm.

As soon as the smoke permitted the firemen to live inside the building, a careful search was made of all the rooms with the result that 13 men were found to have been stifled before they had been able to leave their beds. All of the dead had rooms on the third and fourth floors.

The building was some time ago condemned by the city building inspectors as unsafe for hotel purposes and the owners were three weeks ago ordered to place a stairway in the rear and also to build a fire escape on the front of the building. Beyond the preliminary work for the fire escape, nothing had been done.

The Naval Maneuvers

Port of Spain, Dec. 5.—The United States consul has been authoritatively informed through agents of the departure yesterday of the "enemy's" squadron. Its destination is uncertain, but is believed to be Porto Rico or Culebra. There is no satisfactory indication as to the course the squadron will pursue. All the warships are well filled with coal and ammunition.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ People are beginning to recognize that it is almost as necessary that man be surrounded by beautiful objects as that he have bread to eat. Once his daily bread assured, he feels the need of a little art to brighten his life. He wants to have it in his house, and in the city where he dwells. Strange as it may seem to mercenary, utilitarian individuals, men take great delight in seeing their city rich, renowned, beautiful and outshining its neighbors by the splendor of its monuments. The Italian tyrants of the Renaissance period, knowing the human heart, obtained forgiveness for their tyranny by erecting palaces and churches, the beauty of which flattered the local pride We want beautiful cities.—N. Y. Architectural Record.

☞ This is the season of the year when poverty becomes especially pathetic. It is a season when good cheer and the spirit of a Merry Christmas should pervade every home and possess every soul. To the dweller, within the cheerful radius of a glowing fire, the holly wreath in the window is a thing of cheer; an emblem of good feeling and good fellowship. To the child, shivering in the street—looking, envying, but not daring to hope, that wreath, bright with its green leaves and red berries, is but a pitiable reminder of the bitter contrast; of the poverty that bars the way. There can be no brighter sunshine than that which radiates from the the face of a happy child. The sky may be overcast on Christmas day, but that will not matter if everyone does what he can to fill the world with the grateful sunshine of poverty's smile.—From "Vest Pocket Confidences," in Four-Track News for December.

To Play at Lynn.

The Quincy Association footfall club will journey to Lynn to play the Lynn football club on Saturday. The Quincys played the Lynns on Ward Three playground and defeated them 5 to 1. The Lynns claimed that they were minus four of their best players, owing to sickness, so the return game ought to be close. The Quincys are confident of upholding their championship name and no doubt there will be some hustling. A large number of followers are going to Lynn to root for Quincys, who have not met defeat this season; they want to have a clean record at the end of the season.

The Quincys have challenged any team in the state, so they deserve the support of the people of Quincy. They have some crack games on from now on till January, such as the Ivernia team, the Andovers of Lawrence, the Boston Rovers of Boston, and are trying to arrange with the Pan American team for a game around the holiday time at Quincy.

The following team will line up against Lynn on Saturday:

Goal, A. Black; Backs, T. Smith and J. Brown; half-backs, Capt. J. McLeod, J. Smith and W. Marshall; forwards, J. Bissett, McAllister, R. Robertson, J. Gauld and T. Robertson. Reserve, C. Smith; linesman, J. Sutherland.

The new harness store of D. S. Driscoll at No. 1052 Hancock street has a number of leather specialties. It is also a good place to get dog collars.

—There is a movement for a $3,000,000 custom house in Boston. A bill will soon be presented in Congress.

HONORS DIVIDED.

Granite City and North Quincy Club Open the League Games.

The first games in the Norfolk County league were played Thursday evening at the rooms of the Granite City club between teams from that club and from the North Quincy club. On the whole the two teams split even. The Granite City club won at pool and whist and the North Quincy club at billards and bowling.

The games were all started at 8 o'clock, the bowling being at the Granite street alleys. The North Quincy club sent up its best men for all events and the Granite City club also put up some of its best men.

Bowling is something that the Granite City men are a little rusty on. They have had practically no practice as the club has no alleys. On the other hand the North Quincy club has alleys at its club house. The Granite City club has material for a good team but if they hope to win they must put in considerable practice. The Granite City club was strong on billiards, pool and whist while the visitors were a little rusty on whist.

The first game at billiards was between McGrath of the Granite City and Walsh of the North Quincys. Mr. McGrath is doubtless the best player in the Granite City club and he won the game by a score of 75 to 58.

The second game was between Mitchell of the Granite City and Emerson of the North Quincy. The latter is said to be the crack player of the visiting club and he won out by 72 to 53.

The games at pool were between McDonnell of the Granite City and Clair of the North Quincy. McDonnell won by a score of 50 to 13. The second game was played between Wood of the Granite City and Fairclough of the North Quincy. Wood won by a score of 50 to 45.

At whist Langley and Gordon of the Granite City were pitted against Potter and Hall of the North Quincys. Granite City won by a score of 9 to 5.

The second team was Rideout and Jones of the Granite City against Kendall and Brown. The former won by a score of 10 to 2. This made Granite City a winner by a score of 19 to 7.

The North Quincys won every string at bowling. The North Quincy team was made up of Osgood, Alger, Hall, Thorpe and Taylor and the Granite City club by Walsh, Johnson, Nightingale, Hill and Faxon. The highest score by the visitors was made by Hall with a total of 264. Alger was a good second with 263. For the Granite City club, Nightingale was high man with 231 with Hill a good second at 227. The totals were 1,238 for the North Quincy and 1,064 for the Granite City.

Misses the Y. M. C. A.

Editors of the Ledger:

If there is any one thing that we need more than another in Quincy, it is a Young Men's Christian Association. The need is probably apparent to all who have given the matter any consideration, but, somehow or other, the means of supplying the need are not at hand, nor forthcoming. This is no doubt due to the fact that our well to do citizens have so many burdens to bear for municipal improvements that they are loth to shoulder any of a voluntary character.

But money invested in a Y. M. C. A. and its equipment would be money well invested. It would show dividends later in the shape of healthy minds, well developed and clean bodies, in stronger character and better manhood generally. The only way in which these results can be attained is by establishing and maintaining a place in which the young people can read the best current literature, bathe frequently, and exercise their muscles under proper direction. To be sure all this would cost money, but why should the cost of so beneficent an institution deter us from starting one and then keeping it going? Advocate.

COLD AND ROUGH.

Rain Storm Changes to Snow and Increases in Violence.

Today is the coldest day of the winter the mercury being down to 28 at noon. Last year we got 24 degrees noon temperature on Nov. 28. Not since Feb. 19 last year have we had such a cold day as this, and the storm makes it more severe.

It is the first real severe storm of the winter. That it will cause some suffering there can be no doubt as many have little or no coal in their cellars.

During the early morning the storm came in the form of rain. The wind was fresh from the north-east. As the morning advanced the wind increased in violence. The temperature dropped rapidly until at noon it registered 28 degrees. Before that time the rain had turned to a sleety snow and it was what might be termed a howling blizzard.

Umbrellas were almost useless, and many who attempted to carry them open underwent the experience of having them turned inside out and wrenched from theia hands beyond repair and utterly ruined.

Those whose business called them out buttoned their rain coats about their neck and with hats drawn down, bent their heads and butted the storm. As the sleety snow struck the face it cut like a knife thrust.

Few people were out who were not obliged to. The no school signal sounded at 7.30 and 11.30 keeping the public school pupils at home, but as this does not apply to the Adams Academy the boys of that school turned out just the same.

Up to noon no damage had been reported and as sailing craft had been warned of the likelihood of a storm it is probable that most skippers are riding out the gale in some port.

Along toward noon the snow began to drift and pack down upon the street railway track. This caused some delay in the running time, and although cars were run on all lines it was next to impossible to keep them on time, especially on the long lines like that between Neponset and Brockton, and Neponset and Milton. Up to 10 o'clock however cars on these lines were but little late.

The railway got out its ploughs at noon and as they are equipped with powerful motors they had no difficulty in forcing their way through, leaving a line of salt and sand on the rail.

Travelling with the back towards the wind was not so bad, but when one had to face it the force at times would almost take the breath away.

Stores were but little patronized as but few were out, and the clerks had an easy day of it. But few of the clerks attempted to go home to dinner, contenting themselves with a lunch.

The weather reports this morning were that Saturday would be fair and cooler.

Comrades Presented.

The "Barnstormers," assisted by the Buena Vista Footlight club of the Roxbury Universalist church, gave "Comrades," a drama in three acts, at the Wollaston Unitarian vestry, Thursday evening to a full house. All sustained their parts admirably, and the selections by the Wollaston orchestra were much enjoyed. In the cast were Mr. Hull as Royal Manning; Mr. Bowman as Matt Windsor; Mr. Arnold as Marcus Graves; Mr. Woodward as Simon Stone; Miss Whittemore as May Manning; Miss Baker as Bessie Bradley, Miss Hatch as Nancy Nipper.

On Duty at Fire All Day.

The fire which destroyed the Joseph Adams estate Thursday morning was one of the worst that the Quincy firemen ever had to contend with. Firemen were kept busy all day turning over the hay and extinguishing the smouldering fires and it was not until night that their labors were ended. Wards teams came out and carried away the partly burned cows and horses about 5 P. M.

PUPILS ENTERTAIN.

Annual of Adams and Cranch Schools a Grand Success.

About 800 tickets were sold for the annual entertainment by the pupils of the Adams and Cranch schools, and it was impossible for many to get into Hancock hall Thursday evening. Upwards of 500 were crowded in.

The program was a varied and entertaining one. It was in no sense an exhibition but an amusing vaudeville show. The printed program gave little idea of what was in store. Each grade of the schools was largely represented in its specialty, usually by ten to twenty pupils and they appeared in appropriate costume. For the college songs in caps and gowns, for the shepherds drill with long crooks, for the Jack o'lantern drill with jack o'lanterns which did not always go out at the right time, etc., etc.

In the sunflower chorus only the faces of the pupils were visible and appeared to be at the top of sunflower stalks in a garden. The motion songs of the lowest grades were cute. Many solo parts were introduced by all grades and met with favor. Perhaps the Little Minstrels at the close was the best thing of the evening with its cake walk and specialties, but all were good.

The program follows:

Motion songs,	Grade I Cranch
Little Buttercup,	Grade III Adams
An Indian raid,	Grade V Cranch
Jack O'Lanterns,	Grade I Adams
Recitation, "Quaker Sinner,"	Grade VII Cranch
Tale of the bumble bee,	Grades III and IV Adams
Umbrella drill,	Grade VI Cranch
Hoop dance,	Grade VI Adams
Some little friends of long ago,	Grade II Cranch
Play in your own back yard,	Grade II Adams
The sunflower chorus,	Grade IV Cranch
Japanese lantern drill,	Grade VII Adams
College glee club,	Grade VII Cranch
The chorus of Nations,	Grade VIII Adams
The shepherd's drill,	Grade VIII Cranch
The bootblack's drill,	Grade V Adams
Baby polka,	Grade III Cranch
The little minstrels,	Grades III and VI Adams

About $150 was netted which will be divided between the two schools and used for decorating the rooms.

Reno and Foster.

The next meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club will be on Tuesday December 9. Dinner as heretofore will be served promptly at 6.30. The speakers for the meeting are Mr. Conrad Reno of Brookline, who will talk on "Industrial Partnership." Mr. Reno submitted a bill to the last Legislature for "Industrial Arbitration," and Mr. Foster is the editor and publisher of the "Liberator" a labor publication. The meeting will be particularly interesting.

Will Choose New Major.

Colonel William H. Oakes, commanding the Fifth Regiment of Infantry, has issued a call for a meeting of company officers of the regiment at headquarters on Thursday evening, Dec. 11, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of electing a major in place of Major Walter E. Morrison of Braintree, deceased.

The Christmas sale of the Wollaston Methodist church opened Wednesday night with a large attendance. The tables were prettily decorated and were laden with useful and fancy articles. The tableaux given were much enjoyed, as well as the selections given by the occhestra.

Lawson is the Largest.

Out of regard for American enterprise we feel called upon to correct the statement going the rounds that the 7-masted schooner Thomas W. Lawson is no the largest sailing craft afloat. Those making this statement claim the honor for the 5-masted, full-rigged German ship Preussen, and in doing so make a mistake.

The Preussen is the largest ship and longest sailing vessel afloat, but she is not the largest sailing craft, that honor belonging to the Lawson. The Preussen measures 408 feet in length, 53.5 feet beam, 27 feet deep and 5142 gross tons. The Lawson measures 395 feet long, 50 feet beam and 34.5 feet deep. Her gross tonnage is 5218.

It will thus be seen that while the Preussen has 13 feet advantage of the Lawson in length and 3.5 feet advantage in beam, the Lawson beats the Preussen by 7.5 feet in depth and by 72 tons in the gross tonnage register.

The latter fact clinches the Lawson's claim to the greatest in her class. She is without doubt the largest sailing craft afloat, and, better than that, she flies the American flag.—Maritime News and Review.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

NEW BILL WANTED

Both by Granite Cutters and Manufacturers.

No Suspension of Work Probable.

Cutters Want Increase of Pay--Manufacturers Against Carelessness.

It has been quite well understood among the granite manufacturers for some time that the cutters would ask for some changes in the bill of prices next spring.

The schedule or bill of prices under which the men are now working was adopted March 1, 1900. It was to run for three years without change, and at that time, if no changes were desired, it should run for two years more.

In case a change was desired notice must be given in December of the previous year, as in 1902. Complying with the terms of that rule, the Cutters' and Blacksmiths' unions have notified the granite manufacturers of changes they desire and the manufacturers have notified the cutters of a change they desire.

The principal change desired by the cutters is an increase of ten per cent. in wages. That is, they ask that the minimum rate for day work be increased from $2.64 to $2.90 per day and that the pay of an average workman be increased from $2.80 to $3.08 per day.

They have also submitted a new bill of prices for the piece men. The changes from the present bill are that all prices are marked up ten per cent.

The blacksmiths ask that their pay be increased from $2.90 per day to $3 per day: that surface cutting machines be classed as five men; that no apprentice shall be employed in a shop unless a journeyman is also employed, and that in case of men being laid off the journeymen shall be kept at work.

The two latter changes are the most radical, and are the ones probably over which the greatest discussion will ensue.

There is no rule governing this matter now and it has been the custom with manufacturers, when help was reduced in the blacksmith shop to let the journeymen go and retain the apprentice.

The change asked by the manufacturers is for a clause which shall provide that in case a stone is spoiled through carelessness or negligence of the workman he shall not be paid for work already done upon that stone.

There is a similar clause in the present bill but it applies only to piece men. What the manufacturers desire is that it shall include day men as well as piece men.

There is no probability of their being any labor trouble over the settlement of these differences owing to an iron clad agreement which was adopted by both the manufacturers and unions. This clause or agreement provides that all differences shall be referred to a committee composed of men from both sides. They are given until January 20 to come to an agreement. Upon that date all matters unsettled shall be referred to a board of arbitration made up of three disinterested persons; each party to name one man and the two so named to select a third member.

This board must make their finding not later than Feb. 25 which both sides are bound to abide by.

In the meantime there shall be no strike, lockout or suspension of business.

It will thus be seen that all the matters will be settled during the dull season and by March 1 everything should be adjusted and both manufacturers and unions ready to start in the season's work in earnest.

A STUBBORN COLD OR BRONCHITIS yields more readily to Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil than to anything that you can take; and if persistently used a few days, will break up the cold.

When you awake in the night choked up and coughing hard, take a dose of the Emulsion, and you will get immediate relief, where no cough medicine will give you relief. It has a soothing and healing effect upon the throat and bronchial tubes.

Most people understand Scott's Emulsion is a great body builder—but it is equally good to allay inflammation and cure colds and violent coughing.

Rich Gifts For Faithful Service

Baltimore, Dec. 4.—As a reward for faithful services, former President Baker of the Atlantic Transport company, now a part of the International Mercantile Marine company, will distribute nearly $500,000 among his former employes. To each person who has been in the employ of the Atlantic company one year or more, and who will remain after Jan. 1 in the employ of the International company, Mr. Baker will give $1000 of the stock of the new company; to Atlantic company employes who will lose their positions on that date he will give $2000 of the stock. To a very few old employes of the company he will give $2000 of the stock of the new company and certain sums of money. Mr. Baker is a director of the new company.

Run Down by Secret Service

Detroit, Dec. 4.—United States secret service operatives raided a house in Highland Park yesterday and placed under arrest three men giving the names of Frank McTague, Henry E. Buzenbark and Neil Huard, who will be arraigned on the charge of counterfeiting. It is said that thousand of dollars worth of spurious silver dollars have been circulated in the neighborhood of Detroit. Thirteen complete sets of moulds for silver dollars were found on the premises, together with a very fine electric plating machine.

Serious Crisis In Spain

Madrid, Dec. 4.—The present resignation of Premier Sagasta, announced yesterday, coming as it does in less than a month of his latest reconstruction of the Spanish cabinet, is likely to be final. At all events it marks a grave crisis in Spain. As previously announced, the Spanish cabinet suffered a defeat in the chamber of deputies by the adoption of a motion of censure on the minister of marine for authorizing the contract for the construction of two new training ships without previously obtaining the consent of the cortes.

Czar Takes the Colonelcy

Berlin, Dec. 4.—Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch, an uncle of the czar, has been dismissed by Emperor William from the honorary colonelcy of a Courassier regiment at Brandenburg because of his recent marriage to Baroness Pistolkoff, who obtained a divorce from her husband in order to marry the grand duke, for which he was dismissed from the Russian army. The czar has accepted the vacant post.

Mental Condition In Doubt

New York, Dec. 4.—William S. V. Allen, great grandson of Commodore Vanderbilt, who for six years has been confined in a private sanitarium at West Point, was yesterday released and went to the home of a friend in this city. It will be finally determined later whether the release shall be made permanent or he be formally committed to the sanitarium.

Yankee Capital In Porto Rico

San Juan, P. R., Dec. 4.—The Vandergrift Construction company of Philadelphia has put up $10,000 in cash and the executive council will grant it the franchise to develop the water power of the island and to build an electric road from San Juan to Ponce. A bond for $100,000 gold must be given by the company later.

Lowland Settlers In Danger

Shreveport, La., Dec. 4.—There is a break in the levee 10 miles above Belcher and runners have been sent in every direction to warn the settlers in the lowlands. It is feared the entire district above Belcher will be inundated and there is considerable apprehension in that locality.

Panama's Hopes Raised

Panama, Dec. 4.—The news that Minister Concha has been relieved of his appointment has raised hopes here that the Panama canal negotiations will take a more favorable turn. It is reported that more ample instructions will be cabled from Bogota.

Julian Ralph at Death's Door

St. Louis, Dec. 4.—Julian Ralph, the well known war correspondent, is in a critical condition at the Southern Hotel as the result of a sudden hemorrhage. Mrs. Ralph has been hurriedly summoned from New York.

Steel Workers' Terrible Fate

Sharon, Pa., Dec. 4.—Two men are dead, two are not expected to recover and one other is in a serious condition as the result of an accident at the works of the Union Steel company. One of the ponderous ladles conveying 40 tons of molten steel lead along a travelling crane over the open hearth furnaces tilted violently and emptied a portion of the contents directly upon the heads of the men at work below. They were horribly burned.

Nurses Disapprove Canteen

Washington, Dec. 4.—A resolution offered at the meeting of the Spanish-American Nurses' association yesterday declaring that body to be in favor of the re-establishment of the army canteen was voted down. The resolution provoked a lively debate before a vote was reached.

Winter Weather Out West

Milwaukee, Dec. 4.—Reports of heavy snowstorms in the western part of Wisconsin were received here last night. At Dodgeville the snow is two feet deep and badly drifted, and from Baraboo one of the worst blizzards in six years is reported.

REED'S SICKNESS

Is Admitted by His Doctors to Have Reached a Critical Stage

Washington, Dec. 5.—At 11:30 o'clock last night the condition of ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, who has been ill here since Tuesday evening, was reported to be critical. Dr. Gardner, one of the attending physicians, said that Mr. Reed suffered from some degree of uraemia coma during the afternoon, but his mind was again clear last evening.

Dr. Gardner was not disposed to talk much about the case. In some respects Mr. Reed, he said, was better than Wednesday night and in some respects he was worse. He was better so far as the appendicitis symptoms were concerned, but the uraemic features gave the case a graver aspect. After issuing a bulletin to this effect at 11:30, the doctor went home for the night and left his assistant, Dr. Bishop, to remain with Mr. Reed until morning.

At 3 o'clock this morning it was stated that Mr. Reed was resting easier, but that the change in his condition was slight.

Will Closely Watch Frontiers

Washington, Dec. 5.—The several commissioners of immigration who have been in conference here with Commissioner General Sargent concluded their work yesterday. It is understood the department has specific information as to several points on both the Canadian and Mexican frontiers where immigrants have been crossing into the United States unmolested, and arrangements are perfecting under which these runways will be closed.

To Continue War on Tammany

New York, Dec. 5.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the greater New York Democracy last night action was taken for reorganization for the coming year. A resolution declaring for a continuance of the fight against Tammany and claiming credit for contributing to the election of the reform municipal government was passed. Jacob A. Cantor attacked David B. Hill for the failure of the Democratic party in the recent election.

Religious Students In Revolt

Odessa, Dec. 5.—A serious outbreak has occurred among the students of the Ecclesiastical seminary here, resulting in the arrest of 50 students and the rustication of 300 others. The holy synod has ordered the institution to be closed. Such a revolutionary movement among religious students is without precedent and has caused the authorities the greatest anxiety.

Vaccination War Continues

Gas City, Ind., Dec. 5.—The anti-vaccination crusade was renewed here yesterday. Children without vaccination certificates were refused admission to the public school and people who are opposed to the vaccination rules held a meeting last night and decided to bring injunction proceedings at once to prevent the school board from enforcing the ordinance.

Pet Names In Reichstag

Berlin, Dec. 5.—With the exception of a recess for supper, the reichstag was in continuous session from 10 o'clock yesterday morning until 11:30 last night. Most of the time was spent wearily in listening to the reports of the tariff committee, but considerable rough talk was indulged in last night. The members called each other "scoundrels," "dogs," etc.

Undesirable Jews Headed Off

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Solomon Asmeausky, a Russian Jew, was arrested here yesterday while piloting to this side Russian Jews suffering from eye disease that had caused their rejection by United States inspectors at Montreal. The afflicted Jews will be returned to Russia at the expense of the steamship company on whose vessels they came.

Craft Murder Case In Court

New York, Dec. 5.—The trial of Thomas Tobin, who is charged with the murder of Captain James Craft in the Empire cafe on Sept. 27 last, was called yesterday before Justice Davy. Craft was robbed and murdered. His head was cut off and put in a furnace, where the police found it. The jury box was not filled when court adjourned for the day.

Trolley Car Went Astray

Troy, N. Y., Dec. 5.—A Hudson Valley railway car left the track near Schuylerville last evening while rounding a curve and rolled down an embankment. From 10 to 15 persons were more or less injured, being cut and bruised. There were 30 passengers on the car.

End Is Almost Near

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—Barry Johnstone, the actor, who last Monday night shot and killed Kate Hassett and then turned the weapon upon himself, is gradually dying. The murdered woman's body was yesterday forwarded to the home of her parents at Aurora, Ills.

Ten Men Still Missing

San Francisco, Dec. 5.—Three bodies have been recovered from the wreck of the steamer Progreso, on which an explosion occurred Wednesday. The total list of missing today is 10.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Saturday, Dec. 6.
Sun rises—6:58; sets—4:12.
Moon sets—10:25 p. m.
High water—3:15 a. m.; 3:30 p. m.

Rain and snow have continued in New England and locally in the lake region. Temperatures have fallen generally over the eastern half of the country. The south storm in conjunction with a high area now over Lake Superior will cause snow, probably heavy in New England.

MILTON.

Mrs. John Graham has returned from a visit to the White Mountains.

Arthur M. Gardner left Tuesday for California for his health. A number of his friends accompanied him to Boston to see him off and wish him a return of good health.

The alarm from Box 451 at 3.30 P. M. on Tuesday, called the department across the river to the Boston side.

The ladies of the East Milton Congregational church held their annual entertainment and sale Wednesday evening at Ellsworth hall. The affair was well attended and a larger part of the articles were sold.

People's Union in Ward Two.

A meeting to organize the Ward Two division of the People's Union has been called for Tuesday next, December 9. As this union is to be for the welfare of all the people, it is hoped that a widespread interest will be taken in it, and that there may be a large attendance at the opening meeting.

At this meeting, Mr. Pollard, who has been chosen one of the vice presidents of the Union will act as chairman. He is prepared to answer all questions concerning its aims and objects. He will define clearly the purposes of the People's union as a whole, and state some of the desired results for Ward Two.

The People's Union is established entirely apart from any church, creed or politics. It is to be by the people and for the people.

All the people, both men and women, are earnestly invited to be present at the Washington school next Tuesday evening to elect officers and hear the explanations which will be given.

After Sickness

Take Vinol—Our Great Strength Creator.

IT GIVES ONE A SPLENDID APPETITE.

AND QUICKLY REBUILDS THE SYSTEM.

We Will Refund the Price of Vinol if It Fails.

The worst part of sickness, frequently, is getting over it.

The patient's strength is depleted, his system is generally demoralized, relapses are continually feared, and naturally.

The one thing to aid recovery is to give the patient that which will enable him to get strong, and at the same time give strength direct to the different organs of the body.

Nothing will do this like Vinol.

It acts directly on the stomach, creates a healthy appetite, and enables the digestive organs to obtain the necessary elements to increase the weight of the patient and to make new healthy flesh and muscle tissue and pure, rich, red blood.

The following is a letter showing where Vinol was taken and did good after a case of sickness. It reads as follows:

"I wish to certify to the very great benefit which has been derived from the use of Vinol in my family. My wife was very sick with the grippe and afterward was wholly run down. One bottle of Vinol places her on her feet in better condition than she had been before in six months. I heartily recommend and endorse it."—HENRY F. STURTEVANT, 84 Huntington St., Brockton, Mass.

Everything that is in Vinol is plainly printed on the label of each package.

We know Vinol is a splendid preparation, and in many cases we have been able to see for ourselves the wonderful results it brings about.

Remember that we guarantee Vinol and refund the purchase money if you are not satisfied.

FARMERS FEEL SAVAGE

Think Cattle Epidemic Could Have Been Averted

COMMON SENSE IS NEEDED

Board of Agriculture Considered More Ornamental Than Useful—Too Much Attention to County Fairs and Not Enough to Inspection of Cattle

Boston, Dec. 5.—One encouraging incident in connection with the cattle epidemic is the fact that the quarantine against New Hampshire recommended Wednesday by the bureau of animal industry has already been revoked, it having been found that only one herd in the state is affected by the disease, and that that one is located very near the Massachusetts line. Otherwise there is no special change in the situation, and the prospects of keeping the disease well within its present geographical limits are fairly promising.

The Advertiser says today one thing that is to result from the present epidemic of the foot and mouth disease in New England is the probable reorganization of the state board of agriculture from top to bottom, and a shakeup of the cattle bureau of that department. The Advertiser says:

"The feeling among the farmers of the state is nothing short of savage. This feeling is shared by cattlemen, railroad and steamship men pretty generally. What they are saying is that this whole epidemic, including the embargo on cattle shipments, could have been staved off by a little common sense. They not only say this but they give some mighty good reasons for what they say. Beginning with tomorrow the public may expect fireworks.

"The board of agriculture, they say, is top-heavy and almost useless, except in such things as agitating for gypsy moth appropriations. It represents not the working farmers of the state, but the agricultural societies, which work annually to hold county fairs and do little else. The appropriations made by the legislature have gone very largely to maintain these fairs, which the farmers say are very largely 'hoss trots.'

"With the board of agriculture made up of 35 members, its unwieldly bulk makes it purely an ornamental rather than a useful organization, say the farmers.

"Now that the cattle bureau of the board has been blamed for the present epidemic, the wrath of the farmers is close to the boiling point. They have gone to Governor-Elect Bates and have asked him to make some recommendations to the legislature, in favor of a complete reorganization of the board of agriculture. They have been to Governor Crane with the request that he see why the cattle bureau has been violating the law in issuing orders without the consent of the governor and council.

"That these orders have been issued they assert most positively, and they point to the law which explicitly says that the governor and council alone shall have power to give out orders about the inspection of cattle. A hasty executive council meeting may be expected today for the discussion of matters of interest in this connection.

"The farmers charge that men have been employed as cattle inspectors who are not veterinarians. The question has been put to Dr. Peters, and he has admitted that in some cases this has been true. Governor Crane is making himself acquainted with the facts and he will at once act upon his knowlegde."

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

EXPERTS HOODWINKED

Even Complimented Bank Treasurer Who Was Short In His Accounts

Danvers, Mass., Dec. 5.—Danvers people have been given a painful surprise by the announcement that a deficiency amounting, it is believed, to several thousand dollars, has been discovered in the accounts of Albion F. Welch, late treasurer of the Danvers Savings bank, who died a few weeks ago from an operation performed for a carbuncle on his neck. Welch was held in unusually high estimation by all who knew him, and was potentate of Alleppo Temple of Mystic Shriners. At the time of his death a new treasurer was appointed and the discovery of the irregularities was due to the careful examination of the bank's affairs when the latter assumed his new duties.

The irregularities are believed to have extended over a period of eight or 10 years. During this period the customary examinations of the bank's accounts have been made by the bank examiners, and four years ago a special examinatoin was made at the instance of the bank's officers, who desired to know exactly where they stood. In each instance the accounts were reported to be in excellent condition, and when the special examination was made the experts employed took occasion to highly commend the treasurer and his work.

The bank is not affected in the least by the shortage. A portion of the deficit has already been made good, and the bank will be able to realize still more from Welch's estate and his life insurance.

The treasurer's bond was furnished by a guaranty company, which will be called upon to make the amount good.

Investigation In Order

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 5.—The seventh floor of a large apartment house in process of construction at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Lee street gave way late yesterday under the weight of a huge quantity of plastermortar that had been deposited there, and the entire mass crashed through the other six floors to the basement. Although about 40 men were at work in the building, but one was injured in any way. John Costa was crushed to death. It is probable that some arrests for criminal negligence may follow.

Why Unions Don't Incorporate

Boston, Dec. 5.—Samuel Gompers, in an address before the Economic club of Boston last night, said that unionists object to incorporation on the ground that legal action could be taken against an incorporated organization, and the fear that those who interpret the law by force of their surroundings and education, without any intention of being unfair or dishonest in the discharge of their duties, would wrongly draw conclusions opposed to the interest of organized labor.

Failed For Over $300,000

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 5.—The failure of the Pickering Manufacturing company was announced last night. The company's liabilities are upwards of $300,000. The principal sufferers are banking institutions and merchandise creditors. The immediate cause of the company's embarrassment is the stringency of the money market and the adverse conditions under which it was obliged to manufacture its goods.

Timely Rescues by Firemen

Boston, Dec. 5.—Firemen rescued two women from a burning lodging house on Myrtle street last night by means of ladders after they had been overcome by smoke. One of them, Mrs. Eliza Holbrook, 90 years old, was taken from a third story window, and the other, Pauline Brooks, 30, was rescued from the fifth floor, where she was found unconscious. The fire damage was slight.

Fines For Wife Beaters

Providence, Dec. 5.—"Wife beaters should be sent to jail, and they are pretty sure of going there if they come before me more than once on that charge," said Judge Sweetland yesterday when two men who were arrested on complaint of having assaulted their respective spouses were arraigned. Both were fined $15 and costs.

Alleged Immigrant Runner

Calais, Me., Dec. 5.—Alfred Budd has been arrested on suspicion of having assisted five Russian Jews to cross the border. A Chinaman was stopped at the border last week, and since then the officers have watched for Budd. A number of pauper immigrants have been trying to get into the United States near here lately.

Humans Have Cattle Disease

Providence, Dec. 5.—The first cases of the contagion affecting cattle being transmitted to human beings in this vicinity were reported yesterday from North Providence. The infection is not serious in either case, but the knowledge that it was contracted in drinking milk from diseased cows has a disquieting effect.

Steamer Struck Two Schooners

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Dec. 5.—It has been learned that the steamship which ran into the schooner Phoenix off Nantucket on the night of Nov. 29 was the Bechuana, from Boston for New York. The same steamer also collided with the schooner Howard in Long Island sound on the evening of Nov. 30.

Still Looking For Murderer

Portland, Me., Dec. 5.—Officers from Cornish started for Dedham, Mass., yesterday after a tramp for whom they have been searching for some time in connection with the Olive H. Broad murder at Cornish Aug. 21. It was believed the woman was murdered by a tramp.

MRS BLONDIN'S NIECE

Gives Some Interesting Testimony In Behalf of the Government

Boston, Dec. 5.—In yesterday's evidence the trial of J. W. Blondin on the charge of wife murder began to take definite shape. Having established the claim that Mrs. Blondin was killed by stranguiation, and that her head was cut off with a sharp instrument, probably a jackknife, after life had departed, Attorney General Parker proceeded to introduce evidence to prove the identity of the woman and to show that a letter written to her by her niece, Miss Casey of Lawrence, subsequent to the date on which the alleged murder occurred, was returned to the writer bearing the indorsement "Gone in Canada," upon the envelope in Blondin's handwriting.

Some details of the life of the murdered woman were given by the niece and many articles of clothing were identified by her. She also described the identification of the body. Cross-examination of Miss Casey by Mr. Morrison was searching and his questions continually gave inkling of a possible defense. He tried to shake Miss Casey's declaration of positive identification of her aunt's body, until it seemed as if he meant to show that Mrs. Blondin was still alive. Only three witnesses were on the witness stand during the day.

Six Suspicious Deaths

St. Louis, Dec. 5.—Coroner Boogher declares that the result of the inquest held over the body of Mrs. Karl Smith, whose death was the sixth occurring during the last 11 months of persons nearly related, reveals the fact that all of the dead, except a baby, had been insured. Nearly all of the six persons died suddenly. All had exhibited similar symptoms.

Sugar Advances In Price

San Francisco, Dec. 5.—The Western Sugar Refining company sent out circulars yesterday announcing that until further notice the price of all grades of refined sugar will stand advanced 40 cents per 100 pounds. All grades of refined sugar were advanced 10 points in New York Wednesday.

Justice Holmes' Confirmation

Washington, Dec. 5.—Oliver Wendell Holmes was yesterday confirmed by the senate to succeed the late Justice Gray as a member of the bench of the United States supreme court. There was no opposition, and the nomination was not discussed.

Knife Thrust Caused Death

Newton, Mass., Dec. 5.—Baradino Gasbarri died last night, the victim of a knife wound alleged to have been inflicted by Pasqual Toriani. Toriani is under $20,000 bail.

They say the world is round, and yet
I often think it square,
So many little hurts we get
From corners here and there.
But one sad truth in life I've found,
While journeying east and west,
The only folks who really wound
Are those we love the best,
We flatter those we scarcely know,
We please the fleeing guest,
And deal full many a thoughtless blow
To those who love us best.

Her subject was presented with grace and ease and was replete with personal reminiscences of the courtesies of famous people, and she quoted from Spencer and Emerson. She also quoted her mother, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe as having said," she could always judge the breeding of a lady by her conduct in a car." Mrs. Howe spoke of sympathy and helpfulness to others as strong fastors to good breeding. She dwelt upon the courtesy with which one should treat those in the humble walks of life. In concluding her talk, Mrs. Howe said to the young ladies that it was to them that the future generation would look for the code of manners.

BRILLIANT PARTY.

The First Assembly of Home Science Association.

Many anxiously watched the weather all day yesterday hoping, for fair weather for the dance to be given at Music hall in the evening, the first of the two assemblies to be given this winter, for the benefit of the Quincy Home Science association. Toward night their wish was granted and the clouds began to break and the stars to shine forth.

Probably the intensely cold weather and bad going kept many at home, but the dance was one of the most successful ever given by the association. The ball never looked prettier, the artistic arrangement being under the direction of Mrs. John Downes. On the stage was Japanese scenery, with Japanese lanterns, ferns, palms and other potted plants. The corridor connecting the main hall with the small banquet hall, was a mass of bunting. Many seeking a cup of coffee or frappe lingered for a social chat the room was so attractive with its Turkish rugs and couches, but the music by Daggett's orchestra soon enticed them back again to trip a merry measure.

The matrons were: Mrs. Harry L. Rice, Mrs. Wilson Tisdale, Mrs. T. L. Sturtevant, Mrs. E. H. Angier, Mrs. John Downes and Miss Elizabeth Johnson.

The ushers were: Messrs. Ramon Burke, George B. Dewson, William L. Dewson, George D. Follett, Arthur B. Holden, A. Lawrence Hopkins, C. Allen Howland, C. Eaton Pierce, Arthur E. Sibley and Dexter E. Wardsworth.

The patronesses were: Mrs. Edward H. Angier, Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur, Mrs. Walter E. Burke, Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus, Mrs. Arthur H. Doble, Mrs. Edward H. Dewson, Mrs. John Downes, Mrs. William Edwards, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon, Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick, Miss Elizabeth Johnson, Mrs. Evan Arthur Leigh, Mrs. Herman McIntire, Mrs. W. G. A. Pattee, Mrs. Harry L. Rice, Mrs. Harry E. Russell, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Mrs. Arthur Sibley, Mrs. Thomas L. Sturtevant, Miss Sara Whicher, Mrs. Frank P. Waterhouse.

Every one pronounced it the most delightful and prettiest dancing party ever given by the association. Perhaps the attendance was not quite as large as at some of the others, but there was plenty of room and every one appeared to be having a good time, in fact the air seemed permeated with sociability and good cheer.

The costumes of the ladies were beautiful, most of them made especially for the dance. Not only was Quincy society well represented but there was a large attendance from Boston and the suburbs.

The next assembly in February is anticipated with much pleasure by those attending last night, and the committee are to be congratulated on the success of the first party.

A Coward Says Miss Vining.

Miss Vining is not disposed to let the election controversies in this city drop by any means. In a signed editorial in the Hull Beacon this week under the caption of "Quincy politics" she attacks the city, our streets etc., and pays her respects to her recent assailant as follows:

"To the man that replied to the article in the Quincy Advertiser and Quincy Ledger, copied from the Hull Beacon; I will pay my compliments by telling him what a coward he is by not signing his own name to a signed article, and the dastardly act of cloaking himself by signing "A Woman Against a Woman." He is just the calibre of a man I thought he was. Little could be expected from such as he. There again is a case where education could not outweigh pedigree. Birth of good blood always tells. I can have my opinion if I am a woman and help pay the bills, but a truly live man that takes upon himself to reply to articles written by and signed by me, and cloaks himself under the guise of woman is a dastardly coward of the first water, and if Quincy has many such as he, they may well feel proud. My compliments to him and may he improve his grammar and be some part of an honest citizen the rest of his life."

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by all druggists.

The Braintree Fife and Drum Corps invitation party in the Town Hall next Thursday evening, is looked forward to by the young people, with pleasure. Nearly all the tickets are sold and the weather bureau has promised fair weather.

HOPE FOR AGREEMENT

Still Entertained by Strike Arbitration Commission

A BITTERNESS OF FEELING

Likely to Be Increased With Each Day's Testimony, In the Opinion of Attorney Mac Veagh, Who Thinks Operators' Attitude Is Mistaken

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 6.—Nothing can be learned here with reference to the reported efforts at a settlement outside the strike arbitration commission. None of the attorneys for either side profess to know anything about any contemplated move in that direction. Wayne MacVeagh, who is representing the Erie railroad coal properties, was the only attorney in a position to know who would talk about the matter. He left here, accompanied by Commissioner Parker, yesterday afternoon for New York.

Mr. MacVeagh stated to the correspondent of The Associated Press that a majority of the operators thought it better to postpone all efforts to reach by amicable conference a basis for the award of the commission until both sides had presented all the testimony they wished to offer. Whether the efforts to reach such a basis will be resumed can only be decided after the testimony is closed.

Mr. MacVeagh added that he personally thought, in view of the extraordinary conditions existing in the anthracite region, that this was a mistaken attitude for the operators to assume, as he feared each day's testimony would tend to increase the bitterness of feeling; but it was not only the right but the duty of the operators to act on their own judgment of the situation, and he sincerely hoped the result would fully justify the conclusion they reached.

From this expression it is taken that Mr. McVeagh was opposed to the calling off of the negotiations last week. It is his sincere hope that an agreement will be effected, and it is known that the commissioners still hope for an agreement on many, if not all, the important points at issue.

The departure of Mr. MacVeagh and Mr. Parker for New York gave rise to a rumor that the attorney was going there to consult with the operators on the settlement scheme; but when he was seen just before he left the city, he said he did not know whom he would see in New York. He denied all knowledge of any efforts being made by the large coal companies to absorb the independent concerns. Individual operators who were approached on the subject also said they knew nothing of such a move.

The lawyers for the mine workers continued to call witnesses yesterday before the commission to testify to the alleged blacklisting methods pursued by several coal companies in refusing to re-employ strikers who took a more or less prominent part in the affairs of the United Mine Workers' union during the recent suspension. All of them said they had been employed before the strike, but were refused their old places after the strike was ended. In most cases, according to the testimony, no satisfactory reason was given why they were not taken back. Two blind men, who were also otherwise badly injured by underground explosions, were presented as living evidence of the dangers in the mines.

Individual Operators May Sell Out

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 6.—Recent events have given ground for the belief that the result of the negotiations now in progress will be the ultimate sale of the properties of the individual operators to the large coal-carrying companies. This will not be done at once, but it is regarded here as certain to come in the not distant future, because it is believed to be the only solution of the present situation and is the outcome which both the independents and the large companies desire. It is estimated that the collieries of the 67 independent operators can be purchased for $145,000,000. These operators produce three-tenths of the total output of coal.

Danger In Uncleansed Fruit

Washington, Dec. 6.—Twelve million bacteria inhabit the skins of a half pound of cherries, according to Dr. Ehrlich, a German scientist. Currants come next with 11,000,000 to every half pound and grapes next with 8,000,000. An account of extensive experiments has been transmitted to the state department. Dr. Ehrlich urges that all fruit be cleaned, by either peeling or washing, before it is eaten.

In Uncle Russell's Favor

St. Paul, Dec. 6.—The supreme court yesterday decided in favor of Russell Sage in the suit of George F. Glover to wrest a quarter section of land in Swift county from the New York financier. The land came into Sage's possession as assignee of a land grant more than 15 years ago. The court reverses the order of the Swift county court.

Pointers From Wright

Washington, Dec. 6.—Vice Governor Wright of the Philippines appeared before the house committee on insular affairs yesterday in advocacy of the bill providing for the detail of army officers as chief and assistant chiefs of the Philippine constabulary. He also spoke in favor of the gold standard coinage bill for the islands.

TURNOVER COLLAR CASES

Very Dainty Receptacles For Lace, Muslin and Linen Collars.

A natty and useful contrivance for a young lady's Christmas present is a sachet case for the reception of the small linen and muslin collars now so much in vogue. Two pieces of cardboard about 15 inches long and 6 wide are covered with any fancy silk or brocade, bands of ribbon being arranged on the inside to keep the collars in place. The charming sachet of pretty colored silk, with a movable square of embroidered muslin, edged with lace, is intended for handkerchiefs.

Another collar case is composed of Berlin wool and canvas, white and fine. Cut this into a large or small square, according to the size of the case you wish to make, and then fold into the shape of an envelope.

COLLAR CASE.

On the flaps work in silk any conventional design, such as those seen on old samplers, and if you wish to elaborate the case you can put a worked border all around. A very pretty and effective design is that of shamrocks embroidered in different shades of green. They are not difficult and are very effective, but the ordinary lily and rose do not lend themselves to this form of work.

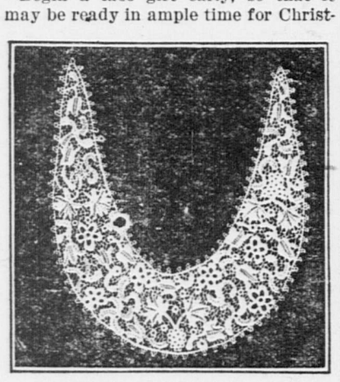

The case is now lined with thin silk of some pretty shade, either to match or contrast with the embroidered design, and the whole envelope bound round with narrow silk ribbon, neatly sewed on. The back of the case can be either embroidered or left plain.

A FINE LACE COLLAR.

A Handsome Piece of Fancy Work Suitable For a Young Girl.

Irish lace is all the fashion, and fortunately it can be readily imitated by the amateur lacemaker. The handsome collar here illustrated is made from very fine linen thread. The leaves, flowers and scrolls are crocheted separately with a fine steel needle and are then fastened together with chain stitch. A firm edge is then given to the collar with double crochet, and afterward the small loops are added. The separate pieces may be pinned in position over a paper collar cut in the shape desired. They may then be the more easily connected by chain stitch. This collar will make a handsome present for a young girl.

Begin a lace gift early, so that it may be ready in ample time for Christmas. It is better to prepare something simple than to hurry. A tiny tie end or the little two inch collars contain many stitches. A large design as the first attempt is more apt to be laid away in disgust. A bolero jacket, if properly made, takes two or three months of infinite care, whereas such a design as the collar pictured here may be finished after a week or two of work and is something dainty and pretty.

IRISH LACE COLLAR.

Point lace collars are very handsome, and there are many attractive designs for this work. The skill of amateur lacemakers is in many cases really remarkable, and holiday gifts of this kind are really in better taste than the tawdry trifles which are usually given.

For the Housewife.

For the busy housewife any useful article will be welcome. If possible, select something that will lighten her labors. Sink drainers are capital things to put in the sink when washing up. They are quite easy to make at home. Measure the sink and cut four pieces of inch wide wood one inch less than the exact length and four pieces one inch less than the width.

Get a piece of fine wire netting half an inch smaller all round than the sink.

Now lay four of the pieces of wood together so that they form a square, or whatever it may be, of the same size as the sink. Lay the wire netting on the square and lay the other pieces of wood over so that the places where the wood joins do not come one over the other.

Nail firmly together, and the drainer is ready for presentation.

A Pretty Razor Case.

A new case for a razor, which will not be despised by a stay at home man who likes pretty things about his room, can be quickly made out of two narrow strips of wash leather joined together at the base and sides. Another piece of leather must be cut to form a fringe and stitched to the bottom of the bag.

The top part is of satin, headed in the usual way and with a ribbon drawstring run through the hem. Scope is left for individual taste in ornamenting the wash leather. Herringboned round with filoselle matching the satin in color, the name of the owner is worked in chain stitch diagonally across the bag.

EXTERMINATION POLICY

To Stamp Out Cattle Disease In Massachusetts

AGREED AS SAFE COURSE

Nearly Two Thousand Cows Will Be Disposed Of—Federal Government Will Defray Expenses on Basis of Seventy Percent of Valuation

Boston, Dec. 6.—A special meeting of the executive council was held yesterday at the state house and an order was approved authorizing Dr. Peters, chief of the state cattle bureau, to slaughter all the cattle, sheep and swine in Massachusetts which have contracted the foot and mouth disease or have been exposed to it. The United States government will pay the owners 70 percent of the value of the animals, this value to be determined by appraisers.

Dr. Salmon believes that by this course the disease will be quickly obliterated, and it is thought that in a few weeks it will be possible to raise the quarantine from the New England states.

Reports received at the Massachusetts cattle bureau show that at present between 1500 and 2000 animals are suffering from the disease in this state, and most of these will probably be killed. The slaughter remedy will also be applied in the other New England states in which the disease exists.

Dr. Peters says it will take until the first part of next week to have the machinery ready to carry out the order. To begin with he will slaughter the cattle in Barre and Pepperell and then in the vicinity of Attleboro.

The special meeting was called as a result of a conference between Governor Crane, Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry of the United States department of agriculture, and Dr. Peters. Dr. Salmon and Dr. Peters represented that the situation was very grave, that nothing short of the slaughter of the infected cattle will prove an adequate preventive of the spread of the disease. It was agreed that the only safe course to adopt was to enforce the heroic policy of extermination.

The commonwealth has authority to order the killing of the cattle, but there are no means at the command of the governor and council for the payment of compensation for the slaughtered animals. The United States government stands ready to defray all the expenses of the slaughter, on the basis of 70 percent of the valuation of the cattle.

Dr. Salmon came to Boston with authority from the secretary of agriculture to pay for slaughtered cattle, but in order that no misunderstanding might exist on this important subject he has since arriving here been advised by Secretary Wilson to assure Governor Crane that the United States government will defray the expenses of the extermination of infected cattle, and the disinfection of the premises where they have been kept.

A statement relative to the infected herds in this state shows that they number 101. This statement, which contains the names of the owners of the herds, will be sent by the health board to the various milk contractors in Boston and vicinity, and the contractors will not purchase milk from the farms on which there is any foot and mouth disease.

Cars Must Be Disinfected

Albany, Dec. 6.—State Superintendent of Agriculture Weiting yesterday notified all railroads doing business in this state that there is an outbreak among the animals of the states of New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut of foot and mouth disease and ordered them to cause all cars in which any animals have been transported since Aug. 1 to be thoroughly disinfected before further use. Forty special inspectors were placed in the state borders today to enforce the order.

Objection to Quarantine

Harrisburg, Dec. 6.—Governor Stone has taken prompt action looking to the raising of the quarantine ordered by Governor Yates of Illinois against Pennsylvania cattle because of the foot and mouth disease which exists among cattle in the New England states. Governor Stone has written a letter to Governor Yates protesting against his action and advising him that there has been no such disease in this state since 1882 and that the disease in the United States "is confined to a territory within a radius of 100 miles from Boston."

Deserved a Better Fate

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Charles H. Presbo of Ulysses, Pa., a senior of Cornell university, died yesterday of peritonitis. His death reveals a tale of hardships endured to obtain funds to come to Cornell. He earned the money by going into the backwoods and lumber camps of Potter county, studying at night to obtain his preliminary education and at the same time supporting his mother.

Europeans Experience Cold Weather

London, Dec. 6.—Telegrams from all parts of Europe record severe weather and snow, the temperature bieng several degrees below freezing point. The Dutch canals are frozen over and the harbor at Copenhagen is packed with ice and many ships are ice-bound. Heavy falls of snow are being experienced in the Alps and some Swiss villages are isolated.

THE TOP OF VESUVIUS.

A Visit to the Crater of the Seething Volcano.

There was no life on that bare, black, birdless cone, and as we climbed an icy wind began to blow, and the lava dust stung the face like hail. The crust was warm to the feet. I dipped my hand into an aperture the size of a rabbit hole and withdrew it hot and wet. On every side the smoke eddied up from tiny craters, but all these things were details in face of that everlasting vomit of black smoke from the crater.

The wind raged above us as we drew near the crater, and the lava dust spat more viciously; the sulphurous smoke hid the world from our view. It was as if the lieutenants of that angry monarch strove to prevent mortals from gazing too closely at her infernal orgies. On hands and knees we grabbed our way up the cone, coughing, blinded by the smoke, buffeted by the icy wind. We reached the verge of the crater and threw ourselves on our faces. I peered for one moment into that caldron of fire and smoke. The guide clutched my arm and motioned me to follow him round the edge of the crater. I crawled after him, crying, "Enough!" But he did not hear. He could not have heard a foghorn in the roar of that wind.

"Enough!" I bawled, trying to grab him. "E-nough!" I roared, clutching at his leg. He shrugged his shoulders, and, taking my arm, we plunged down through the lava. A few paces below he stopped. I bent toward him and through the screams of the wind heard him say, "Give me a leetle present to buy macaroni."—Academy.

Vitality of the Centiped.

The sight of a full grown centiped is said by travelers in tropical lands to be enough to affect the strongest nerves. Ten to eleven inches is the average length, although larger ones have been seen. Lafcadio Hearn in "Two Years In the French West Indies" says that the vitality of the centiped is amazing.

Mr. Hearn kept one in a bottle, without food or water, for thirteen weeks, at the end of which time it remained active and dangerous as ever. The centiped has one natural enemy able to cope with him—the hen.

The hen attacks him with delight and often swallows him, head first, without taking the trouble to kill him. The cat hunts him, but she is careful never to put her head near him. She has a trick of whirling him round and round upon the floor so quickly as to stupefy him; then, when she sees a good chance, she strikes him dead with her claws.

There are superstitions concerning the creature which have a good effect in diminishing his tribe. If you kill a centiped, you are sure to receive money soon, and even if you dream of killing one it is good luck.

An Unlucky Citizen.

"Yes, sir," said the town story teller, "he wuz the onluckiest feller that ever drawed the breath of life an' a week's wages."

"You don't say?"

"Fact. Clumb a pine tree once when he seen the sheriff comin' to levy on him, harricane come along, blowed the tree down an' landed him in the only vacant seat in the sheriff's buggy; sheriff started to jail with him; met by lynchin' party, who mistook him fer 'nuther man, an' strung him up, an' he'd almost quit kickin' when some un cut him down an' hauled him home jest as his mother-in-law had finished writin' his obituary an' wuz standin' before the glass to see how well she looked in mournin'."—Atlanta Constitution.

The Dog.

Man is the best friend of the dog. Horses come next, but between the dog and all other farm animals, from the house cat to the cow and the beef steer, there seems to be a natural enmity. Dogs, however, are fond of sheep and goats—but as diet, not as living friends. Cows and sheep and goats should be kept as free from association with dogs as is possible, with the exception of the trained shepherd dog. A dog walking through a cowpen will often cause a decrease in milk flow that amounts to more than the cash value of the dog. Many dogs are worth considerably less than $0.00.—Farm and Ranch.

Singular Marriage Custom.

When two Negritos, a people of the Philippine Islands, are united, the whole tribe is assembled, and the affianced pair climb two trees growing near to each other. The elders then bend the branches until the heads of the couple meet. When the heads have thus come into contact, the marriage is legally accomplished, and great rejoicings take place, a fantastic dance completing the ceremony.

The Honorable Members.

"I suppose the arrival of new congressmen from time to time has a tendency to give variety to life in the Capital City?

"Not a great deal," answered the man who is more or less cynical. "It merely means the introduction of new names into the same old anecdotes."—Washington Star.

In His Mind.

"Braggy says his grandfather lost his mind because of the loss of his fortune."

"He's just got the story twisted. He lost his fortune because of the loss of his mind. That's where he had his fortune."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Impossible.

I'M THE ROMOC MAN

I TRAVEL ABOUT THE COUNTRY WITH A MISSION—A VERY DISTINCT AND DEFINITE OBJECT. I PREACH LITTLE SERMONS ABOUT NATURE—NATURE IN HER RELATION TO MAN'S PHYSICAL NEEDS. I HAVE SOMETHING DIFFERENT TO SAY EVERY TIME YOU SEE ME, AND I SHOULD LIKE TO HAVE IT UNDERSTOOD THAT I DON'T MAKE STATEMENTS AND ADVANCE THEORIES JUST TO HEAR MYSELF TALK. NATURE STARTS EVERY HUMAN BEING OUT WITH A SET OF PHYSICAL ORGANS, ALL NECESSARY TO THE LIFE OF THEIR OWNER. THE STOMACH, THE NERVOUS SYSTEM AND THE BLOOD (WITH ITS CIRCULATING SYSTEM, INCLUDING THE HEART)—THESE ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT ORGANS OF THE BODY. NATURE KNOWS BEST HOW TO REPAIR THESE ORGANS WHEN THEY GET OUT OF ORDER. I AM GOING TO TELL YOU HOW, BY MEANS OF ROMOC, SHE DOES SO. SOCIALISTS ARE SCORED

In Bitter Speech to Workmen by German Emperor

EVEN HONOR NOT IMMUNE

From Slanders of Agitators Who, He Declares, Exploit, Terrorize and Enslave Their Followers In Order to Sow Hatred Between the Classes

Breslau, Dec. 6.—Emperor William, addressing a deputation of workingmen yesterday, declared that it was a lie to say that workingmen had to rely on the Socialist party for a betterment of their positions. The Socialists, he added, had terrorized and trod the workingmen under foot and as men of honor they must have nothing to do with them.

The presence of the workmen, Emperor William maintained, showed they had not disappointed him in the expectation he expressed at Essen, and had helped to keep free from reproach the memory of his friend, the late Herr Krupp. The working classes, the emperor said, were always to be the object or deep interest and solicitude to him. Therefore he was justified in addressing a word of warning to the workmen. For years they had let themselves be kept by agitators and Socialists under the delusion that they must belong to that party if they wished to better their position.

That, declared the emperor, was a great lie and a serious mistake. These agitators had tried to stir up the workingmen against their employers, against other classes and against the throne and altar, and at the same time they had most unscrupulously exploited, terrorized and enslaved them in order to strengthen their own power, not for the promotion of the welfare of the workingmen, but in order to sow hatred between the classes and disseminate cowardly slanders, from which nothing, not even the grandest quality, the honor of German manhood, remained immune. With such people the working class, as honor-loving men, should have nothing more to do.

Emperor William concluded with asking the deputation to send a comrade from their midst, a simple, unpretending man from the workshop, into the national parliament. Such a man would be gladly welcomed as a working representative of the German working class. The representatives of other classes would willingly work together with such representatives, however many they might be.

Women as Letter Carriers

Washington, Dec. 6.—It has recently been brought to the attention of Postmaster General Payne that about 25 women are holding positions as carriers in the rural free delivery service. An investigation will be made to learn whether they are performing their duties in a satisfactory manner. It appears the appointments were made without knowledge of the sex of the appointees. Mr. Payne is said to be opposed to the appointment of women to such service.

Boodler Denny's Poor Defense

St. Louis, Dec. 6.—Charles Denny, the millionaire brewer and director in the Suburban Street Railway company, formerly a member of the house of delegates, charged with perjury in connection with the suburban bill "boodle deal," was found guilty last evening and his punishment fixed at two years in the penitentiary. The only defense offered by Denny's attorney was testimony in behalf of the defendant's good character.

Tragedy May Be Revealed

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Mrs. Thaddeus Haight, while plowing on her farm near Milton yesterday, uncovered a human skeleton believed to be that of Thaddeus Haight, Jr., a son of the woman who owns the farm. Haight inherited some money and one day eight years ago he started away from home with over $2000 to pay some bills. He was never seen after that. The district attorney of Ulster county will investigate.

Russian Prince Deposed

St. Petersburg, Dec. 6.—Prince Dolgoroukoff, chairman of the Soudja district, has been deposed, ordered subjected to police supervision for five years and forbidden to engage in any public activity, on account of the revolutionary resolutions which were adopted by the local agricultural commission. The town of Soudja immediately conferred upon the prince its freedom and gave him a banquet.

The Lincoln Hotel Horror

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Fred A. Smith, proprietor of the Lincoln Hotel, in which 14 men were smothered to death Thursday, and E. S. Weber, night clerk, were arraigned yesterday on a charge of manslaughter as accessories before the fact. The police asked for a continuation and the hearing was set for Dec. 15. Smith's bonds were placed at $5000 and Weber's at $2000.

Minister Buck's Untimely Death

Washington, Dec. 6.—A few details of the death of Minister Buck are furnished in a cablegram yesterday from Tokyo, which says that his death was caused by paralysis of the heart. It occurred on an imperial hunting preserve near Tokyo. The funeral takes place on Dec. 8 and full official honors will be extended by the Japanese government.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Low Temperature Likely to Cause a Boom In Retail of Winter Goods

New York, Dec. 6.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Aside from the interruption to retail trade in winter goods at many points by unseasonable weather, business activity continues in excess of previous years, and it is probable that all the proposed trade will be made up now that low temperature has become general. While the warmest November on record at the east affected sales of clothing, it helped to restore the full equilibrium.

Cotton mills have light stocks and the demand, although quiet, is sufficient to prevent accumulation of goods in first hands. Consequently there is no effort to force sales in any staple lines. A small decline occurred in the print cloth yarn division of wide goods, while on the other hand colored cottons are slightly firmer. Export trade in heavy brown cottons is unsatisfactory. Reorder demands for lightweight woolens are limited and there is much conservatism in placing spring business because of the slowness with which seasonable goods are moving. Owing to heavy initial orders, however, mills are busy. A further advance in raw wool gives a better value to the finished product. Selling prices are without alteration.

New orders for spring shoes are still coming forward, although the bulk of the season's contracts have been closed at New England shops and some plants are assured of full occupation until April.

OLD-FASHIONED STORM

Brings Snow to All New England For the First Time This Winter

Boston, Dec. 6.—After an unusually long period of calm, mild weather, a spirited storm from the gulf brought grim winter to New England yesterday with great suddenness, and for the first time this season covered the entire section with snow. The storm was apparently severe in southwestern New England, where there was considerable wire prostration and some delay in railroad traffic. But in other sections the storm had few unusual features. The storm centre was apparently just off the coast, so that, being in the western quadrant, New England received the full benefit of a northeast gale, which in some places attained a velocity of 40 miles an hour.

Reports from various sections show an average of about six inches of snow, with a somewhat greater depth in the interior and a lesser amount along the coast. The only shipwreck reported was that of a small provincial schooner which ran on Dog Bar breakwater in Gloucester harbor. No lives were lost.

A railroad wreck, due to the storm, occurred at South Ashburnham, in which one brakeman was killed and another fatally injured. The storm is well down to the provinces, following a well-beaten track, while the customary drop in the temperature has followed.

Can't "Shout" Without License

St. Paul, Dec. 6.—A man who gives a drink to a friend is violating the law, unless he has a license. This is the substance of a decision rendered by Justice Lovely of the state supreme court yesterday. Harry Krebs, agent of a St. Paul liquor firm, gave a prospective customer several sample drinks of liquor. He was arrested because he had no license and was bound over to the grand jury. He brought habeas corpus proceedings to the supreme court to get out of jail, as he could not get bail. The supreme court says Krebs must stay in jail.

Business Man and Burglar

Philadelphia, Dec. 6.—George Dickinson, who was arrested here after a desperate fight with a policeman, and who was discovered by detectives to be a burglar by night and a business man by day, was tried and convicted yesterday and sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary. The police accused Dickinson of nearly 60 robberies, but could secure legal evidence in only 25 cases. Nearly $10,000 worth of Dickinson's loot was recovered.

Will Fill Nut Growers' Pockets

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—Failure of the French walnut crop and the consequent increased demand for California nuts has caused the growers to advance prices 1 1-4 cents a pound on the soft shell variety. The California crop will amount to about 800 carloads, most of which has already been shipped. This is above the average yield.

Washington Children Benefited

Washington, Dec. 6.—Dr. Lorenz held a clinic at Providence hospital yesterday, operating on Eileen Callahan, 6 years old, for hip dislocation incurred at birth. Two typical cases of club foot also were treated.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A general strike has been proclaimed at Amsterdam by the Dockers' union in consequence of the insistence of the dock companies in undertaking the work of a company whose employes are striking.

Dr. Henry Cutler, composer and musical conductor, died suddenly at his home at Swampscott, Mass. His musical compositions were numerous, but they were published in such an expensive way they failed to attain a wide circulation.

Ex-City Clerk Alden W. Sibley, who served the town of Pawtucket, R. I., a continuous period of 38 years, died suddenly of hemorrhage of the brain.

Ambassador Choate, accompanied by his wife and daughter and his secretary, has left London for a holiday in Egypt.

The Hague newspapers allude to the probability of Queen Wilhelmina and her consort, Prince Henry, making a European tour next summer.

BESTED THE PARSON.

A Case Where the Wedding Ring Went on the Right Hand.

A clerical correspondent of the London Express tells of a wedding ceremony in which he officiated and in his zeal for rubrical observances laid himself open to a comical and crushing retort.

"I was then curate of a small country parish in Somersetshire, and one day a couple presented themselves after due preliminaries for marriage in the village church.

"All went well until the moment came when it is directed by the rubric that the man shall place the ring upon the fourth finger of the woman's left hand, but then trouble began. The yokel, apparently from nervousness or ignorance, laid hold of the right hand of his expectant bride and placed the ring there resolutely.

"'No,' I said, with quiet firmness, 'you must put the ring on her left hand.' To this his only reply was a stolid stare. Thinking he had not understood me, I repeated my words, but with no better effect.

"With as much warmth and insistence as was justified by the occasion I now took firmer ground and said, 'If you do not put the ring on her left hand, I must stop the service.'

"And then the climax came. With a complacent smile, that seemed to show his satisfaction at having for the moment 'bested' the parson, the bridegroom settled the point for all time with the words, 'Please, sir, she ain't got none!'"

How Billiards Were Invented.

The English are very fond of the game of billiards, and a letter in the British museum gives the origin of the sport. It was invented by a London pawnbroker, whose name was William Kew. Kew not only lent money, but he sold cloth, and for the latter purpose had a yard measure, with which he used to compute the amounts. One day to distract himself he took the three round balls which are the emblems of his trade—they may still be seen in front of certain shops in London—and, placing them on his counter, began to hit them about with his yard measure.

He found it made a pretty game. He got a kind of skill in making one ball glance off the other, and his friends who saw him thus employed called the game Bill's yard. It was soon shortened into billiards. But the yardstick was the instrument with which the balls were knocked about, and difficulty arose as to what to call it. They called it after the name of the pawnbroker—a Kew.—Paris Figaro.

Ten Men and a Safe.

In the subbasement of one of our big life insurance companies is a safe so large that a theatrical company might perform therein. There are three doors, the combinations of whose locks are controlled by ten men. Each man, a high official of the company, is an integral part of the integral whole. In instance: Five men are required to open the outer door, each knowing a fifth part of the entire combination and no more. A, having set the gatings in his combination, is followed in turn by B, C, D and E, when the bolt may be moved. In the same manner the second door is opened by three men in combination and the third by two, in the latter case each being in combination with one or more of the other eight on the outer and second doors. The safe is regarded as safe.—New York Press.

Breaking Glass.

The following is an easy method of breaking glass to any required form: Make a small notch by means of a file on the edge of a piece of glass; then make the end of a tobacco pipe or a rod of iron of about the same size red hot in the fire. Apply the hot iron to the notch and draw it slowly along the surface of the glass in any direction you please. A crack will be made in the glass and will follow the direction of the iron.

Embarrassing For the Professor.

Professor (to his class)—Gentlemen, I have to apologize for a short delay in beginning this lecture. I have unfortunately left my manuscript at home, but my boy, whom I have sent for it, will be here shortly.

Professor's Son (audibly)—Mother couldn't find the manuscript, so she has sent the book you copied it from.—New York Times.

Brown's Sympathy.

Jones—Charley fell from a street car last evening.

Brown—Oh, I'm awfully sorry!

Jones—But he wasn't hurt at all.

Brown—I wasn't thinking about Charley. I was thinking of the sufferings of those who would be told about that fall for months to come.—Boston Transcript.

A Puzzler.

"Paw," said little Tommy Figg on being scolded, "I heard Mr. Watts say that great men's sons never did any good. I ain't a great man's son, am I?"

Up to a late hour Mr. Figg's mind had not found a sufficiently diplomatic answer.

Double Work.

First Decorator—I advised him to have his house decorated during his wife's absence as a surprise.

Second Decorator—Good! Then we'll have to do it all over again when she gets back.—Life.

Good Manners.

Good manners is the art of making those people easy with whom we converse. Whoever makes the fewest persons uneasy is the best bred in the company.

Good Afternoon.

The Hyde Park Gazette suggests that the Committee on Prisons of the Legislature would be an appropriate committe for Representative Freeman. Why not for Representative Fallon also?

While the Boston papers are commenting unfavorably upon the extravagant expenditure of money by the Aldermen of Boston for hack hire it might be well to mention that up to date the Quincy City Council has expended but $94 out of the $150 appropriated for that purpose.

Drift of Opinion.

At a recent meeting of an art club at which were twenty-five members it was impossible to find one a really happy-looking woman. The lines of anxiety, the puckered brows and drooping mouths, made one member feel that she would like suddenly to flash a mirror into each face and say, "Can't you look a little more pleasant, even if you don't feel like it, just for the sake of those around you?" Think of sitting opposite a woman twice—perhaps three times—a day and seeing always a look of care and worry. One couldn't blame a man for getting discouraged. The same thing can be seen in cars, at lectures and in fact everywhere, and even some young girls and children have the same disagreeable expression. If this careworn look has become such a part of the present generation that we cannot part with it, let us at least impress future generations with the fact that it is not only a thousand pities to spoil their freshness with all these needless lines and frowns, but a real wrong besides. One expects to look older at forty than at twenty, yet need one look as though she alone had all the hard times?—Good Housekeeping.

☞ We are not alarmed by the growing strength of the Socialist party for the reason that there is no evidence at hand to demonstrate that it is possessed of the qualifications of success in this country. If it is to grow and become a power anywhere it must be in those countries where the rule is monarchial. If we are not mistaken the Socialists are strongest in Germany, and yet never strong enough to command a situation. In this country where the constitution and traditions encourages the open and liberal consideration of every issue, public safety and security rest in free speech. To that we can attribute our escape from the ills and burdens which impracticable and theoretical reasoning with regard to government would impose. Each and every new theory has had to experience an operation upon the dissecting table of reason, and when a verdict has been asked the reply has almost invariably been a further support of Democratic methods of controls upon the theory that the best governed people is the least governed. This will be the experience of Socialism, which presents so many arguments of an attractive character, all of them calculated to deceive and mislead the unwary. In the final wash its theory will go to pieces. In the meantime its agitation represents more advantage than disadvantage, for the very heart and soul of a free republic have their being in free discussion and persistant agitation.—New Haven Register.

NEW SCHOOLHOUSE

Will Be an Ornament to the City of Quincy.

Unless something unforseen happens Quincy Point will soon see under way the new school building which is to take the place of the present wooden structure known as the Washington school. Proposals for the erection of the building have been asked for and will be opened Dec. 15.

The proposed building will be similar to the Cranch school. That is a ten-room brick building. It will have a frontage on Washington street of 133 feet 8 inches and a depth of 68 feet 4 inches. There will be two main entrances, one on Washington street and one on Curtis avenue.

The entrances lead to a corridor twelve feet wide running lengthwise of the building.

There are five rooms on the first floor and five on the second floor. There are two school rooms in the Washington court end and two in the north end of each floor and the other schoolroom is midway on the Washington street front.

Each room has blackboards extending around the room, closets, an electric bell and speaking tubes connecting with the master's rooms.

On the left of the Curtis avenue entrance is a room of which the dimensions are about 21 by 12 feet. This will be the master's room.

On the right is a room about 6 by 12 for the janitor, and a coat room about 13 by 20. There is also a cloak room on each end of the corridor. These rooms are provided with hooks and shoe boxes. They are also arranged so that each school room has a cloak room for its own use.

Entrance to the upper or second floor is by two stairways on the Washington street side.

The school rooms on the second floor are directly over those on the first floor.

Over the Curtis avenue entrance is a teachers room about 13 by 23, adjoining which is a teachers' locker room, leading from which is a teachers' toilet room.

The locker room is about 12 by 13 and is fitted with fourteen lockers.

In the basement are the boilers for heating the building, the system being what is known as direct indirect steam. There are also two large play rooms, in size about 39 by 20. One of these is for the boys and the other for girls. These rooms are reached by stairways leading from the first floor. Each room also has an entrance from out doors on the ends of the building. There are also separate sanitaries in the basement.

The building will be piped for gas and wired for electric lights. It will be a building that will be an ornament to Quincy Point and one of which its citizens can well feel proud.

Social at Wollaston.

At the monthly social held at the Baptist church, Wollaston, on Thursday, a full house was in attendance. The evening was in charge of Mrs. Webber, who was ably assisted. The programme was in charge of Mr. Blaisdell. Miss Godfrey of Boston gave several recitations and Mr. Grafton Abbot contributed songs. Piano solos were rendered by Miss Percy. After enjoying games, came refreshments consisting of sandwiches, cocoa and cake.

Foresters' Ball.

Court Roger Wolcott, Foresters of America of East Milton, held its second annual ball at St. Mary's hall Friday evening. McInnes orchestra furnished music for the dancing. Herbert Boutin was floor marshal, Alex. D. McIntosh, floor director, Alex. J. Souden, assistant floor director, and Bert Craig, chief of aids.

Iron For Color

Iron has been given for the cure of anemia or paleness from a very early date in medical history, and has always deserved the high praise it has received.

In no other preparation has Iron ever been so effectively and agreeably combined as in PEPT-IRON — a specific remedy for all forms and degrees of anemia, curing not only the paleness but also the nervousness and dyspepsia from which anemic patients so commonly suffer.

Pept-iron is a blood nutrient, nerve and stomach tonic, beneficial to all pale, nervous, dyspeptic people.

Mr. Chas. Dinwoodie, East Lexington, Mass., writes that his daughter was pale and had spells of not wanting to move about and of not caring whether she ate anything or not. Then she began taking Pept-iron and it gave her color, animation and a good appetite.

Peptiron

It leaves no inky or metallic flavor in the mouth, is agreeable to the taste, does not injure the teeth nor cause constipation.

Peptiron is make in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

The Wollaston W. C. T. U. will meet Tuesday, Dec. 9th with Mrs. E. D. Webber, 68 Winthrop avenue.

The Universalist Ladies' Association will hold a Christmas sale with supper and entertainment Dec. 17 and 18.

On Thursday the first grade teacher of Wollaston received from one of her pupils some dandelions that were picked from the roadside.

Charles Durgin who is a student at the Vermont academy, spent Thanksgiving with his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Durgin, of Winchendon.

Julius Johnson has commenced the erection of a house on Bigelow park, the first to be erected on this property since it was placed upon the market.

The street railway have erected a large number of electric lights in the yard adjoining the car barn and at night the neighborhood is as light as day.

The Board of Assessors of this city have been at the State House, Boston, for five days looking up personal property that should be taxed in Quincy; and we learn that they have been quite successful.

One of the attractions after the holidays will be the tableaux to be given at Quincy Music hall under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of Christ church. Mrs. John Downes has charge of the arrangements.

A special service in memory of St. Andrew will be held at the Water street Presbyterian church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The Clan McGregor and Loyal Ladies will attend the service in a body.

The rector of St. Chrysostom's church has received notice that Bishop Lawrence will visit the parish sometime the last of February. The Bishop's visit brings again the question of confirmation to the people.

The rumors that there is to be a recount of the votes cast for Mayor at the recent election, are without foundation. The time for filing petitions for recounts expired Friday night and none were received at City Hall.

Mr. C. Clifford Bradford and Miss H. Ware Stillman of Spear street have issued cards for an exhibition of burnt wood, Venetian iron, watercolor novelties and Raffia baskets, for Dec. 16, 17, 18 and 19, from two until nine.

The second car float for the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad was launched from the Fore River Engine yard Thursday afternoon at 1.45. It was afterward towed around and anchored near the machine shop.

Thomas Lester, of Portsmouth, has been awarded the contract for the pedestal of the Fitz John Porter statue, at a bid of $7,000. It will be of Quincy granite and will weigh about 100 tons. The statue is to be modeled by John E. Kelley, and will cost $23,000, making the total cost of the monument $30,000. The unveiling is set for July 4, 1903.

Capt. Eddy will reopen Quincy Music hall for high-class vaudeville on Thursday next and continue weekly on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings with a matinee on Saturdays at 2. Hattie Belle Ladd, late prima donna of the Castle Square opera company will be one of the attractions next week, previous to going on the Keith circuit.

Smallpox Man at Large.

A Boston paper says a smallpox patient, reported in Milton by Dr. N. R. Perkins of Dorchester Lower Mills, Thursday, has fled from the prospective place of quarantine, and cannot be located. The victim of the disease is Samuel Hockaday, unmarried, about thirty-five years old, who roomed on Brook road.

SLOOP ASHORE.

Chandler R. Became Unmanageable and Was Beached.

The fishing sloop Chandler R. of Portland, Me., was beached on Adams Shore during the storm yesterday but the captain and crew of two men landed safely.

The captain is Charles H. Goss of Deer Isle, Me., and his crew included Walter Robinson of Swans Island, Me., and Eben Stickney of Beverly. The sloop left Beverly Wednesday night for a fishing trip off the Massachusetts coast.

When the storm broke Captain Goss made for the coast intending to make Half way rock as a guide. The storm was so thick, however, that he was obliged to stand southward across the bay, and before he realized his position he was off Boston light. He then headed across Quincy bay. He was short of sail and the wind was blowing a gale, and it was impossible to manage her in the face of the terrible storm.

Sighting land ahead Capt. Goss decided to run his sloop upon the beach which he did successfully.

She lies in an easy position and will probably be floated at high tide today.

Capt. Goss and his crew were all chilled and wet from being out in the storm all night.

Ward One Recount.

At City Hall last evening a recount was made of the ballots cast at the City election for Stewart and Myer, the Democratic and Republican candidates respectively for Councilman from Ward One. Lawyer Mackay represented Mr. Stewart and Mr. Myer was present on his own behalf. The recount showed Myer the successful candidate by three votes. Both of them suffered from the fact that some of their supporters had in a few instances put a mark opposite more than three names, thus necessitating the throwing out of such ballots. The only change by the recount was that Livendale gained one vote and blanks lost one.

Probate Court.

At probate court this week administration was granted on estate of Mary A. Bosworth late of Quincy. Accounts were allowed on estates of Irene Belser for $6,100.77, and Lizzie M. and John M. Gordon for $3,628.26 and $3,127.60. Inventories were also filed on estates of John W. Gordon, Peter W. Dackers and David K. Dakers.

BRAINTREE.

The Christmas sale and entertainment given by the King's Daughters of the South Congregational church in the Town hall, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, was well attended, cleverly managed, and successful in every way.

At the home of Soloman Fuller, Middle street, the monthly business meeting of the Penniman School association was held Wednesday evening.

The next meeting of the J. P. S. A. will be held with Mrs. J. F. Perry on Tuesday evening, Dec. 16.

Eight above zero this morning.

There is skating on the small ponds today, but the ice is rough.

The next meeting of the Pine Tree club will be held in Odd Fellow's hall, South Braintree, next Monday evening.

A number of the evangelical churches of Braintree seized "time by the forelock" this year by uniting and giving thanks upon the Sunday previous to the day appointed and recommended by the Governor of Massachusetts.

Mr. John Barbour has gone to Providence to attend the funeral of his mother in that city tomorrow.

There have been slight changes in the time of opening and closing session at the Monatiquot and High schools.

Half of the railroad bridge over the Monatiquot river, east of the Braintree depot was rebuilt with heavy timber last Sunday.

Mr. W. A Stoddard and family of Mount Vernon avenue have moved into the house on Oak street, formerly occupied by Mr. H. E. Roberts.

The attendance at the Ladies' Home Missionary circle of the First church, was, as usual, large, more than one hundred being present. A social afternoon was enjoyed when all sat down to bountifully laid tables, presided over by Mrs. Asaph L. Arnold, Mrs. E. A. Belcher, Mrs. Learned, Mrs. Plummer, Mrs. John Barbour and Mrs. Eva Robinson.

Nathaniel B. Wales and Alva Morrison of Braintree have issued cards for two dances to be given at Cochato hall, Braintree, on the evenings of Saturday, December twentieth, and Saturday, January twenty-fourth, from half after seven until eleven o'clock. The dances will be matronized by Mrs. George O. Wales of Braintree and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon Quincy.

Mrs. Louise Ellis met with a very painful accident at her home on Nov. 28. She missed the first step at the top of the front stairs causing her to fall the whole flight of sixteen steps. She receivee severe bruises and a severe shaking up, but miraculously there were no bones broken. At the present time she is confined to her bed but is improving slowly.

Mr. W. Standwood Field of Brookline a former principal of the grammar school, was in town the early part of the week.

Mrs. Lydia Bishop of Washington street is spending the holidays with her nephew, Mr. Herbert Bates, of Wollaston.

Mrs. Daisy Williams and infant daughter, of Quincy Adams spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dyer of Washington street.

Mrs. Maurice Colbert, who has been with her parents in Provincetown for the last three months, returned home last week Friday. She brought with her a sturdy, fair, young Maurice.

Geo. E. Sampson, real estate agent, sold this week, the Dennehy estate on Pond street to William H. Moir of Dyer hill. In the spring Mr. Moir will make extensive repairs and occupy the place.

For a long time the Williams Kneeland & Co. shoe manufacturers, have thought seriously of adopting the union label and last Monday with the assistance of an organizer the factory joined the union. All the employes except one, were in favor of the change. We wish the corporation an increase of business and a harmonious future.

Divorces Granted.

Two Quincy women secured decrees nisi in the divorce court at Dedham yesterday:

Annie L. McCurdy vs. Albert McCurdy, both of Quincy; cruel and abusive treatment.

Bertha A. Preston of Cuincy vs. Peter Preston of New York; cruel and abusive treatment.

Minerva F. Spear of Weymouth vs. George S. Spear of Bridgewater; desertion.

Mary J. Cardie of East Dedham vs. George Cardie of Lawrence, desertion.

Only Ten As Cold.

Today is colder than yesterday, and the lowest noon temperature since Feb. 5 last, which was the coldest day of February. Not until Dec. 16 last year did Quincy get as cold a day as today, and there were only ten as cold last winter.

Forty Ton Stone.

A dispatch from Pittsburg, Penn., says the wheels of a truck carrying the 80,000-pound granite monument to be erected in the Frick burial lot, Homewood cemetery, broke through the asphalt pavement in front of the Frick residence Thursday and emained there all night. Sixty horses and about 60 men were unable for hours to remove the mass. After the stone was started from the freight yard it required 30 horses to haul the burden along the level streets, but 30 more horses were used on grades.

All the numbers were enthusiastically applauded and the artists graciously responded to several encores. At the close of the musicale a social hour was enjoyed during which dainty refreshments were served.

To Cooperate.

Twenty publishers of suburban papers have formed a business organization the object of which is to secure a larger share of general advertising for the local weekly papers circulating within twenty-five miles of Boston.

The large advertisers have always looked with favor upon the "pulling" power of the local weekly but have been deterred from using this class of publications because of the time required to intelligently close a number of contracts when the work is done direct with each publisher.

The new organization, of which George C. Fairbanks of the Natick Bulletin is president, will employ a salaried representative who will save the time of the advertiser in being able to quote a rate for all the publications on the list.

The new organization will not be at variance with the established advertising agencies, its purpose being to make the advertiser better acquainted with the merits of Boston's suburban papers as advertising mediums, and thereby increase the present volume of business.

Banquet.

The Wollaston football team has organized for next season with H. R. Osgood as manager; G. R. Kent, assistant manager, and H. S. Taylor, captain. The team held a banquet last evening at the United States hotel, Boston, at which G. H. Murray and H. E. Blake, Jr., were guests.

USE OF FALSE TEETH.

Two Millions Manufactured Annually In the United States.

Probably not less than 2,000,000 artificial teeth are manufactured in this country each year, and still the output goes on increasing. Never before was such great care manifested for teeth as has been exhibited during the past five years. In this respect Americans lead the world, not even the fastidious French excelling the people of the United States in their solicitude for the preservation of natural teeth and in their application of the arts of dental science when substitutes have to be provided for nature's molars.

Englishmen are notoriously careless about their teeth, although in late years great progress has been made in this matter.

A prominent dentist of New York declares that nearly every patient with a mouthful of decayed teeth is a foreigner. "They let things drift," he says, "and come only when pain drives them here. Americans, and especially southerners, hasten to their dentist immediately they detect even the slightest signs of coming trouble, and the result is that there are by far more 'saved' teeth in this country than in any other. Englishmen and Irishmen are remarkably apathetic about their molars and will go about for years with hopelessly decayed teeth."—New York Times.

Gluck In a Frenzy.

When Gluck composed his immortal works, a bottle of champagne was always placed on either side of the piano, and its effervescence helped to inspire the great arias of "Iphigenia," "Armida" and "Alceste." When the final rehearsals were held of the "Iphigenia," Gluck had not yet written the melody to the "Dance of the Scythians." Naverre, the ballet master, becoming uneasy over the delay, went to him one morning to urge him to hurry it up. As he entered the composer's anteroom he heard unusual and terrific noises emanating from Gluck's library. He approached stealthily and through a crack in the door saw Gluck in shirt sleeves, his face as red as fire and distorted by horrible grimaces, singing, gesticulating and jumping about like a madman. Naverre, frightened by the extraordinary spectacle, pushed the door open. "Ah, there you are," exclaimed Gluck. "I am just finishing your dance and will let you have it right away." It was then that Gluck had composed that grand orgy of the savages which created such a profound sensation on the stage.

Blind Men as Shampooers.

"I do pity these blind men so," said a stranger in the city who had been approached by so many "blind" men in walking down the avenue that he wondered how these beggars picked him out so readily.

"And yet," said his host, "there are many lines of work which they could do instead of begging. For example, most of the shampooers in Japan are blind men. Some are so well to do that they own their own houses, and their patrons go to them for treatment. Others who have not succeeded so well go from house to house, and the rest of the people from sympathy guide them from place to place. Some of them walk alone, blowing on bamboo whistles. There was a time when some of them were doctors as well as shampooers."—New York Tribune.

Mortar Tossers.

There is no hod carrying in Japan. The native builders have a method of transferring mortar which makes it seem more like play than work to the onlooker. The mortar is mixed up in a pile in the street. One man makes this up into balls of about six pounds weight, which he tosses to a man who stands on a ladder midway between the roof and the ball. This man deftly catches the ball and tosses it up to a man who stands on the roof. This plan would scarcely work for skyscrapers.

What Botanists Do Not Know.

How water, commonly called sap, necessary to the life of a tree, passes from the roots to the topmost leaf and evaporates is a problem not yet solved by botanists. It is known that the ascent is made chiefly in cavities in the sapwood only, the heart and bark serving other purposes. That is the extent of our knowledge of the matter. Beyond is mere conjecture, and every theory yet advanced has failed to stand the test of experiment.

The Cast Was Made.

"Do you cast things here?" inquired a smart youth the other day as he sauntered into a foundry and addressed the proprietor.

"Yes, we do."

"You cast all kinds of things in iron, eh?"

"Certainly. Don't you see that is our business?"

"Ah, well, cast a shadow, will you?" He was cast out.

Intellectual.

"Just fahncy, Weginald, I've forgotten ma cahrd case."

"Nevah mind, deah boy, I'll lend you some of mine."

"But—ah—the name would be different, you know."

"Bah Jove, so it would! What a head you have, Algy!"

Discontent.

Most men spend one-third of their lives trying to make the world different, another third in learning to live in it as it is and the remainder in explaining how much better it used to be.—Washington Times.

The last few hours before a funeral the clock in the house strikes with a tone never noticed before and never apparent again, except on similar occasions.—Atchison Globe.

A CHRISTMAS CRIME

A Yuletide Tale of Two Homes

RIDGEWOOD had a thief! When I, Detective Martinet of the metropolitan secret service, was called out there, I found the town in a state of excitement over the robberies. The principal ones had taken place in the mansion of Colonel Payne, the richest man in Ridgewood.

There had been four burglaries at the Payne mansion. The first night silver was taken—small pieces consisting of spoons, forks, after dinner coffees and knives.

The second night a small rocking chair disappeared and several velvet covered footstools and nice little articles of bric-a-brac designed for Christmas gifts. The third night all the children's Christmas toys that had been carefully stored away in a Santa Claus cupboard by Colonel Payne and his wife, ready for Christmas eve, disappeared, and the fourth night the cellar was pillaged of its wine and fruits.

"Looks as if it was somebody inside the house," said the colonel after we had been over the ground pretty well.

"Not exactly," said I, "or why would they take a rocking chair?"

The party that accompanied me through the house consisted of the colonel and his wife, the oldest daughter, a girl of fifteen, and the colonel's private secretary, William Winter.

"I NEVER SAW ANYTHING SO LOVELY."

"This is the window they got in at the first night," said Winter, pointing to a bay window on the ground floor leading out of the dining room. "And this is the one they got in at the other nights," pointing to another big window that was in the staircase hall alongside the front door.

"Why didn't they always enter at the same window?" I asked carelessly.

"That's what bothers me," said Winter, "but you can go see for yourself that they didn't," pointing to trampled places under both of the windows.

"You see it was this way," said the colonel. "We were greatly alarmed the first night when the silver was taken, and we set a watch over the things. From that night to the present this house has been steadily guarded from the inside every night, from dark until daylight. And yet we have had three robberies during that time. It is the strangest thing I ever saw, and I'd give $500 to catch the burglars."

"Are they operating anywhere else in Ridgewood?"

"Yes," said Winter promptly, "they tried to steal some things out of the church last night, and a week ago they broke into the office of the gas company."

"Are you familiar there?" I asked.

"Yes," said Winter.

"One thing more, colonel, before I go," I said. "Will you tell me the name of the person who was on guard in your house the last three nights?"

"I was the person," said Winter.

"All right, colonel," I said. "I am going back to the city today to stay about a week, but I will be back Christmas eve, and then I will look up your thief for you. And, by the way, you might get ready for your Christmas tree, for I expect to give you all your things back in time for your Christmas celebration."

The colonel looked skeptical and Winter shook his head sadly.

"Don't you think you had better stay here if you are going to look for him?" asked the colonel.

"No," I said. "It isn't necessary. Good day, you can look for me Christmas eve."

I said goodby, but I didn't leave Ridgewood after all. I only went away far enough to hide myself in a certain little hotel in the little town, and there I waited and watched—did as slick detective work as I ever did in my life, even in a big city on the biggest robbery I ever had.

Christmas eve found me, not in the colonel's home, but out in the cold, frosty air, looking into the window of a little cottage. The cottage was the end one in a row of wooden houses, each with a grass plot around it. It belonged to William Winter, private secretary to Colonel Payne; and in the cottage lived Winter and his wife and Winter's wife's mother; also six little Winters varying in age all the way from four to twelve years.

"I never saw anything so lovely in all my life, papa," the oldest Winter girl was saying as I pressed my nose against the glass and peered in through the narrow strip between the window sash and the casement.

There inside of the room stood a little Christmas tree upon a big box, and upon the tree and all around the foot of it stood dozens of beautiful Christmas gifts. Such a Christmas tree you never saw! There were little things in silver—spoons, forks, after dinner coffees and knives, and there was a rocking chair, also several little footstools and little articles of bric-a-brac, all newly covered with cheap chintz. And there were toys. Oh, so many toys! And upon the table at the side of the tree stood the best of wines and Christmas fruits.

"How sweet of you, Will!" Winter's pretty wife said as she threw her arms around his neck and kissed him. "How did you ever guess that I wanted all those silver things for the table?"

"And did any one ever see such a son-in-law?" cried the old lady as her eyes fell upon the table with the wine and fruits.

"I have got the goodest papa in the world," yelled the six year old, while the others chimed in "Yeth" as they made a dive for the toys.

"I could sit in this rocking chair for a week," murmured Winter's wife, rocking herself back and forth with her foot on the gayly covered footstool, "if it wasn't that I felt as if I wanted to get up and kiss you again," she said to Winter for the twentieth time as she looked around.

"Now go to bed, all of you," cried Winter, "and something extra for the one who starts first. Don't let me hear a word from you again until tomorrow morning at breakfast, and then we'll have Christmas all day."

He hustled them out of the room, and when I tapped on the door there was no one left downstairs to open it but he.

"Well, what are you going to do about it?" I asked, stepping into the room and pointing to all the Christmas things.

"I don't know," said he, dropping down by the table and hiding his face in his hands. "I don't know, I am sure. It will kill her if you tell her."

"What made you take them?" I asked.

"Because he's got so much he doesn't know what to do with it," said Winter. "So I took them all easy like and thought it would blow over in a few days. You see, we have so many babies in our family," he added, "that there wasn't much left this year for Christmas, and the children have been talking about it every day for the last three months. It broke my heart to think I'd have to disappoint them, so I did the best I could for them."

"You watched the house all night for the colonel, did you?"

"Yes, except for about an hour; long enough to slip over here with an armful."

"Well, what are you going to do about it?"

"God knows; I don't," he repeated. "It will kill her if you tell her."

"Do you want me to arrest you tonight, or will you wait until morning?"

"Christmas day!" he exclaimed, breaking down and beginning to cry like a baby. "I know I'm a wretch. Only kill me—do anything; but don't tell her."

It might have been that the spirit of Christmas was in the air. Perhaps the thought of those six little children and that sweet faced wife had a stronger influence than they should have had over a detective's heart. But I said to him, "Well, bundle up the things and come along with me, and we'll see what we can do about it."

We looked like two Santa Clauses ourselves as we slipped along the streets, choosing bylanes and cross paths to the Payne residence.

We got into the triangular lawn by a rear path and stole softly up to the house. There was the dining room brilliantly lighted and in the middle stood a tree all bare and waiting for gifts, just as I told the colonel to arrange it.

There was no one in the room, and after I had pried up the sash we stole in together. There was only just time to drop our packages on the floor at the foot of the tree and to rush away again before the colonel's daughter came in.

"Oh, papa," she cried, "here are some presents for us."

But I heard no more just then, for I was busy helping poor Winter get away. An hour later I rang the colonel's front door bell. He opened the door himself.

"Come right in," said he. "I guess you are a wizard tonight. Just after we got the Christmas tree set up and while we were upstairs getting our presents together to hang on the tree the thief came back and left the Christmas presents."

"Everything there?" I asked.

"Everything," said he, "down to the last teaspoon. We have counted them all. Poor fellow, he must have had a guilty conscience, and when it came Christmas eve he squared it with himself by sending back all he had stolen."

"Strange!" said I.

"Very strange," said the colonel. "I'd like, if I knew who the thief was, to send him something for a Christmas present, just as a reward for his conscience. As it is I ask you, detective, not to look him up. He has evidently turned over a new leaf this Christmas eve."

"Evidently," said I.

"Now, detective," said the colonel, "I am going to ask you to stay with us over Christmas and enjoy a nice holiday. And so that we can all have an extra fine day I am going to send one of the boys over to Winter's house tonight with these things so that he can have a merry Christmas as well as the rest of us."—Minneapolis Tribune.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic.—Do I discourage others?—Mark x, 46-52; Num. xiii, 26-33.

There is no man that liveth to himself. Every man has some influence for good or for evil upon somebody else. We are "good angels" or "bad angels" to those with whom we come in contact in life. We inspire men to faith and to endeavor or we dishearten and discourage them. The very atmosphere of our lives has often one of these two effects without our saying or doing anything directly. In the presence of some people we are inspired to hope, to trust, to believe, while the presence of others impresses us with doubt and despair. What is the effect of our lives? Do we inspire or discourage? Are we a help or a hindrance?

Do we discourage others from coming to Christ? It seems incredible that any should do this, yet many do stand in the way of others who want to accept and to confess Christ. In Matt. x, 46-52, we have an illustration of such a character. Blind Bartimæus pressed toward Christ, crying, "Have mercy on me," but many cried out, "Hold your peace." What a discouragement! How different if they had taken his hand and led him to the Saviour. Yet he persevered and was healed and saved. Parents brought children to Christ, but the disciples discouraged them, saying, "Trouble Him not;" yet Jesus Himself was willing to be troubled and invited them to come. Thus many have been discouraged from coming to Christ. Some have been ridiculed and scoffed, some have been told they were too sinful and some that they were too young. And then in deeds as well as words many are discouraged from coming to Christ. Do we thus discourage any one? Are our lives so inconsistent that we lead them to think that perhaps after all it is as well not to come? What could be sadder than to keep a soul from Christ?

Do we discourage others in Christian work? Of this we have an instance in Num. xiii, 26-33. Ten men by discouragement kept a nation of people from performing their duty and from fulfilling the task appointed to them by God Himself, with the terrible consequences that for years they wandered aimlessly about in a wilderness. What could better illustrate the direful consequence of discouragement? It is easy to discourage Christian workers. A look, a word, an act, may take the heart out of one who is earnestly striving to serve God. "But woe unto that one through whom the offense cometh." Christ Himself has pronounced a terrible woe upon those who discourage the simple and the weak. We should earnestly strive against being discouragers or discouraged. Like Bartimæus, we should strive the more in the face of opposition, resting assured that God will hear us and will own and bless all efforts sincerely put forth in Christ's name.

An Important Committee's Work.

Advertise religion. Why not? The world finds that the quickest way to push forward an enterprise is to advertise it. As long as there is nothing wrong in the method, why not use it in promoting the enterprise of Christian Endeavor? Next to a consistent life, I believe, the best advertisement of Christianity is Christian literature, and "good literature" committees should constitute themselves advertising agents to bring Christian literature before the public.—John Willis Baer.

The Quiet Hour.

The Quiet Hour enrollment has now passed the 30,000 mark. The simple, farreaching covenant of the comrades of the Quiet Hour is this: "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I will make it the rule of my life to set apart at least fifteen minutes every day, if possible in the early morning, for quiet meditation and direct communion with God."

In the Frozen North.

Rev. Dr. Clark, on his recent old world journey in the interest of Christian Endeavor, found one society in Sweden beyond the arctic circle, in latitude 67 degrees 30 minutes north.

Dr. Conwell's Church.

In Rev. Dr. Russell H. Conwell's church in Philadelphia there are fourteen Christian Endeavor societies.

In China, Germany and Japan.

The first society in Fuchau was called by a Chinese word which means "the Drum and Rouse Up society," not a bad translation of Christian Endeavor.

There are more than 100 societies in Germany, and in that country they call the movement "Christliche Entschiedenheit."

The "Kyoreikwai" is the Japanese name for Christian Endeavor. Recent statistics show seventy-one societies in the Land of the Rising Sun.

15. A. K. T., Illinois.—Christian Endeavorer levies no tax on either the individual member or the society. The work is supported purely by voluntary offerings. The expenses of the United Society of Christian Endeavor are met by the profits from its publishing department.

16. K. D. C., Pennsylvania.—The president of New York State Christian Endeavor union is Rev. Dr. Edwin Forrest Hallenbeck, pastor of the West Presbyterian church of Binghamton.

WAS NEAR BLONDINS' DOOR

Woman Heard No Sound of Struggle at Supposed Time of Murder

Boston, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Hennigan, whom the government believes was one of the last persons to have seen Mrs. Blondin alive, was the principal witness yesterday in the trial of J. W. Blondin. She was called to the stand during the forenoon and her examination was completed just before the adjournment. It had been understood that the government considered Mrs. Hennigan one of the most important witnesses in the case. It developed during the cross-examination, however, that after Mrs. Hennigan had seen Blondin and his wife enter their room Saturday afternoon, April 27, 1901, she remained within a few feet of the door until Blondin came out and left the house. During that time she heard no sound of any kind to indicate that a struggle was taking place.

Dentist Mayer of Lowell, who was on the stand when court adjourned Thursday, completed the identification of a lower set of artificial teeth as the set he had made for Miss Margaret E. Riley, (Mrs. Blondin), and Mrs. Casey, Mrs. Blondin's sister, identified an upper set of artificial teeth as the property of the dead woman.

Mont Pelee In Eruption

Pointe a Pitre, Dec. 6.—Professor Lacroix, who was sent by the French government to investigate the volcanic situation in Martinique, and who has established his headquarters near Mt. Pelee, reports that the volcano has been in dangerous activity during the past week. There have been severe eruptions and ashes have been thrown out. Rumblings have been heard and the central cone appears incandescent. It falls frequently and reforms in different shapes. Vessels are advised not to approach the coast.

Patrick Wants New Trial

New York, Dec. 6.—Argument on the motion for a new trial for Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer, who was convicted of having murdered W. M. Rice, the millionaire, was begun yesterday before Recorder Goff. The affidavits on which the motion for a new trial is based set forth that complete immunity was given the valet, Charles Jones, who confessed that he committed the murder, and assert that new and important evidence has been gathered.

Considering Anti-Trust Measures

Washington, Dec. 6.—The sub-committee of the house judiciary committee, to whom was referred the anti-trust bills, reported favorably to the full committee yesterday on Mr. Littlefield's bill providing for giving publicity to the affairs of commercial combinations with certain amendments. Acting Chairman Jenkins of the judiciary committee appointed a sub-committee yesterday to which all anti-trust bills have been referred.

Argument With a Revolver

Buffalo, Dec. 6.—Martin F. Murphy, president of the State Federation of Labor, visited the Snow steam pump works yesterday and ordered a strike of the moulders, but a number refused to quit work. Foreman Zip remonstrated with Murphy, when Murphy, according to the police, drew a revolver and fired five shots, none of which took effect. Murphy was placed under arrest and later released on $1000 bail.

"Fun" In Frightening Neighbors

Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Eva Henderson, aged 19, dressed in men's clothes, was shot in the leg last night by a policeman who was detailed to watch for mysterious women in black or a man who had been terrorizing women and children at night by prowling around houses and trying door knobs and windows. Miss Henderson said that she had been having fun frightening neighbors.

Reed's Condition Still Critical

Washington, Dec. 6.—Thomas B. Reed suffered an attack of nausea shortly after 1 o'clock this morning. In his weakened condition this had a depressing effect upon him. Dr. Bishop, who was attending Mr. Reed, said, however, that there has been no alarming change in his patient's condition, which is still considered critical.

To Relieve Troops In Philippines

Washington, Dec. 6.—The war department yesterday issued an order providing for the exchange of 15 Philippine regiments for organizations with the same number of troops in the United States. The home troops will relieve the troops in the Philippines, the first contingent leaving San Francisco Feb. 1 next.

Reduction In Sugar Tax

Paris, Dec. 6.—The chamber of deputies adopted last night the new sugar law, of which the principal provision reduces the tax on refined sugar to 25 francs per 200 pounds as a compensation for the abolition of the sugar bounties under the Brussels convention.

Nothing New For Carrie

Topeka, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Carrie Nation is in jail on the charge of disturbing the peace. She was forcibly ejected yesterday from several drug stores and one of the most prominent hotels in the city.

A MOUNTAIN GIRL'S LOVE

[Original.]

A girl stood before a cabin door in the Cumberland mountains. Down the path there was the sound of a horse's hoofs slowly coming up, and presently a horseman made his appearance. He was a handsome young fellow, with a jaunty air and a pleasant smile. It is astonishing how suddenly one of those simple country girls will lose her heart to a man such as she has not been accustomed to. Sarah Ridgeley looked upon the graceful figure and the resolute features, lighted by the sunshine of a smile, and surrendered.

"Can you give me a bite?" he asked.

"Sartin."

The stranger dismounted, tied his horse to a sapling and kept up a continued chatting with the girl while she busied herself at preparing a meal. When it was ready, he sat down to it, and she stood by to wait on him, watching him with her soft brown eyes.

"They say Warfield, the outlaw, has been making a considerable stir about here lately," said the man.

"Reckon."

"Did you ever see him?"

"No."

"He's a bad one and no mistake."

"Reckon he never had no mother to 'tend to his bringin' up."

"What?"

The girl repeated what she had said, and her quick eye told her that her words had affected him. He finished his meal and, rising from the table, went outside.

"The moon is full tonight," he said. "Would you be afraid to go over to Taggert's rock about 9 o'clock?"

"What fo'?"

"I'd like to meet you there."

"Yo' kin come hyar. The fam'ly 'll be hyar."

"I don't care to meet the family. Goodby. Hope I'll see you again some day." And he rode away.

When Sarah's father came home, he brought a man with him, and later on several more men came. She heard them talking about Warfield, the outlaw, and soon learned that they were out to capture him. She was obliged to cook the men a supper, after which they bivouacked near the cabin. Sarah did her work mechanically, her mind being on the handsome stranger, and when the dishes were washed and put away she strolled out into the moonlight by herself. Involuntarily her steps led her toward Taggert's rock. She regretted that she had declined to meet the stranger there. It was the proper course for her to take, but she was not strong enough to be satisfied with her denial. Permitting herself to wander on, she at last came to the rock and seated herself on it. Below was the valley, lighted by the soft rays of the moon, but she did not see it. She remembered the smile that had been left in her heart. Then she heard a step and a voice:

"I knew you would come."

"I tole yo' I wouldn't," she said.

"And I told myself you would."

"I come away to git shut of a lot of men there was at home. They're lookin' fo' Warfield. They say they'll ketch him sho."

"If they can."

The stranger took her by the hand and drew her down to a seat upon the rock. They sat there side by side for an hour, and his conquest was complete. Taking out a pocketknife, he said to her:

"Give this to the men who are hunting for Warfield. It will give them a clew as to his whereabouts."

"Is that really so?"

"Yes."

"When 'll I see yo' ag'in?"

"Leave that to me."

When Sarah gave the knife to one of the men who had come home with her father, he took it into the light.

"Where did you get this?" he asked suddenly.

"I met a man who tole me to give it to yo'."

He held the knife up before her, and she saw carved in rude letters on the handle "Warfield."

In a moment the horses were saddled and the men were off. They spent a week night and day looking for the outlaw, but did not find him.

It was exactly a year to the day after the stranger had appeared at the Ridgeley cabin. The moon, as before, was about at the full. Sarah, who had for twelve months condemned herself for loving an outlaw, weakened so far as to go to Taggert's rock on the anniversary of their meeting there. Within her was a strange fear, a strange hope that he would come.

Suddenly she felt an arm around her waist, and a voice near her ear whispered:

"Sweetheart!"

Putting her hands to her face, she burst into a passion of tears.

"I have come to say goodby forever," said the outlaw. "Since I met you I have worked honestly and have saved a little money to take me to the other side of the world."

"What made yo' an outlaw?" she sobbed.

"An unconquerable desire for a life of adventure."

"What made yo' change?"

"Your love and your unconscious reference to my mother."

"Air yo' sho yo're goin' to be honest?"

"As long as I remember you, and I shall never forget you."

"Whar yo' goin' to?"

"Alaska."

"When yo' goin'?"

"Tomorrow morning."

She threw herself into his arms. "I'm a-goin' with yo.'."

EXPLOSION AND FIRE

Completely Wrecks Building Belonging to Masonic Fraternity

Laconia, N. H., Dec. 6.—The Masonic temple was burned this morning, following a terrific explosion which first must have entirely wrecked the structure. The loss is $125,000 and is almost total to the occupants, including the United States postoffice. The fire is thought to have started in the basement which was used by the Laconia Hardware company. In a very few minutes several explosions occurred, one of which was so terrific that it hurled fragments of iron from the building a distance of a quarter of a mile, and sent bricks and timbers through wooden structures 400 feet away. In addition window glass in the immediate business sections for a wide area was shattered completely.

After the explosion the fire in a very short time wiped out the temple. The building was four stories in height, and was built in 1894 at a cost of $80,000.

Just what caused the explosion is not known, although it is said that the hardware company kept explosives in stock. When the big explosion came people all over the city were awakened from their sleep. The fire apparatus had to cope with eight inches of snow on the streets, but the members of the department did creditable work in saving surrounding property.

No Limit to Working Hours

Providence, Dec. 6.—The senate yesterday passed an amendment to the 10-hour law which gives the employes of street railways in Rhode Island the right to contract with officials of such roads to work as many hours daily as they wish. The law as originally passed took from the street railway employes their right to contract for work lasting more than 10 in 12 consecutive hours.

Boston Contractors Fail

Boston, Dec. 6.—F. G. Coburn & Co., one of the largest contracting firms in the city, has made an assignment, with liabilities estimated at about $150,000. At present the company is building two large hospitals for the city of Boston, a large schoolhouse for the city of Cambridge and two great shops at the Charlestown navy yard for the United States government.

Hospital For Insane Overcrowded

Danvers, Mass., Dec. 6.—In their 25th annual report the trustees of the Danvers insane hospital ask the legislature to appropriate $25,000 in addition to the $50,000 already appropriated to complete buildings for 100 patients. The hospital, built for 450 patients, now contains 1150, and cots and frame beds in the corridors are resorted to.

Liquor Legislation In Vermont

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 6.—The senate yesterday added nine amendments to the house bill providing for license. The principal charge provides for a distribution of license fees equally between the state and license towns and designates the first Tuesday in February as the date of a special election to vote on the referendum.

Father's Consent Not Necessary

Boston, Dec. 6.—Judge Lowell yesterday dismissed the petition of John B. Biggi for a writ of habeas corpus to release Frank Biggi, his minor son, out of the custody of Admiral Johnson of the Charlestown navy yard. The petition stated that the boy had enlisted in the navy without his father's written consent.

Haverhill Socialists Lose

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 6.—This city will have a Republican mayor, Henry R. Watson, next year, as the recount of the mayoralty vote did not fulfill the hopes of the Socialists that they would overcome the 14 plurality of Watson. The recount and tabulation showed Watson's margin to be 12.

Suicide Leaves Large Family

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 6.—John Van-Vliet, a cigarmaker, committed suicide last night by blowing out his brains with a shotgun. He was 46 years old and leaves a wife and 11 children. He was a severe sufferer from asthma, and this is the only cause that can be assigned for the act.

To Assume New Duties

Boston, Dec. 6.—Chief Justice Holmes paid his farewell visit to the court house yesterday afternoon, where he took leave of many of the older attaches who called upon him for that purpose. He left for Washington last night.

Coal at $12 a Ton

Boston, Dec. 6.—Many local coal dealers, especially those in the suburban districts, have advanced the price to $12 a ton, and even at this price refuse to supply any but the most stringent needs of regular customers.

Students and Nurses Will Contribute

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 6.—To save William Lawson, who was frightfully burned by molten tar six weeks ago, from being a life-long cripple, or from possible death, 16 nurses at the hospital here, where the injured man is a patient, and eight medical students have each volunteered to sacrifice a few square inches of skin to be grafted on his body.

Immigrant Smuggler Indicted

Utica, N. Y., Dec. 6.—The United States grand jury yesterday indicted Solomon Osmeansky, a Russian Jew, for bringing to the United States another Jew afflicted with an infectious eye disease, after the man had been rejected by United States inspectors in Montreal. It is claimed hat Osmeansky got $50 for smuggling the man in.

Troops Killed Twenty Rioters

London, Dec. 6.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that in the riots at Rostoff the troops fired on the workmen, killing 20 of them.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

Pilgrimages Almost Daily to the City of Presidents.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACE JOHN ADAMS.

Franklin street, Quincy Adams, house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

BIRTHPLACE JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.

Junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian), Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams. At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Janitor can be found at Savings Bank building or at his home Maple place. No fee charged, but janitor may be paid for his trouble.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Private house, not open to public.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished; also the big ship yard now established at Quincy Point.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

—Archbishop Ireland says that the canteen is the lesser of two evils and should be re-established. Why not refer the subject to a referendum vote of the rank and file of the army? They are the most concerned and we believe the best able to decide the question upon its merits.—Athol Chronicle.

Palpitation,

fluttering or irregular pulsations are an indication of weakness of the nerves or muscles of the heart. A weakness long continued produces deformity and organic disease. If your heart action is weak, make it strong. Build up the muscles and strengthen the nerves with the greatest of all heart remedies, Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

"The least exertion or excitement caused my heart to throb and pound and I had smothering spells, pain and palpitation. Three bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure overcame all these disturbances and made me well."
MRS. J. A. COURS,
Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

quiets the nervous heart, regulates its pulsations and builds up its strength as nothing else can. Sold by druggists on a guarantee.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

So great an interest has been shown in the Castle Square theatre production of Hall Caine's play "The Christian," that its run might have been continued long beyond the two weeks assigned for it in the plans for the season. The policy of frequent productions, followed by the Castle Square theatre management, however, precludes a continuance of this play beyond the 13th inst. as other attractions of an equally interesting character already await presentation. "The Christian" is a notable addition to the season's repertoire of the Castle Square, and the members of the permanent stock company are given fine opportunities for their best work in its leading characters. The great stage of the theater makes the large groupings and tableaux of the play most effective, and the stage pictures as planned and arranged by Mr. J. R. Pitman, are models of stage direction. "The Christian" promises to make a record in the matter of attendance at the Castle Square this season and the production is one that reflects credit upon all departments of the theatre. The usual distribution of boxes of chocolate bonbons will be continued at the Monday matinees.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

For the past two weeks melodrama has ruled at the Boston Music Hall and on next Monday afternoon a short run of popular farce comedies will begin. Billy A. Van and Nellie O'Neill, heading their own farce comedy company of 40 people, commence a week's engagement on Monday, presenting for the first time in Boston the amusing and lively three act farce comedy entitled "Bolivar's Busy Day." The play was written by George Totten Smith the author of a large number of successful and amusing comedies and in this effort Mr. Smith is said to have outdone all his previous efforts in the farce comedy lines. The piece boasts a plot, although it is not of sufficient depth to tire the brain of the audience, but it serves more to introduce a number of really clever specialty people in bright and lively acts. Mr. Van and Miss O'Neill are big favorites in Boston and they have not been seen in that city since their appearance at the Columbia Theatre a year ago in "The Chaperones." The Sunday night concerts at Music hall are attracting enormous audiences and next Sunday night there will be an all star bill headed by Pauline Hall, Eli a Proctor Otis and Hattie Bell Ladd.

BLANCHE CHAPMAN,
as Judge Advocate in Sultan of Sulu—Tremont Theatre, Boston.

PARK THEATRE.

There will be a grand revival of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" at the Park Theatre for the week beginning Monday, December 8. The play, which is a dramatization of Robert Louis Stevenson's story of the same name, is famous for its successful presentation with Richard Mansfield in its title characters, and its production by Corse Payton's stock company at the Park Theatre next week promises to duplicate the hit made by that eminent actor. The play reveals the experiences of Dr. Jekyll, a physician who discovers a drug which transforms him from a good man into a wicked friend. He charged himself back and forth between the two characters at will, until finally, his supply of the drug becoming exhausted, he can no longer be certain of safety. The authorities are upon his track to arrest him for murder committed while he was in the garb of Mr. Hyde, and he at last ends his life by committing suicide. The course of this story is always followed with breathless attention, and the performance of the dual characters by Walter Wilson at the Park Theatre next week promises to be a piece of acting of rare merit.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

The "Keith Natural Rest Cure" is appealing to a larger clientele all the time, and the attractive playhouse is filled to its capacity at every performance. Among the entertainers scheduled for the week of Dec. 8 are the following: Leon Morris' educated and comedy ponies, including the wrestling equines; Banner and Madison, and their colored opponent, John Hodge; Sydney Booth, formerly of the Boston Museum stock company, and the Misses Merville and Elmore, well know soubrettes, in a screamingly funny sketch, "The Two Juliets"; Mon. Cadieux, a marvelous bounding wire performer; Clarence E. Billings, monologue and singing comedian; Snyder and Buckley, favorite musical comedians; the Florodora sextet, in the popular specialty in which they scored such a hit in the musical comedy; the Lucados, novelty equilibrists, and Andreasson brothers, acrobats. Messrs. Cole and Johnson, the great colored entertainers, will hold over for another week, but are to make a change in their songs.

Tourist Rates via the Seaboard.

Winter tourist tickets are now on sale at greatly reduced rates, via the Seaboard Air Line Railway, to all points in Florida, also to Cuba and Nassau, as well as to Pinehurst, Camden and the leading Southern Winter Resorts.

These tickets are good for stop-over, either going or coming, until the end of the winter season.

The Seaboard is the short route from the North and East to Florida and the South Atlantic States.

For further information and Book of Winter Tours, apply to Agents of the Seaboard Air Line Railway and those of connecting lines. Also for "The Land of Manatee," about a region on the west coast of southern Florida, in three booklets: No. 1, Historical and Descriptive; No. 2, for Gardener and Fruit Grower; No. 3, for Tourist and Sportsman. Ask or send for the one you want. C. B. Ryan, G. P. A., Portsmouth, Va. 22-5t

Excuses.

Excuses for absence handed to teachers in the public schools are often calculated to evoke smiles. Here are two that were received on the same day last week by a teacher in one of the Manhattan schools:

Teecher—Plees ecskus my sun he wuz help his muther half a babi to oblig his father.

Dear Miss—Please accuse my dorter. I was confirmed with a new bable. Hope it will be satisfattory.

—New York Times.

Metempsychosis.

"So dey convicted dat feller dat was swinging a high society bluff so as to lift jewelry," said Plodding Pete.

"Yes," answered Meandering Mike. "He's got his prison clothes on now. Dey've changed him from a social lion into a zebra."—Washington Star.

Seasonable.

The autumn leaves are falling;
The grass is brown and sear;
The cricket's voice is calling
That winter stern is near.
Unlike in spring's sweet outing,
When birds called to their mates,
The only things now sprouting
Are wings on candidates.
—Ohio State Journal.

An Au Revoir.

Love and a stork they met one day.
"Love," said the stork, "oh, whither away?
Why hurry and hurry and hurry so fast?
Is time so pressing that work won't last?
Oh, whither away, and where is the place?"
And Cupid swift pointed and turned his face,
And away he sped, and the stork cried clear,
"I'll see you later, my Cupid, dear!"
—New York Herald.

Strikers Lose the Battle

New York, Dec. 5.—By the unconditional surrender of the men the strike of silversmiths and finishers for a nine-hour workday came to an end yesterday throughout greater New York. The men returned to work at the 10-hour basis existing before the strike. It is understood that the 1700 men on strike at Tiffany & Co.'s factory in Forest Hill, N. J., will return to work on Monday. The firm would not yield to the nine hour demand.

Christmas Magazines.

Country Life in America for December is a large Christmas annual with a beautiful cover and a hundred superb illustrations, and colored supplements besides. The spirit of jollity of the season prevades the bulky number of winter sports, unusual house parties, Christmas homes and many things of winter at her best. Pre-eminent is the profusion of elaborate pictures and the articles that have to do with hockey, skeeing and tobogganing, snowshoeing, ice yachting on country lakes, fishing through the ice, and even the homely sports of skating, skate-sailing and the pursuits that carry one into the deep woods. Altogether, the elaborate make-up bespeaks the grand success of this new sort of magazine, the growing love of real sport in America, and the movement of the New World back to the garden and outdoor life of the Old.

Miss Maud Roosevelt, a cousin of the President and an actress as well of considerable vogue, contributes the monthly complete novel to the Christmas number of Lippincott's Magazine, "The price of Fame" proves that fiction is by no means the least of Miss Roosevelt's accomplishments. She turns a brilliant searchlight on New York society life which reveals the good and the bad with infinite skill. The evolution of Helen Mortimer—country-bred girl with an imaginative temperament—into an actress of the first rank, through the most treacherous act a man may commit, is the pivotal point in this novel of exciting episodes that ends delightfully. In addition to the complete novel in the Christmas number of Lippincott's Magazine there are many short stories, several papers suited to the glad season, much good verse, and the usual diverting "Walnuts and Wine."

Two most striking articles of the well varied contents of The World's Work for December are President Elliot's—of Harvard—article on "The needs of American Public Education" and Frank W. Vanderlip's Conservative Note of Warning on the financial situation. Other interesting illustrated articles are Forrest Crissey's story of the development of The Traveling Post office, a complete description by Chalmers Roberts, of the work on the famous Nile Dam and the inner history of the growth of Mormon Co-operation by Glen Miller.

Among the noticeable features of The Delineator for January is its fine cover—the first of a series that will continue throughout the year. The scope of the magazine has been generally widened, and new and valuable material has been introduced into all the departments. Clara E. Laughlin begins a series of papers entitled "Miladi" in which she considers the problems and prerogative, of womanhood. Cyrus Townsend Brady is represented by one of his famous bishop stories. Interest is heightened in Mrs. Barr's powerful love story, Thyra Varrick, and the novel develops along dramatic lines.

The House Beautiful enters volume XIII with the December or Christmas number. The illustrated articles are: Paintings of Abbott H. Thayer, concerning samplers, some winter gardens, an artist's house in New York, an ideal kitchen, collection of old silver, old doors and fan-lights, a hunt for pitchers, the flower beautiful and plans for a $3000 cottage. Notes and comments is an interesting department. Published at Chicago.

The December number of the Four Track News, which completes volume three, is one of the best issues of that popular magazine. It contains among other articles one entitled "The Luxuriant Land," by M. M. Casseday, describing the charms of Florida; "Caribou Shooting in Canada." by C. A. Bramble, tells the story of the hunt. "The Christmas Poet," by John Gordon, poetically tells how Clement C. Moore wrote his famous poem "'Twas the Night Before Christmas," the poem itself being ingeniously woven into the articler The usual departments, six interesting "Little Histories," and some very attractive and cleve. verse round out the contents of this number.

Special Train Takes Reed's Remains to His Old Home

GREAT COMMONER'S LIFE

Qualities and Accomplishments Which Made It Possible to Rise to the Equal of All and Superior of Many of Maine's Great Men

Washington, Dec. 8.—The remains of Thomas B. Reed, who died early Sunday morning, left here yesterday afternoon for Portland, Me., his former home, where the interment will take place. The body was placed aboard a special train leaving Washington at 4:50 o'clock. Accompanying the body were Mrs. Reed, the widow, Miss Catherine Reed, her daughter, Amos L. Allen, Mr. Reed's successor in the house of representatives, Asher C. Hinds, Mr. Reed's parliamentary clerk while speaker, and Augustus G. Payne of New York, a life-long friend. At Mrs. Reed's request there were no ceremonies of any kind here and at Portland they will be of a simple character.

THOMAS B. REED.

During the entire day there was a stream of sympathetic callers at the Arlington Hotel, where the body of Mr. Reed lay awaiting removal to the railroad station. Neither Mrs. Reed nor her daughter saw any of the visitors, who simply left cards.

The body was enclosed in a casket with heavy oxydized extension handles and on the top was a solid silver plate on which had been engraved the following simple inscription: "Thomas Brackett Reed, Oct. 18, 1839–Dec. 7, 1902."

Mr. Reed died at 12:10 o'clock Sunday morning in his apartments in the Arlington Hotel. The immediate cause of death was uraemia.

Mr. Reed reached Washington Sunday, Nov. 30, having come to attend to some matters in the United States supreme court. He was at the Capitol Monday visiting with friends and former associates in congress and witnessed the convening of the second session of the 57th congress. Apparently he was enjoying good health, but later in the day he called on Dr. F. A Gardner and complained of gastric distress.

The following day his physician compelled him to remain in bed while a diagnosis was made of his condition. Symptoms of appendicitis appeared, though his condition was not considered alarming. A trained nurse remained with him throughout Tuesday night and the patient showed signs of improvement. Mrs. Reed and her daughter, Miss Kittie, arrived here Wednesday.

On Thursday the physicians announced that the appendical symptoms were abating, but that kidney trouble had developed, giving a more serious aspect to the case. Dr. MacDonald was summoned from Philadelphia for consultation. An attack of nausea Friday night distressed the patient considerably because of his weakened condition. Saturday's bulletins offered little or no encouragement.

The Reeds had no reason to doff their bonnets at the behest of any New England family. Thomas was directly descended from George Cleeve, the first white settler of Portland. This Cleeve owned the whole of Portland, then called Falmouth Neck, which he settled in 1632. He was an Englishman and a man of substance.

Thomas Brackett Reed was born in Portland, Oct. 18, 1839, and was educated in the public schools of that city and in Bowdoin college. He entered the grammar school at the age of 9, and the high school at 11, graduating from the latter at 16. He was fond of fun, but his accumulated knowledge shows that he was also fond of books. He confessed, however, that literature in general, and old romances in particular, attracted him more than textbooks.

Mr. Reed entered Bowdoin college in 1856, when he was 17, and his life-struggle began with his first term. His father and mother, though industrious and frugal, were unable to give him much assistance, and he faced the proposition that he must earn the money to pay his college expenses as he went along. His attendance at class recitations was regular then, but he had to drop out the next two terms and earn money by teaching.

After graduation he determined to be a lawyer, and he started west and brought up in California. Here he taught school again—$20 a month and "boarding round." His admission to the bar of California occurred in 1863.

In April, 1864, he was appointed acting assistant paymaster in the navy and assigned to the "tin-clad" Sybil. The duty of the Sybil was to patrol and protect the Red river region. At the close of the Civil war he returned to Portland, and was admitted to the Cumberland bar.

In 1867 he was elected to the Maine house of representatives, and again in 1869, serving on the judiciary committee in both sessions.

In 1870 he went to the Maine senate, and in that year was elected attorney general of the state, in which capacity he served three terms.

In 1874 he was chosen city solicitor of Portland, holding that office for three terms and doing most efficient work in important cases in which the city had become involved.

His public life really began, however, in the 45th congress, to which he was chosen in the memorable contest of 1876. He was re-elected consecutively after this up to the time of his resignation in 1899. During this period he served as speaker three terms—in the 51st, 54th and 55th congresses.

Mr. Reed, although an all-around man of politics, the bar, the platform and social life, will be best remembered because of the "Reed rules," established and enforced while he was speaker of the national house of representatives. These won for him the title of "czar," applied by his political enemies as an epithet, but even this was destined to add to the renown of the man who, single-handed, almost, was able to overcome all parliamentary law obstacles by the application of his intimate knowledge of the law and precedent, his readiness in grasping a situation on the instant and his inflexible will.

He was denounced in unmeasured terms by opposition papers and speakers, but the United States supreme court sustained his rulings, and the principles enunciated in and through them have been followed by his political opponents, although with such change in details as not to appear to be an endorsement of the "Reed rules," and now no minority is allowed to thwart the will of the majority.

Various reasons were given for Mr. Reed's abandonment of political life. Offers of large money considerations by his New York partners were reported, and the sums mentioned varied from $50,000 to $100,000 a year.

It is known, however, that Mr. Reed was far from affluent. He held on to money—what he had—as a sieve does upon water, although he was not what is generally known as a spendthrift in anything. He might easily have earned a competence by the use of his pen, and, indeed, his income from magazines and other publications was far more than his official salary.

In the Republican national convention of 1892 he received some votes for the presidency, and from that time onward he grew as a presidential possibility, until in 1895 he was regarded by his friends as a probability.

Maine was enthusiastic, Massachusetts was a unit, and all New England would have been solid for him in the St. Louis convention of 1896 but for the fact that Senator Hanna went to Vermont and undermined "The man from Maine."

Mr. Reed was opposed to the annexation of Hawaii, and had no sympathy with the expansion policy of his party. Henderson was looming up as a candidate for speaker, and although Reed could be formidable, prominent and of commanding influence on the floor of the house, he would be more or less fettered by his record of strict and undeviating loyalty to the Republican party through thick and thin.

Therefore—and perhaps only therefore—he got down and out.

Mr. Reed's wife was Miss Susan P. Merrill, daughter of Rev. Samuel Merrill, who was pastor of a sailor's bethel before the war. He served as chaplain to one of the Maine regiments throughout the war and then retired to Scarboro, where he dropped dead in his pulpit one Sunday while preaching.

Mrs. Reed is wholly domestic, governing her household with prudent care; quiet, unpretentious, ladylike and attractive in appearance and address. They had one child, Miss Kittie Reed, born in 1876.

In 1899, Mr. Reed took the longest vacation of his life when, accompanied by his wife and daughter, he made a tour of Europe.

Mr. Reed's private life was irreproachable, and his home a model of happy, free and pure domesticity. He and his wife and daughter were three intimate and most devoted friends, and entered into all the cares, joys, plans and anxieties, each of the others.

Mr. Reed was the idol of Portland, and every man, woman and child was familiar with his smile and his ponderous footstep. He was the most heartily welcomed in the Cumberland club of any member, and joke, story and repartee were indulged in with utmost freedom.

Consul Nast Is Dead

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Dec. 8.—Consul General Nash died yesterday of yellow fever after three days' illness. He was interred yesterday afternoon. The funeral was attended by the governor, the consular corps, the American colony and by many friends. The coffin was wrapped in the Stars and Stripes. The British consul recited a prayer in the cemetery. Mr. Nast was appointed consul general last July.

Church Destroyed by Fire

Franklin, N. H., Dec. 8.—An overheated furnace in the Congregational church yesterday caused a fire which destroyed the structure and ruined the big pipe organ, causing a loss of $6000. The church was built in 1820.

Thirty-Four In a Hospital

Newport News, Va., Dec. 8.—U. S. S. Panther reached Hampton Roads from Colon yesterday, bringing the fever-stricken marines who have been protecting the railroad property on the Isthmus for more than a month. Aboard the vessel were 320 men. Thirty-four of them were taken to the naval hospital. These cases are understood to be serious. The other stricken marines are not very ill and they will be granted shore leave until they can recuperate.

Johnstone a Suicide

Philadelphia, Dec. 8.—After lingering for nearly a week Barry Johnstone, the actor, who last Monday night shot himself after killing Kate Hassett, died yesterday from peritonitis. The murder and Johnstone's suicide were the result of the man's insane jealousy. Miss Hassett in private life was the wife of Everett Beckwith, a business man of Chicago. Miss Hassett was filling an engagement with the Keith Stock company here when Johnstone killed her.

He Was Not Robbed

Burlington, Vt., Dec. 8.—Some of the mystery surrounding the death from asphyxiation in a local hotel last Tuesday night of Edward Pigeon of Vergennes and disappearance of $380 which he was supposed to have brought here for deposit in bank has been cleared up by the finding of the money in a trunk at his former boarding place in Panton. He apparently died while sitting on the side of his bed, fully dressed.

Court's Order Not Obeyed

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 8.—The Painters' union has engaged David B. Hill to fight the action brought against it by William Potter, the expelled guardsman, who has procured an injunction restraining the union from considering him as not a member. The union has not as yet complied with the court's order and reinstated Potter to membership and the officers state that no such action will be taken.

Railroad Shopmen to Return

Springfield, Ills., Dec. 8.—President Ramsey of the Wabash railroad yesterday received notice that the terms contained in his ultimatum delivered last Friday to striking shopmen of the entire system will be accepted and the strikers, after being out seven weeks, will report for duty tomorrow. The strikers regard the increase of 2 cents an hour offered to skilled labor by President Ramsey as a victory.

Special Guard For Soldiers

Manila, Dec. 8.—The disorderly behavior of some of the discharged soldiers who are going home on the transport Logan has led General Davis to order a company of infantry aboard to act as a special guard. The company will accompany the transport to San Francisco and then return here. The Logan sails Dec. 15.

Chinese May Enter Philippines

Good Afternoon.

The receipt of coal in Boston last week were over 100,000 tons, and including considerable anthracite. There should soon be a surplus.

Now it is known all over the State that our night patrolmen are accompanied by large St. Bernard dogs burglars will probably give Quincy a wide berth.

Sunday brought unfavorable news to the country at large—the deaths of ex-Speaker Reed, Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer and Thomas Nast and of the critical condition of Hon. Hosea M. Knowlton, recently Attorney General of Massachusetts.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Springfield or a portion of Springfield, awoke some years ago to a realization that the noble Connecticut river was the best natural feature that Springfield possessed, and that the city had turned its back on it and, by persisting in so doing, was making much of its self-improvement effort far less effective than it ought to be. Even the bridge across the river was one of those ugly old hooded structures that New England Puritans used to erect over their streams lest they see the water dancing, and when a stranger in Springfield asked to be shown the river—before he spoke of the park, or the arsenal, or even the high school—he had to be led into a tunnel, or down an ally, or on to the railroad tracks. This was mortifying, and a plan was talked of—quite naturally—for extending Court Square a block or two farther to the river bank. But the expense seemed prohibitive.

About a year ago there died a wealthy former resident of Springfield, who had earnestly advocated this plan, and it was found that by will he had left $10,000 which might be applied to the object. His name was Tilly Haynes. This greatly increased the interest in the matter and an estimate was made that with $200,000, a vast public improvement could be obtained. It was suggested that if, by a public subscription, half this sum could be raised and presented to the city, the municipality could well afford to bear the expense of the land's improvement. A new bridge was soon to be erected in any case, to be paid for by bonds, and here was a way to secure a beautiful and convenient approach to it, while the vista of the bridge would enhance the attractiveness of the square. The Court House, a Richardson structure, would face the plazza thus made as would also the City Hall; and the old First church and Odd Fellows' Hall, now occupying a portion of the proposed site, could, it was suggested, be allowed to remain in their present position unmolested as long as they were still in use, so reducing the necessary initial outlay and by no means defeating the scheme. Everett H. Barney then came forward with an offer of another $10,000 to duplicate the Haynes bequest, and with this nucleus enthusiasm rose high.—Charles Mulford Robinson, in N. Y. Architectural Record.

WELL PROTECTED.

Quincy Patrolmen Accompanied by Large Dogs at Night.

An excellent photo of Officer Goodhue and F. E. Betts' St Bernard Carlo is printed by the Boston Globe with the following interesting story:

It is somewhat difficult to find the reason that causes dogs which have good homes to leave the houses of their masters every night and follow a police officer over his beat. In many of the suburban cities the officers have dogs that travel with them all night, and it is very rarely the dog is owned by the officer.

An officer who has about the swellest specimen of a dog companion is Patrolman Alfred W. Goodhue of the Quincy police force, who patrols the City Square beat. His companion is Carlo, a magnificent St. Bernard. Carlo weighs 202 pounds and has such an immense head that everyone who sees him stops to look back at the dog.

Carlo is owned by Fred E. Betts of Washington street Quincy, and was brought to this country from England. He has a long pedigree. He makes his appearance on Officer Goodhue's beat about midnight each night, and from that time until 4.30 in the morning, when the officer goes off duty, Carlo makes all the rounds of the City square beat. Carlo started on his police duty with Officer John T. Larkin, who patrols the beat near Carlo's home.

Officer Larkin, however, had another dog companion, a black Newfoundland dog and Carlo becoming jealous, left the vicinity of his own home and trotted a mile to make friends with Officer Goodhue. People who alight from the late trains at the Quincy depot can, as a general thing, see Carlo waiting on the depot platform for Officer Goodhue.

Most people are afraid of the dog because of his ferocious appearance and women walk wide of him when they catch a glimpse of him. Carlo, however, is one of the quietest dogs that ever lived. Children who live near his home, and know the dog, pull his ears and tail and pound him to their heart's delight, but the dog never shows that he feels the treatment. If Officer Goodhue has a prisoner in charge, though, and Carlo is near at hand, he is a different dog altogether. He is all attention and "sits tight" till the wagon comes.

One evening recently Officer Goodhue found an intoxicated man lying in the gutter on Coddington street, Quincy. The officer stood the man upon his feet and was starting for the box with his prisoner. Carlo came running down the street, attracted by the scuffle, the prisoner being in a fighting mood and unwilling to go along. Carlo made a spring for the man, and the force of the blow sent the officer and prisoner down in a heap.

The dog has a good home and kind treatment, and his owner cannot account for the animal's preference for night vigils with a police officer in a part of the city far from his home.

Cider Supper.

The members of the Granite City club took part in a most enjoyable "Cider Supper" Saturday evening furnished by Mr. A. W. Loud, our Councilman elect from Ward 4. This form of supper is an inovation on the part of Mr. Loud and was thoroughly enjoyed by the members present, on account of its novelty.

Dropped Dead.

John Baldwin of 105 Copeland street was engaged this morning chopping down trees on Quarry street. About noon he fell dead. He was over sixty years of age and made his home with his daughter, Mrs. James Desmond.

THE KENNEL CLUB.

Reopening of Remodeled Clubhouse at Braintree.

Among those present on Saturday at the reopening of the county home of the New England Kennel club at Braintree were Oliver Ames, Louis C. Benton, Morton E. Cobb, Maj. David Crocker, W. B. Emery, L. C. Fenno, Elijah Flagg, 2d, J. M. Grosvenor, Jr., Samuel Hammond, H. Hathaway Jr., T. C. Hollander, Charles W. Keyes, W. F. McQuillen, Col. R. H. Morgan, Maxwell Norman, J. C. R. Peabody, Gardner Perry, John I. Taylor, H. N. Richards, John C. Sharp, Jr., Stephen W. Sleeper, Charles G. Winslow, Chas. H. Taylor, Jr., Thomas Silsbee, R. K. Thomas Charles H. Thomas, E. P. Motley, F. L. Ames, R. C. McQuillen and Charles Hayden.

Lunch was served at 1 o'clock by J. J. Chamberlin the steward. In the shooting match for all comers, for which a handsome silver cup was offered, Oliver Ames and William McQuillen were tied, and in the shootoff which followed Mr. McQuillen won the cup. The first of a series of shooting matches for a $100 silver cup, open to members, was also held. The first match was won by Charles Keyes, with a score of 26 birds, handicap 7.

The clubhouse, which is situated in a picturesque spot among the hills at the southwest part of the town, has been entirely renovated and refurnished during the past four months and is today one of the cosiest clubhouses about Boston.

The house has been rebuilt in parts and added to so that the present dining room, which commands a fine view of Town brook valley, can now accommodate 60. Leading from the front entryway on the left is the library, the walls of which are tinted in blue. This comfortable room is furnished with leather-covered chairs and couches.

At the end of the front entryway is the dining and assembly room. The walls are tinted a deep red, and on all sides are specimens of the taxidermist's art, which testify to the skill of the members as marksmen. Here too, are countless pictures of prize-winning dogs and hunting scenes. At the rear of the dining room are the kitchen and pantry, both of which are fitted with all modern appliances.

In the upper part of the building are the members' sleeping rooms, gun lockers, bath and billard rooms. The house is heated by hot water, and fitted with large open fire-places. The club at present has 150 members, most of whom are prominent Bostonians.

Installation of Officers.

At a regular meeting of English Ivy Lodge, No. 116, O. D. St. G., held in Clan McGregor hall, Dec. 5, the following officers were installed by the District Deputy Mrs. Hannah Walker of Attleboro, assisted by Mrs. Emma Newcomb as Grand Conductor:

W. P. Pres.,—Mrs. Elizabeth Lawry.
W. Pres.,—Mrs. Annie Spargo.
W. V. P.,—Mrs. Catherine Runnels.
W. Fin. Sec.,—Mrs. Annie Pierce.
W. Rec. Sec.,—Mrs. Russell Medlin.
W. Treas.,—Mrs. Mary Smith.
W. Chap.,—Mrs. Mrs. Mary Manhire.
W. F. Con.,—Mrs. Bessie Oswald.
W. S. Con.,—Mrs. Emily Higgs.
W. I. Guard,—Mrs. Alice Parsons.
W. O. Guard,—Mrs. Lizzie Johnston.
Trustees,—Mrs. McConnell and Mrs. Phillips.

After the installation, refreshments, were served to the visitors and members. Miss Alice Deacon presided at the piano and it was pronounced by all a most enjoyable evening.

Boy Arraigned.

Michael Murray, a 17 year old Neponset boy, was arrested by Officer McCarthy on Sunday upon a warrant charging him of breaking and entering the house of John Lucas at Atlantic, Nov. 25, and the larceny of three pounds of powder, two boxes of primers, and a cheap watch. It is alleged that the boy went into the building during the afternoon while the family were at home. He gained entrance through the cellar window. He was arraigned in court and the case continued until Thursday.

A Snowy Day.

A genuine snow storm prevailed all day Sunday. The wind was south west and the weather was milder than on Saturday. It commenced to snow early in the morning and snowed steadily all day until 5.30 and the moon was soon shining. Quite a lot of snow fell, but as there was no wind to make it drift walking was not bad at any time. The street railway was not handicapped by the snow and cars were operated on all of its lines all day. In the afternoon however it became necessary to run big ploughs.

GRIEVANCES OF MINERS

Related by an Old Hand and a Boy of Twelve

CASH A SCARCE COMMODITY

James Gallagher Paid but Once In Money in Seventeen Years and Was Forced to Deal at Company's Stores —Boy Received Four Cents an Hour

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 3.—It is expected that the mine workers will consume all of this week in presenting to the anthracite coal strike commission their side of the controversy with the coal operators. The miners have consumed 12 days thus far in presenting their testimony and expect to take fully as much more time. While no one positively knows, it is estimated that the employers will take about 10 days to submit the information they desire the commission to have.

The miners, having finished their attack on the Coxe mines in the Hazleton region, on Saturday turned the attention of the coal strike commission to the collieries of G. B. Markle & Co. in the same locality. The witnesses for the mine workers scored what appeared to be telling points with regard to wages and other conditions prevailing in the mines of this independent company.

The principal witness against the Markles was James Gallagher, who worked in the Markle mines for 30 years. He claimed the wages were so low that he was always in debt to the company and that in 17 years he only once received money in wages, and that was $50. He further testified that he had to deal at the company store, the only place where the miners could get credit, and that the prices were from 10 to 20 percent higher than in other stores.

He said he had made large wages and wiped out his debt, but the company would then give him such poor work that he would immediately get into debt again. He was evicted from his house and refused work, but did not know why employment was not given him.

The witness, who is about 60 years of age, and a native of Ireland, kept the court constantly in good humor by his wit and sharp answers to thrusts by the lawyers. He said a man is never called hurt in the mines until he is half killed. He was half killed twice, he said, which brought out the remark from Chairman Gray that if he was twice half killed, then he was now dead.

This caused much merriment but it was turned into a roar of laughter when the witness replied that the first half was healed before the other half was injured.

A 12-year-old breaker boy was called to the stand and gave testimony to show that he was working at the Markle mines to pay off the debt incurred by his father, who was killed in the mines 18 months ago. He received no pay but was given due bills, showing how much his mother owed the company. The bills also showed that the debts his mother was incurring such as house rent, etc., were growing faster than he could reduce them, and he was only getting 4 cents an hour.

The conditions prevailing at the Lehigh Valley company's mines will be taken up next. The miners have a large number of witnesses they desire to call, and there is at this time no indication when the hearings will be concluded. Some of the operators desire to place witnesses on the stand in their defense.

Unless some agreement is reached on many of the points at issue, it is likely the hearings will run into next month. While settlement talk is still heard here, nothing of an authoritative nature has come to the surface.

December Magazines.

The House Beautiful enters volume XIII with the December or Christmas number. The illustrated articles are: Paintings of Abbott H. Thayer, concerning samplers, some winter gardens, an artist's house in New York, an ideal kitchen, collection of old silver, old doors and fan-lights, a hunt for pitchers, the flower beautiful and plans for a $3000 cottage. Notes and comments is an interesting department. Published at Chicago.

In the Review of Reviews for December there is a comprehensive editorial summary of the political situation in all the States. The results of the November elections are carefully analyzed with refererence to their bearings on national policies. The editor also discusses the proposition for the admission of new states in the Southwest—the first subject of debate at this session of Congress—and offers cogent reasons in support of the plan for the direct election of United States Senaters. Other important topics of the month—in foreign as well as domestic politics—are treated witn the Review's accustomed thoroughness and accuracy of judgment.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

There will be a meeting of the Fragment Society in the Unitarian chapel, Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 10, at two o'clock.

City Council Business.

At the adjourned meeting of the City Council to be held tonight a report will be received from the Committee on Election giving the result of the vote at the recent municipal election.

The Committee on Ordinances will report on the orders refunding John H. Dinegan a tax title of $33, refunding Lemuel K. Hirtle $2 paid for poll tax, and granting the street railway a location of tracks from Washington to Saville street.

The Committee on Fire Department will report on the petition of 1901 to increase the pay of firemen.

The order granting the New England Telephone Co. permission to attach wires to poles of other companies will come up for a second reading.

It is also probable that reports will be made by the Finance Committee, and that the order for abating the nuisance at the corner of Washington and Chubbuck streets will also come up.

In His 79th Year.

Thomas Lennon, one of Quincy's long residents, died at his home on Brackett street this morning, aged 78 years.

Mr. Lennon came to Quincy when but twenty years of age. He learned the business of a granite cutter, which he followed for many years. He has not followed his trade for some years. His health has not been of the best of late, his illness being due largely to old age.

He leaves three sons and three daughters. One of his sons is John E. Lennon, superintendent of the Citizens Gas Co. of this city.

MERE MEN.

Mayor Crane of Denver, Colo., has invented a rotary ore working machine for use in the gold mines.

Foxhall Keene of New York has leased Blickling Hall, Norfolk, England, from the Marquis of Lothian.

Private McCulloch of the Guards reserves, an Irishman of 6 feet 10¾ inches, is now the tallest man in the British army.

Ex-Senator Jewett of St. Louis, who is ninety-four years old, says that a man should quit work at the age of ninety.

Marshall Field's wealth exceeds $100,000,000; how much in excess can only be surmised, and it is doubtful whether he himself knows.

Major General Foster Robinson, who saved Secretary Seward's life when Lincoln was assassinated, is now a California orange grower.

Sir Edward Elton of Somersetshire, England, is a practical potter. He is the originator of Eltonware pottery and has received twelve medals in various exhibitions.

As senior partner of the firm of Reed, Simpson, Thacher & Barnum ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed is making between $30,000 and $50,000 a year, the most money he ever earned.

Baron Krupp, the great ironmaster of Germany, carries evidences of the trade with him when he goes visiting. His cards are made of iron rolled so thin that they are said to be a great success for social use.

General Chaffee is very studious and has always worked hard in order to train for the army, as he did not have the advantage of an education at West Point. He has taken a full course of law and military tactics in order to educate himself for his duties.

Senator Hoar in beginning a speech has a little series of motions which he unconsciously never fails to go through. First his hand goes to his throat and tie, then he pulls down his waistcoat, then he fingers his watch chain, shakes his cuffs loose, clears his throat and begins.

SPORTING NOTES.

Patsy Haley, once one of the fastest and cleverest of featherweights, is now in Chicago and has begun training for winter matches.

Cincinnati has nine pitchers signed for next season. They are Hahn, Phillips, Harper, Poole, Thielman, Ewing, Vickers, Hooker and McCann.

Milwaukee's rival baseball clubs, one in the American association and the other in the Western league, lost about $13,000 between them last season.

Percy Chubb, the famous New York yachtsman, has sold the former American cup champion, the sloop yacht Vigilant, to Fred Ames of Boston.

Fordham college at Fordham, N. Y., has engaged Dr. William H. Murphy, Yale '93, brother to Mike Murphy, trainer at Yale, as football and baseball coach.

George Gardner and Joe Choynski will meet at Los Angeles, Cal., if the latter wants to fight. The Gardner faction is willing, and a Los Angeles club will give them a date.

F. J. Leonard, for several seasons manager of the Worcester (Mass.) team in the Eastern league, has been signed to manage the Columbus nine in the American association next season.

The Jolly Sixteen whist club met Friday evening, Dec. 5, with Major Dorley of River street. Prizes were awarded: Mrs. William Hayden, pair tray cloths; Mrs. George Crane, box stationery; Mr. William Hayden, statuary; Mr. Arthur Merritt, cut glass dish; Major Dorley, two china plates. Frappe, cake fruit ices were served.

He—"What would you do if I should die and leave you?"

She—"Leave me how much?"—"Tid-Bits."

The Suffolk Superior court has rendered verdicts for the defendants in the cases of John M. Fisher vs. Henry N. Sawyer, and Frederick E. Betts vs. Henry N. Sawyer.

Dorothy Frances, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Swithin of Ashmont, formerly of Quincy, died at their home in Ashmont Sunday after a brief illness of diphtheria.

A letter from Joseph F. Costello, now on the Associated press at Havana, sends regards to all the boys. "Joe" has the Quincy Patriot every week and keeps posted on home happenings.

A horse attached to an open express wagon became exhausted on Hancock street near Dr. Gordon's Saturday night. The horse was taken to a stable for the night and the team left in the street.

On Tuesday afternoon the Ladies Aid society connected with the Baptist church will meet with Mrs. Pinkham. Garments are to be made and any donations of goods or old garments will be gratefully received.

Those who depended on gas for light found themselves in darkness Saturday night after 10 o'clock. There was a bad leak in one of the mains early in the evening and the lights were poor all the evening until 9.45 when they went out entirely.

A horse drawing a heavy load of furniture to South Weymouth became exhausted near the High school Saturday afternoon and refused to move further. The team was finally hauled to one side and left for the night and the horse taken to a stable for the night.

One of the horses attached to Wilson Tisdale's Boston team fell on Hancock street near Whitney road this morning and all attempts to get him on his feet were unsuccessful. Dr. Abele was called and pronounced the horse suffering from spinal meningitis. The animal was later taken away.

The funeral of Samuel Dougherty of Hammond place was held Saturday. Rev. Julian Johnstone celebrated mass at St. John's church. The burial was at West Quincy. The bearers were: Bartholemew Durran, John Deady, William Kelley, Alex. Kee, Michael McCarthy and John Gorman.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

RELIGION OF THE BLANKET

How the Navajo Squaw Prays as She Spins and Weaves.

It is a religion to make a Navajo blanket. Through the kinky, bristling twine of the warp are woven the hopes and aspirations of an immortal soul. In the warm colors are expressed the ardors of passionate hearts, the sandstorms they have faced, the cloudbursts under which their backs have bent, the smiling sunshine that has dried their wool; all the adverse and the good fortunes that have befallen are wrought into the intricate designs. The squaw prays as she pushes the wool card, and she prays as she twirls the distaff in her hand or rolls it on her thigh; she prays as she arranges the healds; she prays as she lustily pounds down the woof strands with her scrub oak batten.

A blanket is all a prayer, a human document, a biography bright with the joy tints of canary yellow, dark with the olive green of pain. One is drawn to it because one's heart is moved by its ineffable, intangible humanness. One is strangely moved to both laughter and tears by its exquisitely variant colors, each expressing an emotion by its warmth of blended fibers, each throbbing to a note of triumph or of woe.—Southern Workman.

His Compromise.

Mr. Potter was giving his son a few words of fatherly counsel as to his treatment of his young wife. "Now, when you have any little differences of opinion," said Mr. Potter in his most judicial manner, "if you can't persuade Margaret that you are in the right, you must compromise, my boy—compromise with a good grace."

"I'll try to," said the son respectfully.

"I well remember a little experience I had with your mother the summer after we were married," continued Mr. Potter. "I wanted to spend six weeks at Saratoga, and your mother preferred to spend the time in taking a trip through Canada. It's thirty odd years ago, but I well remember the arguments we had before I compromised."

"How did you do it?" asked the son.

"We spent five weeks and a half in Canada," said Mr. Potter, "and from Friday night till Monday morning in Saratoga."

No Need to Adjourn.

The legislature of a certain state was tardy in adjourning one session, although there seemed to be no important business under consideration.

Judge Jones, one of the legislators, was met by a friend in the street one hot morning, and the two stopped to talk under the shade of an awning.

"Goin' to clear out pretty soon, jedge?"

"I suppose so," answered the statesman, mopping his brow.

"Anything much goin' on down at the capitol?"

"No."

"Why don't they wind up, then?"

"Well, that's just the trouble. There's nothing but a lot of petty business to bother us, and we don't mind that. I wish something important would come up, and then the motion to adjourn would be in order."

English In England.

"You must learn the shop language before you can go shopping in England," says a girl who has just returned from there and has many stories to tell of the difficulties met in the shops. "Shoes are not shoes unless they are slippers, all boots are high, and you can't to save your life get a spool of thread because there is no such thing—only a reel of cotton. If you wish cotton, sheeting for instance, you ask for calico, and the tape needle to run the ribbons in your gowns is a bodkin. There is not such a thing as a shirt waist to be had in all England, for they have nothing but blouses, and one would go continually with wet feet if she did not learn to ask for galoches."

Chemical Effects of Lightning.

Lightning works chemically. It has the power of developing a peculiar odor which has been variously compared to that of phosphorus, nitrous gas and most frequently burning sulphur. Wafen mentions a storm on the isthmus of Darien which diffused such a sulphurous stench through the atmosphere that he and his marauding companions could scarcely breathe, particularly when they plunged into the wood.—Chambers' Journal.

His Mistake.

"Is this a commission house?" asked the tall man.

"Yes, sir," said the commission merchant. "What can we do for you?"

"Well, if you sell commissions I'd like to buy one, if they're not too dear, for my son. I want a lieutenant's commission in the army, for my son wants to be a soldier, and he's too lazy to go to West Point."—Baltimore Herald.

The Branch of Peace.

"How did you come to select Olive as a name for your baby?"

"Well, you see, my wife's father objected to our marriage, and when the little one came he forgave us, so we thought it was no more than right to let her have proper credit."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not Niggardly.

"You asked her father for her hand?"

"Yes."

"And he refused you?"

"No, he didn't. He said I could have both of 'em."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

It is easy to discourage a man who realizes that he gets all the trouble in sight.—Chicago News.

TRAVELING PILLOW.

Covered With Linen and Padded With Feathers.

A nice Christmas gift for a girl who likes to look fresh and neat and is not rich enough to own a leather covered dressing bag is a dainty traveling pillow, which can be easily made at home. It is not cumbersome, and the owner may easily strap it on to the rug and umbrella bundle.

The first purchase of the maker should be some vegetable down, feathers or flock in quantity sufficient to stuff a small sofa cushion. The cushion should be made in two halves, with each half stuffed to a comfortable depth. These halves are neatly and strongly covered with dark colored linen, and, if feathers are used, an inner covering, well waxed, should hold the feathers. Next take two pieces of millboard the exact size of the insides of the halves. Cover these with any material fancied and across the middle sew a neat band of broad satin ribbon divided into spaces of various sizes. As shown in the diagram, one side will hold a comb, brush, soapbox, pocket glass, reticule, small face towel and fountain pen. The other side has spaces for writing paper, telegraph forms, letter cards and anything else soft and unbreakable. The hard articles are all kept on one side.

Of course the cardboard is in its turn sewed on to the halves, which should now be joined down the middle and ribbon ties attached to the top and sides.

A NURSERY CLOCK.

A Very Handsome Homemade Christmas Present For the Children.

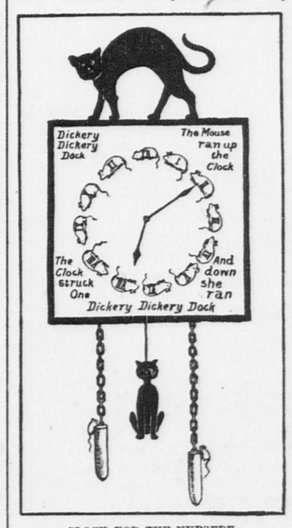

To make an amusing nursery clock the first purchase should be some strong millboard, prepared for oil painting. This millboard should cover the face of an ordinary open clock and project about an inch all round. On the top of the square should be cut the figure of a black cat. The cat and square are in one piece.

The cat should be painted in black oil color, with yellow or green eyes, and the whole clock face painted bright leaf green with a vermilion outline. When this is dry, describe a circle from the hole where the hands pass and carefully draw twelve mice similar to those in the illustration. Be careful that a point marked on the center of each mouse comes exactly over each of the twelve divisions of the circle. The stretch of the compass in drawing the circle is one-sixth of the measurement of the circle; therefore if this distance is halved it will naturally give one-twelfth.

If preferred, the mice can be cut out of white paper and gummed on the face of the clock.

Clear red figures on the body of the mouse mark the hours. The millboard face is now varnished and tacked over the existing wooden face with four gilt tacks. Before tacking on, however, get some one to paint, in black artistic and plain lettering, the old rhyme of "Dickery, dickery dock." The clock hands should also be blackened.

The weights are painted vermilion and varnished, and you should buy two paperweight mice, fixing them on near the top of each weight with fine wire.

The cat pendulum may be drawn on the lid of an old tin biscuit box, cut out, painted black and placed over the existing pendulum. If tin, it should be soldered on, but if cut out in cardboard fine wire will suffice to attach it to the pendulum.

Ivy Needlebook.

A needlebook may be fashioned after the semblance of an ivy leaf in green cloth or any colored scrap at hand, the veining being lightly portrayed in floselle silk of the same shade. Flannel cut out on similar lines is inserted between the two leaves.

A dressing case, small and good, with a place for a razor, will please the young man who is just beginning to shave.

BLESSING TO HUMANITY

Strong Argument In Favor of Animal Experimentation

SUCCESS OF SURGEON KEENE

In Operating Upon Midshipman Aiken Due to Knowledge Gained Through Vivisection—Proof of Positive Benefit Derived From Experiments

Philadelphia, Dec. 8.—Dr. William Keene of this city, who was recently summoned to Annapolis to perform an operation on Midshipman Aiken to relieve him of the effects of injuries sustained in a football game, attributes the success of his operation to knowledge gained through experiments in vivisection. Dr. Keene has addressed a letter setting forth the facts in the case to Senator Gallinger, whom he regards as one of the leaders of the anti-vivisectionists in this country. Dr. Keene in his letter says:

"i deem it my duty to call your attention to the case of Midshipman Aiken. My reason for doing so is to show undoubtedly a concrete example that knowledge gained by animal experimentation is an immense boon to humanity and that therefore such experiments should be heartily encouraged.

"The facts of Mr. Aiken's case are as follows: When I first saw him three days after the accident, I found that he had been unconscious for a half hour after the accident and ever since then had complained bitterly of headache, which he located always in the forehead. Soon after the accident he began to develop convulsions. In 6½ hours after I saw him he had 24 of these attacks, all limited to the right arm.

"There was no fracture of the skull. The only physical evidence of any injury was a very slight bruise at the outer end of the left eyebrow.

"Had I seen this case before 1885 I would have been unable to explain why the spasms were chiefly manifested in the right arm. I would have been justified in inferring that probably the front part of his brain was injured at the site of the bruise. Had I opened his skull at that point I would have found a perfectly normal brain and have missed the clot. The young man therefore would have died whether his skull had been opened or not.

"In 1902 observe the difference. As a result of knowledge derived from experiments upon animals which have located precisely the centre for motion of the right arm, I reached the conclusion that there had been a rupture of a blood vessel within the head and that the situation of the clot should correspond to the 'arm centre.' Its position was fixed absolutely as a result of experiments on animals.

"As soon as the skull was opened at this point the clot was found, its thickest point being exactly over the arm centre, and the blood was removed with the result that the patient's life was saved. This is only one of hundreds of cases in which a similar exact localization has been made by many surgeons both in Europe and America.

"The anti-vivisectionists have frequently denied that surgeons have learned anything from such experiments. I state with the greatest positiveness that without knowledge derived from experiments upon animals which have demonstrated the facts of cerebral localization I should never have been able to locate the clot in Mr. Aiken's head and to remove it."

Cuban Youngsters Start West

New York, Dec. 8.—The 11 Cuban children who arrived recently at this city on their way to the Raja Yoga school at Point Loma, Cal., and were held pending an investigation by the immigration authorities, were yesterday released from Ellis Island and started on their journey across the continent.

A Case of Murder

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 8.—Toni Benedito, who was shot in the abdomen by Nikolas Fourni Wednesday night, is dead. The police have found no clue to Fourni since he did the shooting.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Samuel Sampson, 41 years old, was run over by a switching engine at Gloucester, Mass. The wheels nearly severed his body, but notwithstanding his terrible injury, he lived nearly an hour.

Mrs. George A. Lewis, aged 47, was burned to death by a fire in her home at Hartford. The woman was alone and it is supposed that her clothes took fire from the kitchen stove.

While the steamer Etruria was ascending the Mersey, Colonel Lamb, a member of the English rifle team, returning from the international competition in Canada, committed suicide by shooting the top of his head entirely away with his rifle.

Fire destroyed the principal business block at Guilford, Me., caused a financial loss of $22,000, and leaving five secret societies without a meeting place in that town. The burned building was owned by Henry Douglass and Good Cheer lodge of Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Mary Toohey, 55 years old, was found dead in bed at Lawrence, Mass., from heart failure. Children played about the bed thinking she was asleep.

The Maynard House, a hotel at Maynard, Mass., of between 40 and 50 rooms, was gutted by fire, causing a loss of about $10,000. It is supposed that the fire started from an overturned lamp.

CONGRESSIONAL FORECAST

Senate Will Have Prolonged Wrestle Over Statehood Bill

Washington, Dec. 8.—In accordance with the unanimous agreement reached last session, the senate next Wednesday will take up the statehood bill, which is expected to remain the unfinished business for some time thereafter. The bill undoubtedly will provoke considerable debate and it is generally believed that it will continue to receive attention until the adjournment for the Christmas holidays at least.

It is generally understood that a strong position will be taken in opposition to the claims of New Mexico and Arizona, considerable stress being laid on the fact that a large percentage of the people of those territories do not use the English language and that interpreters are necessary in the conduct of the business of many of the courts. Attention will be given to previous reports on the subject of statehood for those territories, many of which are severely criticised by the present committee on the ground that they fail entirely to represent the real conditions.

The house this week has no mapped out program beyond the disposition of the London dock charge bill today and the report of the elections committee on the contested election case of Wagner vs. Butler, from the Twelfth Missouri district on Wednesday. The London dock bill has been pressed by exporting interests, especially the milling interests of the northwest, and is opposed by the Atlantic shipping intertsts. The withdrawal last week from its advocacy of the Lumbermen's association, which was supporting the measure, will weaken it, and its passage is considered doubtful.

A Peculiar State of Affairs

Nebraska City, Neb., Dec. 8.—The sudden shifting of the main channel of the Missouri river to the Iowa side has left this city without a water supply. The water works mains are drained and every basin is empty. It may be weeks before pipes can be extended to the main channel and in the meantime every manufactory in the city dependent on steam or electricity must be shut down.

Fishermen Lost In Storm

Halifax, Dec. 8.—With her flag flying at half mast for the loss of three of her crew who were drowned at sea during the storm Saturday the Gloucester schooner Veda McKeown arrived at North Sydney yesterday. The dead are Alex Chrisholm, John Stapleton and Michael Carrol. The men were on deck when a big sea came aboard and swept them away.

To Check Ladronism

Manila, Dec. 8.—Preparatory to an aggressive campaign against the Ladrones in the province of Risal, Luzon, Governor Taft has established zones of concentration. The land will be tilled during the daytime and the people will retire within the zones at night. A strong force of constabulary will be used against the bandits.

Janitor Admits Theft

Boston, Dec. 8.—Two local inspectors went to Revere and arrested Garland Hudson, 28 years old, upon the charge of breaking and entering and larceny of $340 from Rev. V. H. Cooper, superintendent of the home for little wanderers. Hudson was the colored assistant janitor at the home and admits the theft.

Furious Gale Off Newfoundland

St. Johns, Dec. 8.—A furious gale is sweeping the Newfoundland coast and a number of vessels have been driven ashore. Full reports regarding the extent of the disasters have not yet arrived. The gale, accompanied by blinding snow, is still raging.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Tuesday, Dec. 9.
Sun rises—7:01; sets—4:12.
Moon sets—12:26 a. m.
High water—5:45 a. m.; 6 p. m.

The cold wave has reached the western upper lake region. The temperatures have risen in the Atlantic states. A depression has moved eastward to the lower St. Lawrence valley attended by light snows. It will be fair and colder in New England.

RICKETY CHILDREN.

As likely to think of chairs as of children when we use that word rickety.

Children with loose joints, bow-legs, and soft bones have rickets, It is a disease due to improper feeding—and a typical disease for the workings of Scott's Emulsion.

For the weak growth of the bones Scott's Emulsion supplies those powerful tonics, the hypophosphites.

For the loss of flesh Scott's Emulsion provides the nourishing cod-liver oil in an easily digestible form.

COAL FAMINE IN EARNEST

Many of Boston's Poor Remain In Bed to Keep Warm

Boston, Dec. 8.—Rarely, if ever, has Boston experienced such a day of suffering as yesterday proved to be. With a snowstorm raging, with the temperature far below the freezing point, and with thousands of coal bins empty the prospect which confronted a large section of Boston's population was something appalling.

With hundreds it was a case of beg or borrow coal or wood. Coal offices were beseiged all day. Coal teams worked all day, but they could not do one-tenth of the work required. On this account hundreds of men and women carried home the 50 or 100 pounds of coal which they were fortunate enough to secure.

In the poorer quarters of the city many people had to remain in bed all day to keep warm.

Found Strangled to Death

Bellows Falls, Vt., Dec. 8.—Whether a case of murder or suicide is the question presented by the finding yesterday of the body of Miss Helen E. Berron lodged against the rack in a canal here. Miss Berron was 64 years old. On Tuesday afternoon a travelling bag belonging to her was brought into a local meat market by a man whose identity has not been established. When found in the canal there was a strip of lace and a piece of clothing tied tightly around the neck and the tongue was protruding.

Friends Doubt Suicide

Malden, Mass., Dec. 8.—The local police were notified last night by the agents of the Fall River line that W. H. Cary of this city had probably committed suicide by jumping overboard from the steamer Priscilla. In his stateroom was found a note giving the name of a Boston insurance agent. Cary was employed as bookkeeper for the Revere Electric Light company, and left home on Friday last. He was unmarried. Cary's friends in this city doubt very much the report of his suicide.

Worsted Manufacturers Assign

Woonsocket, R. I., Dec. 8.—The Simson & Kirkaldy company of this city, capitalization $100,000, has executed an assignment, following the placing of two attachments upon the company's plant. President Simson states that the assignment is made in order to treat all creditors alike. The mill will be run as usual in the manufacture of worsteds for men's wear.

Was Unconscious Over a Week

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 8.—Mary McDermott, who had been unconscious for over seven days at St. John's hospital as a result of hemorrhage of the brain, died Saturday night. She fell down a flight of stairs some time early in the morning of Nov. 29. Two women who are believed to know something about the accident have been held.

Boston, Dec. 8.—Photo engravers employed by six of the leading engraving firms of the city went out on strike today. The officers of their union have been trying for some time to arrange a scale of wages and hours on the same basis as those which prevail in three other engraving firms. Their efforts, however, proved futile.

Baby Saved, Mother Will Die

Boston, Dec. 8.—In attepting to rescue her baby from flames of an overturned lamp, Mrs. Mary Winn was fatally burned. Mrs. Winn was carrying her 19-months-old child up stairs in one arm and a lighted lamp in the other when the lamp struck the banister rail and was knocked from her hand. The child was uninjured.

Boy Fatally Shot

Providence, Dec. 8.—Fred R. Basto, 11 years old, was wounded on Saturday at Centreville by a charge from a shotgun held by George W. Watson, 10 years old, and died yesterday. The Watson lad picked up a gun and, pointing it at Basto, in a spirit of fun, pulled the trigger. The shot took effect in Basto's head.

Suffered Apoplectic Stroke

Marion, Mass., Dec. 8.—There is no apparent change in the condition of former Attorney General Knowlton, who was stricken with apoplexy at his summer home here Saturday. Several times he rallied and recognized members of his family, but almost immediately lapsed into unconsciousness.

Want a Ten-Hour Day

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 8.—The state branch of the Journeymen Bakers and Confectioners of America held its quarterly conference here yesterday and voted to ask for a 10-hour day and a uniform scale of wages, both to go into effect on May 1, 1903. The abolition of night work was also favored.

Cold Brought Death

Exeter, N. H., Dec. 8.—With his horse still standing by his side, the body of George W. Clough, 45 years old, of Amesbury, Mass., was found in a lonely section of the road near East Kingston yesterday, where the man had died from cold and exposure.

Used Fire to Thaw Out Pipes

Providence, Dec. 8.—Mrs. Sarah Abbie, 24 years old, was probably fatally burned while thawing out frozen water pipes at her home. The blazing tapers which she applied to the pipes set fire to her clothing and she was terribly burned.

Drank Chloroform by Mistake

Burlington, Vt., Dec. 8.—Alexander Powers, a blacksmith, aged 44, drank two ounces of chloroform, thinking it was gin, and died four hours later without regaining consciousness. He leaves a widow and seven children.

THE FUNERAL OF REED

Conducted In Accordance With His Own Wishes

BRIEF AND SIMPLE RITES

Men, Women and Children Gazed Upon the Face of One Whom They All Loved—City Bells Tolled and Public Business Was Suspended

Portland, Me., Dec. 9.—In the Unitarian church this morning the old neighbors of Thomas B. Reed, who include every man, woman and child in the city of Portland, were permitted to gaze for the last time upon the face which to them was ever full of life and jollity. This afternoon, in the main body of the church, assembled a distinguished gathering of statesmen from Washington, business men from New York, governors from other New England states, and nearly every prominent citizen of Maine to honor his memory. There were read a few passages from the Bible, a brief but fervent prayer was offered and a short eulogy delivered by Rev. John C. Perkins. When the benediction was pronounced the body was removed to the tomb at Evergreen cemetery. Such was the funeral of Speaker Reed, brief, unostentatious, and in strict accordance with his own wishes.

The body of Mr. Reed arrived here from Washington in a special train shortly after noon yesterday, after a 20-hour journey from Washington. It was accompanied by the widow, the daughter and a few close friends. The party was met at the station by a local committee of arrangements and Mrs. Reed and her daughter were at once escorted to a hotel, while the body, which rested in a plain black casket, was conveyed to the First Parish house.

Mrs. Reed's permission was obtained to have the body lie in state and this morning the public was admitted to the church. After that the edifice was closed to all except those holding tickets.

The pall-bearers were selected from the Cumberland bar and the Cumberland club. The main body of the church was reserved for Governor Hill, staff and council, Governor Crane of Massachusetts, Collector Lyman of Boston, members of the Home Market club, the Cumberland bar, Cumberland club, Loyal Legion, Grand Army, and members of the city government.

None of the immediate family were in the body of the church, but occupied seats in the parish house, the broad doors of which lead directly into the larger edifice.

The casket was placed upon the pulpit platform, which was well covered with floral tributes. There was no vocal music, but merely a few organ selections of an appropriate nature.

During the funeral services the city bells tolled 63 strokes, the age of the deceased, and all public business was suspended. For the time being the entire city stood beside the bier of him who, for so many years, made it his home.

House Tribute to Reed

Washington, Dec. 9.—The house yesterday paid a remarkable tribute to the memory of ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed. The chaplain, at the opening of the session, made a feeling reference to the death of the ex-speaker. No business was transacted beyond the formal reading of two messages from the president and an arrangement to postpone the London dock charge bill until today. Mr. Sherman of New York then arose amid silence and after a few appropriate remarks offered resolutions that in honor of the distinguished dead, the house adjourn. When the reading of the resolutions has been concluded, Speaker Henderson asked if there were objection to their present consideration. The silence remained unbroken. The resolutions were then unanimously adopted and the speaker declared the house adjourned out of respect for the memory of Mr. Reed.

Requisition Papers Came Too Late

Louisville, Dec. 9.—The Herald Commercial says that Mayor Ames of Minnesota who, with his wife, has been in this city for over a week under the care of a physician, has left town. His destination is unknown. Detective McGruth of Minneapolis arrived last night with requisition papers for Ames, who was indicted in connection with the recent municipal scandals in Minneapolis.

FACING A COAL CRISIS

The Great Shortage Forces Retailers to Stop Taking Orders

Boston, Dec. 9.—So far as anthracite coal for domestic use is concerned, Boston appears to be facing a coal famine. The situation is the most serious ever known by the local coal dealers, and most of the leading coal retailers have stopped taking orders. The supply of gas and anthracite coal coming to tidewater at New York is now about 51,000 tons a day from all roads. About one-third of ths is available for eastern shipment and it is not all destined to Boston.

Even if the whole supply of eastern shipment coal came to this city it would not be equal to the normal amount, and then it would not be possible for the coal companies to deliver more than about 5000 tons a day to Boston and its suburbs under the precent conditions.

The price is nominally unchanged at $9 a ton, but there is every indication that this price will be higher within the next few days, as the suburban dealers have already put the price up to $12 a ton, and even higher in some cases.

Reports from many New England cities say that the intense cold has brought much suffering to the poor people. In some places there is no coal to be had, and the wood dealers are selling only a small supply to people who call for wood.

His Head Smashed In

Brattleboro, Vt., Dec. 9.—Elroy Kent, who has served three terms of imprisonment, and has been arrested several times on the charge of burglary, is in the county jail at Newfane with his skull crushed, the outcome of jumping from a train in an attempt to elude people who had recognized him. The top of his head was terribly crushed, and a piece of wood penetrated the brain. It is believed, however, that he will recover.

Westney's Generous Act

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 9.—W. A. Schick, the Harvard sprinter who won the 100-yard dash at the Mott Haven games only to be disqualified, yesterday received from Captain Westney of the University of Pennsylvania track team the medal for the 100 yards dash. Captain Westney finished next to Schick. In a letter he says he deplores the recent incident and wishes Schick to have the medal. Schick, however, will return it.

A Deliberate Suicide

Athol, Mass., Dec. 9.—Moses Ruggles, a winter resident of this town, jumped in front of an express train yesterday and was killed, the body being fearfully mangled. For a long time he had been in poor health, and once before tried to end his life. Ruggles lived at Barre in the summer. He was 84 years old and had been a farmer all his life.

Expect to Be Reimbursed

Danvers, Mass., Dec. 9.—The officials of the Danvers Savings bank do not apprehend any difficulty in obtaining reimbursement from the National Security company to the extent of its liability in the matter of defalcations by the late treasurer, Albion F. Welch, now deceased. The security company has not yet been heard from.

Government Will Complete Job

Boston, Dec. 9.—The United States government has decided to take away from F. G. Coburn & Co., the contractors who recently failed, the right to complete the new forge shop which that firm for months past has been constructing at the lower end of the Charlestown navy yard. The navy yard authorities are to finish the work.

Connecticut Wants Embargo Raised

Hartford, Dec. 9.—H. O. Averill, commissioner of domestic animals, finds that there is no case of foot and mouth disease among cattle in the state and he is endeavoring to induce Secretary of Agriculture Wilson to raise the embargo of Nov. 27, which forbids the removal of cattle from Connecticut into any other state.

Windup of a Nashua Bank

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 9.—In the superior court yesterday Assignee Patch of the Contoocook Valley Savings bank filed his accounts and they were accepted. The court issued a decree ordering paid a final dividend of 14 percent, amounting to $7000. The affairs of the bank are now closed up.

Student Hurt While Fencing

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 9.—While John Bryant and T. D. Roberts, both of Harvard, were practising at fencing yesterday Roberts hit Bryant in the chest. The foil broke through the force of the blow, went through the mask and, piercing the cheek, entered the roof of Bryant's mouth.

Boy's Skeleton Unidentified

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 9.—Coroner Hunt went to Antrim yesterday for a final hearing upon the finding of the skeleton in Contoocook river. The decision rendered was that the person, a boy about 15 years, came to his death from causes unknown.

Diplomats Must Keep Secrets

London, Dec. 9.—A new rule has been adopted in the foreign office to the effect that diplomats, either while in office or after retirement, are absolutely forbidden, without the express permission of the foreign office, to publish their reminiscences or experiences in the countries in which they were officially employed.

INCREASE IN WAGES

Granted Miners In 1900 Not Understood by Arbitrators

THE NECESSARIES OF LIFE

Reach Exorbitant Figures In the Coal Fields—How Children Endeavored to Pay Off Debts of Fathers Killed While at Work In Mines

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 9.—Almost the entire times of yesterday's sessions of the coal strike commission was taken up by the mine workers in presenting their side of the controversy with C. B. Markle & Co. in the Hazleton regions. The miners placed witnesses on the stand who gave testimony to show that the company refused to employ them because they belonged to the union and had evicted them from their houses for the same cause; that the docking system was intolerable; that the question of the men getting the 10 percent in wages granted as a result of the 1900 strike is much in doubt because the men do not know how the company is figuring it out, the price in powder which enters into the computation of the increase, and that the size of the mine cars has increased but the wages have not.

The commissioners were very much surprised to learn that the 10 percent granted in 1900 was not a straight-out raise in wages, but, instead, a 2½ percent increase and a reduction in powder of 7½ percent, making the net increase in earnings 10 percent, which the miners claim is not being paid by the Markle company, through some way of figuring they do not understand. The question came in for considerable discussion and no one in the court room could give the commission a satisfactory explanation.

J. W. Rittenhouse, secretary of the Retail Grocers' association, which does a large business among the mine workers, gave the prices for necessaries of life, such as eggs, butter, meats and provisions for 1900, 1901, and 1902. The increases in prices ranged from 15 to 78 percent, making the general average for groceries about 30 percent higher than two years ago. Witness said the ability of the mine workers to pay their grocery bills has not improved. His figures were made up of those quoted by 25 merchants in the upper coal fields.

John D. Hughes, the Scranton manager for Armour & Co., gave the wholesale prices for all meats, comparing them with the prices in 1900 and 1901, which showed that the prices of meats of all kinds have increased 23 1-5 percent over the prices of 1900.

Ira H. Burns, lawyer for the independent operators, cross-examining Mr. Hughes, said: "Don't you know that the rise in the prices of meats was due to the meat trust?"

Witness—"I don't know of any such institution."

Mr. Burns—"Do you agree with what 'Teddy' Roosevelt says about the trusts?"

Witness—"I believe in some of it."

Before the witness could finish his answer, General Wilson jumped up and said: "Mr. Chairman, I object to any person before this board referring to the President of the United States in that manner."

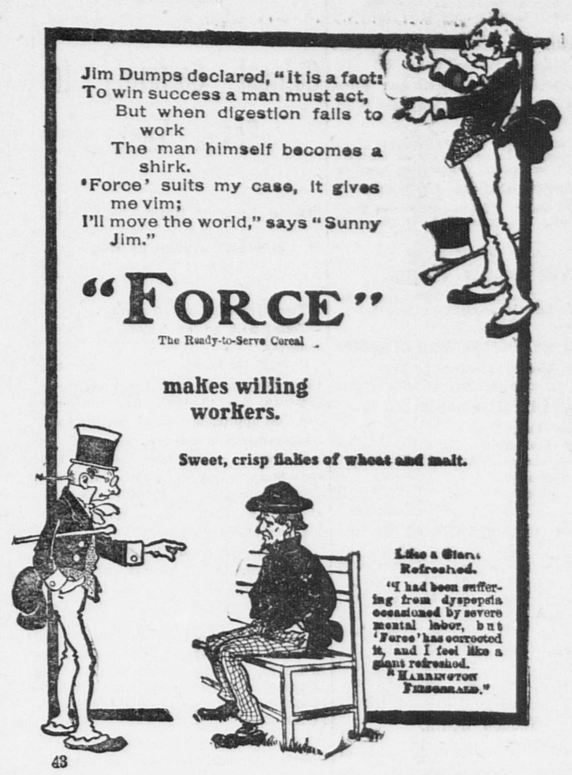

This caused a flurry, but Mr. Burns calmly replied: "He sometimes calls himself that."

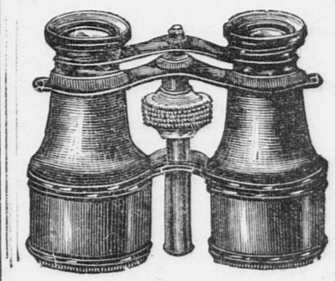

Chairman Gray smoothed matters out by saying: "I think the objection is well taken," to which Mr. Burns replied, "Well, we will call him the President of the United States."

Mrs. Andrew Chippie, the mother of the 12-year-old breaker boy who testified on Saturday that he had to work out the debt of his dead father, took the stand and substantiated all the boy had said. She gave the additional information that the Markle company wanted her to sign a paper waiving all right to sue the company for the killing of her husband in their mines. The company promised her rent and coal free for six months, but she refused to sign. Upon her refusal to do so, they charged up rent and coal and the little boy was compelled to work at 4 cents an hour in the breaker, but his wages are so small the debt is increasing.

Another woman whose husband was killed at the same time Mrs. Chippie's husband lost his life, told precisely the same story in every detail. Her son was given a job in the mines as a driver boy at 80 cents a day and in five or six months never received anything but $5, all the wages being retained by the company for rent and coal. The women received $50 each for burial expenses from the company but the funeral expenses exceeded $50.

Sudden Death.

Lewis S. Timberlake of the firm of Timberlake & Small, grocers at South Quincy, Atlantic and Neponset, died suddenly Monday evening of heart failure, at his home, No. 67 Minot street, Neponset.

Monday afternoon Mr. Timberlake attended the funeral of Mr. Edgar H Doble at West Quincy, and remarked to a friend that he never felt better in his life. Shortly after reaching home he complained of illness, and soon passed away.

He was a Pine Tree state man, having been born in Turner 49 years ago. He was long identified with the grocery business. A widow survives him.

Why Is Coal So High?

Why is coal so high in Boston, with threats that it is going higher? is a question to which this smart touch of winter that we are now experiencing gives a peculiar emphasis, says the Trauscript, and comments editorially as follows: An explanation seems to be due consumers, and a better explanation than has yet been forthcoming. While the coal strike was on the public submitted with a kind of dumb patience to any extortion that might be practised. They could see some reason for it, if not a sufficient reason.

But the strike is now off, and has been off for some time. Coal has been mined at a rapid rate. Cars are running in all directions, and travellers are grumbling because their trains are held up to give coal trains the right of way, while coal barges punctuate the coast of the north Atlantic for almost its whole distance.

Dealers are said to be buying of the companies for five dollars "free on board" at New York, while the freightage to this city is not more than seventy-five cents in advance of that price. In the towns and cities of the middle and western portions of the State, coal has been selling from a dollar and a half to more than two dollars a ton less than in this city.

It can hardly cost the big dealers of Boston more for the coal itself than it costs the smaller dealers of inferior cities. It may be and doubtless is true that we have still an inakequate supply; that in the distribution Boston has been left temporarily to one side, but that is no reason for charging exorbitant prices for the small amounts that are parcelled out to consumers.

The excuse that this is done in order to deal impartially with customers is no excuse at all. That can be done more justly and directly by limiting the quantity that each customer can have than by charging prohibitive prices. To take advantage of the situation to grind the consumer is little better than business piracy, and is calculated to make Socialists a good deal faster than would be possible for the most persuasive apostle of socialistic doctrines.

The dealers may claim that they are merely taking advantage of the law of supplying and demand; but even that law, which is wholesome under natural conditions, should be suspended under those that were abnormal. One man in a shipwrecked crew might be the legal owner of all the bread and water in the party, but if he undertook to take advantage of the exigencies of the situation, he would find that self-preservation was the first law of nature.

From 5 to 12 below zero in Quincy this morning.

COLD TUESDAY.

Today Beats All the Quincy Records.

Coldest Certainly for Seven Years.

Six to Sixteen Below at Sunrise and Two Above at Noon.

Two degrees above at noon!

Today will go on record as "Cold Tuesday."

During the seven years which the Daily Ledger has kept the noon temperature, Feb. 12, 1899, was the only day that approached it. Then the noon temperature was 5 above.

On Jan. 1, of the same winter, the noon temperature was 9 above and today is the third day since the winter of 1895-6 when the noon temperature has been below 10 degrees.

The lowest noon temperature by months for the past six winters is shown below:

	Dec.	Jan.	Feb.	Mar.
In 1896-7,	17	10	26	26
In 1897-8,	21	11	18	40
In 1898-9,	17	9	5	26
In 1899-00,	13	22	12	23
In 1900-01,	19	11	23	26
In 1901-02,	20	13	23	32
In 1902-03,	2

The mercury reached the zero mark shortly after midnight, and at sunrise was variously reported in different parts of the city from 6 to 14 below.

At noon today it had only mounted to 2 above, and indications are that it may go lower tonight than last night.

Reports from Norfolk Downs and Wollaston this morning were that it was 14 below 0 at sunrise.

Work on buildings in process of construction, was suspended today on account of the cold.

Owing to the severe cold today it was impossible for the men to work at the Fore River works this morning and they closed the shops for the day. According to the reports it was 14 below 0 at the works at seven o'clock this morning. In some glasses the mercury is said to have gone even lower than that.

Note—Since writing the above a search of old records shows a "Cold Friday" on Feb. 8, 1861, which even beats today. The mercury then registered 24 below at sunrise, 10 below at noon, 6 below at sunset, and 9 below at 8 P. M.

There was also a "Cold Sunday" on Jan. 18, 1857, but we do not have the figures.

Foot and Mouth Disease.

Dr. E. P. Henderson, the local inspector of animals, posted notices, all over the city on Monday, to the effect that Quincy had been declared to be infected territory with the foot and mouth disease.

The notice forbids all persons from driving or transporting any neat cattle, sheep, other ruminants or swine over any public highway or even to turn out any such animals on any unfenced land.

Dr. Henderson when seen by a representative of the Ledger said that there were some cases of the disease in Quincy but he refused to say how many cases there were or in what section of the city the disease had made its appearance.

The reason for this that it is not desirable to frighten people as it would in the sections where the disease is, if it were known.

☞ First reception of Elmer W. Baker's classes in dancing will be held at Faxon Hall, this evening. Altho gh cold without you will find it warm and pleasant within.

Clan McGregor Elect.

Clan McGregor at the regular meeting Monday night elected officers for the year 1903. The chief's chair is to be filled by Alexander Clark, of Alexander Clark & Co., blacksmiths, Liberty street. William Beattie will be second officer, and the chaplain will be the Rev. Dr. James Todd. William Ross will continue as corresponding secretary. The offices of Financial Secretary and Treasurer will continue in the hands of John Russell and Alex Russell. Dr. R. McLennan, who has been the clan physician a good many years will still look after the health of the members. A. Smith, as in years past will look after the needs of the chief, while George Robertson another often returned officer, will be careful of the needs of the second officer. James Milne is the chosen senechal and William Marshall will be sentinel.

TODAY'S COURT.

Ira A. Morton was fined $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

C—O—L—D!

Excellent sleighing.

The plumbers are busy.

Unseasonably cold they say.

Many water pipes were frozen this morning.

The fourth consecutive day of sleighing.

The Unitarian club of Wollaston will meet this evening.

Elijah S. Brown has received a favorable notice relative to pension.

Mr. E. G. Roberts of Elm avenue, has moved to Roxbury for the winter.

The school attendance was much below the average today because of the cold.

Election day in many cities today, but too low temperature to be an ideal election day.

St. Francis court of Foresters will hold a whist party Thursday evening at their hall.

The West Quincy baseball association will hold a social dance at St. Mary's hall, Jan. 15.

Santa Claus has arrired at the store of the Quincy Variety Co., to the delight of the childreu.

The glass registered 10 degrees below at the corner of Brooks avenue and Intervale street this mornlng.

Word has been received from Bradford, N. H., announcing the death of George F. Rand formerly of Quincy.

Quincy Music hall will be darkened for the Saturday matinees, and the regular evening performances will be given.

A very enjoyable whist party was held Monday evening at the Squantum Yacht club. Enough were present for twelve tables.

At its stables this morning the Quincy Cooperative Co. found one of their horses dead in its stall, due apparently to general debility and cold.

The annual meeting of Bethany Sunday school will be held Friday evening. After the business of the evining Rev. A. C. Alvord will deliver an address.

John Adams chapter Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution will meet with Miss Pearl Leonard, Monatiquot avenue, Braintree, Saturday morning.

Miss Mira Brown of Safford street, gave a birthday party last Thursday evening to forty of her friends. She was the recipient of many valuable gifts.

Rev. Peter MacQueen gave a very intructive and at the same time entertaining lecture on America in the West Indies and the Isthmias Canal, in Bethany chapel Monday evening. It was illustrated by stereopticon. The attendance was large.

Letters have been received from Miss Leila Miller, who landed at Naples, Italy, a few weeks ago. She said it was very warm and she wished she had thinner clothing. Quite a contrast to Quincy this morning, where most of us are looking for extra wraps.

At the Baptist church on Friday evening at the regular prayer meeting a Bulgarian in native costume will speak and sing. He comes to tell of Bulgaria and the position she holds, as a wrong idea has prevailed in regard to the part she took in the capture of Miss Stone.

Practically Dead, Yet Alive

St. Louis, Dec. 9.—Vigorous massage treatment yesterday afternoon resulted in restoration to semi-consciousness of Mrs. James Abernathy, who had been asleep since last Friday morning. After the vigorous rubbing she opened her eyes, but she has not spoken and apparently does not recognize even her husband. Her eyes remain open, her breathing continues regular, her color natural, but with the exception of swallowing some broth she has not moved a muscle.

The Czar to His Fighters

St. Petersburg, Dec. 9.—The czar, in a general order to the army and navy, giving instructions for a general observance of the anniversary of the fall of Plevna (which fell Dec. 10, 1877) adds: "Should a period of trial be in store for the fatherland, I am convinced that my glorious army and heroic fleet, which are dear and near to my heart, will do their duty, as did their predecessors, with honor to the throne and the fatherland."

Eczema

How it reddens the skin, itches, oozes, dries and scales!

Some people call it tetter, milk crust or salt rheum.

The suffering from it is sometimes intense; local applications are resorted to—they mitigate, but cannot cure.

It proceeds from humors inherited or acquired and persists until these have been removed.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

positively removes them, has radically and permanently cured the worst cases, and is without an equal for all cutaneous eruptions.

HOOD'S PILLS are the best cathartic. Price 25 cents.

ATHLETIC HONORS.

High School Boys and Girls Win the "Q".

At a mass meeting of the pupils of the Quincy High school Monday, Mr. Harper, the president of the Athletic Association awarded the "Q" to the foot ball players who made the team, to the players on the basket ball team which won the class games and to the school champion in girls' tennis and gave the pennant to the class which won the girls' athletic meet.

The foot ball team this year was one of the strongest the school has ever had. It won five out of eight games played, scoring 83 points against 57 for its opponents.

The class basket ball series of 6 games was won by 1905. The game between the juniors and sophomores was the decisive one and was won by Miss Kidd's brilliant goal throwing. Both the tennis tournament and the girls' field day events have been reported in these columns.

The list of awards is as follows:

Foot ball,—Messrs. Bennett, '04; Desmond, '04; Fenno, '04; Forrest, '03; Jewell, '03; Lewis, '05; Miller, (Capt), '03; Morrison, '04; Parlin, '03; Percival, '04; Prario, '04; H. Sanders, '05; and R. Sanders, '04.

Basket ball,—Misses Barbour, Blacklock, Kidd, Mitchell, Packard, Penley and Todd.

Tennis,—Miss M. Fay, '04.

The Girls' Athletic Meet pennant to the Class of 1904.

Sale at Wollaston.

The sale under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Alliance of Wollaston which was held on Saturday afternoon and evening was a financial success. The beautiful display of dolls was the centre of attraction and was in charge of Mrs. Fred Rollins, Mrs. George Boyce and Mrs. S. S. Delano, while Mrs. Fred Merrill had the apron table. The candy table was presided over by the young ladies of Mrs. C. W. Smith's class. Those who had charge of the cake table were, Mrs. George Bennett, Mrs. Howard Barnes, Mrs. George Collyer and Miss Clara Thayer.

The next cake sale will be held at the residence of Mrs. C. W. Smith on Arlington street, Saturday.

Funeral of Young Man.

The funeral of Edgar H., son of Mr. Herbert F. Doble of Miller street, West Quincy, who died last Friday after a brief illness, was held Monday afternoon from the home of his parents. The services were very impressive and were attended not only by the immediate family and employes of Mr. Doble, but by many of the business friends of the young man's father. Rev. David L. Martin, pastor of the West Quincy M. E. church, officiated, and music was furnished by a male quartette. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

CARD OF THANKS.

The members of Division 18, A. O. H., of Quincy, wish to thank the people who so kindly helped to make their Bazar a great success. Also the ladies who had charge of the tables.

Per order.

December Magazines.

The chief feature of the New England Magazine for December is an appreciative article by William H. Downes on Charles H. Davis, who is perhaps the leading living American landscapist. Mr. Downes has drawn in the most sympathetic manner an outline of the artist's life, his high aims and ideals, and emphasizes his rare insight into the beauty of nature's moods. The accompanying illustrations deserve a special word of praise, and are representative of Mr. Davis's best work, much of it his latest and all of it especially photographed for this article.

Mr. John Mitchell writes on "The Coal Strike," in McClure's for December and sums up his and the miners' position. Incidentally he declares that there can be no such thing as compulsory arbritration. Miss Ida M. Tarbell, in her second chapter on the history of the Standard Oil Company, gets right down to bed-rock facts in her exposition of the process by which discrimination in freight rates brought about the rise of the monopoly. This chapter shows that her history of the "Trust" will be no perfunctory affair.

In the "Captains of Industry" series in the December Cosmopolitan there appears a sketch of Nicholas Murray Butler, by Samuel E. Moffett, who explains why it is entirely fitting that a university president should be included among "captains of industry" today, and how Mr. Nicholas Murray Butler is preeminently just that type of university president, who, in administrative ability, enterprise and hard-headed common sense, is so closely analogous to a great personality in the business world. The other "captains" sketched in this issue are Henry Phipps and Mr. John F. Dryden.

The Christmas National comprises one hundred and fifty pages of the brighest and most entertaining text and picture. Admiral Dewey, Secretary Shaw, John Mitchell, Ernest McGaffey and John Bates Clark contribute pithy "sentiments for the Christmas season." The Admiral's letter is reproduced in facsimile. There are short stories by ten American writers. Joe Mitchell Chapple dicusses affairs at Washington, illustrated with dozens of new snapshot pictures and portraits of celebrities.

Everybody's Magazine gets its holiday flavor from the collection of very brief stories by various authors, all under the title "A Christmas of Good Deeds." An excellent feature is the Gaucho horse-story, by William Bulfin, illustrated from plaster models made for the magazine by Solon H. Borglum, the Western sculptor whohas such a remarkable genius for figuring the broncho.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

CITY COUNCIL.

A Permit to Telephone Company Held Up.

Councilman P. F. Fallon Would Restrict.

Many Reports at the Regular Meeting Last Evening.

Councilman Adams, Langelier and Nichols were the absent members at Monday night's meeting of the City Council.

FINANCES.

A communication was received from the City Auditor stating that bills amounting to $44 for Parks had been received and there was no funds to pay them. To Finance Committee.

Later an order was offered appropriating that amount.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works relative to receipts paid the City Treasurer for work done by the Street department and asking that they be transferred to the Highway appropriation.

Laid on the table until later when an order was offered authorizing the Treasurer to credit receipts amounting to $1875.90 to Highways.

The Commissioner sent a communication giving the cost of constructing permanent sidewalks. Placed on file.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Fire Department reported reference to the next Council on order of 1901 relative to increasing pay of firemen.

The Committee on State Aid reported an amendment to the order relative to the bill for board of Lydia J. Copeland which was adopted.

The Committee on Ordinances reported correctly engrossed on the following orders which were passed:

Refunding amount to John H. Dinegan for tax title.

Granting the Old Colony Street railway a location to connect its tracks on Washington and Saville streets.

Refunding poll tax paid by Lemuel K. Hirtle.

The Committee on Finance reported an amendment to the order for $700 for laying out Rock Island road. Took second reading.

NUISANCE ORDER.

The Committee on Finance reported slight amendment to the order for $1,500 for abating nuisance at the corner of Washington and Chubbuck streets.

Councilman Fallon spoke at length. He had viewed the premises and found the statements made by abutters were false.

Councilman Freeman raised a point of order that the question was on the amendment. Point sustained and Councilman Fallon was declared out of order.

The amendment was adopted, and the order took its second reading.

Councilman Freeman moved to lay on the table.

Councilman Bass asked why, but the mover of motion refused to answer.

Councilman Bass said, considering the time of the year, nothing could be done, and he could not see how it would be wise to borrow money and put it in the treasury.

Councilman Fallon did not believe in taking backwater. It was cowardly to make such a motion and refuse to give the reason. It should not be laid on the table but should be settled now.

President Alden stated that the position of the order was on putting it on its final passage.

The order was laid on the table by a vote of 12 in favor to 6 against.

SMALLPOX.

The Committee on Finance reported ought to pass on order crediting amount received from the State for smallpox cases to the Board of Health.

Councilman Gassett moved to suspend the rules.

Mayor Bryant stated that about $475 had been received from the State and and there would be about $700 more received from the State and outside towns. When a case comes up we take care of it and then render a bill to the place where the charge belongs. This money has already been paid out by the Board of Health and it would be better to transfer the receipts rather than ask for an appropriation. The cases cost about $300 each.

Order passed.

OTHER REPORTS.

The Committee on Finance reported favorable on the order refunding tax title to Harlow H. Rogers. To Ordinance committee.

The Committee on Finance reported reference to the next Council on the Communication from the Commissioner regarding bills for edgestones.

The Committee on Elections reported the result of the recent election as already printed in this paper.

POLES AND WIRES.

Upon motion of Councilman Newcomb, the order granting the N. E. T. Co. a location for poles on West street was taken from the table.

Councilman Fallon believed some restrictions should be placed on locations. The city should charge for the service.

Upon motion of Councilman Thompson the order was again laid on table.

The order granting permission to the Telephone company to attach its wires to poles of other companies took its second reading, and was passed, but not before Councilman Fallon had entertained the Council with a long talk on poles and wires. Councilman Bass voted no.

The orders granting the Telephone company permission to attach wires to city poles on Grove street, and granting relocation of poles on Coddington and Sea streets and Quincy avenue were passed.

Councilman Whiton asked about these locations for poles on West street.

Councilman Newcomb said that the company already had a location there but had moved their poles upon request of the Commissioner, so as to permit snow ploughs to pass. This order was simply to confirm the new location.

ORDERS.

Councilman Freeman offered an order refunding $39.15 to C. S. Dennison, agent, for taxes paid on an error. To Finance Committee.

Councilman Bass moved to take the order for $1,500 for abating the nuisance at Quincy Point from the table. Lost.

The order appropriating $300 for fuel for the Fire Department took its second reading.

Councilman Fallon claimed there should be enough money under the head of miscellaneous to meet this amount. Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

The order appropriating $940.35 for bills of the Poor department for 1901 took its second reading and was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Upon motion of Councilman Newcomb the communication relative to edgestones was referred to the Committee on Streets.

Adjourned at 8.55 to meet next Monday, Dec. 15.

THE OLD RELIABLE
ROYAL

BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

COAL-WOOD-OIL.

All Now Difficult to Get in Quincy.

City Agency Appreciated in Emergencies.

Oil Fifteen Cents a Gallon and Supply Small.

The coal situation in Quincy today is a serious one, and unless relief comes soon there will be an untold amount of suffering. There has already been much suffering but nothing compared to what there will be.

At present there is only one firm in Quincy that has any hard coal and they can not begin to fill orders. People leaving orders are told that delivery can not be promised inside of two or three weeks.

Monday many sent their own teams for coal but the crush at the wharf was such that it is next to impossible to get coal that way. Getting coal this way is expensive, for aside from the high price, private teamsters charge $2 a ton for carting.

Both Patch and Sheppard have an abundance of soft coal on hand, but even this is hard to get, because they have not teams enough to keep up with the orders. Mr. Patch has three barges of coal on the way, and are due to arrive any day. One of these is is hard coal and the other two are soft coal.

Coal ordered by bags through the City Messenger is being delivered with promptness, and on the whole it is the better way to order it if one is entirely out of fuel.

WOOD HIGH.

The wood situation is fully as bad if it is ordered from the regular dealers; as they cannot deliver that any quicker than they can coal. Wood, however, can be ordered of Mr. Cunningham, Overseer of the Poor, and will be delivered promptly. This is the Nova Scotia birch that Mayor Bryant bought some weeks ago. The price of this wood is $9 per cord just what it cost. It is delivered free, the expense of delivery being paid for by Mayor Bryant out of his own pocket,

AND OIL SCARCE.

Added to the discomfiture caused by the lack of coal, is the fact that kerosene oil is also a scarce article in Quincy today. Many of the local stores are without any oil whatever and do not know when they will get any. Then again, the price has advanced to 15 cents per gallon and it makes no difference whether you purchase one gallon or five the price is the same. The dealers say that their shortage of oil is only temporary, and that their tanks may be filled before night.

WITHIN A BRIEF PERIOD

Venezuela Must Settle Claims of England and Germany

FORMAL ULTIMATUM ISSUED

Failure to Comply Will Be Followed by Seizure of Customs—Crisis In Republic's Affairs Will Be Closely Watched by United States

London, Dec. 9.—Great Britain and Germany have presented ultimatums to Venezuela, which will be followed up by the seizure of the customs unless a satisfactory settlement is forthcoming within a brief period. The ultimatums have a time limit, but the exact date cannot be ascertained here. The foreign office states with regard to the time limit:

"It is a reasonable time in which Venezuela can satisfy the injured governments. Both notes are practically identical, although the amounts of the claims differ. The notes reiterate the continued disregard by the Venezuelan government of all our representations, specify our claims, and demand immediate action on the part of President Castro's government in connection therewith."

The foreign office further says: "There is not the slightest desire to coerce Venezuela and if any answer had been made to our repeated protests and demands no such action as now taken would have been proceeded with. It was the persistent and insulting disregard to all representations which compelled us to move. It is now too late in the day for anything but purely diplomatic arrangements to be accepted in satisfaction for our injuries. When the fleets have assembled there is scarcely time to deal with bankers, and a financial settlement should have been suggested long ago and would have been welcomed by both Germany and ourselves. However, any bonafide proposition will receive careful attention. Reconstruction in commercial affairs is always better than liquidation and if the reconstruction of the Venezuelan finances can be accomplished to the satisfaction of our diplomatic claims and individual losses, both Germany and Great Britain will have achieved their ends."

RELATIONS SEVERED

Departure From Caracas of Representatives of England and Germany

Caracas, Dec. 9.—On Sunday afternoon the British minister, W. H. D. Haggard, and the German charge d'affaires, Von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, deposited at the private residence of the foreign minister, Lopes Barrait, separate demands, the British demand being for the settlement of claims and other matters arising out of the last revolution, and the German demand being for the payment of the interest on the German loan and other claims. The demands are without any specifications as to the time given for an answer, but they are in the form of an ultimatum.

At 3 o'clock yesterday Minister Haggard, his secretary, Grant Duff, and the chancellor of the legation, Godfrey, left Caracas in company with the German charge d'affaires, Von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, for La Guaira, where Haggard went on board the British cruiser Retribution and Von Pilgrim-Baltazzi boarded the German cruiser Vineta. Both the British and the German legations have been closed.

The ministers left Caracas without previously notifying the Venezuelan government, probably in order to avoid any hostile demonstration.

The actual situation is incomprehensible here. Up to yesterday no one appeared to know anything about the Anglo-German projected demonstration. The foreign minister said that he considered a menace on the part of German to be inadmissable, and that any threat would be only a feeler, while, as for England, said the minister, she has no grounds for aggression.

Claims Recognized as Valid

Washington, Dec. 9.—The foreign affairs of Venezuela are approaching a crisis. There seems to be no doubt that President Castro has failed to satisfy the German and British creditors of Venezuela, and that, consequently, a coercive demonstration will be made forthwith by British and German warships at La Guayra, and, perhaps, other seaports. As the custom houses constitute the principal sources of revenue for the Caracas government, it is obvious that the loss of them will render it extremely difficult for President Castro to suppress rebellion, repel invasion and restore order.

It is to be assumed, although no public assurance on this point has been given, that Secretary Hay has convinced himself that the debts which Germany and England propose to collect by force are just debts. If, on the face of things, the validity and amount of those debts were doubtful, he would probably have suggested a reference to arbitration. As no such suggestion is known to have been made, his recognition of the claims as valid must be taken for granted. Under the circumstances, his position that our government would not oppose the forcible collection of the German and British claims may be defended, not only by successive interpretations of the Monroe doctrine, including Mr. Roosevelt's, but also by precedents.

There is no reason in the present instance to apprehend that Venezuelan custom houses will be occupied and administered by foreign powers for a longer time than will suffice for the liquidation of debts, believed to amount in the aggregate to less than $30,000,000. There is no ground for apprehension on this score, because—and doubtless our state department is to be credited with this fortunate feature of the affair—the occupation will be undertaken by Germany and England jointly, instead of by Germany alone. So far, then, as the present experiment is concerned, it will be performed under the least objectionable conditions, and is unlikely to have any consequences detrimental to Venezuela's independence or territorial integrity.

There is a possibility, however, that the attitude assumed by our government toward the Anglo-German demonstration against Venezuela may have unwelcome results hereafter. That the occupation of territory belonging to a weak state, though alleged to be for the fulfilment of a temporary purpose only, may become permanent has been demonstrated by the course pursued by France in Mexico, after the joint expedition, and by the conduct of England herself in the Nile valley. All that can be said about such contingencies is that the United States cannot pretend to avert them beforehand, but must hold itself in readiness to meet them when they come. We certainly cannot undertake to guarantee the debts of Latin-American republics, but if, under the pretext of collecting such debts, a European power shall attempt to treat an American commonwealth as France treated Mexico, or as England has treated Egypt, she will have to deal with us.

Crown Prince May Visit Us

Berlin, Dec. 9.—The idea that the Crown Prince Frederick William may go to the United States has been favorably received. Emperor William thinks that the prince's general experiences in America would be more instructive than a visit to the St. Louis exposition, and it has been suggested that he attend one of the national conventions.

Receiver For Department Store

Omaha, Dec. 9.—Judge Munger yesterday appointed Edgar F. Hastings temporary receiver for the W. P. Bennett company, which operates one of the largest department stores in the city. The petition for a temporary receiver is made to enable the company to make a settlement with creditors.

A STRENGTHENER

Vinol Promptly Overcomes Weakness.

DEBILITY OFTEN PRECEDES COMPLETE COLLAPSE.

We Want Every One to Know How to Get Strong.

OUR VINOL IS A STRENGTH CREATOR.

The saddest sight on earth is a broken-down man or woman.

We see such people every day right here in our city.

It is pitiful to see a man that should be in his prime dragging himself through life dejected, discouraged and broken down, due to some premature weakness. It does not make any difference whether this weakness is the result of dissipation, indiscreet living or disease; it can be overcome.

We have known of many very serious cases of debility quickly overcome by Vinol.

Vinol is a scientific rebuilder and strength creator. It contains the active curative principles of Cod-Liver Oil in a highly concentrated form. The benefit that can be derived from the use of these properties is so well known that there is no need for us to enter into that subject.

We could quote many instances where Vinol has done good; as an example, here is one coming from Jane S. Fenfren, a prominent member of the W. C. T. U., and a resident of Suncook, N. H. She writes:

"I was run down, was in bed from May to March. Was so nervous and sickly that every one thought I was in a most precarious condition. My weight was reduced to 120 pounds. I was advised to take Vinol, which I did, and am now very much better, and am able to be about again. As a rebuilder and a strength giver nothing can equal it. Vinol is a God-blessing to anybody."

Because Vinol is delicious, and because it does contain these much-sought-after medicinal properties we endorse it, and we unhesitatingly proclaim that it is better than any preparation of cod-liver oil or tonic rebuilder we have ever had in our store.

BLONDIN'S FIRST WIFE

Introduced as Witness Against the Man Accused of Murder

Boston, Dec. 9.—The woman who is spoken of as the first Mrs. Blondin was a prominent figure in the Blondin murder trial yesterday, although her evidence was exceedingly brief. She came here from Montreal to testify that she married the defendant, J. W. Blondin, in 1890, and never had been divorced from him. While Mrs. Blondin was in the court room she apparently did not once turn her face towards the prisoner, and in testifying kept her eyes away from him by turning her head toward the judges' bench. Blondin seemed amused at her appearance, and constantly turned around to look at her as she sat in the rear of the court room. After her testimony, the attorney general presented in evidence the marriage certificate of the prisoner with Emma Riley (the murdered woman) in February, 1901.

Much of the testimony yesterday related to the trunks taken from the Green street house in which the Blondins lived. Two of these articles were traced from the house to the New York boat. A third trunk also was taken from the house to the North Union station, but Expressman Dean, who removed the trunk and talked with the man who engaged him, could not identify him. Dean admitted that he was intoxicated when he partially identified Blondin at the East Cambridge jail some time ago.

The trial began its second week with the case still in its formulative stage, five days having been devoted to the story of Blondin's existence from the time he worked on a farm in Chelmsford until he left the Green street house on the afternoon of the supposed date of Mrs. Blondin's murder. Yesterday the prosecution began to go into details of incidents supposed to have a direct bearing on the murder.

Chicago Employers Organize

Chicago, Dec. 9.—Chairman Job of the state board of arbitration resigned yesterday to become secretary of "The Employers' Association of Chicago." This body was recently organized by the leading employers of labor in Chicago, but the fact of its existence was a secret until the reason for Job's resignation became known. Said Mr. Job: "The organization is built on new lines and I believe will attract national attention and comment. We are not ready, however, to make all our plans public."

To Consider Labor Problems

New York, Dec. 9.—The first annual meeting of the industrial department of the National Civic Federation, which convened here yesterday, was attended by nearly 200 representatives of corporations and labor organizations and citizens interested in the solution of questions concerning the relations of capital and labor. Senator Hanna presided and delivered the address of welcome to the delegates. The delegates will get down to business today.

Gave Employer "Bromo Seltzer"

New York, Dec. 9.—Robert Westphal, a boy employed by George H. Leyh of Brooklyn, who died suddenly after drinking a bottle of beer, was arrested yesterday on the technical charge of being a suspicious person. The boy bought a bicycle for $27 on the day Leyh died. Westphal is said to have volunteered the information that he poured half a bottle of bromo seltzer into the fatal beer.

Caught by Decoy Letter

New York, Dec. 9.—Richard V. S. Scully, a letter carrier, was arrested yesterday by postoffice inspectors, charged with robbing the mails. Decoy letters were placed in Scully's box and he was arrested after he had failed to deliver one of them, when marked money was found in his pockets.

Standard Oil's New Investment

Trenton, Dec. 9.—The National Fuel Gas company, capital $2,500,000, was incorporated here yesterday to manufacture gas from oil. The papers were filed by counsel for the Standard Oil company and it is rumored that the standard company, through the new corporation, purposes absorbing a number of fuel oil gas companies.

May Have Plague Aboard

New York, Dec. 9.—Steamer Sicilian reports that on Dec. 7 she spoke steamer Denbighshire, from Manila for New York, which hoisted a signal which signified plague or some other contagious disease aboard that steamer. The Denbighshire sailed from Manila Sept. 20.

Fearful Weather at Sea

St. Johns, Dec. 9.—The blizzard is still raging and five schooners have been driven ashore. All the crews escaped, although two crews were in peril for some time. There are fears of losses among the Atlantic shipping owing to the recent gales in mid-ocean.

Convicted of Attempted Suicide

Newark, N. J., Dec. 9.—Frank H. Carney of this city, the first man to be convicted in this state of attempting suicide, was yesterday sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the penitentiary. His counsel at once filed notice of appeal, which acts as a stay.

NINETEEN CITIES VOTED

For Municipal Officers and on License Question

HURLEY BEATEN AT SALEM

While the City Swings Into License Column—Lowell Elects Republican Mayor and Goes No License—Chelsea Changes From Yes to No

Boston, Dec. 10.—More surprises came with the 19 Massachusetts cities holding elections yesterday than with the 13 which decided the question of home government last week. Summarizing the features it appears that Salem, in turning out the almost famous administration of Mayor Hurley in favor of an overwhelmingly Republican government, also went into the license column; Lowell went Republican for mayor for the first time in years, chose a Democratic board of aldermen, but a Republican council, and capped the climax by going no license by about 300. Then Chelsea went no license in conformity with every other city in Boston's environs, a result not unexpected in face of the returns last year, when license had the hair-breadth margin of four votes. Newburyport joined the other seaport cities in going license, reversing last year's verdict. The four cities mentioned, with Fitchburg last week, constitute the changes of cities on the license question this year.

Salem Republicans won a signal victory by electing Joseph N. Peterson mayor. For the first time in 16 years the Republicans placed a full municipal ticket in the field, and besides electing the mayor secured six of the seven aldermen, 19 out of 24 councilmen, and five of the six members of the school board. The surprises also include the vote on the license question, which resulted in favor of license.

Boston went Democratic in electing a board of aldermen and a street commissioner, adopted the act providing for the building of the Washington street subway by the city, by a majority of three to one, voted for license by its usual majority and split its vote for school committee between the Public School association and the Democratic ticket so evenly that the complexion of this contest is undecided. John H. Duane, Democratic candidate for street commissioner, has been elected over Edward W. Preho (Rep.) and present commissioner. The common council will be strongly Democratic. There was no election of mayor.

Mayor J. H. Lommis (Rep.) was elected for the third time mayor of Chicopee. The city went for license. The Republicans will retain control of the board of aldermen for another year.

The Republican ticket, headed by Mayor Glines, who secures a third term, was elected at Somerville. The Democrats now have only three of the 21 members of the city government. The city turned out a large majority for no license.

Woburn Democrats re-elected Mayor J. B. Feeney and 13 out of the 15 members of the city government. The city remains in the license column by 19 majority.

Arthur B. Chapin (Rep.) was re-elected for his fifth term as mayor of Holyoke. The board of aldermen will consist of 12 Republicans and 9 Democrats. The city was carried for license again.

Parker S. Davis (Rep.) was elected mayor of Beverly. The city government will be Republican. The city went no license.

The Cambridge election resulted in a victory for the Democrats, Mayor McNamee being re-elected by about 1000 majority. The Democrats also elect almost the entire board of aldermen. The common council will be 13 to 9 in favor of the non-partisan ticket. The city went no license.

Charles E. Howe (Rep.) was elected mayor of Lowell and the city changed to no license. In joint convention the Republicans will have two majority.

Henry W. Eastham (Rep.) was elected mayor of Lynn. The city remains in the license column. The Republicans elected all but five of their candidates in both branches of the city government.

The Melrose Republicans elected S. H. Buttrick mayor and every city official voted for. The city remains no license.

Mayor Dean was re-elected by the Republicans of Malden for a fifth term. The Republicans elected every member of the common council, the three members of the school board and all but one of the seven aldermen. The city again voted no license.

Mayor Edward F. Fletcher was re-elected at Worcester. The Republicans elected five aldermen and the Democrats four. The majority for license is 1473.

George Grimes (Rep.) was re-elected mayor of Fall River. The Republicans elected 19 aldermen, while the Democrats will have a representation of eight. The city remains in the license column.

Mayor E. E. Willard (Rep.) was successful in the Chelsea election. The city reversed its vote on the license question of last year and goes into the list of no license cities. The city government and school committee elected are overwhelmingly Republican.

James F. Carens (Non-Partisan) was elected mayor of Newburyport. The aldermen, common councilmen and school committee elected all ran upon nomination papers, party lines not being drawn in their cases. The city changed from no license to license.

Everett re-elected Charles Bruce mayor and carried both branches of the city government and school committee. The city again voted no license.

Newton re-elected Mayor J. W. Weeks (Rep). One Democratic alderman was elected. The city gave its usual majority for no license.

Medford re-elected Mayor C. S. Baxter (Rep). The Republicans elected all their candidates for aldermen and all but one of their 18 candidates for the common council. The city again went against license.

Congressional Doings

Washington, Dec. 10.—After debating the London dock charge bill for almost four hours, the house yesterday chopped its head off by striking out the enacting clause. This killed the bill. The debate was spirited on both sides and all day the members were flooded with telegrams respecting the bill.

The senate devoted most of yesterday to the immigration bill and adopted a number of amendments. There was considerable discussion of an amendment offered by Mr. Burton (Kas.) to admit Chinese laborers to Hawaii. It met with considerable opposition and finally was laid on the table. The provision in the bill prohibiting the sale of liquor in the Capitol building caused some criticism of the house for putting it in the bill, but the provision was not stricken out.

The Case of Militiaman Potter

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 10.—President Sheffer of the Painters' union says that despite the demand made by Potter's attorneys that the expelled militiaman be reinstated in the union, no card has been given him and none will be. Sheffer says Potter's injunction ordering his reinstatement as a journeyman cannot be complied with, as Potter was an apprentice, nor can he be issued an apprentice's card because he swore in his complaint that he is a journeyman.

Favors Sunday Liquor Selling

New York, Dec. 10.—District Attorney Jerome says that he will go to Albany and endeavor to get the legislature to pass a measure legalizing the sale of liquor between the hours of 1 in the afternoon and 11 o'clock at night on Sunday.

Marconi Going to Cape Cod

Glace Bay, C. B., Dec. 10.—The Italian warship Carlo Alberto is shortly expected to sail for Cape Cod with Marconi. Experimenting is taking place almost daily and some definite announcement is looked for at an early date.

THE COLD SNAP

Productive of Sadness In Many a Home In New England

Boston, Dec. 10.—Zero weather which swept over New England last night still holds a firm grasp on the region. A flood of sunshine yesterday did not temper the cold more than a few degrees in the sheltered places, and at nightfall the mercury again began to drop. Last night was even sharper than Monday night, Haverhill reporting 23 degrees below at 9 p. m.

The continuance of the extreme weather brings an indescribable amount of inconvenience, suffering and financial loss, and is producing conditions in all walks of life almost unprecedented. The chief sufferers are the very poor who are destitute of raiment, of fuel, and of the wherewithal to get either.

But distress has come in a great measure to other people. The fuel problem is presented to people who have the money in abundance, but are unable to make it buy coal. All day long the coal offices, the sheds and wharves of coal companies here were beseiged with people clamoring for fuel or the chance to buy. Scenes which wet many an eye and tales which wrung hearts with pity were enacted at these places, where from dawn until dusk people stayed trying to get coal. Orders for coal would not be taken, except in exceptional cases, and then people given orders to be filled at coal pockets had to provide their own means of transportation.

What happened in Boston was repeated in nearly every city in New England, the story being perhaps more harrowing in the larger cities, where the poor are in greater numbers and destitution more pronounced by reason of the greater struggle for existence day by day.

Bride of Three Weeks Suffocated

Newton, Mass., Dec. 10.—Mrs. Harriet Ransom, 56 years old, was asphyxiated last evening in her room in an apartment house. Mrs. W. Hennessy, who was in the room at the same time, was rendered unconscious, but she will probably recover. It is thought that they were experimenting with a gas stove and in some way turned on the gas, which overpowered them before they knew it was escaping. Mr. and Mrs. Ransom were married three weeks ago yesterday and moved into their apartments yesterday.

Coal Goes to the Bottom

Plymouth, Mass., Dec. 10.—Schooner Etta A. Stimson of Boston went ashore on the beach here yesterday and will doubtless be a total wreck. The schooner became unmanageable in the thick vapor and struck on a ledge, when the captain succeeded in getting her off and running ashore in an attempt to save the vessel. She had 365 tons of hard coal aboard. The life saving crew took off the crew of the wrecked schooner.

Held on Manslaughter Charge

Newtown, Conn., Dec. 10.—Engineer Thomas Farrell, who was in charge of a passenger train which was wrecked by collision at Sandy Hook Oct. 9 last, was brought before Justice Bradley here yesterday on a charge of manslaughter. Farrell waived examination and was bound over to the February term of the superior court under bonds of $1500, which were furnished.

Boat Became Unmanageable

Bath, Me., Dec. 10.—The two-masted schoonel Game Cock was stranded off Popham Beach yesterday. The sails were blown away and the rigging iced up, while the crew could not keep the craft on her course. In answer to distress signals the life saving crew at Popham took off Captain Crockett and his two seamen. Later the tug Seguin towed the vessel to this city.

Millionaire Charged With Assault

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 10.—Michael Hart, Jr., the millionaire brewer, whose wife is suing for separate maintenance, was arrested last night on warrants charging him with assault upon Mary Connell, his mother-in-law, and Mamie Connell, his sister-in-law. It is alleged that he went to the house occupied by his wife and her mother's family and there committed the asaults.

Ship Subsidies Not Favored

London, Dec. 10.—The report of the select committee of the house of commons on steamship subsidies was issued last evening. Its general tenor is distinctly against the principle of granting subsidies.

FAIR AT WOLLASTON

Over $300 Netted by Ladies of the Congregational Church.

The fair given by the ladies of the Wollaston Congregational church Tuesday afternoon and evening proved very successful, although the weather was intensely cold and many were kept away.

The vestries were prettily decorated. In the centre of the larger vestry was the candy booth in charge of Mrs. Leavitt, Mrs. Seavy and Mrs. Saxe; on the platform the art gallery was concealed by a beautiful rose screen behind which was Mrs. Nickerson and Mrs. Stevens.

The fancy table was managed by Mrs. Streeter, Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Morey, Mrs. Goodrich and Mrs. Burke. The domestic table was in charge of Mrs. Cornish, assisted by Mrs. Wilde, Mrs. Hicks and Mrs. Albert Thompson.

The art table proved very popular. The articles were displayed by Mrs. Whitman, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Penniman and Mrs. Witham.

The young people were pleased with the handsome display of dolls, assorted sizes. At the head was Mrs. Chase with Miss Hapgood, Miss Litch and Miss Alice Thompson as assistants.

The cake table was well arranged by Mrs. Brasee, Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Lincoln.

Perhaps the most popular attraction was the fish pond. Here the children were waited on by Mrs. Loring, who displayed considerable skill in the piscatorial art.

Supper was served from 5.30 to 7.30. The menu consisted of escalloped oysters, rolls, coffee, sandwiches, ice cream and cake. The committee was Mrs. W. S. Sayward, Mrs. Nash, Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Elwell Mrs. Broughton, Mrs. C. F. Bates, Mrs. A. H. Sayward, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Brasee and Mrs George Nash.

The church building fund will gain over $325 by this grand good effort of the Ladies Benevolent society.

Got Left.

The Atlantic station was a scene of stamping, breathing life, Tuesday morning, when the clock pointed to 8.30 and the 8.20 train was a minus number on the track. In spite of a good heat inside frozen ears, frozen feet and frozen curses were plentiful enough. The latter thawed rapidly, however. After what seemed an age of patient (or more correctly impatient) waiting, the train steamed in, and there was a rush for the door by the unfortunate ones who did not have the opportunity of waiting for the 8.24.

Those who were left, smiled to themselves and clung to the heater, preparing for four minutes of warmth. Alas! He who laughs last, laughs best, for the moments rolled by, expresses tore past, and the smiles of the 8.24 victims wilted completely.

Shortly after nine, the sympathetic station agent announced that the puffing heard up the track was a train for Boston and way stations. It was a docile line which filed into the heated cars and sank into their respective seats.

The ruddy-cheeked breakman was unkind enough to indulge in a smile as he called out the next station in stentorian tones.

All the outward afternoon trains were late Tuesday. The train due to arrive at 2.49 did not arrive until 3.49, and this delayed all of the later trains.

THE KEEL LAID.

For Schooner William L. Douglass at Quincy.

Will be a Steel Six-Master.

Her Length 339 Feet.—Electricity and Modern Equipment.

The keel was laid Tuesday in the Fore River shipyard at Quincy for another large vessel to be added to Captain John G. Crowley's big fleet of sailing merchantmen—a six-masted steel schooner to be called the William L. Douglas, after the Brockton shoe manufacturer, who is one of the largest shareholders in the syndicate that will own her.

The Douglas will be the first six-masted schooner built of steel and will be considerably larger than any wooden craft of the same type. She will be second in size, among American merchant "sailers," only to the seven-master Thomas W. Lawson, which was launched at Fore River last summer for Captain Crowley, and will represent the most advanced development of the sailing vessel and the most modern methods of steel shipbuilding.

Her hull and interior construction will be such as would be given a trans-Atlantic "liner", her "skin", as mariners call the outside of a ship, being "joggle-plated"—that is to say, made of steel plates the edges of which are bent to overlap one another so that the joints shall be absolutely watertight. Her masts will be steel cylinders tipped with Oregon pine spars and will reach 130 feet above her deck.

Steam will be used on the Douglas for almost everything except propulsion. She will have steam steering gear and pumps, and four engines, set on the open deck, will hoist and lower her sails—in which there will be more than 35,000 square feet of canvas—and manage her anchors.

The engines will be so placed that they can also serve the huge hatchways in loading and discharging cargoes. The whole vessel will be lighted by a dynamo, the steam for all the power being supplied by a boiler set in a deck-house amidships.

As on the Lawson, this use of machinery will be a great economy, reducing the number of men necessary for a crew to 14, including master, mates, and engineer, while the first six-master the George W. Wells, built for Captain Crowley less than two years ago—requires 24 men and the second—the only other six-master now afloat—carries 29 men.

These features of the construction and equipment of the W. L. Douglass are not very different from those of the seven-master, but there the similarity ends, for the lines of the new schooner are quite distinctive. They were drawn by Bowdoin B. Crowinshield, the Boston marine architect who designed the Lawson and yacht Independence, and are intended to give her great cargo capacity and at the same time good speed.

As a coal-carrier she will far outstrip the two six-masters now in commission, for she will be able to carry 5700 tons to their 2970 tons and 3401 tons respectively; while if the performances of the Lawson are a fair basis of judgment should prove to be a very fast sailer.

The Douglas will have two decks above her hold, with a deep tank for carrying water ballast—instead of a double bottom like that put into the Lawson—reaching from the keel to the second deck. Her general demensions are: Length overall, 339 feet six inches; length on load waterline, 306 feet; beam, 48 feet; depth, 29 feet nine inches; load draft, 24 feet; load displacement, 77,000 tons. She will be launched next summer.

County Custodian

The County Commissioners on Tuesday appointed John E. Drummond as janitor of the county buildings at Dedham, at a salary of $1000, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Albert Daniels. The salary of the latter was $1,400. Mr. Drummond has for seven years been the assistant and the appointment is in line of civil service.

MARTELL VS. WHITE.

Test Case Against Quincy Granite Manufacturers' Association.

The action of Fred Martell against James N. White et al, to recover damages for alleged conspiracy to injure him in his business of quarrying and selling granite at Quincy, was argued in the supreme court before Judges Knowlton, Morton, Lathrop, Barker and Hammond, Tuesday, on the plaintiff's exceptions, a verdict having been ordered for defendants by the superior court, and is reported by the Herald as follows:

The defendants are members of the Granite Manufacurers Association, a voluntary association, formed for mutual protection, and the plaintiff, who ceased business in January, 1899, claimed that 22 of his customers, members of the association, were notified by the executive committee shortly before that that they were violating the regulations by dealing with outsiders and were asked to contribute to the funds of the association under art. 10, sec. 3, of its by-laws.

This section provides that "for the purpose of defraying in part the expenses of the maintenance of this organization any member hereof having business transactions with any party or concern in Quincy or its vicinity not members hereof and in any way relating to the cutting, quarrying, buying or selling of granite, * * * shall for each of said * * * transactions contribute at least $1 and not more than $500," the amount to be fixed by the association.

There was evidence to show that by this action members who had been plaintiff's customers refused to deal with him, he was unable to get any orders and so gave up business. There was no evidence, however, of threats or intimidation.

The plaintiff claims that the action of the society upon its members amounted to an unlawful conspiracy to injure him in his business, that the case should have been submitted to the jury upon the ground that on the evidence they could have found that the purpose of the association in this case was an illegal one or that the means used were illegal as amounting to coercion. Decision was reserved. E. R. Anderson for plaintiff, J. E. Cotter and J. W. McAnarney for defendants.

Counting Chickens.

There was a man in Atlantic who needed coal. What is more he meant to have it. So with a brag here and there, he called up his dealer and shouted his demand for anthracite,—at once. The dealer demured, but with a sly wink at those around the 'phone, the man repeated his demand, mixed with language not of the Bible. A grin passed over his face at the response; the dealer had promised to send coal that very evening. So the man went home, never missing a chance to tell of his good fortune to every person he met.

It happened, the Fortunate Man had company that evening, and in the midst of the gaities, there was a great shuffling on the walk, followed by a sharp ring. The Fortunate One smiled and sauntered debonairly to the door. He would show his friends who could get what he wanted for the asking. Outside, stood a man, and nestling in the shelter of each arm, was a bundle

"Coal here?" asked the smiling one.

The man laid the two bags inside the door.

"There you are, sir, he said, and made hasty tracks for the street, with "all he could spare" drifting back to the man who could get coal for the asking.

Moral: "Never count your chickens before they are hatched."

Miss Waldron.

The death of Miss Bertha Waldron, the pretty and lovable daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Waldron of Granite street, took place Tuesday at the Quincy Hospital. For four years her health had not been good but she continued her studies at the Woodward Institute and later fitted as a kindergarten teacher, and accepted a position as teacher at Hingham. Only a few weeks ago she relinquished her duties. When it was determined that an operation was necessary she was not strong enough to stand the shock. The funeral will take place on Friday at the family residence.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

John B. Price, South Central avenue, has been confined to his home for the past week suffering from a slight stroke of paralysis.

There was a slight fire at the residence of William Garrity on Cottage street Tuesday afternoon, the hose wagon responding on a still alarm.

Many a thrifty Wollaston householder, who waited for a lower price for coal before buying, has chopped up decrepit furniture to keep the kitchen fire going.

The central station combination was called out at 10 o'clock this morning to extinguish a fire in the chimney of the Horton house on Hancock street, occupied by Mrs. Moon. The damage was slight.

The alarm for a fire in the chimney of Mr. Lacy's house, Grand View avenue, last night thoroughly frightened the people of Second hill. Fortunately the expected conflagration did not occur.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. Gomez entertained the Jolly Sixteen whist club, at their home on Washington street, Tuesday evening. The following were awarded souvenirs: Mrs. Phelan, cut glass atomizer; Mrs. Dorley, pair towels; Mrs. McNeil, china plate; Mr. Litchfield, china cup and saucers, Mr. Gomez, chocolate pot. Ices, frappe, cake and fruit were served.

Prof. Baker's Reception.

The dancing classes of Elmer W. Baker held their first reception of the season Tuesday evening at Faxon hall. The evening was bitter cold but this did not prevent a large number from attending, upwards of thirty couples participating. The entire evening was given up to dancing, the more modern dances being the most popular with the party. Wilson's orchestra furnished music for the dancing which continued until 1 o'clock this morning. At 11 o'clock a hot oyster stew was served by caterer Remick.

CITY TEAMS HELP.

Are Delivering Coal and Wood Orders Today.

Ten city teams are at work today delivering coal and wood for Mayor Bryant's relief committee. When the Mayor arrived from Boston on Tuesday and found that orders for wood and coal were accumulating in the City Messenger's office, and that the coal dealers could not give any time when orders could be filled, he took things into his own hands. The result is that orders for bags of coal that have been waiting several days are being delivered today.

No order is taken by the relief committee for more than five bags of coal at one time, as it is believed this will tide everybody over the present cold spell.

Aside from the number of orders for coal that will be delivered today, the city teams will deliver twenty cords of wood.

Commissioner Knowlton says that every team in the street and water department is being used for this purpose.

LABOR NIGHT.

At Monthly Meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian Club.

Address by Frank K. Foster.

Questions Asked by Members and Answered by Guest.

Between 40 and 50 members of the Wollaston Unitarian club braved the zero weather of Tuesday and partook of a roast lamb supper, and listened with pleasure to a clear statement of the cause of Trade Unions by Mr. Frank K. Foster.

Walter M. Hatch, president presided, and introduced the speaker with a story as usual.

Mr. Foster said he had been identified with the labor movement for 30 years, and for 28 years had been a member of the international typographical union, and for about half this time had been an employe of labor. He had endeavored to study the question from both sides.

He said there were over five million of English speaking people, who depend on the labor they have for sale, connected with Trade Unions. About two million more were federated with labor. German trade unions were socialistic, but in America we have the ballot and Socialism was unnecessary.

The development of Trade Unions had been along with civilization. Whether right or wrong they ought to command the attention of those interested in the great problems of the day.

Mr. Foster asserted emphatically that Trade Unions were not the creation of irresponsible agitators. But of evolutionary growth, seeking the best ways and means to benefit labor.

Some say it is unnecessary for labor to combine, but under the "let alone system" children of five and six years of age have been employed in factories in twelve hour shifts; women have been employed in mines and brutally treated. Under Trade Unions there had been progress. The New England idea of individual effort had been found not to stand the test. Trade Unions were composed of skilled mechanics; not idlers and law breakers. All have recently seen the power of union in pools, trusts and mergers.

The Trade Unions want equality of bargaining power for the labor they have for sale. Large concerns know but few of the men in their employ individually. A man who works has something to sell. Labor asks the same courtesy as a seller of any commodity. It is dangerous even in this age for some laborers to ask employers to talk over the wage question, or for laborers to go on a labor committee.

Unions are making a fight for recognition. Collective bargaining had been productive of good to employer and labor. Thinking wage earners desire to be fair; to meet the other side half way. Unions have made mistakes, but no more than the other side.

Trade Unions have suffered from prejudice, and things charged to them for which they were not responsible. The many good things of the unions were but little known.

He stated fearlessly that Trade Unions were a fighting organization—for that which would not be given unless the union existed.

The United States maintains a large army and navy to maintain peace. The Trade Unions are for peace.

Mr. Foster paid his compliments to President Eliot, and said Trade Unions were not organized for strikes. That strikers had decreased since organization.

Trade Unions were not socialistic and not composed of anarchists. If people realized the danger of the country from anarchists and magnates they would have more sympathy for honest labor.

Questions were asked by Rev. F. W. Pratt, Senator E. H. Sprague and E. F. DeNormandie, and clearly answered by Mr. Foster.

Work was suspended in all of the stone sheds Tuesday owing to the extreme cold weather.

TESTIMONY AS TO TRUNK

Excluded In the Blondin Trial Upon Contention of the Defense

Boston, Dec. 10.—Both the forenoon and afternoon sessions of the Blondin murder trial yesterday developed unexpected features. The first was when Attorney James F. Owens, who conducted the case of the defense in the absence of John H. Morrison, who is ill, succeeded in checking the introduction of evidence regarding a trunk which had been taken from the North Union station in this city to Lexington by way of the Boston and Maine railroad. Mr. Owens objected to the station agent at Lexington telling the jury his efforts to locate the person to whom the trunk was delivered, and he was sustained by the court. This interruption interfered with the presentation of their case by the prosecution in the order intended and a recess was taken to await the arrival of another witness.

In the afternoon the prosecution sprang a surprise by putting on the stand Louis Schultz, who testified that he was awakened by his dog in the middle of the night of April 30, when he resided on the Russell farm in Chelmsford, and went out and found a team standing near the entrance to the pasture where Mrs. Blondin's body later was found. The driver of the team explained that he was confused in the darkness and had lost his way. He then turned and drove down the wood road. Schultz was unable to positively identify Blondin as the driver.

The expert medical testimony introduced early in the case was supplemented by Dr. Harris, medical examiner of Suffolk county, who gave as his opinion that the woman whose body was found in the pasture came to her death by asphyxia—which he said might have been caused by strangulation or throttling—and that the head was removed from the body more than 24 hours after death.

Duke of Abruzzi to Visit Us

Rome, Dec. 10.—The Duke of Abruzzi has been chosen to represent Italy at the St. Louis exposition.

Prince Luigi Amadeo of Savoy-Aosta, Duke of Abruzzi, is a nephew of the late King of Italy. He is known as an Arctic explorer and penetrated in 1900 to a point farther north than the most northerly point reached by Dr. Nansen.

Davitt and Blake at White House

Washington, Dec. 10.—Michael Davitt and Edward Blake, members of the British parliament, who are making a tour of this country, paid their respects to the president yesterday. They expressed themselves as delighted with their call.

Woman Frozen to Death

Providence, Dec. 10.—Julia Thornton, 70 years old, was found frozen to death in her room in a tenement house last night. The room showed every sign of destitution, a mattress on the floor and a rocking chair being the only article of furniture. The aged woman was fully dressed, having on even her bonnet and shawl, indicating an effort to keep warm.

Crew Fared Badly

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 10.—Schooner George B. Gordon was towed into this port yesterday in a badly crippled condition by a tug. Nearly every member of the crew was badly frostbitten and had to be treated at a hospital, and the schooner's sails were badly torn and iced up.

Suspected of Killing Children

Philadelphia, Dec. 10—John Williams and his wife, charged with having poisoned two of their children in order to collect the insurance on their lives, were yesterday committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury. The attending physicians reported that the children died from symptoms of arsenical poisoning.

Mayor Suspended From Office

Havana, Dec. 10.—Emilio Nunez, civil governor of Havana, has suspended the mayor of Havana, Senor O'Farrill, pending investigation by the court of a charge of usurpation of power. This change is an outgrowth of the recent strike in which the mayor figured prominently.

Wright's Recommendation

Washington, Dec. 9.—Vice Governor Wright of the Philippines, before the house committee on ways and means yesterday, advocated a reduction of tariff rates on Philippine goods coming into the United States to 25 percent of the Dingley schedule, instead of 75 percent, as under the present law. He said this would result in a better market for Philippine goods and produce more revenue for the islands.

Deputy Sheriff a Murderer

Chicago, Dec. 9.—Charles Slater, a bailiff in the criminal court, was shot and fatally wounded last night by Samuel O'Neil, a deputy sheriff. The men were drinking in a saloon and became involved in a political argument. O'Neil was ejected from the saloon but returned and shot Slater as soon as he entered the place. O'Neil escaped.

O'CONNELL'S COOLNESS.

A Story of the Irish Liberator and a Falling Floor.

Daniel O'Connell was once addressing an enormous meeting in Kingstown, and the crowd was so large that fear was felt for the safety of the building. As he was about to speak a gentleman ascended the platform and said, trembling with fear: "Liberator, the floor is giving way! The beams are cracking, and we shall all fall through in a few minutes." It is not given to many men to live through such moments as O'Connell lived through as he rose to address the meeting nor to preserve such magnificent courage in the face of great peril. Warning the man to keep quiet, the liberator said, "I find this room too small to contain the number who desire to come in, so we must therefore leave it and hold the meeting outside." A few rose to leave, but the hall was still packed, and then O'Connell said: "Then I will tell you the truth. You are Irishmen and therefore brave men. The floor is giving way, and we must leave this room at once. If there is a panic and a rush to the door, we shall all be precipitated into the room below, but if you obey my orders we shall be safe. Let the dozen men nearest the door go quietly out, then the next dozen, and so on until all have gone. I shall be the last to leave." The Irishmen followed the advice, the hall was quickly cleared, and as O'Connell walked across the floor the broken beams gave way.—Oxford Chronicle.

Some British Lawmaking.

It may surprise some folks to learn that plenty of British laws have been drawn up so carelessly and written in such muddled language that they are quite useless for their intended purpose.

One of the acts passed in George III.'s reign, for instance, states that the proceeds of penalties were to be given half to the informer and half to the poor of the parish. The absurdity lies in the fact that the only penalty which could be inflicted was one of transportation for fourteen years.

In 1865 a well known Q. C. created a lot of amusement by proposing an amendment worded as follows: "Every dog found trespassing on inclosed land unaccompanied by the registered owner of such dog or other person, who shall on being asked for his true name and address may be then and there destroyed by such occupier or by his orders." This gem of meaninglessness was, however, not passed.—London Tit-Bits.

Ebony, the Wood of Kings.

While many of the hardwoods in use at the present day are of comparatively recent introduction, ebony was known and highly esteemed by a number of ancient races and used by them for kingly and other purposes. While the name ebony is given to the wood of several varieties of trees, all kinds are of great density and dark color, the heaviest varieties being, as a rule, also the darkest. There are three varieties of ebony well known in the trade. The ebony from the Gaboon coast of Africa is the darkest. The Madagascar ebony is the densest. The Macassar ebony furnishes the largest pieces. London is still the chief mart for this wood, and from there it is shipped to the various countries in which it is used for manufacturing purposes.—Popular Mechanics.

The Deteriorating Turkish Lady.

Eating sweetmeats, smoking cigarettes, scolding the slaves and talking scandal are the chief diversions of the Turkish lady, with now and then a visit to a low class theater, and her physique, and with it that of the race, is rapidly deteriorating for want of fresh air and exercise. The much disputed question as to whether woman is the possessor of an immortal soul has left its mark on the female population. They have ceased to base any great hopes on such an uncertainty and live, feed and behave so like the "beasts that perish" that to the flippant modern Turk it seems that, if endowed with souls at all, they must be so small as to be scarcely worth the trouble of saving.—Chambers' Magazine.

The Card Table In Crimson Gulch.

"Do you think it is polite," said the foolish stranger in Crimson Gulch, "for a man to sit in his shirt sleeves and play cards all day?"

"Yes, sir," answered Three Finger Sam, "and maybe it'll be for your own good to remind you that the fewer sleeves a man has on when he plays cards around here the less liable he is to fall under suspicion."—Washington Star.

Marseilles Strike Goes On

Marseilles, Dec. 10.—At a meeting yesterday, attended by 5000 strikers, it was resolved to enter upon no further negotiations with either the companies or the government, but to continue the strike.

A corporal and soldier from Fort Strong were in town this morning looking for a deserter from the 46th regiment.

SAD TALES OF MISERY

Told by People Dependent Upon Mines For Support

PATHETIC AND SURPRISING

One Widow and Her Two Boys Struggled Thirteen Weary Years to Pay Back Rent and Coal Bill—Boy Slate Picker Clubbed and Kicked

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 10.—Tales of evictions from houses owned by G. B. Markle & Co., the narration of the death of a wife as a result of an enforced removal from her home, and the story of a mother whose husband was killed in the Markle mines, of how she and her two boys struggled years to pay the Markles the back rent and coal bill she owed them, were the principal features of yesterday's sessions of the coal strike commission. The testimony was at times pathetic and surprising to the commissioners.

The miners yesterday afternoon concluded the calling of witnesses against the Markle company. In the absence of the attorneys for the Markle company, who are reported to be unavoidably absent, only a perfunctory cross-examination has been carried on by J. H. Torrey, who is representing another company.

Surprise is expressed that the company has not yet made greater efforts to refute some of the seemingly damaging testimony. Attorneys for the large coal companies have nothing to say regarding this testimony. One of those representing the miners said: "The independent operators, in their meeting with the big companies in New York two weeks ago, when they succeeded in blocking the proposed settlement, said the whole matter should go before the commission so that the country would know who is right, and thus vindicate the coal companies. We are willing to go ahead if they are satisfied with the 'vindication' they are getting."

After closing the Markle case, representatives of the miners called witnesses formerly employed in the mines of several companies to show that a blacklist exists and that some of the companies had broken the agreement which ended the strike and resulted in the appointment of the arbitration committee.

National board Member Gallagher resumed the stand in the afternoon and explained the powder question as best he could, concluding this part of his testimony by saying the miners employed by the Markle company do not get the 10 percent increase because of the peculiar way the company has of figuring the increase in wages agreed upon at the end of the 1900 strike.

An 18-year-old slate picker employed by the Markle company said that before the strike he received 85 cents, now he received only 75 cents a day. The company never notified him of the reduction. He said the breaker boss, who stands over the pickers, often clubbed him, kicked him and swore at him.

Mrs. Kate Burns told how she and her two boys worked 13 years to pay off an accumulated house rent and coal bill due to the Markle company. The husband was killed under ground, leaving her with four children, the oldest of which was a boy of 8 years.

The company never offered her a penny, but the employes gave her about $180 to defray funeral expenses. After her husband had been killed, she moved from her four-room house into one containing only two, one above the other, and for the next six years struggled along and took in washing, and once in a while was given work cleaning the offices of the Markle company. She kept her children at school until the eldest was 14 years old, and then sent him to the mines. At the end of the first month the lad brought home his wage statement, showing that the mother owed $396 back rent. All the boy's wages had been taken off the bill. In course of time her next boy was sent to the colliery, and all his earnings were deducted for rent. When the witness added that the money earned for cleaning the Markle office was also kept for rent the commissioners looked at each other in surprise. She said it took the three of them 13 years to make up the debt.

This concluded the mine workers' case against Markle & Co., except that Mr. Darrow had placed upon the records John Markle's statement to President Roosevelt at the time of the conference in the temporary White House.

Attorneys for the miners consumed the remainder of the session by presenting witnesses who had been employed by either the Delaware and Hudson company, the Temple Coal and Iron company or the Erie company, who testified that after the strike they were unable to get back their old employment. On cross-examination it was shown they had not been re-employed because they had refused to do other work.

Anti-Saloonists Out of Debt

Washington, Dec. 10.—The seventh annual meeting of the American Anti-Saloon league opened here yesterday. The day's sessions were devoted to reports of officers from the various states. There were 124 societies throughout the country represented by 400 delegates. The treasurer reported that the debt of the organization had been wiped out.

WHITE SQUADRON WINS

Sumner Enters Mayaguez Harbor and Mines It Without Resistance

Mayaguez, P. R., Dec. 10.—A notable victory was achieved yesterday by Admiral Sumner, in command of the white squadron, with the Iowa, Illinois, Albany and the Chicago. He captured Mayaguez without resistance and immediately mined the harbor. The Nashville and the Eagle subsequently entered the channel and later the Atlanta and the San Francisco, thus completing Admiral Sumner's squadron.

Admiral Sumner's victory was due to the careful execution of his plans. At Trinidad he directed the white squadron to proceed to a point within a circle with a radius of 720 miles. The white squadron was reported to Admiral Higginson, commanding the blue, or opposing squadron, at 6 o'clock on the afternoon of Dec. 5. Admiral Sumner's objective was Mayaguez, Guayanilla, Ponce, Ensenada or Culebra.

Under the rules the white squadron would win if it entered the port selected and worked for one hour laying mines before the arrival of a blue squadron 70 percent superior, or if it entered its harbor and completed the work of mining before the arrival of a blue squadron double its strength. The white squadron would lose if it was intercepted by a superior force at sea, or within one hour after having anchored in the port selected.

Objection to Literary Test

Washington, Dec. 10.—Ex-Congressman Barrows of Boston was heard by the committee on immigration yesterday. He said many desirable immigrants would be kept out of the country by the educational test in the pending bill. W. W. Dudley, who appeared in behalf of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, said it must be remembered that the country wants brawn and muscle as well as brains, and that in the past it has been found necessary to secure these from the old country. In the northwest the demand for labor, he said, is greater than the supply. He thought that under the terms of the bill it would be impossible to import common labor. Ex-Congressman Payson spoke similarly for the Southern Pacific Railroad company.

In Honor of Justice Harlan

Washington, Dec. 10.—The dinner by the bar of the supreme court of the United States last night to Justice Harlan, in recognition of the completion of 25 years of service on the bench of the supreme court, was a brilliant function. In the absence of Attorney General Knox, Wayne MacVeagh presided. Grace was said by Rev. Richard D. Harlan of Lake Forest, Ills., eldest son of the justice. His two other sons, James K. S. Harlan, chief justice of Porto Rico and John M. Harlan of Chicago, also were present, while Mrs. and Miss Harlan and a host of friends were interested spectators in the gallery. President Roosevelt and Senator Hoar were the only speakers.

One Juror Refused to Sign

Truro, N. S., Dec. 10.—The coroner's jury inquiry into the cause of the railway accident at Belmont on Saturday in which seven people were killed and a score injured concluding its sitting yesterday. It was found that the accident was caused "by pilot of engine 239 becoming loosened and coming in contact with the railway ties; and they find that the round house in Truro at present is not in condition to have engines properly attended to." Juror Hallett would not sign the verdict until the words "and no blame is attached to anybody" were added. The 11 other jurors did not agree to this and there the matter stands.

Pirates Made Good Haul

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 10.—Steamer Shawmut, from Manila, brings news of piracy in the Philippines, the desperadoes being led by an American. The brig Marcia, while becalmed off Cavite bay, was attacked by six men who came alongside in a sloop and overpowered the Chinese crew, binding all hands with ropes. Five Chinese passengers were compelled to give over their money, about $17,000. No clew was found to the robbers.

CURING CONSUMPTION.

When Scott's Emulsion makes a consumptive gain flesh it is curing his consumption.

The weight is the measure of the consumptive's condition. Every pound of weight gained is a matter for congratulation.

Exactly what goes on inside to make the consumptive gain weight when taking Scott's Emulsion is still a mystery.

Scott's Emulsion does something to the lungs, too, that reduces the cough and the inflammation.

More weight and less cough always mean that consumption is losing its influence over the system.

For all stages of the disease Scott's Emulsion is a reliable help.

CASTRO'S RETALIATION

Arrests British and German Subjects In Caracas

NOW UP TO UNITED STATES

As Our Minister to Venezuela Was Instructed to Take Charge of Their Interests—Already Complicated Situation Will Be Made More So

Caracas, Dec. 10.—All German and British subjects in Caracas were arrested yesterday.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The arrests of the German and British subjects in Caracas yesterday are believed here to be in the nature of a retaliation on the part of President Castro for the ultimatum which has been sent to Venezuela for a settlement of the long-standing claims of Germany and England against her.

Incidentally, such action by Venezuela will, it is believed, involve this government, as the German and British representatives in Venezuela before leaving Caracas requested United States Minister Bowen to take charge of the interests of their countries in Venezuela.

It was said at the state department yesterday that this request would be granted and the probability is that Mr. Bowen already has taken steps toward that end.

Considerable surprise is expressed here over the arrests, as the result will be to add to all the serious complications already existing.

Owing to the late hour at which the Caracas bulletin was received it was impossible to ascertain whether any information had been received by the state department from Mr. Bowen regarding the arrests. Senor Pulido, the Venezuelan charge d'affaires, was also inaccessible.

There are comparatively few white British subjects in Caracas, probably less than 50. The Caracas-La Guaira railroad is a British concern and its general managers and other high officials are Englishmen. There are some English engineers on the line. A census of 1894 gives 6154 British subjects in Venezuela. This number includes a great many negro islanders, as well as the British population in the territory awarded to Great Britain.

The Germans in Caracas are much more numerous. They are found at the head of important commercial houses and banking institutions. The railroad from Caracas to Valencia is a German concern. It is probably officered by Germans, and Germans are employed by the railroad company in minor capacities. There are also a number of German merchants and German clerks at La Guaira, and German subjects are found in almost every important town of the republic. The census of 1894 places the number of Germans in Venezuela at 962.

Venezuelan Warships Seized

London, Dec. 10.—A dispatch from Caracas, dated Dec. 9, says: "The combined British and German fleet today seized the Venezuelan fleet, composed of four warships, in the harbor of La Guaira. It is reported also that an ultimatum will be delivered tomorrow (Wednesday) asking for an answer and a compliance with the demand of the British and German ministers."

Present From Portugal's King

Washington, Dec. 10.—United States Minister Francis Loomis, who has arrived in Washington on his way east to his post at Lisbon, brought with him a present from the King of Portugal to the congressional library, consisting of "Bulletins of Observations Made on the Royal Yachts." This is a magnificently illustrated work embodying the results of studies made by the king personally in a long term of years into the currents and tides of the ocean and the inhabitants thereof. The book is printed privately and may not be had except as a personal gift.

Wants $1,000,000 to Fight Disease

Washington, Dec. 10.—Secretary Wilson made the appeal in a letter sent to congress yesterday through the secretary of the treasury, asking for an emergency appropriation of $1,000,000 or so much thereof as may be necessary, to meet the requirements in fighting the foot and mouth disease in New England.

Vick's Case Before Cabinet

Washington, Dec. 10.—The question of the reappointment of Samuel H. Vick, colored, as postmaster at Wilson, N. C., which has developed into an issue in North Carolina, which equally involves people of all shades of political opinion, was discussed by the cabinet yesterday. No decision was reached.

Boy Murderer Won't Hang

St. John, Dec. 10.—Frank Higgins, the boy sentenced to die on Dec. 18 for the murder of William Doherty here in August last, will not be hanged. The Canadian cabinet yesterday passed an order commuting the death sentence to that of imprisonment for life.

Echo of Street Car Strike

New Orleans, Dec. 10.—The grand jury yesterday returned indictments against President Commons of the Street Carmen's union and members of his organization for interference with the operation of mail cars during the recent street car strike in this city.

Mine Foreman Attempted to Bribe Miners' Presidents

POSITIONS AS FOREMEN

In Addition to $2500 Each and From $100 to $200 Apiece For Men to Vote to Resume Work—Operators' Statistics of Miners' Earnings

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 11.—The most interesting, if not important, testimony brought out at yesterday's sessions of the coal strike commission was to the effect that an alleged attempt was made by a former mine foreman to bribe two presidents of local unions of the miners to have 10 men in each local use their influence to have a resolution passed sending the men to work, thus making a serious break in the solid ranks of the strikers. Each of the presidents were to receive $2500 and a good position as mine foreman and each of the 10 men were to get from $100 to $200 each. The name of no company was mentioned in connection with the bribery scheme and none of the lawyers cross-examined the witness.

The large coal companies have taken notice of the testimony which has been presented against the Coxe and Markle companies. During the afternoon session, David Wilcox, vice president of the Delaware and Hudson, protested vigorously against the commission holding his company responsible for conditions that may exist at the Coxe or Markle mines. He was quickly stopped by Chairman Gray, who said that the commission did not intend to hold any company responsible for whatever special conditions may exist in other parts of the coal fields. While none of the attorneys for the other coal-carrying roads said anything to the commission, they stated privately that Mr. Wilcox's attitude in the matter had their endorsement.

A large amount of technical testimony was heard on various phases of the questions at issue. Two check weighmen produced figures which tended to show that at two Delaware and Hudson collieries the miners produced 116,839 tons of coal more than they were paid for. The miners must bring up 3136 pounds of coal and dirt to make a ton of 2240 pounds of pure coal, and the union claims that the company gets more than 2240 pounds of coal out of each "miner's" ton of 3133 and produced official figures to prove it.

The Delaware and Hudson company presented its figures, through Mr. Torrey, to the commission yesterday, they being the first certified statistics to be handed in. They show the average earnings of the miner in 1901 to have been $622.68, and his laborer $449.47. When Mr. Mitchell was on the stand he said that $600 should be the minimum of American living wages.

The figures presented by Mr. Torrey further showed the average hours worked per day of 10 hours by miners to be 5 3-4 and laborers 8½; average miner's earnings per day, $3.25; and laborers, $2.23. The company also intends to present statements showing that the dockage in 1901 averaged 3.04 percent and that 29 percent of its miners own real estate.

There was a colloquy between lawyers and the commission over the presentation of statistics bearing on wages, hours, etc., and Chairman Gray finally said that he hoped the companies would all do their best to present them as early as they can. The commission, he said, can compel nothing and the commissioners were relying on the good sense and good will of both sides to expedite matters. The entire question, he said, is largely one of wages, and the commission desired to study figures while other testimony is being presented.

The answer of General Superintendent Luther of the Reading company to the question whether the company and the miners had complied with the agreement which ended the 1900 strike, to make some effort to establish harmonious relations, was presented, to the effect that all grievances reported to the company by its men have been amicably adjusted.

The miners desired to place on the stand witnesses employed at the mines of C. Pardee & Co. of the Hazleton region, but Francis I. Gowen, for the Lehigh company, argued that since counsel for the Pardee company was not present these witnesses should not be permitted to testify. The commission decided that ample notice had been given and the witnesses were permitted to testify. One of them said the air in the mine was good, that he was not afraid to complain to the mine inspector in the presence of the boss, and that he was not docked, all of which was discomforting to the miners' attorneys and created a laugh at their expense. The commission then adjourned.

ENCOURAGING FEATURES

Rise In Temperature and Arrival of Vanguard of Coal Fleet

Boston, Dec. 11.—As a result of the moderation in wind and temperature, Boston was able to receive a supply of about 17,000 tons of coal yesterday, most of it from the fleet that has been stormbound back of the cape for several days. Some of it was for transhipment to other points, but the greater part was for local dealers. This, with the 4500 tons received at this port Tuesday, makes a total of about 31,500 tons arriving here since the cold snap set in.

The distinctly unfavorable point was the fact that the prices of coal had been advanced over night to $9 a ton for soft and $12 a ton for hard coal. The scenes at coal offices and coal pockets yesterday was simply a repetition of those of Tuesday, where crowds of children and adults tried to get coal.

At the coal agencies no orders were taken for delivery and every one was told that all that could be done for them would be to give an order on the wharves, where the coal would be supplied by private teams.

An Unfortunate Young Fellow

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 11.—A young man who registered at the Norwood Hotel as B. F. Guy, Washington, D. C., was quietly taken in charge by a detective from Washington and taken to his home, suffering with a mental disorder. Guy is about 23 years old. He has been connected with the Washington press, and was one of the newspaper men who accompanied President Roosevelt when he made his tour of this section last fall, and was also detailed to cover the president's visit to Oyster Bay.

Lawrence Alarmed Over Smallpox

Lawrence, Mass., Dec. 11.—The health authorities of this city have become alarmed over a serious outbreak of smallpox. Two cases of several weeks' standing were discovered in the congested Syrian colony yesterday. The gravity of the situation is enhanced because of the failure of the city government to have the contagious hospital completed. The health board has voted to evacuate the place and quarter the four patients at an old dwelling house.

Did Not Forsake Vessel

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 11.—Schooner Lady Antrim ran aground at Wood island at 7 o'clock Sunday evening. The sea broke over her all night long and it was not until Monday noon that a life saving crew came to her assistance. They pounded away the ice in which the vessel was encased and succeeded in freeing the anchor. Yesterday a tug went out to the schooner and towed her into the harbor. The crew were frostbitten, but all remained aboard the vessel.

Maine Desperadoes Held

Wiscasset, Me., Dec. 11.—James Monroe and John Freeman, charged with stealing a horse and breaking into a store, were arraigned here yesterday and held for the grand jury. The two were captured in a barn in Damariscotta, where they were concealed in the hay, and had revolvers and nitroglycerine upon their persons when arrested.

Fire Engine House Burned

Spencer, Mass., Dec. 11.—The engine house, located behind the town hall, was gutted by fire last night. The two engines which were quartered in the building were damaged. The fire evidently caught near the boiler in the basement. A tramp who was in the lockup in the town hall was nearly suffocated. The fire damage was about $3000.

Closed For Lack of Coal

South Manchester, Conn., Dec. 11.—The American Writing Paper company was compelled to shut down its mills at Oakland because of lack of coal. About 125 persons are thrown out of employment.

Boston Men Engage In Deadly Fight on the Street

MADDENED BY JEALOUSY

One Inflicts Injuries Upon Man He Accused of Destroying His Home Which Result In His Death—Slayer Makes No Resistance to Capture

Boston, Dec. 11.—Maddened by jealousy, Louis Lyman, a painter of 6 Cable street, Jamaica Plain, last night killed Charles Bruchner, a German butcher, in a quarrel in the street near the former's residence. Lyman then ran to his home, locking himself in, but upon the arrival of the police surrendered himself without showing any sign of resistance, and is now locked up on a charge of murder.

Lyman and his wife formerly lived at 16 Cable street, but two weeks ago they separated, owing to Lyman's objections to Bruchner's alleged intimacy with Mrs. Lyman. Since that time the woman has lived at her former home, and her husband, who went to No. 6 to live, has kept a close watch upon her house. Yesterday afternoon, it is said, Lyman saw Brechner leave her house, and shortly after the two men met in a nearby saloon and hot words passed between them, the quarrel becoming so bitter that they were ordered from the place.

Bruchner at that time declared that he had only gone into the house to obtain water for a sick horse. Lyman charged him with breaking up his home and threatened his life if he did not keep away from his wife's house.

'Last evening, Lyman, who had kept up his vigil, again saw Bruchner come out of the house, and a few moments later the men came together on the sidewalk in a fight to the death. Lyman had a policeman's club with which he attacked Bruchner and the latter, in self-defense, had evidently drawn a knife or some sharp instrument from his pocket. During the fight their weapons were exchanged and Bruchner's death wound was caused by his own weapon, he receiving a stab wound in the right lung and a deep cut on the head.

Bruchner staggered into a house near by, where he sank exhausted upon a chair, but as it was at first thought he was under the influence of liquor his critical condition was not realized for a time. Then it was seen that he was bleeding from his injuries and a doctor was hurriedly summoned, but before the latter arrived Bruchner was dead.

A detail of police was sent to Lyman's house, where the latter was found to have locked the door behind him. A demand that it be opened was instantly complied with and Lyman was found stripped of his outer clothing, engaged in washing away the evidence of his crime. He admitted that he had quarreled with Bruchner and accompanied the officers to the station, without any trouble. He did not know at that time that he had killed Bruchner.

Lyman is 45 years of age and has a wife and six children, five of whom live with their mother. Bruchner, who was 32 years old, and single, lived at 86 West Canton street, city proper, but had a stable in Jamaica Plain, where he had a butcher's route among the German residents.

In his fight with Bruchner, Lyman was severely battered, the police surgeon sewing up half a dozen scalp wounds.

SERIOUS GAS EXPLOSION

Wrecks a Boston Building and Injures a Number of Persons

Boston, Dec. 11.—An explosion of illuminating gas in the basement of 15 Merchants' row, occupied by Gulliver & Allan as a fruit store, yesterday afternoon, seriously injured a number of people, wrecked the building and blew a plate glass window out of Sanborn's cafe next door. The building is in the heart of the market district.

Senator Holden and Surveyor of Port McCarthy were on the sidewalk in front of Gulliver's when the explosion took place, and were blown several feet into the street. Some of the others injured were in the fruit store and some in the Merchants' Express company office, directly over it. Persons in Sanborn's cafe were shaken in their seats and every building along Merchants' row within 100 feet of the wrecked building felt the force of the explosion. The noise was heard several blocks away.

The explosion is attributed to the escape of gas from a gas stove used by Gulliver & Allan in a store-room under the sidewalk, in which bananas were kept. The stove was in constant use throughout the day and often during the night for the purpose of hastening the ripening process.

There was no warning. There was a sudden burst of flame and a second later the front of the fruit store was blown out and there were deep holes in the sidewalk.

JACK-KNIFE ADMITTED

As Evidence For the Government In the Blondin Murder Case

Boston, Dec. 11.—Expert medical testimony occupied nearly the entire day at the Blondin trial yesterday, and as one result the jack-knife which has figured more or less prominently in the case during the past week has been finally included in the government's evidence.

Medical Examiner Harris, who was on the stand when court adjourned Tuesday, completed his testimony yesterday, and was followed by Medical Examiner Frank W. Draper. Dr. Draper's testimony was practically the same as that given by Dr. Harris and was to the effect that the person whose body was found in Chelmsford came to her death by strangulation; and that the head was severed from the body with the aid of a strong-bladed, sharp knife, or some similar instrument.

The jack-knife bobbed up again during the testimony of Professor Wood of Harvard college, who had examined articles in one way or another connected with the case for traces of human blood. In one pocket of an overcoat, which the government claims belongs to Bloadin, Professor Wood found the knife.

Working Hours Too Long

Chicago, Dec. 11.—A coroner's jury yesterday decided that the boiler explosion at Swift & Co.'s plant Nov. 29, which resulted in the death of 15 persons, was caused by some employe unknown to them opening the main valve of one of the boilers too suddenly. The jury recommended that engineers, firemen and water tenders be given shorter hours. The testimony showed these employes were compelled to work 12 hours a day.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

Talking of General Strike

Marseilles, Dec. 11.—The strike situation at this port is rapidly growing worse. The syndicate of shipowners has declined the arbitration proposed by the government, which was also rejected by the strikers. A number of local trade organizations are taking steps to bring about a general strike.

Good Afternoon.

President Roosevelt leaves no room for doubt as to his loyalty to the protection policy.

It would be a pleasure sometime to have a Quincy gentleman on the Governor's staff.

The football season is over but coasting is beginning to aid the surgeons to make a comfortable living.

A Washington scientist has found the germ of laziness. When they catch the germ of poverty we will be ready for the millennium.

With three exceptions the majority for license was never larger in Boston than at the election this week, but it is completely surrounded by a No-license belt now that Chelsea has returned to the "No" column.

Cambridge leads the cities in the size of its No-License majority, with Somerville second and Quincy third. Quincy always gives a "No" majority, and during the past seven years the following ten cities, acknowledged to be the pride of Massachusetts, have been against license: Beverly, Cambridge, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Newton, Quincy, Somerville and Waltham. Fourteen cities vote "Yes" continuously and nine waver.

Drift of Opinion.

☞The blizzard found the people of the northeastern States short of fuel and desperately embattled against the elements. Moderate as it was compared with what it might have been, it yet impeded mining in the coal regions, delayed transportation of coal to market and increased greatly the consumption of coal. If it had been more severe the consequences would have been most serious. As it is the situation is not agreeable to contemplate. New York city has less than a week's supply of hard coal on hand, this city has practically no supply at all, and the capital of the nation is having mass meeting to consider the energency. This is typical of the state of things throughout the northeastern States. Only the extraordinary moderation of the weather during the past two months has saved the people from an appalling calamity: and even now, in the best view of the outlook, the purchasing ability of the people in other directions must be materially affected by the unusual prices they are to be compelled to pay for fuel evidently throughout the winter.

Consider, in this light, the attitude of the coal operators which was maintained in relation to the strike until the President of the United States forced them to abandon it. But for that intervention, they might have been standing out to this day. They had no notion before then of conceding a single point in order to bring about a resumption of work. They pretended to believe that they could meet the winter's demand for coal if the mines were not started up until December. They spread the impression a month ago, or just before the elections, that supply was immediately to be sufficient and prices nearly normal. But this has all proved to be false, and they doubtless knew better nevertheless they have been truly determined to carry on the contest with the miners for another month or two at least, no matter what the consequences to the millions of people who had come to depend upon the mines for fuel.

These men have proved themselves unfit to manage the properties they do; and if the owners of the properties are satisfied with them, then private ownership in this case has become a positive menace to the public welfare. An adjustment of present differences between miners and operators is not sufficient to meet the case in hand. The mines must be brought under a strong measure of public regulation and control, either State or national, if the people are to be assured hereafter against any repetition of present experiences. There will be failure to profit from the severe lesson now being learned if this is not done.—Springfield Republican.

☞One hundred thousand school children in Chicago are said to be unable to tell the difference between a rose and a violet, and not to know even the names of dandelions and buttercups. Naturally; how are they to know, never having seen these flowers? Perhaps, too, while the lack of this knowledge is to be regretted, the boys and girls who are thus ignorant, will grow up to be useful men and women, and good citizens of the republic. It is desirable, of course, in some ways, that such knowledge should be possessed by the children; but if it is not, their case is not so very hopeless.—New Bedford Standard.

☞With the historic vagaries of socialism we need not at once concern ourselves, but we cannot ignore the fact that public ownership as now so lightly advocated merely proposes to reward the perfidy of our discredited municipal politicians by conferring upon them increased opportunities for pillage and blundering.—Chicago Chronicle.

No Coal, No Man.

It is rather rough not to have any coal in the cellar but it is much more so to send a man after coal and have him skip out with the money. That was what James Moorhead experienced on Tuesday. Hearing that if he sent his own team he could get coal, he gave his hired man $15 and dispatched him after a load of coal. The fellow did not return as promptly as he thought he should, and he proceeded to investigate. He found his horse and wagon standing in Sheppard's yard. Up to this morning he had heard nothing from the man or seen his fifteen dollars.

For Burns Monument.

The first concert and dance of the Burns memorial association of Boston, was held in Odd Fellows hall, Wednesday night, the attendance proving that the people of this vicinity hold a warm spot in their hearts for the bard of Scotia. The object of the function was to help raise funds for a monument to the poet Burns in Boston, for which purpose nearly $2500 has already been subscribed.

Annual Dinner.

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Republican Editorial Association was held yesterday afternoon at Hotel Bellevue, Boston, when the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year:

President,—A. E. Winship.
Vice President,—George W. Prescott.
Recording Secretary,—C. J. McPherson.
Corresponding Secretary, — A. M. Bridgeman.
Treasurer,—J. O. Hayden.
Executive Committee,—A. Starbuck, J. S. Smith, C. C. Doten, C. S. Parker, E. H. Pierce, F. S. Almy.

After an excellent banquet the editors, some forty or more, had the pleasure of listening to able addresses by Dr. Winship, Curtis Guild, Jr., the Lieut.-Governor-elect, Mr. Curtis, President-elect of the Senate, and Mr. Myers, Speaker of the House of Representatives. Two hours were delightfully spent.

Another Cruiser.

The Fore River Ship and Engine Co. of this city is estimating on proposals for another United States cruiser, but will have many rivals. The following shipbuilding plants have, by asking for copies of the plans and specifications, indicated a purpose to bid for a contract for the construction of the new $6,000,000 cruisers, the awards of which will be made next month:

Newport News (Va.) shipyard; Cramps' shipyard, Philadelphia; Bath (Me.) Iron Works, Maryland Steel Co., Sparrow's Point, Md.; Moran Bros. Co., Seattle, Wash.; New York Shipbuilding Co., Camden, N. J.; Union Iron Works, San Francisco; United States Shipbuilding Co., New York; Townsey-Downing Co., New York.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

SOFT COAL NOW.

Quincy People Are Trying to Burn It in Homes.

No More Hard Coal to be Had.

Supply of City Wood is Also Exhausted.

Thanks to Mayor Bryant, the city teams were enabled Wednesday to deliver all orders of the relief committee for coal and wood. No more hard coal can be had however for the present, for the committee have been informed that the supply is exhausted.

The demand for City wood has also become so great that it has been decided to limit the amount of one order to half a cord. A barge of coal left Phi adelphia last Monday for Patch & Son, and Sheppard & Sons have a large amount of washed coal on the way, and it is expected that by the end of the week 1500 tons of hard coal will arrive in Quincy.

Along with this hard coal are barges of soft coal. Owing to the scarcity of hard coal there has been quite a demand for soft coal, and as people are becoming accustomed to burning this kind of coal, it will serve to allay the suffering.

This noon it was announced that the entire supply of wood purchased by Mayor Bryant had been exhausted, and no more can be had. The Overseer of the Poor, however, has fifty cords of wood to be sold to citizens of Quincy at cost, plus the price of handling and delivering, which will bring the price up to about $12 per cord.

A SWEDE WEDDING.

Miss Augusta Peterson Becomes Mrs. Oscar Holmberg.

The Swedish Lutheran church on Granite street looked very pretty on Wednesday evening with its bright lights and decorations of potted plants, ferns and palms.

The occasion was the marriage of Mr. Oscar Holmberg and Miss Augusta Peterson, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Peterson. The ceremony which was performed by Rev. John A. Bernhard took place at 7.30 in the presence of a large gathering of the friends of the bride and groom.

The bridesmaids were Miss Esther Walline, Miss Mary Walline and Miss Hannah Johnson, and the groomsmen were Mr. John A. Holmberg, Mr. Otta Johnson and Mr. Charles R, Walline.

The ushers: Mr. John F. Johnson and Mr. Neils Linedquist.

Mrs. Andrew Nelson presided at the orgon and played the wedding march, and also played during the evening.

After the ceremony, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Bernhard, made a congratulatory address. A wedding supper was served at the church. Mr. and Mrs. Holmberg received many presents.

School Attendance.

The Lincoln school led in percentage of daily attendance for the four weeks ending Nov. 26, with the Massachusetts Fields and the High not far behind. The Gridley Bryant had the fewest tardinesses, and the John Hancock the least dismissals. The average daily attendance was 4,843 as follows:

Are You Going to Venice?

Prof. Cross, who lectures in the Teachers' Association course this evening, is being entertained by Mr. T. B. Pollard, an old pupil of his. In his lecture on "Venice," which has been delivered nearly one hundred times, Prof. Cross depicts the city as he saw it through many sunny days and moonlit nights. He takes his audience directly into his gondola, and by means of beautiful views and clear descriptions, makes them feel that they are floating on the canals, visiting the churches, palaces and galleries of that phantom city. Prof. Cross is an experienced traveller, thoroughly versed in the history and legends of the places visited, and a skilled photographer. Those who are planning to hear him this evening are sure to be pleased.

Guard,—Mrs. Mary E. Powers.
Delegate to Department Convention,—Mrs. Elizabeth Farrell.
Alternate,—Mrs. Eliza A. Penniman.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

Many Young Jackies Sick

Newport, R. I., Dec. 11.—At the naval hospital connected with the training station, 90 naval apprentices are under treatment for pneumonia, measles and the mumps, and convalescents are being sent to the Boston naval hospital, in order to make room for the sick boys. The concrete flooring of the apprentices' barracks, which is believed to have been responsible for the pneumonia, has been covered with pine.

Opposition to License Measure

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 11.—Opposition to the local option high license act, upon which a referendum will be held in February, has taken tangible form in the "Vermont Temperance Federation," formed here yesterday by 30 ministers and laymen of all denominations. Its object is to so canvass the state in the interest of prohibition as to bring about the rejection of the license measure.

Burglars Severely Dealt With

Elyria, O., Dec. 11.—Thomas Gallagher, one of the burglars shot during the attempt to rob the home of the Meach brothers near Rochester, Oct. 13, yesterday pleaded guilty to the charge against him. He was at once sentenced to 50 years in the penitentiary. Owen McCabe, another member of the gang, recently convicted, was sentenced at the same time to life imprisonment.

Has Betts the Money?

The petition of Charles A. Reed, receiver of the Cobb-Everett Investment Company, to have Frederick E. Betts adjudged in contempt of court for not turning over to him $36,400 which he alleged to have received from Ella E. Bailey, the treasurer, during the summer of 1901, was before Judge Colt in the United States Circuit Court, on Wednesday, says the Post.

After a discussion of the case the court said that it could not deal with the defendant on a mere suspicion, that the charge that he has the money and refuses to turn it over must be proved by evidence, which as yet did not appear. Judge Colt continued the case.

JOYS OF CHRISTMAS

Festival Should Be One of Gladness, Said the Late Dr. T. De Witt Talmage

SONGS greeted the birth of our Saviour. Angelic tongues with living fire sang the incarnation as they hovered over the hills of Judæa. The music was resonant with joy. From the hour that the Virgin laid her Babe on pillow of straw in the manger all Christendom has since that time made the anniversary of this natal day a season of gladness, a season of unbounded joy.

Wreathe the laurel, twine the bay,
Christ was born on Christmas day.

There were special reasons for these heavenly songs being sung by the celestial chorus, for there was joy in God's great heart, joy among the firstborn sons of light, joy thrilling all the heavenly empire, joy that is yet to be put in the new song sung by redeemed millions around the throne of "the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world."

It was the music of liberty. When these heavenly hosts sang the "Gloria In Excelsis," the whole world was resting under galling yokes of oppression. Slavery was universal. Taskmasters were everywhere severe to those in servitude. Greece, Rome and Palestine heard daily the groans of those in bondage. The world was in chains. But the song of the angels rang the deathknell of bondage. The Babe was God's emancipation. His distinctive mission was to set at liberty the captives and proclaim deliverance to the bruised and crushed sons of toil. Under the mild and genial influence of our holy Christianity fetters fall off everywhere, until now in this morning of our new century there are few nations to be found that hold serfs. Glorious freedom! Triumphant achievement of the cross! Wherever it is lifted chains are broken and spiritual emancipation is proclaimed.

It was the music of hope. Until Jesus appeared all the ancient religions had offered only a message of despair. No light fell upon the grave or illumined the vast beyond. Darkness reigned in supreme, sullen majesty, and not a single star of hope gilded the future. The grave was an eternal prison. But the songs sung by the heavenly choristers on that eventful night heralded hope to a lost world. Into the soul of sinning humanity came the sweet rays of joy and peace and blessedness, and, looking down into the grave, all fear had vanished, for sin, the sting of death, was gone and canceled by a glorious Christ the Lord. They looked and beheld—

On the cold cheek of death smiles and roses are blending,
And beauty immortal awakes from the tomb.

And this is our Christmas joy that Jesus has lifted into immortal hope the graves of all our beloved friends who sleep in him.

It was the music of victory. When Jesus came, the great mass of humanity was in serfdom, and the dignity of labor was not comprehended. Toil was regarded as a degradation. Laborers were despised and all forms of manual industry held to be a disgrace. But the Son of Mary and Joseph came to teach the world a new philosophy, and by honorable industry he proclaimed the dignity of labor and taught that—

The honest man, tho' ere sae poor,
Is king of men for a' that.

Jesus counts the beads of sweat upon the brow of every son of toil. He notes all injustice done the laboring classes, and only as his spirit prevails among men will the great conflict between labor and capital cease. But that day is coming ere long—the glad Christmas of ages—

When man to man the wide world o'er
Shall brothers be and a' that.

MEXICAN CUSTOMS.

Visiting and Giving Presents the Features of Yuletide.

A series of festivities beginning nine days before Christmas and ending on Christmas eve marks the Yuletide celebration in Mexico. In a circle of friends it is arranged that nine visits shall be paid to nine different houses. Each evening's gayety begins with prayer and the lighting of candles. These are followed by the presentation of a gift from each guest to the host or hostess of the evening. The first evening's gift is of small worth, but the value of the offering increases with every succeeding evening. That there may be nothing unfair in the distribution, the recipient of the first evening's offering one year becomes the last the following year. After the presentation there are dancing and supper. At midnight the candles are extinguished.

No two evenings' entertainments are exactly alike save in the offering of prayers, the lighting of candles and the presenting of gifts. On Christmas eve, a few minutes before midnight, all proceed to church to hear the midnight mass, and this ends the Christmas celebration for the year.—New York Tribune.

The First Christmas Tree.

The Christmas tree was first heard of in England about 1444. A tree was then set up in the middle of a pavement and decked with ivy as well as with other greens. From this use it was finally taken within the home, decorated with candles and eventually with anything which glistened and enhanced its brightness.

Buffeted by Gales

Boston, Dec. 11.—Steamer Antwerpen, from Copenhagen, encountered severe gales between Nov. 27 and Dec. 3. For four days she was hove to about 200 miles off the Newfoundland coast. From Nova Scotia the weather was intensely cold, and the steamer iced up considerably. She was out in Boston bay 24 hours, dodging back and forth, on account of the dense vapor.

Gas Wrecks Drug Store

Edgartown, Mass., Dec. 11.—Dr. T. J. Walker's drug store here was wrecked by an explosion of gas last night. To a leaky generator or defective plumbing is attributed the accident. The gas generator was in the basement and the force of the explosion broke the basement wall, allowing the north side of the building to settle. No one was seriously hurt.

—The Secretary of War in his annual report gives the number of men now connected with the army as 69,589. The cost of the war department for the past year was $108,798,433.62. The secretary strongly recommends the restoration of the army canteen, which he thinks would be in the interest of temperance and good morals among the soldiers. He praises the work of the army in Cuba and the Philippines. He also recommends that the gold standard of currency he adopted in the Philippines.

VENEZUELA WANTS WAR

Invited It by Arrest of British and German Subjects

SINKING OF HER WARSHIPS

Accomplished Without Recourse to Fighting—Consulates at Caracas Stoned and British and German Flags Burned In Public

Washington, Dec. 11.—It is said at the British and German embassies that the action of President Castro in ordering the arrest of all subjects of the British and German governments in Caracas is without precedent in the history of civilized countries supposedly at peace with each other, and that such action will be regarded as sufficient ground for a declaration of war. Members of the diplomatic corps here indeed regard it as being such a declaration in itself.

Minister Bowen's prompt action in demanding of President Castro the release of the German and British subjects arrested in Caracas is in accordance with the plan agreed on between the German and British ambassadors and Secretary Hay when the former called at the state department fully three weeks ago, and, in anticipation of the present ugly situation in Venezuela, requested that the United States minister at Caracas be permitted to protect the lives and property of all British and German citizens in Venezuela.

It is understood that President Castro was advised of this action. It is pointed out by a European diplomat of high rank that in forcing Minister Bowen to demand the release of the arrested subjects, President Castro is acting directly contrary to the desire of the Washington government not to become involved in the international dispute. Both Germany and Great Britain, it is said, fully appreciate the position of the United States and are determined that this country shall not be drawn necessarily into the embroilment. It is also stated that President Roosevelt's recent interpretations of the Monroe doctrine are being looked to by both nations as authority for the extent to which they can go in their claims against Venezuela without embarrassing the United States. The particular utterance of the president on which they have set their attention is this:

"This (the Monroe) doctrine has nothing to do with the commercial relations of any American power, save that in truth it allows each of them to form such as it desires. In other words, it is really a guaranty of the commercial independence of the Americas. We do not ask under this doctrine for any exclusive commercial dealings with any other American state. We do not guarantee any state against punishment if it misconducts itself, provided that punishment does not take the form of the acquisition of territory by any non-American power."

The Capture of Venezuelan Boats

La Guaira, Dec. 11.—The Venezuelan fleet was captured Monday by 10 German and four British cutters. They went alongside the Venezuelan vessels and ordered them to surrender, and without a shot being fired the British and German forces seized the Venezuelan fleet in the name of the German emperor and the King of England. Two of the vessels, which were undergoing repairs, were broken up. The German cruiser Panthon steamed into the harbor during these proceedings with her decks cleared for action. The Venezuelan steamers were taken outside the harbor, and at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning the General Crespo, Tutuno and Margarita were sunk. The Ossun was the only vessel spared in view of the protest made by the French charge d'affaires, who notified the commodore of the allied fleet that the Ossun is the property of a Frenchman.

The German and British residents at La Guaira have been arrested. No one here can explain the action of the allied powers in taking action without giving Venezuela time to reply to their note.

Troops are expected here from Caracas, as the government is credited with the intention of repulsing any landing by the allied forces.

All the stores and banks here are closed. Great excitement prevails, as the population fears that the town may be shelled or other action taken by the Anglo-German vessels.

Foreigners' Flags Publicly Burned

Caracas, Dec. 11.—There was a great patriotic demonstration here Tuesday night when the news arrived that the British and German warships had seized the Venezuelan war vessels at La Guaira. The populace marched to the palace of President Castro, who addressed it. The mob then moved on to the German legation shouting "Death to the Germans." The windows were shattered with stones and attempts were made to force the doors, but the latter resisted these efforts. The crowd then marched to the German consulate and to the residence of Dr. Koehler, again stoning the windows and attempting to force an entrance. The police made no effort to disperse the demonstrators.

The excitement here was intense when at 10 o'clock at night the government ordered the arrest of all the German and English residents. One hour later 205 persons prominent in the social and commercial life of the city were crowded together in the police station.

On learning these incidents United States Minister Bowen and Secretary Russell went at once to see President Castro and succeeded in obtaining the release of Dr. Koehler and Valentin Blohm, German consul. Minister Bowen also obtained the official authorization of the Venezuelan government to represent British and German interests during the imbroglio.

The government has placed an embargo on the British railroad to La Guaira and on the German Central railroad from Caracas to Valencia. The populace is still intensely excited and the situation is regarded as critical. The British and German flags have been publicly burned.

Castro Looking For War

Paris, Dec. 11.—A Venezuelan government communication to its representative here protests that Great Britain and Germany, acting in concert, have committed an act of hostility in a manner as arbitrarily as it is unprecedented by the seizure of Venezuelan vessels lying at La Guaira. The communication says that indignation in Venezuela is at its highest pitch and the government is resorting to justifiable reprisals. It has arrested the resident subjects of both hostile countries and has seized the railways and other undertakings belonging to them. At the same time, adds the communication, President Castro has appealed to the Venezuelan people to take up arms. He has decreed a general amnesty for all political offenses and has ordered the restitution of the confiscated property of Venezuelan citizens.

Not Regarded as Serious

London, Dec. 11.—Great Britain is practically at war with Venezuela, but there is no disposition here to regard the situation as serious. The morning papers recognize the possibility of awkward complications, but are disposed to believe that President Castro, after making a show of defiance, may be brought to reason without the allied powers having recourse to seizure of the customs.

Italy's Intsructions

Rome, Dec. 11.—The government has instructed the commander of the Italian cruiser Giovanni Bausan, which arrived at La Guaira Tuesday, to fully protect Italian subjects in Venezuela; to take them aboard, or, if necessary, to land bluejackets for their protection.

More Bad Luck For Texas

Norfolk, Dec. 11.—The battleship Texas and the cruiser Topeka left for Culebra yesterday afternoon. Shortly after leaving her dock it was discovered that the engine room indicator of the Texas would not work. The battleship dropped anchor and in doing so carried away a boat stanchion. Later the Texas returned to her berth at the navy yard and repairs were begun. The Texas started yesterday with only one of her gun motor cylinders in commission. Both the cylinders were wrecked in the recent inspection trial off the capes.

Passenger and Freight Trains Met

Franklin Falls, N. H., Dec. 11.—In a head-on collision between a passenger train and a freight yesterday, several passengers were slightly hurt. The engines and the baggage car were somewhat damaged. Owing to frosty rails and a down grade, the freight could not be brought to a standstill before reaching the passenger train.

An Important Function

Assouan, Egypt, Dec. 11.—The great Nile reservoir and dam were opened yesterday in the presence of the khedive and many other distinguished persons. The khedive turned a key which put the electric machinery in motion, whereupon the sluice gates were opened and a great body of water rushed through them.

Crusade Against Fire Traps

Chicago, Dec. 11.—As a result of the recent fire in the Lincoln Hotel, in which 14 men lost their lives, the city building department has inaugurated a vigorous crusade against all hotels not provided with proper fire protection. Seven hotels were notified yesterday that they must make changes in their arrangements, or that every arriving guest will be told by a police officer that the building is not safe.

Horsemeat Banquet For 400

Berlin, Dec. 11.—Members of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have declined the invitation issued by The Fleischer Zeitung, the national organ of the German butchers, to a horsemeat banquet, on the ground that horseflesh would not have a fair show at a dinner given under the auspices of the Butchers' league, but the society designs to give such a dinner to which 400 persons will be invited.

Thief Got $6000 Worth

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Mrs. Carlos H. Blackman, a widow residing in the Kenwood Hotel, was robbed of $6000 worth of diamonds. The jewels were taken from her rooms in the hotel in daylight and while the hotel parlor, a short distance away, was filled with people. There is no clew to the thief.

Alleged Revenue Evasion

New York, Dec. 11.—Abraham S. Rosenthal and Martin L. Cohn, a silk importing firm, have been indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of entering silks on worthless or fraudulent invoices and of conspiracy with C. C. Browne, a former silk examiner. Browne is also indicted on two counts.

New York, Dec. 11.—Among the passengers who arrived yesterday on the steamer Manitou from London were General Kritzinger and Commanders Fouche and Joubert of the Boer army. Fouche expects to stay in this country permanently. The others will lecture on their experiences.

Heart Disease

retards the circulation, weakens the stomach, deranges digestion, pollutes the blood, destroys the nervous force and saps the vitality of the whole system. It causes pains in the side, palpitation, shortness of breath, smothering, dropsical swellings, sinking spells, and frequently ends all suffering in sudden death. Why tempt death when a cure is within easy reach?

"My head would get so hot it seemed to be burning up, while my feet were like ice. My limbs would swell and get numb. I had to sit in a chair day and night for months and my heart throbbed and pained me terribly. After using three bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I could do a good days work."

LET ME TELL YOU SOMETHING ABOUT

RHEUMATISM

RHEUMATISM IS AN ACCUMULATION OF POISONOUS FOREIGN MATTER IN THE SYSTEM, CAUSING INFLAMMATION, LAMENESS, ETC. WHERE THIS FOREIGN MATTER COMES FROM IS NOT CERTAIN—IT MAY BE URIC ACID WHICH THE KIDNEYS HAVE FAILED TO ELIMINATE; IT MAY BE THE STOMACH IS DIGESTING THE FOOD IMPROPERLY; OR IT MAY BE THAT SOME POISONOUS MATTER FROM OUTSIDE HAS CREPT INTO THE BODY. THE IMPORTANT THING IS THAT ROMOC WILL ABSOLUTELY AND PERMANENTLY CURE RHEUMATISM BY DRIVING OUT THESE IMPURITIES FROM THE SYSTEM. ROMOC IS NATURE'S PRESCRIPTION FOR RHEUMATISM, AND LIKE OTHER MAGNIFICENT WORKS OF NATURE, EXCELS ANYTHING POSSIBLE FOR MAN TO ACHIEVE. ASK FOR BOOKLET.

SELLING PRICE OF COAL

Operator Estimated It to Be About $2.50 a Ton

RECEIVED AS HIGH AS $20

During a Portion of the Time That Strike Was On—Miners Tell How Ten Percent Increase Turned Out to Be a Reduction In Reality

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 12.—The representatives of the miners, during yesterday's proceedings before the anthracite coal strike commission, called one of the independent operators to tell the exact price he received for his coal. The mine owner refused, giving instead, after much questioning, an average of the price he received.

The operator was J. L. Crawford, president of the People's Coal company, which operates the Oxford colliery, in Scranton. The request for him to take the stand came as a surprise. The Oxford colliery, during the strike, managed to get enough men to operate the plant, and for one month, according to Crawford, his company received $20 a ton for coal. Objection was raised to the miners' lawyers trying to get him to tell what he received from the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company for its product, but the examination was permitted to proceed for what it was worth, the commission stating that the exceptional high price of coal during the strike was not pertinent to the present inquiry.

Mr. Darrow continued the examination:

"How many tons do you produce a day?"

"Nine hundred to 1000 tons."

"And you don't know how much you get for it?"

"I can give an estimate."

"Well, what is it?"

"About $2.50 a ton."

As soon as the afternoon session began, Mr. Darrow requested Mr. Crawford, who was on the stand in the forenoon, to produce the last bill of sale in his possession. Mr. Crawford did not think it necessary, to which Mr. Darrow replied, "Well, I have made the request; you can ignore it if you choose."

Two witnesses, employed by the Lackawanna company, testified that before the strike of 1900 the men when they worked received 94 cents a car and that the strike was ended by the company agreeing to give the men an increase in wages of 10 percent, 2½ in cash and the other 7½ percent to be considered in the reduction in the price of powder. Instead of receiving the increase they now get 3 cents a car less, or 91 cents.

In cross-examination the company produced figures which showed that one of the witnesses earned an average of $4.23 a day for 17 days worked in November. The witness claimed he worked 25 days during the month.

Patrick O'Boyle, a miner, gave the history of the increase in the size of the miners' ton from 2240 pounds to 3136. He said 25 years ago sizes under pea coal were not used, and therefore it was dumped on the refuse pile and the ton raised to 3136, in order that the companies could get out 2240 pounds of marketable coal. At present the companies are using coal three or four sizes under pea, and the men are not being paid for it.

John W. Griffith, superintendent of schools of Nanticoke, testified that miners' children do not go as high in the school grades as the children of other parents.

Father O'Donnell, who was recalled for cross-examination, said he had personal knowledge of only one case of violence, and did not see other acts of lawlessness committed in Olyphant, where he was stationed. He believed newspaper accounts were exaggerated.

"Do you believe in boycotts?" asked Judge Gray. The witness replied that he believed he had the right not to deal or associate with a person who did something that he did not like or was contrary to his interests.

"I go along with you that far," said the chairman, "How much further would you go? For instance, have you a right to boycott me if I should deal or associate with such a person?"

"No, sir; neither would I commit violence."

"That is right; we draw the line at the same point."

P. J. Regan, a miner for the Temple Coal and Iron company, was the last witness of the day. His principal complaint was that he had been docked for light loading.

Three Men Killed In Mine

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Dec. 12.—Three men lost their lives and one was badly injured in a mine at Edwardsville last evening. The men were walking up a slope, behind some loaded cars. In shifting the cars a coupling broke and the cars dashed down the steep incline, plowing into the men and hurling them against the roof and sides of the slope. The bodies of the dead were horribly mangled.

Civil Service Reformers Meet

Philadelphia, Dec. 12.—The 22d annual meeting of the National Civil Service Reform league began here yesterday. The annual report of the executive council commends the policy of President Roosevelt in making federal appointments, and calls attention to the persistent hostility of professional politicians in both the great national parties to civil service reform.

Injures American Commerce

San Domingo, Dec. 12.—The Dominican government informed Minister Powell yesterday that it cannot withdraw the decree now in force governing the shipping charges collected at Dominican ports. This decree has a strong detrimental effect on American commercial interests. The political situation here is quiet.

Another Boodler Sentenced

London, Dec. 12.—Robert H. Milward, at one time a leading lawyer of the midland counties, was sentenced to six years' penal servitude yesterday for misappropriating $24,000 from a firm which became bankrupt in June.

Railroad Wreck In Pennsylvania

Pittsburg, Dec. 12.—A train on the Allegheny Valley road was wrecked last night near Brilliant. Three trainmen were fatally hurt and 25 passengers injured more or less seriously.

Agricultural Board Endorsed

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 12.—At a meeting of the Massachusetts state grange yesterday, the committee on legislation reported that it had investigated the criticism that has been made of the state board of agriculture and recommended a resolution affirming its confidence in the state board and in Cattle Commissioners Peters and Dennen. The resolution was adopted.

Railroad Asked to Advance Wages

Boston, Dec. 12.—Officers of the Boston and Albany division of the New York Central road have been requested by boiler makers' unions of Boston, Cambridge and Springfield to grant an advance of 3 cents an hour to boiler makers employed in this state. The officials have agreed to consider the request and make a definite reply within a few days.

Successful Test of Big Dredge

Bath, Me., Dec. 12.—The hydraulic steam dredge Cumberland, built for the government, was given her first official trial yesterday, a four-hour test at sea. She was required to make 10 miles an hour, and reeled off 10.5 miles. The water pumps were tried and showed a capacity of 24,000 gallons a minute.

To Get $1,250,000 For Property

Boston, Dec. 12.—The Park Street Congregational society last night voted to accept the offer of $1,250,000 made for the church property by a syndicate which desires to utilize the site for business purposes. It is understood that the syndicate stands ready to pay cash down for the property.

Two Coal Barges Lost

New London, Conn., Dec. 12.—Tug Charles McWilliams, which lost the coal barges Dixie and Lady Jane in a gale on Monday, picked up the wreck of the Lady Jane off this port yesterday. The bottom is out of the barge and she is beyond repair. The Dixie was sunk in the gale off Hamonsett point.

Cattle Dealer Dies of Poisoning

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 12.—George Reed of Dedham, a cattle dealer, was found dead in bed in the Hotel Gilmore yesterday afternoon. A medical examination showed that death was caused by either alcoholic poisoning or direct poisoning, probably the latter.

AFFAIRS IN PHILIPPINES

Presented In a Dark Light by Professor Schurman

POINTS OUT DEFICIENCIES

And Declares That They Cannot Be Atoned by Over-Educational Work—Deprecates the "Folly of Project of Americanizing" the Natives

New York, Dec. 12.—Brigadier General Greely and President Schurman of Cornell university were the principal speakers at a meeting of the Nineteenth Century club last night. The meeting was devoted to the discussion of "The United States in the Philippines." President Schurman said in part:

"The Philippine question will not stay down. Just as soon as it seems to grow quiescent some one stirs it up or great events compel us to look at it again. It is now known to all who follow the course of Philippine affairs that the Filipinos are the victims of famine, pestilence, wholesale loss of farm animals by disease, depression of agriculture, decline of trade, and disastrous derangement of the currency. The insular government is purchasing rice on the Asiatic continent to furnish the Filipinos with the means of subsistence and losses are expected on the transaction—which of course the Filipino will have to make good by taxation. The currency and the trade of the Filipinos is under the control of congress, but congress last winter refused to do much for either. The failure of congress to establish the gold standard has cost the Philippine government over $1,000,000 in the meanwhile in consequence of declines in the value of silver. And this loss must be borne by the Filipino taxpayers.

"Have not the Filipinos the right to a stable currency? Would it not be politic, as well as wise and generous, to open our doors to their trade so that they might feel this foreign sovereignty at least profitable in a pecuniary way?

"President Roosevelt, too, has compelled us to think again of the Philippine problem. He recently stated that the flag could no more come down in the Philippines than it could in Alaska. Now where the American flag goes it symbolizes the sovereignty of the people over whom it waves, the Republican government. Hence if the flag is to stay in the Philippines, Luzon and the Visayas, by the logic of American political philosophy, must become states in the union as New Mexico and Oklahoma and Alaska are bound to be. If this result is not desired, the Filipinos must either be retained in forcible subjection or given their independence, as the United States has given independence to Cuba and England has given a not less real independence to Canada and Australia.

"There will, if I am not mistaken, soon be another stimulus to talk on Philippine affairs. Hitherto it had been assumed that over-educational work in the archipelago atoned for all other deficiencies. I said a year ago in Boston, in a public address on Philippine affairs, and I repeat it now, with still more emphasis, that this educational work is vitiated by a fundamental mistake. Give all the educational work in an American town into the charge of one Spaniard; have all instruction given in Spanish, and how much would the children learn? Well, substitute an active American teacher for that hypothetical Spaniard, and that is what we are doing in the Philippines.

"The Filipinos do not need a common language for purposes of instruction. Employ native teachers and a few Americans who learn the leading dialects, and let the other American teachers come home. All history shows that it is impossible to change the language of any people.

"From the beginning nature and history, but now experience, too, cry against the folly of this project of Americanizing or Anglicizing the Filipinos. Recognize the men of Luzon and the Visayans as fellow-Christians with rights equal to your own; consult their ideas and sentiments, and do what they want; and above all, bear in mind that no nation can raise another upward, but at most provide favorable conditions for it to stand upon its own feet and make its own way. Do this, I say, and you have the clue, and the only clue, to the solution of this difficult and oppressive Philippine question."

General Greely, in his address, said that, personally, he thought the Spanish-American war was a mistake, as was the acquisition of the Philippines; but, he said that he was a soldier, with his duty to perform first, so he would not say more than that he did not think much good could come of the possession of the islands. He did not see how this country could get rid of them now, and therefore it ought to do what seems best for this government and for the future of the world. Speaking of alleged cruelties in the Philippines, he defended the army and said that, while we should pass judgment on the guilty individual, we should refrain from general accusations.

COAL DEALERS POWERLESS

Unable to Get Adequate Supply of Fuel For Boston and Suburbs

Boston, Dec. 12.—Some of the large coal dealers in this city predict a famine of anthracite coal before long, and a possible famine in all sorts of coal within a few weeks, when not a ton of coal can be bought by the general public. The contingency depends upon the weather and should another spell of extreme weather come the suffering among the people of Boston and suburbs would be such as has not been known in this country within a generation. And no matter how much suffering there exists among the people, most of the coal dealers say they will be powerless to furnish relief.

They have been working night and day to supply the thousands who were eager to secure coal and today there remains at the various coal sheds about Boston what would ordinarily be considered a meagre supply of anthracite coal and enough bituminous coal to prevent a famine for perhaps two weeks.

More anthracite and bituminous are on the way to Boston, but in this treacherous weather vessels and barges make slow passages. But what is on the way to Boston, the dealers say, is but a drop in the bucket. From the railroads little can be expected, the dealers say, as they cannot handle enough coal to supply New England, even if they could get it at the mining centres.

A $250,000 Fire at Worcester

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 12.—A fire which caused damage estimated at $250,000 broke out in the seven-story Chase building yesterday afternoon. The heaviest losers were C. T. Sherer & Co., proprietors of a department store, and the W. J. Woods company, clothing dealers. The building is owned by R. C. Taylor. A dozen firemen were overcome by smoke. Assistant Engineer Janes was struck on the head with an axe and was taken home. John Luby, a boseman, was so overcome by the smoke that he is in a serious condition.

Great Strain on Morrison

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 12.—John H. Morrison, counsel for Blondin, on trial in Boston for wife murder, returned to his home in this city last night a very sick man. His heart is affected by the strain of the trial and he is thoroughly exhausted. It is stated that his doctors have advised him to give up the trial entirely. At any rate, the junior counsel, J. F. Owens, will go on with the case for the present.

For Commutation of Sentences

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 12.—The house yesterday passed bills to commute the death sentences of Charles Doherty, Frederick Eastwood and Frank Shaw.

Alleged Coercion of Employes

Lockport, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Division Superintendent Morford of the Michigan Central at Niagara Falls was indicted yesterday by the Niagara county grand jury for alleged violation of the penal code by coercing employes not to join a labor organization as a condition of retaining employment.

A Colored Republican Party

Selma, Ala., Dec. 12.—Negroes from every portion of the state met here yesterday to form a colored Republican party. Resolutions were adopted endorsing the action of President Roosevelt in not recognizing the "Lily White" branch of the party in Alabama.

Good Afternoon.

Ex-Speaker Thomas Brackett Reed, who has just died in Washington worked his way through Bowdoin college and graduated at the head of his class.

The possibilities of the aesthetic side of agriculture were never appreciated in this country until Secretary Wilson assumed the portfolio of the Agricultural Department.

Some strenuous action will yet be necessary to secure for Quincy people the fuel they will actually need this winter. The situation seems to get more serious each day.

Mr. H. C. Frick will build and endow a big university in Pittsburg opposite the Carnegie Institute. Pittsburg may yet be a seat of learning as well as a center of industry and wealth.

In presenting "Q's" for athletic honors, Quincy High imitates Harvard, but the pupils enjoy the custom, and athletics school be encouraged in the secondary should as well as colleges.

The New York Tribune think it s extravagant to burn over a ton of coal a month in a furnace to heat an ordinary house. Many Quincy families will not burn that much this month.

That 2 degree noon temperature of Tuesday looks strangely out of place between the 21 and 30 of Sunday and Monday which preceded, and the 24, 34 and 25 since. Please excuse us from a repetition.

Masquerade at Wollaston.

A masquerade party, under the auspices of John Hancock lodge, I. O. O. F., was held Thursday evening at Wollaston hall, and was very largely attended, over sixty couples in masque participating. George A. Wardwell had charge of the floor and was ably assisted by George C. Ela, E. L. Bean, R. T. Fiske and F. L. Merrill. After unmasking prizes were awarded to Miss Sadie Gesner, who wore a fancy costume, and to William Phillips, who impersonated a cavalier of the fifteenth century. Dancing was then continued until 2 A. M.

Is Not Spreading.

Dr. Henderson, inspector of animals, believes that the spread of the foot and mouth disease among the cows of Quincy has been checked. There have been no cases since those discovered early in the week and the inspector does not believe that there will be any more. Those cows having the disease are quarantined and will probably be killed.

COAL IN DEMAND.

Everyone in Quincy Seems to Want It.

Remarkable Procession Seen Daily.

No Guarantee for Delivery of New Hard Coal Orders.

Residents along Washington street, Quincy Point, have witnessed a scene such as never was seen before and probably never will be again. It was all due to the desire of citizens to obtain coal and wood all at once. When the cold snap came it caught many without fuel, and the result was that everybody wanted some.

Neither of the two coal firms had teams enough to meet the demand, and everything that had wheels or runners was pressed into service. From morning until night there has been a constant stream of vehicles of all kinds going and coming. Then there were scores dragging hand sleds to which a box had been fastened and even others with baskets and bags over their shoulders going for that mineral which at the present time is almost as precious as gold.

At the wharves the scene was an animated one. There was a long line of waiting teams and individuals shivering in the cold waiting their turn. The employes at the wharf worked as rapidly as possible and as the waiting throng saw the comparatively small bin of coal diminish it became a question whether their wants would be supplied.

At first people who went down with their own teams were given a load. Then came word that the supply was not large enough to fill what orders had been received and many were turned away disappointed or were obliged to load with soft coal.

Wednesday the city teams joined the procession serving to swell the crowd. These teams only delivered wood and bags of coal.

Wednesday night there came word that the hard coal supply was gone and no more orders for that could be filled. This, however, did not diminish the size of the procession much, for the teams took loads of soft coal and wood.

A new supply of hard coal is due to arrive any day and then will come a repetition of the scenes of Monday and Tuesday.

REPORTED.

A Boston paper reports that the tug Lykens, from Philadelphia, passed Webster Thursday, towing barges; the Kohinoor, with 1097 tons of anthracite coal for D. J. Cutter; the Thomaston, with 816 tons of anthracite for Mr. Godfrey of Milton, and the Hammond, with 900 tons of anthracite for Mr. Sheppard of Quincy.

Also that a fleet with 20,000 tons anchored Thursday night off Handkerchief shoal.

Surprise Party.

Miss Bertha A. Hayden was tendered a surprise party Monday evening at her residence, 40 River street, Quincy Point, the occasion being her 21st birthday. Although surprised, Miss Hayden bade her friends welcome. An hour was pleasantly spent in playing whist and the following prizes were awarded: First, Master Forrest Hayden; second, Mrs. A. B. Hayden; third, Mr. W. Dorley; the consolation prize going to Miss Mattie Rucker. A bountiful collation was served. The rest of the evening was enjoyed in dancing and music. Mr. Samuel P. Hayden, in behalf of Miss Hayden's friends, presented her with a handsome gold watchchain, the slide having a diamond setting.

Major Meredith.

The officers of the Fifth regiment, M. V. M., met Thursday evening and on the first ballot elected Capt. Francis Meredith, Jr., of Co. H, of Charlestown, as junior major, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Maj. Walter E. Morrison of Braintree. Col. Oakes presided, and Capt. Henry L. Kincaide, the adjutant, was recorder. The ballot resulted as follows: Capt. F. Meredith, Jr., 16; Capt. Frank F. ompany, 1; Capt. J. P. Clare, M company, 6, and Capt. E. R. Springer, C company, 7.

Capt. Meredith joined company A. of the regiment in 1889. Charlestown now has two majors in the 5th infantry.

Whist at I. O. O. F. Hall.

There were fourteen tables in play at the whist party at I. O. O. F. hall Thursday evening and prizes were awarded as follows: Beerstein, Mrs. J. W. Young; silver fruit dish, Mrs. George F. Phillips; sofa pillow, Miss Sadie Thomas; umbrella, Albert Keating; chocolate pot, F. A. Drake; pin cushion, George Ruxton.

ON WASTE OF COAL.

Ton a Month Enough for Furnaces in Houses.

"How many men or women know the amount of coal really sufficient to keep a good fire in grate, furnace or stove?" asked an experienced housewife. "Not one in a hundred," says the New York Tribune which comments as follows: "Yet this question of supplies ought to be one of the first things learned in domestic management. Half a ton of nut coal is ample to keep fire night and day in a No. 8 kitchen range for a month in winter. From three-eighths to one quarter of a ton is all that should be used in a fall or spring month, and this does not mean poor, stunted fires. It is enough for all cookery and genial warmth, and to use more means ignorant waste.

"A cylinder stove heating a room sixteen feet square and ten feet in height will call for the same amount of larger coal. When a strong fire is needed in cold weather, a mixture of egg and nut coal is good in a range or close parlor stove, using the finer coal to start the morning fire and egg coal for the charge to last half a day.

"A small furnace, keeping the ordinary ten-room house comfortable night and day in all weather, can be run with an average of one ton of hard coal a month the season through, which means less than a ton for the milder months, and something more in bitter midwinter. Half a cord of split kindling in six inch lengths will be sufficient for six months of cold weather with good usage.

"This looks impossible to the easy-going housekeeper, whose cook throws a huge scuttleful of coal on the range three times a day, and whose furnaceman has a commission from the coal dealer, or whose head of the family doesn't know any more about such matters than usual. But personal experience for years proves the allowance correct. It simply includes knowing how.

"In cold weather a clear fire is economy. The ashes are to be thoroughly cleared by shaker and poker from range and furnace the first thing, unless a strong draught of a windy night has burned the fire almost out, when the grate must be carefully shaken, leaving a bed of ashes to hold the live coals, which are to be kindled up with half a dozen pieces of kindling wood, two inches thick, and a small shovel of fine coal, with open draughts. As soon as the coal is red and burning well, in five or ten minutes a shovel of egg coal is added.

If in a hurry to heat the house up make the furnace fire up with egg coal, and when well lighted close the back draughts. When all the layer of coal is alight close all dampers and draughts, so that the heat will stay in the house instead of going out doors. In carelessly tended fires three-fourths the heat from the fuel goes up the chimney. This is speaking of hot-air furnaces of the good old kind, which some knowing people still stoutly aver are the only method for heating private houses.

Careful firing insists on having all the ashes sifted twice over, the first time with the common coarse screen of half-inch mesh, which leaves the cinders ready for use, after picking out the slag. The second time the ashes are run through a screen of quarter-inch mesh, which takes out a lot of cinder scales the size of 'buckwheat coal, useful for keeping fires at night or when strong heat is not needed.

"All glassy, stony pieces are to be picked from the cinders with gloved hands or claw tongs. Then dampen the cinders either with a spray from a fine watering pot or by sprinkling with a whiskbroom dipped in a basin of water. Dampen but do not wet the cinders, coarse and fine.

"When the breakfast fire is not needed and the house is warm, put on range or furnace a charge of fresh coal three or four inches deep, open draughts five minutes to let the smoke pass off and the coal to catch fire; then cover with an even layer of cinders, and cinder scales on that, and close draughts.

A well-made fire should keep from four to ten hours without replenishing. On mild days, with little wind, a fire so tended will last till night, and so made up at ten o'clock in the evening will keep all night. If clinkers form in the furnace throw in scrap zinc and they will fuse and drop when the fire burns well."

LEAGUE GAMES.

Granite City at Billiards and Whist, Braintree at Pool and Bowling.

The Granite City club and Braintree club played their schedule games at the latter's rooms Thursday evening.

The Granite City club won at billiards by a score of 139 to 131. The first game was between McGrath of the Granite City and Barnes of the Braintree. The latter won by a score of 75 to 64. The second game was between Sears of the Granite City and Hazeltine of the Braintree and Sears won by a score of 75 to 56.

Braintree won both games at pool. The Granite City club was represented by McDonnell and Shedd. The former lost to Braintree by a score of 50 to 39, and the latter lost by score of 50 to 28. The totals were: Braintree, 100; Granite City 67.

The games at whist resulted in a victory for the Granite City club. The first set broke even each team being 5 plus. In the second game the Granite City won 12 plus.

The Granite City club fell down on bowling but not quite as bad as the week before. The total scores were: Braintree, 1114; Granite City, 1087. Hill was high man for the Granite City with a total of 240, and Walsh a good second with 235. For Braintree French was high man with 231 and Call a good second with 228. The Granite city's highest string was 380 and that of Braintree 390.

SORROWS OF SANTA

I CHANCED into Santa Claus' home one day,
And these are the words I heard him say:

"Ah, me, the times, the manners, the men!
It used to be all so different when

"I was a young man in the long ago
And sped with my reindeer over the snow.

"Then every home in every land
Gave unto me always a welcome hand,

"And chimneys then in the days gone by
Were not oversmall and not overhigh,

"And the stockings they used were the old fashioned kind,
All hung in a row and so easy to find.

"Then the gifts were so simple and all in good taste,
From the gingerbread man to the doll made of paste,

"But now it's so different. Heigho, hear me sigh!
I mourn for the days in the Land of Goneby.

"For now I'm kept busy from early till late
In my earnest endeavors to be up to date.

"I've trimmed my old beard in the new Vandyke style,
And instead of a laugh I've a simpering smile.

"I'VE CEASED TO WEAR ALL MY OLD FASHIONED CLOTHES."

"Yes, I've ceased to wear all my old fashioned clothes,
And I've got on long shoes with the sharp pointed toes,

"And my reindeer and robes and my beautiful sleigh
With my gingerbread presents are all laid away,

"For I ride nowadays on a bicycle swift
And I'm puzzled to know what to bring for a gift

"To the girls fin de siecle, and as for the boys,
They've no use at all for my old fashioned toys,

"And the houses have changed. In those things called a flat
I'm kept busy guessing just where I am at.

"Excuse me now, please, if I speak very low;
I've come to my last and my cruelest blow.

"'Tis the worst, though what I have told you is bad;
My wife has acquired the new woman fad!"

And those were the words I heard him say
When I chanced in Santa Claus' home one day.

—Detroit News-Tribune.

AN ODD BELGIAN CUSTOM.

A Picturesque Procession on Christmas Eve.

In some old Belgian towns a beautiful spectacle may be seen on Christmas eve. Amid the sound of drum, cornet, cymbal and a whole orchestra of instruments, with the chanting of carols, a long, gayly decked procession marches through the principal streets—children of all ages, each division dressed in its special color (white, blue, pink or yellow), and all bearing some badge or emblem or grasping some bright ribbon attached to shrine or crucifix. The effect of grouping and color is very artistic. Here and there in the throng older, stronger hands bear aloft precious relics, upon which the spectators reverently gaze. Many novel features come into view as the procession passes along, but the prettiest sight is the train of beautiful children in fastastic dress marching over the flower strewn pavement, each small person gravely absorbed in the special part it performs. — Pittsburg Dispatch.

CANDLESTICKS AS GIFTS.

Antique Treasures Which May Be Found In Junkshops.

Candlesticks are decorative, utilitarian and thoroughly good form. What, then, could be more acceptable for Christmas gifts?

A pair of highly polished brass candlesticks give an air of distinction to even the humblest surroundings. Their polish reflects the thrift of the housekeeper, and their presence denotes her good taste.

The genuine antique candlesticks, with their quaint, simple outlines, are preferable to the more modern affairs that are apt to be a trifle too ornate for really good effect. The candlesticks may often be bought in junkshops for their gross weight, and many beautiful specimens have been picked up in this way by the clever and industrious collector.—New York Journal.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Full moon Sunday night.

Winter "begins" Dec. 22.

The 22d will be Forefathers day.

Today completes a week of continuous sleighing.

The afternoon will be a minute longer next Wednesday.

Look out for a snow storm Christmas day, says the Old Farmer's Almanac.

J. F. Sheppard & Sons have voluntarily increased the pay of their men $1 per week.

The cellar is being dug for another new house on the Quincy Park property at Quincy Point.

Mrs. George L. Gill of Maple place observed her 83d birthday on Thursday entertaining informally.

The West Quincy M. E. church will hold a fair three days next week with entertainments each evening.

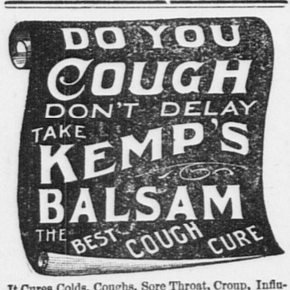

The fixed spans for the new bridge at Quincy Point are already to float down the river and place in position.

Vaudeville at Music Hall.

In spite of the storm which prevailed Thursday night, a large crowd gathered at Music hall to witness the entertainment which was presented by Capt. Eddy. The singing of Miss Hattie Belle Ladd, was as anticipated of the best. Special mention should be made of Fred S. Stuber, for as a master of the banjo he is certainly a wonder. His rendering of the "Holy City" was enthusiastically received. The Biograph is still looked upon as a wonder, as it certainly is. Taken as a whole the show was first class, and up to date. Capt. Eddy should receive support for his endeavors to bring good shows to Quincy.

Miss Fagan.

The funeral of Miss Mary Josephine Fagan was held this morning from St. Mary's church, solemn high mass being celebrated by Rev. Edward J. Fagan of Natick, Rev. W. F. Fagan of Chelsea, Rev. Frank Hart of Dorchester and Rev. W. A. Keating of Brockton. Inside the rail were: Rev. A. F. Roche, Rev. W. Foley, and Rev. Edward Powers. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

MILTON.

The coal question is as serious in Milton as other places. According to reports money is more plentiful than coal.

W. B. Tinker returned this week from a gunning trip in Canada. He brought with him as evidence of his skill a handsome buck weighing 240 pounds.

The young ladies' gymnasium class began their winter's work Monday evening.

The Thursday Evening club give an entertainment at the Sailors' Haven, Charlestown, next Monday evening.

Venice Illustrated.

Cold weather and a snow storm did not prevent a large gathering in High School hall Thursday evening, when the second entertainment in the Quincy Teachers' association course was given.

The audience was taken by Prof. George N. Cross away from bleak New England to sunny Italy, to the beautiful city of Venice which was entered by moonlight on a train from Florence. The lecture was supplemented with stereopticon views and Prof. Cross carried the audience with him in his gondola, meeting the train at the station and going down the grand canal lined with beautiful palaces to the hotel. Venice was thoroughly visited and it was an hour much enjoyed not only by those who have visited the city but by those who hope to.

Prof. Cross is an experienced traveler and his clear discriptions and beautiful views, made from photographs taken personally, made the lecture of more than usual interest

The next in the course will be a concert by the Walter E. Loud concert company, on Thursday evening, Jan. 22.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

Cars over Bridge.

The temporary railroad bridge and draw at the Quincy Point bridge is about ready for use. The draw is in position and all that is necessary to complete the structure is to connect the rails. This should be completed so that the cars can use the bridge by Saturday night. The draw bridge is an unique arrangement and was designed by Mr. Cannon of Spear street an employe at the Fore River works. It is hinged on one side, a box filled with several tons of steel acting as a counterbalance. On either side of this box are wheels which run down an incline track when the bridge is lifted. So nicely is it balanced that but very little strength is necessary to operate it.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

ALMACK'S OF LONDON.

A Famous Woman's Club of a Century or So Ago.

About a century ago the seventh heaven of the fashionable world of London was a club known as Almack's, of which the patronesses were Lady Castlereagh, Lady Jersey, Lady Cowper (afterward Lady Palmerston), Lady Sefton, Mrs. Drummond Burrell (afterward Lady Willoughby), the Princess Esterhazy and the Countess Lieven. Their smiles or frowns consigned men and women to happiness or despair. It is hard for us to conceive the importance which was attached to getting admission to Almack's. Of the 300 officers of the Foot guards not more than half a dozen were honored with cards to this temple of the beau monde. The government was a pure despotism, as every government by woman is bound to be, and a host of intrigues was set set in motion to get an invitation.

Very often persons of rank who had the entree anywhere were excluded from the club. Such as were admitted had to dress in conformity with the edict of the tyrants, no gentleman being allowed to appear at the assemblies except in knee breeches, white cravat and crush hat. On one occasion the Duke of Wellington was about to ascend the stairs to the ballroom dressed in black trousers when the guardian of the establishment stepped forward and said, "Your grace cannot be admitted in trousers," whereupon the duke, who had a great respect for orders, quietly walked away.—New York Press.

A Pun That Failed.

At a public dinner a careless waiter stumbled when bringing in a boiled tongue. The tongue slipped over the edge of the dish upon the tablecloth.

"Never mind," said the chairman cheerfully, "it's only a lapsus linguæ" (slip of the tongue).

The joke was received with a burst of laughter. A gentleman present, who had no knowledge of Latin, yet saw what boisterous merriment it caused, secretly determined that he would repeat the whole performance at his next little dinner party at home and give his guests a great laugh at his wit.

The occasion arrived. There was to be a leg of mutton, and the host had instructed the waiter to let it fall when coming in. The waiter did so, to the great dismay of the guests.

"Oh, never mind," cried the host cheerfully, "it's only a lapsus linguæ."

To his great disgust and astonishment, however, nobody seemed to see it, and now he is suspicious that something must have gone wrong somewhere.—Pearson's.

Appealed to the Powers.

The late Joseph Medill, editor of the Chicago Tribune, besides being an indefatigable editor, had a decided vein of humor in his composition.

During the last years of his life, as his strength permitted, he watched over his paper as zealously as in his younger days, and it was his custom to scan the columns of certain favorite exchanges and clip from them extensively, marking them on the margins, "J. M.—Must," meaning that the extracts must go in. It was one of his great griefs that there was not always room for all of them, even when columns of live editorial matter had been crowded out, as they were sometimes, to make room for them.

One night he went up to the room of the night editor with a bundle of clippings in his hand.

"Mr. Ransom," he said to that official, with a twinkle in his eye, "I wish you would use your influence to have these printed in the paper tomorrow morning."—Youth's Companion.

A Nourishing Drink.

The whites of raw eggs are very nourishing. A good way to prepare the drink, according to one who knows, is to break the white into a jar with what milk is desired and shake the two thoroughly together. A pinch of salt should be added. An English specialist recommends to adult patients suffering from anæmic condition the daily consumption of eight or ten egg whites. They can be taken clear and with ease if the eggs are kept very cold, broken into a cold glass and used at once. Another excellent drink is made by beating the white of an egg to a froth and adding a tablespoonful of rich cream and a spoonful of brandy. This is a very nourishing cordial for an invalid.

Economical.

Mandy—An' if it is are yew goin' tew squander good money on spectacles?

Farmer Skinflint—No; I'm goin' tew give up the paper.

Gold Only For Royalty.

It is a notable fact that in Abyssinia none but those who are related to the monarch is permitted to wear gold in any form. They may deck themselves with diamonds and other precious stones, but the jewels must not be set in gold. The penalty for infringement of this law is death by decapitation.

Thanked.

She—Yes, I told you I'd always be a sister to you, and I'll be glad to hear anything you have to say to me.

He—Six months ago you told me I'd thank you some day for refusing me. Let me do so at once. You can't hold a candle to the girl I'm engaged to now.

TWO ORDERS

[Original.]

Many were the assaults made by the Union troops upon the fort at the mouth of the harbor, and they were all repulsed. After dark their general set up his headquarters on the beach, where he received reports of his commanders. As each new list of killed and wounded came in larger even than he had expected his brow darkened deeper. Then came his aid-de-camp, whom he had missed early in the day and had not seen since.

"Where have you been, captain?" asked the general in no genial tone.

"Captured. I was left unguarded an hour ago—they were too busy to keep a sharp lookout, having other use for their men—and I walked away."

"That's a likely story," said the general, with a snarl. "Captain, you've been skulking."

"General!"

"Major," continued the commander to another member of the staff, "issue an order dismissing Captain Bell from my staff and returning him to his regiment."

The major hesitated, whereupon the general threatened to dismiss him as well. Then he wrote the order.

"General," said the young captain who was to be degraded in this summary manner, trembling with excitement, "we fight tomorrow, I suppose. Well, give me a chance to prove what I have said or to do some signal service. Hold the order till tomorrow at this hour. If by that time I have done neither, let it go forth."

The general repressed a burst of passion, for he saw the justice of the demand, and gruffly assented.

Captain Bell's story was true. Carrying an order from one corps to another, while on the way the enemy had passed behind him, and he was taken into the fort with other Union soldiers. Later, during a desperate assault of the Unionists, the prisoners were in the way, and they were taken outside. It was during this assault that Bell escaped.

"Major," he said to the officer who had been ordered to write his dismissal from the staff, "I would rather die than have that order issued, and I'm going to die. Give me the counter sign."

"What will you do with it?"

"I'm going to take some spikes and by hook or by crook work my way into that fort to spike some of their guns. There are nine chances in ten that I will be either shot or hanged. The one chance is that I will succeed. Listen just before morning for a gun. If you hear it, tell the general that I have succeeded and it is a signal for him to move on the fort."

In vain the major scouted the proposal. His friend was resolved. About midnight Bell passed out of the Union lines and groped about on the battlefield of the previous day till he found a dead Confederate officer, whose uniform he put on. Then, moving close to the fort, he hailed a sentinel, telling him that he had been out to find a wounded comrade. Entering the fort with the air of having duties there, he was stopped by an officer reorganizing the thinned forces, who asked his corps. Bell gave the name of the corps which he had seen on the hats of those who had guarded him during the day and passed on as if pressed for time. The night was hot, and the exhausted gunners instead of keeping to the casemates were sleeping mostly outside of them. Bell found an opportunity to crawl beneath one of them, where he remained till the fort was comparatively quiet. Then he took from his pocket the implements with which he had provided himself. Placing a spike in the vent of the gun from under which he crawled, he hammered it down, placing some sole leather between it and his hammer to deaden the sound. This done, he crawled from one gun to another, repeating the process till he had spiked seven of twelve guns defending the north face. Once one of the gunners awoke and, seeing an officer at the gun, looked at him quizzically. Bell, seeing that he was observed, pretended to inspect the gun, then passed on.

It was about 2 o'clock in the morning that the fort was startled by the boom of one of its own guns. Nobody knew who fired it or by whose order.

At the first streak of dawn the outposts reported heavy dark masses moving against the fort from every direction. Four columns made the assault, three of them being driven back with slaughter. On the north face the men sprang to the guns to find them spiked. Bell took position at a gun that he had failed to spike and served it, with others, rubbing his powder stained hands on his face till he was unrecognizable. The north face, at which he fought, being poorly defended, the Union troops made a breach, passing through it in sufficient numbers to compel a surrender.

At sunrise the Union general sat on horseback within the fort to inspect his prisoners.

"Is there a Union soldier, Captain Bell, in this fort?" he asked.

A man with a face as black as the ace of spades stepped forth and saluted.

"Here, general."

The general got down from his horse and, running forward, grasped his aid's hand.

"Forgive me, my boy. The blood of our brave fellows who had been slaughtered crazed me."

"I rejoice in your action, general, since it spurred me to a work that I could never have done without a desperate motive."

"Major," said the general, "write an order commending Captain Bell to the president for promotion for gallant and meritorious services in the capture of this fort." EVERETT P. MOORE.

IN A FIGHTING MOOD

Venezuelans Seize Britons and Germans at Puerto Cabello

BRITISH STEAMER TAKEN

England Beginning to Realize Serious Possibilities of Attempted Coercion and Hopes United States Will Interfere to Settle Difficulties

London, Dec. 12.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Willemstad, Island of Curacao, dated Dec. 11, says:

"The Venezuelan authorities at Puerto Cabello are fortifying that town. They have seized and imprisoned the British and German consuls there, as well as other Britons and Germans, and have taken possession of their property.

"The authorities also seized a British steamer which was discharging a cargo of coal at Puerto Cabello; this vessel was unable to escape owing to a breakdown in her machinery.

"The American consul at Puerto Cabello attempted to intervene, but he was disregarded."

The British consul at Puerto Cabello is R. Koltter. The German representative is P. Tiede. L. T. Ellsworth is the American consul at that port.

Up to a late hour last night the foreign office was still without further news regarding the situation in Venezuela. While there is no confirmation of the rumors of fighting in La Guaira, etc., the newspapers this morning are beginning to show a keener appreciation of the serious possibilities involved by President Castro's continued defiance.

This feeling will hardly be lessened by a report that a British vessel has been seized at Puerto Cabello and it is shown in the eager demands upon the government to present in parliament documents explaining the grounds for its action, so that the country shall be no longer in doubt as to what provocation the government has received. Questions as to how it will be possible to enforce the payment of Great Britain's demands upon Venezuela without costly military operations, and whether even the occupation of the capital of that country would achieve the desired result are being asked.

While it is recognized that President Castro has nothing to lose and that the Venezuelans are incensed at the sinking of their ships, and may set aside their internal dissensions and make stout resistance, hoping for some assistance from the United States or France, much gratitude is expressed at Minister Bowen's prompt intervention in behalf of the British and German residents. Considerable alarm is expressed at the possible fate of British subjects, not only in the coast towns but in the interior of Venezuela.

Through all the editorial articles published this morning there runs a strong vein of hope more or less openly expressed that the United States will interfere in some way to secure an adjustment of the difficulty acceptable to both sides, either by arbitration or other means, and thus avoid hostilities.

As Viewed at Washington

Washington, Dec. 12.—It is an interesting fact that up to this point the state department has not undertaken to recognize the limitations that might be placed on American commerce in case of a Venezuelan blockade. The German government last year sought to secure an understanding on this point, but the state department simply recorded the views of that government without either accepting or rejecting them, so that our hands are free.

Acting under cabled instructions received yesterday from their home offices, German Ambassador Von Holleben and British Ambassador Herbert presented to the state department the thanks of their governments for the services of Minister Bowen in securing the release of the German and British subjects arrested by President Castro.

Very little in the way of direct instructions has been received by either the German or British ambassador from their governments on the Venezuelan situation in the last few days. They have been directed to assure the state department that neither Great Britain nor Germany intends to depart in any particular from the plan of joint action against Venezuela, which was drawn up in London and Berlin and submitted to the state department some weeks ago.

Mr. Pulido, Venezuela's charge d'affaires, has received no confirmation from his government of the sinking of the Venezuelan gunboats by the foreign fleet of La Guaira and he says:

"I confess I am unable to see what the foreign powers mean by sinking my country's little gunboats, which are scarcely more than yachts compared to the foreign men-of-war. I do not understand it for the reason that assurances have been given only in the last day or two that the blockade established was to be a 'peace blockade.' I regard the sinking of the gunboats as absolutely unwarranted. It will be found that the situation has been gravely complicated thereby."

Bowen Praised In Germany

Berlin, Dec. 12.—Minister Bowen has suddenly become famous in Germany. The newspapers applaud his prompt intervention in favor of the Germans and British at Caracas.

The foreign office now understands that the press report that all the persons arrested were subsequently released is correct, but the officials here are entirely ignorant of what has transpired since Tuesday. If President Castro has replied to the German and British ultimatums, his reply is still in course of transmission to Germany.

Italian Warship Gets Rush Order

Halifax, Dec. 12.—The commander of the Italian warship Carlo Alberto, now at Sydney, C. B., received orders yesterday from the Italian government to proceed at once with all possible speed to Venezuela to protect the Italian subjects there. The Carlo Alberto sailed last night. This will retire Marconi's experiments for the present.

Judge Repudiates Union Oath

Glens Falls, N. Y., Dec. 12.—In the trial of the Glens Falls riot cases yesterday an effort was made by the counsel for the defense to impeach the character of a witness on the ground that the witness had violated the oath to his union by returning to work before the strike was settled. Judge Jenkins held that any oath the witness might have taken in the premises was improper and not binding upon him.

A Little Chinese Republic

Munich, Dec. 12.—Poultney Bigelow, addressing the Geographical society last night on East Asian politics and commerce, advocated making Shanghai a republic, free from consular or other official meddling. He said that what was good in Shanghai was due to the energy of the self-governing merchants, principally Americans and British, who for 50 years had taken care of themselves and built up a great seaport.

An Encouraging View

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Dr. Law of Cornell Veterinary college, who has been working in conjunction with the federal authorities for the suppression of foot and mouth disease among the cattle of New England, arrived in Ithaca from New England yesterday. In an interview he stated that the disease was well under control and that the authorities had not yet arrived at conclusions as to the origin.

Havana to Santiago by Rail

Santiago, Dec. 12.—The arrival here last evening of the first regular through train from Havana was the cause of a great celebration in Santiago. Thousands of people assembled at the depot here to meet the train, fireworks were set off and there was much enthusiasm. The railroad officials were entertained at a banquet last night.

Good Spot For Bear Hunters

Port Henry, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Bears are reported to be very numerous in the Adirondacks this winter. Old trappers say that so many have not been seen in years.

Dock Laborers Going Out

Marseilles, Dec. 12.—At a referendum taken here yesterday the dock laborers decided in favor of a strike. The Dock Laborers' union numbers about 3600 men.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A silver Elizabethan saltcellar of the date of 1577, weighing nine ounces, was sold at auction at London for $15,000.

A receiver has been appointed for the Otter Creek Coal and Lumber company of Tucker county, W. Va., upon the application of the Meyer Rubber company of New York. Over $500,000 is involved.

The postoffice department has advanced 158 fourth-class postmasters to the presidential class. The only advancements in New England are the offices at Simsbury, Conn., and Castleton and Batesburg, Vt.

The Vermont senate reconsidered the vote by which it passed the bill forbidding state officers to accept railroad passes, and killed the bill, a similar bill having been previously killed in the house.

Judge William W. Leach of the district court of Eastern Hampden died at his home at Palmer, Mass., after a brief illness. He was born at Monson, Mass., in 1856.

The senate has confirmed the appointments of E. S. Bishop as United States marshal for the district of Connecticut, and of Ellery H. Wilson as collector of customs at Providence.

THE ODD PENNIES.

For the sake of saving odd pennies do not buy an inferior emulsion of cod-liver oil when you really need Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion costs more to buy because it costs more to make.

The difference in price is pennies. The difference in results is pounds—pounds of flesh—and days of new strength and comfort.

The consumptive and others who have lost flesh get more cod-liver oil into their systems by means of Scott's Emulsion than in any other way.

OBJECTIONS OF DEFENSE

Overruled When Police Inspectors Gave Testimony Against Blondin

Boston, Dec. 12.—Witnesses in the Blondin trial yesterday told the jury what the defendant said at the time of his arrest in New York as to the disappearance of Mrs. Blondin. He claimed to them that she disappeared at the South Terminal station in Boston, while he went to buy a ticket for Providence for her. Police inspectors of New York and Boston gave the most importance evidence and counsel for Blondin time and again had objections to the admissions of evidence by them overruled.

The government in the order of presenting witnesses showed that it was gathering up the ends of different lines of evidence as if in preparation for a quick close of its side of the case.

The defense is now handicapped by the illness of John H. Morrison, the senior counsel. Cross-examination is being done by his brother-in-law, James F. Owens of Lowell, who was accepted as associate counsel early in the week. Whether Blondin will take the stand in his own behalf is not yet known, for the defense has given out no information as to its line of defense.

Money For Strike Commission

Washington, Dec. 12.—The senate yesterday passed, with several amendments, the bill fixing the compensation of the anthracite coal strike commission and it now goes to conference. It allows the members of the commission who are not in the civil or military service of the government the lump sum of $4000 for their service. The expenses of the commissioners and the assistant recorders were fixed at $10 per day instead of $15, and leaving the question of the amount of salary to the assistant recorders and employes to the commission.

Twenty-Seven Deaths, Three Births

Colon, Dec. 12.—The Colombian gunboat Presidente Marroquin, with over 1000 government troops on board, reached Cartagena Dec. 8, after a passage of three days from Colon. An accident to the gunboat's machinery accounted for the slow trip. The troops on board suffered greatly from lack of water and food. There were 27 deaths among them during the three days, and there were three births among the soldiers' wives on board the gunboat.

A Railroad Protective Bureau

Chicago, Dec. 12.—All barriers against the organization of the most powerful railroad protective bureau in the history of railroading were removed yesterday when the Western Passenger association decided to acquire membership in the proposed bureau. The work of the bureau will be in charge of a detective agency and will consist of watching and running down ticket forgers and manipulators throughout the entire country.

Reciprocity Advocates Adjourn

Detroit, Dec. 12.—The delegates to the national reciprocity convention yesterday adopted resolutions reaffirming the resolutions adopted at the first convention of this league at Chicago, which embrace in their scope the general principle of reciprocity and the establishment of liberal, fair trade relations with all the nations of the world. The convention adjourned sine die.

Wiping Out Form of Hazing

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 12.—At a meeting of the sophomore class of Princeton university yesterday it was decided that the custom of snowballing freshmen should be abolished and that the practice of having the freshmen read Greek and Latin translations for the sophomores during examination periods should also cease.

McKeever Goes Free

London, Dec. 12.—John McKeever, who was charged with the murder of John Kensit, the anti-Ritualistic crusader, has been acquitted. Kensit was injured Sept. 25 and died Oct. 8. A coroner's jury held McKeever on the charge of having thrown a chisel at Kensit, the blow from which killed the crusader.

Naval Officer Court Martialed

Manila, Dec. 12.—Lieutenant Commander Rooney, who was in command of the U. S. S. Frolic when that vessel ran aground recently near Cebu, is being tried by court martial at Cavite. It is alleged that Rooney's negligence caused the accident.

Four More Vessels Wrecked

St. Johns, Dec. 12.—Furious storms continue to sweep the Newfoundland coast. Four more schooners have been lost, one with her entire crew of 10 persons. Other vessels have been driven to sea and are believed to be in great danger.

Young Vanderbilt Very Sick

New York, Dec. 12.—At the home of Cornelius Vanderbilt, who is ill with typhoid fever, it is stated that the patient is "getting along as well as can be expected." Dr. Flint says the crisis has not yet passed.

American Whipped Englishman

London, Dec. 12.—In a fight at the Adelphi club here last night for $1000 and the lightweight championship, Spike Sullivan, American, defeated Bill Chester of London in the 14th round.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Saturday, Dec. 13.
Sun rises—7:05; sets—4:12.
Moon sets—4:59 a. m.
High water—9:15 a. m.; 9:45 p. m.

Low temperature prevails throughout the northern tier of states from the Atlantic to the Rocky mountains, the temperature ranging from 6 to 36 degrees below the seasonal average. There will be snow in New England, heavy in the southern portion.

PURE BLOOD

Necessary to Life.
Vinol Makes it.

POOR BLOOD CAUSES ERUPTIONS AND WEAKNESS.

Vinol Makes Pure, Rich, Red Blood.

BECAUSE WE KNOWN THIS WE GUARANTEE ITS ACTION.

Impoverished blood is a sure sign of internal disorders. We see every day too many people whose faces plainly show that there is something radically wrong.

We want all of our fellow-citizens to know of our splendid blood purifier and blood maker.

We refer to Vinol.

Vinol, as we have before stated, is a purely scientific preparation.

Vinol owes its virtue to the fact that it contains in a highly concentraced state the active curative principles, taken from the livers of live cods—the same elements that formerly were found in cod-liver oil, and which made it famous.

Vinol does not contain the grease or fat that characterized cod-liver oil and made it in many cases worthless.

Vinol acts upon every one of the great vital organs, and by invigorating and giving them strength, enables them to properly perform their functions.

Vinol's effect on the stomach is marvelous. It tones up this, the greatest of the organs of the body, and enables it to obtain from the food which is taken into it the necessary elements to create flesh and muscle tissue, bone structure and pure, rich, red blood.

We are in receipt of a letter from a Savation Army woman which reads as follows:

"I took Vinol after a bad attack of grippe, and so much good did it do me that I persuaded my sister to take it. She was all tired out. Had no appetite and her blood was very poor. It did her as much good as it did me."—BETSY HABERSHAW, 718 River St., Fall River, Mass.

Won't you please come in and see us? We are always glad to extol the merits of Vinol.

We will give you back your money if you don't find Vinol will do all we claim it will. Could any one do more for you?

The Social Realm.

Make new friends, but keep the old,
Those are silver, these are go'd,
New-made friends, like new wine,
Age will mellow and refine.
Friendships that have stood the test,
Time and change, are surely best.
Brow may wrinkle, hair turn gray,
Friendship never owns decay;
For 'mid old friends, kind and true,
We once more our youth renew.
But, alas! old friends must die—
New friends must their place supply;
Then cherish friendship in your breast,
New is good, but old is best.
Make new friends, but keep the old,
Those are silver, these are gold.

DRAMATIC ART.

Entertaining Papers at Meeting of the Unity Club.

The announcement of the subject "Dramatic Art, past and present," proved sufficient to fill the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church to overflowing at the fourth meeting last night of the Unity Club. The evening was replete with good things and the popularity of the drama was established beyond a doubt.

President Parlin introduced Mrs. Wellington Record as the director of the program. The opening number was the song, "How sweet the moonlight sleeps," sung with finished style by Mrs. Page, Mrs. King, Mr. Moulton and Mr. Wilde.

Dr. Record in a careful, succinct manner gave two vivid pictures of Shakespeare's life and the stage of the 16th century, his subject being "Skakespearean Drama and its setting. He spoke of the haze surrounding Skakespeare's life and the lack of positive knowledge regarding the great dramatist. It is well known that Stratford-on-Avon was his birthplace and home, that he went to London, became an actor at the Black Friars and later a play writer and finally that he was buried in his natal town.

The theatre of the time was clearly depicted with its wooden building open to the sky with galleries on three sides and boxes beneath. On the stage which had no curtain sat the great men the wits and dandies of London and in the pit, corresponding to our orchestra were the common people who stood up for tuppence.

In conclusion the speaker showed how great an influence literature and more particularly the drama had on England in the 16th century.

The club was treated to two scenes from "The Merry Wives of Winsor." Mrs. Simmons as Mistress Page and Mrs. Gurney as Mistress Ford entered into their parts with much humor and spirit.

Mr. Simmons as Jack Falstaff, the fat knight was capital; Mr. Gurney on short notice made a good page and Mr. Percy Bull helped to carry out the discomfited knight concealed in a clothes basket.

A popular song of the time "Greensheaves" was sung by Mrs. Page after which came the intermission.

At the opening of the second part of the program, Mrs. Page sang "Hark, hark the Lark."

"The American Play with its Environment" an interesting paper written by Mr. G. W. Bennett was read by Mrs. Bennett.

PICTURES OR STORIES

The writer dwelt upon the fact that no great American play has been written, the popularity of our plays depending on advertising and the personal skill of some one actor. A sketch was given of the drama from 1660 when the first American play was produced in London, up to the present day when problem plays on the social order are in style. In 1767 came the first play written, printed and staged in America. Mr. Bennett classified the plays as Indian, frontier, war, character, local and society; mentioning the popularity and heart touching qualities of our negro songs.

Of all our plays, the best type is perhaps "The Old Homestead," yet the great play has yet to be written. New dramatic writers are at present discouraged by the so-called theatrical trust, which controls the theatres and the best actors of the country. Not for art's sake, but the almighty dollar for my sake, is the policy of the manager today.

"A Mouse Trap" by Mrs. Burton Harrison, was presented in a charming manner by Mr. and Mrs. Gurney. The comedy was full of mirth-provoking situations, well taken by the actors. The audience of about 175 were sorry when the curtain was drawn. There will be no meeting until Jan. 9, owing to the holidays.

Another Steel Schooner.

Following quite closely on the construction of the seven-masted steel schooner, it is announced that a steel six-masted schooner will be built at Quincy. This, it is to be hoped, says the Herald, editorially, is the beginning of a practically new industry on this coast—the building of steel sailing vessels for the coasting trade. The great majority of our coasting schooners, practically all in fact, are wooden vessels. The question arose when our two-wooden six-masters were launched whether the limit of wooden vessels was not thus reached.

With ships as long as the proposed new six-master, almost 340 feet on deck, steel is a much better material for construction than wood. Steel makes a lighter vessel, as well as a stronger one, and that means a larger cargo-carrying capacity on the same dimensions. As the size increases in these vessels, it is expected that the economy of operation will increase also, for more tons of cargo per man employed on the vessels can be carried.

Citizens of this country have a monopoly of our coasting trade, and if these steel coasting schooners prove good dividends payers, they will doubtless rapidly increase in number, thus taking the place of the larger wooden schooners, in which the rate of deterioation must be much greater than with steel ships.

The Quincy Mansion School.

It is cheerful to hear in the midst of this coal famine the good work done by different institutions. Among them is our own Quincy Mansion school which has not forgotten to be generous. They have just sent money to a school down South for a sewing machine and other things. A contribution to Edward Everett Hale for a Thanksgiving dinner to the poor, also to the Deaconess Home, and they have just completed a gift of one hundred dollars to the Quincy Hospital as a nucleus for a fund for the contagious ward. They have before contributed money for a bed in the Floating Hospital.

Coal Coming.

The barge loaded with hard coal for Patch & Son was reported yesterday at New Haven. She should arrive in Quincy not later than Monday.

Fidgety

people are lacking in nervous strength. The weak, care-worn, melancholy, headachy, and low-spirited men and women are easily excited, impatient, fidgety, and unable to sleep at night. Worn-out nerves must be built up, and the vitality of the whole system replenished before relief can come.

"The least bit of noise or sudden jar would nearly drive me crazy, and I was just too fidgety for anything. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. The first dose of Dr. Miles' Nervine brought me sleep, and after that I got well fast."
Mrs. A. R. MORRELL, Arcola, Ills.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

builds up the nerves, strengthens the brain, and fortifies and refreshes the whole system.

THRESHING OLD STRAW

Strike Commissioners Listen to Cumulative Testimony

BITUMINOUS MINERS' WAGES

From Forty to Fifty Percent Higher Than Those of Anthratite Workers, According to Mitchell's Figures—Testimony of House-Owning Miner

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 13.—The greater part of yesterday's sessions of the anthracite coal strike commission was taken up in presenting cumulative testimony on matters already heard. This testimony tended to show that there has been excessive docking; that many men were discriminated against because they went on strike rather than do the work of strikers; that they are paid one price for mine cars of all sizes; that they do not get paid for all the coal mined; that they should have the eight-hour day because the mines are unhealthy and dangerous; and that they ought to receive higher wages.

Late in the day President Mitchell was called to the stand and presented comparative figures which showed that men paid by the day receive from 40 to 50 percent higher wages in the bituminous regions than they do in the anthracite fields. His figures of the anthracite fields were gathered by his own officers, and a hurried comparison with the figures handed to the commission by the Delaware and Hudson company, he said, showed that his were generally higher.

President Mitchell was on the stand for an hour. He submitted the contract between the union and the soft coal operators in Illinois, which is somewhat similar to the contracts with the operators in Indiana, Ohio and western and central Pennsylvania, in all of which eight hours constitute a day's work. Later Mr. Torrey, for the Delaware and Hudson, announced that the figures his company handed up were found to contain many errors and that a correct set of statistics would be handed up later.

Mr. Mitchell gave a history of the efforts made by the union to prevent the late strike, all of which had been given to the public.

Chairman Gray asked Mr. Mitchell what was done by the miners to adjust grievances during the interval between the two great strikes and Mr. Mitchell replied that he knew of no company refusing to hold conferences with their own men, but he did know that in most cases the attempt to adjust grievances proved a failure. In some instances company officials refused to see district officers of the union.

Mr. Torrey and Mr. Mitchell entered into a colloquy as to the interpretation of the letters sent by the coal road presidents early last spring in reply to the union's invitation that the operators meet the miners in conference for the purpose of formulating a wage scale. Mr. Mitchell said they meant the companies would treat with their men individually.

"Then you have missed their spirit," said Mr. Torrey.

"Well, I know as much about them as you do," retorted Mr. Mitchell.

He further stated that the operators had refused the proposition for collective bargaining or collective agreements, but that Chairman Thomas of the Erie company, early in 1901, agreed to treat with his employes through a committee or representative. "The men have the same right," he concluded, "to employ a representative to speak for them as the company has to engage you or any other lawyer to speak for it."

"That's all very proper and bright," retorted Mr. Torrey, "but it does not fit the case."

General Wilson, before Mr. Mitchell left the stand, asked him what was the initial cause of the strike and he replied that it originated with the men because they thought they had grievances, and that conventions were called by the district officers at their request.

August Baker, a miner employed at Hazelbrook, said he lived in a company house for which he paid $4.75 a month. He built a cellar under his house, for which the company allowed him one month's rent. He moved into another house and dug a cellar under that, but the company would not give him a month's rent for the improvement, for the reason he should have stayed in the first house. He testified that when it rains occupants of these houses are compelled to place tubs and dish pans on the second floor to catch the water from the roof. He said there was no road into Hazelbrook and that undertakers refuse to go there and tradesmen refuse to send goods into the town. The only way to get into the place is by railroad. The superintendent of the colliery told him that if he expected to work, he must deal in the company store. Prices for most articles were double the price charged in Hazleton.

Cross-examination brought out statements from the witness that he owned a house which brought him $15 a month. Mr. Dickson read from the company's payroll to show that last year Baker earned over $800, and that his two sons, who were also working at the colliery, increased these earnings to more than $1500.

Rise In Oil Prices

Lima, O., Dec. 13.—There was an advance yesterday in all the oil markets except that in the Ragland, Ky., field, a new one. The advance in the Lima fields was 2 cents and in the eastern 3.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Retail Business Shows Large Gains but Wholesale Trade Is Quiet

New York, Dec. 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: As industrial peace is essential to national prosperity, the week has been most fruitful. The annual meeting of the Civic Federation brought together labor leaders and capitalists and facilitated interchange of opinions. Little friction occurred and there is every prospect that hereafter amicable adjustment of most disputes will be reached.

Lower temperature and holiday demands have combined to accellerate retail trade, sales largely exceeding the corresponding week in preceding years. Much postponed business is being made up, and shipping departments are crowded with work, but wholesale trade has ruled quiet.

Small supplementary orders for spring shoes are received by New England shops, but the season is practically over. Buyers are urgent for delivery on early contracts and factories are now fully engaged.

Conditions are practically unchanged as to cotton goods, a fair volume of orders preventing accumulation at the mills. Quotations are steady.

Woolen goods for next fall have been opened at an average advance of from 5 to 10 percent.

Tug Wrecked In Gale

Rockland, Me., Dec. 13.—The new ocean tug Astral, owned by the Standard Oil company and used in towing oil barges up and down the coast, was totally wrecked on Mount Desert Rock during the gale of Monday night. One life was lost and the crew of the tug are now being cared for by the keeper of Mount Desert Rock light. Word of the disaster was brought in last night by the crew of barge No. 76, which was being towed by the Astral. The barge was towed in by the revenue cutter Woodbury.

Hot Politics In Hayti

Port Au Prince, Dec. 13.—The chamber of communes finished the elections of senators yesterday and the national assembly will now have a session to elect a new president of the republic. Seneque Pierre's election is assured in case General Nord, the war minister, does not oppose him. General Nord will enter the capital with his army tomorrow. Considerable excitement prevails here.

Athlete Crippled For Life

New York, Dec. 13.—Charles C. Gladwin, one of the leading athletes of Canada and the champion snowshoer of the world, left Bellevue hospital yesterday crippled for life as a result of the explosion of fireworks in Madison Square on election night. Gladwin had both legs broken, but resisted the advice of the surgeons that he consent to have both legs amputated.

Police and Strikers Clash

Marseilles, Dec. 13.—The first collision between strikers and the police occurred yesterday. Several persons on both sides were injured as an outcome of an attempt by strikers to destroy the track in front of a car loaded with coal, which was being sent to the port. Cordons of troops now guard all approaches to the port and disperse all assemblages.

Wouldn't Work on Saturdays

Washington, Dec. 13.—Assistant Secretary Ailes has disposed of the case of Elmer Pettiford, a colored clerk in the treasury department and a Seventh Day Adventist, who refused to work Saturdays, by transferring him to an office where he will be reduced from $1200 to $720 a year, and paid only for the time actually employed.

Experimental Stage Passed

Washington, Dec. 13.—A special report to the war department in regard to the recent official trials of the submarine torpedo boats Adder and Moccasin says that these trials are thought to be sufficient to show clearly that such boats hereafter must be taken into account as a practical and useful element of seacoast defense.

Laborers Wanted Their Wages

Franklin Falls, N. H., Dec. 13.—Quite a stir was created at the office of Paymaster Greenleaf here yesterday by 50 Italians who had been employed by Greenleaf & Doring, and who wanted their wages. The firm assigned two weeks ago. Police officers finally quieted the men.

Nebraska City In a Tight Place

Nebraska City, Neb., Dec. 13.—The entire city was again cut off from its water supply yesterday and once more is without fire protection. That portion of the river bed from which the water supply was formerly pumped is now a sandbar. The situation is considered most critical.

Princeton Beats Harvard In Debate

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 13.—The ninth annual Princeton-Harvard debate, held last night, was won by Princeton. Harvard proved strong in her first speeches, but failed to successfully rebut her opponents on argument.

Five Thousand Witnessed Hanging

Harlan, Ky., Dec. 13.—Frank Lewis was hanged yesterday in the presence of 5000 people, for the murder of his father-in-law, Henry Dixon. The men had quarreled over the separation of Lewis and his wife.

Outsiders Cannot Regulate Affairs of Pennsylvania

HUMAN FREEDOM DISCUSSED

By Coal Operators' Spokesman, Who Indirectly Replies to Those Who Advocate Amendment of Constitution So Far as It Applies to Mining

New York, Dec. 13.—At the Pennsylvania society dinner last night President Baer of the Reading railroad spoke on "Pennsylvania Theories of Government." He declared that the chief theory of Pennsylvania government was liberty directly applied to the individual in his right to work, unhampered by others.

"Pennsylvania's history is a part of the history of the whole nation," said Mr. Baer. "Independence was always in Pennsylvania. Valley Forge and Gettysburg are in Pennsylvania. They are abiding monuments of Pennsylvania's devotion to human freedom."

Mr. Baer referred to the first constitutional convention held in Philadelphia in 1776, and followed by reading the preamble of the Declaration of Independence, emphasizing the passages which decelared the equality of man and his right to protection by the government. He dwelt at length on the enforcement of guaranteed rights, and said that the protection and encouragement given individual energy had developed the great natural resources of Pennsylvania.

"Another principle which the people of the state have ever safeguarded," said he, "is the explicit right of regulating and governing the internal policies of the state. Whether we know it or not, there is a day when the grand old idea of autonomy, which has ever been held in this country, may be taken from us."

Mr. Baer said that recently there had been expressions of desire in certain parts of the country on the part of certain people to undertake the power of regulating the affairs of Pennsylvania. "But I am glad to say," he continued, "their efforts will be vain. There is a constitutional limitation which, if it is not respected by the masses, will be protected. There is a tribunal, the great, true, unbiased tribunal—the supreme court of the United States—which will protect the citizens and the state of Pennsylvania in their sovereignty during the cry for the seizure of lands within the state. That great tribunal will protect the citizens of Pennsylvania under the protection guaranteed in the constitution.

"And if in all this excitement of the people, if in their unsettled state it should be deemed necessary to amend the constitution to gain ends which its present limitations forbid, then the wise provisions of that same constitution will make the process of amendment so slow that the people will be given time to meditate. There will be no day in which the constitution will be amended by men who do not understand the fundamental principles of free government."

"First Blood" For Sumner

Washington, Dec. 13.—Admiral Dewey announces the opening of the fleet maneuvers as follows: "The combined squadrons are now assembled off Culebra engaged in maneuvers. The search problem is completed, the squadrons under Rear Admiral Sumner having been successful." Forty men-of-war are participating in the exercises, which will continue until some time in January.

Rains Hurt Iowa's Crops

Des Moines, Dec. 13.—The final report on the yield and the value at current prices of the Iowa crop of 1902 indicates that the rains of the past season were more disastrous than the drouth of 1901. The total value of the crops is placed at $215,722,349, or $60,000,000 less than the value of the crop of 1901. The greatest falling off is in corn.

No Evidence of Foul Play

New York, Dec. 13.—The report of the coroner's physician in the case of Mrs. Sarah A. Waters, who died ou Thursday at the age of nearly 100, and over whose will there is a contest, does not support the theory that she was the victim of foul play. The autopsy revealed conditions which indicate that death resulted from natural causes.

Children Burned to Death

Washington, Dec. 13.—Edward and Olive Thompkins, colored, 4 and 2 years old respectively, were burned to death yesterday in a fire that destroyed a house in Hillsdale. The children were alone in the house. Rosa Prue, with whom they were left in charge, was arrested.

REAL ESTATE.

American Tube Co. to Move to Braintree.

Negotiations Pending That Will Involve Millions.

Never Before Such a Demand for South Shore Property---Other Big Projects.

Never in the history of the South shore, has there been such a demand for real estate for improvement as at present. In fact, ever since the Fore River Ship and Engine Company located its plant in Quincy, it has seemed that every manufacturing concern of note in this part of the country has been desirous of getting a location in this section. The result is that negotiations are now pending for the transfer of property in Braintree and Quincy, which will involve, including the new plants to be erected, over $3,000,000.

From time to time brief rumors have been current that the American Tube Company, located at Somerville, was to move its plant away from that city. That this rumor has foundation is apparent from the fact that Frank F. Crane, the well-known real estate broker in Quincy, has just sold to the American Tube Company a tract of some 46 acres of land, having nearly a mile of water frontage and located just across the Quincy line in Braintree where they propose building a new plant which will cost in the neighborhood of nearly $1,000,000 above the land.

OVER FORTY ACRES.

The property purchased was in two parcels, some 26 acres in one, and 16 acres in another. The larger parcel was owned by the Fore River Real Estate Trust, and is known as the "Seven Oaks," while the other portion is known as Hayward's Grove, being owned by H. F. McIntire and Swithin Bros.

* * * *

It is the intention of the American Tube Company to erect one of the most comprehensive and complete plants of this kind in the United States, so much so that over $1,000,000 will be spent in the new buildings, etc.

The American Tube Company will give employment to over 1000 men, and it is the intention to run both of the plants, although at some future time the Somerville plant will be abandoned and the real estate sold.

The work of getting the property in shape is now being carried on, and it is the intention of the American Tube company to take formal possession of the property Jan. 1.

No real estate transaction in this section has created such a furore since the location of the Fore River Ship and Engine company. And not only has this important transaction been negotiated and closed, but Hon. William B. Rice of Rice & Hutchins has just purchased some 50 acres situated on Quincy avenue in Quincy. This is also the street on which the property purchased by the American Tube company is located.

The large purchase by Mr. Rice is what is known as the Paul Wild estate and is but a few minutes from the large purchase of the American Tube company. Just what significance the purchase by Mr. Rice has, at present is not known, but it is stated that it is in the interest of another large manufacturing plant.

* * * *

The closing of another transaction of some 11 acres on Shaw street, Braintree, has just been effected, the purchaser being H. F. McIntire, while the grantor is T. A. Watson et al. This property is also located near the large plants already mentioned above and is known as Fore River Terrace. As will be seen, the sale of considerable property in this section will naturally mean a most remarkable development.

Not only are these transactions just closed, but Mr. Crane, the broker in the sale to the Fore River Ship and Engine company, and also who just sold the American Tube Company its location is now closing another large deal, which will comprise over 100 acres.

RAILROAD DOCKS.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad company is also negotiating for a large tract of land in this section, but for what use the property is secured is not made known at this time, but it is hinted that the company proposes to build a line of docks.

A contract for the building of a new and elegant steamer to be added to the Fall River Line, which it is estimated will be the largest pleasure craft in the world, has just been awarded by the New York, New Haven & Hartford R R company to the Fore River Ship and Engine Company, and the contract price is said to be over $1,000,000. There is also a large freight steamer for the road to be made.

We Do Not Have to Play a Searchlight

on ourselves as prophets, for the outcome of the trades we offered last Fall now speak for themselves.

You can't buy the lots on these properties of their present owners excepting at a BIG ADVANCE.

Why? Simply because they bought land in East Braintree at the right time; they have good trades and they know it.

Fore River City!

You think that name some way ahead? Not so far as you think.

East Braintree about the Fore River is destined to build up and grow and boom in a way that is not comprehended by most people.

Call it FORE RIVER CITY, RUSH CITY or whatever you like, it is the place to invest in land today, and means good, hard cold dollars to the man with the foresight, the nerve and the little money required to buy some land of us.

We own one more tract----we bought it low and will sell it right so that there will be a big thing in it for you; it is called Fore River Terrace!

Located on Shaw street, easy walk to Shipbuilding Plant and only four or five minutes to new Tube Works' location. It is a picture in itself, sloping and smooth, beautiful and sightly; water and electric lights, near schools and churches, steam and electrics; built up all around.

IT IS A WINNER FROM THE DROP OF THE HAT!

This property will be on the market in a few days, and if you wish to make some good money and make it QUICK, buy some of these lots.

If you don't buy these, buy some others; but whatever you do, OWN SOME LAND IN EAST BRAINTREE.

Good Afternoon.

The city of Quincy already enjoys the proud distinction of being the only municipality in the country which has been the birthplace of two Presidents of these United States, John Adams and John Quincy Adams .

Two other members of this distinguished family have also been candidates for Vice President—Charles Francis Adams, a son and grandson, in 1848; and John Quincy Adams, a grandson and great grandson, in 1872.

The city of Quincy was also the birthplace of another favored son, who has distinguished himself as mayor of Boston, and on the National Democratic Committee, the Hon. Josiah Quincy, who is now a resident of Boston.

Now, Mr. Quincy is mentioned as the next Democratic candidate for President, and is well endorsed in a letter in another column. Our city might not be able to contain itself should the "lightning strike here" for a third time.

But five States can boast of that they have been the birthplace of two Presidents, and Virginia and Ohio are the only ones with more than two.

Josiah Quincy was born in Quincy Oct. 15, 1859, and prepared for college at Adams academy.

It is an interesting fact, and not generally known, perhaps, that Josiah Quincy, and Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, were classmates at Harvard University, graduating in 1880. There were many points in common between them. They began life at about the same time, sprang from distinguished stock, were inspired by honorable traditions, possess marked intellectual ability, and, when they were graduated at Cambridge, practically had equal opportunities for making a name.

Both men sought public service in municipal, State and national fields. Mr. Roosevelt was a member of the New York Leislature; Mr Quincy was a member of the Massachusetts Legislature. Mr. Roosevelt was an assistant secretary in Washington; so, also, was Mr. Quincy. Mr. Roosevelt was a police commissioner and a candidate for mayor in New York; Mr. Quincy was mayor of Boston. Mr. Roosevelt was governor of New York; Mr. Quincy has been a candidate for governor of Massachusetts. Rarely have two men had such similar public experiences so far as the outlines of their official records is concerned.

It is curious to note that, in spite of the similarity of their political careers, Quincy and Roosevelt were of dissimilar tastes in college, although good friends and appreciative of each other's excellent qualities. Roosevelt was the superlatively active athlete; Quincy the quiet and cultured student. Roosevelt was intensely social and jovial in character; Quincy reserved and retiring. Each was a leader in his special sphere, and of each a promising future was foretold by those who best knew them.

The paths of public life have often brought Mr. Quincy and Mr. Roosevelt into contact, with the two classmates have never lost their mutual respect. The story is told that soon after Mr. Roosevelt was elected Governor of New York, he met Mr. Quincy and the latter congratulated him on his new honors. Whereupon the governor remarked, with his illuminating smile: "You happen to be a Democrat and live in a Republican State. Had our positions been reversed I might now be congratulating you. Always select a favorable environment."

BIG SNOW FALL.

Another Severe Northeaster Today Likely to Cause Blockades.

Quincy is experiencing another northeast snow storm today and if it keeps on all day with the fierceness with which it started in this morning it will be hard travelling by night. The snow is not heavy but the wind that accompanied it caused it to drift.

The street railway proved a good landing place for the snow and the street railway employes had hard work to keep the lines open. The big ploughs were sent out early this morning and their constant service was required. The handling of the snow storms is under the direction of Assistant Superintendent Conway, who is an expert in this line of work and can be depended upon to keep cars moving if possible.

Wonderful Machine.

The inventive genius is ever at work producing machinery that will not only do the work always heretofore done by hand, but to do it quicker, better and cheaper.

For years the art of engraving has been one which had defied the brain of the inventor. Now, however, the hand engraver may have to take a back seat and give way to a machine that will do his work.

Such a machine T. L. Williams has just installed in his jewelry store. The machine is apparently quite complicated but when its workings are understood it seems simple. With this machine it is possible to engrave anything from a flat surface to an initial on the inner surface of a ring.

Its scope is such that letters an inch and a half in height may be cut, or it can go to the other extreme and engrave the Lord's prayer on a surface an eigth of an inch square. It does not confine itself to letters alone, for figures, ornaments, or in fact anything desired is possible.

The machine is constructed on the plan of a pantograph. On a table in front of the machine the letters, or whatever it is desired to produce, are set. Back of this is placed the article to be engraved. By a system of thumb screws, the article can be placed at any angle desired.

When the article to be engraved, and the letters to be reproduced, are placed in position, both of which operations are but the work of a moment, the engraving tool is set in one point of the pantograph and placed on the metal. With the other point the operator traces the letters to be engraved and the thing is done.

The shading of letters is obtained by the operator whose left hand rests upon a controling lever.

With the approach of the holidays, when it is desired to have spoons and other articles engraved, Mr. Williams will probably have plenty of work for his new machine.

Vespers at Wollaston.

Vesper music as the Wollaston Congregational church, Dec. 14th, at 4 o'clock is as follows:

"Fear not O Israel," Max Spicket
Trio from "Messe Sollendelle," Rossinni
Soprano solo with violin accompaniment, Selected
Trio, "O Paradise," Leslie

The quartette will have the assistance of Mrs. Whitman of Boston, violinist.

The minister will speak of the hymns translated by John Mason Neale out of the "Hora Novissima" of Bernard of Clury. The congregation will sing:

Neale's translation from Anatolius,
"The day is past and over;"

and his translation of "Jerusalem the Golden."

Winter.

Vaudeville tonight.

Almost warm enough to rain.

Less than two weeks to Christmas.

Snow is also predicted for Sunday.

Not a favorable day for the vaudeville matinee.

First church is putting in a supply of soft coal today.

Dr. Lewis Pease has taken the position of permanent physician at the Fore River Engine Works.

George W. Jones has a big holiday announcement in this issue. His specialties for Christmas are neckwear, umbrellas, slippers, gloves, suspenders, etc.

Ladies find Miss C. S. Hubbard's a good place to obtain acceptable Christmas presents.

The Gleaners Circle of King's Daughters will hold its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. H. T. Whitman Monday next at half past two P. M.

That Wollaston is a healthy village is shown by the presence Friday night of four of the local doctors at a social entertainment.

It is not a rare sight to see Wollaston men unloading coal from hired vehicles into their cellars, during these days of the coal famine.

Why isn't the topmast of the Wollaston flagpole housed for the winter. In its present place this windy weather, it is a menace to travellers.

As the first snow storm occured Nov. 23, it is predicted Quincy will have 23 this winter. This is the fourth or fifth.

The F. D. Fellows Co. are prepared to do a driving Christmas trade. All should dress warm this winter.

Miss Lillian K. Bates has been confined to her home on Winthrop avenue this week, suffering from a temporary illness.

The Wollaston children are wondering what streets they may slide down this winter. Wednesday a crowd of them were sent away from the vicinity of the stores by the local officer.

The ladies who have to be out in snowstorms, are asking why the commissioner waits until the storm is over before starting out the plows. It would not be disagreeable being out if there were good paths. Keep the plows going.

Commissioner Knowlton had not put his snow ploughs at work up to noon as he believed the delivery of the coal and wood orders of the relief committee to be of more importance than ploughing out the side-walks.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Y. P. R. U. which was postponed last Sunday on account of no light and heat will be held in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock. Mr. F. E. Parlin will be the speaker. The old as well as the young people are cordially welcome to these meetings.

The missionary barrel recently sent to the colored people at the South, by the Woman's guild of St. Chrysostom's church, was valued at $31.15. The committee in charge suggest that those who were unable to contribute articles for the barrel, might help by sharing the freight charges, which amount to about $1.

The new psalters will be introduced Sabbath morning and hereafter used in the morning service at the United Presbyterian church. Some of the members of the choir will assist in the music at the dedication of the new U. P. church tomorrow at Brockton at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. John Heslip, pastor.

Braintree Pine Tree Club.

Tuesday evening the Pine Tree club held its second meeting of the season at Odd Fellows' Hall. Owing to the inclemency of the weather together with the uncertainty of electric car fluid but a small number assembled. The president and 1st vice president being absent Mr. Oakes Bridgham in behalf of the 2d vice president called the meeting to order and invited Mr. Artemas S. Pennock to take the position behind the desk.

After accepting the honor in a few well chosen words and deploring the absence of the members especially those who were expected to contribute to the evening's enjoyment. Mr. Pennock announced a song by Miss Cora Lang with Miss Mary Foss pianist. Miss Lang rendered a cradle song in rich, clear tones and with perfect enunciation. A recall was responded to by a coon song called "Mighty lak a rose."

Mr. Ellis then read two poems entitled "To the Pacific," and "The Maine" by a young daughter of Maine now a resident of the Pacific coast. Mr. Ellis then spoke at some length upon the subject of music especially of the oratorio kind and suggested forming a choral society to make a study of music of that high order. There being no enthusiastic male singers present the subject was postponed until some future time.

Mr. Pennock then told an anecdote in his inimitable manner after which Miss Lang sung "My Rosary" with such telling effect she was obliged to repeat the selection.

Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern responded to an invitation to speak by saying that a friend of his lately returned from the West brought tales of a precocious infant. This child at the tender age of ten days was taken suddenly ill. The doctor, after looking at the child said he could do nothing for him. "What," exclaimed the anxious mother, "must my little one die? Cannot you do something for him?" "Absolutely nothing," responded the doctor. Upon this the child opened its eyes and looking at the physician said "Absolutely nothing?" Mr. Crathern said that many called this an incredible tale, perhaps many among those present think so. "But what," he added, "would you expect a child ten days old to say?" "Absolutely nothing," Mr. Pennock replied.

After the preamble Mr. Crathern stated that he had absolutely nothing to say and to substantiate the statement he talked, and talked, and talked. He spoke about music rolling down the ages,—about the power of song and its effect upon the soul—about burying musical talent rather than work to strengthen it. He gave a tribute to the rendering of "My Rosary." But—the aroma of coffee filling the air caused intellectual entertainment to give place to physical gratification. Dainty refreshments daintily served closed the evening's program.

The following members were chosen committee for the next meeting: Mr. and Mrs. Horace Drinkwater, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mayhew.

Miss Waldron.

The funeral of Miss Bertha H. Waldron was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her parents at 34 Granite street. Rev. Ellery C. Butler of the First church officiated. After the services the remains were taken to Mt. Wollaston cemetery for burial. The bearers were Henry Miller, Parker Boadman, Walter Ela and William Richards There were many beautiful flowers.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of Patrick J. Barry for larceny at Quincy, was called and again continued until Dec. 27.

The liquors seized from Patrick J. Fogarty of Weymouth were forfeited.

NOW HAS SURPLUS.

The Fore River Company Has Bonded Its Floating Debt.

Again it is evident that the shipyard at Quincy is a big concern, as a mortgage for $2,000,000, to the Adams Trust Co. of Boston, was recorded at the County registry this week. With the proceeds of these bonds the Fore River works will be left without floating debt, and will have a large cash surplus, so that it may be expected to rank in the future among the strongest manufacturing establishments in New England, in addition to being, what it has many times been called, the most modern shipbuilding plant, in methods and equipment, in the United States.

The mortgage is said to be the largest ever made on property contained wholly within Norfolk county. The purchasers of the bonds secured by this transaction, says the news Bureau, include a number of the best known financial and business men in Boston, all of whom are interested in stimulating the growth of New England shipping and shipbuilding. The new bondholders will be fully represented on the company's board of directors, the organization of which will be continued, however, under the presidency of Thomas A. Watson of Braintree, the founder of the works.

F. O. Wellington has been on a business trip west several days the past week.

Iron Gives Strength

No let-up of work, no freedom from household cares, close confinement in ill-ventilated rooms, offices and stores have made many women pale, tired and wornout, just as too much study and too little outdoor exercise have made many school children spindling and delicate. They have weakened the nerves, impaired digestion, upset nutrition, so that the blood has become watery and thin,—a result plainly seen in the colorless lips, cheeks and ears.

Too much responsibility, anxiety and worry have, in the same way, broken down the health of many busy men.

Now, what is needed by all these sufferers is iron, a natural constituent of healthy, strong and ruddy blood, as combined in the new iron tonic, Peptiron, which strengthens and colors the blood, nourishes and steadies the nerves, cures paleness, weakness, nervousness, dyspepsia and sleeplessness.

Peptiron combines iron in the best and most approved form with other great tonics and nutrients. Does not injure the teeth nor cause constipation.

Peptiron is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass.. U. S. A.

FOR PRESIDENT.

Writer Advocates a Native of Quincy, Mass.

Hon. Josiah Quincy, the ex-Mayor.

Belief That He Would Extend Public Ownership.

A writer to the People's Column of the Globe, signing himself "Cambridge," advocates a native of Quincy for President as follows:

"The letter in your valuable column, signed "Lynn," suggesting Josiah Quincy as the democratic presidential candidate in 1904 is worthy of thoughtful consideration of the leaders of the democratic party throughout the nation. No man more than Quincy represents the intelligent, progressive spirit of the times. A conservative radical, if that term may be used, all elements of the party could support him.

"Those who are inclined to see no good in either of the two great parties would rally to the support of him, because in his public career he has shown his deep interest, not by talk, but by action, in the welfare of the masses of the people. His interest in the people is sincere, because he inherits it; it was perfectly natural that he should, as mayor of Boston, provide baths, playgrounds, lectures and music for the people, as well as extending the principle of the direct employment of labor by creating a repair division, an electrical division and a printing plant, thus recognizing the principle of municipal ownership; by inheritance, because his great-grandfather, Josiah Quincy, the second mayor of Boston, erected the Quincy market, and his grandfather, Josiah Quincy, the 11th mayor, supplied the people with water by introducing the present municipal water supply, where formerly the people purchased the water from private corporations at exorbitant rates.

"The people want a gradual extension of municipal, state and national functions. The extension must be carried on by the democratic party, the party of the people; the leadership should be intrusted to a tried friend of the masses, an organizer in the best sense of the term, Josiah Quincy, the most progressive and practical man of the hour. All up for Quincy for President."

Street Railway to Widen.

Apropos the double tracking of the remainder of Hancock street, in this city, comes the news that Main street in Melrose will be widened by the street railway, if granted a double track location. The Herald reports that the committee on street railroads and public lighting gave a public hearing in the aldermanic chamber at Melrose last evening, on a plea of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Company for double tracks on Main street from Franklin street, Melrose Highlands, to Porter street. The aldermanic committee has arranged with the street railway that it must widen Main street between, Franklin and Porter streets to 60 feet before the committee would consider granting the double-track franchise.

Col. Charles F. Woodward, for the petitioners, said they were willing to widen Main street and would stand all the expense so that it would not cost the city one cent. G. P. Anderson, Capt. J. D. Whidden, Seth Benson and O. F. Frost spoke against granting the franchise fearing damage to property, and J. A. Hurd favored the Hesseltine street route. The committee will report to the aldermen Monday night.

BRIEF LOCALS.

Mr. Lewis Paine of South Weymouth has come to Quincy to live and will make his home with his son Elmer Paine.

At the Vesper service at the Wollaston Congregational church tomorrow promises to be especially good as a superior program is being prepared.

The "Whatsoever Circle" Kings Daughters will meet with Mrs. Victor Emery on Winthrop avenue Tuesday afternoon. Plans for Christmas are to be talked over.

The Boston, Quincy & Fall River Bicycle Railway Company has filed a petition to the General Court for extension of the time for constructing the railway and for authority to carry freight.

The trustees of the hospital have received $6.00 from the teachers and pupils of the Quincy Mansion school to be added to the fund for a contagious ward, for which their previous contribution of $94.00 formed the nucleus. This fund now amounts to $600.

With the near approach of the vacation and the cold weather, hundreds of Quincy young people are wondering if the City Council will appropriate money for the dam at Black's creek again this winter. The rink has proved such a popular success the past two years that a strong effort should be made to provide a skating pond for the young people this winter.

WELL ORGANIZED.

Six Assistant Superintendents of Bethany Sunday School.

The annual meeting of the Bethany church Sunday school was held last evening. Encouraging reports were received from the secretaries, and treasurer and other officers. The superintendent, E. W. Branch, who is elected by the church, presided.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Assistant superintendent Senior department,—W. E. Blanchard.

Intermediate department,—M. P. Hayward.

Primary department,—Mrs. George L. Badger and Mrs. W.G. Shaw.

Kindergarten department,—Miss Clara Merrill.

Home department, —Miss Mary Sampson.

Secretary,—H. P. Hayward.

Treasurer,—Charles Scammell.

Secretary and treasurer of primary department,—Miss Mabel Tanner.

Librarian,—Miss Lucy M. Jilson.

Assistants,— Charles Hayden, Miss May Langley.

Librarian of primary department,—Mrs. E. W. Branch.

At the conclusion of the business of the evening Rev. H. C. Alvord of South Weymouth gave an address on "Spiritual work in the Sunday School," which was much appreciated.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

John Adams chapter Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution will meet with Miss Pearl Leonard, Monatiquot avenue, Braintree, today.

Edgar Herbert Doble.

The death last week Friday at the City Hospital of Edgar Herbert Doble, after a brief illness of typhoid fever, removed from West Quincy a young man who was a general favorite with the young people of that section of the city, as well as one who was held in high esteem by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

Except when away at school he has always lived in Quincy, and he had come to be recognized as one of the future business men of the city. Just as he was ripening into manhood, cruel death claimed him for his own.

Graduating from the Quincy schools he went to Worcester academy and from there to the Cushing academy at Ashburnham. His education finished, he entered the store of A. H. Doble & Co. at South Quincy, and from there he went to his father's store at West Quincy, where he was employed when taken sick. He was removed to the City Hospital where all that was possible was done for him, but without avail.

His funeral was held Monday afternoon from his father's residence on Miller street. Many personal friends as well as business friends of his father, gathered about the bier to pay their last tribute. The services were brief and were conducted by Rev. David L. Martin, pastor of the West Quincy Methodist church.

During the services the Apollo male quartette sang, including two selected by the family, "Lead, kind light," and "Passing out of the shadow." The burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

The casket containing the remains was almost hidded beneath a mass of beautiful and fragrant flowers which mutely testified to his worth.

Among the flowers were: A basket of purple and white chrysanthemums and pinks, from his grandparents; wreath of pink roses from parents; pillow of pink and white pinks and roses from brother and sisters; bunch of violets from Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Doble; spray of pink roses and ferns from Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Doble; spray of pink pinks and ferns from Miss Carrie Heald; spray of pink and white pinks from Miss Eugenia Hatch; spray of roses from Mr. Bradstreet; wreath of white roses on stand of pinks from W. N. Eaton and family and H. W. Eaton; standing horseshoe of galyx leaves and white pinks, pink roses and lilies from his chums; bouquet of pinks and asparagus vine from Miss Marion Jackson, Frank Kemp and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hall; bouquet of white roses from Martin L. Hall & Co., wreath from Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Doble; mound from Mr. and Mrs. Timberlake; bouquet of white roses from Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Goldthwaite; white chrysanthemums from Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Teasdale; bouquets of pink and white pinks, pink roses and white roses from Mr. Rogers, Mrs. Hardy, Miss Clara Emery, Mr. and Mrs. Larkin and Miss Conlon; twenty-four white and twenty-four pink pinks from Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Dion.

Bouquet of American Beauty roses from Peter T. Fallon; standing wreath from H. F. Loud; standing wreath of roses, pinks and ferns from clerks of E. H. Doble & Co.: bouquet of pink roses from Dr. Hammond; wreath of white pinks, chrysanthemums and violets from Mr. Metcalf; bouquets of white mixed flowers, pink roses and pinks, white pinks, pink roses from Carey Bros., George Luce, Grace Turner, Dr. Henderson, T. J. Lamb and others.

☞ Mrs. Kate A. Hayden will hold a sale of dolls' clothes at Mrs. Eldridge Cross, 1220 Hancock street corner of Saville avenue, Tuesday, Dec. 16, from 3 to 10 P. M.

"Our Jim at Braintree.

Wednesday evening a large and enthusiatic audience assembled in the hall of the Jonas Perkins school to witness the popular four-act comedy drama entitled "Our Jim" by the following cast of characters:

John Matthews, called "Uncle John" by all his friends.	Lyman C. Williams
James Matthews, [Our Jim] his son,	William H. Cronin
Bob, his nephew,	Edward Lawson
Major Timothy Mudge,	David G. Doane
Deacon Hezekiah Tidd,	Burton L. Baker
Bill Tidd, John Henry Tidd, } his sons,	Frank A. Lester, Joseph E. Bailey
Aunt Deborah Matthews	Mrs. B J Loring
Caroline Antwerp,	Miss Katherine E. Healey
Bessie, the Major's daughter,	Mrs. Burton L. Baker
Grace Antwerp,	Miss Ida C. Ratcliff

Mr. Williams as Uncle John played his part in an earnest and pathetic manner.

Mr. Cronin as Jim, the hero of the occasion was equal to the emergency and sustained the character to perfection.

Mr. Lawson as Bob, the tormentor of everyone especially Aunt Debby, was full of life and always on the watch for a chance to play a joke.

Mr. Doane as the Major was in his usual good trim and between his proposal of marriage to Aunt Debby and the arrival of Caroline Antwerp, another admirer of his, at a most unpropitious time he was almost on the verge of nervous prostration.

Mr. Baker made a fine deacon, tall and dignified until his interview with Aunt Debbey requesting payment of the mortgage on the farm or a vacating of the premises, ended in his leaving the scene on the end of Aunt Debby's broom amid loud applause from the audience.

Mr. Bailey as John Henry was all right and created much laughter.

Mrs. Loring as Aunt Debby was looking after everbody's interests and welfare, especially the Major's, and her experience with Bob were very amusing.

Miss Healey, as Caroline Antwerp was also anxious about the Major, and had designs on any marriageable men over fifty.

Mrs. Baker, as Bessie, was lively through the whole play and her attempt at learning a breakdown with Bob as instructor was too comical for utterance.

Miss Ratcliffe as Grace was quiet and sedate as became one whose betrothed was fighting for his country.

During the second act, as Jim was taking his departure for the scenes of war the Oriental drum corps played "The Girl I Left Behind Me" as they marched at the rear of the stage. They presented a fine appearance, dressed in uniform and added much to the closing of this at.

The entire play laid as it was among scenes of '61 was humorous, sentimental, pathetic and entertaining, being replete with interest to its close. The Braintree Orchestral Club rendered delightful music during the evening.

The Christmas Dinner.

In spite of the fact that the word dyspepsia means literally bad cook, it will not be fair for many to lay the blame on the cook if they begin the Chsitmas Dinner with little appetite and end it with distress or nausea. It may not be fair for any one to do that—let us hope so for the sake of the cook! The disease dyspepsia indicates a bad stomach, that is a weak stomach rather than a bad cook and for a weak stomach, there is nothing else equal to Hood's Sarsarparilla. It gives the stomach vigor and tone, cures dyspepsia, creates appetite, and maks eating the pleasure it should be.

AUNT SUKIE'S SANTA CLAUS

A Christmas Story

"OLE Sukie Blueskin
She fell in love wid me,
Ole Sukie Blueskin
She fell in love wid me,
Ole Aun' Sukie Blueskin
She fell in love wid me,
An' she axed me down ter her house
Ter drink er cup er tea."

So sang Black Cæsar, the wag of the plantation, and then he proceeded to tell us about Aunt Sukie.

"I des' tell yo' wat—I tell yo' fo' er fac', by Jo! Ef I didn't git in de lammines' scrape er Crismus time! Dat wus de time we an' dem w'ite boys made up ter play er projick on Unc' Ike an' Aun' Sukie.

"Long time 'fo' Crismus come we don't heah nuttin' but 'Sandy Claws, Sandy Claws,' f'om Aun' Sukie. She go pudgin' erroun' de kitchen sayin': 'Um-m! Won'er w'at ole Marse Sandy Claws gwine ter fotch me Crismus.' Den ef we git ter cuttin' up de leases' bit 'bout de house she 'low: 'Bettuh min' w'at yo' 'bout. Fuses fing yo' know ole man Sandy Claws gwine ter pars alon' by 'n' nev' so much es nodice dem ole socks er yo'n. Won't eben put er groun' pea in 'em.'

"So we all 'sidered an' 'sidered, an' las' we made up ter fix dat ole crittur up 'n good shape. We all know ole Aun' Sukie ain' got no sense ter frow 'way nohow, so we 'cide we gwine ter sca' Aun' Sukie 'n' Unc' Ike out 'n dey seben senses.

"Two er free days fo' Crismus we wus er settin' on de fence, 'n' ole lady Sukie come by wid some truck ter make de fiah wid, an' den I sing dot little song w'at a be'n singin', an' I kep' on:

"An' it's w'at do yo' fink
Ole Sukie had fo' suppah,
An' it's w'at do yo' fink
Ole Sukie had fo' suppah,
An' it's w'at do yo' fink
Ole Sukie had fo' suppah—
Apple sass an' sparrer grass
An' hominy an' buttah.

"Well, sah, dat ole soul mos' had er spazzum w'en she hearn us er singin' dat song, an' she rail out 'n' buse us an' 'buse us an' call us all kin' er bad names an' freaten us wid ha'nts an' I dunno w'at all.

"Unc' Ike, he Aun' Sukie's ole man, an' he wur de contraries' an' de spitefules' ole nigger on de whole plantation. He al'us er pokin' erroun' an' er grum'lin' 'bout sumpin. He couldn' res' easy less'n he studyin' up some kin' er meanness. I don' see w'at mek ole marse keep dat ole nigger 'bout de place fo' nohow, 'case he ain' fitten fo' nuffin' but ter prowl erroun' an' hunt hen-nesses, an' w'en he fin' one he al'us tek toll out'n it. He 'casioned us ter git er many er larrupin', wid 'e ole grumplin' ways, 'case marse b'lieve ev'y wo'd Unc' Ike say, mek' no diffunce how much de ole scoun'l stretch de blankit. But we done made up our min's ter git eben wid ole Aun' Sukie an' Unc' Ike, too, an' we des tease dem ole pussons twel dey mos' have er fit.

"Useter sing dis way w'en we see Unc' Ike er comin':

"Big Ike, little Ike, yo' bettah go;
Sukie bake de ashcake slow,
Dat's so;
Sukie bake de ashcake slow,
'Too slow;
Big Ike, little Ike, yo' bettah go!

"Lo'd massy! Yo' des arter seed dat ole contrary niggah w'en we sing dat song. He look so vigus dat yo' fink ole

"LAWD ER MASSY, IKE, HE'S COME!"

Tomboy done got er holt er him, an' w'en we see de ole man grab up er bresh an' mek to'ds us we git f'om dar.

"W'en Crismus time 'gun ter git close by, we all 'gun ter fix up fo' dem ole pussons. Day nex' fo' Crismus marse he mek er long highferlutin' speech an' tell us dat long's we all b'haved ou'se'fs purty well an' wo'k hard an' mek er good crop, he gwine gin us er whole day fo' ter frolic erroun' an' 'joy wese'fs. Me an' Jack an' Tom—dem wus de w'ite boys—slip out'n de back do' an' des lit out. Down at de fu'niss weh dey be'n er killin' hogs we sot an' rigged up er projick fo' ter wake up dem ole folks. Tom say, 'Jack, yo' mus' be de ole Sandy Claws, an' we watch so's we don' git cotch up wid.' Jack say, 'No, I hain't, nudder, 'case yo' boys run an' lef' me an' den I ha' ter git out the bes' I kin. Yo' boys can't fool me dat erway.' Den I say, 'Ne' min', I be de ole headman. We'll git er fo'ked lim', an' put er shirt 'n britches an' er ole hat on de head, an' we tak' some hog's bristles an' mek mustashes an' whiskers, an' I'll git up on de roof an' let de ole Sandy Claws down des es sof'ly.' Den w'ile we fixin' up de ole man we all sing some mo' ef dat song an' laff 'bout how we gwinter do 'em up.

"A'ter so long er time, we git everyfing all right, an' we start down ter de quatahs. Unc' Ike so cu'ious an' contrary dat he can't live in peace wid de res' er der niggers, an' ole marse ha' ter buil' 'im er cabin 'way off f'om de res' weh de ole man could fuss 'n' qua'l des so much as he feel like. We ha' ter be mighty keerful gwine frough de weeds, 'case we see er light in Unc' Ike's cabin frough er hole in de chimbly. Any yudder time Aun' Sukie done be'n settin' by de fiah er noppin' an' er' smokin' dat ole pipe twel de dead hours er de night; but now she done laid down, 'case she 'spectin' ole Sandy Claws, an' she heah ole mis' say dat he ain' gwine come home 'long as any pusson 'wake 'bout de house. She layin' down, an' done had 'er head kivered up wid de quilts. Unc' Ike, he settin' up in de co'ner wid he shucks, platin' an ole hoss collar w'at he gwine ter sell nex' day fo' ter git de Crismus dram wid. An' he had free big ole niggerkiller 'taters roastin' in de ashes fo' de brekfus.

"Aun' Sukie keep er sayin': 'Ike, w'y don' yo' come ter bed? Don' yo' know hit's er gittin' late?'

"Unc' Ike says: 'Sukie, yo' des' shet up yo' mouf. I know w'at yo' studyin' 'bout, yo' ole fool. Yo' lemme 'lone, an' ef yo' sleepy go ter sleep, I tell yo'.'

"Den I sorter hum low:

"Paterroller, paterroller, let Ike pars,
Sukie cook slow, but she eat mighty fas';
Sorry fo' lame nigger gets dar las';
Do, Mistah Paterroller, let Ike pars.

"Unc' Ike, mus' er hearn me, 'case he stop right still an' cock he yeah sideways an' listen an' den mumull out sump'n' 'bout 'Ne' min', I git yo' sassy rasc'is yit. See 'f I don' tell ole marse.'

"Aun' Sukie say: 'W'at yo' er mutterin' an' mum'lin' 'bout, Ike? I does wish yo'd come on ter bed an' quit stirrin' up dem coals.'

"Unc' Ike say: 'I's er-talkin' ter myse'f, an' 'tain't none er yo' bus'ness. Sukie, yo' de bigges' gump I evuh seed. Yo' layin' dar finkin' 'bout dat mess 'bout Sandy Claws. Hain't I done seed yo' ole stockin' hangin' dar? Yo' fink ole Sandy Claws gwin ter pay any 'tention ter dat ole wool stockin'? No, siree, bob! Ole mis' des' ruint yo', an' yo' ba'kin' up de wrong stump dis time, fo' sho' yo' is.'

"Bimeby de ole man git sorter ti'ed, an' he kiver dem taters up mighty good an' start ter bed. Den, a'ter de ole man done laid down, he keep er-talkin' 'bout crops an' 'bout 'ligion an' 'bout anyfing fo' ter worry Aun' Sukie, who ain' sayin' nofin' 'tall. A'ter long time Unc' Ike drops off ter sleep an' 'gin ter sno', an' den Aun' Sukie rise up an' look all erroun' des' as cunnin'lack an' den drap down lack she's ev sleep.

"Dey wus er little chunk er fiah w'at kep' er winkin' an' er blinkin' in de h'ath, but we done be'n er watchin' frough dat hole twel we gittin' ti'ed, an' las' I gon' ter climb up on de house. I clumb right easy up de co'ner an' outer de aidge er de ruff, an' f'om dat I eased erlong twel I got ter de chimbly. I got er straddle er de ridgepole, an' den I fix' my ole Sandy Claws an' 'gun ter git ready fo' de cirkis. De chimbly wus about er foot too low down, so's I ha' ter let one foot res' on de chimbly an' w'en I fotch de yudder laig down I say ter myse'f:

"Ole Sukie Blueskin
She fell in love wid me,
An' she ax' me down ter her house
Ter drink er cup er tea.

"Down, down, down went de Sandy Claws, breshin' de sut down, an' des as 'e come in sight Aun' Sukie squalled lack er crippled coon, 'Lawd er massy, Ike, he's come!'

"Des den de clof tetched de little blaze er fiah, an' hit blazed way up, an' hit stifled me twel I los' my holt, an' wid er clitter clatter, rip an' ker blim, I landed down in de hot ashes, right on top er de Sandy Claws an' all mixed up wid Unc' Ike's taters.

"Yo' neber hearn sich er row 'twix' dis an' jedgment. Aun' Sukie she squall: 'Oh, marse! Oh, mistis! He'p! He'p! De ole boy's come a'ter me an' Ike!' An' she went er spinnin' out frough de dead teaweeds. Unc' Ike, he done riz, an' w'iles I scuffiin' wid de Sandy Claws he got er ax handle an' wus des er lambastin' me.

"A'ter w'iles I say: 'Please, Unc' Ike, don' hit me no mo'! Hit's Ceeze, Unc' Ike! Please don' hit me no mo'!' But de ole scamp, gittin' madder dan evah w'en he fin' out hit's me, kep' er peltin' me an' er sayin': 'Yes, yo' rasc'l, yo' done ruint my taters! Yo' b'en singin' 'bout me. I'll big Ike you! I gwine little Ike you! I gwine Sukie Blueskin you!'

"Bout dat time ole marse he come to'ds de quatahs, an' he cotch Jack an' Tom des as dey wus er gittin' ovah de fence.

"'W'ats de mattah, Sukie?'

"'Oh, marster, de debble's in de house, er ras'lin' wid Ike.'

"Des den I to' loose, an' w'en I lit out'n de do' ole marse grab me.

"Dem ole critters den 'gin ter tell all so'ts er tales, an' dey 'cuse me er tryin' ter b'un de house down an' singin' bad songs, an' dey beg ole marse fo' ter buck me down 'cross er log an' gimme fi' hunderd.

"Ole marse lis'n', an' a'ter erwiles he 'gun ter snicker an' den ter laff, an' den we all slip off, an' ole marse ain' nevah said nuffin' 'bout buckin' down f'om dat day twel dis. But Aun' Sukie—u-m-m! Dat ole pusson had er spite 'gin me evah sence, an' de ve'y minit Unc' Ike lay eyes on me he 'gin ter hunt 'roun' fo' sump'n' ter fling at me. 'Peahs ter me dey ain' nevah goin' ter fo'git 'bout Aun' Sukie's Sandy Claws."—New York Evening Post.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 14—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Our fellowship.—Ps. cxxxiii, 1-3.

The word "brethren" in the One Hundred and Thirty-third Psalm refers to the descendant of a common ancestry, but not only are those brethren who are bound together by physical ties, but also those who are bound together by spiritual ties. All the children of God are brethren. They have one Father, one faith, one Saviour and elder brother and one eternal home toward which they are all traveling. Race, color, nationality, do not enter into the calculation. If we have been born again and are living spiritual lives, we are all one in Jesus Christ, and there should be manifested in our lives the fellowship that is consequent upon such a unity.

1. The source of Christian fellowship is spiritual. God's people are a spiritual building. The tie that binds them together is a spiritual one. A Christian is a living soul in vital contact with the Lord Jesus Christ through the power of the Holy Ghost. The Christian church consists of all these persons bound together. The tie that binds the people of God together in unity and in fellowship is not a national or a social one, but a spiritual tie. Unless we have the spirit of Christ and are bound together by the Holy Ghost we do not belong to the household of faith, are not one with the people of God and have no fellowship with God and with His people. By personal acceptance of Christ alone can we come into this union with His saints, and this should lead all outside to accept Him.

2. Christian fellowship is beautiful and attractive. "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." This is specially true of Christian brethren. It was a beautiful sight to see divided Israel as a nation once more united; but even more beautiful than this is it to see unity and fellowship among those who are spiritually related. Nothing presents Christianity so attractively to the world. When the world can say, "See how those Christians love one another," its people will be drawn to the church; but when it must say, "See how those Christians rend one another," there is no hope for conversions. A church in which the people dwell together in loving union and fellowship need scarcely say, "Come." The people will come almost without invitation, while a church rent with factions and divisions can offer no inducements to those outside her borders. Let us stand, therefore, for fellowship. Let us be brethren in deed as well as in name. Our own lives will be thereby the happier, and we will be enabled the sooner to win the world to Christ.

3. Christian fellowship is useful as well as beautiful. "There the Lord commanded the blessing, even life forevermore." God blesses Christian unity. The united church is the special object of His favor and blessing. For discord and contention He has no place, and this fact above everything else should inspire His people to cultivate unity and fellowship.

The Pastor's Opportunity.

Pastors, keep your Young People's society young and you have solved one important problem. Don't scold, but lead; don't coerce by method either, but inspire them by deepening their motive. You can make or break your Young People's society. What is needed today in the average society is self sacrificing leadership on the part of pastors. No outsider can successfully solve your problems save by an occasional suggestion. It is your privilege, your work, your wish, and you must deal with the subject. You have no more important opportunity for service.—John Willis Baer at Northfield Conference.

Dr. Clark's "Welcome."

The very exterior of Dr. Clark's home suggests the hospitality for which it is famous, for on the main girders of the porch the word "Welcome" is beautifully carved in a dozen different languages.—Rev. W. Knight Chaplin.

Loyalty of the Christian Endeavorer

There are two kinds of loyalty—one amounts to little, the other amounts to much—the loyalty of the lips and the loyalty of the heart and hands.—President Roosevelt.

VENEZUELA FOR PEACE

Asks Minister Bowen to Propose Arbitration

LITTLE HOPE OF SUCCESS

As Relations Between the Contending Countries Have Practically Turned Into Those of Real War—France Has Financial Claims Against Republic

Washington, Dec. 13.—Announcement of the application by Venezuela for our good offices in settling the troubles between herself and her European creditors is remarked as entirely a sign that she is bound to get the moral benefit of our appearance in the field of controversy somewhere. Our government, she hopes, will insist upon arbitration. That hope is ill-founded. The most we shall do will be to convey to the British and German governments, informally and confidentially, the news of Venezuela's request and an intimation of our willingness to intervene as the friends of all parties and see what we can do toward settling the difficulty. If, then, the European powers should say that they would be glad of our assistance, the president would assume the responsibility of arbitrating.

A cablegram received at the State Department from Minister Bowen at Caracas says that the Venezuelan government has requested him to propose to Great Britain and Germany that the difficulties arising out of the claims for alleged damages and injuries to British and German subjects during the civil war be submitted to arbitration.

Not much hope, however, is entertained of the favorable reception of the proposition, for it is felt that the difficulty has progressed too far for a settlement by the peaceful methods of arbitration. Two reprisals made by the Venezuelans for the destruction of their navy, in the seizure of British ships and the arrest of German and British subjects, have practically turned the relations between the countries into those of real war, although technically the principals prefer to designate it as something less. In doing so Great Britain and Germany are simply following the course taken during the war with China, when, notwithstanding the fact that the allied fleet battered down Taku and captured and distributed a number of Chinese naval vessels, no declaration of war was forthcoming.

Secretary Hay went immediately to the cabinet meeting after the receipt of Minister Bowen's cablegram. When Secretary Hay returned from the cabinet the embassies were placed in possession of the news from Venezuela, and it was immediately cabled to Berlin and London.

In the meantime, however, the Venezuelans are preparing to resist by armed force any invasion by the allies. Indeed Great Britain and Germany are waking up to the fact that if Venezuela called their bluff and made them show their hand, it would be shown to be a ridiculously weak one for the undertaking.

England, however, is preparing to send more warships to the scene, and Germany is counting the marines she may have to send. England denies responsibility for the sinking of the republic's warships. In reply to this Germany says Great Britain was equally to blame.

If there is an attempt to possess themselves of all the customs receipts on the part of Great Britain and Germany, protests naturally might be expected to follow from France, which holds claims aggregating more than the combined claims of England and Germany, and which, it is understood, already has arranged for their payment on an installment plan out of Venezuelan customs receipts, an arrangement that might be disturbed by the British and German program.

It is evident here now that the allies have been obliged to proceed against Venezuela far beyond the point where their original program ceased. The correspondence shows that there was not the least apprehension that Castro, in his resistence, would make it necessary for Great Britain and Germany to go beyond a peaceful blockade, and it is the understanding that the London and Berlin authorities now are obliged to prepare a new program for exection in case Mr. Bowen's efforts at arbitration fail.

Strong Feeling Against Germany

London, Dec. 13.—The Venezuelan crisis is regarded less seriously here this morning. Although the opinion is expressed that President Castro's reported request for arbitration has come too late, this step on his part is welcomed as proof of his anxiety to withdraw from his position. The morning papers express various opinions as to the arbitration proposals. It is believed, however, that neither Great Britain nor Germany is likely to accept the arbitration proposal.

Statements attributed to the consuls and other representatives of Venezuela in European cities all betray a stronger feeling against Germany than against Great Britain, as well as reliance upon the United States to prevent any Anglo-German invasion of Venezuela.

Not Ordered to Sink Vessels

Berlin, Dec. 13.—As the result of fresh inquiries made regarding the reported sinking of Venezuelan vessels off La Guaira, it is stated that the orders given to the German and British commanders were to capture the vessels before beginning the blockade. No orders were given to sink them. If, however, any vessel has been sunk, this was a military measure necessary in carrying out the forcing of orders. No report has yet been received from Commodore Scheder, the German commander.

Gunboats Evidently Not Sunk

Port of Spain, Dec. 13.—The captured Venezuelan gunboats are now manned by British sailors and are doing British work. The other men-of-war continue to blockade the Venezuelan coast. The navigation of the Orinoco river has been reopened.

No Committee Work For Alger

Washington, Dec. 13.—The Republican caucus committeee of the senate having charge of committee assignments yesterday discussed the advisability of filling the committee places made vacant by the death of Senator McMillan, but reached no conclusion. To place Senator Alger on some of the committees would require a quite general rearrangement of committees and the entire question may be postponed until after March 4. If this policy should be decided on Senator Alger would go through the session without being on any committee.

Cuban Protocol Signed

Havana, Dec. 13.—A definite treaty of commercial reciprocity between Cuba and the United States was signed at 11 o'clock Thursday night by General Bliss and Secretaries Zaldo and Montes. It only lacks the signatures of Secretary Hay and Senor Quesada and the approval of the United States and Cuban senates to make it operative. The treaty provides for a uniform reduction of 20 percent from the present tariff charges on Cuban products entering the United States.

Pulliam Heads National League

New York, Dec. 13.—The members of the National League of Baseball Clubs completed their business last night and adjourned subject to the call of President Harry Pulliam, who was elected to the principal executive office yesterday. The committee having in charge the task of concluding a peace arrangement met the peace committee of the American league and later it was announced that a further conference would be held Jan 5.

Law and Order Triumphed

Charleston, Dec. 13.—An attempt to have an exhibition of fighting of bulls, dogs and chickens near Rockhill yesterday almost resulted disastrously. Governor McSweeney had instructed the sheriff to prohibit the fighting. The owners of the show claimed that nothing but an injunction from the court could stop the show. The sheriff thereupon called upon troops for aid and the fights were stopped.

No Cars to Haul Coal

Omaha, Dec. 13.—Unless relief shall be secured very soon, packing house managers of South Omaha assert that they will have either to close down their plants or curtail the output for want of coal. They say that there is plenty of fuel, but no cars to get it drawn to the consumers.

Addition to British Possessions

London, Dec. 13.—The foreign office has issued the text of the Anglo-Abyssinian treaty. Great Britain obtains the lease of a slice of territory near Itang, as a commercial station, and the right to construct a railroad through Abyssinia, connecting the Soudan with the Uganda territory.

Mrs Roosevelt Entertains

Washington, Dec. 13.—Mrs. Roosevelt received Washington society yesterday afternoon at a tea in the White House. It was the first social function of the winter season at the White House and was attended by several hundred members of resident and official society.

Seven Jailbirds Escape

Marshall, N. C., Dec. 13.—Seven men escaped from jail at midnight by sawing out the steel bars in the cell windows. The escaped prisoners include two under charge of murder. There is no trace of the men.

Sultan Going After Pretender

Tangier, Dec. 13.—The sultan arrived outside of Fez yesterday. He is sending the bulk of his army against the pretender, who is still at Tazza.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Flames and smoke drove nearly 100 guests out of the Ridpath Hotel, Spokane, Wash., some of the people fleeing in their night clothes. All escaped safely.

The young woman students of Boston university have accepted a challenge to joint debate from the co-eds of Bates college, and the subject agreed upon is: "Resolved, That Within 50 Years Russia Will Be the Most Important Power in the Eastern Hemisphere."

George W. Prescott, one of the founders and the first president of the Union iron works, San Fransisco, was found dead in his apartments at the Palace Hotel in that city. He was a native of Maine.

Delegate Wilcox of Hawaii introduced a bill in congress appropriating $225,000 for the construction of a revenue cutter to be stationed at Honolulu.

The contract for the sculpture work of the new Pennsylvania capitol by George G. Barnard of New York has been closed by the state capitol commission. Barnard will receive $100,000 for his work.

James H. Mathes, a prominent southern author and newspaper man, died at Riverside, Cal., of consumption, aged 60. He was a member of the Paris exposition commission and had served in the Confederate army as captain of volunteers

EVIDENCE FINISHED

Government Rests and Defense Opens In the Blondin Case

Boston, Dec. 13.—The government yesterday put in its last bit of evidence in the Blondin murder trial, and in the afternoon the defense outlined its plan for tearing down the case built up against the prisoner. Probably the most important contention of the defense is that the homicide, "if there was a homicide," did not occur in the house at 43 Green street, or even in the county of Suffolk.

The outline of the case was very brief, covering hardly more than 10 minutes, and the first two witnesses called to the witness stand in the prisoner's behalf were medical experts. In substance the testimony of Dr. R. E. Bell of Lowell was that the conclusions of the government's medical experts that the woman whose body was found in Chelmsford came to her death by strangulation and that decapitation took place more than 24 hours after death were based upon insufficient data and might be erroneous.

During the examination of Dr. James Ewing of Cornell university, the second expert called, the now famous jackknife again was referred to in connection with the case. Dr. Ewing was unable to recall that the knife ever had been shown him by Professor Wood of Harvard, the government's expert.

Murderers' Sentences Commuted

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 13.—The senate yesterday passed the bills commuting the sentences of Charles Doherty, Frederick Eastwood and Frank Shaw, all of whom are under sentence of death for murder. The bills had previously been passed by the house. Doherty killed Fred Murphy at Bolton Falls and was declared insane by a special legislative committee. Eastwood tried to kill his wife and several of her relatives near Middlebury and succeeded in killing one of them, Frank Fenn. Frank Shaw killed Deputy Sheriff Hoffman in Windsor county.

Wanted to Kill Someone—and Did

Boston, Dec. 13.—As Thomas B. Taylor, living at the Sound End, was returning home shortly before midnight, he was met by an unknown man, who, without preliminary talk, made the assertion that he was "going to kill some one tonight," and immediately whipped a revolver from his pocket and fired two shots, one of which struck Taylor in the right thigh. The stranger then placed the weapon in his mouth and shot himself dead. Taylor was sent to a hospital, while the body of the unknown man was taken to the morgue.

A "Fighting Ninth" Sensation

Boston, Dec. 13.—Forgery is one of the grave charges upon which Congressman Conry will base a vigorous contest of the election of John A. Keliher in the recent congressional fight in the Ninth district, other charges being fraudulent assessing and voting as well as the mutilation of ballots. Conry, who has come to spend the holiday vacation, will, upon his return to Washington, formulate his charges upon which he is definitely to base his petition for the right to a seat in the next congress.

Some Vessel Probably Wrecked

Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 13.—Captain Somerville of schooner Belle Wooster, who, with his crew, was found in an open boat at sea after their vessel had foundered, and who were brought here yesterday by schooner Patriot, reports that while their schooner was 15 or 20 miles off Highland Light Wednesday night they saw a quantity of flotsam. They also passed the hatch of a vessel in about the same locality.

Fire a Frequent Visitor

Meriden, Conn., Dec. 13.—The Connecticut Saddlery and Hardware company's factory was gutted by fire for the third time within a year, causing a loss of between $8000 and $10,000. An overheated chimney started this blaze. Fifty hands are thrown out of employment. The firm lost $6000 by the first fire and $3000 by the second.

Dredge Needs Tinkering

Bath, Me., Dec. 13.—The United States government hydraulic steam dredge Cumberland had her second official trial yesterday to test the pumping apparatus. It was found that connection on one of the suction pipes had worked loose, and the test was given up. It is believed that the pipe struck a protruding rock or ledge.

To Ballot on Lorimer

Boston, Dec. 13.—At the regular prayer meeting in Tremont temple last night, members of the church were handed a notice to attend a church meeting next Friday evening to vote whether or not to extend a call to Rev. Dr. Lorimer of New York to become pastor of the church, the ballot to be secret.

Corporation Bill Knocked Out

Providence, Dec. 13.—The new corporation bill met defeat in the legislature yesterday by a vote of 26 to 24, with 22 members absent. This bill offered liberal inducements to incorporators and would bring the state in line with New Jersey and Maine as a home for trusts and merger concerns.

Stuck to Plea of Guilty

Great Barrington, Mass., Dec. 13.—Joseph Brown, who, it is alleged, almost killed his mother because she would not give him money, yesterday refused to change a plea of guilty to a charge of assault with intent to kill, and he was held for the grand jury.

Failure of Clothing Firm

Boston, Dec. 13.—Spitz Bros. & Co., wholesale and retail dealers in men's and boys' clothing, have assigned. No statement of assets and liabilities can be ascertained until the stock in trade is valued.

BRAINTREE.

Pond school closed Friday for an indefinite season. Cause, no coal.

The Monatiquot school closed Monday to reopen after the holidays. Cause, no coal.

Josephus Sampson was painfully bitten in the knee by an angry hog Friday morning. We hope Mr. Sampson will not suffer seriously from the bite.

Mrs. Henry H. Snow of Tremont street is expected to return from the hospital at Parker Hill avenue, Roxbury, tomorrow.

Wednesday, by the bursting of water pipes, the floors of two rooms in the house owned and occupied by M. T. Call and family, Holbrook avenue, were badly flooded. Further damage was averted by the timely disconnection of pipes.

At the regular meeting of Amana Rebekah lodge, I. O. O. F., No. 96, the following officers were elected:

Noble Grand,—Sister Lizzie W. Page.
Vice Grand,—Sister Gennie McGibbon
Secretary,—Sister Eliza Hobart.
Financial Secretary,— Sister Jennie Holbrook.
Treasurer, — Sister Margaret McGibbon.

H. L. Newcomb and family have moved back from Boston into the Shaw house on Washington street opposite Monatiquot school. Mr. Newcomb will resume the business, the coming week, that he was obliged to give up on account of sickness a few months ago. He has been under Medical treatment in Boston.

Rev. C. A. Hilton of Randolph will preach at the Union church tomorrow in exchange with the pastor Rev. Mr. Cochrane.

Miss Edith P. Lawson has resigned her position as teacher of Grade II of the Jonas Perkins school, to take effect at the close of this term.

The members of the Cripple Creek club enjoyed a supper at the expense of the Weymouth firemen last evening, the result of winning in the forty fire contest.

Miss Donovan of Quincy, being unable to get an electric Tuesday morning, walked to Williams & Kneeland's factory where she is employed. Her ears were badly frozen. Willing hands applied snow and other known remedies and Dr. Brett was called and attended further to the case.

Mr. John A. Brigham of Pond street passed away Friday morning, in his seventy-ninth year, leaving a devoted wife, two daughters and a grand-daughter to mourn their loss. Mr. Brigham had many warm friends here and in Vermont his former home. He has lived here about 15 years and was a member of the Universalist parish. Every morning, rain or shine, Mr. Brigham delivered milk and vegetables from his small farm.

The community was shocked to hear of the sudden death from heart disease of Mrs. James W. Divoll of Washington street which occurred Thursday evening. Mrs. Divott had been a resident of Braintree for ten years, and besides a husband and son leaves a large circle of friends. She was born in East Boston, October 4th, 1852 and in 1877 married Mr. James W. Divoll. Funeral services will be held on Sunday. Interment in Blue Hill cemetery.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The comedy drama "A Young Wife," by J. K. Tillotson, a pronounced success of the season of 1899, is to be revived as the Castle Square theatre attraction the coming week. When originally presented by Castle Square company this play attracted audiences limited only by the capacity of the theatre and the revival is in compliance with many requests. The scenes presented are from New York life introducing both the best and the worst elements of the metropolis. The action deals with the wickedness of a degenerate son of respectable parents and tells a story of domestic devotion and self sacrifice that appeals strongly to the sympathies of an audience. A number of changes have been made in the cast since the earlier presentations of the play. Following the production of "A Young Wife, on Monday, December 22d, comes a revival of "Hamlet" which made such a notable success of the last season at Castle Square. The usual distribution of boxes of chocolate bonbons will be made at the Monday matinees.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

There is another big show scheduled for Keith's popular Boston playhouse for the week commencing Dec. 8, headed by Lewis McCord, the quaint comedian, late of David Belasco's forces, supported by an excellent company, in a realistic comedy of dramatic life, "Her Last Rehearsal," which is from the pen of the noted dramatic editor, Willard Holcomb. Among the other entertainers whose services will prove of value in an interesting or amusing way may be noted: Delmore and Oneida, in the greatest "perch" act ever seen in this country; the Salambos, in a novel elecal specialty; Hal Merritt, the cartoonist, in a monologue entitled "The Poster Girl;" O'Rourke and Burnett, novelty dancers; the Rosseaus, acrobats and tumblers; the Romany trio, vocalists and instrumentalists, and Lew Simmons and Frank White, in a blackface farce Messrs. Cole and Johnson, the noted colored comedians, will remain for a third week, making a change of songs.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

If ever Boston Music Hall is too small to accommodate theatre-goers it will be next week when Gus Hill's comedians in "Spotless Town" are presented. The first scene is laid in Spotless Town, where the Butcher, Mayor, Maid, Policeman and Doctor reside. The second act shows a magnificent palace. The third act represents a street scene. "Spotless Town" has created more hearty laughter than all other farces combined, and has met with a success eclipsing all other combinations of a similar nature. The popular Sunday concerts which are given every Sunday evening for the benefit of the B. L. Benevolent Association, continue to be as attractive as ever. On Monday Manager C. H. Smith will inaugurate a distinctively novel entertainment for the children. The Japanese Garden has been transformed into a cosy children's theatre and entertainments will be given there hourly for the express benefit of the little ones. The entertainment will consist of the very latest novelties in moving pictures, depicting the scenes of Fairyland and the programme will be changed each day.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by all druggists.

An Old Hand.

Tailor (to applicant for a job)—We want a good cutter. Have you had much experience in the tailoring line?

Applicant (with a confident smile)—I never had a suit of clothes ready when I said I would since I've been in the business.

Tailor—You'll do. You're an old hand, I see.

Satisfaction.

Casey—Kelly called me a loyer, but Oi got satisfaction out av him.

Rooney—Ye did?

Casey—Oi did! He knocked out two av me teeth thot hov bin throubling me fer months.—Puck.

FORTRESS BOMBARDED

Hasty Action by Anglo-German Allies at Puerto Cabello

SEIZURE OF BRITISH SHIP

Furnished a Pretext For Warlike Action—Castro Had Ordered That Ample Satisfaction Be Given, but Cruisers Opened Fire Before President's Instructions Reached Them

Puerto Cabello, Dec. 15.—The British cruiser Charybdis and the German cruiser Vineta bombarded the fortress here at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and quickly silenced it. The bombardment lasted for 45 minutes. The fortress is composed of Fort Solano and the castle Libertador. After the firing ceased the Charybdis sent marines to occupy the castle. The fortress was almost demolished. It is probable that only a few persons were injured by the shelling. The commander of Castle Libertador has been taken prisoner. The cruisers are still here.

At 7 o'clock Sunday morning the Charybdis and the Vineta arrived here searching for Venezuelan gunboats. The two cruisers sent their boats into the inner port, but finding no gunboats, the boats returned. The captain of the British merchant steamer Topaze, which was seized by the mob here last Wednesday, then visited the British commodore on board the Charybdis and lodged a protest against the violation of his ship. The British captain returned an hour later with a detachment of 50 marines, who took charge of the Topaze. The populace was greatly excited at this incident and raised the cry "To arms," but there was no disorder.

The British commodore then sent a message to the authorities at Puerto Cabello, demanding immediate satisfaction for the action of the mob in having hauled down the British flag from the Topaze, saying that if this satisfaction was not forthcoming in two hours, at 5 o'clock, the fortress and the custom house would be bombarded. On the receipt of this demand the authorities sent a message to President Castro asking for instructions.

A committee of the merchants of Puerto Cabello then approached the American consul here, petitioning him to intervene. The consul accepted this mission and visited the cruisers, but he could obtain no alteration in the decision of the allies.

At 4:45 a reply was received from President Castro, who authorized the chief official here to give the British commodore ample satisfaction. Before this answer could be communicated to the American consul the hour stipulated for its receipt had arrived and the cruisers immediately opened fire on the fortress. The fire was returned from Fort Solano and Castle Libertador, but the Venezuelan guns were soon silenced. While the firing continued there was intense excitement in this port. Every house in town was closed.

The people of Puerto Cabello cannot account for this precipitate action on the part of the allies, which they consider to be proof that Great Britain and Germany intend forcing war upon Venezuela.

The British marines purpose to make use of the cannon on Castle Libertador. No damage was done to the town. The excitement of the people is subsiding.

VENEZUETA CIVILIZED

President Castro Counsels Excited Populace to Be Moderate

Caracas, Dec. 15.—The British legation here has reopened under the American flag by W. W. Russell, secretary of the American legation.

The statement that Italy, through her legation here, is to demand payment of her claims against Venezuela, has been confirmed.

The news of the bombardment of Puerto Cabello caused most intense excitement here. The population flocked into the streets and patriotic demonstrations continued all night. An immense crowd whose numbers are estimated at more than 10,000 gathered in front of the presidential palace and called on President Castro to appear. Some of the orators among the concourse having advocated reprisals against the foreigners resident in Venezuela, President Castro, in a rage at the suggestion, refused the demands made, saying:

"The size of nations like the size of men is measured only by their acts. Those born brave prove their valor on the battlefield, not against defenseless citizens who perhaps are innocent, who are in their hearts with us and who are ashamed of the infamy of their compatriots.

"We will seek prisoners for Venezuelan jails on the battlefield. Our action will be directed only against those who come armed. However great may be our indignation we must behave as a cultured and civilized people, especially now when the most powerful nations of Europe are behaving like real savages. I counsel the greatest prudence in order not to abandon our rights, the justice of our cause and our reputation.

"The good name of Venezuela must remain always secure whatever emergencies may arise in the struggle. If we fail, it will be gloriously and heroically, but I assure you that our country will be saved because the Supreme Being above who sees and directs all cannot abandon us in this fatal emergency, justice and right being on our side.

"I, who never trembled before danger, swear I will fulfill my duty and joyfully sacrifice my life for the honor and dignity of the nation. I recommend great circumspection, prudence and even cordiality, so that strangers resident in our country, Americans, French, Italians, Spaniards and even the Germans and English may be the first to proclaim in the face of the world that Venezuela is a cultured and civilized nation."

The speech was applauded and a procession of whites and negroes traversed the city without an act of violence being committed.

Italy Complicates Matters

London, Dec. 15.—The news that the first shots have been fired in Venezuela has awakened the most apathetic of the critics to the gravity of the situation which is developing in that country, and the demands that the government present the official papers in the matter to parliament are now most insistent. These demands are accompanied by comments to the effect that Foreign Secretary Lansdowne has failed to display such conspicuous ability as to induce the nation to trust him with a "blank cheque" in such a complicated and combustible matter as Venezuela threatens to prove.

Italy's active entrance upon the scene is not believed to simplify the situation. Special dispatches from Rome assert that Signor Riva, the Italian minister to Venezuela, presented the Italian ultimatum at Caracas on Saturday. The time set for an answer to this ultimatum expired Sunday and, according to the Rome dispatches, Signor Riva has already embarked on the Italian cruiser Giovanni Dausan.

Most of the morning newspapers consider that the bombardment of the fortress at Putrto Cabello puts all likelihood of arbitration or any pacific settlement of the difficulty entirely out of the question.

Reported Blockade of La Guira

London, Dec. 15.—In a dispatch from Willemstad, Curacao, dated Dec. 14, the correspondent of The Daily Mail says the Anglo-German warships are blockading La Guaira. The steamer Yucatan was warned by the British cruiser Indefatigable not to enter La Guaira and returned to Curacao.

The Venezuelan government has declined the offer of a loan made by a German banker of Caracas to settle the claims against it.

Italy's Ground For Action

Rome, Dec. 15.—Italy's claims against Venezuela are for damages sustained by Italian subjects during the Venezuelan revolutions of 1898 and 1900. The Italian men-of-war which left Otronto with secret orders, supposedly for Tripoli or Morrocco, were in reality destined for Venezuela. Other warships have been ordered to Venezuelan waters.

Report From Minister Bowen

Washington, Dec. 15.—Minister Bowen, in a dispatch received by the state department yesterday afternoon, cabled that he had been informed by President Castro that British and German warships were bombarding Puerto Cabello.

This Week In Congress

Washington, Dec. 15.—After the routine morning business in the senate is disposed of today Senator Proctor will ask the senate to take up the bill for the reorganization of the militia force of the United States. He will continue to bring it forward each day in the morning hour with the hope of having it become a law before adjournment for the Christmas holidays. At 2 o'clock the statehood bill will be again taken up.

The prospects are for an uninteresting week in the house. The committees may be called and some odd and ends of legislation disposed of before the adjournment for the Christmas holidays next Saturday.

Took Overdose of Morphine

New York, Dec. 15.—A young woman known as Mrs. Garner Fleming was taken last night from a boarding house to Bellevue hospital, dying from the effects of an overdose of morphine. A friend of the woman told the police that her real name was Gertrude Blaney; that she was the daughter of wealthy parents in North Attleboro, Mass., and that she had graduated from Wellesley college last spring.

NEWS IN BRIEF

An effort is being made by German societies to obtain a pension of $2000 a year for Mrs. Elise Sigel, the aged widow of Major General Franz Sigel.

Queen Alexandra intends to mark her sympathy for the sufferers in the recent South African war by giving a Christmas dinner to all the widows and children, now in London, of those who fell in the war.

General Crozier, chief of ordnance, has awarded a contract for 20 15-pounder rapid-fire guns and mounts to the Bethlehem steel works at its bid for $3930 for gun and mount.

The Carriage and Wagon Makers' union has voted to insist upon its demand for increased wages and a nine-hour day beginning Jan. 1, made upon the Amesbury, Mass., manufacturers and refused by them. It now looks very much as if a strike would be inaugurated.

The wooden shoe factory of Martin Kelley & Co. at Danvers, Mass., was burned, by a fire evidently of incendiary origin, causing a loss of $6000.

On account of the lack of coal the public schools at Belmont, Mass., will be closed until Jan. 5. The teachers will distribute books as the pupils may desire.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by all druggists.

Extermination by Disease

Guthrie, O. T., Dec. 15.—Dr. Wyman, government physician at the Sac and Fox Indian agency in Oklahoma, announces that a large majority of the tribe are afflicted with tuberculosis, scrofula and other incurable diseases and adds that the tribe will probably be extinct within a few years. There are left but 497 members of this once powerful tribe.

Two Fires at Haverhill

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 15.—A fire in the shoemaking district yesterday was followed by another in a remote section of the city and the two made a combined loss of $30,000. The more serious fire was in the Nichols building and five firms were burned out. The other fire was in a two-tenement wooden block.

GRANT'S WIDOW DEAD

Former Mistress of White House Had Heart Disease

SUFFERED FOR MANY YEARS

Showed Remarkable Devotion to Her Husband In Times When He Was Sorely Tried—Accompanied Him Much of the Time During the War

Washington Dec. 15.—Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant, widow of President Grant, died at her residence in this city at 11:17 last night. Death was due to heart failure, Mrs. Grant having suffered for some years from valvular disease of the heart, which was aggravated by a severe attack of bronchitis. Her age prevented her rallying from the attacks. Her daughter, Mrs. Sartoris, was the only one of her children with her at the time of her death, her three sons, who had been summoned here, all being out of the city.

MRS. U. S. GRANT

Death came peacefully, the sufferer retaining almost complete consciousness practically to the end. Word has come from Jesse and Ulysses S. Grant, two of the sons now in California, that they have started on their way to Washington. The other son, General Fred Grant, is in Texas, but is expected to hasten here as soon as he receives a message telling him of his mother's death.

The remains of Mrs. Grant will be deposited in the tomb at Riverside Park, New York, where those of her husband now repose.

Mrs. Grant, whose maiden name was Julia Dent, was born at St. Louis in 1826. She was married to General, then Captain Grant, in 1848. During the Civil war Mrs. Grant was with the general much of the time and remained as near as possible to him when he was campaigning. She saw her husband twice inaugurated as president and accompanied him on his journey around the world. As mistress of the White House she gave liberally to all the charitable institutions of the city. Four children were born to General and Mrs. Grant, three sons and one daughter, all of whom are living. Nellie, the daughter, who became the wife of Algernon Sartoris in 1874, has lived in Washington with her mother for several years. Frederick D. Grant, the oldest son, is in the army, and two other sons, Jesse and Ulysses S., live at San Diego, Cal.

During recent years, since General Grant's death, Mrs. Grant has spent most of her winters in this city, while during the summer she usually lived at Saratoga, Manchester, Mass., and other popular resorts, until the last two summers, when she resided with her daughter, Mrs. Sartoris, at Coburg, Ont. She also made several visits to her sons in California during the last few years.

She cared little for society and always avoided public notice as much as possible. Her devotion to her husband was remarkable and during the latter's unsuccessful years before the Civil war, and when his fortune was swept away shortly before his death, Mrs. Grant always bore herself bravely and was an inspiration to him. For several years Mrs. Grant had been so feeble that it was impossible for her to accept social engagements. She suffered from rheumatism and was compelled to walk with a cane or with the assistance of an attendant. She was 76 years of age.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Steel schooners will soon be commonplace. A six-master is now to be built in Quincy.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ According to all accounts, speculation is the cause, at least in part, of the present extreme scarcity and sudden rise of price of coal. It is needless to say that money made in such a way out of the necessities of the people is blood money, whoever makes it.—Providence Journal.

☞ The man who has no religious affiliations, whose family recognizes no church connections, is losing something important for his own good, we believe, just as the citizen who neglects to affiliate with a political party and to do the full duty of a citizen is missing something of personal value to himself as well as doing some harm to the state which guarantees his personal security and the safety of his property.—Worcester Spy.

☞ The real spirit of Christmas, its heart, core and inner life, is love—love which "vaunteth not itself," in honor preferring another, and "is kind." "Peace on earth, good-will to men," this was the first Christmas message. It was natural, in the observance of this day, that the giving of gifts should be adopted as the method of expression of love for one another and thankfulness to God. But the simple old custom has become a burden. The meat has become more than the life, and the body more than the spirit. How shall we rid ourselves of this form which is fast becoming meaningless; how infuse fresh, pulsating life into the celebration of Christmas? Who shall give us courage to cease troubling the air with such questions as "What shall I give John?" and "What does Mary want?" and "How in the world am I going to please William Henry, when nothing less than an automobile will satisfy him?" — December Woman's Home Companion.

—The cost of the last census was $11,854,817.91. Rather a high priced affair considering the inaccuracy of the statistics published. In the matter of land actually under cultivation they have furnished figures showing that more than 100 counties in the United States have more acreage under cultivation than the counties contain. Some of the farms must be "double deckers."—Rockland Standard.

December Magazines.

The December number of the Woman's Home Companion is a true Santa Claus' pack of good things. "The Prodigal's Christmas" and "A Brother to Foodles" are both good old-time Christmas stories. Feature articles that are particularly seasonable are, "Where the Toys Come From," The Strange Origin of Familiar Toys" and "The Amazing History of the Streeterville War." WORST OF WINTER

Heavy Snow Fall in This City Saturday.

Steam Trains and the Electrics Stalled.

Doubtful if We Have Another as Heavy This Winter.

The storm of Saturday was the most severe of the winter and it is doubtful if we have another as bad. It began to snow Friday night and early risers Saturday morning found the air full of fine snow, and a cutting north-east wind. As the day advanced the storm seemed to increase in violence, although at one time it looked as though it might clear. It was, however, the lull that precedes a gale.

By noon it was seen that the storm had doubtless set in for the day. Up to that time the street cars had been running on all lines although late. The company's big electric ploughs were doing their best to keep the tracks clear and the lines open.

The wind however blew the snow back onto the tracks faster than it could be ploughed out, and during the afternoon all attempts to run cars on schedule time was given up. Cars were run until nightfall at irregular intervals. Then it was given up and cars as fast as they came in were sent to the car barn.

It was at a bad time of the day, however, and those who came out on the early trains had to "frog it" home. One of the cars got hung up on Newport avenue and remained there until pulled out by one of the big ploughs.

The ploughs were kept moving all night and Sunday morning most of the lines were open, although it was after 10 o'clock before regular trips were put into operation. The cars ran a little late all day. This morning regular schedule time was made on all lines.

Patrons of the steam railroad had as much difficulty in getting home as those who use electrics. Trains were run late all day, and in the evening many of the scheduled trains were omitted.

Quincy people who are employed in Boston had difficulty in getting home. Those who started late in the afternoon managed to reach Quincy an hour or two behind time, but those who depended upon the late trains had to remain in town all night or take the electrics to Neponset and walk home.

Quite a few tried the electrics, but the outward Sunday morning trains brought home others who wisely remained in town all night.

The arrival and departure of mails was somewhat delayed by the irregular running of trains, but all arrived except the New York, although late.

The city ploughs were out early Sunday morning and most of the sidewalks were ploughed out before church time. Many church goers feared they would not be, however, and remained at home. Some services were omitted entirely.

As a rule the snow fell very level although there were places where it drifted some. Commissioner Knowlton had six-horse sleds out all day Sunday breaking out the roads, but it was observed that people in sleighs drove in that part of the street used by the street cars.

The storm broke Sunday morning. The wind died down, and the day was a fine one. It was cold but exercise walking kept people warm. Sunday evening was beautiful. There was a bright moon and it was almost as light as day.

Business for City Council.

The Committee on State Aid will report upon several petitions for State aid and soldiers relief at tonight's meeting of the City Council.

The Committee on Ordinances will report on the order laying out Rock Island road, refunding tax title to Harlow H. Rogers, on the order for $940.35 for bills of Poor department for 1901, and on the order for $300 for fuel for the Fire department.

The Committee on Streets will report on the order for widening Goffe street, on the orders relative to regulating the running of street cars and locations not built upon, and on the communications from the Commissioner of Public Works on assessments for edgestones.

Reports may also be expected from the Finance Committee.

LINCOLN---MOORE.

Former Quincy Lady Related to President Lincoln.

Few Quincy people who were well acquainted with Mrs. Nellie M. Moore during the 17 years she lived at Atlantic were aware of her relationship to Abraham Lincoln, and her knowledge of the Lincoln and Hanks families. Mrs. Moore's father and Lincoln were first cousins, and both were born in the same rude log cabin in Kentucky. While in Quincy Mrs. Moore was a prominent worker in Women's Relief corps 103 also in the Independent Odd Ladies, M. U., and the Daughters of America. She attempted at one time to raise funds for a Grand Army hall in this city.

Miss Hall, for that was Mrs. Moore's maiden name, spent only the first 13 years of her life in Missouri, having been sent to a Kentucky boarding school at that age. She was married and lived in Louisville for some years, later removed to Cincinnati, and after the death of her husband, came east, married Mr. Moore, a native of Massachusetts, and they lived for 17 years in Atlantic, a part of Quincy, until they removed to Pepperell.

When asked by the Globe to define her relationship to the martyred President Mrs. Moore said:

"My father, William S. Hall, was a son of Martha Hanks, sister of Nancy Hanks, who married Thomas Lincoln and became the mother of Abraham Lincoln. So, you see, my father was first cousin and I was second cousin to the President.

"My grandfather, who married Martha Hanks, was Levi Hall, and they and Thomas and Nancy Lincoln were living together in the little log cabin in La Rue county, Ky., in 1809, when Abraham Lincoln was born there. My father was born three months later in the same cabin."

When questioned as to the antecedent of the Hanks, Lincoln and Hall families. Mrs. Moore says it is a tradition in all three families that they emigrated together from New England about 200 years ago to Pennsylvania, from there to Virgiaia and later to Kentucky, as they eventually did to Indiana and finally to Illinois and Missouri. She has been some time engaged in investigating the possible early connection of the families with New England, and intends to prepare a genealogy embodying the results of her labor.

Mrs. Moore relates at length in the Sunday Globe interesting vicissitudes of the Lincoln, Hanks and Hall families, and there is a good photo of herself, her father, Lincoln in 1858, and the log cabin.

A Young Marine Superintendent.

J. Howland Gardiner, son of the late Capt. S. A. Gardiner of Newport, general superintendent of the marine division of the Fall River line at the time of his death, has been appointed superintendent of the marine district of the Fall River line of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, to succeed the late George Peirce. Mr. Gardiner will have his headquarters at Newport. He is not 35 years of age.

Stephen Taylor of the firm of W. A. Fletcher Company, New York, has been appointed consulting engineer of the Fall River line. Among their most important work at present will be the plans for the new steamers to be built by the Fore River company at Quincy.

—In view of the liability of some smallpox throughout the winter, we desire to enter a protest against the word "pest house," which is disagreeable in sound and has many unpleasant associations. The word "hospital" or the expression "temporary hospital," would be much better and help to do away with a great deal of prejudice.—N. E. Farmer.

Runaway.

There was a lively runaway on Hancock street this morning, during which the sleigh of Theophilus King was badly smashed and a line full of clothes in the yard of H. F. Spear was wrecked.

The sleigh, in which was a lady, was driven by Mr. King's coachman. For some reason unknown the horse attempted to turn into the yard of Howard Rogers on Hancock street. In doing so the sleigh capsized and the occupants were thrown into a snow bank.

The horse then ran around the house, dragging the overturned sleigh, thence back of the house of Mr. Spear, through the clothes yard, then against the back porch which was splintered.

When the horse reached the street again there was a quantity of wearing apparel clinging to him.

Part of the sleigh was left here. The animal then ran down Hancock street with part of the sleigh and the remnants of a sheet hanging to him. When near Merrymount park the animal cleared himself from the sleigh and continued to run in spite of all attempt of pedestrians to stop him.

The horse ran as far Neponset bridge before he was captured. The occupants of the sleigh were uninjured.

Assault on Buckley Street.

There was a lively row on Buckley street on Sunday evening. According to the story told to the policemen three men who are alleged to be Angelo, Alexander and Peter Comes called at the house of Antonio Colleti on Buckley street. They informed Colletti that he was wanted outside. Going out he alleges that he was set upon by the three men who punched him, kicked him, and bit him about the face. When they left Colletti he was badly used up and required the services of Dr. Ash to fix him up.

Later in the evening Officers Hinchon and Boutin placed Angelo Comes under arrest but have not captured the other two men. It is expected however that they will be arrested before night.

When the case against Angelo was called in court this morning the assaulted man was unable to appear, and the case was continued until Dec. 22.

TODAY'S COURT.

Angelo Comes was arraigned for assault on Antonio Colletti at Quincy. Case continued until Dec. 22.

Patrick J. Whalen was arraigned for drunkenness and for assault on Thomas Donahoe at Randolph. He was fined $5 for drunkenness, $1 for assault and was put under bonds to keep the peace.

CITY BREVITIES.

Another storm is brewing.

A heavy rain would make awful slushy walking.

Tonight's meeting of the City Council will be the 28th meeting of the year.

Miss Corinna Wilde of Billings street has returned from a brief visit in Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tower of Savin Hill are visiting Mr. and John Vogler of Botolph street.

Miss Annie Tate of Phipps street has been confined to her home by sickness the past nine weeks.

The Granite City and North Quincy teams will meet in the Norfolk County league at Norfolk Downs on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Donna Caswell of Lawrence is visiting her mother, Mrs. Jacob Kolb of Clive street and will stay over the Christmas holidays.

George L. Gill Rebekah Lodge will initiate three candidates and elect officers at their regular meeting on Thursday evening at I. O. O. F. hall.

Overseer Dennis O'Neal was out bright and early Sunday morning clearing the sidewalks and crossings in Atlantic before traffic of any kind began.

Mrs. Charles Safford of Botolph street, who has been under surgical treatment in Boston, has returned to her home in an improved condition of health.

The seven-masted schooner Thomas W. Lawson, built at Quincy, is illustrated on the cover of the holiday number of the Scientific American, illustrating transportation on land and sea.

At the meeting of Maple Lodge, K. and L. of H., in Wilson's hall, five new members will receive the degree on Wednesday evening. The Deputy, Grand officers and members from other lodges will be entertained. A collation will be served and a general good time enjoyed.

—History is once more repeating itself, and New Bedford is to become again "the whaling city." All at once the demand for sperm oil has sprung up, the 5,000 or 6,000 barrels brought into San Francisco have been sold, and only about 2,500 barrels left in first hands in the Eastern states. This has started the whaling furore in New Bedford, and several vessels will at once enter the business, and early next spring will see a larger fleet engaged in the business from that port than has been in it for years.

—The Postoffice Department at Washington is sending out to postmasters a new eight cent stamp, decorated with the head of Martha Washington. This is the first time that the United States government has issued a postage stamp bearing the likeness of a woman. The design of the new stamp is considered one of the most beautiful ever put out by the Postoffice department. The head is encircled with a wreath. At the bottom on the left is 1732, the year in which Martha Washington was born; on the right 1802, the year in which she died.—Gardner Journal.

Practise Increasing.

After this date Dr. E. H. Bushnell, will devote his entire time to his increasing practice at Quincy Point, as will be seen by the following correspondence which is self explanatory:

Quincy Point, Mass., Nov. 13, 1902.
Mr. F. O. Wellington,

Dear Sir--I keenly regret the painful duty of informing you that after December 1st, 1902, I shall be unable to serve in the capacity of yard surgeon to the Fore River Ship and Engine Company.

My increasing practice, the extra time you ask me to spend there, and the amount of remuneration induce me to make this resignation.

My relations with you and your institution have been very pleasant and I shall always hold a hearty good will for the Fore River Ship and Engine Company. Wishing you great success, I am Very sincely,

E. H. Bushnell.

December 1st, 1902.

E. H. Bushnell, M. D.,
578 Washington street,
Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir—We beg to acknowledge your recent letter informing us that you cannot accept our proposition to give your entire time to the position of surgeon of this company, and we fully appreciate the duty to your practice and to yourself which compels this decision.

We take this opportunity to express to you our appreciation of the thorough and conscientious manner in which you have for more than a year so successfully treated our cases, a record which is sufficient commendation in itself and to which we add our best wishes for its continuance.

Yours truly,
F. O. Wellington,
General Manager.

Swedish Baptists.

Quincy people took a prominent part in the annual conference of the Young Peoples Societies of the Swedish Baptist churches of New England at Gardner on Sunday. Rev. John Bjork gave one of the addresses, and the Quincy delegates led one of the services. Mr. Bjork was elected vice-president for next year, and John Herbert of Quincy, was re-elected treasurer.

Hands and Feet Frozen

Malden, Mass., Dec. 15.—A police officer found George F. Peterson, 34 years old, of Melrose, in the woods off Washington street Sunday morning with both hands and feet frozen. His condition is now critical. Peterson came out on a late train from Boston Saturday night and it is supposed that he started to walk to his home in Melrose and became exhausted.

Clearing Out Cattle Disease

Boston, Dec. 15.—The foot and mouth disease appears to be well under control, according to the officers of the agricultural bureau who are here. They claim that improvement already is shown and that this week will show the success of the efforts of weeding out infected cows more clearly than at present.

The Cumberland Does Good Work

Bath, Me., Dec. 15.—The last official trial of the United States government steam hydraulic dredge Cumberland proved successful Saturday. In a heavy sea the pumps showed a capacity of sucking 15 tons a minute of sand and mud from the ocean bed. Every test proved satisfactory.

'Tis an Ill Wind," Etc

Boston, Dec 15.—Local vessel owners are benefiting by the urgent demand for tonnage for transporting coal and the unusually high rates being paid for suitable craft. From $2 to $2.50 per ton is being paid for carrying fuel from Philadelphia to this port, the highest rate for years.

Boy Murderers Must Hang

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 15.—Earl Whitney, 17, and Claude O'Brien, 15, young burglars, who murdered A. B. Chinn, a merchant, were sentenced to be hanged Feb. 13. Motions for new trials were overruled.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

☞Why need people be short of wood when they can buy green hard wood for $8.50 per cord or $4.50 per 1-2 cord delivered. This is what George McFarlane of 54 Merrymount road has to offer.

—A glass or two of water taken half an hour before breakfast will usually keep the bowels regular. Harsh cathartics should be avoided.

VENEZUELANS AS FIGHTERS.

Harder to Subdue Than Boers, Says General Molineux.

TROOPS DRILLED BY EUROPEANS.

Plainsmen of the Interior Regarded as Best Warriors South of the United States—Yellow Fever Castro's Chief Ally—Danger For American Property Interests—Cause of the Present Trouble.

"The European forces in Venezuela have entered upon a bigger job than the subjugation of the Boers, if I have any military judgment," said General E. L. Molineux recently to a New York Herald reporter. "Unless this imbroglio is settled before the war spirit of the rural population of Venezuela is aroused, American as well as European property interests will suffer severely and many lives will be sacrificed too.

"President Castro has practically healed all internal dissensions by his spunky attitude toward the European powers. White men have rarely penetrated into the interior of Venezuela. Unless the custom houses and seaboard towns are quickly abandoned word of the situation will reach the half savage natives of the interior and a harassing guerrilla war will result.

"European officers, especially Germans, have drilled the native uniformed troops. The revolutionists have gradually acquired a considerable stock of modern arms and ammunition. From personal acquaintance I can state that the ellanos, or plainsmen, of the interior are the best fighters south of the United States. From now on any man or woman not of dark complexion will be a victim of their enmity.

"If the European light draft cruisers or gunboats have withdrawn from La Guayra and Puerto Cabello and intend to go around to Maracaibo, the immense coffee, cocoa and other interests of Europeans, and Americans, too, will suffer disastrously.

"Yellow jack, night and day, in season and out, will be President Castro's best ally. Venezuela has all the essentials for a prolonged fight within her borders—coffee, cattle and cocoa for food, hides and flax for apparel and an indomitable fighting spirit when once aroused. Taking a few small vessels and seizing a custom house or two is like crunching a paper shell almond, but a harder nut, a regular Brazil nut, will have to be cracked to hold them.

"Fort San Carlo, which commands the upper approaches to the town of Maracaibo and Lake Maracaibo, is not without a great deal of defensive power against the heaviest guns the European fleets can possibly present. The inhabitants of Apure, the province between Caracas and Maracaibo, are known throughout South America as brilliant fighters. To them was due the winning of independence from Spanish rule in 1814-20. It will be a tedious, harrowing matter for any power to establish a foothold or any permanent occupancy against the consent of the natives."

The cause of the conflict between Venezuela on one side and Great Britain and Germany on the other is of long standing, says a Washington special to the New York Times. It grows out of claims made by the governments of Germany and Great Britain for losses sustained by their respective citizens by revolutions and disturbances. For a number of years past Venezuela has been in a condition of chronic revolution, and in the progress of these numerous revolutions the property of foreigners has been destroyed and appropriated at will by one or the other party to the warfare. This has proceeded until the damages have aggregated a considerable sum, but to all importunities the Venezuelan government has given little attention, and it has taken no steps toward bringing about a settlement.

In the case of Great Britain the aggregate damages are not so great as those of Germany, the claims of the latter being about $2,000,000.

The claims are divided into two classes. Those of the first class are divided into two divisions. The first division consists of claims for the destruction and appropriation of property by the insurgents and the government forces. In this are included the destruction of plantations and buildings, and the appropriation of movable property. The insistence upon an adjustment of this class of claim has been more urgent than in regard to the others. The second division consists of claims for losses sustained and damage done to the legitimate commerce and trade of the Germans and British, resulting from embargoes and in many cases of absolute confiscation of merchandise in transit and in store.

The second class embraces German claims alone. These are four payments overdue to a Berlin banking house for money loaned for the construction of a railroad from La Guayra to Caracas, the Venezuelan government having guaranteed the payments. This class of claim, however, was not pressed and does not enter into the immediate cause of the present trouble.

Germany and Great Britain have been striving earnestly for years to induce the government of Venezuela to negotiate for the settlement of the claims of the first class. President Castro, however, has declined to enter into negotiations for the adjustment of the claims either directly with the two governments concerned or by international arbitration and has insisted that they shall be referred to a tribunal of his own creation, which, it seems, is a permanent body composed of Venezuelans. President Castro's attention has been directed to the fact that the claims of the French government, similar to those of Germany and Great Britain, were referred to an international tribunal, but to the request that a similar method should be adopted for the adjustment of German and British claims Castro has uniformly declined to accede.

In their efforts to reach an amicable settlement the German and British ministers are understood to have offered to have the payments agreed upon made in installments and to provide that these should be made in a manner and at times that would not embarrass the government of Venezuela.

The representatives of the two powers finally despaired of reaching an understanding by the ordinary methods of diplomacy, and their governments have been compelled to resort to force.

REED WON A FORTUNE.

Left His Family $200,000, Earned in Last Two Years of His Life.

According to one of his friends, former Speaker Thomas B. Reed laid away $200,000 in the last two years of his life, most of it, if not all, made in Wall street, says the New York American.

"Now I am at last happy. I can die leaving my family well provided for. I can soon have an income independent of my law work and can enjoy some leisure."

These words were spoken by Mr. Reed less than two weeks before his death to the same friend. These words tell the true story of his retirement from political life. He had to provide for the future of his family and so he plunged into the mad whirl of Wall street with the zeal of a man half his years and with success attained by few.

Few persons who saw the warrior of a dozen congresses ambling along side streets because he disliked the attention his familiar form attracted in Broadway and Wall street suspected that he was as eager as a young trader to know each day what the stock ticker was saying.

"When Mr. Reed came to New York," said his friend, "he stated that he was poor, but wanted to get rich, his scruples keeping him out of the stock market while he was in control of congress. He allied himself with the big corporations, and his fees in single cases were greater than the amount he received for a whole year in congress.

His chief gains were in American Locomotive, having bought the stock at low figures when the general public would not touch it. He sold during the public flurry that caused the common stock to rise to $12 a share. He made most of his money in new stocks. Mr. Reed never speculated in any sense of the word. He was a remarkably good judge of values and besides knew prominent persons who were in control of corporations and from whom he could get the facts. He therefore bought and sold with confidence.

Among the powerful moneyed friends of Mr. Reed was H. H. Rogers, who has the reputation of knowing something about how the Standard Oil party is working in the market, and Mr. Reed had full benefit of that knowledge.

KAISER AS A MODISTE.

Latest Accomplishment of the Many Sided German Emperor.

It has remained for Mme. Waldeck-Rousseau to make a new side of the many sided German emperor—that of a dictator of fashions, says the London Mail. His whole conversation with the wife of the former French premier was devoted to dress.

"Would I be indiscreet, madame, in asking you the address of your dressmaker?"

Mme. Waldeck-Rousseau gave him the information.

"I will note it," said the emperor. "I absolutely desire that the empress be well dressed. The last time I went to Paris in front of my windows was an exceedingly fashionable dressmaking establishment. Do you recall it?"

"Certainly," said Mme. Waldeck-Rousseau. "But it has gone down."

"Ah, I see," said the emperor. "Out of date."

"But, tell me, madame," lowering his voice, "does M. Waldeck-Rousseau ever occupy himself with your toilets?"

"Oh, no, never!" cried Mme. Waldeck-Rousseau, laughing.

"Ah!" said the emperor gravely. "I occupy myself a great deal with my wife's gowns. I choose the materials. I advise this or that model. The form of dress that pleases me exceedingly is the princess gown."

A Ewe Nurses a Fox.

A recent dispatch from Susquehanna, Pa., gave a curious account of how a ewe had adopted a fox and nursed it. The mother of the fox was killed in a trap last fall, and a farmer gave the little one into the care of a ewe whose lamb had been killed by wildcats shortly before. The fox has thrived mightily, and the affection between the ewe and orphan seems to be as great as if the little fox were its own offspring.

Signs of the Season.

Christmas day approaches;
You feel it in the air;
'Tis written in the grocery store,
Where fowls are fat and fair.
'Tis mentioned in the window
Of the big emporium;
'Tis whispered in the murmur
Of the shoppers as they come.

Christmas day approaches;
The people smile to see
Its heralds thus appearing
In a splendid pageantry.
You note the fact most keenly
Whene'er you pause to look
On the vanishing proportions
Of your busy pocketbook.

Pept-iron Puts Iron Into the Blood

Gives the blood what is necessary for its perfect oxidation—the process by which it gets its deep red color seen in the lips, cheeks and ears.

Iron in the blood unites with oxygen in the lungs. The more iron, the more color.

Peptiron combines iron with the best nerve and stomach tonics, and meets all the requirements of the anemic, pale, nervous and dyspeptic.

Peptiron is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

GALLINGER TAKES ISSUE

With Dr Keen Regarding Merits of Vivisection

THE BRAINS OF ANIMALS

Differ From One Another as Well as From the Brain of Man—Says Experiments Along That Line Have Sometimes Proved Disastrous

Washington, Dec. 15.—Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, who also is a member of the medical profession, last night gave out a letter in reply to the published letter of Dr. W. Keen of Philadelphia, sent him a week ago. It says in part:

Reviewing your letter of Dec. 5, 1902, which you gave to the press of the United States, respecting your success in the case of Midshipman Aiken, I note four points:

First, that self-advertisement is prohibited by the ethics of our profession.

Second, that misrepresentation is forbidden by the ethics of mankind. No measure that would prohibit vivisection, or prevent any of the experiments which you claim were necessary to give you the requisite knowledge in the Aiken case, has ever been introduced by me in the senate; nor has any such legislation been recommended by me to the senate.

Third, that your argument turns entirely on an assumption which cannot be maintained, namely, that the localization of the functions in the brain of man has been determined by experimentation on animals. The brains of animals differ from the brain of man and also differ from one another, so that stimulation of any part of the brain will produce a certain effect in one animal and another effect in other animals. A long history of experiment on the brains of animals has shown that it is not only not safe, but disastrous to reason from the brains of animals to that of man, but that such reasoning is not safe between the brain of one animal and that of another. It has been so in general with animal experimentation.

Forth, that you ignore, in your direct appeal to selfishness, that altruism which is the principle of moral progress. To practice cruelty, even in the hope of helping humanity, is to hurt it and to delay the advance of civilization.

Recurring to the suggestion already made that I have never introduced into the senate, or advocated any bill that would prohibit vivisection, I beg to say that the purpose has been to regulate the practice, thereby removing from it the "unhuman" and "cruel" features which have shocked the moral sense of our people. When you gave testimony before the committee of the District of Columbia on Feb. 21, 1900, I asked you if you thought it improper for congress to enact a law saying that a dog or a horse should be put under the influence of an anesthetic before being cut to pieces or the nerves torn from the brain, and that you promptly replied: "I think it would be most unwise legislation."

In view of that reply, do you not think that your charge against me that I am engaged in efforts to secure inhumane and cruel legislation should be withdrawn, and especially so when we have undoubted testimony to the fact that one experimenter is in the habit of plunging dogs for 30 seconds into boiling water; that another fastens a dog to the dissection table and, discarding the use of anesthetics, stands above it with a large, empty stone bottle, with which he strikes with all his strength a dozen blows on the head, while the same experimenter says that he dislocates both the shoulders, doing it with difficulty.

Another experimenter claims that he has "consecrated" more than 80 large animals, mostly horses and mules, to the extremest torture possible, not, as he expressly tells us, to solve any problem in medical theory, but simply to see what degree of pain can be inflicted through irritation of the spinal cord.

If to prevent such barbarous practices brings me under your condemnation, I am willing to have the case submitted to the judgment of the American people.

Are you sure, sir, that you "saved" the life of Midshipman Aiken? Are not blood clots frequently absorbed by the process of nature, and is it not a fact that in many such experiments death has resulted because of the operation? Your claim that you located the blood clot because of experiments upon an animal may or may not be true, as we have the highest possible authority for believing that such experiments are oftentimes misleading and absolutely without value.

In support of the contention that even if everything you claim in the Aiken case is true, students should be taught the facts that you claim have been established precisely as they are taught the theory of the circulation of the blood, and not through unnecessary torture of dumb animals.

End of Blondin Trial Near

Boston, Dec. 15.—Forecasting today's sessions of the Blondin murder trial, it is thought that the case will go to the jury by tonight. The court has got to decide a motion by the defense on the question of jurisdiction. Yesterday the jury were taken on a sleigh ride by Sheriff Seavey. Blondin has stood the strain well and seems buoyed up with confidence of acquittal.

FORTY WITHOUT HOMES

Eight Dwellings and Half of Business Section of Maine Village Burned

Bowdoinham, Me., Dec. 15.—A conflagration, accompanied by a northeast gale, destroyed half of the business section of this village and eight dwellings early yesterday, causing a total loss of $29,000 and making families whose aggregate membership is 40 persons dependent for shelter on their more fortunate neighbors. The burning of the hotel, the only drug store in town and four buildings containing the town offices, Masonic, Grand Army, Modern Woodmen and Grange halls and several small offices, left only six buildings standing in the business section.

Two women escaped from their burning homes in night clothing and many people were frostbitten while saving their household effects. The total insurance was $9000.

The fire, which started shortly after 1 o'clock, originated from a defective chimney in the general store of W. H. Gould, and the work of devastation was only complete when the flames reached the river. The upper end of the village is more thickly settled with residences and was saved by the wind being in an opposite direction.

Thinks Change For the Better

Boston, Dec. 15.—Dr. John L. Withrow, pastor of the Park Street church, only incidentally referred to the approaching end of the church structure, in his sermon yesterday. The pewholders and society have both voted to sell the building for $1,250,000. Dr. Withrow said that to him it seemed as if the hand of God had directed things to their present outcome. He declared himself convinced that in another and more suitable place the church would surpass the work that had been accomplished at Park street.

Sailors Suffer Severly

Gloucester, Mass. Dec. 15.—Incoming vessels bring reports of terrific gales and hardships encountered and state that the weather of the past eight days, and especially of Saturday and Sunday night, has been the most severe ever experienced by them. Nearly every vessel arriving has thrilling stories to relate of struggles with elements, of narrow escapes from collision and of being run down and foundering; also of disasters to other unknown craft. There are no wrecks reported in this district.

Stranded Seamen Not Yet Rescued

Rockland, Me., Dec. 15.—No rescue yet has been made of the crew of the Standard oil tug Astral, who have been the unexpected guests of the lightkeeper on Mount Desert Rock since the wreck of the tug early last week. Seas made mountainous in height by the long continued northeast gale have made futile all efforts to a rescue. It is feared that the shipwrecked men have nearly exhausted the supplies of the lightkeeper.

Portland's Thoughtful Mayor

Portland, Me., Dec. 15.—An order issued by Mayor Boothby by which the city hall, the auditorium and other of the city's buildings are given over to the use of the public during the present coal famine, will provide shelter for about 3000 of Portland's poor, who are furnished with free lodging at night and an excellent breakfast in the morning. Hundreds have availed themselves of the privilege thus offered.

Boston's Coal Distribution

Boston, Dec. 15.—With the streets of the city blocked with snow it was no easy task to supply coal to suffering families yesterday, but much was accomplished. Hundreds of vehicles and thousands of men were at work and a great quantity of coal in the aggregate was distributed in small amounts. Nearly all the city departments used their horses and vehicles in the work of distribution.

Steamers Fail to Appear

Boston, Dec. 15.—Several belated European steamers failed to put in an appearance at this port yesterday, much to the surprise of the port officials, who thought that some of them must have been outside waiting for the blizzard to pass before crossing Massachusetts bay.

FEW MORE WITNESSES

Miners' Arguments Before Commission Expected to Close Tomorrow

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 15.—The mine workers, who have been engaged in presenting their side of the controversy with the anthracite coal operators to the anthracite coal strike commission for about 20 days, will close their case either today or tomorrow. That is their present program. They may, however, continue to present witnesses until President Mitchell, who has gone to his home in Illinois for a few days, returns, so that he can be on hand when the operators open their case.

The companies hope to be able to start their side immediately after the miners close. Simon P. Wolverton, leading counsel for the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, will make the opening address for all the large companies and possibly the independents also. After the opening statement witnesses will be called by each company.

It is expected that the commission will adjourn next Saturday for the holidays and meet again a day or two after New Year's day. There is considerable talk of holding the sessions in Philadelphia after the Christmas adjournment.

Pacific Cable Lauded

San Francisco, Dec. 15.—"In memory of John W. Mackay, I christen thee Pacific Cable. May it always carry messages of happiness." With these words, Lucille Gage, 11 years old, daughter of Governor Gage of California, yesterday christened the trans-Pacific cable by breaking a bottle of champagne over the shore end. The landing and splicing of the shore end, which is to connect the mainland with Honolulu, was accomplished without hitch and was witnessed by nearly 40,000 people. Ideal weather prevailed.

New Englander In Bad Fix

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 15.—Arthur L. Bishop, travelling salesman for the F. M. Hoyt Shoe company of Manchester, N. H., who shot and killed Thomas J. Wilson in this city on Dec. 9, surrendered himself at Petersburg, Va., yesterday. Wilson discovered Bishop with his daughter and another young woman in his parlor drinking wine. He ordered Bishop to leave. Bishop refused, whereupon Wilson tried to eject him and the shooting followed.

Can Be President If He Wishes

Port Au Prince, Dec. 15.—General Alexis Nord, who was war minister under the provisional government, entered the capital of Hayti yesterday at the head of his army. He was accorded a sympathetic reception by the people. Nord's intentions are not known. It is generally believed that in case he announces himself a candidate for the presidency his election to that office is assured by reason of the numerous force at his command.

Prosperity For Lumbermen

Gardiner, Me., Dec. 15.—Indications point to a heavy lumber cut during the winter in the region beyond Moosehead lake. The early spell of extremely cold weather froze thoroughly the swamps and soft places in the roads, making the foundation for the work one of the best for a number of years. Snow lies two feet on a level. Timber surveyors who have prospected the forest expect that something like 138,000,000 feet of lumber will be cut before spring.

Verdict of Little Account

Chicago, Dec. 15.—The coroner's jury in the investigation of the Lincoln Hotel fire returned a verdict in which it charged the loss of 14 lives to the owner and agents of the building, the proprietor of the hotel and the city building department. While the verdict is condemnatory it finds no one guilty of criminal carelessness and the hotel proprietor and his clerk will be discharged, the police having no case against them.

Lynn Man Roughly Treated

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 15.—James Thomas was found by the police at midnight with wounds on his head which required 14 stitches to close. Thomas went to Melrose Highlands to get some money due him and on his return went into a saloon where he met a man named "Jim," whom he claims took him to Arch street, and, with the aid of a companion, robbed him.

Nova Scotia Town Burned

Liverpool, N. S., Dec. 15.—Fire which started here Saturday afternoon and which was supposed to have been got under control broke out afresh and the whole town is now practically in ashes. Liverpool was a thriving seaport town of 3000 inhabitants and was swept by flames in 1895. The loss will probably be $100,000.

Clough's Death Was Accidental

Exeter, N. H., Dec. 15.—Coroner Nute reports that George W. Clough, superintendent of the Amesbury, Mass., almshouse, who was found dead in the highway in East Kingston, "came to his death by the accidental overturning of his carriage and freezing thereby."

Pushed to Utmost Capacity

Reading, Pa., Dec. 15.—Up to Saturday night the Reading company transported about 10,500 cars of coal for the week, or nearly 325,000 tons. Never before in the history of the anthracite regions has there been such activity.

IN THE SECOND DEGREE

Blondin Convicted of Murder of His Wife

TO ASK FOR NEW TRIAL

Upon the Claim That New Evidence Has Been Secured—Prisoner Declared Himself Innocent of the Crime and Expected Acquittal

Boston, Dec. 16.—Murder in the second degree, which means life imprisonment, was the verdict returned last night against J. W. Blondin, who for more than two weeks has been on trial in the Suffolk county superior court charged with wife murder. The jury was out almost six hours when the announcement came that a verdict had been reached. The verdict was received with evident disappointment by Blondin, who, after the jury retired, expressed firm belief that he would be acquitted.

Immediately after the jury had made its report, Judge Braley congratulated the jury and the counsel for the fair-minded manner in which the trial was conducted, and especially congratulated Blondin's senior counsel, James F. Owens, for the able manner in which he had conducted the defense under so trying circumstances. Then the jury was discharged.

Blondin was taken back to his cell in Charles street jail to await action upon a motion for a new trial which his counsel will make, based upon exceptions taken during the present trial. Mr. Jacques, junior counsel, also stated that the defense was in possession of new evidence which he believes will materially strengthen its case if a new trial is granted.

Attorney General Parker last night said the commonwealth was perfectly satisfied with the result of the trial. Mr. Owens said the defense felt that it would be improper to make any statement at this time, but he believed that the start already made would result in ultimate victory.

Yesterday was devoted entirely to the closing scenes in the trial, as all evidence was in at the Saturday adjournment. At the conclusion of the attorney general's argument, Judge Braley informed Blondin of his right to address the jurors at that time, and, after a conference with his counsel, the prisoner decided to speak. He rose, with a smile upon his lips, but when he spoke his voice was weak and faltering. "Gentlemen of the jury," he said, "I am not guilty of the crime with which I am charged. That is all I have to say."

The charge to the jury was delivered by Justice Stevens. He informed the jurors that any one of three verdicts might be returned in this case, viz., not guilty, guilty of murder in the first degree or guilty of murder in the second degree. He then reviewed at great length points of law in connection with the case, and explained the legal meaning of certain terms, such as reasonable doubt, murder, malice and circumstantial evidence. In illustrating circumstantial evidence Judge Stevens referred to the manner in which the government proceeded to identify the body of the woman found in the Chelmsford pasture as that of Mrs. Blondin. With regard to the motive for the crime, he explained that while ordinarily the prosecution attempts to show malice, if the other facts in the case are sufficient to warrant them in returning a verdict of guilty, the mere fact that no motive for the deed had been shown should not prevent the return of such a verdict.

Judge Stevens referred to the appearance of the first Mrs. Blondin upon the stand, and told the jurors that the fact that her testimony proved the prisoner to be a bigamist should not be allowed to have any effect upon their deliberations. The fact that he was a bigamist had no bearing on the case in question, further than to substantiate the claim of the government that this might be considered a motive for the alleged murder. In conclusion he gave the jury instructions upon points as requested by the defense.

President Mitchell at Home

Spring Valley, Ills., Dec. 16.—John Mitchell was given a warm welcome upon his return to his old home yesterday. Spring Valley observed the day as a general holiday and business was suspended. The feature of the afternoon was the presentation of two sets of resolutions, one by citizens and labor organizations of Spring Valley, and the other by the Peru trades and labor council.

Nord Backed by Force

Port Au Prince, Dec. 16.—The army under General Nord has occupied the arsenal and the fortifications here without resistance. General Nord is M. Senequo's only opponent for the presidency. The latter controls a majority of the congress, but it is believed that the numerous force under General Nord will have a favorable effect upon the balloting.

Volcanic Disaster Impending

Kingston, Island of St. Vincent, Dec. 16.—Premonitory symptoms of another volcanic eruption have been experienced here. The Soufriere was disturbed yesterday and there were peculiar electrical discharges and detonations from that volcano last night. The agitation is apparently increasing and extraordinary heat prevails.

River Obliterated by Lava

Paris, Dec. 16.—The French scientific mission to the island of Martinique has reported that since the crumbling of the cone of Mt. Pelee the Blanche river has been completely obliterated by lava and that ashes are spreading over the valley of the river to a distance of three miles.

JUDGE GRAY'S DECISION

Means That Railroads Will Not Figure In Investigation

TESTIMONY OF LITTLE GIRLS

Who Are Employed at Night In Silk Mills Causes Chairman to Make Pointed Remarks—Statutes of the State Are Evidently Ignored

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 16.—The mine workers, after having been 19 days in presenting about 160 witnesses, closed their case before the anthracite coal strike commission late yesterday afternoon, excepting that they will call one important witness today.

The afternoon session was one of the most important sittings the commission has yet held, because the question of whether the close relationship of the coal-carrying railroads with the mining companies shall figure in the commission's effort to adjust the controversy came squarely before the arbitrators. The decision of the commission, if Chairman Gray's remarks can be so called, was briefly this:

"That the commission, in a general way, is averse to widening the scope of the investigation beyond the terms of the submissions of the miners and the operators; that in carrying on the investigation it assumes the coal companies can afford to pay fair wages; that if the coal companies, in presenting their side of the case, maintain they cannot afford to give an increase in wages, then the commission will hear what the miners have to say on the ability of the companies to do so, and that if a business cannot pay fair wages the employer ought to get out of it."

These points were brought out during the two hours consumed by the miners' lawyers reading documentary evidence, to the whole of which the coal companies entered specific and general objections.

The mine workers depended a great deal on the evidence they had to present to show that the coal-carrying railroads control the coal companies and that the railroads charge exorbitant and discriminating freight rates, thus greatly decreasing the revenues of the mining properties.

Several little girls employed in silk mills were called to the witness stand yesterday afternoon and as a result Chairman Gray plainly gave his opinion of parents who send their children to work at a tender age. The first girl called was only 11 years old. She had to go to work because her father had been hurt in the mines. She said she worked from 7 a. m. until 6 p. m. for $2 a week.

Annie Denks, aged 13, said she worked at night from 6:30 o'clock until 6:30 in the morning. She had to stand up all night during her work and received 65 cents a night. When the girl said she was employed at night every member of the commission seemed to be shocked. Judge Gray asked her where her father was. She told him in the mines. The girl also told the number of persons in the family and finally Judge Gray said he would like to see the father. "I would like to see the fathers of these girls," he repeated. "It may be necessary to send them to the mills, but I do not think a father has a right to coin the flesh and blood of his children into money. It's an outrage. I would like to see what instinct he has."

The chairman of the commission spoke with much feeling and his views apparently received the approval of the other commissioners.

Mr. Darrow, for the miners, said it was not altogether the fault of the parents, but the employers are to blame for not paying wages enough to permit a man to keep his children in school. Judge Gray replied: "That may be, but there are miners who receive enough pay to enable them to keep their children out of the workhouse."

A small Slavonian girl, aged 12, who also worked all night, testified that she worked 12 hours each night and received 3 cents an hour. She was asked whether her father owned the house she lived in and she replied "Yes." Chairman Gray remarked: "Well, I'd like to see her father."

Another 13-year-old girl said she worked all night in the silk mill at Dunmore for 66 cents a night.

Judge Gray: "Does your father own his house?"

"Yes sir; he's my stepfather."

"He is your stepfather; I thought so."

Judge Gray here inquired as to the law in Pennsylvania regarding child labor at night. One statute was found which partially covered the case and the chairman remarked that it seemed as though the statutes of Pennsylvania in this part of the state do not seem to bother any one.

BRAVE CAPTAIN SORENSEN

Rescues Crew of Tugboat Astral, Wrecked on Mount Desert Rock

Rockland, Me., Dec. 16.—The Boston tug Clara Clarita, Captain Sorensen, which has been working in the bay in connection with efforts to raise the schooner Davenport, yesterday rescued the crew of the wrecked tug Astral, who have for several days been storm-bound on Mount Desert Rock. The party of 16 men were released from their unpleasant predicament by the bravery and good judgment of Captain Sorenson, who went to the rock in a rowboat at much personal risk and with considerable difficulty. When the boat had approached as near as it was safe to go the men jumped into the sea one by one and each was in turn pulled into the boat and all were safely transferred to the Clara Clarita. Several of the crew were quite badly frostbitten, but not one had received serious injury.

The person who perished at the time the Astral struck the rocks was Frank Cummings, the mess boy, who was benumbed by the cold and unable to do anything to save himself when washed into the sea.

Lightkeeper Robbins did all in his power to make them comfortable in the limited quarters. He fortunately had a good supply of food on hand and so no one went hungry.

Captain Sorensen also comes in for expressions of heartfelt gratitude as well as praise for the courage and wisdom displayed in effecting the rescue. He has many times before shown his bravery in rescues at sea, and is the possessor of many medals for life saving.

Granite State Vital Statistics

Concord, N. H., Dec. 16.—The report of Dr. Watson, state registrar of vital statistics, made public last night, shows that for the year 1901 the number of births was 8164; marriages, 4001; divorces, 482; deaths, 6975. The birth rate per 1000 was 19.66; marriage rate, 9.36 (couples); divorce rate, 1.16; death rate, 16.79. All show a decrease over the rate for 1900, except that for divorce.

Police Looking After Themselves

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 16.—To make a pension fund for retiring or disabled police officers of Pawtucket the Police Relief association offers to give $1000 to the city and the members of the force offer to contribute 1 percent of their salaries and the court fees received by them towards the fund if the city council will give an equal sum. The offer was made to the city council last night.

Proposition For Ending Coal Famine

Boston, Dec. 16.—Former Representative Borofsky has suggested to President Roosevelt that he urge upon congress an appropriation of $50,000,000 to be used in relieving the distress of the coal famine. The latter has been acknowledged by Secretary Cortelyou, who states that the president is considering the subject of the coal famine most carefully.

Dull Times at Navy Yard

Boston, Dec. 16.—In five years the number of skilled mechanics and laborers employed at the Charlestown navy yard had not been as small as it is at present. It is understood that still more men are to be dropped from the rolls within the next few weeks, owing to lack of work to keep them employed.

Reduced Fares For School Children

New Haven, Dec. 16.—The directors of the Fair Haven and Westville Railroad company have decided that school children shall be allowed to ride on all lines of the company for 2½ cents, where a 5-cent fare has previously been demanded. The new order will go into effect about the first of the new year.

Trains to Be Discontinued

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 16.—It is announced that the Boston and Maine railroad will soon discontinue, for a time at least, that portion of the Worcester, Nashua and Rochester division between this city and Groton, Mass. Through freight to this city will be sent round by way of Keene.

Petition for a Freight Railroad.
Ainslee's Magazine.

Good Afternoon.

If the City Council would set aside a couple of hills in each ward of the city for coasting they would please more children at less cost than will a $100 skating pond. The indications are that Quincy will have lots of snow this winter and the children should be allowed to enjoy it. Boston sets aside about 100 hills, 20 being in the city proper.

Storekeepers and abutters can do much to make sidewalks passable and improve the walking if they will but shovel off the snow after each storm, and later the slush which is awful on such days as these. If taxpayers want a reduction of taxes they must do things in part themselves. Don't wait for the city men but lend a hand. Many can do much where a few make but little headway.

A petition that means much to an undeveloped part of the city and to Quincy itself is that of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company to the City Council for a location for a freight railroad from their works to the South Shore railroad near the East Braintree station. The location is technically described in the advertisement for a public hearing in this issue. Tomorrow the Ledger will have more to say concerning the location.

Drift of Opinion.

☞"I am tired of being poor," was the answer given by the late Thomas B. Reed when questioned three years ago as to why he was retiring from public life to engage in the practice of his profession. After a strenuous career in congress extending over nearly a quarter of a century, and in the course of which he had held positions of commanding influence and power he at 60 withdrew to devote his remaining years to earning a competence for the wife and daughter upon whom his affections were centred. What a pathos in the story; what a tribute to the man's personal probity; what a demonstration of the fickleness of partisan favor and the illusory nature of political ambition in our republic.—New York Herald.

TODAY'S COURT.

William B. Hussey was arraigned for the larceny of three gold pins, one gold ring and a pair of sleeve buttons from Albert G. Dolliver at Quincy, and was sentenced to six months in the house of correction.

Alexander and Peter Comes were arraigned for assault on Andrew Colletti at Quincy. Case continued until Dec. 22.

Celebrated.

One of the well known members of the Granite City club celebrated the passing of another milestone in his life's journey Monday evening by giving the members an appetizing lunch. Out of respect to his natural modesty the gentleman's name is withheld, but the members feel that some mention should be made of it. The lunch was thoroughly enjoyed and the affair was all the more pleasant as it came as a surprise.

Had Refused to Come to Order.

Spoke Against Most Everything and Wide of the Mark.

There came near being exciting times in the City Council Monday evening, and the City Messenger turned pale at the thought that he might be called upon by President Alden to eject Councilman Fallon. Two or three times the Councilman spoke on orders pending and was invariably called to order. He did not yield gracefully, hence threats of removing him.

Councilmen Meyer, Thompson and Whiton were the absentees.

JURORS DRAWN.

Assisted by City Clerk Harlow and Councilman Diack, the Mayor drew the following jurors for the January term: George O'Brien, George W. Jones, Stephen H. Edwards, Edward R. Blanchard and Dennis Shugrue.

PETITIONS.

Several petitions for minor licenses and State aid were received and referred.

Of Mary L. Rich for the refund of $3.48 overpaid tax. To Finance Committee.

The New England Telephone Co. petitioned for a location for one pole on Cottage streets. To Committee on Streets.

FREIGHT RAILROAD.

The Fore River Ship and Engine Co. petitioned for a location for a private freight railroad from their property at Quincy Point to the Braintree line to connect with the South Shore branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad near the East Braintree depot.

Referred to the Committee on streets. Later Councilman Newcomb offered an order for a public hearing Wednesday evening, Dec. 31.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Streets reported an order assessing one-half the cost of constructing edgestones on the abutters. Took one reading.

The Committee on Streets reported reference to the next Council on the matter of regulating street cars and locations not built upon. Accepted.

The Committee on Streets reported reference to the next Council on the order for widening Goffe street. Accepted.

The joint Committee on Finance and Health reported reference to the next Council on the petition for the collection of ashes. Accepted.

The Committee on Finance reported reference to the Executive department on the petition of Mary A. Sherwin for damages by changing grade of Rawson road. Accepted.

The same committee reported an order refunding Mary A. Bradbury $31.14 overpaid tax. Rules suspended and order passed.

The same committee reported on order refunding $39.15 tax to Charles S. Dennison. Rules suspended and order passed.

The same committee reported reference to the next Council on the order for $3,000 for sidewalk on Whitwell street. Accepted.

The same committee reported reference to next Council on the order for the purchase of land for school building at Atlantic. Accepted.

The same committee reported no legislation necessary on the matter of sidewalk assessment of Addie W. Dornan. Accepted.

The same committee reported reference to next Council on the order for $3,000 for paving a portion of Willard street. Accepted.

The same committee reported an amendment to the order for $44.01 additional for parks, making the amount $46.01. Rules suspended and order passed.

The same committee reported on order placing receipts of Highway department amounting to $1,875.96 to the credit of Highways. Rules suspended and order passed. Councilman Fallon voting no.

The Committee on Ordinances reported on order for $940.35 for payment of bills of Poor department for 1901. Passed. Councilman Fallon voting no.

The Committee or Ordinances reported on order for $300 additional for fuel for the Fire department.

Councilman Bass asked why the order had not been to the Committee on Fire Department.

Councilman Freeman replied that it was not the proper committee. It was a part of the budget and the budget never goes to the Fire Department Committee.

Councilman Fallon thought the $300 could better be expended for fuel for the poor. He then commenced a tirade against the Fire department. He was called to order by the President and requested to take his seat.

On an appeal the President's ruling was sustained.

The order was then passed, Councilman Fallon voting no.

The Ordinance committee reported an order refunding tax title of $17 to Harlow H. Rogers. Passed.

The Committee on Ordinances reported an order for $700 for laying out Rock Island road. Laid on table.

THROUGH CARS.

The special committee on through street car service to Boston reported an amendment to the order striking out the five-cent fare and recommending reference to the next Council.

Councilman Nichols, chairman of this Committee said some progress had been made. The Mayor had communicated with the Boston Elevated officials and had been assured the matter would be taken up soon. He also stated that the officials of the Old Colony street railway were willing and desirous of entering into some such arrangement and would do what it could to bring it about. The order was adopted.

SKATING POND.

Councilman Nichols offered an order for $100 to flood the marsh south of Merrymount Park for a skating pond.

Councilman Fallon opposed claiming that the mixture of salt and fresh water would be unsafe. The city also had the reservoir which it would not have used as an ice pond as it was wanted for skating.

Order read and referred to Finance Committee.

Upon motion of Councilman Piper the order for painting the inside of the John Hancock school building was taken from the Committee.

Councilman Langelier stated the committee had held conference with the Commissioner who had proposed to do part of the work during the vacation and the balance on Saturdays. The Committee did not believe painting should be done Saturdays when room was to be used Mondays.

Councilman Piper. At that time it was thought there would be but one week's vacation. There would be two weeks Christmas and the work could be done then.

In reply to questions the Commissioner of Public Works stated that nothing had been done to the walls, ceiling or varnish for fifteen years. As there was money left from the appropriation for plumbing this schoolhouse it could be done during the Christmas vacation.

The motion prevailed.

The order was then amended making the amount $500.

Councilman Fallon made one of his characteristic speeches and was called to order by the President for not confining himself to the question.

He refused to comply with the Presidents request to take his seat.

President Alden then threatened to have him removed from the hall if he did not take his seat, but the Councilman did not scare, and waited until he was in order.

The rules were suspended and the order passed.

Adjourned at 8.58.

The New Journal.

The Boston Journal promises to revolutionize newspaper Boston. Certainly this staid "old favorite" has been transformed in a wonderful degree, and has every indication of enterprise which will be quick to win new friends and thousands of readers. The new size of pages, and size of type will be appreciated, and the whole make-up is attractive. There is something to the new Journal.

Humors

They take possession of the body, and are Lords of Misrule.

They are attended by pimples, boils, the itching tetter, salt rheum, and other cutaneous eruptions; by feelings of weakness, languor, general debility and what not.

They cause more suffering than anything else.

Health, Strength, Peace and Pleasure require their expulsion, and this is positively effected, according to thousands of grateful testimonials, by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Which radically and permanently drives them out and builds up the whole system.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Walking—atrocious.

December is half gone.

Keep the water running.

The snow is disappearing fast.

Overshoes and rubber boots are popular.

More snow would have been more welcome than the rain.

On Wednesday at 3 o'clock P. M., the missionary meeting is to be held at Mrs. George Pinkham's on Warren avenue.

The whist party of St. Francis court of Foresters to have been held last week was postponed until Thursday evening of this week.

A cottage prayer meeting will be held this evening at the home of Mrs. Forest Mills on Arlington street, Wollaston, at 7.30 o'clock.

A big contrast between the temperature of today and a week ago today. Last Tuesday the noon temperature was 2 above, today it is 45 above.

The Whatsoever circle of King's Daughters will hold a rummage sale next Wednesday and Thursday on Beale street, at corner of Fayette street.

Capt. Eddy presents a strong company again at Music hall this week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with Saturday matinee at 2 o'clock in high class vaudeville.

Those who attended the meeting of the Y. P. R. N. on Sunday evening were very much interested in listening to Supt. Frank E. Parlin on "Why I am a Unitarian.

Miss Carrie F. Anderson, daughter of Mr. Charles J. Anderson of Oakland avenue, Wollaston, died Sunday night at her home. Miss Anderson, a bright, promising young woman was taken ill over a year ago and her death was not unexpected. She was interested in the church work of St. Chrysostom's and was a former president of the guild of St. Perpetua. The burial services will be held Wednesday at two P. M.

COAL! COAL!

Cargoes Arrive for C. Patch & Son and J. F. Sheppard & Son.

The coal barge expected by Patch & Son for several days arrived at their wharf at Quincy Point on Monday. She brought 1288 tons of coal. Of this cargo 644 tons was soft coal and 644 tons of hard coal divided equally between stove and furnace sizes.

Monday night's papers reported two barges for Sheppard & Sons had arrived in Boston harbor. One of these goes to Braintree and the other to Quincy.

Two More Arrests.

Alexander and Peter Comes, the men who it is alleged made an assault on Antonio Colletti, Sunday, on Buckley street, were arrested Monday afternoon. They were arraigned in court this morning and the case continued until next Monday.

CITY OF QUINCY.

IN COUNCIL,
December, 15th, 1902.

ORDERED: That a public hearing be given in the Council Chamber at City Hall, Quincy, Mass., on December 31, 1902, at 8 o'clock. P. M. to all persons interested in the petition of The Fore River Ship and Engine Company, dated December 15, 1902, for permission to construct, maintain and operate a railroad for private use at grade across and upon certain highways and travelled places within said city as set forth in said petition, as follows:

The route-line of the proposed railroad in the City of Quincy begins at a point on land owned by the Fore River Ship and Engine Company and runs first in a southwesterly direction across Howard avenue, so-called, at a point about 115 feet easterly from Howard street; thence the said route-line continues in a generally southwesterly direction over private land to Quincy avenue; thence across Quincy avenue and the tracks of the Old Colony Street R. R. Co., at a point about 170 feet southerly from Howard street; thence running westerly over private land to West Howard street; thence across West Howard street, so-called, at a point about 20 feet northerly from the Braintree line; thence the proposed route-line continues in a westerly and northwesterly direction partly in the City of Quincy and partly in the Town of Braintree to a point where it crosses the dividing line between the City of Quincy and the Town of Braintree; said point being about 2,000 feet west from West Howard street, all as shown on plan and profiles made by H. T Whitman, Engineer, dated October, 1902, and filed with their petition.

The Mayor and City Council may from time to time make such regulations relative to the motive power to be used, the rate of speed to be run and the time and manner of using the road over and upon such ways and travelled places as in their judgment the public safety and convenience require, and they may order such changes to be made in the tracks as are rendered necessary by the alteration or repair of such way.

And it is further ordered that notice of said hearing be given by the petitioners by publishing a copy of this order in the Quincy Daily Ledger and Quincy Advertiser, at least fourteen (14) days before the time of said hearing.

Adopted December 15, 1902.

Much Lower Figures for New Schoolhouse.

Of Granite and Brick for $41,911.00.

George Howard the Lowest of Eight Bidders.

Bids were opened at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works Monday afternoon for building the ten-room brick schoolhouse at Quincy Point.

Eight bids were received and with one exception there was but a little difference between the bidders.

The bids were made on artificial granite and on Quincy granite, are as follows:

George Howard:
Artificial granite	$40,598.00
Quincy granite	41,911.00
John Cashman:
Artificial granite	42,125.00

Julius Johnson
Artificial granite	55,631.00
Quincy granite	57,431.00

Monday evening, after consultation with the Mayor, it was decided to award the contract to George Howard of Brockton the lowest bidder. The contract was made upon his bid of $41,911 which is with Quincy granite.

Mr. Howard is a thoroughly reliable contractor and has already built several large buildings in Quincy. Among them the Massachusetts Fields, Gridley Bryant and Cranch school buildings, the street railway car barn on Hancock street and the addition made to the street railway power house at Quincy Point early this year.

It is probable that he will commence excavating for the new building immediately, and when spring opens the material will all be on the ground ready to commence active work.

Mrs. Goodridge.

Mrs. Isabella, widow of Mr. Lorenzo D. Goodridge, died at her home at 39 Granite street this noon after a brief illness, aged 77 years. Mrs. Goodridge had been a resident of Quincy for many years and was well known among the older Quincy residents. She leaves two sons and three daughters. Of her children Edward B. has been a compositor of the Ledger office for many years and Miss Anna has been at the store of Miss C. S. Hubbard. The other daughters are Mrs. Isabel F. Dunbar, who has been living at home and Carrie who is the wife of W. Austin Winslow of Brockton.

Hyde Park Assault Case.

Howard E. Smith of Hyde Park is again on trial in the Superior court at Dedham for assault on a little girl. He is defended by J. W., and J. J. McAnarney.

On the jury are Eben F. Mitchell of Quincy and Rufus H. Woodsum of Braintree.

District Attorney French briefly told the story of the crime at the opening on Monday, and eight witnesses for the government were examined.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

☞ There will be a grand souvenir children's matinee at Music hall Christmas day at 2 o'clock and every child will receive a beautiful Christmas souvenir.

SHIPS CREATED.

Pride Felt by Builders at Successful Achievements.

Irving M. Scott, the contractor for the Battleship Oregon writes:

"Engines are manufactured: houses are built; a ship is created. Therein lies the joy of her construction. There is nothing so fascinating as to watch the keel of a ship laid, true as a compass, straight as a shaft of light. Her daily progress as her frames are put into place, her inner and outer plates fitted and secured, and her internal arrangements planned and completed, is a never-ending pleasure.

Then comes the placing of her engines and boilers, the alignments of her shafts and propellers, the electric lighting and refrigerating plants, means of communication between her different parts, steering apparatus with all its various modifications and finally the mounting of her big guns and placing of her secondary batteries.

"Besides these, there is the storing of her ammunition to be attended to, the electric hoists to be built for the conveyance of powder and shell from their storage places to the guns, system of drainage and ventilation to be perfected, the surgeon's quarters and stores to be made ready for use, and comfortable and healthful quarters for the sailors to be planned.

"Finally, when in every detail she is in perfect order, when a thousand hammers have struck their last blow and a thousand sturdy arms are at rest, comes the day when we send the creation of our heart and brains out into the great ocean, uncertain ourselves as to what she will do.

"It is triumph—triumph more than any man can understand who has not known it, when under the exhaustive requirements of the Government she successfully performs every duty required. And when finally we are able to turn her over to the Government with a record unexcelled, our pride in her is increased two-fold."

"The last, the greatest joy of shipbuilding has been ours in one instance. When the United States asked the best that a ship could do, the Oregon did no fail. She responded readily to the intelligences which set her heart throbbing and her nerves quivering. She astonished the world in the performance of all her great tasks."

Victory for Dr. Hershey.

The Boston Presbytery voted Monday not to accept the resignation of Rev. Dr. Scott F. Hershey as pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Boston. Rev. Dr. Todd of Quincy and Elder Christie were appointed a committee to defend the action of Presbytery.

Rain and Slush.

The rain today has already made walking disagreeable. In some places the walks have become slushy and on the brick sidewalks ice has formed making them rather slippery for pedestrians.

CITY BREVITIES.

Wooden sidewalks are appreciated.

How do you like soft coal in the kitchen range?

The Ladies' Benevolent Society will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Tenney, Prospect avenue.

The Wollaston Choral Union will meet in the vestry Wednesday evening at 7.45. All singers are invited to join.

Wollaston people praised very highly the good work of the Street department in breaking out the sidewalks Sunday morning.

The Ladies' Aid Alliance will hold a meeting in the Wollaston Unitarian church parlor on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

The third cake sale under the auspices of the Ladies' Alliance will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank W. White, 129 Winthrop avenue, on Saturday, Dec. 20, from two till five o'clock.

Last Friday afternoon a flock of about seventy-five wild geese were seen flying over Quincy. Their loud honking and rapid flight indicated a coming storm, and they were not false harbingers.

There is a family in Wollaston whose furnace is burning cord wood these days of the coal famine. The resulting heat is gratifying, but the attention required exhausts the patience and time of the lady of the house. "I'm thinking," she said yesterday, "of moving down cellar so as to save running up and down stairs all day."

The services at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday were all well attended in spite of the deep snow. At the vesper service a very superior program was given by the choir. Rev. Mr. Chase spoke interestingly of the hymns of John Mason Neal and particularly of his translations of Bernard of Culny's great poem Hora Novissima.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Wednesday, Dec. 17.
Sun rises—7:08; sets—4:13.
Moon rises—7:37 p. m.
High water—12:30 a. m.; 12.45 p. m.

A southwestern storm has moved northward to Lake Michigan with increased intensity, accompanied by general rains from the Mississippi valley eastward, except in New England. There will be rain or snow in New England. Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast from Hatteras to Eastport.

A Good Hearted Man, or in other words, men with good sound hearts, are not very numerous. The increasing number of sudden deaths from heart disease daily chronicled by the press, is proof of the alarming prevalence of this dangerous complaint, and as no one can foretell just when a fatal collapse will occur, the danger of neglecting treatment is certainly a very risky matter. If you are short of breath, have pain in left side, smothering spells, palpitation, unable to lie on side, especially the left, you should begin taking

CHRONIC COUGHS

OFTEN ARE THE BEGINNING OF CONSUMPTION.

Stop Your Cough and Avoid Future Trouble.

We Will Guarantee That We Can Do It For You.

Our Vinol is the Remedy for all Pulmonary Affections.

Vinol is a preparation that is delicious to take.

It consists of a delicate table wine in which has been dissolved the active curative principles that are found in the liver of the live cod, and to which cod-liver oil owes its reputation as a remedy for coughs, colds and all wasting diseases.

If there is any one who has a cough, a tendency to take cold easily, or a dread of consumption, we would like to have them call and permit us to explain what we know about Vinol and why we believe it will cure all such troubles more surely and quickly than any other remedy ever given to the public.

Following is a letter which has just come to hand and which shows how beneficially Vinol acted in one instance:

"I had a severe cough of long standing. I was advised by friends to give your Vinol a trial, which I did. Before taking it I had tried many other remedies for coughs without obtaining any relief. With Vinol it was different. I have now used four bottles of it, and am pleased to say my cough has almost entirely left me. I have been decidedly benefited by its use in every way. Very truly yours."—H. E. SMALL, Boston, Mass.

Vinol acts beneficially upon the digestive organs, enabling them to obtain for themselves the elements from which are made firm healthy flesh tissue, sound muscle, strong bone structure and pure blood.

We recommend Vinol unreservedly.

If you will call on us at our store, we will tell you why we have such faith in this new wine of cod-liver oil.

We guarantee that if you suffer from any symptoms that indicate troubles for which we know Vinol is intended, we will refund to you your money if you don't find Vinol helps you.

DOCTRINE OF MONROE

Not Violated by British Claims Upon Venezuela

MATTER BEFORE COMMONS

Cranborne and Balfour Defend Action of the Government—Proceedings Against Venezuela Now Tripartite by Italy's Participation In Blockade

London, Dec. 16.—The house was crowded last evening when the Venezuelan matter came up for debate. Mr. Schwann, after having expressed surprise that the government was anxious for another war after South Africa, complained of the paucity of the information concerning the Venezuelan situation which has been given in parliament. He said he hoped arbitration would be accepted, because, although President Roosevelt is anxious to act correctly, the situation is full of danger and the president's hand might be forced by politicians. He moved an adjournment of the house to discuss Venezuelan matters.

Lord Cranborne spoke after Mr. Schwann. He reproached Schwann with a desire to discredit the government, and said that Great Britain had to perform police duty among the nations and had to prevent Venezuela from breaking the law of nations. The United States took the sensible view that Great Britain's insistence that Venezuela should meet her engagements was no infraction of the Monroe doctrine.

"No country has been more anxious than Great Britain," said Lord Cranborne, "to assist the American government in maintaining that doctrine." This remark was greeted with cheers. Continuing, the under foreign secretary said the British government had displayed great forbearance and that it was only after Venezuela had been thrice summoned to do right that the government had been driven to strong measures to secure the safety, liberty and property of British subjects in Venezuela, and that in the execution of these measures the government desired to pursue the same course of moderation. Lord Cranborne said also that the blockade would be carried out with every regard for the interests of neutrals.

Lord Cranborne denied that the British commander was responsible for the sinking of the Venezuelan ships. The under secretary said that his majesty's government had been informed that the German commodore found it necessary to sink two ships, but Great Britain was not responsible for this.

The Liberal leader, Campbell-Bannerman, then voiced his strong dissatisfaction with Lord Cranborne's speech. He complained of the lack of information about the German and British claims which, he said, seemed to be on a different footing. The speaker said he was an advocate of the best possible feeling between the two countries, but that in this matter Great Britain seemed to be bound hand and foot to Germany.

"We can do nothing with regard to our claims," continued the Liberal leader, "unless the Germans are perfectly satisfied with the settlement of their claims. Such an agreement is contrary to the country's best interests. The noble lord has said nothing about an important communication received from the United States; there would be universal satisfaction if this communication was of such a nature as to lead to a peaceful solution of what, after all, seems to be a somewhat squalid difficulty."

Premier Balfour then spoke of the "painful international episode." He declared there was no justification for the assumption that the government was prepared to go to war for the Venezuelan bondholders. The crux of the matter was a series of outrages by Venezuelans on British seamen and ship owners, for which not only had compensation been refused, but Great Britain's remonstrances had been entirely disregarded. It was an intolerable situation, and the premier denied that the government had been unduly hasty. Campbell-Bannerman, he said, appeared to desire to co-operate with Germany on his own peculiar terms, but few allies would be prepared to act on such a basis.

Continuing Mr. Balfour said that insofar as the financial claims were concerned the government was prepared to agree to a tribunal to assess them equitably. He said also that the United States government had not suggested arbitration. Anglo-German interests in Venezuela had been entrusted to the American minister at Caracas, Mr. Bowen, who, with admirable energy, had protected the lives of British and German subjects. The premier said he understood that it was from Venezuela, through the United States, that the suggestion for arbitration had come. On that point he would only say it was unfortunate that Venezuela should not have thought of the advantages of arbitration during the long period covered by those controversies, but that on the contrary she should have refused all explanation or apology until actually engaged in hostilities; then this idea of arbitration suddenly commended itself to their minds. The premier said he would say nothing for or against this idea, and repeated that it had not come from the government of the United States.

Other members of the house then criticised the government for its action, and pressed for additional information. Timothy M. Healy declared that the Irish vote in America had driven the British government into a humiliating alliance with Germany, and warned the government that it was in a perilous position, owing to the state of political feeling in the United States.

Replying to questions, Premier Balfour said Italy was sending warships to Venezuelan waters, but that there was no agreement between Italy and Great Britain as there was between Great Britain and Germany. Referring to the Anglo-German fleets on the Venezuelan coasts, the premier said there was no question of seniority, as the two fleets were acting along different parts of the coast and independently of each other.

Mr. Schwann's motion was rejected without a division.

Tripartite Proceedings

Berlin, Dec. 16.—The foreign office has informed The Associated Press that Italy will participate in the blockade by agreement with the allies and that a portion of the coast will be assigned to the Italian ships. The proceedings against Venezuela thus become in every respect tripartite.

British Flag Over Puerto Cabello

London, Dec. 16.—Cabling from Willemstad, Curacao, a correspondent of The Daily Mail says the British flag is now flying over the port at Puerto Cabello, and that President Castro has granted amnesty to many revolutionary leaders.

Monroe Doctrine "Sent Sky High"

Rome, Dec. 16.—In the chamber of deputies yesterday, Foreign Minister Prinetti, replying to an interpellation, made a statement on the subject of Italy's attitude towards Venezuela. He reviewed the causes leading up to the Anglo-German action and said: "Italy on her side claims damages for her citizens who sustained losses during the insurrection which has disturbed the republic since April. The Italian minister at Caracas, having exhausted all efforts to bring about a friendly adjustment, presented a list of claims reduced to a minimum of 2,810,256 bolivars."

Continuing, the foreign minister said that further considerable damage to Italians in Venezuela had been caused during the last revolution, but that the amount of these damages had not yet been ascertained. As soon as he was informed of the Anglo-German action he addressed London and Berlin, proposing to participate in the measure these countries were about to undertake to collect similar claims, and his proposition was favorably received.

The prime minister was followed by Deputy Santini, who expressed confidence in the government's policy, and urged accord with Germany and Great Britain. The deputy warned the Italian government to "watch the United States, whose imperialism is a political and commercial menace to Europe, and especially to Italy, the weakest of the great powers."

Continuing Deputy Santini declared that the energetic attitude of Germany and Great Britain had "sent the Monroe doctrine sky high, as the United States understood it was not dealing with poor Spain."

The Feeling at Washington

Washington, Dec. 16.—The South and Central American diplomatic representatives here are in a state of anxiety that finds expression in frequent calls at the state department for information. No less than six ministers were among Secretary Hay's visitors yesterday, although it was not diplomatic reception day. Secretary Hay was in conference at the White House for a short time with the president regarding Venezuelan affirs.

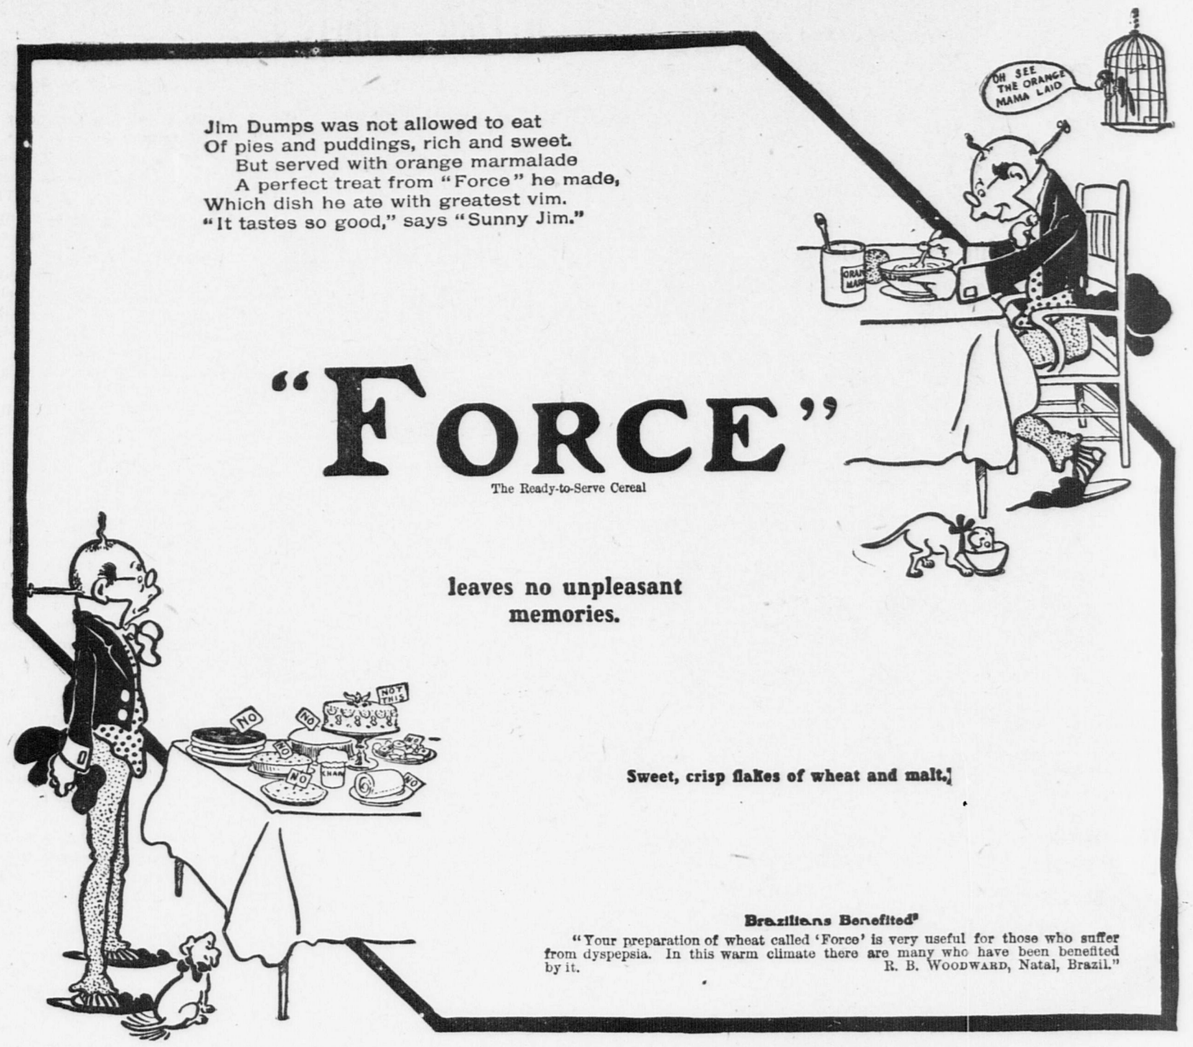

Among senators and representatives who have discussed the Venezuelan matter with President Roosevelt the situation is regarded as serious, but it is not generally believed to be likely that the United States will become involved in the controversy.

FOR UNIVERSAL PEACE

Roosevelt's Interpretation of Monroe Doctrine

NOT HOSTILE TO OLD WORLD

But Will Prevent Territorial Aggrandizement at Expense of New World Nations—Italy, Spain and Belgium Present Requests to Venezeuela For Payment of Their Claims

Washington, Dec. 17.—The Venezuelan question occupied the attention of the senate in executive session yesterday. Senator Teller, disclaiming all intention of being critical and saying he merely desired information, asked Senator Cullom, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, what information he possessed as to the Venezuelan affair. Mr. Teller, in inquiring, said that the situation is such that senators felt that the Monroe doctrine at any time might become involved if the complication should continue.

Senator Cullom replied to the inquiry that he had no knowledge of recent events not contained in the public prints. He said that much light as to the attitude of the administration could be obtained by consulting the correspondence conducted between the state department and the German ambassador a year ago. He stated that on Dec. 10, 1901, the representative of Emperor William had brought the matter of Venezuelan debts and her apparent indifference to them to the attention of the secretary of state. The German ambassador in his letter gave the department complete information from the German standpoint of the position of his government.

He said that for seven years Venezuela had failed to pay interest on a debt to German citizens of about $5,000,000, contracted in the construction of a railroad, and that in addition there were other debts amounting to about $1,700,000 due German citizens from Venezuela, which it had proved impossible to collect. He added that every known peaceable means had been tried to secure the money and that his government, feeling that patience had ceased to be a virtue, had decided to use coercive means. It was desired, however, he said, that it should be explicitly understood that in whatever steps might be taken by his country, there was no desire to encroach on, or interfere with the Monroe doctrine.

Secretary Hay replied Dec. 16, 1901, in effect that the Monroe doctrine was not intended to shield any American nation against the payment of its honest debts and that its purpose was to prevent the acquisition of territory by old world nations. To further elucidate the position of the United States on the Monroe doctrine, he quoted from the first annual message of President Roosevelt, which had then been in the hands of congress for only a few days, as follows:

"The Monroe doctrine is a declaration that there must be no territorial aggrandizement by any non-American power at the expense of any American power on American soil. It is in no wise intended as hostile to any nation in the old world. Still less is it intended to give cover to any aggression by one new world power at the expense of any other. It is simply a step and a long step, toward assuring the universal peace of the world, be securing the possibility of permanent peace on this hemisphere.

"During the past century other influences have established the permanence and independence of the smaller states of Europe. Through the Monroe doctrine we hope to be able to safeguard like independence and secure like permanence for the lesser among the new world nations.

"This doctrine has nothing to do with the commercial relations of any American power, save that it in truth allows each of them to form such as it desires. In other words, it is really a guaranty of the commercial independence of the Americans. We do not ask under this doctrine for any exclusive commercial dealings with any other American state. We do not guarantee any state against punishment if it misconducts itself, provided that punishment does not take the form of the acquisition of territory by an non-American power."

Messrs. Bacon, Hoar, Lodge and Stewart all made remarks. In none of the addresses was anything harsh or critical said. The tone of all the speeches, whether by Republicans or Democrats, was that our position as a nation should be one of watchfulness. There was general agreement that while the means adopted by Great Britain and Germany had been quite strenuous, they thus far had committed no infringement of the Monroe doctrine and, therefore, had done nothing to which the United States could take exception.

The Italian ambassador called at the state department yesterday and advised Secretary Hay that Italy has joined the allies in the operations against Venezuela. He requested that Mr. Bowen assume charge of the Italian interests in Venezuela. The secretary granted this request, subject to the approval of Venezuela. Italy enters the combination on the same basis as to abstention from territorial seizures as Germany and Great Britain.

The Italian ambassador explained to Secretary Hay that it had been the hope of the Rome government at first to reach a satisfactory settlement of her claims against Venezuela such as France had secured. To this end a polite but firm note was addressed to the Caracas foreign office after the ultimatums of Germany and Great Britain had been sent. Pending a reply the Italian authorities did not resort to drastic measures. When the reply came it was found to be not only a rejection of all Italy's demands, but its tone was wholly displeasing and it was therefore necessary for Italy to follow suit with Germany and Great Britain and join in the naval demonstration. There is one Italian vessel now at La Guaira and two more are understood to have sailed yesterday for Venezuelan waters from Naples.

DEPARTURE OF DE RIVA

Severs Diplomatic Relations Between Italy and Venezuela

Caracas, Dec. 17.—Signor De Riva had been instructed by his government to present to the government of Venezuela Italy's demand for the immediate payment of $542,000, to meet the Italian claims arising from former revolutions, in the form of an ultimatum. As it is known that the Venezuelan government cannot pay the amount demanded, the communication to the minister included orders to leave Caracas at once. The ultimatum from Italy is couched in stronger terms than those used in the ultimatum presented to Venezuela by Great Britain and Germany. Italy will take part in future demonstrations against Venezuela. The Italian ultimatum was presented at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and Minister De Riva at once left Caracas. He went on board the Italian cruiser Giovanni Bausan at La Guaira this morning.

The interests of Italy in Venezuela will be placed in the hands of United States Minister Bowen. The Italian colony in Caracas is a very numerous one. The Italian shield over the legation door will be removed from the building, and instructions will be sent to all Italian consuls in Venezuela to remove the shields over their consulates. This step will be taken in order that the rupture between Italy and Venezuela may be apparent.

The Spanish minister to Venezuela, Senor Gaytan de Ayalla, and the Belgian charge d'affaires, M. Van Der Heyde, have presented a joint letter to the Venezuelan minister of foreign affairs, in which they ask in case the claims of other foreign powers are paid by Venezuela that the same treatment given these powers be accorded to Spain and Belgium.

It is learned at the foreign office here that the proposal of arbitration made by President Castro through Mr. Bowen specifies no terms and proposes to arbitrate all pending questions. An answer to the proposal is anxiously awaited here.

Our Guarantee Not Forthcoming

London, Dec. 17.—Judging from statements given out by the foreign office the Venezuelan situation does not appear to be any nearer a settlement. The foreign office appears to be without official cognizance of the attitude of the Washington government, although it is convinced unofficially that Washington is anxious that further hostilities be avoided. It is known that the foreign office has made inquiry as to whether the United States would be willing to guarantee the fulfilling of Venezuela's pledges. This inquiry resulted in a direct negative from the United States. With the guarantee of the United States, the foreign office says, arbitration in the Venezuelan matter would be an immediate probability; but, with only the word of a government hitherto unreliable, arbitration is difficult of acceptance.

Details of Sinking Ships

Washington, Dec. 17.—Advices received at the German embassy show that of the three Venezuelan men-of-war captured by the German squadron, the Restaurador is of 600 tons displacement and the Totumo and General Crespo were of 137 tons each. Manned with German sailors, the Restaurador now flies the German flag. The other two vessels, it is claimed, were not seaworthy enough to make the voyage to Trinidad, nor was it possible to tow them to port, as the squadron was in search of Venezuelan men-of-war. The German commander, realizing the ships were of no value, decided to sink them.

British Opinion Hurts Germans

Berlin, Dec. 17.—The newspapers here print long dispatches indicating that British public opinion is against the partnership with Germany in the coercion of Venezuela and the German papers are evincing a certain amount of pique. They suggest that Germany would have done better to act alone, and they say the German government must think twice on a future occasion before agreeing to act with Great Britain.

How Germany Feels

Berlin, Dec. 17.—It is doubtful if, at the present stage of the Venezuelan difficulty, arbitration can be considered by Germany. Germany can afford to await the outcome of a situation that is very uncomfortable for President Castro.

Mrs Maybrick's Prison Life

London, Dec. 17.—Baroness de Roques visited her daughter, Florence Maybrick, in Aylesbury prison yesterday. She found Mrs. Maybrick to be in delicate health, but cheerful. Mrs. Maybrick has been transferred from the manual labor department of the prison to the library.

Strike Commission Again Decides It Cannot Take It Up

GOMPERS GIVES TESTIMONY

Declares That Coal Companies Are Responsible For Bringing Immigrants to the Coal Region—Labor Union Must Protect Them

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 17.—Notwithstanding the fact that the mine workers announced on Monday that they had closed their case with the exception of calling one more witness, both sessions of the strike commission yesterday were consumed in hearing three witnesses for the men. They were John C. Haddock, an individual operator; Rev. Dr. Peter Roberts, who is assisting the miners, and President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor.

The principal point in Mr. Haddock's testimony was that he favored giving the mine workers concessions, under certain conditions.

The miners made another attempt to have admitted a mass of testimony tending to show that the anthracite coal-carrying roads charge extortionate and discriminating freight rates and that a monopoly exists in the anthracite mining industry which keeps the wages of men at an unnatural low level. The commission again decided that the evidence must be limited to the scope of the commission and if it did take up the claims made in the evidence proposed to be submitted, the justifiableness of the mine workers' demands would still remain.

President Gompers occupied the witness stand throughout the afternoon. He said the hours of labor of the workmen generally throughout the country have been materially reduced. Regarding trade agreements Mr. Gompers said they have always been advantageous to both the workmen and his employer.

Chairman Gray, who is taking an especial interest in boycotts, asked Mr. Gompers what he thought of such methods.

The witness said he would boycott any person that is unfair to his workmen, but would not boycott a man who chooses to do business with the person that is boycotted.

Mr. Gompers said that employers made a mistake when they refused to recognize organized labor. The employers, he said, have no moral right to refuse to confer with a committee of his employes. In reply to Bishop Spalding, he said he would not favor incorporating a union.

Mr. Gompers was cross-examined by James Torrey, counsel of the Delaware and Hudson company. Mr. Torrey asked the witness if he did not believe that members of the United Mine Workers of America should be 21 years of age and able to read and write before they are admitted to membership in the union.

To this the witness replied: "Yes, 10 years from now, and when the companies stop bringing illiterate foreigners to this country. They are brought here by the companies and the labor union must protect them and see that they get their rights."

Mr. Torrey asked him if he could prove that coal companies were guilty of such a thing. Witness replied that he felt certain it was true, because he had seen copies of circulars which have been sent around in southern Europe asking people to come into Pennsylvania and there was plenty of money to be earned in the mines.

Mr. Torrey asked him if steamship companies were not the authors of those circulars, to which Mr. Gompers replied that he had seen 10, 20 and 30 men huddled together in huts in the anthracite coal fields, and he noted that it was not long after they arrived here that they were given employment in the mines. He offered to give to the commission the name of a man who could give the facts to the commission. He did not care to make his name public.

The cross-examination continued until 4:30 o'clock, when the commission adjourned until today.

Oil Barges Still Astray

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Dec. 17.—Tug De Witt C. Ivins, which has been out since last Friday looking for the two lost Standard oil barges, has arrived here. She cruised at a distance of about 26 miles to sea, but saw no trace of the barges. She was obliged to return for coal.

Good Afternoon.

That Mayor Bryant is for a business administration is shown by the order abolishing the Saturday half holiday. Many have found Saturday afternoons to be the most convenient time to visit City Hall, only to find it closed. The hours of city officials, even under the new order, will be shorter than most business men and laborers.

The route of the proposed freight railroad connecting the shipyard with the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., is clearly outlined in our reading columns today, and a more technical description will be found in the notice of hearing by the City Council. The possibilities of spur tracks along the route will bring into use a section of country almost forgotten, we might almost say, out of the world, to the benefit of both Quincy and Braintree. The branch will be about a mile long and will cross only four or five streets. The old Wendell quarry may again be worked; there is a good chance for a large ice pond; and acres upon acres for manufacturing plants at small cost. Perhaps the greatest objection will be the crossing of Quincy avenue with its electric car line at grade. It should not be difficult for the new railroad to get under the avenue at this point, especially as the street could be raised without causing any land damage of importance. In these days when so much is being expended in abolishing grade crossing we should be careful about creating more such crossings.

Of course the new railroad may not be used much at present, but that is uncertain, and it may soon be extended to the Tube works, to Town river, and possibly to Germantown and Houghs Neck.

THE FREIGHT R.R.

Location as Asked to East Braintree.

Will Develop Many Acres in Quincy.

A Few Crossings at Grade are Proposed.

It has been in the air for a long time that a branch, or spur track was to be built from the main line of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. to the works of the Fore River Co. at Quincy Neck but until the petition for a location was presented Monday night to the City Council few knew much about the route that would be selected.

According to the plans filed with the petition, the route is largely through private property. The only places it touches public streets is where it crosses them and the crossings are all at grade.

The line leaves the Fore River shipyard on the Howard avenue, side crossing that street at a point about 125 feet from the corner of Howard street. It then runs in a southwesterly direction through the land formerly of Henry H. Faxon, T. A. Watson and Frank S. Patch to Quincy avenue.

At the rear of S. F. Newcomb's store it runs nearly parallel with Howard street, and about 125 east of it, and crosses Quincy avenue about 200 feet on the Braintree side of Howard street. From the works to this point the grade is quite even, and but little filling or cutting will be necessary until Quincy avenue is approached. Commencing at a point about 450 feet north of Quincy avenue, the fill begins, the deepest fill being about seven and one-half feet.

From Quincy avenue the route runs by a curved line to West Howard street which it crosses at a point 250 feet south of the line of the old Wendell railroad. On the south side of Quincy avenue there is a short fill of about 7 1-2 feet. The line then strikes a knoll about 200 feet wide. This knoll is to be cut off the deepest cut being about 17 feet. It then approaches West Howard street and crosses at grade.

After crossing West Howard street, the line follows the old quarry railroad, between Roger Bros. ice houses and their ice pond. From this point the line curves and is first in Braintree and then in Quincy until a point near what is known as High ledge, all the time on private land. It then crosses a swamp and thereafter is altogether in Braintree.

The line turns at the swamp and runs through land of F. S. Patch and Mrs. Austin White to Commercial street.

After crossing West Howard street the line runs nearly at grade for a distance of about 2800 feet, requiring but little cutting or filling. Then there is a short fill near Commercial street of about 7 feet.

The route from Commercial street is by a curved line over a large hole which will be trestled. For about 500 feet it runs at grade although there is a gradual fill as it approaches Elm street. The fill at that point being about 7 feet on each side of the street. The fill continues after crossing Elm street for a distance of about 700 feet, when it again strikes grade.

Between Elm and Adams street there is a pond which the railroad crosses on a pile bridge. It crosses Adams street at a point 450 feet from Commercial street, thence through the property of Mrs. B. T. Loring to the South Shore branch of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., a little south of the East Braintree station.

The total length of the railroad is about a mile, and when built will be the property of the Fore River Ship and Engine Co. The City Council will give a hearing Wednesday evening, Dec. 31, on the location.

City Hall Hours.

A new order was issued by Mayor Bryant at City Hall Tuesday afternoon, which in effect was that hereafter and until further notice City Hall offices would be open for business Saturday afternoons. For a year or more past the rule has been for the offices to close at noon on Saturdays. While it was generally known about City Square that the offices were closed that afternoon it was not generally understood in the outlying wards, and not unfrequently citizens having business at City Hall have made their trip to City Square Saturday afternoon only to find the offices closed.

Hyde Park Assault.

The defence was reached Tuesday at Dedham in the case of Howard E. Smith for assault, and 25 witnesses were called. Efforts will be made to prove on alibi.

A Six-Master.

A six-masted schooner built of wood, the Addie M. Lawrence, was launched at Bath today at 12.30.

The vessel has a two tier keel of birch and maple, 13 by 15 inches, and her main keelson is six tiers high, 14 by 14 inches. There are two three-tier keelsons, one on each side of the main keelson, and each fourteen inches square.

The craft is planked with yellow pine running from 14 inches on the bottom to six inches on the gunwale. The ceiling and decks are also of yellow pine, the lower deck being already laid and the main deck nearly completed. The vessel has a poop deck which runs forward to about half way between the mainmast and the foremast.

Each of the six tall masts is a handsome specimen of Oregon pine, 118 feet tall. The topmasts are of the best selected spruce, 55 feet tall. Wire has been used exclusively in rigging, all set up very tightly with turnbuckles. The sails are of the best quality duck and her approximate sail area will be about 9000 yards.

The vessel will carry two stockless anchors, Percy & Small having been the first firm in the city to adopt this style exclusively. Each weighs 8500 pounds and is attached to 250 fathoms of 2 1-2 inch hard welded chain.

The machinery is of the latest model and every labor-saving device known has been installed, including a Hyde windlass, steam engine and boiler, deck pumps, force pump and implements for loading and unloading cargoes.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

CITY ACCOUNTING.

A Move for a Uniform System in Massachusetts.

The Massachusetts State Board of Trade is moving for a uniform accounting in cities and towns. At a meeting on Tuesday, Loyed E. Chamberlin of Brockton, chairman of the committee on legislation, submitted the report of that body on a uniform system of auditing, recommending a development of the Massachusetts plan of county accounting, and also that the state board of trade urge on the incoming legislature the passage of a law on the general lines of that now in force in Ohio. The report was unanimously adopted.

Henry S. Chase in an address said in part: "It is essential that our first endeavors should be to draw up a complete and satisfactory form for the city comptroller's (or auditor's) annual report which shall comprehend all of the financial statistics of the year arranged in such tabulations that the facts can be easily understood by any reasonably intelligent citizen. Not only must the form of the report be clear and easily compared with previous reports, but it should also be arranged so as to be compared readily with reports of other cities of similar size.

"While taking the intelligent citizen's point of view as the one to be primarily emphasized, we must also time bear in mind that, up to the present the only real interest in any city's financial reports has been displayed by the city officials immediately concerned and by a few exceptionally well informed citizens, usually professional students of civic affairs; so that, while aiming to awaken interest in the average citizen, we must not sacrifice the points which give these reports their present value to the city officials."

"The difference in these two points of view, generally speaking, is this: That the citizen looks at the matter as he would any other business enterprise, viz., How much does the city take in, and how much does it spend in each department, and how much taxes will I have to pay to make up the difference between income and expenditure?" The city official, on the other hand, looks at it from the point of view of appropriations, the fundamental question with him being, Is the expenditure within the appropriation duly made for it? Both points of view are essential, but that hitherto the officials view has been set forth in most comptrollers' reports to the exclusion of the citizens's view.

Fair at West Quincy.

In spite of the severe storm Tuesday evening, there was a good attendance at the fair of the Ladies' Social Union of the Methodist church, held in the vestry of the church, which was decorated with colored bunting.

During the evening there was a pleasing entertainment consisting of vocal selections by Miss Blanche Tilton; readings by Mrs. A. B. Leavitt, and grapaphone selections by A. B. Leavitt.

On both sides of the vestry there were tables for the sale of useful and fancy articles, etc. These were presided over as follows:

Foresters Visitation.

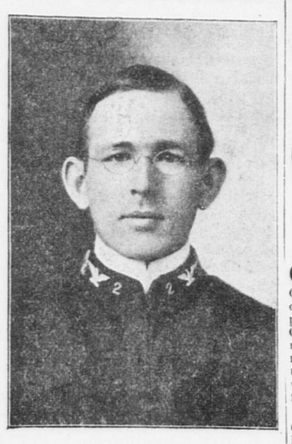

St. Ambrose Court, 172, M. C. O. F. of West Quincy, received an official visitation Tuesday evening from the officers of the High Court of Massachusetts, including High Chief Ranger, Daniel A. Cronin; High Vice Chief Ranger, T. B. Reardon; High Secretary-Treasurer, John J. Leonard; High Senior Conductor, Dennis E. Murphy; High Junior Conductor, Charles E. Bonning; High Inside Sentinel, J. N. O'Brien; High Outside Sentinel, Dennis D. Driscoll; High Court Chaplain, Rev. James H. O'Neil.

Mrs. Joseph M. Sheahan, High Chief Ranger of St. Ambrose Court, presided, and brief addresses were made by the High Court officers and Rev. A. F. Roche, who with the officers of St. Francis court were present as guests.

Aside from the remarks there were piano solos by Miss Mary Dillon and Mrs. J. H. Watson. Refreshments were served.

Camp Boyd Officers.

At the meeting of John A. Boyd Camp, Legion of Spanish War Veterans, held Tuesday evening Councilman George E. Adams was reelected commander. The other officers elected were:

COMMANDER ADAMS.

Senior Vice Commander,—Leon W. Delano.

Junior Vice Commander,—Thomas C. Brown.

Adjutant,—George A. Wardwell.

Quartermaster,—John W. Fitzgerald.

Paymaster,—George F. Phillips.

Delegates to Convention,—George A. Wardwell and David G. Smith.

Alternates,—John R. McGrath, Frank A. Hodges.

The officers will be installed on Tuesday evening, January 6.

Heavy Rain.

The rain Tuesday increased in violence as night approached, and at times during the evening it came down in torrents. The snow disappeared rapidly and the streets were converted into running rivers. Walking outside of City Square was something terrible for the rain had softened the snow on the sidewalks so that the slush was several inches deep. Owing to the gutters not having been cleared out the water gathered in miniature ponds. This was especially the case at the street railway switches and the railway had difficulty in finding the switch tongues. It cleared off during the night and this morning walking had improved greatly.

Five Little Ones Killed by Explosion

Fort Lee, N. J., Dec. 17.—By the explosion of a gas tank yesterday the residence of John Puglughi was demolished, his five children instantly killed, and his wife so seriously injured that her recovery is despaired of. When the father returned home in the evening he found his home in ruins, while in an adjoining house lay the bodies of his children.

Coal Steamer Foundered

London, Dec. 17.—The British coal steamer Marlay left Liverpool for Dublin with coal Monday. She experienced heavy weather in mid-channel. A lifeboat was lowered, but it washed away with one man in it. This sailor was rescued and he declares that the Marlay foundered and 16 men were drowned.

Insanity Plea Failed

New York, Dec. 17.—Thomas Tobin was yesterday convicted of the murder of Captain James B. Craft of Glen Cove, L. I., whose decapitated body was found about two months ago in the Empire music hall. The defense unsuccessfully sought to prove insanity.

CITY OF QUINCY.

IN COUNCIL,
December, 15th, 1902.

ORDERED: That a public hearing be given in the Council Chamber at City Hall, Quincy, Mass., on December 31, 1902, at 8 o'clock, P. M. to all persons interested in the petition of The Fore River Ship and Engine Company, dated December 15, 1902, for permission to construct, maintain and operate a railroad for private use at grade across and upon certain highways and travelled places within said city as set forth in said petition, as follows:

The route-line of the proposed railroad in the City of Quincy begins at a point on land owned by the Fore River Ship and Engine Company and runs first in a southwesterly direction across Howard avenue, so-called, at a point about 115 feet easterly from Howard street; thence the said route-line continues in a generally southwesterly direction over private land to Quincy avenue; thence across Quincy avenue and the tracks of the Old Colony Street R. R. Co., at a point about 170 feet southerly from Howard street; thence running westerly over private land to West Howard street; thence across West Howard street, so-called, at a point about 20 feet northerly from the Braintree line; thence the proposed route-line continues in a westerly and northwesterly direction partly in the City of Quincy and partly in the Town of Braintree to a point where it crosses the dividing line between the City of Quincy and the Town of Braintree; said point being about 2,000 feet west from West Howard street, all as shown on plan and profiles made by H. T Whitman, Engineer, dated October, 1902, and filed with their petition.

The Mayor and City Council may from time to time make such regulations relative to the motive power to be used, the rate of speed to be run and the time and manner of using the road over and upon such ways and travelled places as in their judgment the public safety and convenience require, and they may order such changes to be made in the tracks as are rendered necessary by the alteration or repair of such way.

And it is further ordered that notice of said hearing be given by the petitioners by publishing a copy of this order in the Quincy Daily Ledger and Quincy Advertiser, at least fourteen (14) days before the time of said hearing.

Adopted December 15, 1902.

Court of Land Registration.

TO George D. Hayward and Frank Ferdinand of Boston in the County of Suffolk, Anna Hayward, Sarah H. Hayward, Herman F. McIntire, individually and as Trustee, John Swithin, Trustee, and Jonathan Eliphas Hayward of Quincy, J. Parker Hayward, Charles A. Hayward, Susan P. Wainwright and Joseph Crane of Weymouth, and Lemuel A. Hayward of Braintree, in the County of Norfolk and said Commonwealth, and Francis I. Amory, Leverett S. Tuckerman and Francis B Sears, Trustees under the will of Jeanne P. Amory, late of said Braintree, deceased, and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by the American Tube Works, a corporation duly established and existing under the Laws of said Commonwealth, and located at said Boston, to register and confirm its title in the following described land: A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situate in said Braintree and bounded: Southerly, easterly and southerly again by land of Susan Perkins Wainwright; westerly by Quincy avenue; northerly by land of Joseph Crane; westerly again by land of said Crane and land of Herman F. McIntire; northwesterly by land of said McIntire; southwesterly by land of said McIntire for a distance of 10.1 feet; northwesterly again by the southeasterly end of a private way for 40.25 feet; southerly by said private way and a private way known as Hayward avenue; westerly, southwesterly and southeasterly by land of John Swithin and Herman F. McIntire, Trustees of Fore River Real Estate Trust; southwesterly by land of heirs of Daniel Hayward, northwesterly by Hayward's Creek; easterly again by land of Frank Ferdinand; northerly by land of said Ferdinand; northeasterly again by Hayward's Creek; southeasterly by land of Jonathan Eliphas Hayward; northeasterly, northwesterly and northeasterly again by land of said Hayward; northwesterly, northerly and northeasterly by Hayward's Creek, and northeasterly and easterly by Weymouth Fore River. Together with the beach, shore and flats adjacent or appurtenant to the above described parcel of land, also a right of way over said private way and over a private way known as Hayward avenue to Quincy avenue.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Court of Land Registration, to be held at Boston, in said County of Suffolk, on the twenty-ninth day of December A. D. 1902, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, LEONARD A. JONES, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of December, in the year nineteen hundred and two.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

DEWEY'S INSTRUCTIONS

In Course of Preparation by Navy Department

FLEET NEAR VENEZUELA

In View of the Acute Situation There —Will Be Thorough Co-operation of Navy With State Department In Handling Question at Washington

Washington, Dec. 17.—Disposition of the men-of-war of Admiral Dewey's fleet during the holidays is to be made under the direction of the secretary of the navy, in view of the increasing complications arising in connection with Venezuela, and the wishes of this government not to arouse suspicion unnecessarily by dispatching a large naval force to Venezuelan waters.

Admiral Dewey cabled the department on Monday in regard to the orders for his fleet during the Christmas holidays. Orders are now in preparation for the various vessels and will be forwarded to the admiral in the next day or two.

No reflection upon Admiral Dewey is intended by the department in deciding to draw up the orders for his ships, instead of giving him a free hand. That there may be a thorough co-operation of the navy with the state department in the handling of the Venezuelan situation, however, it seemed that the question could be more satisfactorily settled here.

It is unlikely that men-of-war will be sent to La Guaira, the feeling being that the presence of American men-of-war at this time might cause uneasiness among the allied powers, as well as offer encouragement to President Castro to maintain his defiant attitude.

On the other hand, the situation has grown so acute within the past few days that both state and navy department officials are agreed that it will not be unwise to rendezvous the fleet in ports within easy range of the Venezuelan coast.

Hayti Stirred Up Again

Port Au Prince, Dec. 17.—All the military authorities who have been supporters of Seneque Pierre's candidacy for the presidency, and therefore opposed to General Nord, have sought refuge in the consulates. General Nord is acclaimed president by the troops and seems to be master of the situation, notwithstanding the fact that the majority of congress is in favor of Pierre. Firing is occurring in the streets, but the foreign residents are in no danger.

Charges Against Crum Unfounded

Washington, Dec. 17.—It is understood that the president has decided to appoint W. D. Crum, the colored applicant, as collector of the port of Charleston. Investigation of the charges involving the integrity of Crum has been made by the president and it is stated that they have been found to be unwarranted.

Bliss Understood His Work

Washington, Dec. 17.—The reciprocity document that was signed in Havana is a treaty pure and simple and as such will be forwarded to the senate by Secretary Hay. Owing to the thoroughness with which General Bliss prosecuted his work nothing further remains to be done by the executive branch.

Irishmen Return to Commons

London, Dec. 17.—In the house of commons yesterday a majority of the Irish members, who had absented themselves for some time, resumed their attendance and voted with the ministerialist majority in favor of Dilke's motion to reject the house of lords' amendment to the education bill.

Rogers' Offense Not Serious

Manila, Dec. 17.—The trial by court martial of Captain Rogers, Twenty-Seventh infantry, charged with using disrespectful language to General Davis, was concluded yesterday. The verdict is not known, but it is doubted that the court took a serious view of the case.

Steamer Had Plague Aboard

New York, Dec. 17.—Three cases of bubonic plague are under treatment in the hospital at quarantine. The sufferers are the first and second cooks and the second steward of steamer Saxon Prince, from Durban, South Africa.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The discovery of a case of smallpox at Natick, Mass., has resulted in the ordering by the state board of health of a general vaccination there.

Representative Martin of South Dakota introduced a bill in congress making Oct. 21, the anniversary of the discovery of America, a legal public holiday, to be known as Columbus Day.

At Big Stone, Gap, Va., burglars blew open the safe in the postoffice, taking about $800 in stamps and $400 in money.

After repeated postponements and a protracted debate the New York board of aldermen granted the Pennsylvania railroad tunnel franchise.

Secretary Moody has decided to request Rear Admirals Melvill and Kenny, respectively chief of the bureau of steam engineering and paymaster general of the navy, to serve out the remainder of their terms as bureau chiefs. Ordinarily both these officers would have been retired next June.

TO MEET CHAMBERLAIN

Boer Generals Consider That American Visit Should Be Deferred

New York, Dec. 17.—In reply to a letter from a committee of the trustees of the Holland society to Generals Botha, DeWet and Delarey, tendering the courtesies of the society and co-operation during their contemplated visit to this country, the letter which follows was received from General Botha yesterday:

"I am in due receipt of your letter, written on behalf of your committee, to Generals WeWet, Delarey and myself, and I wish to tender you my very sincere thanks for the kindly feelings expressed and for the offer of assistance.

"You will, no doubt, be aware that Mr. Chamberlain has left for South Africa. He has promised to investigate matters there and to give our people further pecuniary assistance if he finds that necessary. For this reason we shall not at present visit America, as we are returning to South Africa because we consider that we shall be better serving our people to meet Mr. Chamberlain there and personally helping to let him see how great the need is in our devastated country, and giving him all possible information there.

"When we have done that we propose to go to America and will take the liberty of informing you further about our visit. We shall be only too pleased to meet you.

"I regret to see that so many of our fellow-countrymen are already busy trying to raise funds in America. I wish to remark that no one there represents our people, nor is there on any mission from our people or in any way connected with us and our mission.

"I very much regret that we cannot now visit America, but I doubt not but that you will understand our position. On behalf of our colleagues also I thank you once more most heartily."

In Congress

Washington, Dec. 17.—The house yesterday passed the bill transferring from the treasury department to the department of agriculture the power to establish regulation for the suppression of contagious diseases among live stock.

Senator Dillingham concluded his remarks in opposition to the omnibus statehood bill yesterday, and it was agreed there should be no further discussion of the measure until the senate reconvenes on Jan. 5. Several bills and resolutions were passed.

Meat Packers' Demurrer

Chicago, Dec. 17.—The noted "beef trust" case was again revived yesterday in arguments before Judge Grosscup. In the demurrer the packers assert that the bill for an injunction is "multifarious" and does not refer to any offense with sufficient particularity constituting a violation of the United States statutes. Attorney Miller, representing the packers, declared that the acts of the packers were in furtherance of trade, rather than in restraint.

Steel Trust's Acquisition

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Judge Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, announces the purchase of the Union and Sharon plants of the Union Steel company, near Pittsburg, the transaction involving a bond issue of $45,000,000.

Chicago University In Luck

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Another contribution of $1,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller to the University of Chicago was announced at the university convocation yesterday. Additional gifts of $525,000 were also announced.

On Good Terms With Spain

Washington, Dec. 17.—The senate in executive session yesterday ratified the treaty of friendship and general relations between the United States and Spain.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Thursday, Dec. 18.
Sun rises—7:08; sets—4:13.
Moon rises—8:49 p. m.
High water—1:15 a. m.; 1:45 p. m.

Since Monday night the storm has made but little progress. It is considerably warmer in the Atlantic states. The weather will be generally fair in New England, except rain or snow in the northern portion.

LOSING FLESH.

Are you losing flesh? If so, better consult your doctor at once. He will tell you the cause. We can provide the remedy, which is Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil.

We have known persons to gain a pound a day, by taking an ounce of the Emulsion.

A young woman in Batavia writes us she had lost twenty-five pounds in three months, and her lungs were seriously affected. She took three bottles of Scott's Emulsion and gained fifteen pounds, and was able to resume her work

It will cure consumption in the early stages. It is a remarkable flesh producer.

USED AXE ON WIFE

Boston Man Became Exasperated Because of Continual Quarreling

Boston, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Martha Gregg was murderously assaulted yesterday afternoon by her husband, Robert, at their home, 6 Sawyer street, and when first taken to the hospital it was believed that she could live but a short time. Her condition is somewhat improved, however, and there is a chance that she will recover.

Some time ago Mrs. Gregg complained to her husband that she was not getting enough money. Gregg, according to his statement to the police, was making only small wages. All of that, he asserts, he gave to his wife, stinting himself. From a small beginning the dispute soon became more serious, and the couple became estranged. Gregg came home to dinner at noon yesterday. As soon as he was in the house the quarrel began again.

Finally, exasperated beyond endurance, he says, he ran for a hatchet, sprang on his wife and brought the hatchet down on her head with terrific force. She staggered and fell to the floor, bleeding frightfully. Gregg turned away and, putting on his hat and coat, walked to a police station, told the captain what he had done and why he had done it. He was locked up and his wife was taken to the hospital.

Careless Handling of Revolver

Chelsea, Mass., Dec. 17.—Frank Polasky, aged 17, was leaning out of a window last night in company with his little brother, Polto Polasky, while in his hand was a large revolver. By some means the weapon was discharged, the ball entering the little boy's head. The father returned shortly after the shooting, and it took the united strength of several men to prevent him from throwing himself into a nearby dock, so crazed was he with grief. The young man was locked up. At the earnest request of the mother, the father of the family was also taken into custody to prevent his committing suicide.

Haverhill Mayoralty Case In Court

Boston, Dec. 17.—Arguments in the Haverhill mayoralty case were made yesterday before Judge Loring in the supreme court by attorneys representing respectively the petitioners and respondents, and the court took the case under advisement, with the probability that it will be taken to the full bench. The contention of Flanders, Socialist candidate, is that 18 votes were illegally counted for the Republican candidate. With these thrown out, as he seeks to have the court direct, the election is his by a plurality of six votes.

Passenger Train Wrecked

Freeport, Me., Dec. 17.—A passenger train on the Maine Central railroad was wrecked between this town and Yarmouth early this morning. The engine and two of the mail cars were derailed, but the only person injured was one of the mail clerks, who had a rib broken. The engine was thrown over on its side, but the engineer and the fireman escaped without injury. The cause of the accident is supposed to have been due to a defective rail. None of the Pullmans on the train left the track and the passengers were not injured.

Girl Told Conflicting Stories

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 17.—In the district court yesterday Samuel Foster was held in $10,000 for the grand jury on a charge of assaulting Bridget Warnet, aged 11. The case has attracted much attention because of the allegation that a number of children had formed a plot against Foster for the purpose of obtaining witness fees from the court. The girl made several confusing statements on the witness stand yesterday.

Republicans Carry North Adams

North Adams, Mass., Dec. 17.—The Republicans won a sweeping victory at the city election yesterday, Frank S. Stafford, for mayor defeating John H. Mack (Dem.) by 748 votes. The most sanguine of the party managers did not claim Stafford's election by more than 200. The city government is heavily Republican. License was again victorious.

Murderer Receives Sentence

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 17.—For the murder of Michael Thomas last spring, Lorenzo Passagno was yesterday sentenced to life imprisonment. While in the court room, the prisoner raved in Italian and threw his arms about in a crazy way, while his features worked convulsively. After his sentence, however, he made no resistance.

An Exceedingly Bold Theft

Attleboro, Mass., Dec. 17.—A thief walked into the vault at the jewelry establishment of McRea & Keller yesterday and stole jewelry valued at more than $200. There were several persons about at the time, but no one saw the thief enter or leave.

Knowlton In Critical Condition

Marion, Mass., Dec. 17.—Hosea M. Knowlton, former attorney general of Massachusetts, who is suffering from apoplexy at his summer home here, is in a critical condition, a change for the worse having occurred yesterday afternoon.

Herd Afflicted With Disease

West Bridgewater, Mass., Dec. 17.—Inspection of a herd of cows belonging to Clinton P. Howard by a agricultural bureau veterinary yesterday resulted in an order to kill 53 of the herd. The herd is valued at $5000.

NOW INCLINED TO YIELD

Venezuela Wants to Arbitrate Demands of Allies

REQUEST OF HER CITIZENS

Who Are Resigned to Accept the Affront Which They Consider Has Been Offered Them—Minister Bowen Playing an Important Part

Caracas, Dec. 18.—It has been decided that the Venezuelan difficulty shall be arbitrated, and the discussion of terms of settlement is now going on. United States Minister Bowen undoubtedly will be one of the arbitrators. The government fears that coercive measures will follow the establishment of the blockade.

Every one of the leading citizens of Caracas addressed a joint note to President Castro asking him to give full power to United States Minister Bowen to effect a termination of the present difficulty.

This note was transmitted to President Castro at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It is signed by all the leading merchants, bankers and agriculturalists of Caracas. It reflects truly the consensus of current opinion among the business element of this city. The men who signed the note will meet again today to discuss ways and means of obtaining money with which Venezuela can meet her obligations as well as the guarantees which it will be possible to offer to her creditors.

The awakening of the Venezuelan people to the present situation of their country is accompanied by feelings of bitterness and sorrow. Their fleet has been destroyed and their pride has been deeply wounded; they are now resigned to accept the affront which they consider has been offered them by the allies.

During the last 10 days President Castro has acted with extraordinary energy. He has transformed the entire country into a vast camp, having raised more than 40,000 men, whom he has well armed, equipped and transported from every direction to La Guaira and Puerto Cabello, hoping that the allies would attempt to land at one or both of those points.

But there has been a change of feeling, and the prominent men of Venezuela, who were at one time ready to lead the people in the defense of their country, now consider that justification to take the men of the republic away from their families and their work does not exist. They have resolved to discover a means to bring about abritration, or at least treat with the allies. The means sought is thought to lie through the United States legation and satisfactory results are on every hand expected to follow the attitude of the United States.

A member of the ministry said to the correspondent of The Associated Press last night: "The United States has not prevented the allies from assailing us, but it has obliged them to accept our terms."

The News at Washington

Washington, Dec. 18.—Officials here are not surprised at the feeling which has manifested itself in Caracas of a desire to seek a termination of the unfortunate situation that now confronts Venezuela. Our government is anxious that some settlement may be found very soon, as it is realized that the present conditions cannot last long without a climax being reached. With this end in view, the state department already has given permission to Minister Bowen to be the bearer of any messages that Venezuela may wish to transmit to the allies on the subject of the present difficulties, such request, however, to come from the Venezuelan government. He already has been instrumental in one capacity, viz., that of transmitting a desire on the part of President Castro to settle the controversy by arbitration.

Wholesale Smuggling of Liquors

San Juan, P. R., Dec. 18.—Collector Crusen yesterday seized several hundred cases of liquor which had been brought from St. Thomas on board the United States lighthouse tender Laurel. It is reported that certain army and navy officers are implicated in the matter. It is said that this method of smuggling has been in operation for the last 18 months.

Swindling Clergyman Punished

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 18.—Rev. T. Bright, one of the parties implicated in the "cherry tree swindle," was yesterday sentenced to four months in jail and to pay a fine of $1000. Others implicated in the swindle were fined $1000. Women who were victimized to the extent of $10,000 will not recover a dollar of their money.

Negroes Leave Town For Safety

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 18.—Four shootings and one murder in which negroes took part have been followed not only by closing clubs and saloons conducted by negroes, but many colored people are leaving the city. They are afraid to stay here on account of the feeling against them.

Famous Midget's Sudden Death

New York, Dec. 18.—"General Peanuts," who for a number of years was one of the best known midgets and clowns connected with circuses, was found dead in bed yesterday. He was a Japanese, 38 years old, and was two feet, one inch high.

Near Settlement, Says Mitchell

Buffalo, Dec. 18.—John Mitchell stopped in Buffalo last night for an hour en route from his home in Spring Valley, Ills., to Scranton. He was asked: "What do you believe is the cause of the prolongation of the trouble between the miners and the operators, and the cause of their inability to come to terms?"

"Principally the sincerity of some of the captains of industry," he replied. "I believe that Mr. Baer and some of the coal barons are sincere and mean everything they say, but they have the wrong ideas and principles and it is next to impossible to get them to acknowledge the facts. Baer, in my opinion, is an honest man, and lives according to his principles. The strike, I believe, is now in a fair way toward a settlement."

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Friday, Dec. 19.
Sun rises—7:09; sets—4:13.
Moon rises—9:58 p. m.
High water—2:15 a. m.; 2:30 p. m.

Low pressure prevails from the lake region eastward and northeastward, with the centre of disturbance over the lower St. Lawrence valley. The weather will be generally fair in New England, with little change in temperature.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

WAGE FIGURES DOUBTED

Those Submitted by Operators Said to Be Unfair

MEN WHO GOT $1400 OR $1600

Had to Divide Earnings Among From Four to Six Men—Operators Claim That Recognition of the Union Is Not an Issue Before Commission

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 18.—The anthracite coal operators opened their side of the controversy yesterday before the strike commission and the attorneys who are representing the non-union men, who have been admitted to the arbitration scheme, began calling witnesses.

The sessions yesterday were probably the liveliest yet held. In the morning the miners' lawyers challenged the fairness of certain wage statements handed to the commission by the Pennsylvania Coal company; in the afternoon Lawyer Darrow had a spirited discussion with Chairman Gray as to whether the miners had a right to know who is paying the lawyers representing the non-union men before the commission, Mr. Darrow having asserted they were employed by the coal operators.

Preceding this, Simon P. Wolverton, counsel for the Reading company, who delivered the opening address on behalf of all the large coal companies, made the point that the recognition of the union is not an issue before the commission, which brough a protest from Mr. Darrow. The latter claimed that if it were not, then the operators should be forbidden from presenting testimony that tended to show the union was responsible for all the alleged violence committed during the strike.

The alleged unfairness of the wage statements came to the notice of the commission as a result of its inquiry into the child labor question in this vicinity. Several little girls testified Monday that they worked all night in a silk mill in order to help their fathers along, who were employed in the mines and received poor pay. On Tuesday Everett Warren, who represents the Erie company, which controls the Pennsylvania Coal company, in whose mines some of these fathers worked, handed to the commission a memorandum showing that one father last year received $1400 for himself and laborer, and that the other father received $1600 for himself and laborer.

At the opening of the session yesterday the miners placed the two parents on the stand, and they swore that the earnings mentioned were divided among from four to six men. This testimony surprised the commissioners and Judge Gray asked if the figures on the memorandum were taken from the wage statement already filed by the company with the commission. Mr. Warren replied in the affirmative.

Chairman Gray then requested counsel for the company to indicate in its statement, handed up, whether the figures given are for one, two, or more men.

"We don't say it shakes our faith in the statement," he continued. "Unless you can show, however, that there are none of these cases, such as are suggested by this testimony, it will very materially shake our faith in it."

The company's general manager, W. A. May, explained that there may be places where only one man works, and may be places where there are four men working, but the company keeps only a record of the miner in whose name the working is run, the latter paying his laborer.

Cross examined by Mr. Darrow, Mr. May said he did not know wheher two, four or six men worked to earn the money indicated on the memorandum handed to the commission.

"You saw these figures handed to me, to the newspapers and to the commission, and you did not state to any one that you did not know how many men shared in the money earned," said Mr. Darrow.

"I did not say anything about it either one way or the other," replied Mr. May.

The discussion ended with Mr. Darrow directly challenging the good faith of Mr. May.

The miners here rested their case, and Mr. Wolverton formally opened the operators' side of the controversy by reading a statement which represented the views of all the large coal companies.

Mr. Darrow called attention to the reference in the statement that recognition of the union is not an issue before the commission and said if the commission should sustain that claim then the operators should have no right to present witnesses to show that the violence committed during the strike was instigated by the union.

Good Afternoon.

The respect which President Roosevelt has commanded in Germany and England promises to hold in restraint any territorial temptation those nations may experience in regard to Venezuela.

Mr. Lloyd C. Griscom has been appointed Minister to Japan to the intense disappointment of those trouble makers who desire to see friction between the President and Senator Hanna.

Quincy stores are beginning to wear a holiday air with their fine window displays, and counters covered with gifts. The markets have Christmas trees, wreaths and greens. Every one has a happy holiday look as they pop in and out of the stores selecting gifts. Besides jewelery and fancy things, the staple articles are in demand, so all the Quincy merchants are having a brisk trade.

Drift of Opinion.

☞The Christian men to whom Providence has intrusted the coal supply of the country according to Burchard Baer can obtain a good idea of their Christian work by reading the accounts of the condition of the poor in the large cities during the early part of this week. What a pity it is that Baer and his gang can't get a little touch of the cold before they go to the hot place which, we are taught, is reserved for such pious hypocrites.—Lynn Times.

☞The next legislature will have upon it the duty of an investigation of the Boston Coal club—the local organization that controls the supply and fixes the price for the fuel of more than a million people. Massachusetts public men have no need to go to Pennsylvania to find a trust that has destroyed all competition, that combines to fix prices that controls the whole supply, that has grown rich, independent and arrogant. The legislature will meet in January, when the situation will be pressing, and when no political party will dare stand in the way of such an investigation and suitable legislation.—Melrose Journal.

☞"Anthracite slavery" is a condition few persons in the United States ever dreamed of. It is that condition in which men toil day after day, year after year, at the most dangerous of all human occupations—toil while sacrificing life, limb and health, having all the spirit and independence systematically crushed out of them, having their wages constantly withheld to pay house rent and "company store" bills forced upon them by their employers. For these things men work their whole lives long, barely managing to keep body and soul together, and when they die the indebtedness their employers have piled up against them is fastened upon the widow and children, making the system of "anthracite slavery" which has been established within the pale of the law decend from father to son. And at the first sign of remonstrance by the poor, spiritless, enslaved creatures there comes eviction from the miserable homes they know, imposing its penalties of disease and death. Small wonder that descriptions of the woe and suffering it has entailed upon defenceless men, women and children should bring tears to the eyes of the commissioners! — Baltimore American.

The anniversary sale of Miss Collins is also a reduction sale, and ladies are making it a Christmas sale. Call early.

BILL OF PRICES.

Committees of Granite Manufacturers and Cutters Hold Meeting.

Work as a rule in the granite sheds is a little quiet just at present, although some of the yards are running as many men as they were during the early fall months. In one or two instances, where the manufacturers had rush orders, extra men have been put on. The outlook for next year is all that can be desired. The manufacturers are booking many orders for spring delivery and unless something unforseen happens business will be even better than in 1902.

The committees of the manufacturers and cutters held their first meeting this week to consider the changes asked for in the agreement and bill of prices. Both sides are anxions to come to an early understanding, and it is probable that it will not be necessary to refer any of the matters to a board of arbitrations.

To Remove Competition.

A Philadelphia dispatch to Boston papers says: Inside information seems to point to a settlement of the competition between New England steam and trolley roads, by the absorption of all the latter by the steam railway interests. Already there is an assurance of this in the recent traffic agreement between the New Haven and the Pennsylvania lines. The same interests that are supposed to dominate the Pennsylvania Road are now in control of street railway business also.

The railroads will do the through freight business and the short hauls of passengers and the suburban business will be done by electric traction.

Eventually, if only in self-defence, the New England steam roads will either control or have a close alliance with their street railway "feeders." Their running schedules will be planned with that idea, and there will be fewer local trains and more expresses on the steam roads. The trains will make fewer stops, but will hand passengers over to electric systems, where they do stop.

Officer of Guard,—William M. Bird.
Delegates to department convention, Franklin Curtis, James H. Webb and George L. Phillips.
Alternates,—Isaac M. Holt, Franklin Jacobs and William H. Warner.

The officers will be publicly installed Thursday, Jan. 1.

Apollo Quartet.

One of the most enjoyable concerts ever given in Quincy was that by the Apollo Quartet Wednesday evening in the Brotherhood course at Bethany chapel. Each of the members appeared in solos as well in quartet numbers, although Mr. Bunton, bass, was not down on the program. By special request he sang "Rocked in the cradle of the deep" and was much enjoyed. It was in solo parts that the greatest hits were made, especially by F. E. Kendall, the baritone. He convulsed and saddened in turn his audience both with songs and in impersonations. E. M. Spears, the first tenor, and A. F. Cole, second tenor, were both recalled.

Christmas Sale.

A supper and Christmas sale was held in the Universalist vestry Wednesday evening, The ladies had prepared an excellent supper although there were but a few there to enjoy it.

At eight o'clock there was a pleasing entertainment of tableaux, readings, and musical selections by a quartet composed of Mrs. H. R. Holmes, Mrs. Frank Stoddard, W. E. Greene and J. E. Greene.

Those in charge of the tables were:

Fancy table, Miss Georgie Hobart, Mrs. Charles F. Veazie and Miss Susan Bradbury.

Candy table, Mrs. Ella Holmes, Mrs. Emma Stoddard.

Ice cream table, W. E. Greene.

☞It is a sad sort of consolation sometimes to know that young men and women who think they are daringly wicked, because they read books that are not good and see plays that are vile, are not as wicked as they think they are. When a woman comes to years of experience and knows what things mean, she is sometimes surprised and disgusted when she remembers the free talk and reckless manners of her period of ignorance and innocence. Unless it is pointed out to them, the evil of the world is not readily detected by the young. For this reason they read the Old Testament, Shakespeare, and Cervantes without understanding the record of wickedness, which is not for them, because they have no experience to interpret it.—Christian Register.

PRIVATE RAILROAD

Not a Question of Motive Power, But Location.

For Fore River Freight Line.

The Law as to Location for Private Railroads.

The question of motive power does not appear to enter in the petition of the Fore River Ship and Engine Co. for the location of a freight railroad from the shipyard to East Braintree. It is not for the City Council to determine what the motive power may be, but later it will be necessary for the company to obtain permission to operate by horse, steam, electricity or compressed air when conditions may be imposed. The proposed location is for a private railroad, and the law as published in the Public Statutes is as follows:

Sect. 223. "A person or corporation may construct a railroad for private use in the transportation of freight, subject to the provisions of the following section; but shall not take or use lands or other property therefore without the consent of the owner thereof.

Sect. 224. "No such road shall be connected with the road of a railroad corporation without its consent; nor constructed across or upon a highway, town way, or travelled place, without the consent of the mayor and aldermen of the city or selectmen of the town, nor except in a place and manner approved by them.

"If the mayor and aldermen or selectmen consent, they shall from time to time make such regulations in regard to the motive power to be employed, the rate of speed to be run, and the time and manner of using the road over and upon such way or travelled place, as in their judgment the public safety and convenience require, and they may order such changes to be made in the track as are rendered necessary by the alteration or repair of such way.

"If they allow steam-power to be used on such road, the provisions of this chapter relating to the crossing of ways and travelled places by railroad corporations shall apply to such road and to the person or corporation constructing or operating the same."

It is true the order for hearing reads: "for permission to construct, maintain and operate," but it is said there will be a later petition relative to operation when the company decides which motive power it desires, which has not yet been determined.

Should steam be selected, the railroad will come under the same laws as existing steam railroads, and the County Commissioners and Railroad Commissioners would have to pass on locations.

New Granite Contract.

The Cambridge bridge commissioners voted Wednesday to cancel and annul the contract with the Cape Ann granite company to furnish cut stone for the two central piers (No. 5 and No. 6) for the new bridge to Cambridge, because the company has failed to furnish the stone as required by contract. As a matter of fact, the company has suspended work. The commissioners also voted to make a new contract with the Rockport granite company for all the stone at the same price.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

A grand day.

Vaudeville tonight.

Another fair day tomorrow.

Christmas will begin Sunday in the churches.

Dr. Herbert S. Hayford is confined to his home by illness.

The Hyde Park assault case went to the jury at Dedham today.

The school teachers are being paid by the City Treasurer today.

The Independent Two held a social dance in Colonial hall Wednesday evening.

The public schools will close tomorrow afternoon for a vacation of two weeks.

Tournament games at billiards, pool, whist and bowling at the North Quincy clubhouse tonight.

Church programs for Christmas Sunday and Christmas day should be sent promptly to the Daily Ledger.

Nathan Ames and John Q. Cudworth received the spoons at the Granite City club whist tournament on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Benjamin Chase, nee Olmsted, of Danvers, a recent teacher at the Coddington school, visited the school on Wednesday.

Fully a dozen teams with Christmas greens passed through Quincy this afternoon en route from the South Shore towns to Boston.

The Granite Railway Co. of Quincy has declared a semi annual dividend of two per cent. and an extra of one per cent., payable Jan. 1 to stockholders of record Dec. 23.

Santa Claus is making his headquarters at the 5 and 10 cent store of Henry L. Kincaide. Children accompanied by parents receive a present every day between 4 and 5 P. M.

The rumor that Keith was backing the vaudeville at Quincy Music hall is denied by the press representative of B. F. Keith, who says Mr. Keith is not backing any amusement enterprise outside his own theatres.

Mrs. Charles H. Penniman was the hostess at the matinee whist at the rooms of Granite City club Wednesday afternoon. Souvenirs for the best scores were awarded Mrs. Annie Rogers and Mrs. E. P. Henderson.

There was a much larger attendance at the fair in the West Quincy Methodist church Wednesday evening than on the opening night, and sales at the table were much more lively. The entertainment consisted of readings and singing by the quartette. The fair will close tonight with a pleasing program by home talent.

We doubt if more commodious stores for Christmas shopping will be found anywhere in the city or stores which will better accommodate the shopper than the furniture store of H. L. Kincaide & Co., the Hardware Supply Co., and the H. L. Kincaide Annex. The latter is a favorite place with the children; crowds call here every day to consult with Santa Claus.

The body of Miss Frances M. Pierce of West Roxbury was brought to Quincy for interment at Mt. Wollaston on Wednesday. She was a daughter of the late Frank A. and Mrs. Mary E. Pierce and died Monday at her home, 112 Maple street, West Roxbury, after an illness of three years. She was 27 years old. Miss Pierce some years ago wrote district news items for the Boston Transcript, and she had also been a correspondent for the Jamaica Plain News.

K. & L. of H. Visitation

Maple lodge, K. & L. of H., received an official visitation Wednesday evening from, Mrs. Hattie E. Silsbery, Grand Protector of Massachusetts and other Grand Officers and Mrs. Nettie E. Hallett, District Deputy Grand Protector. The degree of Protection was worked on one candidate. After the business meeting there were remarks by the visiting officers and a collation was served. Delegates were present from Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge, Medford and Worcester.

More Battleships.

A Washington dispatch says Secretary Moody explained to the house naval affairs committee Wednesday the need of two steel ships for training landsmen and apprentices, the cost of which is estimated at $750,000 each, and a wooden brig for training apprentices at stations. Two battleships similar to those last authorized were recommended.

SUDDEN DEATH.

A Well Known Business Man of Quincy and Boston Passes Away.

Wilson Tisdale, a well known resident of Quincy, and a business man of Quincy and Boston, died suddenly at his home on Hancock street, this morning shortly after 8 o'clock. Mr. Tisdale had been in poor health for a year or more, but while able to be about most of the time his health did not permit his taking as active a part in business as had been his custom.

This morning at about arising time, he had a bad attack and although all possible was done to relieve him he passed away before medical aid arrived.

Mr. Tisdale was a native of Stoughton but has been a resident of Quincy for upwards of thirty years.

While in Quincy he carried on a livery and sales stable, but of late locally has confined himself to running an express route between Quincy and Boston. Besides his business in Quincy he carried on a large boarding and sales stable in Boston. He was at first located near the old railroad depot on Kneeland street but since the advent of the Terminal station he has been located on Federal street.

He was a member of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows. He was also a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston.

He was 58 years of age and leaves a widow and an adopted daughter.

QUINCY A PORT.

Great Railroad Shipping Terminal Contemplated.

Again it is reported that a tract of 600 acres of waterfront property at Squantum, purchased recently by the New Haven system is to be developed into a vast system of storage warehouses for grain, cattle, cotton and other freight that can be held for export shipment.

Events are shaping in Boston and vicinity, says the Post, that are likely to make Boston one of the great steel centres of the country also, in connection with the Pennsylvania export business. With grain stored here Boston will become a grain mart, and instead of depending on Chicago for its quotations it is to have its own exchanges and make its own quotations.

Now comes a denial from First Vice President Curtis of the New York New Haven & Hartford railroad who says "the road has made no plans to build warehouses on the tract of land which they own in Squantum.

"The railroad company has owned a tract of 600 acres of swamp lands and other land in Squantum for several years.

"It has not been developed, and as far as the company is concerned no improvements are anticipated at present.

"We have made no arrangements that I know of with the Pennsylvania road to carry out the project of using the land at Squantum for warehouses or freight yards. At present no development of the land secured several years ago is anticipated."

Biggest Sign in the World.

New Yorkers who are used to big things, have been astonished during the past week by a painted sign at the corner of Broadway and Spring street, covering the north side of two eleven-story buildings. This sign covers 15,416 square feet of space and is by far the largest advertising sign ever painted. The picture is the well known figure of "Sunny Jim," who for many months has testified to the goodness of "FORCE," not only over the entire United States, but in the United Kingdom, as well.

With this enormous sign, the reading matter is very brief and fills but a small part of the space. It is as follows:

"Vigor, Vim, Perfect Trim,
'Force' made him 'Sunny Jim.'"

Of course it remained for Chicago to cap the climax in thievery. A man was recently arrested there on the street while lugging away a red hot stove which he had stolen.—Mansfield News.

NOT A WORD OF DISSENT

House Agrees to Appropriation of $500,000 to Fight Trusts

Washington, Dec. 18.—Mr. Bartlett, a Georgia Democrat, during consideration of the legislative appropriation bill in the house yesterday, unexpectedly and without warning sprang an amendment to appropriate $250,000 to enforce the Sherman anti-trust law and to direct the attorney general to proceed to the prosecution of all violators of the law.

Although such a provision was plainly amendable to a point of order, not a member on either side of the house raised objections. Both sides wheeled into line and all agreed that some such action was advisable. Some of the Republicans, however, raised objection to the looseness of the language of the amendment, and Mr. Hepburn of Iowa offered as a substitute for it the language of the bill he introduced on the opening day of the session to appropriate $500,000 for the enforcement of the law. This was further strengthened to make the appropriation immediately available and, as amended, the substitute was agreed to without division.

The legislative bill was passed, practically as it came from the committee, except for the amendment.

The senate yesterday passed the pension appropriation bill without discussion. It carries $139,847,000. The urgent deficiency bill also was passed. The amount carried by this bill is $1,140,400, which includes an item of $500,000 to enable the secretary of agriculture to stamp out the foot and mouth disease, which has become epidemic in the New England states.

Picketing Prohibited

New York, Dec. 18.—Justice Dickey yesterday granted a permanent injunction against Richard M. Osborn and others, restraining them from interfering with the employés and conduct of the business of Edwin C. Burt & Co., shoe manufacturers. In July last the firm discharged strikers and employed other workmen, who were interfered with by pickets. A temporary injunction was obtained against the locked out men, and yesterday the injunction was made permanent, with costs.

Wholesale Discharge of Prisoners

New York, Dec. 18.—As a result of a recent decision of the supreme court 198 inmates were discharged from the workhouse at Blackwell's Island yesterday, under a section of the greater New York charter which provides that a person convicted the first time for intoxication must be discharged within five days and for a second offense, where two years have elapsed, the person must be discharged within 20 days.

Hanna's Nephew For Senator

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 18.—The Cass county legislative delegation met here yesterday and resolved to support L. B. Hanna for United States senator. He is a banker and nephew of Senator Hanna of Ohio. Supporters of Senator Hansborough say he has votes enough to elect him without Cass county.

Heavy Silk Importations

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Dec. 18.—Japanese raw silk valued at $2,000,000 was transferred to the New York Central railroad here yesterday from Canada and sent by special train to New York. Within six weeks 38 cars of Japanese silk, valued at nearly $5,000,000, have passed through here for New York.

Their Beauty Depends Upon Their Decoration—The Pink Orchid Design—How Holly Berries May Be Utilized In a Quaint Frame.

A DAINTY Christmas souvenir is a linen, silk or satin photograph frame shaped over a circular foundation and embroidered with pink orchids. The circular frames of cardboard may be either purchased from a fancy dealer or made at home. If they are prepared by the amateur, they should be outlined with compasses. The inner circle must be drawn to suit either a cabinet photograph or a carte de visite. The outer circle, representing the edge of the frame, should be sufficiently distant from the inner circle to leave plenty of surface for the embroidery.

The linen should have groups of orchids scattered over its surface, the space between the flowers being lined with tendrils and scrolls. Two shades of pink and three shades of green for stems and foliage will be sufficient embroidery silk. The pattern may be applied to the cloth with a soft crayon pencil or traced with carbon paper.

Of course any kind of flowers may be substituted for the orchids. Small blossoms look best on a piece of fancy work of this kind.

A music case is a simple gift to make and is just what will be appreciated by a singer or pianist. To make the bag take a piece of cloth or art serge and a piece of cheap silk or satin for lining and cut them the same size, 14 inches by 20 inches, with one of the narrower sides rounded evenly. Fasten the two pieces of material together and bind the edges with narrow satin ribbon to match the cloth. In the center of the rounded side, in shades of silk to contrast with the cloth and to match the shade of the lining silk, work the monogram of the recipient or the word "Music." Then the edge opposite the rounded side must be folded over about two inches and firmly secured at the sides. This forms a kind of compartment to hold the music together before rolling it up. When rolled, the worked monogram has a good effect in the center, and on either side of it must be stitched bands of ribbon to tie round the roll and finish off with smart bows.

If you wish to give the daughter of a family a useful holiday present, make a hat case. Procure at any grocer's a small barrel standing about forty inches high and a fairly ample width. Paper the inside. Get some pretty cretonne and nail it neatly round the spaces between the bands which encircle the barrel. Gild, silver or enamel these bands. Cut some pieces of very stout millboard to the inside size of the barrel, make a hole in the middle of each, through which insert loops of tape, gumming the ends flat to the underside. Insert large brass headed carpet nails at intervals down the sides of the barrel to form rests for the cardboard divisions. By this arrangement the hats are given plenty of room, and the bottom of each piece of cardboard forms a substitute for a separate hatbox. The height of each division can be regulated at will, the loops obviating all trouble in lifting. Should the barrel be minus a wooden top cover a piece of cardboard with cretonne as a substitute.

A photo frame is a useful Christmas present, and the one illustrated does not tax the resources to any great degree. Procure a couple of pieces of stout card, which must be cut into a neat oval. Sew together at the edges, leaving at the top a portion unsewed for the insertion of the photograph. Cut a panel shaped opening from one piece of the card for the insertion of the glass covering and enamel this side in a delicate shade of green. When dry, the glass might be inserted, while, to give a finish, a bevel gold edge might be added where shown. Procure a handful of holly berries, which should receive a careful coating of glue or varnish to preserve their freshness and color. When they are dry, glue them firmly around the frame, as shown, to form a neat border. The addition of a bow of pretty ribbon—red, for preference—completes this dainty trifle, which only waits for a photo to fill its frame.

APOLOGY FROM CASTRO

Would Remove Critical Phase of Venezuelan Situation

A DECLARATION OF WAR

Would Greatly Protract Efforts of Allies to Subdue Belligerents—United States Will Not Resist Blockade Against Merchant Ships

Washington, Dec. 18.—The state department has received no response thus far to the messages sent to the European foreign office relative to the Venezuelan arbitration proposition. It is not known here whether President Castro will consent to apologize as a condition precedent to arbitration, but it is hoped that Minister Bowen can induce him to do so, if this will be sufficient to meet the demands of the allies.

It is pointed out here, however, that the further prosecution of attacks on Venezuelan forts will make an adjustment just that much more difficult. If apologies are tendered and accepted, then the critical phase of the situation will be removed, and some time may be spent in an arrangement of the bases upon which the arbitration should be conducted. This will be a difficult problem, for it is anticipated that the allies will base their acceptance of the arbitration on an agreement by Venezuela to instruct the arbitrators to accept certain principles in advance, which would commit Venezuela to a recognition of an indebtedness of about $15,000,000.

Still the state department is hopeful that arbitration will prevail, for the alternative is now realized to be actual war between the allies and Venezuela. It is believed here that Germany, at least, is not anxious to enter upon this state. A declaration of war would at once clothe the Venezuelans with full rights of belligerency, and this might greatly protract the efforts of the allies to subdue President Castro.

Herr Von Holleben, the German ambassador here, has gone to New York, and Count Quadt, the secretary and charge d'affaires, is transacting whatever business the embassy has with the state department and is forwarding to Berlin such matters of information touching the situation in Venezuela as are forthcoming from Mr. Bowen. The explanation given for the ambassador's visit to New York is simply "business" and the length of his absence is not stated.

The navy department has no announcement to make respecting the orders to be given to Dewey's ships, and it is repeated that the sole purpose and aim of the department is so to place the vessels, a few at each important port, that the men may enjoy themselves Christmas week without overtaxing the facilities at any one point.

The following cablegram was sent yesterday by the navy department to Admiral Dewey, in command of the combined fleets, addressed to San Juan:

"Send competent officer with dispatch in torpedo boat-destroyer or other vessel to Caracas as assistant to American minister."

The following cablegram was sent to Commander Diehl of the Marietta, now lying at La Guaira:

"Send Vandusen (executive officer of the Marietta) as assistant to the American minister temporarily."

It is stated at the navy department that one reason for sending the officers to Caracas is the fact that Mr. Bowen is almost overwhelmed with the amount of work imposed upon him by his many charges. He has nearly all of the English residents in Caracas domiciled in the American legation and is feeding them from his own table. As for the torpedo boat destroyer it is pointed out that it will serve as a dispatch boat to keep Mr. Bowen in touch with the nearest cable station to La Guaira which can be relied upon to transmit messages to Washington in case the La Guaira cable is cut as an incident to the blockade.

No further orders went forward to Dewey yesterday, but Secretary Moody expects to have ready by today his order for the distribution of the vessels of the combined fleet. Up to the present moment he has not reached any settled determination as to any one ship.

There will be no effort on the part of this government to resist a war blockade of the Venezuelan coast as against merchant ships. Custom requires that due notice shall be given of the blockade and that fact, taken in connection with the declaration that has been made in the British parliament by the authorized representatives of the British government, will, it is understood, be sufficient to justify all neutral nations in the understanding that a state of war does actually exist. This might in the end require issue of a proclamation of neutrality by President Roosevelt, but this, it is stated, would not be timely now.

IT IS ACTUAL WAR

Balfour Makes Formal Announcement In the British Parliament

London, Dec. 18.—"If the seizure of Venezuelan gunboats does not result as we all hope, it will be necessary to proceed to a blockade."

In the speech in the house of commons yesterday, during which Premier Balfour made the above statement, he conveyed the impression of possible, though as yet unnecessary, further hostilities, or that even arbitration on some basis might be accepted.

Immediately after having spoken these words, the premier said that in the event of a blockade no difference would be made between the ships of neutral powers, who would not be consulted. He then ridiculed the idea of a peaceful blockade. When he said: "I think it quite likely that the United States government would not think there is such a thing as a pacific blockade, and I personally take the same view that evidently a blockade does involve a state of war," the house expressed its approbation. Throughout the discussion the tenor of the questions and answers showed regard for the views of the United States.

Mr. Balfour assured the house that the papers in the Venezuelan matter were being prepared as rapidly as possible, and answering a question by Sir William Vernon Harcourt he said they would include the communications with reference to Venezuela which had passed between his majesty's government and the United States.

Premier Balfour gave no hint to the house as to the ultimate result of the arbitration proposal, and nothing further in this respect has been given out at the foreign office.

For Britishers to Consider

London, Dec. 18.—The Times this morning gives great prominence to a letter from Sir Robert Giffen, declaring that the foreign office gravely blundered in associating itself with Germany against Venezuela. Sir Robert contends that a blockade will be useless against a bankrupt state, while the seizure of the customs will be tantamount to annexation and full of danger, considering the peculiar relations of Venezuela to the United States. Sir Robert strikes his most alarming note when he refers to the danger of Germany embroiling Great Britain with the United States. He doubts if Great Britain has any good moral claims against Venezuela. The Times, while it repudiates Sir Robert's suspicions of Germany, says it cannot hide from itself either the actual or the contingent difficulties involved in this most disagreeable undertaking.

Italy Not Surprised

Rome, Dec. 18.—The rejection by Venezuela of the Italian ultimatum was expected, consequently the announcement that this had been done created no surprise. The friendly attitude of the United States is particularly appreciated here. Opinion generally favors arbitration.

Belgium's Big Claims

Brussels, Dec. 18.—The Belgian claims against Veneuela amount to several million francs. They arose chiefly from the non-payment of interest on Veneuelan government bonds issued as purchase money for the water works at Caracas, which was promoted by a Belgian company.

Dutchmen Are Neutral

London, Dec. 18.—A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from The Hague says that all rumors that Holland is acting against Venezuela are at least premature. The Dutch government intends to remain strictly neutral in the matter.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT

Sentence Imposed Upon a Boston Negro Who Killed His Wife

Boston, Dec. 18.—In the superior criminal court yesterday James Elisha, a negro, who killed his white wife last April by cutting her throat, entered a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, by agreement of counsel and government prosecutors, and was sentenced by Judge Stevens to imprisonment for life.

Elisha is a middle-aged, white-haired man, with pleasant manner and apparently honest ways. His family have resided in Boston since the anti-slavery days, and have been respected and employed by people of prominence.

Mrs. Jennie Elisha, the murdered wife, was a French Canadian, not much lighter in appearance than her husband. The couple had been married for two years before the killing. Her attention to other negroes is said to have been the cause of the jealous rage of her husband.

Elisha took his sentence calmly and said afterward that there was nothing for him to do but accept the inevitable.

New Department Store and Theatre

Boston, Dec. 18.—Negotiations have been made, The Post says, by a large syndicate for the purchase of the land on which now stands the Park Square station. It is said that work will be commenced at once, and before another year there will be constructed on this land a mammoth department store, surpassing anything of the kind in this section of the country. In addition to the business building there will be a large theatre, capable of seating 2200 people, and handsomely decorated.

Miss Stevenson Not Located

Wakefield, Mass., Dec. 18.—It is stated by a member of the Stevenson family that there is absolutely no foundation for the report that Miss Grace Stevenson, daughter of the late James Stevenson, a Brookline millionaire, who mysteriously disappeared from home more than five years ago, has been found in a convent at New Rochelle, N. Y. The mother, three sisters and two brothers, have resided here for the past two years.

Charges Against Police Chief

Newton, Mass., Dec. 18.—Some weeks ago a petition was presented to Mayor Weeks asking, it is understood, that a hearing be given on charges formulated against Chief of Police Tarbox. The nature of all the charges cannot be learned, for both Chief Tarbox and Mayor Weeks refuse to be interviewed on the subject. The petition was withdrawn yesterday for the purpose, it is stated, of making some changes in the form.

Reformatory Loses Milk Supply

Concord, Mass., Dec. 18.—In carrying out their fight against the foot and mouth disease the cattle inspectors yesterday killed 65 cattle at the Concord reformatory. Five hundred hogs are to be killed, although they are not infected. The loss of the milch cows will cause the institution to lose its milk supply and likewise its butter, and the prohibition against traffic in cattle prevents purchases to make good the loss.

Held on Murder Charge

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 18.—Nickola Fiore, wanted on a charge of murder, was captured by the police last night and is now locked up. Two weeks ago last night he shot and fatally wounded Antonio De Benedito during an argument in an Italian boarding house. Since that time the police have been watching for him. For two days he had been sheltered by two Italians in the house in which he was found.

Long Continued Fraud Alleged

Portland, Me., Dec. 18.—Assistant District Attorney Swan, in the United States district court yesterday, presented the government's case against Daniel H. Pooler of Palmyra, who was charged with impersonating a dead soldier and fraudulently drawing a pension. For 10 years the respondent has been impersonating and fraudulently drawing a pension in the name of Daniel R. Hodgdon, it is alleged.

Wanted by Detroit Police

Boston, Dec. 18.—Local inspectors last night arrested at a lodging house Harry Rodgers and Della Cameron as fugitives from justice in Detroit, for the alleged larceny of diamonds and other jewelry valued at $1000. It is asserted that the property was stolen from a woman who was chloroformed at the time the robbery occurred.

Postoffice Thieves Sentenced

Concord, N. H., Dec. 18.—Fred R. Williams and George Rhodes pleaded guilty yesterday to stealing money from the postoffice at Orfordville on Aug. 2. Williams was sentenced to one year in state prison, and the same sentence was imposed upon Rhodes, who is a boy, but suspended during good behavior.

Scarcity of Fresh Fish

Boston, Dec. 18.—For several days past the arrivals from the fishing fleet have been very small. Yesterday there was only one vessel to show up, the Rienzi, from Middle Bank. She had 4300 pounds of fish aboard. Unless a good many craft show up today dealers will be short of supply.

No Hope of Recovery

New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 18.—Death is only the question of a few hours for former Attorney General Hosea M. Knowlton. From the change for the worse which came Tuesday afternoon there has been no rally.

Objection to Non-Union Man

Rumford Falls, Me., Dec. 18.—The 600 employes of the Oxford Paper company went out on a strike late yesterday shortly after demanding the discharge of a non-union employe.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Minister Storer cables from Madrid that the reciprocal arrangement between the United States and Spain for the international copyright of 1895 has been restored to full effect.

General Wager Swayne, who has been ill for some time at his home at New York, is reported to be very low. His recovery is not expected.

President Fell of St. Johns college, Annapolis, announces that 18 students who participated in hazing fracases have been indefinitely suspended.

Most of the ship builders of Bath, Me., are opposed to the McCall bill which has been introduced in congress to suspend coastwise navigation laws for a short period.

Steamer Nagata Maru of Yokohama was wrecked during a storm 40 miles from Taku. The 700 Chinese passengers and crew were landed in safety.

It is reported that Bishop James E. Quigley of Buffalo has been appointed archbishop of Chicago, in succession to the late Archbishop Feehan.

Timothy Donovan of Boston, aged 47, died from injuries received under car wheels at Fitchburg, Mass. The police think he was walking on the tracks intending to jump on a train for Boston.

Arthur C. Hurlock, aged 6, was run over by a truck at Hartford and killed. Wilbur C. Phelps, the driver, was arrested for evading responsibility. Phelps did not attempt to stop or give any assistance to the boy after the accident.

TO BE SOLE ARBITRATOR

United States Minister Bowen Appointed by Venezuela

HE IS GIVEN FULL POWER

To Settle Republic's Dispute With Europeans—Allies' Blockade of Six Ports Goes Into Effect Tomorrow—No Naval Concentration by Warships of the United States

Washington, Dec. 19.—Venezuela has clothed United States Minister Bowen with full powers to settle its differences with the powers. If the United States gives its consent to his acting and the powers are willing, the crisis is in a fair way of being passed without bloodshed. Both Berlin and London, however, anticipating this movement toward arbitration of the money claims of the dispute, have put forth the further claims in the shape of demands for apologies from Venezuela for "diplomatic insults" alleged to have been offered in the course of correspondence on the questions at issue.

France now has entered the arena with a demand that in any settlement of the dispute must be recognized the preeminence of French claims on the customs of Venezuela. This refers to demands made by France on Venezuela which the latter agreed to pay from customs receipts.

Events at Caracas are dependent upon the receipt, through the United States state department, of the answers of the governments of Great Britain, Germany and Italy to the proposal of arbitration advanced by Venezuela. Should they be favorable the Venezuelan government strongly desires that a conference of the ambassadors of Great Britain, Germany and Italy to the United States then be held in Washington and that Mr. Bowen leave La Guaira Dec. 23 for the United States on board the steamer Caracas, which is due to reach New York Dec. 29. Mr. Bowen will meet the ambassadors in Washington. No meeting to discuss terms of settlement is to be held on Venezuelan soil.

As understood here the blockade to be declared by the allies against Venezuela tomorrow is to be a "war blockade," as contrasted with the "peace blockade," which has been in operation since the trouble with Venezuela assumed an acute stage. Ordinarily a legal blockade is preceded by a declaration of war, but at times this formality is dispensed with and a blockade maintained just as though war had been formally declared. To all intents and purposes war has existed and such condition has been recognized by the governments of the allies. A formal declaration that a blockade has been established will be sent to all the powers, and it will be recognized by the United States government.

Following the practice in such cases this government will maintain an attitude of neutrality towards the belligerents, which they practically become by the establishment of the blockade, although whether a presidential proclamation announcing our neutrality to the world will be issued has not yet been decided upon. The matter will come up for definite determination very soon.

The notice issued yesterday of the formal blockade of Venezuelan ports is not understood here to mean that Minister Bowen's efforts to adjust the Venezuelan difficulties have failed. It was conceived that the naval commanders of the powers were acting under explicit instructions, which included the establishment of a blockade, and it was not expected that these instructions would be suspended until the negotiations through diplomatic channels had assumed a phase indicative of a final and satisfactory adjustment.

As Minister Bowen had only yesterday been appealed to to endeavor to effect such an adjustment, he has had as yet no opportunity of moving forward in his negotiations to a point where he might reasonably expect the allied powers to cancel completely the remainder of their punitive program. Therefore it is to be expected that the threatened blockade will be duly published tomorrow unless in the meantime Minister Bowen is able to offer sufficient assurances that the Venezuelan government is ready to meet the terms of their ultimatums. It can be stated positively that these assurances will not include a direct guarantee by the United States of Venezuela's liabilities.

The navy department contributed the most important development in the Venezuelan situation over night in the form of a cablegram from Admiral Dewey, announcing the proposed itinerary of the vessels of his fleet during the Christmas holidays. It is clearly seen that the plan provides for no undue concentration of ships along the Venezuelan coast and so prudently and advisedly have its details been drawn up that Secretary Moody cabled yesterday to the admiral the department's approval of his orders. This will set at rest the rumors that the United States contemplates complicating the Venezuelan situation by dispatching a large naval force to La Guaira as an offset to the allied fleet.

Foreign Office Is Mum

London, Dec. 19.—It is not apparent that anything definite has resulted from yesterday's cabinet meeting with regard to the transmission by the government of the United States of Venezuela's request for arbitration. All negotiations are being conducted with extraordinary secrecy, but it is thought probable that Charge of Affairs White's dispatches to Washington have conveyed inquiries from the British government with regard to Secretary Hay's view as to the possibility of Venezuela carry out the award of arbitrators.

The Associated Press is in a position to say that Great Britain is making strenuous efforts to induce the United States to guarantee Venezuela's compliance with the findings of arbitration.

Inquiries made at the foreign office subsequent to the cabinet meeting brought no response. The dispatch which made the announcement that President Castro had entrusted United States Minister Bowen with full powers to arrange a settlement apparently conveyed to the foreign office officials the first definite news that such action had been taken.

Blockade of Six Ports

Caracas, Dec. 19.—The allies have notified the Venezuelan authorities at La Guaira of the blockade, to become effective Saturday, Dec. 20, at 3 p. m., of the ports of La Guaira, Puerto Cabello, Coro, Maracaibo, Carupano and Barcelona.

Hope Arbitration Will Prevail

Caracas, Dec. 19.—Merchants of all nationalities here hope that the arbitration proposal will be accepted and that as a result of the present efforts to reach a pacific settlement the proposed blockade of La Guaira, Puerto Cabello, Maracaibo, Coro, Curapano and Barcelona, announced for tomorrow, will not become effective.

Venezuelan Schooner Knocked Out

La Guaira, Dec. 19.—The German cruiser Falke yesterday captured the Venezuelan schooner Victoria off Maracaibo. After cutting down her mainmast, thus disabling her, the Germans abandoned the vessel. This action has caused great indignation among the Venezuelans and excitement runs high at Maracaibo.

Speedy Ending Hoped For

Rome, Dec. 19.—King Victor Emmanuel granted an audience yesterday to Commander De Novellis of the Italian cruiser Agordat, which has received orders to proceed to Venezuela. His majesty said he hoped for a speedy and happy ending, without complications with other powers, of the Venezuelan affair.

Dutch Cruiser Goes to Venezuela

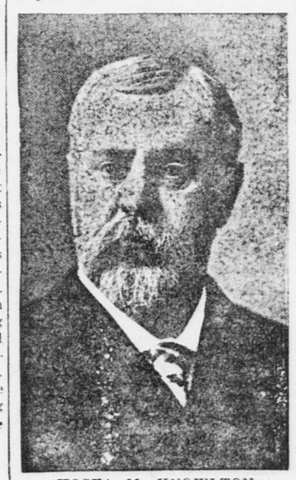

The Hague, Dec. 19.—The Dutch cruiser De Ruijter, which it was purposed to send to the West Indies, has been ordered to proceed to Venezuela to protect Dutch interests there.

KNOWLTON IS DEAD

A Leading Citizen of New Bedford Who Filled Honorable Offices

New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 19.—Hosea M. Knowlton, former attorney general of Massachusetts, died at his summer home in Marion last night.

Mr. Knowlton was stricken with apoplexy on the morning of Dec. 6. There was hope that he might recover, but on Tuesday a change took place and since that time his death has been a question of hours. Mr. Knowlton was 55 years old.

HOSEA M. KNOWLTON.

Mr. Knowlton was born in Durham, Me., May 20, 1847, his father being Rev. I. C. Knowlton, a Universalist minister. After graduation at Tufts college in 1867, he studied at Harvard and was admitted to the bar in 1870. Shortly afterward he began practice in New Bedford. He served as city solicitor, representative to the legislature, state senator and as district attorney for the southern district, which position he resigned to become attorney general of the state, to which he was re-elected for eight terms, declining a renomination in the fall of 1901.

General Staff Viewed With Favor

Washington, Dec. 19.—Secretary Root argued before the senate committee on military affairs yesterday in support of the bill for the creation of a general staff, with the lieutenant general at the head of it. Senator Alger sat with the committee for the first time and he took a very decided position in support of the bill, saying that his experience as secretary of war convinced him that only by the adoption of a system like this could endless confusion be prevented. The exchange of views among members of the committee left no room for doubt that the bill will be favorably reported.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Freedom for thought, freedom in the further development of religion, and freedom for our scientific investigation—that is the freedom which I desire for the German people and would win for them, but not freedom to govern themselves as badly as they please.—From Kaiser Wilhelm's Speech at Gorlitz.

☞It is a sad sort of consolation sometimes to know that young men and women who think they are daringly wicked, because they read books that are not good and see plays that are vile, are not as wicked as they think they are. When a woman comes to years of experience and knows what things mean, she is sometimes surprised and disgusted when she remembers the free talk and reckless manners of her period of ignorance and innocence. Unless it is pointed out to them, the evil of the world is not readily detected by the young. For this reason they read the Old Testament, Shakespeare, and Cervantes without understanding the record of wickedness, which is not for them, because they have no experience to interpret it.—Christian Register.

☞The break in U. S. Steel is causing all kinds of speculation among the wiseacres of the financial columns of the papers as to its cause. The probability is that the people who have been interested in keeping U. S. Steel up to a decent figure, while they floated the stock issue, have fed out about all they have got and have simply let go of the market. The enormous earnings of the big steel corporation for a long time kept the public appetite for the stock whetted to a keen edge and there was general buying, but there was such a continual supply of stock to the market that the price was not advanced. Later the buying became more dilatory, but the insiders kept the market up and have been unloading as opportunity offered. If they have got through and the stock is to be left to its fate, as current quotations indicate, it will very soon sink to its legitimate level.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞All things considered, the situation is one that induces caution. The policy of the market leaders appears to be to hold the situation well in hand and force a steady but thorough liquidation. As yet there are no indications of a change in this policy. Very likely strong buyers have been accumulating securities, and when the pinch comes it may be found that the effect has been largely anticipated. Marginal buying ought to be more safe after the new year than now. It is quite possible that with the close of the current year we may see renewed improvement, or a reaction from the downward course of the market during the last three months. The speculative situation is certainly much strengthened by recent liquidation as well as by the enforced rest for recuperation, and easier and more abundant money would naturally result in increased activity. A good investment demand for desirable railroad securities is in sight, and as there is a scarcity of such firm prices may be expected in this quarter. However, for the next two weeks at least the money market will be the controlling element.—Henry Clews.

GREAT BOWLING.

Granite City Won and Is Very Happy.

North Quincys More Successful.

At Billiards and Pool in Norfolk County League.

The hoodoo that has hovered about the Granite City club bowling team has transferred its influence elsewhere. The team did some great bowling Thursday night in its league match with the North Quincy club at the latter's alleys. They polished off their opponent to the tune of 1259 to 1178, to the great delight of the crowd of rooters who lined the alleys with their backs to the warm stove. As a result of this game the captain holds his job and the team came home with their pockets full of cigars. One of team, familiarly known as "Banjo" promised his colleagues three each if they bowled over 1200, and President Penniman went him one better with a promise of a cigar for every spare. The way those spares rolled up was a caution, and the first string nearly cleaned out the President's stock.

Every man on the team with one exception made spares. Although one failed in this respect he bowled a good score and helped on the good work. Early in the game it was seen that the practice during the past two weeks was telling, and as the balls sent the candlepins flying in all directions it became apparent that North Quincy would have to get a great move on to defeat them.

Granite City won two out of the three strings. Capt. Hill was high man on single string with 106 and Walsh a good second with 101. They were also the high men on three string totals with 277 and 270.

For the North Quincy club, Taylor was high man on single strings with 88, and Kendell second with 85, while on three-strings totals Kendell was high man with 247 and Taylor second with 243.

The lowest string bowled by any Granite City man was 63 by Nightingale and for the North Quincy 72 by Thorpe.

AT BILLIARDS.

At billiards, North Quincy won both games although neither put up a good game. It was impossible to heat the room where the billiard table was located and the atmosphere there seemed to be almost at zero. The result was that the table was cold and dead and easy shots were missed by all of the players.

The first game was between Walsh of North Quincy and Mitchell of the Granite City, and was won by Walsh by a score of 75 to 58. The second game was between Emerson of the North Quincy and McGrath of the Granite City and Emerson won by a score of 75 to 50.

AT POOL.

At pool, things were more evenly divided each club winning a game but on totals the series would go to North Quincy.

The first game was between Clare of North Quincy and Wood of the Granite City and was won by Clare by a score of 50 to 29.

The second game was between McDonnell of the Granite City and Fairclough of North Quincy, and McDonnell won by a score of 50 to 35.

AT WHIST.

At whist Granite City was a victor. One of the games was a tie and the other was won by Granite City by one point.

Team one was Loud and Langley, of the Granite City club, and Johnson and Beale of the North Quincy. The score was Granite City, 6; North Quincy, 5.

Team two was Rideout and Curtis of the Granite City and Hill and Portter of the North Quincys. This game resulted in a tie, each side running four points.

The summary of the games follow:

Impaired Digestion

May not be all that is meant by dyspepsia now, but it will be if neglected.

The uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, sourness of the stomach, and disagreeable belching may not be very bad now, but they will be if the stomach is suffered to grow weaker.

Dyspepsia is such a miserable disease that the tendency to it should be given early attention. This is completely overcome by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Dr. Todd to Enter Upon Duties of General Missionary.

A meeting of the First Presbyterian church society was held Thursday evening to take action on the request, made by the Boston Presbytery, that the church grant the pastor, Rev. James Todd, leave of absence for three months in order that he might serve during that period as General Missionary in New England, the Home Mission board having made an appropriation for the purpose. The meeting was largely attended and much interest was manifested in the business in hand.

Rev. Dr. Dunlap, on behalf of the Presbytery, stated the request, which later took the form of a motion, and a free discussion followed. Most of the members were willing to show their respect for the Presbytery by granting the request, but quite a number were opposed to the motion on the ground that if the Home Missionary board decided to continue the work in New England beyond three months, Dr. Todd would naturally be expected to remain in office and the church would be obliged to look for another pastor.

Finally it was almost unanimously agreed to grant the desired leave of absence, and the hope was generally expressed that at the end of three months the Presbytery would make no further demands which would deprive the church of the services of Dr. Todd.

Dr. Dunlap thanked the members for the obliging spirit they had manifested and they were assured that during the absence of the pastor they would have the best available pulpit supplies and the interests of the church would not materially suffer.

SIZE, COST, POWER.

The Cheapness of the Large Warships Compared.

An extremely interesting comparison of the size, cost and power of our new battleships is made by Rear Admiral Bowles, chief constructor of the navy, in a paper read before the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers at their recent meeting in New York, says the Sun, which indicates very clearly that there is economy in building large war vessels rather than small ones, just as there is in the mercantile marine.

Admiral Bowles compares first the Alabama and Marine classes with the Connecticut class, the vessels of which will be built at the New York navy yard and at Newport News. The cost of each ship of the Maine and Alabama class was about $6,000,000, that of the ships in the Connecticut class will be about $7,500,000, an increase of 25 per cent. But while the cost has increased 25 per cent., the displacement has risen from 12,000 tons for the Maine class to 16,000 tons for the new class, an increase of 33 per cent.

In the older class the weight of the battery and amunition is 1003 tons, while in the Connecticut class it will be 1340 tons, the increase being about the same as that of the tonnage. Excluding from consideration all the guns below six pounders, the weight of one discharge from the guns of the Maine class is 5312 pounds, while that from similar guns of the new class is 7856 pounds, an increase of 47.9 per cent. Furthermore, the weight of armor on the vessels of the Maine class is 2770 tons and on those of the Connecticut class 3992 tons, an increase of 44 per cent. Thus, at an increase in cost of one-quarter, our new battleships will be one-third larger, carry one-third heavier batteries behind two-fifths better armor and be nearly one-half better offensively.

Extending the comparison to the Kearsarge and the Kentucky, Admiral Bowles figures that the new ships show an increase of 14 per cent in the weight of armament and ammunition of 34 per cent in protection and of 20 per cent in the weight of shot thrown in one discharge from all guns of six-pound size and upward. The increase in cost is, as in the other case, about 25 per cent.

Model basin trials of the Connecticut class, the chief constructor says, show that the new ships in order to obtain a speed of 18 knots will require about 6 per cent less power than the vessel of the Maine class, and that for 19 knots speed about 50 per cent less.

Taking up the cruisers of the Pennsylvania class and those of the new Tennessee class. Admiral Bowles shows that the latter will carry 29.7 per cent greater weight in guns and amunition and throw a weight of metal at one discharge greater by 49.7 per cent than that thrown by the older vessels. The increase in the weight of protection is 30 per cent in the Tennessee class over that of the Pennsylvania class. At the same time the new ships will have the speed as the older vessels on machinery of the same weight and power, though they will be 6 per cent larger.

BILLIARD TABLE.

Cause of Case in Quincy Court—Civil Suit Probable.

A case of unusual interest was heard before Judge Avery in the district court this morning. It was that of Martin P. Curran an agent of the Briggs Billiard Table Co., who was charged with breaking and entering the premises of Norah Ryan at Milton and the larceny of a billiard table.

It appeared upon evidence that some years ago James F. Ryan, acting as agent of the R. G. Shaw club of Boston leased a combination billiard and pool table, giving therefore a lease. Subsequently, notes were given in payment for the table. When the club disbanded the table was moved from place to place until it landed in Ryan's house at Milton.

The Briggs company made frequent demands for payment of the notes and were told by Ryan to come and take his old table. After a time, Mrs. Ryan, who was the owner of the house by trustee for her children, sent a bill for storage, and told them they could not have the table until storage was paid.

One day early this month, Curran, Briggs' agent, visited the Ryan house while the family was away and gaining entrance by keys took the table away.

Counsel for the government contended that giving of notes cancelled the lease, and that Briggs had no right to enter as he did, and therefore there was probable cause to believe him guilty.

Counsel for the defence claimed that the giving of notes did not cancel lease; that the Ryan who was master of the house had given Briggs authority to take the table. He therefore had a right to do as he did. Under the law breaking and entering was doing so to commit a felony, but in this case no felony was committed; that Briggs entered as he had been given authority to do, and took his own property.

The court held that giving the note did not cancel the lease, and the case was one for the civil side of the court. The complaint was then dismissed.

Smith Found Guilty.

At the September term of the Superior court at Dedham the jury disagreed in the case of Howard Smith of Hyde Park for assault on little 10-year-old Elizabeth McGregor, but on Thursday, at a second trial Smith was found guilty. The jury was out but 40 minutes. Smith will be sentenced later.

MILTON.

A transaction that is the subject for general discussion in East Milton is over the ownership of the silver dollar found in an ironing board. The board was one that Josiah Babcock had stored at his home. He found a man who wanted such an ironing board and after some dickering the board was sold for 40 cents. The purchaser carried it home and upon removing the outer covering he found a large roll of cloth and a small shawl. While examining the roll of cloth out dropped a silver dollar. Upon figuring up accounts he found he had got an ironing board, a roll of cloth, a shawl and a silver dollar all for 40 cents. When the fact became known, Mr. Babcock claimed the dollar but at last accounts he had not got possession.

On Christmas day services will be held at the Mission of Our Saviour church at 8 A. M., when there will be an address and Holy Communion.

The stable of Michael Flynn off Granite place, together with a horse two cows, two ton of coal and twenty tons of hay was destroyed by fire at 11.10 Friday night, Dec 12. The fire department was handicapped by lack of water, the mains not having been laid in that section.

Loud—Newcomb.

There was a merry family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Newcomb, 49 Newcomb street, Thursday evening, to witness the marriage of their eldest daughter, Miss Alice Louise to Mr. R. Cady Loud of Weymouth. The house was beautifully decorated with holly, everygreens and flowers. Immediately after a bountiful collation, Mr. and Mrs. Loud started on a short tour, amid a shower of rice and good wishes. On their return they will reside at 49 Newcomb street for the winter. The presents were costly and numerous.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

Vaudeville.

A large house greeted Capt. Eddy's vaudeville at the Quincy Music hall, Thursday evening. Charles Mackie appeared in monologue and songs and was recalled several times; Ward & Raymond gave some very clever dancing, Eda Armstrong, the child vocalist, gave three or four selections changing costume at each appearance; Ida Russell gave songs and monologue, and introduced a little dog as assistant; the Kingsbury fair were the closing attraction with their wireless telephone and and music on various instruments.

HAYTI'S NEW DICTATOR

Nord Is Proclaimed President by the Army

LONG AND STORMY CAREER

Has Held Rank of General Since 1857, Headed Political and Military Revolutions and Has Served Terms In Prison—Now Holds the Capital

Port au Prince, Dec. 19.—General Nord, having been proclaimed president of Hayti, by the army, took posession of the national palace yesterday.

General Alexis Nord, who now comes to the surface as the central figure around which the traditional turbulence of the black republic is revolving, must be a very old man by this time, as he has held the rank of general since 1857, and has been an active leader in the political and military revolutions of the country since 1865.

He headed the revolution which overthrew President Salnave in 1868, and in 1870 was a member of the provisional government presided over by Nisage Saget. He was appointed by the latter commander of the department of the north, and remained the practical dictator of that section until 1876, when President Domingue arrested him on a charge of conspiracy against the government, and sentenced him to five years' imprisonment.

General Nord obtained his liberty in April of the same year, when a revolution against Domingue broke out, with General Canal at its head. General Nord, however, turned against his liberator and headed an uprising against Canal. This movement was unsuccessful, and he was obliged to take refuge in Jamaica. In the summer of 1878 he returned to the charge, but was again unsuccessful, and was thrown into prison, where he remained until October, 1880, when he was pardoned and set at liberty by President Salomon.

On the resignation of President Sam in May last a provisional government was formed, with ex-President Canal at its head, and General Nord as minister of war. The uprising in favor of General Firmin followed, the military operations on the part of the government being conducted by General Nord with varying success, until Firmin was finally obliged to flee the country.

This gave General Nord his opportunity, and he marched upon Port au Prince with his army of 8000 or 10,000 men, and now he has gained possession of the capital.

Steamer and Cruiser Collided

Toulon, France, Dec. 19.—Steamer Medoo collided with the French cruiser La Touche Treville as she was leaving port last evening, and grounded on the rocks at the Mourillen arsenal and now lies in a dangerous position. The vessels collided because of a storm and seas are now breaking over the Medoo. Tugs have made unsuccessful efforts to get her off. On board the Medoo are the mails, 223 passengers for the East Indies, and a number of sailors intended for the French warships on the China station.

Sixty-Mile Ditch For Indiana

Crown Point, Ind., Dec. 19.—Preliminary steps are under way in the northwestern counties of Indiana to construct an artificial waterway 60 miles long. When completed it will reclaim hundreds of thousands of acres of marshlands. The ditch is to be 80 feet wide and 16 feet deep. Its cost will be about $1,000,000, to be collected by assessments proportioned to benefits derived from the ditch.

Says She Was Forced to Marry

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 19.—Santa Teresa, the young woman believed by the Yaqui Indians and many Mexicans to possess divine powers, has sued for divorce from her Indian husband, G. N. Rodriguez. It is alleged that the marriage was forced upon the young woman by her impetuous admirer at the point of a revolver.

Boers May Settle In America

Denver, Dec. 19.—Nearly 9000 Boers, it is said, are preparing to "trek" to America and will settle in Colorado, New Mexico and Texas. General De Villiers, who is now looking over the lands, has expressed himself as very favorably impressed with this state.

LIFE MADE MISERABLE

For Miners Who Worked While Strike Was On

ATTRIBUTED TO UNION MEN

Witnesses For Operators Tell of Assaults by Mobs and Boycotts Which Prevented Them Obtaining Necessaries of Life During the Strike

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 19.—The coal strike commission listened yesterday to testimony tending to show that a reign of terror existed in the anthracite coal fields during the 5½ months of the mine workers' strike. About a score of witnesses were called by the attorneys for the non-union men. They told of serious boycotts, brutal attacks by crowds of men, women and boys, and an attempt to burn the house of a non-union man. In most instances, the witnesses testified that the alleged offenders were members of the Miners' union.

The lawyers of the miners objected frequestly to the admission of testimony on hearsay, and sometimes objected because of the irrevelancy of certain other statements. Chairman Gray said the commission was not bound by any strict rules of evidence, but asked counsel to confine themselves in examining witnesses, as far as possible, to direct evidence. The commission, he said, wanted to know whether a reign of terror existed in the anthracite region, and it could not get that information if the strict rules of evidence were applied.

"The coward who will go to the storekeeper," he said, "and tell him not to sell the necessaries of life to a poor woman, usually seeks the obscurity that the law of evidence throws around him. If a girl is discharged from her position in a store because she rode in a street car in inclement weather while a street car strike was on, the coward who discharged her is coward enough to refuse to testify."

He realized, he said, why some merchants will not come forward and tell who forced him to refuse to sell necessaries of life to certain boycotted persons, but if he (Chairman Gray) were a storekeeper, he thought he would risk his all in order to assist in breaking up the cowardly business.

August Scheuch, who worked for the Lehigh Valley company through the suspension, testified that he was attacked by a mob while he and his son were going to work, and that he was severely injured by being hit by rocks; that he was stabbed three times and had five ribs broken. He was acting as a coal and iron policeman at the time, but did not use his revolver because he was afraid of hitting his son, who was being beaten by the crowd at the same time and was badly used up. Many of these men, he said, were strikers.

Henry Vermillye said he was forced to join the union by the superintendent of the John C. Haddock Coal company in order to keep peace at the colliery. This was before the strike began. Later he left the company because he thought the union was running the place, and went to work for another company while the strike was on. He was hung in effigy, stones were thrown at him while going to and from his work, and storekeepers were compelled to refrain from selling his relatives the necessities of life.

John Doran, manager of the Wilkesbarre lace mills, testified that because he would not discharge two girls who had relatives working in the mines the 1100 employes went on strike and stayed out eight weeks until the matter was fixed up.

Another witness said he was a member of the union, and while under a physician's care during the street car strike here last year he was obliged to ride on a car. His discharge was asked for by the union, but the mine superintendent refused. The union men made his occupation so unpleasant for him in the mines that he had to quit. He left the union and when the strike came on he refused to leave his work. He moved from one place to another and finally located at Pittston. At that place the man who owned the house, who was a union miner, ordered him out and he had to leave.

These witnesses and others that were called testified that their wives were insulted on the streets, the children were beaten by other children and could not safely be sent to school; that local unions requested storekeepers to refrain from selling goods to any one related to a man working in the mines; that their houses were stoned; that they were stoned, shot at, and hung in effigy, and that life was generally made miserable for them and their families. Most of the witnesses connected strikers with the offenses alleged.

The lawyers for the non-union men said last night they would continue calling witnesses to prove that a reign of terror existed during the strike.

Fatal Duel In Texas Town

Beaumont, Tex., Dec. 19.—John Brouch, street commissioner, and Frank Matthews last night fought a duel with pistols. Brouch was killed. Charles M. Matthews was fatally wounded and Frank Matthews received a bullet in the leg.

North Carolina Bank Robbed

Mullins, N. C., Dec. 19.—The bank at this place was broken open last night, the safe dynamited and about $6000 in cash stolen. The work bears evidence of professional cracksmen.

Narrowly Escaped Ocean Grave

Philadelphia, Dec. 19.—Suffering severely from exposure and privation, seven shipwrecked men and one woman arrived here yesterday on the steamer Mira, Captain Swartmore, from Newcastle-on-Tyne. The victims included C. H. Clements, owner of the schooner J. N. Wylde, Captain Dunupy, his wife and five seamen. Off Newfoundland the Wylde was overtaken by a blizzard which continued more than a week. Benumbed by the cold the captain and crew were unable to manage the schooner, which was tossed helplessly about.

Carried Insurance of $346,000

Louisville, Dec. 19.—It has developed that R. C. Whayne, a Louisville business man who was found dead Wednesday night near a park, with a gunshot wound in the breast, carried insurance on his life of $346,000 and had applications pending for $50,000 more. The coroner will make an exhaustive investigation.

Maine Saloon Keeper Robbed

Orono, Me., Dec. 19.—Thomas Kelly, a saloon keeper, was knocked senseless and robbed of $310 near the Maine Central station last night. Kelly was on his way home from his saloon at the time. His assailant escaped and Kelly was unable to give any description of him.

Held on Larceny Charge

Boston, Dec. 19.—A charge of larceny, which followed them from Detroit, brought Harry Rogers, 24 years of age, and Delia Cameron, 22, into the police court here yesterday. They were held in $1000 for appearance Dec. 24, after a plea of not guilty to the specific charge of larceny of $500 worth of jewelry in Detroit. Rogers is said to belong to a highly respectable family in Michigan and to be a college graduate.

Wants Agreement Wiped Out

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Louise K. Eames, claiming to be the only child of Lester H. Eames, deceased, a former Ottawa, Ills., bank president, seeks to establish her claim to his estate, valued at $1,000,000, asking that an agreement by which she signed away all her rights to the estate for $10,000 be set aside.

Mrs Gore's Death Accidental

Paris, Dec. 19.—The French authorities have become convinced that the death of Mrs. Ellen Gore, an American, was accidental, and have decided to drop the case against De Rydzewski. Mrs. Gore was killed by a pistol shot in the apartments of Jean De Rydzewski, a Russion singer, on Nov. 19 last.

Caddy Gets $6000 For Loss of Eye

Elizabethtown, N. Y., Dec. 19.—A jury yesterday rendered a verdict of $6000 damages against David Fleming, who, while playing on the Lake Placid links last summer, threw his golf stick at his caddy, causing the loss of sight of one eye. The caddy brought suit for $10,000.

Women Voted on Appropriation

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., Dec. 19.—Many women voted yesterday on a $145,000 appropriation for sewer construction. J. H. Cook, an attorney, filed a protest at the polls against women voting, contending that the constitution gave the sex no such privilege.

Princeton's President Likes Football

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 19.—At a dinner given to ex-Captain Davis and Captain DeWitt of the football team at the Tiger Inn House, President Wilson praised the game and said he hoped that such sports would always be kept on a high plane in the university life.

In Congress

Washington, Dec. 19.—The house yesterday passed the bill to reduce the duties on the products of the Philippine islands coming into the United States from 75 percent of the Dingley rates (the present duties) to 25 percent of those rates.

Woburn Investigators Report That Bribery Charges Are Sustained

Woburn, Mass., Dec. 19.—The charges of bribery by President Brady of the board of aldermen against C. S. Cummings, 2nd, and Alderman Michael J. Greaney are found to be "fully sustained" by the special committee which has been investigating the matter, in its report to the city council last night. The report was accepted and adopted.

The report further says that "Alderman James R. Wood, in view of certain consultations with Alderman Greaney and Charles F. Remington at his (Alderman Wood's) office and his failure to explain why he acted in this manner, must have some interest distinct from that of a public officer, otherwise he would not have acted thus." The committee finds that charges against Aldermen Aylward and Lynch were not proven.

The committee recommends that C. S. Cummings, 2nd, be given leave to withdraw on his petitions for street railway franchises and that President Brady be reimbursed for whatever expense he has been put to in connection with the investigation, and that he be given a vote of thanks for the stand taken by him.

The council voted to have the report, with the testimony and other papers relating to the investigation, sent to the district attorney.

It is understood that President Brady's expenses will amount to from $1000 to $1200 and that the cost so far to the city for the investigation is from $1500 to $2000.

Blondin Petition Filed

Boston, Dec. 19.—A motion for a new trial for Joseph W. Blondin, wife murderer, was filed with the clerk of the superior court yesterday. The grounds on which the petition is based are: Because the verdict is contrary to the evidence; because the evidence is insufficient in law to sustain said verdict; because the verdict is against the weight of the evidence. The defendant has a year in which to file an application for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

Paper Makers Resume Work

Rumford Falls, Me., Dec. 19.—What threatened to be a strike involving the 2500 employes of the three large paper mills in this town was settled yesterday when the 600 striking employes of the Oxford mill resumed their labors. An agreement was signed providing for the removal of an objectionable non-union employe, the return of the strikers to the positions they held when the strike was declared and a full recognition of their union.

Second Class Fares Cut Out

Boston, Dec. 19.—In keeping with the general advance in rates by the rail roads comes the announcement that all second-class fares to the west and south from New England territory have been abolished. This means that those who have ridden second class will now be compelled to pay from 10 to 15 percent more. In some cases an advance has been made in the first-class rate as well.

Woman Suspected of Poisoning

Willimantic, Conn., Dec. 19.—Mrs. Julia A. Wilson died last Saturday and the authorities have been investigating the case because of a suspicion that the woman was poisoned. Mrs. Sarah Manson, who is believed to have been more or less intimate with the woman, was unable to tell a connected story and the coroner yesterday ordered her arrest pending a further investigation.

Suspected of Robbing Mail

Boston, Dec. 19.—John F. Flannagan, 35 years old, clerk at the Back Bay postal station, was arrested yesterday. The charge was drunkenness, but he had been sought for for two or three days by Deputy United States marshals on a charge of robbing the mails. He was taken to a station house and later delivered into the custody of a deputy marshal.

Machinist's Awful Fate

New London, Conn., Dec. 19.—James Hardley, a machinist, aged 35, was caught in a shafting at a silk mill yesterday, was whirled around until stripped naked and then dropped into a vat of boiling water. He was terribly cut and sustained internal injuries, but managed to crawl out of the vat before being discovered. He died early this morning.

Busy Times at Olneyville

Providence, Dec. 19.—The Atlantic mills at Olneyville have just secured a government contract for cloth to be used in the new field uniforms of the United States army which, with its other contracts, will keep this concern, with its force of more than 2200 operatives, busy on a day and night basis for more than a year to come.

Nevada Beats Contract Requirements

Rockport, Mass., Dec. 19.—On her official trial over the Cape Ann course yesterday, the United States monitor Nevada made an average speed of 12.95 knots, exceeding thereby the contract requirement of 11.5 knots and demonstrating herself to be one of the fastest craft of her type in the government's navy.

Seven Shipwrecked Fishermen

Boston, Dec. 19.—Steamer Boston, from Yarmouth, N. S., brought seven members of the crew of the Gloucester fishing schooner Dreadnaught, which was wrecked near Lunenburg, N. S., while returning to Gloucester from Newfoundland with a cargo of salt herring.

Heavy Receipts of Coal

Boston, Dec. 19.—Over 12,000 tons of anthracite coal arrived at this port yesterday, besides several thousand tons of bituminous.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The terminal station of the Long Island railroad at Long Island City was completely destroyed by a fire which originated in the telegraph office. The depot was built at a cost of $60,000.

Former members of the firm of Dernberg, Glick & Horner, who conducted a department at Chicago and failed in 1895, have filed a petition asking to be relieved of their debts, which are placed at $444,292. The assets amount to $35,000.

The executive committee of the Army of Santiago de Cuba has selected Detroit for the encampment of July 16 and 17, 1903, to commemorate the surrender of Santiago in July, 1898.

General W. Greenleaf, for 20 years a depury collector of customs at Burlington, Vt., a veteran of the Civil war and prominent in the G. A. R., died after 24 hours' illness of pneumonia. He was 50 years old.

George H. Mason, aged 61, president of the Lowell, Mass., Board of Trade, died of pneumonia.

James Quinlan, a freight brakeman, was killed at Bellows Falls, Vt., coupling cars.

PALE WOMEN

A Bloodless Face Indicates Trouble.

Watery Blood a Menace to Health.

WE KNOW HOW PALE PEOPLE CAN GET RICH RED BLOOD.

COME AND LET US TELL YOU ABOUT VINOL.

When blood is watery and thin, or, as doctors would say, lacks red blood corpuscles, it is a sign that much is radically wrong.

We would advise everyone who has such symptoms to start at once to take a proper remedy to overcome this trouble.

That remedy is Vinol, the greatest and most modern tonic and rebuilder.

Vinol owes its virtue to the fact that it contains in a highly concentrated state the active curative principles extracted from cods' livers, the same elements that have made cod-liver oil famous for wasting diseases.

These medicinal elements are dissolved in a delicious table wine so that Vinol is most palatable.

None of the vile-smelling obnoxious grease that characterizes cod-liver oil and frequently makes it an impossible remedy for those who should take it, is found in Vinol.

We could relate many instances where Vinol has done good and restored the roses of health to the pale cheeks of the sufferer.

The following is a fair sample of the way people write in regard to Vinol:

"For several months I suffered lassitude and tired all the time. Also a sinking feeling in my stomach, which nothing would relieve, and I was pale and weak. As an experiment I tried Vinol and if I wrote pages I could not tell all it has done for me."—MRS. A. K. LA PRUSCH, Amesbury, Mass.

Because we know Vinol so well, and because we know so surely what it will do, and how it will accomplish the good it does in a scientific way, we unreservedly endorse and recommend it, and in every instance guarantee to refund to any one what they pay us for Vinol if they do not find it entirely satisfactory.

NON-UNIONIST STORIES

O. Sufferings Endured at Hands of Strikers

THE BOYCOTT A WEAPON

Attempted Wrecking of Homes, Shooting and Hanging In Effigy—Social Relations With Old Friends Severed Because Men Remained at Work

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 20.—Non-union men, some of their relatives and others to the number of 30 appeared before the anthracite coal strike commission yesterday and told their stories of alleged boycotts, intimidations, dynamiting and other forms of violence during the late strike. Each witness was a sufferer at the hands, they alleged, of union men.

Joseph H. Dugan, who was requested to give up his membership in a Catholic temperance society, wept while on the stand as he told how they ordered him to leave after many years of pleasant social relations with its members. He was very active in the society and drilled many of those who have grown to manhood in its military branch. The boys he had drilled stoned him on the highway and when he displayed his revolver they all dropped flat on the road.

James Mitchell, expelled from the Ancient Order of Hibernians, said he worked during the strike as a repairman and did not consider it unfair, because he did not mine any coal. He had been a member of the society 26 years and was in good standing, but the question of unfairness came up, and the members present unanimously voted to expel him.

Max Lasar, who did not quit when the strike was inaugurated, told of how a man threw a quart bottle of giant powder, to which a lighted fuse was attached, into the parlor of his home. He extinguished the fuse. The powder was shown to the commission. Three other witnesses testified to attempts to blow up their homes.

Eugene Detty, who was not a mine worker and in no way connected with the strike, said he was going along a road at night and was mistaken for a non-union man. He was so badly beaten that he was laid up for two months.

Thomas Kennedy, aged 15, said he worked in a drug store in Carbondale. His father was an engineer and did not quit work when the strike started. The manager of the drug store, he said, was requested by a committee from the union to discharge him, and rather than have the store boycotted the druggist told the boy to quit. The father corroborated the story and added he had to keep his children from the public schools, as they were being abused.

David E. Lewes, a mine foreman, testified to general conditions in Olyphant, and said the authorities of the borough made no attempt to keep the peace. Most of them were mine workers or relatives of mine workers.

John Lewandofski, who worked during the strike, testified to an attempt to blow up his house with dynamite, and produced the explosives and fuses.

Mr. and Mrs. Petera Cultz gave testimony to the effect that their house was attacked by union men and boys, and that much of the inside and outside of the place was damaged by rocks. Photographs were produced showing the damage.

Frank Fidati, who was a striker, but who was hired by a coal operator to watch the home of a non-union man, was shot in the leg by other strikers because he would not stop protecting the man's house.

John Coulin, a mine boss and president of the school board of Plains, testified that a committee of a local union called on him and asked that school teachers whose relatives were working in the mines be not reappointed.

Frank McCarthy, a school teacher, said he was not reappointed. His father was a mine foreman and was working during the strike. He knew of a female school teacher whose father did not strike who failed of reappointment.

All the other witnesses testified to having been hung in effigy once or more times; that grocers, butchers, milkmen and icemen refused to serve them because they were afraid their business would be boycotted and that they were severely beaten and socially ostracized.

Mining Company Lost Money

Reading, Pa., Dec. 20.—The stockholders of the Temple Iron company met here last night and increased the bonded indebtedness from $2,826,000 to $3,326,000. The company controls several anthracite coal mines. George F. Baer is president. The increase will be used to cover a deficit caused by reason of the recent strike.

Asks For Fair Treatment

Washington, Dec. 20.—Delegate Rodey of New Mexico has published an appeal to the editors and press of the country asking for their aid and for fair treatment of the territories that are fighting for admission to the union against the powerful sectional and other interests which he says are trying to keep them out.

Nine Sailors Lost

Henderson, N. Y., Dec. 20.—The wreckage of the steamer John C. Hall, which, with her crew of nine was lost in a gale on Lake Ontario, is coming ashore in great quantities. This leads to the abandonment of hope for the safety of the crew.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Holiday Business Booming and Industrial Conditions Satisfactory

New York, Dec. 20.—R. G. Dun & Co's Weekly Review of Trade says: Holiday trade has exceeded even the most sanguine expectations, and retail dealings in all staple lines of merchandise are well maintained, with the better grades of goods in brisk demand. Wholesome conditions prevail in most sections of the country, although in parts of the southwest the season has fallen behind the average. Even in these cases reports are encouraging for the future. Industrial plants are well employed, orders running far into the future, and labor controversies are rare. The only adverse feature of the situation is the fact that supplies of fuel are utterly inadequate, both for household and manufacturing uses, snow increasing the delay of deliveries.

Two events of importance have occurred in relation to the leading manufacturing industry. The United States Steel corporation has greatly extended its scope by absorbing many outside plants and certain desirable railway connections.

New England producers of boots and shoes are not seeking new business, which comes forward moderately in the form of supplementary orders. The bulk of spring contracts have been placed, and most factories are assured of steady operation until the end of March. Forwardings from Boston exceed preceding weeks, but still fall short of the corresponding week last year. Prices are firmly held, but no further advance is reported.

A reduction in quotations of leading lines of bleached cottons stimulated trading, many buyers having delayed placing contracts in anticipation of this change. This division of the textile market is now in good condition, with no immediate prospect of excessive supplies.

Anarchist Le Cleyre Fatally Shot

Philadelphia, Dec. 20.—Miss Voltairine Le Cleyre, aged 36, a noted anarchist and a teacher of languages, was shot and mortally wounded yesterday by Herman Helscher, aged 24, a former pupil. Helscher is in custody. Helscher's only explanation was: "We were sweethearts, she and I. She broke my heart and deserved to be killed." The shooting occurred on the street and was witnessed by a score of persons. Miss Le Cleyre has attained widespread notoriety through her anarchistic utterances and her intimacy with Emma Goldman and other anarchists. She is an accomplished linguist and musician, and has written much anarchistic literature and many poems. Helscher is also an avowed anarchist.

Modest Claim Declared Invalid

New York, Dec. 20.—United States Judge Thomas, in Brooklyn, handed down a decision yesterday declaring invalid a claim of $1,000,000 against the United States entered by Lieutenant Commander Sutherland of the navy. The amount was asked as prize money, the commander and his crew of the Eagle, a converted gunboat, having destroyed the Spanish steamer Santo Domingo during the Spanish-American war. The government maintained that only $1100 could be recoverd by plaintiff.

Pure Food Bill Passes House

Washington, Dec. 20.—The house yesterday passed the pure food bill by a vote of 72 to 21. There was not a quorum present, but the point was not raised by the opponents of the measure. The bill inhibits the introduction into any state or territory from any other state or territory or from any foreign country, or to the shipments to any foreign country of any article of food or drug which is adulterated or misbranded.

Chicago Business Men Buncoed

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Louis Stern, a note broker, was arrested yesterday while, it is asserted, he was attempting to dispose of alleged forged commercial paper amounting to $7500. The police are searching for a man who is wanted on the charge of forging the alleged worthless paper. It is said that at least $20,000 worth of the alleged fraudulent paper has been circulated.

Increase of $600,000 In Wages

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Increases in wages amounting to $600,000 a year are to be granted the locomotive engineers and firemen employed by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad and its branch lines, through an agreement reached yesterday between officials of the railroad and committees representing the engineers and firemen. This scale will go into effect Jan. 1.

Hundreds of Thousands Starving

St. Petersburg, Dec. 20.—Four hundred thousand persons are reported to be destitute and starving as a result of the crop failure in Finland. The Anglo-American church here has undertaken to feed and clothe the school children of the four Finnish parishes. Pastor Francis says the conditions today are worse than those of 1867, when 100,000 persons died.

Change In Tammany Hall

New York, Dec. 20.—John F. Carroll resigned the Tammany leadership of the Twenty-Ninth assembly district last night. Private business was stated as his reason. Joseph F. Mulqueen was elected to succeed Carroll.

A CHRISTMAS GREETING

A Poem of the Yuletide

A SONG for old Christmas,
For jolly old Christmas,
The monarch of merriment, fun and good cheer!
Let all the bells chiming
Ring out with a rhyming
For Christmas, good Christmas, King Christmas is here!

Pile up the log fire
Still higher and higher;
He loves the bright blaze of a wide open hearth.
No shadow of sadness
Must darken our gladness,
For Christmas, blithe Christmas, now rules the broad earth.

The stars are all winking
As if they were drinking
Time out of ethereal champagne that he brings.
The winds shout in chorus:
"Long may he reign o'er us!
Good Christmas, King Christmas, the greatest of kings!"

"HAIL TO KING CHRISTMAS!"

O'er snow piles, high drifted,
His throne is uplifted!
His mantle is pinned by the North Polar star,
And down the dim ages
Saints, sinners and sages
Cry, "Hail to King Christmas, who rules near and far!"

His brows wreathed with holly,
Fat, rosy and jolly,
He sways the proud scepter no monarch can boast
O'er realms that are boundless
And depths that are soundless,
For he, mighty Christmas, alone rules the roast!

Then plump be the purses
Of all whom these verses
May reach, with their tidings of jolly good cheer.
Their presents be many,
Their fun best of any,
For Christmas comes once—only once—in a year.

THE CHRISTMAS BIRD.

How to Prepare and Cook a Goose, Old or Young.

A goose is the typical Christmas bird, although most families dine on turkey that day, and some like a pair of ducks and a fine roast of beef. The goose must be young, or what is called a green goose. Yellow and flexible feet are a sign of youth. A goose is dressed and trussed in the same manner as a turkey, but the skin should be thoroughly washed.

Sage and onions are the traditional seasonings, and a very good way to stuff a goose is to boil and mash some white potatoes and season highly with onion juice, sage, also salt and pepper. Dredge the outside lightly with salt and pepper and thickly with flour. Lay the goose on a rack in the baking pan and put a few tablespoonfuls of water in the pan; baste often. Twenty minutes to the pound is the average time to allow for the baking. Garnish with blood oranges cut in sections on parsley, celery tips or any other green garnish.

Make a sauce from the contents of the pan, thickening with flour, and after straining add the giblets, which have been cooked until tender in water and chopped coarsely.

An old goose cannot be cooked satisfactorily in this way. It will need to be parboiled and then braised.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

FEEDING THE BIRDS.

A Happy Christmas Custom Among Swedish Peasants.

Christmas is celebrated in Sweden to an extent unknown in our country, and the celebration is not over until Jan. 13, or "twentieth day Yule." A very pretty feature of the festivities is thus described by a writer who has visited that country: One wintry afternoon, at Jul-tide (as the season is called), I had been skating on a pretty lake three miles from Gothenberg. On my way home I noticed that at every farmer's house there was erected, in the middle of the yard, a pole, to the top of which was bound a large, full sheaf of grain. "Why is this?" I asked my comrade. "Oh, that's for the birds, the little wild birds. They must have a merry Christmas, too, you know." And so it is; not a peasant in Sweden will sit down to a Christmas dinner within doors until he has first raised aloft a Christmas dinner for the birds in the cold and snow without.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

CHRISTMAS IN JAMAICA.

A Tropical Celebration With Santa Claus Left Out.

The white people of Jamaica celebrate Christmas in spirit rather than in active observance. Of course Santa Claus is unknown here, for what would Kris Kringle do in his fur raiment and with his reindeers in a land where few indeed of the people know what snow is and fewer still ever saw it. Outdoor sport is out of the question, and even lawn tennis cannot be substituted for the skating and tobogganing of the north. The white people sit or swing in hammocks under the cool shade of the palm trees and look with curious interest over the holiday numbers of English and American magazines, with their strange pictures of snow scenes, and read the stories of Christmastide in the land of Kris Kringle and Jack Frost. After sundown there are social gatherings, at which the guests sit out on the verandas, eat ice cream, fan themselves and while away the evening with conversation and in that "sweet doing nothing" way that is such a feature of life in the tropics. Very many of the white people of Jamaica were born in the island and so know nothing of the Christmas customs of the north. But there are also quite a number of Americans and Britishers here, and these try various ways to get up a semblance of Christmas, but it is like the crew of a polar expedition celebrating Fourth of July while icebound in the Arctic circle, and their Christmas is mostly one of reminiscence. Still wintering in the tropics is not without its compensating advantages, and although Christmas here is apt to be a pretty lonesome time to Americans, they are very apt to find cause for congratulation after the festive season is over in the fact that they are safe from the cold, the snow, the slush and the blizzards of the north.

YULETIDE IN AUSTRIA.

Customs and Legends of the Non-German Population.

Yuletide as kept by the non-German population of Austria is very picturesque. On Christmas day the Poles in Galicia first attend mass and then sit down to family supper. The chief dish on the table contains consecrated eggs, which the father distributes. After eating, all eyes are closed and all heads bowed down to the table in the belief that Jacob's ladder is then descending from heaven to earth and down the ladder angels are coming to bless the worshipers and to carry away their earthly troubles to heaven. Among the Czechs the legend runs that he who most strictly fasts on Christmas eve will see the holy Christ in his dreams that night. In the evening the real celebration begins. All lights are then extinguished in the house; no fire, no light is visible. The children crowd together in fear and remain perfectly silent, as otherwise they know they will receive none of the presents brought by the Christ Child and laid at the entrance of the house. The older females amuse themselves by throwing heated lead into water and gathering from the forms it assumes some hint as to the appearance of their future husbands.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

CHRISTMAS MENUS

THE housewife will find no better suggestions for the Christmas spread than are contained in the following. The menus have a Christmas flavor and are cosmopolitan in their makeup. They are planned for ten or more people, but for a small family the fish course and some of the vegetables and sweets could be omitted:

MENU NO. 1.
Oyster Cocktails.
Julienne Soup.
Olives. Celery. Salted Almonds.
Broiled Smelts, Tartar Sauce.
Parisienne Potatoes.
Roast Turkey, Stuffed with Truffles.
Oyster Brochettes.
Spinach. Macaroni Croquettes.
Lettuce Salad.
Plum Pudding Glace. Mince Tarts.
Small Cakes. Bonbons. Nuts.
Coffee.

MENU NO. 2.
Oysters on the Half Shell.
Clear Tomato Soup.
Celery. Olives. Salted Pecans.
Boiled Rock, Egg Sauce.
Potato Cakes.
Roast Turkey, Stuffed with Chestnuts.
Cranberry Jelly. Giblet Sauce.
Brussels Sprouts.
Sweet Potato Croquettes.
Grape Fruit Salad.
Crackers. Cheese.
English Plum Pudding.
Frozen Fruit Cup.
Bonbons. Cakes. Nuts.
Coffee.

MENU NO. 3.
Oysters on the Half Shell.
Consomme.
Radishes. Salted Filberts.
Halibut Cutlets on Toast, Lemon Sauce.
Roast Goose, Savory Stuffing.
Giblet Gravy. Jellied Apples.
Hashed Browned Potatoes.
Lemon Ginger Sherbet.
Celery Salad.
Crackers. Cheese.
Plum Pudding, Rum Sauce.
Fruits. Nuts. Bonbons.
Coffee.

All of these dinners are easily prepared. The soups are light and simple, but must be perfectly seasoned and perfectly free from grease. Nearly every one now prefers the Christmas turkey stuffed with truffles or chestnuts and has a favorite recipe for this delicacy, so it is unnecessary to say anything on this subject. If this noble bird is to appear on the table, put a double row of nut meats down his breast, to button up his brown coat in true military fashion, and let him rest on a bed of celery and parsley leaves. The Christmas goose, celebrated in song and story, is not very well known on this side of the water. The turkey tired palate will welcome the appearance of the goose, cooked by this recipe, on the board.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE TWO SOLDIERS

By EDWIN L. SABIN

Copyright, 1902, by Edwin L. Sabin

It was a brilliant holiday store, the windows and the shelves and the cases ablaze with filigree and thronged with dolls and dishes and engines and trains and skates and sleds, and hobbyhorses that galloped, and cows that mooed, and mice that ran, and—and everything, absolutely everything, that ever enters the most rapturous Christmas dream.

In the center of the large show windows, fronting upon the gay street, stood two soldiers. They were by all odds the finest soldiers in the store, much superior to the personnel composing the different troops and regiments and companies stationed here and there along the aisles. The pair were made of tin, to be sure; but they were of heroic stature, eight inches tall, richly uniformed in black and yellow, and could be wound up so that they would present arms several times in succession.

The other soldiers, poor things, were compelled to remain the whole time at a "carry" or a "right shoulder" without relief.

Naturally these two soldiers were proud and of aspirations reaching beyond their present narrow quarters. They pined for a wider sphere. As they stood and stared with stern, fixed gaze through the plate glass into the gay street they talked together in toy language, and none, not even the most versatile linguists among the people passing and repassing, knew that they talked.

"OH, TO GET AWAY FROM THIS ETERNAL GUARD MOUNT!"

"Oh, to get away from this eternal guard mount over a lot of frippery!" sighed the one.

"With all my heart!" agreed the other. "The monotony is frightful."

"I'd give half my solder to receive orders to report to some little boy," continued the first. "Oh, for a change!"

"But the majority of little boys are so rough and careless," responded the second. "I understand they scratch you and bend you and otherwise maltreat you without cause, and soon you're done for. I prefer duty of a more quiet, instructive nature, where I may teach by means of my deportment rather than by violent action."

"Well, I should enjoy a hard drill and a tussle, I believe," asserted the first.

"Our organism is too fine for such active service, my lad," indulgently corrected the second. "What—scratches and dents? No, no. Give me a post of more elegance, where my uniform will be treated as it deserves."

* * * * * * *

Christmas day had been over and gone a month when after their separation the two soldiers again encountered one another, but this time in a great heap of rubbish at the city dump, where the dump man had unwittingly thrown them out.

"Hurrah! Hello, old chap!" exclaimed the first soldier delightedly.

"Hello!" returned the second, with rather more reserve. "Goodness! Been through the Seven Years' war?"

Well might he put this query. The other soldier was a perfect wreck. He had lost an arm and a foot, his head was sharply inclined forward upon his chest, he had only one eye, his body was twisted askew, his gun was broken, his cap was missing, his features were battered and distorted, and as for his uniform of black and yellow—there was hardly a spot of paint on him!

"I—I've been having my tussle," announced the first, with a cracked laugh. "But you—why, you evidently found just what you were looking for."

"Yes," explained the second, "I fell into an excellent post. It was the hands of a little boy, sure enough, but he wasn't allowed to hurt me. See, I haven't a mark on me." And he exhibited himself proudly.

True, he was still in dress parade condition.

"Thunder and Mars!" chuckled the first. "And look at me! Do you mean to say that you never were stepped on?"

"Oh, no," replied the second. "I didn't lie around on the floor. I was put away just as soon as he was done playing with me. His mother had made him a very orderly little boy."

"So you never stayed out all night in the hall or in the middle of the sitting room?"

"Never," said the spick and span soldier.

"And did he shoot at you with his rubber gun ever?"

"Never," said the spick and span soldier.

"And he didn't bite you to see how soft you were?"

"Never," said the spick and span soldier.

"Or drag you about among the chairs with a string?"

"Never," said the spick and span soldier.

"Or sick the terrier on you?"

"Never."

"Or take you to bed with him and roll on you?"

"Never. I was always placed on the shelf in the closet."

"Or kick you or whack you or throw you?"

"Never. Watch—I can present arms as well as ever."

"Or kiss you and hug you with all his might and cry for you when he was sick through eating too much candy?"

"Never. He used to forget me entirely for days and days. Did your boy really do all that to you?"

"Yes, all that and more," answered the battered soldier softly.

"And did he kiss you, you say?" asked the spick and span soldier a bit wistfully.

"Yes; he kicked me and he kissed me," laughed the first.

"And did you enjoy it?" pursued the second curiously.

"I had the time of my life," declared the other. "How did you find things—up to your expectations?"

The spick and span soldier hesitated; then he replied:

"Possibly. I can't complain. But—but somehow I grew dreadfully ennuied. I almost longed at times for more excitement, more energy. We got tired of one another. After a day or so we exhausted all our programme of proper exercises, and he was so cautious of wearing me out that I was laid aside, and—and, finally, here I am. I don't suppose he even knows that I'm gone."

"Dear me!" mused the other. "I'm glad my little boy was not like yours. Of course there are the knocks; but, oh, our companionship was sweet! I bet he's crying for me at this instant, poor chum! Still, it is as well that I am carted to the dump. I am old and disfigured and a back number, and I wanted to go before he would cease to miss me."

The spick and span soldier was silent.

"Hi, yi!" soliloquized the veteran, with a sigh and with a chuckle, stiffly rolling over on his back. "I'm past repairs, but it was sweet—aye, it was worth it! I—have—had—the—time—of—my—life."

And with his one eye he gazed through a chink in the debris up at the stars.

AN APOLOGY NECESSARY

To Atone For Venezuela's Attack on Foreigners

ARBITRATION IS ACCEPTED

But Many Small Points Are to Be Settled Before Entering Into Agreement—Feeling That the Hague Tribunal Should Undertake the Case

Washington, Dec 20.—The official day closed without further developments here respecting the Venezuelan complications. The status of the arbitration proposition, on which every one waits, was that, with a willingness to accept such a solution in principle, no one of the allies was ready to submit unreservedly to arbitration in each case, as there were reservations of conditions insisted upon.

Secretary Hay has received partial responses from the governments of Great Britain, Germany and Italy, respecting the proposal to arbitrate the Venezuelan difficulties. Great Britain is favorable to arbitration, with proper safeguards; Germany accepts arbitration in principle, but finds a multitude of small adjustments must be made before she can enter into the agreement; Italy declares that she is favorable to arbitration, but will be bound probably by the action of the larger powers.

Respecting the method of arbitration, if it should come to that form of adjustment, it is noted that the feeling is growing that The Hague tribunal should undertake the case. Mr. Bowen, it is reported, wishes to come to Washington in order personally to effect an adjustment with the resident ambassadors of the allies, but while the state department makes no statement upon the point it is believed that it does not regard this plan with favor.

It is pointed out here in connection with the project to refer the matter to The Hague tribunal that in some phases the disputes will not admit of arbitration. Such is the case, for instance, where attacks on British and German subjects, and the German legation at Caracas, and arrests of consular officers, have made the Venezuelan offense equivalent to attacks on the national honor of the allies and as such to be atoned for only by an ample apology.

The Hague tribunal could not arbitrate such issues, but it is pointed out at the state department that the claims are divisible and that if President Castro chooses to render the necessary apologies the remaining questions can properly go to The Hague.

It is believed that the United States government inclines to the view that there is a disposition to insist needlessly on guarantees for the payment by Venezuela of any judgment that might be rendered against her by arbitration. It believes that the force of enlightened public opinion would absolutely ensure a settlement of any judgment rendered by the august tribunal and that President Castro would not be sustained by a single American country in defaulting.

The explanation of the visit of the cruiser Albany to La Guaira, from which place she is to return immediately to her position with Admiral Dewey's command, which is made here, is that she is to transport a naval officer to assist Minister Bowen in the discharge of the numerous duties suddenly devolved on him. It is stated that no significance attaches to the voyage of the Albany.

Blockade Remains a Hard Fact

London, Dec. 20.—The comment of the London newspapers has become much more temperate since the advent of a better prospect of a peaceful arrangement of the Venezuelan difficulty, but in view of the complicated nature of the problem the opinions expressed are very guarded. It is asked whether, considering the difficulties to be overcome, recourse to arbitration will be found possible. All the papers are anxious that such a solution of the trouble be reached. Altogether, however, a more cheerful view of the position of affairs is taken this morning, and this in spite of the fact, as one paper remarks, that "the immediate institution of a blockade is the hard fact of the situation."

Reply Held Up For a Few Days

Berlin, Dec. 20.—The answer of Germany to the arbitration proposal in behalf of Venezuela, received through the United States government, is its acceptance. The delivery of this reply to the United States for transmission to Minister Bowen is delayed for a day or two for tactical reasons, probably the expectation that another solution may be found, possibly by President Castro yielding.

Italy Looks to Bowen

Rome, Dec. 20.—The foreign office expresses the hope of receiving today communications from the governments of Great Britain and Germany giving their adhesion to the investure of Minister Bowen with full powers to act for Venezuela, but under the conditions stipulated by Germany.

The Albany Leaves Dewey's Fleet

Caracas, Dec. 20.—When the German cruiser Falke captured the Venezuelan schooner Victoria Thursday in the Gulf of Maracaibo the captain of the vessel was given 10 minutes to leave his ship. A very heavy sea was running at the time, and the small boat in which the Venezuelans disembarked was nearly capsized. As it was one of the schooner's crew was drowned. The captain of the Victoria was not aware of Venezuela's difficulties with Germany and Great Britain, and the action of the German cruiser is criticised and condemned by all classes of society here. The Victoria is stranded on the shore.

No Ultimatum From France

Caracas, Dec. 20.—The French note to Venezuela has absolutely nothing of the character of an ultimatum, though its text is still unknown here in consequence of delay in its transmission by cable. Its terms are similar to those of Belgium and Spain, asking for the most favored nation treatment in the payment of claims.

The Sinking of the Victoria

San Juan, P. R., Dec. 20.—The cruiser Albany has left Culebra, which has caused her destination to be the subject of wild rumors through the fleet. The general belief is that she is bound for Venezuela. Admiral Dewey and the other officers on board the Mayflower decline to announce the Albany's destination or explain her mission, but it is asserted that the plans regarding the Christmas holidays will not be materially modified.

Flag Day In Louisiana Purchase

St. Louis, Dec. 20.—Today is being observed generally throughout the Louisiana Purchase territory as flag day, proclamations having been issued by the governors of most of the states and territories embraced in the country formally transferred to the United States at New Orleans 99 years ago.

Batch of Boodlers Convicted

St. Louis, Dec. 20.—The joint trial of five former members of the house of delegates, which began Tuesday, ended last night in a verdict of five years in the penitentiary for each man. The defendants, John A. Sheridan, Charles J. Denny, Charles Gutke, Edmund Bersch and T. E. Albright, were convicted on charges of bribery in connection with the passage of the suburban street car bill, to accomplish which, it was charged, $75,000 had been placed in deposit to be used as required. The five defendants filed motions for a new trial, and each was released on bond.

Thinks Lincoln's Plan Misunderstood

Buffalo, Dec. 20.—Emory Speer, judge of the United States court for the southern district of Georgia, was the guest of the Independent club at its dinner last night. He spoke on "The Solid South." The political attitude of the southern people toward the government, he said, is directly ascribable to the swift bestowal by the reconstruction acts of unlimited manhood suffrage upon the members of the African race which, he asserted, was no part of Lincoln's plan for the restoration of the union.

Relieves Colombian Worriment

Colon, Dec. 20.—The news that the Colombian charge d'affaires at Washington, Senor Herran, had conferred with Secretary Hay Dec. 16 for the purpose of fixing the price of the canal concession and the likelihood of the treaty being ready to submit to congress before Christmas has been very favorably received on the isthmus, as certain misgivings as to the final selection of the Panama route had existed.

Good Afternoon.

A Merrry Christmas! With the Christian Endeavorers we believe the Christmas message is a message of joy. "Behold I bring you good tidings of great joy!" This joy is caused by the fact that salvation was to come through the Babe of Bethlehem. "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour which is Christ the Lord," a cause for joy. It is a message of light to a world in darkness, a message of hope to a world in despair, a message of redemption to a world in the valley of the shadow of death. Well might the angels sing, ascribing "Glory to God" and "peace, good will to men."

With dividends of forty-five per cent. to stockholders this year the rapid increase in oil is unwarranted and rascally.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore of Melrose is 82 years old. May she enjoy many more years of this life.

We wish it was as easy to abolish the trusts as Ex-Mayor Josiah Quincy intimates. Probably they are too strongly intrenched in control of government.

Blames Coal Club.

Mayor Charles M. Bryant of Quincy was brief and vigorous in his views when interviewed by the Herald on Congressman McCall's resolution. Said he: "I think Congressman McCall's proposition is absolutely correct and should be done; in fact, anything that will tend to prevent the extortionate rates now being charged for coal in New England should be done. I believe the present rates are being dictated by the Boston Coal club, and such a condition should not be allowed to continue."

Coke Arrives.

For some weeks past the Citizen's Gas Co. have been overwhelmed with orders for coke. All the coke made at their Quincy retorts has been sold faster than they could make it. In order to meet the demand the company had a car load of about sixteen tons sent from their Amesbury plant. This arrived on the freight last night and today there are a long string of teams carting it from the depot. The company is selling it at twenty cents a bushel.

Capital Half a Million.

A certificate of incorporation was filed at Augusta, Maine, yesterday by the Hall Gasolene Engine Company, organized at Portland to deal in yachts, vessels and automobiles. The promoters are Frank E. Hall, Quincy, Mass; Charles W. Richardson, Augustus A. Fuller, Portland. The capital stock is $500,000, of which $3 is paid in; par value $1. Charles W. Richardson is president and Frank E. Hall is treasurer.

☞The Christmas sale of Burntwood, Water-colors etc. by Mr. C. Clifford Bradford will be continued through the holidays.

GRADE CROSSING.

The Serious Thing in Connection with Freight Railroad.

A number or the members of the City Council, including the Committee on Streets, viewed the location for freight railroad, petitioned for by the Fore River Ship and Engine Company yesterday afternoon.

In the party were Councilmen Bass, Thompson, Smith, Hadlock, Newcomb, Piper, Faxon, Nickerson, Langelier, Diack and Hughes. Commissioner Knowlton, Herbert T. Whitman the civil engineer who laid out the route, and Frank F. Crane.

All the part of the petition over which the City Council has jurisdiction is the points where it crosses public streets. East Howard avenue was first visited and then Quincy avenue. The point on Quincy avenue where it is proposed to cross is virtually the lowest point. At this particular point the street is not built to its full width on the south side. The crossing of this street was the only point at which any question seemed to be raised.

It was apparent from the conversations of the Councilmen present, that they were not unanimous as to how the track should cross the street. Mr. Whitman alluded to the fact that under the law governing private railroads it lay in the power of the City Council to impose regulations as to time, speed, etc., and that the Council could change the grade from time to time.

The members of the Council asked questions as to the probable cost of raising the street so that the railroad could pass beneath it, and of building a trestle over the street for the road to run upon. The question as to whether the old location held by the Wendell railroad was not still in effect, was touched upon, and if the Council refused to grant the location asked, if the Fore River Co. could not cross the street on that location.

It was evident that if the railroad must cross the street at grade it would be far better to have it cross at the point in the petition than by the location of the Wendell railroad which is too near Newcomb square.

From Quincy avenue the party went to Howard avenue and then journeyed through the works of the Fore River Co. This was the first time many of them had ever visited the works, and they were surprised at the immensity of them. While at the works they saw the sections of the steel bridge that are to replace the wooden bridge between Quincy Point and North Weymouth.

From the Fore River Works the party drove through Chubbuck street to take a look at the famous nuisance on that street which the City Council is asked to appropriate $1500 to abate.

In His Ninetieth Year.

The sudden death of Joseph Lovett, Thursday afternoon, was a shock to all his friends. After a week's illness and gradual failing he passed away at his home on Brook street at the age of 89 years, 6 months. Heart failure was pronounced as cause of death.

He was born in Beverly in June of 1813, where he received his early education. At 14 he entered business in Boston with an iron and building construction firm and a remarkable thing he has been in same business until his death, working up from an apprentice until he became owner of the trade known now as the Smith & Lovett firm. He retired from business at the age of 85.

He came in prominence as deacon and founder of Franklin Street church in East Somerville. As a man, he abstained from all vices and evil habits, and was congenial and beloved by all.

He survived his wife, Lavina Lovett who died in 1882, and he is survived by a daughter and three sons. The funeral service will be held at Congregational church on Sunday at 1 P. M.

Where Independence Began.

Rev. D. M. Wilson's new book has for its centre of interest the remarkable group of patriots, natives of and residents of old Braintree and Quincy, among whom independence was earliest anticipated and most effectually advocated. For the first time a continuous narrative is given of the Adamses and the Quincys from their immigration to these shores down to "the Abigail Adams and Dorothy Q. of today. About other notable persons associated with them,—the Hancocks, the Hoars, the Wendells,—interesting anecdotes and episodes are told.

Not This Year.

For several years past Henry H. Faxon in the roll of Santa Claus has sent his check for $100 to the several churches in Quincy and his check for $25 to the several Sunday schools of the city to help them with their Christmas festivals. This year he says that he does not intend to make his usual contributions in this line, having other uses for his money. His decision will be received with regret by the Sunday schools.

Several Grade Crossings.

Editors Daily Ledger:

There will be a public hearing before the City Council on Dec. 31 relative to granting a location to the Fore River Company for a track to be used for hauling freight from the Company's works to the New Haven Railroad at East Braintree. This is an extremely important matter and the public should attend the hearing.

The proposed location crosses six or more public streets at grade. Millions have been spent in Massachusetts to abolish grade crossings. The matter should be thoroughly considered before action is taken. The grade crossing aspect of the case cannot but excite apprehension, and while no one would deny any reasonable privilege to the great industry which has so materially benefited the city, few would care to allow grade crossings if it be possible to have the track constructed without them. As to the latter point the Council and the public should have the fullest information.

Yours truly,
J. L. E.

Skating Much Desired.

Editor of the Daily Ledger:

I find that among the boys and girls there is a very strong desire that the meadows near Merrymount Park be kept flooded during the winter in order that skating may be enjoyed.

If possible, it is hoped that this may be done—particularly as the cost will be very moderate when the total amount of entertainment and benefit afforded is considered.

It is as much of an advantage to afford healthful and pleasant ontdoor exercise and entertainment to the young people as it is to assign some branches of study to them.

Give the boys and girls a chance to skate is the wish of A Parent.

Red Men Play Whist.

The entertainment committee of Hodenosauee tribe of Red Men held a whist party in I. O. O. F. hall, Wollaston, last evening in which nineteen tables participated, and the following were the lucky winners of prizes: Mrs. Michael Pitts, toilet set; Mrs. C. L. Bean, china cheese dish; Mrs. Hardy, bambo music rack; Miss Carrie Dencer, fancy dish; Mrs. B. M. McLeod, painted placque; Mrs. F. A. Drake, fancy dish; Mr. G. Craig, sofa pillow; Mr. A. D. Dyer, oil painting; Mr. A. Keating, basket; Mr. E. M. Shay, china tea set; Mr. E. Wilford, imported vase; Mr. B. Richardson, satin handkerchief case.

Very Quiet.

Tommy—Can we play at keeping a shop in here, mamma?

Mamma (who has a headache)—Certainly: but you must be very, very quiet.

Tommy—Well, we'll pretend we don't advertise.—Tit-Bits.

—Half a century ago, the age of man was almost universally believed to be 6000 years. This period has gradually extended by the scientists and now comes Dr. Flinders Petrie, the noted Egyptologist and claims that he has discovered indisputable evidence that a high state of civilization existed in Egypt some 55,000 year ago.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Wreathe the laurel, twine the bay
Christ was born on Christmas day.

A merry Christmas.

Probably a stormy Sunday.

No Ledger next Thursday, Christmas day.

D. E. Wadsworth & Co. are busier than ever catering to the holiday trade.

The case of Sheehan et al., vs. City of Quincy is in order for trial in the Essex Superior court.

The public schools closed yesterday for two weeks. Christmas exercises were held in some of the rooms.

Santa Claus has made arrangements to be present at First church chapel on Christmas eve and take part in the children's play and help distribute gifts and candy.

Joseph H. Finch of Boston was sentenced in the Superior court at Dedham yesterday for eleven months in the house of correction for larancy at Quincy, Sept. 3.

Genial Daniel H. Huxford of the Randolph Register inspected the building of the Daily Ledger today, and congratulated the publishers on the evidence of prosperity.

Mrs. Lemuel Pitts, who left Quincy about two weeks ago apparently in the best of health, died suddenly in Denver, Colorado, on Thursday. The remains will be brought here for interment.

Fred H. Archibald, who used to live in Quincy, has gone to Boston to enter the service of the Boston Elevated Railway Company as a conductor. He is running on the Jamaica Plain surface lines.

Assessors C. H. Johnson and William B. Glover attended the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Assessors' Association at the Quincy House, Boston, yesterday. After a lively discussion on tax matters a bountiful banquet was served.

The next meeting of the City Council and the meeting at which the public hearing will be given on the petition for a location for a freight railroad by the Fore River Co. will be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 31, and not next week Wednesday as has been stated.

The pupils of the Wollaston school have been generous to the poor as usual at this season. A number of boxes containing groceries and vegetables were sent last evening to cheer the homes of the needy. The pupils look forward to this annual offering with much interest.

The regular meeting of the Wollaston Y. P. R. U. will be held Sunday evening at the Unitarian church at 7 o'clock. The speaker, Mr. Percy Atherton of the Harvard Law school and ex-president of the Y. P. R. U., will take for his subject, "The need of clear thinking in religion." All are cordially welcome.

The funeral of Mrs. Isabella, widow of Mr. Lorenzo D. Goodridge, was held Friday afternoon from her late residence on Granite street. The services were conducted by Rev. Edward Norton. There was a wealth of beautiful flowers. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

There was six tables in play at whist, yesterday afternoon given at the home of Mrs. B. Porterfield on Granite street and the following were awarded souvenirs: Mrs. B. Ross, fancy pin cushion; M. Lizzie Furnald, china dish; Mrs. B. J. Langhorne, whist broom and case; Mrs. C. Mitchell, china celery dish; Mrs. Michael Pitts, sofa pillow, The consolation, a velvet needle case, was given to Mrs. Annie Rogers.

Paleness Anemia

How pale you look and how weak and tired you feel! There isn't enough iron in your blood.

You should take Pept-iron—it ironizes the blood, cures anemia, and gives the lips, cheeks and ears a good, healthy color.

At the same time, it cures nervousness, tones the stomach, perfects digestion, gives strength and animation.

Pept-iron is a thoroughly scientific combination of iron, in the form in which it is most widely prescribed, with the best nerve and stomach tonics; it is agreeable to the taste and leaves no inky or metallic flavor in the mouth.

Cry For Iron

A Lowell lady, who had been an anemic sufferer for years before taking Peptiron, writes: "I have just finished the second bottle of Peptiron and it has done me much good. It has relieved that shortness of breath, which troubled me so much in walking and going upstairs. It has had no bad effect on the teeth, neither has it caused constipation."

Peptiron

Peptiron is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

Worms

Hundreds of Children and adults have worms but are treated for other diseases. The symptoms are:—indigestion, with a variable appetite; foul tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; eyes heavy and dull; itching of the nose; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; starting during sleep; slow fever; and often in children, convulsions.

TRUE'S PIN WORM ELIXIR

is the best worm remedy made. It has been in use since 1851, is purely vegetable, harmless and effectual. Where no worms are present it acts as a Tonic, and corrects the condition of the mucous membrane of the stomach and bowels. A positive cure for Constipation and Biliousness, and a valuable remedy in all the common complaints of children. Price 35 cts. Ask your druggist for it.

LADIES' NIGHT.

Jewel Presented to Retiring Master of Wollaston Masonic Lodge.

The Wollaston Masonic lodge observed Ladies' night, Tuesday, at Knights of Honor hall, Wollaston. A large number were present and a fine entertainment was given under the direction of Mrs. Lee, a Wollaston lady.

It included many selections from a Wollaston quartet, and members of the lodge, consisting of Messrs. Bullock, Moulton, Follett, and Hakn. The audience was delighted with their different renderings as well as with the pleasing solos of Messrs. Follett and Bullock. Miss Maitland, a Southern lady, gave many readings and captivated her listeners with her various presentations of the colored dialect. Professor Johnson of Boston, a prestidigitator fascinated everyone by his skilfulness in sleight of hand.

After entertainment, Rev. E. A. Chase presented Eugene F. DeNormandie with a Master's jewel. Two evenings before Mr. Chase himself had been surprised with a Chaplain's jewel.

At 10.30 delicious ices and refreshments were served.

League Standing.

Three games have been played thus far in the Norfolk League. The Granite City club has played two games with the North Quincys and one game with the Braintree. The North Quincys and Braintrees have not met as yet.

Up to the present time North Quincy leads at billiards and bowling, and the Granite City on pool and whist, and the Granite City leads on totals.

The Granite City has two ties at whist, one with Braintree and one with North Quincy. It has not been decided as yet whether ties shall count half a point for each club or whether they shall be played off.

The following table shows the standing to date:

	Billiards.	Pool.	Whist.	Bowling.	Total.
Granite City,	2	3	4	2	11
North Quincy,	3	1	0	4	8
Braintree,	1	2	0	3	6

Ties—Granite City and Braintree at whist. Granite City and North Quincy at whist.

MILTON.

Children's Sunday will be observed at the Mission of Our Saviour church Sunday, Jan. 3.

Schools closed Friday until Jan. 5.

The eleventh annual ball of the Firemen's Relief Association will be held Jan. 16 at at the Town Hall.

The Sunday School of the East Milton Congregational church will hold a Christmas concert Sunday evening and a Christmas tree Monday evening.

A party of twenty-five from the Thursday Evening club went to the Sailors' Haven at Charlestown Monday evening.

There was a peculiar runaway last week. A horse attached to a sleigh started down the railroad track at Mattapan station. He cleared himself from the sleigh shortly after entering upon the tracks. The horse then continued his mad career as far as Neponset before he was captured. In his trip the animal crossed six bridges and narrowly escaped being hit by a train.

Notable Days Next Week.

Dec. 21 is the fourth Sunday in Advent, the last before Christmas. Also the day in the Catholic church of St. Thomas Didymus, apostle and patron of Portugal. There are many interesting legends concerning him. In the Greek church his day is Oct. 6.

Dec. 22 is the anniversary of the landing of the Mayflower at Plymouth, Mass., in 1620.

Dec. 23 is the anniversary of the birth, in 1723, of Sir Richard Arkwright, noted English inventor, at Preston, England. He invented the spinning frame and founded a factory system. Also the birthday in 1805, of Joseph Smith, founder of the Mormon sect, at Sharon, Windsor County, Vt. The plates of the so-called "Book of Mormon" were dug up by Smith in New York state and translated, he says, by the aid of a pair of spectacles found with the plates.

Dec. 24 is the anniversary of the birth, in 1745, of Benjamin Rush, eminent American physician and philanthropist. Also of Elizabeth M. Chandler, at Wilmington, Del., in 1807, poetess and philanthropist; of Christopher (Kit) Carson, guide and trapper, born in Kentucky in 1809; of Matthew Arnold, English poet, born in 1822.

Dec. 25 is Christmas, a legal holiday in all the states and territories, and in nearly every civilized foreign country. It is the accepted anniversary of the birth of Jesus Christ, but authorities differ in regard to the exact date.

Dec. 26 is the day of St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, patron of horses. Acts VII tells the story of his death by stoning just outside of the gate at Jerusalem, now called by his name.

Dec. 27 is the day of St. John the Evangelist. He is said to be the only apostle to die a natural death. While at work on the mines on the Island of Patmos, where he was a Roman prisoner, he is said to have written the book of Revelation.

SWEDISH CONGREGATIONAL.

The Christmas festival for Christmas day will be rehearsed at the session of the Sunday School on Sunday. Christmas day there will be services at 5.30 A. M. The Sunday School festival will be held at 5 o'clock Christmas afternoon. There will be an interesting programme of music, singing, reading and an address by the pastor, Rev. August Swanstrom. Every child will receive some gift.

TODAY'S COURT.

Arthur A. Bodwell was fined $3 for drunkenness at Holbrook.

☞The anniversary sale of Miss Collins is also a reduction sale, and ladies are making it a Christmas sale. Call early.

—Santa Claus can make himself doubly welcome to any number of families this year by leaving them a bag of coal.

Dramatics at Braintree.

The dramatic entertainment given in the First chapel Wednesday evening was attended by a large and appreciative audience. "Ebony Flats and Black Sharps," was the title of the first of two plays given. The cast of characters were as follows:

Judy Sharp, a widow, Olive G. Carson; Sal Sharp, her daughter, Hildagarde Dearing; Mrs. Passumby, a social neighbor, Ethel Dodge; Mrs. Shadow, another neighbor, Harriet G. Shaw; Mrs. Drake, a third neighbor, Mabel Crocker; Mrs. ——, a fourth neighbor, Lillian Hill.

Mrs. Sharp and daughter had just moved into a tenement in a new neighborhood when the good neighbors (?) visited them and offered assistance. They could not resist the temptation to steal two fine chickens possessed by the Sharps.

The second play entitled "A Model Lover" brought forth a completely new set of characters as follows:

Col. Frances of the old school, Leonard W. Newell; Prof. Pelletier, Carleton Emerson; Gustave Pelletier, son to Prof. Pelletier, Alva M. Dow; Leslie Frances, niece to Col. Frances, Elinor M. Shaw; Betty Trask, ward to Col. Frances, Helen W. Bates; Mrs. Babbitt, housekeeper to Col. Frances, Margery White.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

HOW BABOUSHKA FOUND THE CHRIST CHILD

By... JEANNETTE H. WALWORTH

Copyright, 1902, By Jeannette H. Walworth

NIGHT was falling fast, and the snow was piled high against the outer walls of the hovel where a poor moujik (peasant) named Katoma lay dying in a little village in far-away Russia.

Katoma knew that he was going to die. It was Christmas eve, but there was no gladness in the season for him. His wife, whom he had loved very dearly, was already gone. For three consecutive years now his crops had failed. A few weeks before the wolves had devoured his last cow. If he had been entirely alone in the world he would have said to death, "Come; thou art welcome!"

But there was one other, his boy Ossip. The idea of death became terrible when he thought of leaving his boy all alone with not a copeck to bless himself with.

When I tell you that it takes 100 copecks to make a ruble and that a ruble is less than 60 cents, you will understand how dreadfully poor Katoma was.

He could not die peacefully for thinking of Ossip's future. His dim eyes turned fondly toward the pillow by his side, which the boy's thick black hair almost covered. Ossip lay motionless in sleep. The sick man put one feeble hand upon his boy's smooth forehead and silently commended him to heaven's care.

The house was very still. The hour was late. Ossip's healthy, regular breathing was the only audible sound. If only kind heaven would raise up one friend for his boy out of the millions of good people this big world swarmed with, Katoma felt that he should not mind how soon he was laid away under the frozen sods.

While his hand rested on Ossip's head and his heart was filled with these anxious thoughts the door of the hovel opened softly. The moujik turned wondering eyes in that direction, and there, coming noiselessly toward him across the beaten earthen floor, was a tall woman with soft brown eyes full of pitying tenderness.

She came close to the bed, on Ossip's side of it, and, looking down upon the sleeping child, she muttered:

"Perhaps this is the one at last."

Katoma looked at her anxiously.

"Whence came you, good mother, and what seek you?"

Across the sleeping boy she answered softly:

"I have come for Ossip. They told me in the village that thy days were numbered, and I knew that Ossip would need a friend. I will love and care for him as though he were my very own. I am called Baboushka, and I keep my promises."

"I HAVE COME FOR OSSIP."

Then Katoma, the moujik, died happy, for he knew that Baboushka was a friend to all little children, and when she gathered Ossip close into her motherly arms when the end came the child ceased weeping for his dead father.

When Baboushka and Ossip were well on their way to the old woman's home, in the next village, they heard a pitiful sound of weeping somewhere on the tree shadowed side of the road.

The old woman stopped at the sound.

"We will go and see who is in trouble, Ossip. Our eyes and ears should always be kept well opened so that no sign of distress may escape us."

Guided by the sound, they came to a stone where, wailing and shivering in the darkness of the winter night, they found a little girl scarcely as large as Ossip, who was not at all well grown for his eight years.

Baboushka knelt down by the child, and, gathering her cold little feet into a warm clasp, muttered:

"Perhaps this is the child."

Then she said aloud, "What is thy name, little one, and what doest thou here alone in the bitter nighttime?"

At which the child's tears flowed afresh, and between her sobs she told the kind, soft eyed woman how she had been traveling with a great company of men and women who were leaving their own village to seek a better land across the seas—our own blessed America, I make no doubt—and how, when they had encamped for the night, her aunt, who was the only relative she had in the world, had sent her into the woods to gather fagots to put under their soup kettle, and how she had wandered so far that she had not been able to find her way back to the camp, and how she feared the wolves would devour her before any one should come to look for her. Then she told Baboushka that her name was Vasalissa.

Baboushka clasped the little wanderer to her great motherly heart.

"That, indeed, the wolves shall not, my dear little Vasalissa. I cannot give thee back to thy aunt, for I know no better than thou dost where this great company of men and women may be camping for the night. But thou shalt go home with Ossip and me. Thou shalt share our fire and our porridge, and all that is mine thou shalt share with Ossip. I can keep the wolves of hunger and cold away, and if thy aunt comes to claim thee she shall find thee rosy and happy."

Then Vasalissa quickly dried her tears, and with her hand clasped in Baboushka's she trudged cheerfully forward until they came to a tiny little cottage set back from the road a short distance. In its one window a lamp was burning brightly.

The window and the lamp belonged to Baboushka's cottage. She pushed its unlocked door open, and the children entered with her into a clean swept, well warmed room.

A large chair was drawn close up to the hearth. As Baboushka entered she glanced eagerly at this chair, and again she muttered under her breath:

"I had hoped he might have come while I was out."

"Good mother," Ossip asked, "why do you leave a lighted lamp in the window when you go away?"

"So that," she answered, "should any one go astray in the cold and the dark he might find his way to my poor cottage. And now let us see if the bean broth has kept warm all this time. I made it before I left home in the early morning hours so that if any wanderers found their way hither they might not leave my roof hungered."

The bean broth had kept warm. She bade Ossip throw a few more fagots under the pot and set Vasalissa on a stool in the warmest nook. Then she brought three bowls, filled them with the bean broth and put them on the table. Over them she asked a blessing.

Before her own wooden spoon had made two journeys from bowl to lip she heard a timid knock at the door. She ran quickly to answer it. A tall, pale lad stood outside. In his arms he carried a small mite of a boy, about whose shoulders was wrapped a worn and soiled woman's shawl.

The tall, pale lad looked into the fire lighted room with longing eyes. His teeth chattered with the cold as he asked: "Good mother, may we ask shelter for the night? The cold bites bitter hard, and my little brother Petrusha is but a sickly cripple."

Then Baboushka opened wide her door with an eager hand and fast beating heart. Perhaps, at last, this was the child. What she said aloud was:

"That indeed thou mayest. But why art thou abroad on such a bitter night with the little one?"

She took the crippled boy in her strong, loving arms and carried him straight to the great chair in the chimney corner. She rapped her own best shawl about him and chafed his small, withered feet until they glowed with warmth. The tall, pale lad looked on gratefully.

"I am seeking an asylum for the little one," he said. "I have to work hard to keep him and myself from want. A rich merchant has promised me work, but he says I must not bring Petrusha. That he would take too much of my time."

"And where seek you an asylum for him?"

Baboushka looked pitifully at the small, sad face of the cripple. The tall brother answered sadly:

"Alas, that I know not yet. I was seeking the nearest town to ask counsel of the priest."

Baboushka laid a kind hand on the boy's arm.

"Put care away from thy young heart. Thou hast found an asylum for thy crippled brother. He shall travel no farther on the frozen roads. He shall be my own little Petrusha. I have a tiny truckle bed into which he will fit to a nicety. Such as I have, dear child, I make thee welcome to in the Christ Child's name."

The night was but very little older when the three children, Ossip, Vasalissa and Petrusha, fed, warmed and comforted, were sleeping the care free sleep of innocent childhood.

Only the tall lad and Baboushka sat by the fireside, because there was no bed left for them.

"Tell me, good mother," the boy said, looking straight into her kind eyes, "why are you so good to all children? Your fame has gone abroad."

Baboushka did not answer him at once. When she did, her voice sounded as sweet and solemn as church chimes at vesper time.

"Yes, I will tell you, my son, for you are nearing your own years of responsibility, and it will be well for you to learn in good time the solemn lesson that an opportunity once lost is lost forever.

"Many years ago I was setting my house in order when three men stopped at my door with a great piece of news.

"'We have seen a radiant star in the east,' they said, 'and we know that the Christ Child must be come. Leave thy labor. Come with us to find him and to do him honor.'

"But I sent them away with words of foolish impatience. 'Seest thou not that I am setting my house in order? Go thou to where the star beckons thee, and I will follow at some more convenient time. I can see its light without thy help.'

"So they went their way and left me to go mine. But when the time came that I found it convenient to follow the star clouds obscured the heavens, and there was no star to be seen, and so I knew not how to seek the Christ Child.

"I have been seeking him ever since, up and down in the land. Whenever, wherever I see a little child I think perhaps I have found the One I seek, and my heart yearns over him. But not yet have I found the Christ Child, whose face must shine with the radiance of the star I lost."

With tears of sorrow wetting her eyelashes Baboushka fell asleep in her chair. She had filled all of her beds with cold and friendless children.

And as she slept a tender hand seemed to dry her tears and a loving voice to whisper in her ears:

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these little ones ye have done it unto me. They were homeless, and ye took them in. They were hungry, and you have fed them. They were cold, and you have warmed them. The Christ Child is in thy own heart."

And on that glad Christmas morning Baboushka awoke with a great peace in her soul, for she knew that she had found him she had been seeking far and wide.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by all druggists.

PINFEATHERS.

The Pekin duck is one of the largest as well as one of the most profitable.

If large size and weight are desired, select large hens and thrifty, vigorous roosters.

While grain should not be fed to fowls exclusively, some at this season is necessary.

A medium sized, active male is more valuable than one that is large and extra heavy.

Give the hens cut straw on dry earth and scatter the small grain in it, so as to compel them to work. The good scratcher is always a good layer.

If the most prolific hens are kept and the worthless ones marketed, a great improvement will result. This is one of the cheapest ways of improving the flock.

STATE LINES.

The dairy products of Wisconsin now rival in value all the animals sold, each being worth about $27,000,000 per annum. Little more than half of the state is in farms. The average area of a farm is 117 acres.

The horse population in Kentucky has now reached 500,000, and the corn crop for this year will exceed $30,000,000 in value. The average farm is ninety-three acres, and but 2 per cent of the farmers of the state are colored.

A report on agriculture for North Carolina shows the valuation of farm property to be $233,834,693, of which about $30,000,000 represents live stock and $9,000,000 machinery and implements. The value of all farm products shows a rapid growth.

The Cheapest Flour

is the flour which makes the most bread. A barrel of Pillsbury's Best Flour will make more loaves of bread than will a barrel of ordinary flour.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 21—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Christmas; its message and motive.—Luke ii, 1-20; John iii, 14-17.

Every memorable ecclesiastical and national day has its message. The Passover feast spoke to the ancient Jews of their deliverance from Egypt. The Lord's supper speaks to the Christian world of Christ's death and the world's salvation. Resurrection day speaks of the resurrection of Christ and of the confirmation of man's hope of a future life. Christmas day, the brightest, most joyous day in the calendar of the church, has its message of joy, of salvation and of good will to men.

1. The Christmas message is a message of joy. "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy!" This joy is caused by the fact that salvation was to come through the Babe of Bethlehem. "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord," a cause for joy, indeed, for here was a message of light to a world in darkness, a message of hope to a world in despair, a message of redemption to a world in the valley of the shadow of death. Well might the angels sing, ascribing "Glory to God" and "peace, good will, to men." Such a message of joy the world has never received before or since, and at every Christmas season this message should come to us with increased appreciation as we realize more and more what it means to us and to the world.

2. The Christmas message is one of universal joy—"I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." The birth of Christ brought joy to heaven and to earth. The angels of God sang for joy. The Judæan shepherds returned glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them. The wise men from the east must have rejoiced. Simeon and Anna were filled with joy and prophesied of the blessings to come through the child Jesus. Christ's birth is a cause for universal joy. We may well sing, "Joy to the world, the Lord has come." If the message is not a joyous one to us, it should be and may be if we will accept Jesus the Lord as our Saviour and Redeemer. And if it is a joyous day for us, we should strive to bring joy and happiness into the lives of others.

3. Christmas has a motive as well as a message. Christ's birth was not by chance. There are motive and purpose in everything that God does. We would therefore expect this to be particularly true of such an important event as the birth of His Son into the world. And it is so. John gives us God's motive in sending Christ into the world, and that motive was love. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son" for it. Love is the most powerful of motives, and it was this that caused Christ to be born and to live and die. It is the motive above all others also that should inspire response. Since God so loved us we should so love Him that we will give our lives to Him in return for "the unspeakable gift" which He has given to us.

Missionary Committee Points.

The missionary committee in one aggressive union sent out the following pithy suggestions to its societies:

"See to it that the missionary committee always includes some of the younger members of the society.

"Have committee meetings at least once a month and devote the evening to them. Do not allow them to be a mere 'annex' to some other gathering.

"Remember that your work is chiefly educational. If your society knows no more about missions at the close than at the beginning of your term of office, some one is responsible for the failure.

"Use leaflet literature freely, circulate your denominational magazines and have a missionary library, if possible.

"By whatever methods you raise money let them be adequate, systematic and Scriptural.

"Be aggressive and progressive. Do not rest satisfied with quarterly missionary meetings and the '2 cents a week plan.' Find new methods or invent them."

Our Watchword.

Voice of God, inspiring to victory yesterday; voice of God, inspiring to victory today; voice of God, inspiring to complete and final victory in some glad tomorrow, is the watchword of our society, "for Christ and the church."—Rev. Dr. William B. Wallace.

A Tireless Endeavorer.

Rev. Dr. Clark is an indefatigable worker. He met the entire expenses of his last six months' tour of Europe in the interest of Christian Endeavor by writing for different publications about his unusually varied trip.

MILLIONAIRE IS FINED

For Assaults Upon Mother and Sister of His Wife

HE ACCEPTED INVITATION

To Visit Home of His Wife and Had a Good Time, but Received a "Bouquet of Stove Lifters and Bottles" on Occasion of His Second Visit

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 20.—After a sensational hearing lasting over five hours, during which counsel upon opposite sides nearly came to blows, Michael Hand, Jr., the millionaire brewer, whose wife is sueing him for separate maintenance, was fined $10 each and costs yesterday afternoon upon two charges of assault, one upon his mother-in-law, Miss Mary Ann Connell, and the other upon his sister-in-law, Miss Mary Connell.

It was alleged, according to the testimony of the plaintiffs, that on Dec. 3 Hand went to the house which the court had ordered him to maintain during the pendency of his wife's suit and there kicked his mother-in-law, pulled out a portion of her hair and bit his sister-in-law upon the hand.

Mrs. Connell was on the stand for nearly an hour. Miss Connell testified that she went out to warn her sister from coming into the house when Hand grabbed her.

The defendant's wife testified that Hand had a whiskey bottle in his pocket and as he pulled it out she got hold of the bottle. She also testified that she hit Hand on the head, cutting it.

The defendant testified that on the night previous to the alleged assault he was sleeping in the barn at the brewery. He was lying on a bale of hay with a couple of blankets over him and a bulldog at his side. When he awoke he found his wife and her mother by his side. They asked him to come over to the house. He said he did not go over at that time, but went over later. Continuing, witness said: "The old lady boiled some milk and put in some whiskey and I came very near getting drunk."

Defendant said that he was then asked to take a bath and was afterwards shown to his room. He said he felt lonesome up stairs and said he thought he would feel better if he went down where the whiskey and milk were, and he did so, sleeping down stairs that night. In the morning his wife came to him, kissed him and asked that he sign a paper giving her $100,000 worth of his stock. He kissed her in return, but he refused to sign any paper and left the house.

Witness said the people at the house were so pleasant that he concluded to go over to take dinner with them that day, but they would not let him into the house that noon and then he called them a "set of beggars." At that time Mary rushed out of the house, the defendant said, and hit him in the face. He denied that he struck Mary or pulled Mrs. Connell's hair. Said he: "There were stove lifters and bottles, and you never saw such a lot of bouquets in your life." He admitted that he had been drinking, but said that he remembered all that happened.

Detective Henry testified to arresting Hand on Dec. 9. He said he saw Mrs. Connell on that day and her face was discolored, caused by a black eye, he thought.

At this point Mayor Fitzgerald, counsel for Mr. Hand, asked Daniel McGinn, a witness on the other side, if he was not a professional witness for former Mayor Carroll, who, with Senator Banigan, represented the plaintiffs.

Lawyer Carroll intercupted and in a threatening manner exclaimed "I object," coupled with a strong epithet. In saying this Carroll leaned over and caught hold of Fitzgerald, while Hand, the defendant, jumped from his seat and pulled off his overcoat as if to protect his counsel in case there was a row. The court administered a sharp reprimand to both attorneys and both apologized for their conduct.

Witness McGinn testified that right before last he went to the brewery and found Hand there. He asked Hand if he did not want to settle the case out of court and Hand replied that he did. Witness then saw Mrs. Hand, but she refused to drop the case.

Neither attorney submitted any argument. The court, in giving its decision, said that undoubtedly liquor was the cause of most of the trouble, and that the women were mixed up in the affair at the house.

Governor's Heart Was Touched

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 20.—Governor Savage yesterday gave Daisy Lawrence of Norfolk, aged 10, a Christmas present in the shape of a pardon for her father, who is serving a three years' sentence in the state penitentiary for embezzlement. The pardon was granted in response to a pitiful letter from the little girl.

Medoo Again Afloat

Toulon, France, Dec. 20.—Steamer Medoo, which ran aground on the rocks at the Mourillon arsenal as she was leaving this port Thursday evening, has been floated and towed to her dock for repairs.

Cuban Senate Gets the Treaty

Havana, Dec. 20.—President Palma sent the Cuban-American treaty to the senate yesterday, with a message urging that early action on it be taken.

SENSATIONAL FEATURES

Promised If the Woburn Bribery Case Is Brought Into Court

Boston, Dec. 20.—District Attorney Sanderson, to whom was referred the report of the coommittee which investigated the charges of bribery against C. S. Cummings, 2nd, street railway promoter, and Michael J. Greaney, a member of Woburn's aldermanic board, will at once take action against such of the men as were found guilty. He will peruse the report of the committee carefully and if the evidence warrants will bring the case either before the grand jury or in the police court at Woburn. Members of the city council, including President Brady, who gave evidence before the investigating committee, will be called into court and the case promises sensational features.

In all but two instances the charges of bribery in connection with street railway franchises made by President Brady of the Woburn city council against aldermen and others were sustained in the report of the investigating committee.

Sunday Meetings Are Legal

Providence, Dec. 20.—A beneficial association may properly transact business on Sunday, according to an opinion handed down yesterday by Chief Justice Stiness. Any action it may take on that day in the line of its regular business will be sustained by the supreme court. A writ of mandamus was asked for by Marjorique Pepir compelling a society to reinstate him because his expulsion, he claimed, having taken place on Sunday, was unlawful.

Swore Falsely In Civil Suit

Providence, Dec. 20.—The suit of James H. Benson against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, which resulted in a jury award of $16,000 damages for the plaintiff, was productive of a sensation yesterday, when Joseph Miller was arraigned on a warrant charging him with perjury in connection with the trial on Nov. 11. Miller pleaded guilty to the charge and was bound over to the grand jury under bonds of $1000.

Heavy Verdict Against Railroad

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 20.—An award of $37,000 was awarded to Frank J. Cashin yesterday in his suit in the superior court against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, for injuries received in the Avon railroad accident in 1901. He brought suit for $75,000. Testimony was to the effect that the plaintiff, who is 28 years old, received injuries from which he was growing worse instead of better.

Cattle Afflicted With Tuberculosis

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 20.—A tuberculosis epidemic has broken out among cattle in the outskirts of this city. Six cows were found to have the disease and were slaughtered yesterday. These animals came from a large herd which was sold at auction to different milkmen in this section, and milk from the infected animals has been sold in this city.

Liquor May Account For It

Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 20.—Mrs. Amelia Call, 24 years old, attempted to commit suicide by jumping off a coal wharf yesterday. She was rescued by two of the crew of the steamer Frostburg. The doctor at the police station said that the woman was under the influence of liquor, which may account for the deed.

Lots of Coal at High Prices

Boston, Dec. 20.—Coal poured into Boston yesterday, 11 barges, 10 schooners and two steamers bringing a total of 37,094 tons. Reports from coal shipping ports show 11,035 tons of coal left for this port yesterday. No change in the price of coal, $10 for soft and $12 to $18 for hard coal, has been made.

Precious Anthracite Lost

Providence, Dec. 20.—Barge Carlton, with 1400 tons of anthracite coal which was being towed to this city, was sunk off Cornwall, on the sound. A towboat was passing the Carlton with a barge in tow. The towboat cleared, but the barge it was towing struck the Carlton and crushed in her sides.

Suspended From Duty

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 20.—Elmer C. Gurney, a letter carrier, was suspended yesterday, charged with retaining mail matter. He inquired of the postal inspectors who have been investigating alleged irregularities if he were at liberty, and was informed that he was.

Majority In Favor of Lorimer

Boston, Dec. 20.—The members of Tremont Temple Baptist church last night took another ballot on the question of calling a pastor to the pulpit which has been vacated since Rev. Dr. George C. Lorimer went to New York. The vote was about two to one in favor of the former pastor.

Anti-Trust Proceedings

New York, Dec. 20.—Daniel J. M. O'Callaghan, a lawyer of this city, who refused to give the names of his clients, instituted proceedings yesterday against the General Electric and Manufacturing company for alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust law. The papers were served on United States District Attorney Burnett, by whom they will be forwarded to Washington.

German Warship Still Ashore

Copenhagen, Dec. 20.—All attempts to float the German turret ship Wittelsbach, which is ashore near Kosver, have failed. The captain of the German warship has declined to receive help from Denmark, declaring that Emperor William prohibits the acceptance of foreign assistance in all cases of naval mishaps. The bottom of the Wittelsbach is said to have been badly pierced.

NIGHTDRESS CASE.

Silk Poplin Embroidered In Pink and Green.

A dainty nightdress case, with silk poplin for the outer cover, is an article which one woman can make for another. An embroidered design of pink and green on the cover is the most difficult part of the work to be done. The case should be large enough to hold the folded nightgown without wrinkling, and the back must be supplied with a ribbon, by means of which it may be hung.

The conventionalized flower pattern on the cover should be worked in delicate greens, with the flowers in a shade of pink darker than the case. The underpiece of the cover is not embroidered at all. The lining may be of pale pink sateen, buckram or crinoline being inserted between the cover and lining to give it shape. Back and front are stitched together around three edges, the upper border being left open to admit the garment. Torchon lace frames the poplin, and a bow and twist of satin ribbon complete its adornment.

Pockets on the lining intended to accommodate sachets are a pretty addition to the case. Sachets in the shape of pansies can be made to hang over the nightdress case. From a length of satin ribbon one and a quarter inches wide take two lengths of two and a half inches, rounding the ends. Draw them up in the middle, making four pansy leaves, and add a fifth of the same size as the others in such a way as to form the flower. Make these all of yellow, all of purple or part of each color. Paint them with water colors to simulate pansy leaves or give the same effect by a few embroidery stitches. Behind the lowest leaf fasten a bag made of ribbon filled according to individual taste.

STICKPIN HOLDER.

Silk Covered Trefoil Painted or Embroidered With Flowers.

The tiny ornamental stickpins for fastening laces or bodice draperies are often of sufficient value to receive special attention as gifts. They are so easily lost that a special cushion is a much better receptacle for them than a box. A dainty holder in the shape of a trefoil may be made by an artistic woman. The silk which is to form the cover should be cut in the shape shown in the sketch and either embroidered or painted with some small design. A frill of narrow gauze ribbon is stitched in between the edges of the silk, and the fancy work is then distended with sachet powder poured into it through the unstitched border left open for that purpose. Then the edges are all snugly secured, and a bow of ribbon is attached as a hanger. The cushion may then be tacked to the wall.

STICKPIN HOLDER.

The outside of the mounts of old fans make very pretty and novel cushions. The inner bars of the fan should be removed, a piece of silk fixed by mucilage up each side, then when dry it should be stuffed with sawdust or bran and the top covered with silk.

The mounts of plain fans may be ornamented with painting or gilding. Little portrait photographs pasted over the sticks and encircled with fanciful lines of gold paint make novel decorations.

To Please the Minister.

Good church people like to remember their clergyman. Something to beautify the church is certain to please the good man. Most churches boasting of stained glass windows are somber. To dispel a little of this gloomy aspect, especially in some of the side chapels, embroidered panels, partly wrought with beads, are sometimes inserted as frontals to altars. In some cases the ground of the panel entirely disappears under sparkling beads, depicting large, radiant flowers in their bright colors and well thrown off by a wavy background of white tubular beads arranged in such a way as to best catch the few rays of the dim light which filters through the stained glass, with which the beads well harmonize. On other specimens the blossoms are either worked in silky cross stitch or the beautifully shaded crewel stitch, embroidered, so to speak, amid a glittering background. Still a third model shows a bold arabesque, surrounded by graceful scrolls and tendrils executed with snowy white pearls of various sizes, with an occasional setting of gold thread. This pleasing raised work is properly warmed up by the discreet glow of the rich brocade foundation of a sunny yellow hue. Again the straight valance drooping round the day covers of altar cloths, occasionally in white silk, shines, too, at times, with trails and garlands in white crystal beads en relief, while large fern plants and even flowers faithfully imitated in colored beads threaded on wire well relieve extra dark nooks and corners and are almost damp proof, doing duty where the real plant would not only be passed unnoticed, but could not live.

LOOKING FOR SANTA CLAUS

The snow was falling on the mountains, hiding their tops in a misty veil, and the air was full of whirling flakes, which were rapidly covering the brown earth with a carpet of white and obliterating the trail up the mountain side where trudged, or, rather, stumbled, along a grotesque childish figure in a man's rough jacket, the sleeves rolled over and over to let out the small brown hands, while the edge of the coat, on a line with her heels, left a trail in the snow. A red hood covered the child's head, dark curls peeping out around her face, and in the fearless, wistful eyes shone a new light, for Dorothy was going to find Santa Claus. When her mother had gone to heaven a short time before, they had carried her up the mountain, and God and Santa Claus were always associated together in the child's mind. So, if God lived up there, Santa Claus could not be far away. Thus reasoned little Dorothy in the hours when her father was off working in the mine and she was left alone with her rag doll in the little brown hut which served as shelter and home.

Dorothy was going to find Santa Claus.

"Santa Claus may not come here now mother has gone," the little girl said, "and it must be near Christmas, so I will find him, and perhaps he will take me in his reindeer sleigh to see mother and God."

Little Dorothy paused in her task of sweeping the one room of their home, and, putting some potatoes in the ashes to bake, that her father's supper might be ready for him, she had wrapped herself in his old coat, donned her red hood and started out to find Santa Claus.

It chanced that day that one of the mine owners was down from the city on a tour of inspection, and, having seen Dorothy on a previous trip, he had, remembering another little girl who was very happy on Christmas eve, brought down a Christmas box for Dorothy and so strolled along with her father as he started homeward, that he might give it into the hands of the little maiden herself. But when they reached the brown hut Dorothy was not there, and when repeated calls brought no answer the two men, alarmed, started in opposite directions to seek her, Mr. Golden following the almost obliterated path up the mountain side, where, a mile beyond, he found the little one almost buried in the falling snow, and as he stooped to lift her in his arms she murmured drowsily, seeing the kind face bending over her:

"Dear, good Mr. Santa Claus."

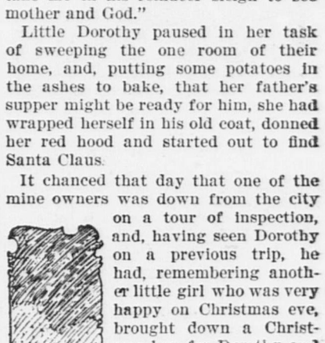

"Dear, good Mr. Santa Claus, I want"—

When she opened her wistful, dark eyes again, the same kind face was bending over her as she lay on her cot in the little brown house, her father holding her in his arms, while beside her was the most beautiful doll of which she had ever dreamed, and, clasping it close to her heart, little Dorothy asked with reverent joy, the dark eyes filled to overflowing:

"Dear Mr. Santa Claus, is you God too?"

CALLIE BONNEY MARBLE.

Christmas will begin Sunday in the churches.

Uncle Sam's Mail Service

requires physical and mental ability of a high degree to withstand its hard labors. The high tension to which the nervous system is constantly subjected, has a depressing effect, and soon headache, backache, neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, etc., develop in severe form. Such was the case of Mail Carrier S. F. Sweinhart, of Huntsville, Ala., he says:

"An attack of pneumonia left me with muscular rheumatism, headache, and pains that seemed to be all over me. I was scarcely able to move for about a month when I decided to give and Nerve Plasters a trial. In three days I was again on my route and in two weeks I was free from pain and gaining in flesh and strength."

CHRISTMAS JOKES

Light Headed.

First Xmas Candle—I'm just burning to know when it's time for us to go out.

Second Ditto—Bosh! Twelve o'clock! You are not up to snuff.

Blessed are the babies on Christmas day. They can be put off with cheap candy.

The head of the family expends many dollars on presents and receives two handkerchiefs and a pair of mitts. Then is the time to be merry.

A Prohibition Pie.

Kansan—Come over and spend Christmas with me, old boy, and take dinner.

Missourian—Thanks! I'd be happy to, but—

Kansan—Oh, that'll be all right. My wife has prepared a good old fashioned mince pie, and I can guarantee the flavor.

Don't think of yourself at all, if you can help it, just now, but study your family and friends from their point of view and then plan your Christmas treat accordingly. A little thing that one wants is worth a dozen that we do not wish for.

It doesn't seem to throw cold water over Kris Kringle's good intentions when we turn the family hose on him. —Glens Falls Republican.

"I hear that Miss Roseleaf is going to leave the church. Do you know why?"

"Yes; she helped trim the chancel Christmas eve, and while she was laboriously tacking up 'Good Will to Men' Miss Lily White got the minister to propose. Roseleaf thought it was too underhand a performance, and so she's left the church."

Christmas Weather.

Happy all together,
Singing in the light;
It's always Christmas weather

CHRISTMAS IN SERVIA.

A Santa Claus Who Receives Presents Instead of Giving Them.

In Servia they keep Christmas eve in a somewhat peculiar way. The father of the family goes into the wood and cuts down a straight young oak, choosing the most perfect he can find. He brings it in, saying, "Good evening and a happy Christmas," to which those present say, "May God grant both to thee, and mayest thou have riches and honor!" Then they throw over him grains of corn. Presently the young tree is placed upon the coals, where it remains until Christmas morning, which they salute by repeated firings of a pistol.

The national dish in Servia is pork. The poorest family in Servia will pinch themselves all through the year so as to have money enough to buy a pig at Christmas. Skewered to a long piece of wood, the pig is turned over a blazing fire until cooked, the guests watching the process with increasing interest. After dinner stories are told and songs sung. Santa Claus, who, in the person of an honored guest, is present to receive instead of to give presents, departs, after the feast, decorated with a long ring of cakes around his neck and laden with such gifts as his friends can bestow.—Baltimore American.

ON CHRISTMAS GIVING.

The Problem of Choosing Suitable Presents at Yuletide.

For melancholy proof of man's genuine incapacity we have but to turn to the belated creatures who at Christmas time write daily to the newspapers for advice. Like Emerson, they feel that a present is "due" to somebody, and, like Emerson, they are "puzzled what to give."

There is something really pathetic in a letter from a "class of boys" who want to be told what they shall give their teacher. He is thirty years old, they say, and a "remarkable mathematician." Perhaps some shadowy desire to make the punishment fit the crime prompts this last bit of information. But it is matched by schoolgirls who write: "What is a nice present for a teacher? She is a foreigner and teaches a foreign language. She is very dark and has a somewhat impatient disposition." "The Heir of Redclyffe" would seem an excellent present for this person, if only she were able to read it. But the editor is perhaps unaware of the improving character of Miss Yonge's stories. He has nothing more appropriate to suggest than a gold pen or a piece of statuary, neither of which is warranted a cure for impatience.

A married woman complains mournfully that she has to give a present to an old gentleman of eighty-two "who has everything he wants." It never occurs to her for a moment to spare him the added possession of a something he doesn't want. The utmost length her ingenuity can go is to write to a newspaper for advice. Another woman feels moved to send "some useful trifle" to a missionary, and a young man, who signs himself Jasper, has a painful emergency to face. "I know two sisters who are nearly of an age," he writes. "I wish to give them both Christmas presents. Ought I to send the same thing to each? Their tastes, I believe, are different. I know one of the young ladies much better than her sister."—Agnes Repplier in Lippincott's.

BRAINTREE.

Services at the South Congregational church will be held Sunday in the chapel.

The Pond Cemetery Association met with Mrs. E. A. Wilde, Tremont street, Tuesday afternoon.

The missionary meeting which was to have been held with Mrs. R. F. Randall, Wednesday afternoon, was postponed.

Mrs. Walter E. Morrison has been visiting relatives in Abington.

Miss Thayer, of the High school, has gone to Newton to spend her vacation.

Mrs. H. E. Reynolds, Miss Thayer, and Miss Wallace entertained the ladies of the bowling tournament, Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. F. W. Crooker of Fitz William, N. H. has been in town during the past week and reports the weather as ranging anywhere from 16 to 22 degrees below zero.

News has been received from California from the Rev. Mr. Baker of the death of Miss Mary McGregor, a former resident of this village for a score or more years, in her far away western home.

Miss V. P. Wilde was the recipient Wednesday, of a very handsome sofa pillow, a present from the teachers of the "Jonas Perkins school." This beautiful gift is greatly appreciated, still more the spirit that prompted it. Miss Wilde extends her sincere thanks to each, and best wishes for a very "Happy Christmas."

Notices are posted for a town meeting to be held Friday evening Dec. 26. The article which caused the warrant to be drawn is relative to the scarcity of coal. Coddington Road, boundary line between Holbrook and Braintree, and Southeast school are to be considered in other articles of the warrant.

A petition signed by many citizens has been handed the Board of Selectmen calling for a town meeting to be held not later than Dec. 29, for the purpose of considering the coal question. It is hardly necessary for us to add that there will be much interest attending this meeting.

We are occasionally surprised to hear the remark, "I did not know the Observer had a printing office in South Braintree." The business has increased there, in the past three years to such an extent that more room would be appreciated. We are continually adding new fonts of type and other printers' material to accommodate all who desire neat printing promptly.

The matinee whist at the Cochato club was held Wednesday afternoon instead of Friday, as is the customary day, owing to the hall being given up that date to the fair held by the ladies of All Soul's church. Miss Sarah Kelley, with a ring of 53, chose a gold buckle as first prize. Miss Bessie French selected as second prize, a brass candle stick, while a half dozen frappe cups went to Mrs. C. O. Miller.

The three nights' fair held under the auspices of Puritan Lodge, 179, I. O. O. F., opened Wednesday evening in the Town hall under very favorable conditions. The rain of Tuesday falling upon the deep layer of snow prophecied dire results, but later, contrary to all expectations, the elements became propitious. The snow disappeared as if by magic; the rain ceased; and then Jack Frost ran over the sidewalks, hardening them and making it possible for all who so desired to reach the Town hall without difficulty.

A very successful fair was given by the Ladies' Aid Society of All Souls' church in Cochato hall last evening. The candy, art, baby, handerchief, apron, fancy, and cake tables were beautifully decorated and laden with Christmas goods which found ready purchasers. Ice cream and cake were eagerly sought after. Among the numerous attractions was the silhouette room. Profile pictures were taken at short order and soon the walls of the rooms were adorned with true likenesses.

The Christmas festival of the Sunday School of the Union Congregational Church will be held Wednesday Dec. 24th; 4:30 to 6:00 P. M. for the primary department and 7:30 to 9:30 P. M. for the main department. The special collection which should have been taken last Sunday morning for this festival will be taken on Sunday morning the 21st.

Mr. James Bradley, a resident of this village about two score years died at his home on Commercial street Wednesday morning. Saturday evening he accidentally tripped and fell in the cellar, breaking his hip and sustaining internal injuries from which it was impossible to recover. He leaves three daughters and one son, who mourn his loss. The funeral services were held this morning from the Church of the Sacred Heart.

Mr. Walter E. Severance, principal of the High school, was on Saturday last, elected a member of the Massachusetts School Masters' club.

Failed to Fulfill Contract

Washington, Dec. 20.—Dealings between the navy department and the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific company are off so far as the Philadelphia drydock is concerned. Because of the delay in the building of this dock the department found it necessary to cancel the contract. After weeks of delay negotiations toward securing a new contract have come to naught.

Railroad Man Stabbed to Death

St. Louis, Dec. 20.—John W. Barriger, resident engineer of the St. Louis, Memphis and Southeastern Railway company at Claraville, was stabbed to death yesterday by Thompson Morton, an unemployed civil engineer. Morton was found to be suffering from mercury poisoning. His recovery is doubtful. He has refused to name any motive for killing Barriger.

Noon.

Noon takes its name from the Latin word nono, the ninth hour, which among the Romans was the time of eating the chief meal of the day.

The Weight of Crowds.

The load which is produced by a dense crowd of persons is generally taken at 80 to 100 pounds per square foot and is considered to be the greatest uniformly distributed load for which a floor need be proportioned.

The Stuart Carnation.

The bright red Passionate carnation was the flower of the royal house of Stuart.

Unique Mountains.

There are four unique mountains in Lower California—two of alum, one of alum and sulphur mixed and one of pure sulphur. It is estimated that in the four peaks named there are 100,000,000 tons of pure alum and 1,000,000 tons of sulphur.

Short of Bedclothes.

In some of the smaller Russian hotels visitors are obliged to find their own bedclothes.

Winter Vegetables.

Winter vegetables should be fully matured when gathered. If gathered green, the moisture passes through their skin and they wither. Dry thoroughly, then store in a cool, dry place. Carrots, beets, parsnips and turnips keep better if packed in dry sand.

First Chinese Dictionary.

A copy of the first dictionary, made by Chinese scholars in the year 1109 B. C., is still preserved among the archives of the Celestials.

Forests.

Forests cover one-tenth of the surface of the world and one-quarter of Europe.

THE SOCIAL REALM.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Finch of Arlington street have gone to Connecticut to spend the holidays.

Miss Beatrice Smith of the Wollaston school will go to Vermont and Montreal for her Christmas vacation.

* * *

The annual meeting of this Hospital Aid Association for the election of officers and other business will be held at the home of Mrs. George Keyes, 15 Alleyne terrace, on Friday afternoon Dec. 26, at half past two.

* * *

Miss Maude Vining of Dorchester, was a guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Brigham, 16 Faxon avenue.

The Dory.

In considering boats the dory, a flat bottomed, lap streak boat, though but twelve or thirteen feet long, is the safest that floats.

An Austrian Custom.

In Austria servants and people of menial rank of every kind are accustomed to kiss the hand of their employers, a somewhat oriental fashion to which it takes some time to get accustomed.

Bobwhite.

The male quail, or bobwhite, deserves honorable mention among gallinaceous birds because he is particularly good to his wife. He always helps her to hatch her eggs and if anything keeps her away will take the whole duty on himself.

Railways In Russia.

Travelers by rail in Russia are divided into three classes, civil, military and convict, with the further subdivision of paying and nonpaying.

Swiss Griddlecakes.

Swiss griddlecakes are really potato croquettes in all except form. Grate four or five large potatoes, press part of the water out of them and mix with two beaten eggs and a heaping teaspoonful of salt. Drop by spoonful on a hot greased griddle.

Talk.

Some one has been figuring out the number of words a man utters in a year and finds the average to be 11,800,000 words.

Bridal Favors.

Bridal favors are of Danish origin. For instance, the true lover's knot was a Danish fancy and took its name from the expression, "Truelofa"—"I plight my troth."

The Convolutions of Soup Creek.

Soup creek, in McDowell county, W. Va., is a remarkable stream. The creek passes a hamlet called Vivian and about a mile below returns, runs around a tract of land about half a mile wide and then passes under itself. This freak is caused by the lay of the land, which sinks spirally.

Opium In Formosa.

Formosa is a country where a man must have a license before he is allowed to smoke opium.

To Keep Cream.

If you have a cupful of cream on hand and wish to keep it for a day or two, add to it two or three lumps of sugar, stirring it well; then cover and set away in the coolest corner of the refrigerator.

How Trees Grow.

The last annual circle of wood leaves an accumulation of living cells upon its surface, and toward midsummer these cells produce an abundance of new ones until the aggregate is sufficient to form a new annual layer. This process on common trees requires about six weeks.

Suspension Bridges.

It took sixteen years to build the first Brooklyn bridge, but immensely larger suspension bridges can now be constructed in from four to five years.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

For a Christmas week attraction at Boston Music Hall, Managers Stair and Wilbur have booked the celebrated Zeb and Zarrow Trio and their big farce comedy organization in the hilariously funny trick pantomime, "Zig Zag Alley." This show is on similar lines to Hanlon's "Superba" and other noted pantomimes and is a piece well calculated to amuse the ladies and children, as well as to delight the men folks. The piece abounds in amusing situations, lively dialogue and plenty of good singing and dancing The new Children's Theatre, located in the picturesque Japanese Garden, has sprung into instant favor. The beautiful colored moving pictures, showing scenes from "Fairyland," the Punch and Judy entertainment the Magic Box and the other novelties, are features calculated to bring enjoyment to the hearts of the little folks. The Sunday night concerts still continue to draw enormous audiences and next Sunday night's concert will be one of the best of the season. Miss Dorothy Morton the prima donna, late of the "Prince of Pilsen," who scored such a hit last Sunday, will appear again next Sunday as the soloist with Lena Howe's Ladies' Military Band, which will be a feature of the concert.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The favor with which "Hamlet" was received during the last spring season at Castle Square Theatre, and the many requests made by patrons for a revival of this famous Shakespearian play, have led the management of this play-house to announce it as the attraction for next week. It is very gratifying to have the Shakespearian productions by this home company create so much interest in local amusement circles as it gives assurance of good support for the future plans at the Castle Square Theatre in this class of attractions. In this revival Mr. John Craig will again be seen as the melancholy Dane and Lillian Lawrence as Ophelia, and the same scenic and costume effects as were seen in last spring's production will be shown and all the features of earlier preformances of the play at this theatre will be made a part of this revival. Following "Hamlet" on Monday, Dec. 29th, comes the famous English melodrama "Mankind" which was a great success when originally presented at the Boston Theatre. The usual distribution of choice chocolate bonbons will be made at the Monday matinees.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

For Christmas week the management of Keith's Boston play-house has arranged with Prof Winscherman to exhibit his wonderful troupe of trained bears and monkeys, for the special delectation of the juvenile patrons, though the act is one that furnishes much amusement for grown folks as well. On the great Christian holiday the doors will open at 10 o'clock. Among other notable entertainers scheduled to appear the week commencing Dec. 22 are: Cushman, Holcombe and Curtis, in their singing and comedy sketch, "The New Teacher;" Banks and Nona Winters, the old minstrel singer and his clever little daughter; Tom Almond, the novel big shoe dancer; the Paloma Ladies' quintet, a well know vocal organization; Wonderful Busch a remarkable aerial performer, and Hal Merritt, the cartoonist, whose monologue, "The Poster Girl," is one of the cleverest offerings in the varieties. Messrs. Cole and Johnson, the accomplished colored vocal comedians, will be retained to another six days, which will positively be their last appearance in this section of the country this season

EGYPT IN BOSTON.

Barbaric pictures of the orient presented with a truthfulness seldom seen on the stage are the novelty which is attracting thousands to Boston and to Austin & Stone's museum. "Egypt in Boston," as the production is styled, presents an entire encampment of more than thirty Egyptians, with its real warriors, magic women soothsayers, swordsmen and acrobatic zouaves, headed in person by the Egyptian beauty and odalesque, La Bell Rosa, whose "whirlwind dance of Sahara" is a revelation of picturesque action and animated far—Eastern abandon—a picture framed to delight the eye and fascinate the senses. Fair La Belle Rosa is a decidedly brilliant dancer who has a record of 200 revolutions without a break and thoroughly established reputation throughout the orient as the swiftest spinning dervish in the world. "Egypt in Boston" remains at the museum throughout the week. Christmas week.

THEY WANT ROOSEVELT

Allies Think He Would Make an Ideal Arbitrator

HE WILL PROBABLY ACCEPT

Rather Than See Unfortunate State of Affairs Prevailing In Venezuela Prolonged Indefinitely—Blockade of Venezuelan Ports Begun

London, Dec. 22.—It is believed that President Roosevelt's answer to the proposal made by the allied powers that he arbitrate the Venezuelan issues has been received in London. The strictest secrecy with regard to every phase of the negotiations is preserved, however, and it is impossible to make a definite statement, but such indications as are obtainable point to President Roosevelt's acceptance of the office of arbitrator.

A constant interchange of cablegrams is proceeding night and day between the United States embassy here and the state department at Washington. It is believed that the president's answer will be submitted formally to the foreign office today. By Wednesday, unless some unexpected complications arise, it is believed the negotiations will reach a stage assuring a definite arrangement and obviating hostilities.

It must be said that the acceptance of the office of arbitrator by President Roosevelt would greatly surprise the foreign office, which always has been doubtful of the issue of the arbitration negotiations on account of the belief that President Roosevelt or the United States was not willing to undertake the responsibility thereby involved.

Judging from private American advices which have been received in London, President Roosevelt as arbitrator would be favorably disposed toward the temporary adoption of some such method as was arranged with the Venezuelan secret mission and communicated to the state department by Isaac Seligman. With President Roosevelt acting as arbitrator, the serious objections in the matter of guarantees, which frequently have been mentioned at the foreign office and in these dispatches, would disappear. The foreign office has repeatedly said that the great difficulty in seeing a way to agree to a pacific settlement of the Venezuelan trouble was its inability to ascertain to what extent the United States was willing to go in the assumption of responsibility.

In spite of the fact that Sunday is usually sacred to leisure in London's diplomatic circle, yesterday was marked by activity at all the embassies and especially the American, where work was in progress all Saturday night. The promptness with which Washington deals with those vital matters concerning which prolix pour parlers have been interchanged in Europe astonishes diplomats here and forms an interesting phase of an engrossing situation.

Provided the difficult question of a guarantee can be satisfactorily surmounted, the London newspapers agree this morning in desiring President Roosevelt to accept the office of arbitrator. They fear that if the matter is referred to The Hague, Venezuela probably will ignore the award. At the same time it is recognized that the president would have a very difficult task, because, it is said, among other things, there would be something like a scramble to be heard of the different nations having claims against Venezuela. The hope is generally expressed that a pacific settlement will be reached, thus avoiding the necessity of sending to Venezuelan waters the large fleet which could alone render the blockade really effective.

Great resentment is voiced in the press this morning at the report from Port of Spain, that the crew of the British steamer Topaze were dragged ashore at Puerto Cabello at midnight, half clothed, prodded with bayonets by Venezuelan soldiers, roughly handled by the mob and all imprisoned in one filthy room.

No News at Washington

Washington, Dec. 22.—Officials of the state department announce that there is nothing to make public regarding the latest phases of the Venezuelan embroglio. Such dispatches from the American embassies in Europe and from Minister Bowen at Caracas regarding Venezuelan matters as come to Washington are of a confidential character, concerning the nature of which it is impossible to ascertain anything. It is believed there has been no change of importance since Saturday, when the state department announced that, in response to President Roosevelt's suggestion to the allies that The Hague tribunal arbitrate the issues, the European governments suggested that the president himself act in the capacity of arbitrator. While reluctant to take up the role of mediator the president would do so rather than to see the unfortunate state of affairs now existing prolonged indefinitely.

Acceptable to Castro

Caracas, Dec. 22.—In the name of Venezuela, President Castro has signified acceptance of the appointment of President Roosevelt to arbitrate the Venezuelan difficulty.

Establishment of Blockade

Port of Spain, Dec. 22.—The blockade of Venezuelan ports was begun with an effective force at midnight Saturday night. The British have the cruisers Indefatigable, Alert and Tribune, the special service steamer Columbine and the torpedo boat destroyer Rocket along the coast. All the British operations will be directed from Trinidad. The cruiser Vineta, the German flagship, left here yesterday for La Guaira to reinforce the German cruisers Gazelle, Panther and Ralke and the training ship Stosch.

The United States battleships Kearsarge and Alabama arrived here yesterday afternoon. Their appearance provoked considerable comment on shore, but when Admiral Higginson called upon the acting governor of Trinidad and the commandant of the British ships he took occasion to explain that the visit to this port of the American men-of-war was part of the plan of the winter trip of the squadron.

Allies' Reply Ready

Berlin, Dec. 22.—It is learned here that the governments of Germany and Great Britain have adopted detailed answers to the proposal to arbitrate the Venezuelan issues. These communications will be handed to Ambassador Tower here and to Charge d'Affaires White in London today. The correspondent of The Associated Press has learned further that the German answer agrees in all substantial effects with the British answer, and makes no separate reservations in behalf of the German case.

The Hague Plan Not Favored

Rome, Dec. 22.—It has been learned here that not one of the allies at present contemplates submitting the Venezuelan difficulty to The Hague court. The situation was fully discussed by King Victor Emmanuel and Foreign Minister Prinetti at their semi-weekly conference yesterday and much satisfaction with the more peaceful turn of events was expressed.

British Haul In German Cargo

Caracas, Dec. 22.—The British cruiser Indefatigable has made the first prize under the blockade, capturing the Venezuelan schooner Julia. The Julia's cargo, by the irony of fate, belongs to a German firm, which has lodged a protest with the United States consul.

Hand Called to Court Again

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 22.—Notice of citation has been served on Michael Hand, Jr., the millionaire brewer, who has been sued by his wife for separate maintenance, to appear in the supreme court tomorrow afternoon to answer charges of contempt of court, the papers stating that Hand went to the house occupied by his wife on other days than those specified in the court's decree.

Seminary Partly Destroyed

New Milford, Conn., Dec. 22.—Ingleside school, a large seminary for young women, conducted by Mrs. W. D. Black, was partly destroyed by a fire of unknown origin yesterday, and caused damage estimated at $40,000. Hard work by the firemen was the only thing that saved the entire seminary from being burned to the ground.

A SENSATIONAL TURN

In Connection With the Suspected Poisoning of a Connecticut Woman

Willimantic, Conn., Dec. 22.—Coroner Bill, accompanied by Drs. Knight and Robinson, went to Ashford yesterday and continued his inquiry into the death of Mrs. Julia Wilson, who is thought to have been killed by poison. The body of Mrs. Wilson was exhumed and the physicians removed the brain, which will be sent to Dr. Wolff, to whom the stomach, liver and kidneys of the dead woman were sent a few days ago for analysis.

A secret session was then held by the coroner, at the conclusion of which Coroner Bill instructed Sheriff Gibson to place George Wilson, eldest son of the dead woman, under arrest, pending the result of the investigation. Wilson was taken to the jail in Brooklyn, where Mrs. Sarah Manson is also held as a suspect in the case.

The arrest of Wilson caused a sensation. It came about after a careful investigation. The prisoner, it is said, was the cause of Mrs. Manson being brought into the Wilson home. Her visit was looked upon by Mrs. Wilson as an intrusion, with the result that there was constant quarreling. Wilson refused to order the woman from the house, despite his mother's protests.

Wilson, who is 32 years old, was married several years ago, but does not live with his wife.

City Marshal Not Consulted

Salem, Mass., Dec. 22.—The city was stirred up Saturday night by the sudden descent of the police upon several alleged illegal liquor dealers and seizure of a large amount of liquors. The raid was made at the instance of the Anti-Saloon league, who obtained warrants from the district court. At one place two wagon loads of liquors were secured. An officer of the Anti-Saloon league says that City Marshal Knight has several times been furnished evidence of illegal keeping of liquor, but no move in the way of raids was made. For this reason the Anti-Saloon league applied to the court for warrants without consulting Knight.

Negro Burglar Caught

Boston, Dec. 22.—Fred A. Gibson, a negro, 29 years old, was surprised by Patrolman Plummer early Sunday morning in the act of attempting to enter the window of a grocery store on Washington street and was arrested after a desperate hand-to-hand encounter and a long chase, in which Plummer was assisted by other officers. Gibson was badly cut about the head by blows from the officers' clubs, which were required before he would submit to arrest. At a stable where Gibson was employed the officers recovered an assortment of goods valued at nearly $2000.

Plenty of Coal—In the Harbor

Boston, Dec. 22.—Many of the coal wharves and coal yards throughout the city were busy yesterday unloading vessels and delivering orders, but not many teams were sent out with coal in 100-pound bags to be sold on the streets. The companies were enabled to deliver a great deal of coal throughout the day with their teams to old customers who have had orders in for some time. Many coal wharves are idle, in spite of the fact that there is an immense quantity of coal in the harbor waiting to be docked and unloaded.

Schooners Are Overdue

Boston, Dec. 22.—Vessel owners here are mystified by the non-arrival in Boston harbor of the coal laden schooners Frank A. Palmer and Louise B. Crary, both from Newport News. On Wednesday both schooners were among the fleet which rode out the blizzard off the Chatham shore. Both vessels were supposed to have weathered Cape Cod and their arrival below was expected Thursday. Neither schooner has yet shown up. The Crary probably had a crew of 13 and the Palmer 10.

A famine is reported in Finland, but many Finns find happy homes in Quincy and the United States, and make good citizens.

The Saturday eight-page Daily Ledger was truly a Christmas number. One bright little boy reports that he found the word "Christmas" 120 times in the issue.

Because of the rush of Christmas advertising and news, an eight-page holiday number will be issued tomorrow. Copy for new advertisements should reach the office before 9 A. M.

The plans of the Pennsylvania and New Haven Railroads for big terminals in Quincy on the banks of the Neponset and Fore rivers published in the Post reads like a fairy tale. Although an official of the New Haven road has denied that plans are maturing, there may still be something to it. Certainly there is something to the commercial advancement of Quincy, and in the very near future.

Good for the Herald which says editorially: "Perhaps no clearer instance of the monstrous greed of monopoly and its absolute indifference to the welfare and even the suffering of the people could be exhibited than the statement in Saturday's news that the Standard Oil Company has raised the price of kerosene another cent a gallon. This is the greatest advance ever made at one time. Suppose they had simply refrained from raising the price of their oil, would they or any of their dependents have been obliged to shiver in their homes, or to barter food and raiment for fire? They have not shown even so much mercy to their distressed countrymen as the last action would yield. They have been unable to resist the opportunity of compelling the suffering to pay into the coffers of the far too rich an extra tribute on account of their suffering. They have illustrated to the general apprehension more strikingly, perhaps, than was ever done before the sordid, hardeping influence on the mind and the soul of wealth that has been craftily and ungenerously garnered. But the Standard Oil Company is sometimes cited as an example of a good trust!"

CHRISTMAS

Special Sermons and Music in the Churches.

Many Festivals for Next Wednesday.

Institutions to be Remembered by Sunday Schools.

Christmas was observed last Friday in the public school, on Sunday by many churches, and several Sunday school festivals are announced for this week.

FOR THE POOR.

The Alliance Christmas tree and entertainment for poor children will be held in First church chapel on Tuesday afternoon when Santa Claus will be present with a gift for the little ones.

FIRST CHURCH.

The Sunday School will have a Christmas festival Christmas eve when carols will be sung, a play presented, and presents distributed from a tree.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

The Sunday school of the Universalis church will hold its Christmas festival on Wednesday evering, and a good time is planned.

CHRIST CHURCH.

The Christmas tree festival of Christ church Sunday school will be held Wednesday night, Christmas eve. Carols will be sung.

BETHANY CHURCH.

All departments of Bethany Sunday school will unite this year for their Christmas festival which will be held at 6 P. M., on Wednesday, Christmas eve. There will be a tree, entertainment and a royal good time.

The Junior Endeavors will hold a Christmas festival Wednesday afternoon in the chapel.

At the services held Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. E. N. Hardy, spoke on "The new incarnation and there were Christmas anthems and solos. Mr. F. Stuart Mason also accompanied with violin obligato. Sunday evening the quartette rendered the cantata "The Story of Bethlehem."

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

The Sunday school of the United Presbyterian church will give a Christmas entertainment Christmas eve.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Special Christmas services were held Sunday at the Water street Presbyterian church. At the morning service the pastor, Rev. James Todd, D. D., took for his subject, "Christ in the Manger; as Meaning." There were also special anthems by the choir. In the evening there was a Christmas carol service. Rev. Dr. Todd gave a short address and a choir of twenty voices sang carols. There were also duets and solos by Miss Bessie E. Todd and Mr. Louis Griffiths.

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

Christmas services will be held at the Swedish Baptist church Christmas morning at 5.30 A. M. with address by the pastor Rev. John Bjock whose subject will be "The Incarnation." There will be carol singing by the choir. The Sunday school festival will be held in the evening at 8 o'clock. It will include speaking and singing and distribution of gifts.

WEST QUINCY METHODIST.

Rev. David L. Martin, pastor of the West Quincy Methodist church, preached a Christmas sermon at the morning service, and there was also a Christmas service in the evening.

On Wednesday evening the Sunday school will hold a Christmas festival. There will be a supper and entertainment, and best of all a tree with presents for the children.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

The Wollaston Congregational Sunday School will have its Christmas tree Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. The Christmas service Sunday afternoon was well attended. The service was in four parts singing of Christmas song, scripture, address by Mr. J. R. Anderson in behalf of the Floating Hospital and Christmas giving. Everyone brought some gift for the poor. The numerous articles will be given to the Floating Hospital and the Salvation Army.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

The Sunday school connected with the Wollaston Methodist church will observe its Christmas festivities on Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

On Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock the Baptist society will have a Christmas tree and appropriate exercises.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The regular Christmas festival of the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School will take place on Wednesday evening at Brasee's hall. From 5.30 to 7 o'clock the children will be entertained and from 7 to 9 o'clock games by both young and old will be participated in. The rest of the evening will be devoted to dancing. Every one is requested to contribute a gift for Morgan chapel, Boston, to be given to the poor.

Coke All Gone.

When the Citizens' Gas Co. had a car load of coke sent to Quincy from their Amesbury office they thought they could supply the demand for some time. The company thought that if they disposed of it by Wednesday of this week they would dowell. The demand however was so great that by 5 o'clock Saturday the whole sixteen tons had been carried away and there was a line of teams and people waiting with basket and bags to have their orders filled. Not a few were disappointed when word was given out that it was all gone.

The Gas Company has done much to relieve suffering by selling the coke manufactured at their Quincy works, about three tons per day. It has been largely in small orders, and has been carted or sleded by purchasers.

Finely Illustrated.

The new book "when American Independence Began" by Daniel Munro Wilson is attractively bound in red cloth with a picture of "the Birthplace of the Presidents on the cover" contains about fifty illustrations. These are the finest half-tone and reproductions of portraits by Stuart, Copley, Smybert, Hunt, and other famous artists, treasured in Boston homes and galleries and in the halls or Harvard University. The low price at which it is sold ($2.00) should make it a most attractive holiday gift to former residents as well as a charming souvenir for the people of Old Braintree.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Kingston was fined $3 for disturbing the peace at Weymouth.

George O'Connor was fined $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

John McDonnell of Holbrook was arraigned for threatening to assault Catherine T. Dempsey.

The continued case of Patrick McSteer was called and he paid a fine of $3.

George French was fined $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Joseph McLaughlin was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Matthew McDonnell and George M. Welsh were arraigned for malicious mischief at Quincy. Case continued until Tuesday.

New Company.

The Bay State Aluminum Co., nominally owned by George H. Field, has been sold to the Buckeye Aluminum Co. of Ohio. The papers being transferred on Saturday. Leon Ward who has been the manager of the company ever since it was established in Quincy will be retained in the same position by the new company.

—With the tall spire of Park street church in Boston out of existence, and a modern office building on the spot of land so long occupied by that edifice, the famous "Brimstone Corner," will have quite a different appearance to those so long familar with that old landmark.—Old Colony Memorial.

—The report of Lionel Carden, British minister at Havana, shows conclusively that sugar can be produced in Cuba more cheaply than anywhere else in the world, and that Cuban planters can get rich on any prices for sugar which will enable other growers to live. If this is the case, the question arises whether and how much we need to "help Cuba."—Rockland Standard.

—The annual report of the Postmaster General, just published, recommends the adoption by Congress, of the "Post check" system for the transmission of small sums of money by mail. It consists in the printing of the $1, $2 and $5 bills, and perhaps a paper fractional currency in a new form with a blank for an endorsement by which any holder may transform them into checks or drafts on the United States treasury, payable only to the endorsee.

If the Difference

between Spring Wheat and Winter Wheat flours were generally known, no intelligent family, able to procure the former, would fail to do so. Flour is the article most frequently used in kitchens, yet comparatively few people know much about it. To most housekeepers flour is flour. Those who buy their bread, cake and pastry ready made, are still further away from knowing what they are eating. The standard flour of the world, made of Hard Spring Wheat, is

Pillsbury's Best

Sold by grocers everywhere.

Wanted in Boston.

Robert S. Atkins, master of the John Hancock and Lincoln schools, severed his connection with the Quincy schools at the close of the term last week, having resigned to accept a position as sub-master of the Thomas N. Hart school at South Boston. Mr. Atkins has been connected with the Quincy schools since 1893. He has given the best of satisfaction and the School Committee regret to lose him. His new position not only commands a larger salary than that paid in Quincy but places him in line for an advancement that will mean a still larger salary.

Echo of Faircloth Case.

Peter J. Williams, Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, and Geo. W. Prescott, publisher of the Quincy Daily Ledger, have each been attached by Geo. F. Faircloth for $2,000, and suits for libel instituted in connection with the removal of said Faircloth from the Quincy Fire department.

The action of the Chief Engineer was sustained by Mayor Bryant, the courts and the Civil Service Commissioners, but the action is brought because of the publication of the charges preferred. The case is returnable in the Suffolk Superior court in January. City Solicitor Blackmur has been retained by the defendants, and E. J. Parker appears for the plaintiff.

Drift of Opinion.

☞The movement to erect a monument to the late Noah Webster on the spot of his nativity, down in Connecticut, ought to succeed if all those who are under obligations to him for assistance contribute their mites to the fund. The spell of his influence has been as immense as his dictionary.—Herald.

☞To the young people Christmas means somewhat more than it used to mean. It holds vaster truth, deeper purity and reaches of love unfathomed, perhaps unfathomable. It is a promise of unutterable riches and revelation unceasing. It beckons into years yet to come with marvelous possibilities of achievement and enjoyment. It means the limitless unfolding of the Christ life in self and in society—all possibility of good.

To the middle-aged it speaks no less decisively, even if more soberly. The virgin birth and angel song may be held less clearly than once, but the eternal life in prospect comes nearer, and the hopelessness of the struggle of earth without the Christ help presses more deeply home to the soul.

To the aged one's the Christmas time brings a mellowing influence to the spirit, a mystical touch to the faith almost childlike in its simplicity. Angel songs and mother sweetness mean more than in all the bygone years. Heaven lies not far away.—Epworth League.

In Time For Christmas

Boston, Dec. 22.—Checks aggregating $200,000 have been received by Receiver Wing of the Globe National bank from Washington, and today he commenced paying to depositors the interest due them on their former deposits in the defunct bank. The receiver also possesses assets to the amount of $1,000,000. These will be delivered to the stockholders as a return upon their enforced contribution of a like amount three years ago.

A Boston Church Novelty

Boston, Dec. 22.—A vested choir in the chancel at the services in the Shawmut Congregational church yesterday caused much surprise to the congregation as well as to the pastor, Rev. W. T. McElween, who, although aware that the change had been contemplated, did not expect it so soon. So far as known this church is the only one in New England of the Congregational denomination to have a vested choir.

ANCIENTS ATTEND.

Funeral of Wilson Tisdale Held Sunday Afternoon.

The funeral of Wilson Tisdale was held Sunday at 1 o'clock from his late residence on Hancock street. Many of his personal and business friends were present to pay their last tribute. Among the friends present were many members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery and Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows.

The services were conducted by Rev. Ellery C. Butler of the First church. The music was furnished by the Apollo male quartette which sang "Abide with me," "Lead Kindly Light," and "Seeking the Way."

After the services the remains were taken to Mt. Wollaston cemetery for burial. The bearers were John Shaw, John Q. A. Field, Joseph C. Morse and Joseph L. Whiton.

Mr. Tisdale was one of the members of the ancients who made the trip to England in 1896, and is the 22d member to pass away since that memorable trip.

The floral offerings included:

Standing cross and helmet from Ancients.

Standing wreath from Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F.

Gates Ajar, employes of Mr. Tisdale.

Ivy wreath entwined with roses and carnations from the Servia club.

A basket of red roses from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Downey.

A wreath of violets and carnations from Gen. Charles H. Taylor.

—Rev. Abram Conklin of Fitchburg has accepted the call to the Grove Hall Universalist church in Boston.

TO NEWPORT NEWS.

The Seven Master Seeking a Port With Deeper Water.

The Quincy-built schooner, the largest sailing vessel in the world, is finding it difficult to secure full cargoes according to the following dispatch to the Herald from Baltimore:

It has developed that the seven-masted steel schooner Thomas W. Lawson, built to carry coal from Baltimore, Philadelphia and Hampton Roads to Boston, is too large to load a full cargo at Baltimore or Philadelphia, and the vessel is now on her way to Newport News from Boston in a third attempt to load a full cargo.

As the vessel cannot load within 1000 or 1500 tons of her capacity at Baltimore or Philadelphia, and as there are but about three discharging places at Boston where she can unload, her dimensions being far in excess of the harbor channels and wharf facilities of all the Atlantic coast coal ports except Hampton Roads, Capt. Crowley will go to Newport News only for cargoes.

Capt. Crowley had to sail out of Philadelphia with 7347 tons, about 1500 tons less than the ship's capacity, and then grounded twice in the Delaware river, all owing to insufficient depth of channel. Then the captain decided to try Baltimore. There is 30 feet of water in the Baltimore channels and 30 feet of water alongside the Consolidation Coal Company's pier at Locust point, but as the B. & O. is shipping all its coal from the pier at Curtis bay, and as the Channel in Curtis bay is but 27 feet deep, the Lawson had to stop loading at 7253 tons, when she was drawing 27 feet 7 inches of water. She then had one whole deck's length unloaded The Lawson touched bottom going out, but did not stop, as three tugs, all "rung up," were shoving her over the muddy bottom.

It is a fact that there is but one coal pier on Locust Point at which ships in the coal trade can be loaded to a depth of 30 feet. To bring coal to this pier today would mean a change in the custom of the port, as all cargoes now go out of Curtis bay.

Capt. Crowley believes that Newport News is the only port where he can get 9000 tons aboard and have water under the ship to float her.

New Dump.

A second dumping station, for the disposal of vault and cesspool matter through the public sewer is being built, off Hancock street, near Merrymount park. This station is a duplicate of the dumping station recently built at South Quincy from designs of E. W. Branch of the Sewer department. The plant at South Quincy is already to be put into service, and the one on Hancock street will be ready by the first of January, at which time they wil probably go into service.

Free Delivery for Weymouth.

There will be free delivery from the South Weymouth post office after March 1 next. Fifty-four letter boxes will be located and there will be 9 carriers and 3 substitutes.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

Marconi Succeeds In Sending Wireless Message

FROM CANADA TO ENGLAND

Method Which Scarcely Exceeded a Hundred Miles a Year Ago Perfected Until It Covers a Distance of Twenty-Three Hundred Miles

Halifax, Dec. 22.—After eight experiments conducted with greatest secrecy, Marconi announces that he has solved the problem of wireless transoceanic communication and has successfully transmitted wireless messages from the shores of Canada to the coast of England.

The formal announcement of this achievement was made by the inventor himself yesterday when he stated that the wireless messages had been successfully transmitted and forwarded from the governor general of Canada to King Edward VII of Great Britain and the King of Italy.

Dr. Parkin, principal of Upper Canada college, Toronto, was present when one of the successful tests was made.

Prior to December, 1901, the greatest distance covered by wireless telegraphy scarcely exceeded 100 miles. Early in that year Marconi visited Newfoundland and from Signal Hill commenced experimenting with Cornwall. On Dec. 12 and 13 faint signals of the letter S repeated several times were caught by ear only with the aid of telephones. Later on Marconi, on board the steamship Philadelphia, bound for America, succeeded in establishing communication with Cornwall, a distance of 2100 miles. Trans-oceanic messages were also received on board the Carlo Alberto, while the warship lay at anchor in Sydney harbor on Oct. 31, and since then Marconi has been perfecting the apparatus at Table Head, C. B. He met with innumerable difficulties there but at last succeeded in sending a trans-oceanic wireless message from Canada to Cornwall, a distance of 2300 miles.

The Carlo Alberto, the Italian warship, which had been given by the King of Italy to Marconi to assist him in his experiments, was some days ago ordered to proceed to Venezuela, but as her immediate departure would seriously retard Marconi's operations the order was modified and she was held at Sydney until trans-Atlantic communication was successfully accomplished.

London, Dec. 22.—The Times confirms the receipt of a message by wireless telegraphy from Mr. Marconi at Cape Breton, N. S.

The text of the wireless message from The Times correspondent, which was transmitted from Glace bay, N. S., to Poldhu, Cornwall, is as follows:

"Being present at its transmission in Signor Marconi's Canadian station. I have the honor to send through The Times the inventor's first wireless trans-Atlantic message of greeting to England and Italy."

Officials Caught Smuggling

San Juan, P. R., Dec. 22.—Supervisor of Elections Benjamin Butler, Captain G. W. Mentz, U. S. M. C., and James Brennan, an employe of the Country club, have been arrested for alleged smuggling of wines and liquors from St. Thomas, brought here on United States government vessels, in all 64 cases. The prisoners were bound over under $2000 bail. It is said that more arrests will follow, for the smuggling has continued for a long period.

Tough Amateur Meets Jeffries

Butte, Mont., Dec. 22.—Champion Jeffries lost a decision in a four-round contest with Jack Munroe Saturday night after four rounds of fierce fighting. At one time the champion went to his knees and a knockout looked possible. Jeffries had posted a forfeit of $250 for any one to stand against him for four rounds and Munroe accepted the challenge. At the end of the fourth round Munroe was still ready to fight.

Sixteen Killed In Railroad Wreck

Byron, Cal., Dec. 22.—Sixteen persons were killed and 22 seriously injured in a collision Saturday night between a south-bound Los Angeles "Owl" train and a Stockton flyer. It was a rear end collision, the engine of the local plowing its way into the rear coach of the "Owl." The passengers who escaped death were hurled to the forward part of the coach and crushed in the mass of debris.

Choate on Vacation

Constantinople, Dec. 22.—Mr. Choate, the American ambassador to Great Britain, and his wife arrived here yesterday. They were welcomed by the staff of the American legation and proceeded to the British embassy, where they will spend several days as the guests of Sir N. R. O'Connor.

Mother and Children Drowned

Halifax, Dec. 22.—While attempting to rescue her two children from drowning in Bennacadei pond, near Grand Narrows, C. B., Mrs. Stephen M. Snell, aged 35, lost her life and the two boys, aged 8 and 11 years respectively, also perished. The boys had ventured on thin ice.

Disease Not Likely to Spread

Washington, Dec. 22.—Secretary Wilson believes that the danger of the spread of the foot and mouth disease from New England to other states has passed.

A DISPLAY OF MONEY

Leads to Tragic Death of a Fall River Grocer

AN ASSAULT WITH A CLUB

Followed by Theft of About $200 From His Pocket—Did Not Appear to Be Badly Injured, but Died In a Few Hours—Suspect Under Arrest

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 22.—Gaspard O. Vandal, a grocer of this city, was discovered in a badly battered condition in an alleyway near his house about 10:30 Saturday night. He lived about three hours, but stated before he died that he had been assaulted and robbed of about $200 which he had in his trousers pocket. His pocket was turned inside out.

Yesterday afternoon the police arrested Ernest King on suspicion of committing the crime. King, when arrested, was considerably under the influence of liquor and could not tell a connected story.

Vandal, who keeps a small grocery store, closed up about 9 o'clock Saturday night, and after placing a roll of bills, containing about $200 in his trousers pocket, went to a nearby barber shop to be shaved. In paying for the shave he displayed the roll of bills. About an hour later Mrs. Mary Fournier, who lives in a tenement in a yard near Vandal's house, heard someone calling, and going to the door discovered Vandal lying at the bottom of the steps.

After calling for help from the neighbors the injured man was taken to his home. A physician took 12 stitches in his scalp, but at that time Vandal did not appear to be very badly injured, although he told his wife he had a headache. About 1 o'clock Sunday morning he became unconscious and died before a doctor arrived.

Near the place where Vandal was found the police discovered a heavy club which had a jagged end, as if a portion of the original stick had been broken off. The club appeared to have been part of a baseball bat. When Vandal was taken into the house he told his wife that he had been assaulted and robbed, and it was found that his right hand trousers pocket was turned inside out, while the roll of bills which he said he had when he left the store was missing.

After his death the police at once began an investigation, which resulted in the arrest of King. The latter is one of the hands of the oyster schooner Mikado, of New Haven, and was unable to give any connected account of his movements Saturday night. The police, however, learned that he had been shaved twice, not far from Vandal's place, the second time having his moustache cut off, but the barber shop was not the one in which Vandal was shaved. The police are still at work on the case in the hope of obtaining some clew to the owner of the broken baseball bat. Friends of Vandal state that he had no enemies, and believe that the assault was committed for robbery.

Compliment to American Labor

Liverpool, Dec. 22.—Alfred Moseley, who has just made a tour of the United States for the purpose of studying American industrial conditions, arrived here yesterday on the steamer Umbria. In an interview Mr. Moseley said that he was greatly impressed with the superiority of American to British workmen. The Americans worked harder and were better trained and educated than the Englishmen.

Russian Subjects Suffering

St. Petersburg, Dec. 22.—The Russian government has drawn up a comprehensive plan for feeding the people who are in a state of semi-starvation as a result of crop failures. The sum of $3,331,500 has already been expended in relief work, but further great sums will be necessary to support the populace of the afflicted districts and enable them to resume farming in the spring.

Humbert Gang In Custody

Madrid, Dec. 22.—When Mme. Humbert and other members of the Humbert family, who became notorious in connection with the great safe frauds in Paris, were arrested here Saturday, one of the family handed a package containing $48,000 to some people who lived in the same house with them. This package has been sent to the French consulate.

Alleged Slayer Has Fled

Providence, Dec. 22.—As the result of the inquest into the death of Benjamin A. France, whose skull was fractured by a blow from a baseball bat delivered from behind, Pelerino de Angelis is found to be the slayer. De Angelis has disappeared, with little prospect that he will be apprehended.

Heavy Failure of Bankers

London, Dec. 22.—The private banking firm of J. & J. W. Pease of Darlington has executed a deed of assignment. The firm's liabilities are placed at about $2,500,000. The partners in the firm are two members of the house of commons and A. E. Pease, formerly member for Yorkshire.

Iowa Woman Strikes Oil

Des Moines, Dec. 22.—Oil has been discovered oozing from the banks of the Coon river near Grant City. Analysis of the oil is said to have showed 80 percent pure. The discoverer, a woman, has quietly leased 6000 acres in the locality.

WRAPPED IN FLAMES

Disaster Overtakes an Unknown Vessel In Massachusetts Bay

Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 22.—It is believed that a large vessel, either a tank steamer with oil or a sailing craft loaded with some highly inflammable material, was burned last night in Massachusetts bay about 20 miles outside of Boston harbor. A life saving crew from West Gloucester made a strong effort to reach her, but a stiff southwest gale drove them back when they were still 10 miles away from the burning ship.

About 10:30 o'clock last night two Boston fishermen came into port and reported that they passed within two miles of the burning vessel, but did not attempt to ascertain her identity. The crew of one of them which passed to the leeward reported smelling burning oil and stated that the vessel was a very large one. They were unable to say, however, whether she was a steamer or a sailing vessel, but they thought the former.

The vessel is apparently in the track of shipping bound from foreign ports to Boston. She might, however, have been some tank steamer from New York which had been blown farther in to the bay, after rounding Cape Cod. It is hoped that some fishermen may arrive soon who will be able to give something more tangible regarding the unfortunate vessel.

Brief and Simple Services

New York, Dec. 22.—In the mausoleum on Riverside Drive services were conducted yesterday over the remains of Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant. In addition to the members of the Grant family there were present about 300 persons. The services opened with the hymn "Lead, Kindly Light," after which the burial services of the Methodist Episcopal and the Protestant Episcopal churches were read. The services were closed with the reading of a poem, "The Land Beyond the Sea," which had been a favorite of Mrs. Grant, and the singing of the hymn "Abide With Me."

What McKinley Contemplated

New York, Dec. 22.—President Schurman of Cornell university delivered an address last night on the "Problems of the Philippines" to a large audience at Cooper Union. He stated his belief that the United States must ultimately give the Filipinos their independence. President Schurman said that in his talk with President McKinley at the time of his appointment to the Philippine commission he learned that the president had acted with an idea of giving emancipation to the Filipinos as well as to the Cubans.

Accident on Big Steamship

Plymouth, Eng., Dec. 22.—Steamer Deutschland arrived here at 2:15 yesterday afternoon. When she was nearing the Scilly islands a sylinder burst and the starboard engine was badly damaged. It will require four months to effect repairs. One engineer was badly scalded. The steamer left here at 3 o'clock for Cherbourg and Hamburg.

Congress Elects Nord

Port Au Prince, Dec. 22.—There was a disorderly scene during yesterday's sitting of the congress as a result of violent protests against the proclamation by the army of General Nord as president of the republic. One hundred and fifteen votes were cast. Of these General Nord received 100 and was elected, while 15 of the ballots were blank.

Rushing Work In Collieries

Reading, Pa., Dec. 22.—During the week ending Saturday evening, the Reading company brought down from the mines 288,750 tons of anthracite coal. This was transported in about 11,500 cars. The collieries are being worked to their utmost.

CHILD'S MEDICINE—WHY?

Because Scott's Emulsion relieves such an extraordinary variety of children's diseases all the way from slight colds to the serious hip disease.

Because Scott's Emulsion is as harmless as milk. Well borne even by the delicate stomachs of babies.

Because children respond so quickly to its action. A medicine peculiarly suited to their sensitive nature. It is wonderful how rapidly delicate children improve in every way while taking Scott's Emulsion

Because children like the taste. Most of them like Scott's Emulsion at once. The rest soon learn to like it. Little daily doses bring the results.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

FRESH TROUBLE IN CHINA

Dowager Empress Said to Be Backing Uprising Against Foreigners

Shanghai, Dec. 22.—The North China Daily News has received the serious news from Shen-Si that Tung-Fu-Siang, the exiled Chinese commander whose execution was demanded by the powers, but who is supposed to be protected by the dowager empress, is mobilizing 10,000 well equipped troops. The purpose of Tung-Fu-Siang is the extermination of foreigners in the provinces of Shen-Si and Kan-Su and the seizure of Sian-Fu. Friendly officials are advising foreigners and missionaries to depart in order to avoid the impending trouble.

Tung-Fu-Siang is buying great quantities of grain and fodder. He is in constant communication with Prince Tuan, and the dowager empress and Yung-Lu are believed to be secretly encouraging him and supplying him with money.

Outing Marred by Rain

Rapidan, Va., Dec. 22.—In a driving rain the president, Mrs. Roosevelt and four of their children, accompanied by their host, Joseph Wilmer, went horseback riding yesterday afternoon. Yesterday morning the president and his family and Mr. Wilmer drove to the Episcopal church to attend divine services. Not more than a score of worshippers braved the storm to attend the service. Owing to the severe rainstorm the wild turkey hunt for today was abandoned. The president and his family returned to Washington this morning.

Great Labor Headquarters

Indianapolis, Dec. 22.—After Jan. 1 this city will be the labor headquarters of more than 500,000 union workers in America, comprising the officials of the three largest labor organizations in the United Mine Workers, the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the International Typographical Union.

There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

Acid In Free Boarders' Grub

Washington, Dec. 22.—The food tests that Dr. Wiley is making for the purpose of ascertaining what, if any, effects are produced by a diet to which is added borax and other food preservatives, is at last fairly under way. Yesterday at dinner borax and boracid acid figured to quite an extent in the food given the government boarders. Those who ate the dinner said they had not noticed the presence of any preservatives in the food and no ill effects have resulted to any of them.

Verdict In Whayne Case

Louisville, Dec. 22.—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of R. C. Whayne, who was found last Thursday night in the vicinity of Jacob park with a gunshot wound in the breast, returned a verdict of accidental death. Intense interest was manifested as Whayne carried life insurance policies aggregating $390,000. His friends and family declared that the gun was accidentally discharged while he was climbing through a fence.

Christmas Mail Goes Up In Smoke

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 22.—Official report of the burning of a carload of Christmas mail en route for the west was made here yesterday afternoon by the crew of mail clerks arriving here on a train which left New York at 8:45 o'clock. Only 20 or 30 out of nearly 800 pouches were saved, the burned mail being for Chicago and points further west, including the Philippine and Fiji islands.

A TROPICAL CHRISTMAS

How the Day of Days Is Celebrated In Jamaica

CHRISTMAS with the mercury at 95 degrees in the shade and soaring away out of sight when exposed in the open! The burning, almost boiling, rays of the sun beat vertically down from a deep blue dome of sky that is unflecked by a single film of cloud, and reflect back with added intensity of suffering heat from the parched, baked and cracked earth and from the surface of a sea that shimmers like molten lead. Christmas in a land of perpetual summer, and a hot wave at that, where a linen suit feels like a buffalo robe and the mere thought of a blazing Yule log almost induces an attack of fever. The calendar may insist that it is the 25th of December, but to a stranger from the north, says a newspaper correspondent from Kingston, Jamaica, to whom the word "Christmas" has a jingle of sleighbells and the sharp, keen ring of skate blades on the ice, there is no real Christmas in the strange countries of the tropics.

In Kingston, the capital of Jamaica, the preparations for Christmas begin several weeks before the event. The shopkeepers lay in extra supplies and provide special attractions, pretty much after the manner of the New York stores. Among other things they import large quantities of sweetmeats and candies from London, New York and Paris, including chocolate creams and other confectionery which New Yorkers are accustomed to getting "fresh every hour." In Jamaica you are reasonably sure of getting these delicacies fresh every Christmas. Chocolate grows in great abundance all over the island, but it must go to London or Paris or New York to be manufactured into candy, or even into the preparations for breakfast beverages. That is one of the expensive peculiarities of the country. The Christmas market is the great feature of the day, and almost the principal event of the year in a certain sense. Everybody goes to market on Christmas day, and between the hours of 6 and 9 in the morning all the fashion and beauty of the island's capital are on dress parade through Victoria market.

The stalls in the market are gayly decorated with flags, bunting, palm branches, colored paper, tinsel and an abundance of flowers. A brass band occupies a prominent position in the market building and discourses music of great volume and variety and more or less melody. After the crowds fairly take possession of the market the performance of the band appears to be mostly pantomimic, for nothing made by the hand of man can for a moment compete in noise producing capacity with the average Jamaican negro.

The West Indian negro's great weakness is a love of gay apparel, next is a predilection for ceremoniousness, and the most prominent affliction is garrulity. In the crowd that surges past one through the market and the surrounding streets may be seen every variety of apparel known to civilized and uncivilized man. The country people wear little or nothing, the coolies as little as nothing, but the town negro wears everything he or she can put on, without any regard whatever to the climatic conditions. They take their notions from the English fashion papers, and heavy woolen clothing is all the style. The writer has even seen sealskins worn in Kingston on a day when the thermometer registered 90 degrees in the shade. Here is a stylish saddle colored gentleman wearing loud check trousers, patent leather shoes, a striped flannel shirt of three colors, a crimson and black sash around his waist, a blue English cricketing cap on his head. In his hand he carries an immense cane, while screwed into his left eye is a circular piece of perfectly plain glass, through which he glares stonily on the throng. Not long ago the single eyeglass became very popular among Kingston society darkies, but they could not get along with the glasses that magnified, so some enterprising merchant imported a lot of circular pieces of plain window glass, and all the dudes wore them, happily and idiotically.

His One Request.

Mamma—Now, what would you like best for a Christmas present?

Willie—Oh, I'd like to see the schoolhouse burn down! May I?—Philadelphia Press.

Undoubtedly.

"I wish you a happy and prosperous new year," said the soubrette.

"Thank you," replied the contortionist, "I am reasonably sure of making both ends meet."

Sudden and Surprising.

"What do you most desire for Christmas, Miss Mabel?"

"Oh, George, this is so sudden!"

"Wh—what do you mean?"

"Why, of course, I want you!"

Not Through Yet.

"What kind of a Christmas did you pass?" asked the friend.

"The same as usual," answered Mr. Bliggins sourly. "Twenty minutes of turkey and mince pie, and six weeks of pepsin."—Washington Star.

One Who Knew.

Mr. Oompah (Christmas eve)—Maria, I have forgotten where I put Ben's present.

Mrs. Oompah (calling out)—Benny, come and tell your father where he hid that drum he's going to give you.—Chicago Tribune.

A Matter of Principle.

"Is you all gwine to hang up any mistletoe dis Christmas?" asked Mr. Erastus Pinkley.

"Deed I isn'," answered Mrs. Miami Brown. "I'ze got a little too much pride to advertise foh de ordinary courtesies dat a lady has a right to expect."

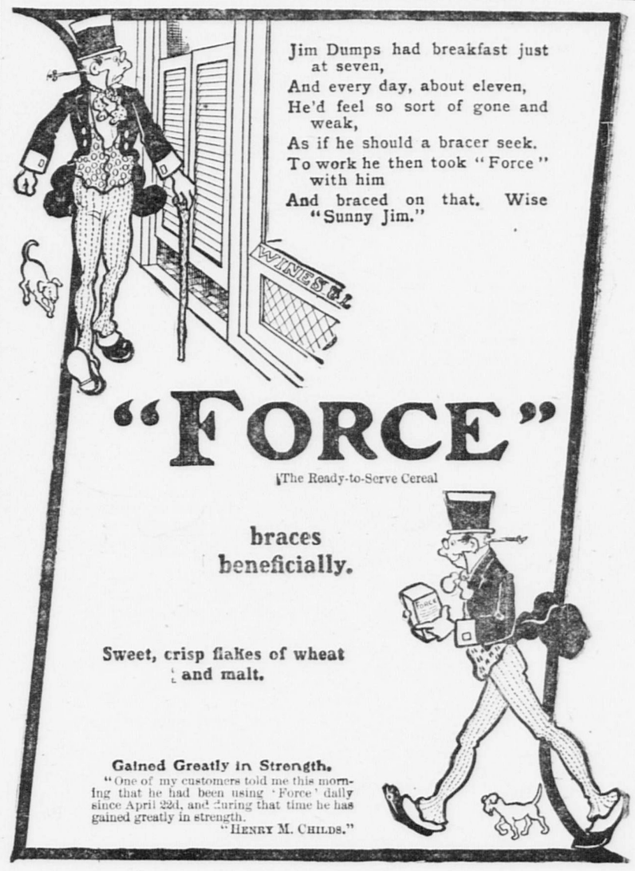

Couldn't Give Herself Away.

Charley Easyman—Well, Willie, your sister has given herself to me for a Christmas present. What do you think of that?

Willie—Huh! That's what she done for Mr. Brown last Christmas, and he gave her back to herself before Easter.

Better Than a Plaster.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Christmas day will be observed by the Daily Ledger as a holiday, the office of publication being closed all day. See Friday Ledger for holiday news.

Good Afternoon.

It is many years since White House hospitality has been conducted on as large a scale as it is this year.

Cogs of paper are now inserted in the wheels of high speed machines. They are noiseless and very durable.

Senator Lodge does not hesitate to place the opposition to the educational clauses in the Immigration bill where it belongs.

The old proverb, "It takes a thief to catch a thief," may explain the phenominal wealth of some of the New York policemen.

Senator Beveridge's report on the territorial bill is a masterly statement of the facts and an able deduction of sound conclusions.

A Pacific cable, under the sole control of the United States, promises to constitute another monument to President Roosevelt's first term.

The temperature today is seasonable for the Christmas time, but snow and good sleighing are necessary to make it an ideal Christmas.

The sincerity with which Senator Proctor is carrying on the work of the Military Affairs Committee makes the absence of Senator Hawley less unfortunate.

Everybody is busy with Christmas shopping and home-made presents, or preparing for the many festivals to be held Christmas day and Christmas eve. The family reunions are also a pleasant feature of Christmas holidays.

One of the great benefits of the proposed freight railroad to the shipyard is the removal of heavy teaming from our streets, but the greatest of all is the building up of a large flourishing plant which must compete with the whole country.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ It is more blessed to give than to go shopping in the crush.—Brockton Enterprise.

☞ Nine thousand Boers are talking of coming to this country, it is said. Let them come. They will make good citizens, and they will be bettered themselves.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ The January thaw and the mild weather helps out the coal consumer, and makes him glad that there is less need for fuel than when the thermometer registered in the neighborhood of zero.—Lynn Item.

☞ Have you got all of your near relatives and friends provided with Christmas gifts? If you have, or if you haven't, for that matter, forget yourself and your friends for a minute and hunt up some stranger for whom you can make a merry Christmas.—Haverhill Gazette.

TREE FESTIVALS

And Carol Services Arranged for Christmas.

By the Quincy Sunday Schools.

The Festivities Will Begin on Wednesday Afternoon.

The Sunday School programs for Christmas with a few additions are republished today:

CHRIST CHURCH.

Wednesday evening, Christmas eve. the annual Christmas tree and carrol service will be held in Christ church at six o'clock at which the choir and Sunday school scholars will sing a number of fine old English Carols. The Processional, however, will be Mrs. Porter's bright and beautiful "Carol, Carol Christians." Rev. A. M. Chapman of Trinity church, Boston will be in charge of the service.

At the Christmas morning service Mrs. Porter's new Christmas anthem, "Bethlehem" will be sung the first time in Quincy. The music:

Choir Service,—"Holy Night." Carol.
Processional,—"Adeste Fideles."
Te Deum in B flat,—C. Villiers Hauford.
Holy Communion Service in C, with Benedictus qui venit and Agnus Dei, by King Hall.
Sermon Hymn,—"Sing, O Sing This Blessed Morn." Words by C. Wordsworth; Music, Henry Smart.
Offertoire,—"O Little Town of Bethlehem." Words, Phillips Brooks; Music, Edith Rowena Noyes Porter.
Presentation—Doxology.
Nunc Dimittis,—Angelican Chant.
Recessional,—"It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." Words, E. H. Sears; Music, R. S. Willis.

As has been the custom since Mr. Snyder has become the choirmaster of Chrrist church, the choir boys and men will sing the Christmas Carroll at the Hospital in the afternoon of Christmas day.

FOR THE POOR.

The Alliance Christmas tree and entertainment for poor children will be held in First church chapel on Tuesday afternoon when Santa Claus will be present with a gift for the little ones.

FIRST CHURCH.

The Sunday School will have a Christmas festival Christmas eve when carols will be sung, a play presented, and presents distributed from a tree.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

The Sunday school of the Universalis church will hold its Christmas festival on Wednesday evening, and a good time is planned.

BETHANY CHURCH.

All departments of Bethany Sunday school will unite this year for their Christmas festival which will be held at 6 P. M., on Wednesday, Christmas eve. There will be a tree, entertainment and a royal good time.

The Junior Endeavors will hold a Christmas festival Wednesday afternoon in the chapel.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

The Sunday school of the United Presbyterian church will give a Christmas entertainment Christmas eve.

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

Christmas services will be held at the Swedish Baptist church Christmas morning at 5.30 A. M. with address by the pastor Rev. John Bjock whose subject will be "The Incarnation." There will be carol singing by the choir. The Sunday school festival will be held in the evening at 8 o'clock. It will include speaking and singing and distribution of gifts.

WEST QUINCY METHODIST.

On Wednesday evening the Sunday school will hold a Christmas festival. There will be a supper and entertainment, and best of all a tree with presents for the children.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The regular Christmas festival of the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School will take place on Wednesday evening at Brasee's hall. From 5.30 to 7 o'clock the children will be entertained and from 7 to 9 o'clock games by both young and old will be participated in. The rest of the evening will be devoted to dancing. Every one is requested to contribute a gift for Morgan chapel, Boston, to be given to the poor.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

The Wollaston Congregational Sunday School will have its Christmas tree Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. The Christmas service Sunday afternoon was well attended. The service was in four parts singing of Christmas song, scripture, address by Mr. J. R. Anderson in behalf of the Floating Hospital and Christmas giving. Everyone brought some gift for the poor. The numerous articles will be given to the Floating Hospital and the Salvation Army.

ST. CHRYSOSTOMS.

A carol and Christmas tree service will be held at St. Chrysostom's church Christmas eve, by choir and Sunday school.

On Christmas morning at 9.30 Te Deum and holy communion, with this music:

Processional,—Adeste Fideles.
Te Deum in F,—B. Tours
Holy Communion Service in F,—B. Tours.
Sermon Hymn,—"Sing, O Sing This Blessed Morn." Words, C. Wordsworth; Music H. Smart.
Offertory,—"O Little Town of Bethlehem." Words, Phillips Brooks; Music, Edith Rowena Noyes Porter.
Presentation,—Doxology.
Eucharistic Hymn,—"Hark! The Herald Angels Sing." Words, Charles Wesley; Music, Mendelssohn.
Gloria in Excelsis.
Recessional,—"It Came Upon the Midnigh[t] Clear." Words, E. H. Sears; Music, R. Willis.

Rev. C. P. Mills, rector,
E. Landis Snyder, choirmaster.
Miss Grace L. Sanger, organist.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

The Sunday school connected with the Wollaston Methodist church will observe its Christmas festivities on Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

On Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock the Baptist society will have a Christmas tree and appropriate exercises.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

No Ledger Christmas day.

Turkeys are from 28 to 34 cents per pound.

Edith M. Stanley is visiting friends in New York city and Newburg.

The weather today is a decided change from Monday. It feels more Christmas.

The Glencoe club will hold a sunlight party Christmas afternoon at Malnati's hall.

The Sunday School of the West Quincy Methodist church will elect officers next Sunday.

The two blows struck on the fire alarm circuit shortly before 5 o'clock this morning, was due to a ground on the line.

Mr. S. F. Smith the real estate agent of Norfolk Downs passed away quite suddenly at his home on Warwick street on Monday.

Miss Laura MacKenzie, formerly of Appleton street, Atlantic, is now spending the holidays with her mother, Mrs. W. P. MacKenzie at Duxbury.

The new arc gas lamps being put in by the Citizens Gas Co. give a beautiful light and are far ahead of anything in the gas light line yet introduced. One of these lights have just been put in the rooms of the Granite City club.

S. A. Brigham of Quincy was elected president of the Regimental Association, at the annual reunion at Young's hotel, Boston, last week. This association is a part of the old Thirteenth Mass., one of the most gallant in the Civil War.

The Sunday school of First church is to gather promptly at half-past six Christmas eve in the chapel for a short carol service. At seven o'clock a play is to be given by the children under the direction of Mr. Emery L. Crane, after which Santa Claus will distribute presents from the tree.

James Martin.

The funeral of James Martin was held from his residence Walnut street Monday morning. Mass was celebrated at the Sacred Heart church at 9 A. M., Rev. Fr. Cuffe officiating. Mr. Martin's death was a shock to his many friends, although he had been ill for some time. Mr. Martin was sexton of the church for many years and was employed at Moon island. The employes at that place sent a large set piece of flowers. He leaves a widow and six children to mourn his absence besides a host of friends. The interment was at West Quincy.

GOODBY, TOM REED!

A Farewell Tribute to the Ex-Speaker.

Goodby, Tom Reed!
You were, indeed,
A stout man and a true;
You had the strength
That brought, at length,
The love of men to you.

Goodby, Tom Reed!
You sowed the seed
Of manhood where you passed;
Your way was long,
Your hand grip strong,
Your heart strong to the last.

Mid heat of hate
In the debate
You saw hate take the lead;
Your brain was sound,
You stood your ground;
You ruled them all, Tom Reed.

They called you czar,
They cursed you far
And cursed you far and nigh,
But not a foe
Who cursed you so
But mourns you, now you die.

For as you fought
Your soul was wrought
By no mean thought or slight,
And with your brain
And might and main
You wrestled for the right.

But when 'twas done,
At set of sun,
The foes who fought you fair
Fought face to face
To gain a place
Beside your roomy chair.

The world has ends;
Few men have friends,
But you, Tom Reed, God knows,
Have at the last
No friends more fast
Than those who were your foes.

Therefore you go,
Sans pomp or show,
And faithful to your creed;
Your friends were true,
Your foes loved you,
And so goodby, Tom Reed!

MEAT FIT DIET FOR ARMIES

English Expert Says Our Feeding Makes Americans Best Soldiers.

Nathaniel E. Yorke-Davies, London's famous consulting physician in dietetics, has forwarded to Secretaries Root and Long and Generals Miles and Corbin a statement containing his conclusions as to the proper feeding for fighting men. Speaking to the Chicago Daily News London correspondent the other day, Dr. Yorke-Davies said:

"Wars have been lost and won by commissary departments. The fate of peoples in civil conflict depends on the character of the food they eat. Soldiers and sailors in this country (England) at present get too much bread and too little meat. The military successes of the ancient Greeks were due to their fare, which consisted of plain meats and almost nothing else. Much of England's trouble in South Africa was the result of diet. The transports landed the soldiers on the battlefield overfat from the consumption of starch.

"Rich food makes men effeminate and cowardly. Animal food makes them courageous and hardy. America's army is the best in the world because its feeding is more nearly right than that of any other nation. Russia comes next. England is third. Germany is fourth and France a bad fifth. The soldier, especially the growing soldier, should have one pound of meat each day in peace and an extra quarter of a pound during war."

AVOIDS NEW BOOKS.

Herbert Spencer Has Not Read One of This Year's Product.

The London academy has put its annual question, "What two books in the past year have you read with the most interest and pleasure?" and Herbert Spencer, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, answers, "I have not read any new books this year."

Some of the other answers are as follows:

Professor Skeat of Cambridge university: "I have not read any new books this year. I have quite enough to do to read the old ones."

Thomas Hardy names Margaret L. Woods' "Princess of Hanover" as one. Edmund Gosse selects James' "Wings of the Dove," and Frederic Harrison picks out Stephen Phillips' "Ulysses."

Odd Adventure With a Cat.

Mrs. Alexander Downey of the village of Galesburg, near Niles, Mich., was preparing to attend an entertainment the other evening and was nearly ready, only waiting the return of her husband, who was to accompany her, when she opened a closet door, and the family cat sprang from a shelf and alighted upon her head. Its claws became entangled in Mrs. Downey's hair, and upon his return Mr. Downey found his wife unconscious on the floor, while the cat was struggling furiously to release itself. It was found necessary to chloroform the animal so as to release Mrs. Downey, who was not seriously injured.

Novel Fishing Lure.

In France a novel method of catching fish is being tested by anglers. A tiny mirror is attached to the line near the baited hook. The assumption is that a fish, when it sees itself in a glass, will conclude that some other fish is trying to carry off the bait and will make haste to secure the tempting morsel itself, the result being that it will speedily be caught on the relentless hook. From experiments which have been made there seems to be some foundation for this assumption. At any rate, some anglers say that they catch more fish when they use the little mirror than they ever caught before.

Latest Hygienic Fad.

A society has been formed in Manchester, England, the members of which eschew the morning meal. The nonbreakfasters contend that breakfast retards activity of both mind and body and is a fertile cause of indigestion, dyspepsia and like ailments.

Consumption can certainly be cured. Not all cases, but very many. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the medicine. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

SEVENTY KILLED.

Cattle Commissioners Stamp Out Foot and Mouth Disease.

It is believed that the foot and mouth disease among cattle is pretty well stamped out as far as Quincy is concerned. Up to the present time the State Commissioner has killed in Quincy seventy cows and nine hogs.

Dr. Peters says the quarantine has been taken off Quincy, Braintree and Easton; these towns having no cows which now have the disease, and the premises where it was found having been disinfected.

Co-Operative Dining Room.

Quincy has its Co-operative bank, Co-operative store, and other co-operative bodies, and now the Co-operative dining rooms has come to the front. Although opened but a few weeks its membership is steadily increasing. The management is alive to the fact that a smoking and reading room would be appreciated, so another room has been added for that purpose.

Ugly Rumors.

There are some ugly rumors being circulated about a member of the permanant police force. From the character of the rumors it would seem that another investigation was in order.

The New Bridge.

One of the large steel spans for the new bridge at Quincy Point was floated down the river Monday and is being placed in position. About all of the permanent spans are ready to float down and it will not be long before the bridge will begin to take shape.

Trading at Home.

Nearly all of the stores in City Square kept open Monday night and Quincy presented a holiday appearance. Hundreds of people were abroad and all of the stores were thronged with people purchasing Christmas gifts. Owing to the high cost of necessities many thought Christmas trade would be quiet this year. Several Ledger advertisers, however, say that upon comparisons with last year they find this year's business is better. People have begun to realize that Quincy stores carry a variety of holiday goods, that are equally as low as in Boston, and that by trading at home they not only save their car fares to Boston but they avoid the jam and get home earlier.

The Winning of Canada.

John D. McKay, Esq., was the speaker at the Clan McGregor meeting Monday evening. His subject was the winning of Canada from France by Britain, with especial reference to the battle of Quebec. Congress-elect McNary will speak on "Mexico" at the second meeting in January, and Mr. Alex Cowe, will follow later with an address on Robert the Bruce.

FREIGHT RAILWAY

Petitions Braintree Selectmen for a Location.

A petition was on Monday received by the Selectmen of Braintree, Mass., from the Fore River Ship and Engine Co., asking for a location in the town of Braintree for a private railroad, which may be briefly described as follows:

It begins at a point on the South Shore division of the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R., where the Monatiquot river crosses the South Shore Road, thence the proposed private railway runs northerly, crossing Adams street, Elm street and Commercial street in the town of Braintree; thence continuing northerly and easterly in the city of Quincy, crossing West Howard street and Quincy avenue; thence continuing, crossing Howard avenue, terminating at the property of the Fore River Ship and Engine Co.

The total length of the proposed railway in the town of Braintree and city of Quincy is about 1 3-4 miles. The tracks are so planned that at a point near Quincy avenue a spur track can be laid running easterly, directly into the property owned by the American Tube Works Co.

This matter of a private railway for the accommodation of the above-named companies, has been under consideration during the past year. Several route lines have been surveyed. It seems to us that the one selected by the petitioners is the best that could have been selected; it certainly goes through a section of the town that is, in the main, undeveloped, and does not take for its locations any lands that are particularly valuable as residential lands. The right of way, beginning at the South Shore Road, for the entire distance, has been acquired and is owned by the petitioners.

The construction of this proposed private railway is a necessity to the two large corporations, one of which is a home institution in the City of Quincy, and one in the Town of Braintree, in order to enable them to forward quickly at economical rates, commodities to and from their works. Indeed, no large manufacturing plant is up to date unless connected with the network of steam railroads.

Among other advantages growing out of the building of this proposed railroad, will be the relief of the public streets from the carrying of so much heavy freight over them. Again, the railroad is so planned that at Quincy avenue there is an opportunity to connect with the street railway system of the Old Colony Street Railway. At present, large numbers of the workmen take the cars at Quincy, Braintree, and adjoining towns, and are carried by the said Old Colony Street Railroad Co. either to Newcomb Square or at a point on Washington street, Quincy Point, both of which points are a considerable distance from the work.

Upon the completion of this railroad, it would be possible to run the cars of the Old Colony Street Railway, over this private railway, directly on to the properties of the Fore River Ship & Engine Co. and the American Tube Works, thus enabling the major portion of the workmen to be carried direct to and from the works to their homes in any part of the City of Quincy, Town of Braintree and adjoining towns, for the sum of five cents.

And while this railroad is built by the Fore River Ship and Engine Co. as a private enterprise for their personal use, it is evident that there is a general benefit growing out of the construction of the same to the citizens of both Quincy and Braintree.

The petitions now pending are for location and permit to construct across streets in the City of Quincy and the Town of Braintree, and the question of motor power has not as yet been determined.

Later it will be necessary for the petitioners to come before the City Council of the City of Quincy and the Selectmen of the Town of Braintree, asking permission to operate a street railroad. At that time it will be decided by the city and town authorities whether the motor power to be used shall be electricity, compressed air, or steam.

We trust that the City Council and Board of Selectmen of the town of Braintree will do all in their power to facilitate the early location and construction of this road.

CROWN PRINCESS GONE

Mysteriously Left Saxon Castle During the Night

PLACED DUMMY IN HER BED

Vanished So Utterly That Police of Every Kingdom of Europe Have Searched In Vain For Trace of Her—Story of Domestic Discord

Dresden, Saxony, Dec. 23.—The Crown Princess of Saxony fled from her home during the night of Dec. 11-12. The Dresden Journal says:

"The princess, in a state of intense mental excitement, suddenly deserted her family at Salzeburg and went abroad. The Saxon court functions for the winter, including the New Year's reception, have been cancelled."

The foregoing paragraph in yesterday's official journal, which was inserted by order of the King and Crown Prince of Saxony, has turned into truth what, for several days past, has been regarded as an incredible tale. The Crown Princess of Saxony, surrounded by her ladies in waiting and numerous attendants and servants of the royal household, vanished so utterly that the police of every kingdom of Europe have been unable to trace her. The above official announcement was made in order to obtain the aid of the general public in finding the princess, and because the court fiction that she preferred to remain in retirement at Salzeberg rather than to return to her husband and children at Dresden cannot longer be maintained.

Accompanied by the crown prince, the princess went to the castle of Emperor Francis Joseph, near Salzeberg, a month ago. A week after their arrival at the castle the prince broke his leg while hunting, and was brought back to Dresden. The princess, however, still remained at the castle. Why she did so the people of the court did not know except that the princess, with gloomy tenacity, usually does what she wants. For a little while this explanation sufficed. Then fragments of gossip began to reach Dresden. It was said that the princess had surrendered herself to periods of nervous excitement and that her eccentricites of deportment caused much concern to her suite and to some of her Austrian kinsfolk who were staying in the castle with her. It is now believed that she was under surveillance, and if this is true it makes her disappearance more extraordinary.

The narrative of the events at Salzeberg during the night of Dec. 11-12 as told in Dresden is that the princess, who appeared to be in an unusually tranquil mood, retired before 12 o'clock. Three hours later, when a maid looked into the royal bedchamber, something in the appearance of the bed prompted her to go closer and examine it. Instead of the princess the maid perceived a dummy figure. She awakened the lady in waiting, and the latter, with other members of the princess' suite, searched all the neighboring apartments, then the entire castle, and finally the grounds of the castle for the princess, but no trace of the missing woman was found.

At dawn the police of Salzeburg were informed of the disappearance and inquiries were made throughout the whole country-side, but with no tangible result. A number of what had seemed to be traces of the princess were shown to be without foundation upon careful examination by the police. The inquiry by the end of that day had extended to all parts of the kingdom of Saxony and on authority from Dresden, by the end of the second day, to all of Europe.

The theory of suicide was suggested and a fruitless search for the princess' body has been made. All the ponds and other pieces of water in the vicinity of the castle have been dragged without result.

The disappearance of the princess will doubtless cause the circulation of many stories. It is already related that she eloped, but inquiries made here have brought out nothing to substantiate or support this supposition.

Domestic Infelicity

Vienna, Dec. 23.—The flight of the Crown Princess of Saxony has caused great excitement here. It is reported that Archduke Ferdinand went to Geneva, whither it was supposed the princess had fled, but he failed to find any trace of her. The princess' brother, Archduke Leopold Ferdinand, is said to be with her, but nothing can be ascertained as to her whereabouts.

It is officially explained that the princess' disappearance is due to mental derangement. There is little doubt, however, that it was caused by domestic discord growing out of her husband's relations with an actress of the Dresden court theatre. It is asserted here that the princess frequently threatened flight on this account and that she was incensed at her father, the Grand Duke of Tuscany, for counselling her to forgive her husband. She is said to be enciente.

It is rumored here that the princess was accompanied by the French tutor of her children.

Rioter Fined $250

Glens Falls, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Henry T. Ramsey, who was convicted of riot in connection with the Glens Falls disturbances, was fined $250 by Judge Jenkins yesterday. It is understood that the local labor unions will contribute toward the payment of the fine.

LORENZ'S GREAT WORK

Successful Operations Upon Three Little Sufferers at Boston

Boston, Dec. 23.—An intensely interested and appreciative audience of 200 prominent surgeons saw Dr. Adolf Lorenz in three demonstrations of his wonderful skill in replacing dislocated hips in children at the Children's hospital yesterday afternoon. The subjects were all girls.

The first little sufferer, a girl of 7 years old, was brought into the operating room about 5 o'clock. Dr. Lorenz passed his hand lightly over each hip, and pronounced it as a case of dislocation of the left hip.

A chamois covered block, used as a fulcrum, was thrust beneath the child's left hip. The doctor then held the child's hip with his left hand, and with his right firmly clasped the knee. He then began to force the leg backward and upward with great violence, until it seemed as if the body would not withstand the strain. So vigorous were his actions that to some it appeared as if the hip bone would protrude through the skin. A rotary motion then followed, and then the leg was stretched upward until it was limp and pliable.

The child was then turned over on its face, and the manipulation of the leg continued. After a few minutes the doctor made a sudden jerk with the leg and with a snap the joint slipped into its socket, and the intense strain upon the attention of the spectators being suddenly relieved they all broke into applause. The leg was then held out at an angle of 45 degrees, while it was bandaged and the plaster-cast applied. Dr. Lorenz stated that the cast would have to be in place from seven months to a year.

Two other demonstrations followed, one on a child of 3 years and another on one of 4 years, and both were successful.

No Trial For Nawn

Boston, Dec. 23.—Because one "material witness" is dead and another cannot be located, John J. Nawn, contractor and politician, will not be tried on charge of complicity in the city of Boston team frauds of 1896 and 1897. The indictment papers charging Nawn with 10 counts of false pretences and five counts of accessory before the facts were placed on file yesterday by the district attorney. The cases against Contractor Burns, jointly indicted with Nawn, went on file some time ago.

Another Arrest In Vandal Murder

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 23.—Fred Reed was taken into custody by the police last night on the charge of highway robbery from Gaspard O. Vandal, the grocer who was robbed and murdered Sunday morning. Reed, who is 40 years old, claims that he recalls little of his doings since Saturday for the reason, he says, that in company with Ernest King, who is held in $20,000, charged with the fatal assault on Vardal, he visited saloons and drank a great deal.

Child Accidentally Killed

Portland, Me., Dec. 23.—Katie Winne of Biddeford, 5 years old, was accidentally shot yesterday afternoon by her uncle, Edward Nearon, who had a new shotgun with which he had started to shoot sparrows. He put a shell into the gun and then snapped the gun across his knee to close the breech. As he brought the gun across his knee the little girl appeared straight in range of the gun. She was brought to a hospital here and died shortly afterward.

Arrested While on Furlough

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 23.—Richard Nagle, a private in the heavy artillery, stationed in New York, was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $500 yesterday, charged with being one of three men who assaulted John Donovan on Oct. 29 of last year with intent to rob. Nagle escaped and enlisted in the regular army. He came home on a furlough Saturday night and was immediately placed under arrest.

Going Before Grand Jury

Chelsea, Mass., Dec. 23.—After more than three months C. H. Forbes was arraigned here yesterday, charged with larceny and assault with intent to murder Alvah E. Ives. Ives, an iceman, was shot, clubbed and robbed at his office in Revere last September. Three hundred dollars were taken. Judge Bosson found probable cause in both cases and held the prisoner for the grand jury in $3000.

Dumb Fourteen Years; Now Talks

East Longmeadow, Mass., Dec. 23.—Miss Mary O'Brien, aged 30, has suddenly recovered the power of speech after being dumb for 14 years. She has since talked almost incessantly while awake, and her mind seems disordered. Her failure of speech 14 years ago was due to a throat trouble.

Globe Bank's Final Dividend

Boston, Dec. 23.—Depositors of the defunct Globe National bank received yesterday checks covering 7 percent interest on their deposits. This is the final dividend to depositors that will be made by Receiver King. In all he has paid depositors 107 percent of their deposits.

Many Lose Christmas Gifts

Boston, Dec. 23.—The postoffice authorities in this city estimate that five tons of Christmas presents sent by New England people to friends and relatives in the western states were destroyed by the burning of a mail car at Peekskill, N. Y., Sunday.

No Cattle Disease In Connecticut

Hartford, Dec. 23.—The secretary of agriculture yesterday afternoon removed the quarantine against the state of Connecticut established last month, owing to the prevalence of the foot and mouth disease.

ARE TAKING SOUNDINGS

Powers Would Like to Have Roosevelt Act as Arbitrator

FORMAL REQUEST NOT MADE

His Emphatic Judgment Is That Venezuelan Matters Should Be Referred to The Hague Tribunal, But He Will Not Shirk Responsibility

Washington, Dec. 23.—President Roosevelt has not accepted the position of arbitrator of the Venezuelan controversy. In fact he has not received, formally or officially, a request from the European powers that he act as arbitrator of the dispute. These statements are made on the highest authority.

In an informal manner the president has been notified that the European powers intimately concerned in the present South American difficulty desire that he undertake the responsibility of acting as arbitrator of the points at issue between them and Venezuela. Thus far, they merely have been taking "soundings," with a view, probably, of ascertaining how he would receive a formal proffer to act as arbitrator. The president, so soon as he received the first intimation that he was desired as arbitrator of the Venezuelan controversy, expressed emphatically his judgment that the matters to be arbitrated should be referred to The Hague tribunal. His view of the suggestions made has been conveyed to the European powers, together with a strong presentation of his reasons for the view he holds. No response of a formal nature to these representations has been received.

The president and Secretary Hay had a long conference yesterday. They carefully went over the situation as it had developed since Saturday, but it is understood that nothing has arisen during the past 48 hours to warrant the president in changing his opinion as to the undesirability of his acceptance of the position of arbitrator.

So far as can be learned no specific reasons have been advanced by the European powers for objecting to a reference of the Venezuelan questions to the arbitration of The Hague tribunal. It is held by the administration that the tribunal at The Hague was constituted to arbitrate just such controversies and that it would be desirable from every viewpoint that the present dispute should go to that tribunal for adjudication. How strong the objections which Great Britain, Germany and Italy have to a reference of the Venezuelan difficulty to The Hague tribunal is not known to the administration at this time. Even the nature of the objections, if any, is not known. The negotiations looking to the selection of an arbitrator have not progressed sufficiently yet to develop such objections as the powers may have.

The acceptance by the powers of the principle of arbitration as applied to the Venezuelan question is a matter of great gratification to the president and his cabinet. That all the powers have intimated, too, that they would prefer the president should arbitrate the present dispute is taken as a notable compliment to the president personally and to his administration. It is the hope of both the president and his advisers, however, that while there is precedent for his acceptance of the post of arbitrator, the powers will consent to a reference of the controverted matters in the Venezuelan question to the tribunal at The Hague.

While it is recognized by the president's closest advisers and by the president himself, that some unpleasant possibilities might attend his performance of the duties of arbitrator of the pending Venezuelan difficulty, his friends assert that he will shirk no responsibility that he may deem it his duty to undertake, but will accept, if the powers should insist on it, though he is very reluctant to do so.

Caracas Short of Food

Caracas, Dec. 23.—The blockade is proving prejudicial to American trade. Fifteen importing houses in Caracas have stopped placing orders in the United States. It is estimated that the food supply in Caracas will not last much more than a fortnight.

Ordered to Venezuela

Halifax, Dec. 23.—The second-class cruiser Pallas, now at this port, received orders from the admiralty yesterday to proceed south today and assist the ships of the combined fleet in the blockade of the Venezuelan coast.

Meyer Gets Reply Today

Rome, Dec. 23.—The reply of the Italian government concerning the proposal that President Roosevelt arbitrate the Venezuelan issues will be handed to Ambassador Meyer today.

Used Mails to Defraud

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 23.—Drs. Peebles, Bobo and Greene of the People's Institute of Health, Battle Creek, were convicted by a jury here yesterday of violating the postal laws. It was charged that advertisements of their mental "cure" by mail for all sorts of ills constituted fraud.

Mexican City Plague Stricken

Mexico City, Dec. 23.—Advices from Mazatlan, the seaport on the western coast of Mexico where a disease supposed to be the bubonic plague has broken out, show that there were three deaths on Saturday and nine on Sunday from the malady.

EXCITABLE FRENCHMEN

Have Something New to Worry Over In the Arrest of the Humberts

Paris, Dec. 23.—The formalities in the matter of the extradition of the members of the Humbert family, who were arrested in Madrid last Saturday, and of escorting them back to the scene of their former triumphs, are proceeding rapidly. Not since France was shaken by the Dreyfus affair has the country been so profoundly moved as it is by the developments in this case. Some papers assert that the arrest of the Humberts is only a prelude to even more sensational developments which involve personages in the foremost rank of the political, judicial and social world.

The indications are that the Dreyfus affair also will be again dragged before the public and that there will be a renewal of the animosities of the anti-Semitic discussion. Deputy Gauthier has taken the initiative in asserting that the relatives of Dreyfus are among the heaviest creditors of the Humberts, and that this alleged fact exercised an important influence in highest governmental quarters during the Dreyfus trial.

When the chamber of deputies resumes its session the Humbert question will probably become one of the chief elements in politics. Already the matter has swayed ministries and it caused a recent sensational tumult in the chambers. The excitement attending the return of the fugitives will intensify existing feeling and possibly lead to grave disclosures beyond those affecting the Humbert family.

The legal battle promises to be conducted by a number of leading advocates.

Locomotive Got Beyond Control

Liberty, Ind., Dec. 23.—A helper engine was run to College Grove yesterday to help a freight train. The engineer was to take a switch east of Liberty, but when he got to the switch and attempted to reverse the machinery would not respond and the engine dashed toward Liberty, ran into the engine of a freight train and partly wrecked it. In some way the helper was reversed and it ran back through Liberty at the rate of 70 miles an hour, dashing into another freight. Two men were killed.

Carnation League Proposed

Cleveland, Dec. 23.—The "Carnation League of America" is the name of a new patriotic movement proposed to the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association. It is proposed that the "Carnation league" shall be a perennial memorial to McKinley's honor, statesmanship and patriotism. Every member of the league would wear a carnation on each recurring Sept. 14, the anniversary of our late president's death.

San Juan's Smuggling Cases

San Juan, P. R., Dec. 23.—Robert Giles, a government road contractor and manager of the Automobile transportation company, has been arrested in connection with the smuggling cases. He pleaded not guilty. The hearing of the case against Commander Mentz has been postponed until next Friday in order that Collector Cruzen, who is at present indisposed, may testify. The court will hear the other cases today.

Stamped on Kaiser's Picture

Berlin, Dec. 23.—A Polish school girl named Kopec has been sentenced to 14 days' imprisonment at Inowrazlau, province of Posen, for lese majeste in having thrown a brooch with Emperor William's picture in it to the floor and stamping upon it. Brooches were presented to the pupils of the schools when the emperor visited Posen.

Riotous Soldiers Arrive

San Francisco, Dec. 23.—The army transport Thomas arrived last night from Manila with 122 casuals, 62 sick and 779 discharged soldiers. While the vessel was at Manila a riot broke out among the discharged men and a company of regulars was placed on board to maintain order.

Preferred Bar to Pulpit

New York, Dec. 23.—Rev. G. K. McDonald, who recently resigned the pastorate of the East Avenue Baptist church, Long Island City, and opened a liquor saloon in the Bronx, was stricken from the roll of members of the Baptist ministers' conference yesterday.

A Rest For Jackies

Washington, Dec. 23.—Cabled advices to the navy department show that the holiday itinerary for the ships of Admiral Dewey's squadron in the Caribbean is being rapidly executed. Christmas eve will find all of the 40 vessels in port.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Former Governor James S. Boynton of Georgia is dead, aged 69.

The Boston and Maine railroad will send a shipment of coke to Haverhill, Mass., for the use of its employes there. The coke will be distributed at cost price.

Announcement is made that Agnes Booth, wife of John B. Schoffel, proprietor of the Tremont theatre, Boston, will return to the stage next season.

Andrew Carnegie, who was to respond to a toast at the New England society dinner at New York, sent word that he did not feel able to be present. Inquiry proved that he deemed it imprudent to attend a banquet so soon after his recent indisposition.

Samuel Shepherd, aged 50, was struck and killed by a train near East Richford, Vt.

Secretary General Bardiner of the Order of the Cincinnati has received from President Loubet of France an acceptance of honorary membership in the order.

PUEBLO INDIAN CHRISTMAS

An Admixture of Christianity and Tribal Customs

THE Pueblo Indians of New Mexico celebrate Christmas in their primitive way, and, although they profess Christianity, they also observe their religious as well as their tribal customs, says the New York Evening Post. On Christmas eve the inhabitants of each village assemble at the estufa (place of worship) and elect officers for the ensuing year. Men and boys over sixteen years of age, if the latter have proved their worthiness in the chase, select the candidates by a viva voce vote. Women are not permitted in the estufa. The officers elected are a governor of the village, war chief, police official and a council of five members as a kind of cabinet for the governor. The governor, by the advice and consent of his cabinet, sets the time for the chase, when the entire village turns out; also designates the time to irrigate the little patches, the time to go to work and is ex officio administrator of justice. The war chief directs the pasturing of stock and prevents depredations upon private property. He is the chief of police, constable, judge and jury combined. Only serious cases of crime are referred to the governor and council.

After the election of officers a grand dance takes place. The braves are dressed in buckskin pantaloons, with a white cotton shirt. The headdress is of the skin of the deer or fox, the tail of the animal hanging down the back as an ornament. Some of the headdresses of the officials are prettily decorated with bright feathers and sometimes eagle plumes. Their faces are painted in yellow and white stripes, relieved by red spots on the cheeks. They wear moccasins of leather. The braves form in a double line and march around the village, preceded by the officers and the cacique, or spiritual head. Each brave carries in his left hand a gourd half filled with pebbles and nicked at the top. In his right hand is a convex stick, which he saws across the gourd and at the same time gives the gourd a shake or rattle. This excruciating noise is partly drowned by the general chant, in which all join. The song is a monotone, as if the singer were telling a story or reciting historical sketches, and suddenly it breaks out into a wild and loud blare, like the crash of the elements of discord in the grand opera of civilization.

The dance is a hippetty hop, and the movement is slow until one of these breaks is sounded, and then it is delirious, like a war dance. This exercise continues all night, or as long as the braves can stand up. There is a considerable quantity of mescal drunk at these celebrations, and many of the braves fall by the wayside. The palefaces from the surrounding settlements attend the fiesta, and some bring along their whisky and gaming implements. In the plaza, or central square, there are all kinds of games and booths for all kinds of drinks. The Pueblo Indian is not used to our whisky, and a very little soon induces him to gamble away his money, clothes and wife.

Isleta, a few miles from Albuquerque, N. M., is the largest of the twenty Pueblo villages in the territory, and the celebration here is always attended by a large crowd of whites. It lasts two or three days, during which there are horse racing, cocking mains and other sports. The gaming tables are run night and day. One of the games is chusa, similar to the American roulette, with a hidden spring which the dealer touches. Another sport is el gallo—the burying of a rooster in the sand, leaving his head above the surface. The best riders in the village are selected to compete. They form in a front line at a distance of 100 yards, and charge down upon the rooster. The rider, going at full run, leans from his saddle and grabs at the head of the rooster. If he catches the fowl, he is applauded as the victor. He then races for his home, with all the other horsemen after him, with the intention of depriving him of his trophy. If they take the fowl from him before he reaches home, he is shorn of his laurels, and in the scramble the unfortunate rooster is often torn to pieces. When a rider misses catching the rooster's head, every one laughs, and if he falls from his horse he is greeted with shouts of derision and epithets of "squaw man."

There are services in the church each morning during the fiesta, with the usual game and sports in the afternoon and dancing at night. The services are Roman Catholic—all Pueblos being members of that church. They, however, observe some of their own rights in secret—the dance being part of their creed worship.

That Bad Teddy Brown.

The wurstest boy I ever see
Is jes' that Teddy Brown;
He's jes' as bad as he can be,
For one day he came down
To visit me awhile an' play
An' said our pas an' mas
Jes' give us things on Christmas day,
An' th' ain't no Santy Claus.

I hain't go'n' play with Teddy Brown;
I'd like to well as not,
But he says Santy can't come down
A chimbly like we got,
An' he says how would his sleigh go
Last Christmas time, because
There wasn't then a speck of snow?
So th' ain't no Santy Claus.

He's jes' the wurstest boy I guess
That ever was, an' I
Hain't go'n' to play with him, but jes'
Go on an' pass him by.
So'd you ef you could hear him say
That jes' our pas an' mas
Will give us things on Christmas day,
An' th' ain't no Santy Claus.

Peculiar Properties of the Herbs the Indian Doctors Use.

An interesting character, frequently met with in the Andes, is the callaguayas, or Indian doctor. He is everywhere and is trader, tinker, peddler, fortune teller, conjurer and magician. His knowledge of botany is as mysterious as it is comprehensive, and the most astonishing stories are told of his cures.

A man in Lima was lying at the point of death with a disease which baffled physicians who brought diplomas from the medical schools of Paris and Vienna. One evening two of the physicians stood talking of the case at the sick man's door, without noticing a humble, barefooted Indian who leaned against the wall. As they departed the Indian entered the patio and asked to see the sick man. The family referred him to the attending doctor, who, amazed at his audacity, exclaimed:

"What do you know about a disease that puzzles the best physicians in Lima?"

"I have herbs that will cure everything," said the callaguayas.

The doctor smiled in scorn and turned away. The Indian opened his pack, took from a paper a single leaf and handed it to the physician, asking him to smell it. He did so, and instantly his nose began to bleed, and he was unable to stop it.

The Indian stood stolidly by for a time, then handed him another leaf, saying, "Smell that and the bleeding will stop."

The result was what he promised, and the physician was interested. In the end the callaguayas saw the sick man. He selected herbs from his stock, brewed a tea and gave it to the patient, and the sick man recovered.—"Between the Andes and the Ocean."

Christmas Gift.

The people of the Swedish Lutheran church, through O. B. Weeden, have raised money enough to purchase a carpet for the church. The carpet was laid Monday and will be a Christmas gift to the church. It came from the warerooms of W. G. Shaw.

Very Quiet.

Tommy—Can we play at keeping a hop in here, mamma?

Mamma (who has a headache)—Certainly: but you must be very, very quiet.

Tommy—Well, we'll pretend we don't advertise.—Tit-Bits.

PUNY CHILDREN

TOO MANY OF THEM DIE.

Their Little Bodies Unable to Stand the Ordeal of Development.

WE THINK EVERY MOTHER IN THIS TOWN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT VINOL.

It is the Delicious Tonic We Advise for Growing Children.

Is your boy or girl pale and listless? Do they act differently from other children? Do they sleep poorly and eat poorly? Does your boy avoid the sports and games of other boys? Does your girl complain of headache and find her studies a hardship?

If so, you may make up your mind they are growing too fast. They need something to help nature in her great work of furnishing the necessary elements for creating flesh and muscle tissue, bone structure and rich, pure, red blood.

They need a tonic in the full sense of the word and we can tell you what to get.

It is Vinol Wine of Cod-Liver Oil, the great modern reconstructor. Children like it, it is so delicious to the taste, in spite of the fact that it contains a highly concentrated extract of the medicinal principles that are found in cod-liver oil.

But because the vile-smelling and tasting grease has been discarded and all of the other disagreeable features eliminated, the benefits of Vinol are easily understood.

Vinol acts favorably on the stomach, creates an appetite and enables the food that is eaten to do the greatest possible amount of good.

Following is a letter that bears directly on this subject:

"I was all run down and took Vinol. It did me so much good and it was so pleasant to take that I gave it to my children. They were growing fast and needed something in the way of a tonic and I found it to be just the thing for them."—SARAH PICKERING, 1932 Fall River, Mass.

We cordially invite mothers interested in the welfare of their children, as well as any one else needing a sure, safe and delicious tonic, rebuilder and rejuvenator, to call on us. We will gladly tell any one all we know about Vinol and why we so highly endorse it.

Inasmuch as we are always ready and pleased to refund the cost of Vinol to those who don't find it exactly what we claim it to be, it will be seen that we are prepared to substantially endorse our claims for the excellence of this marvelous preparation.

EDWARD J. MURPHY, DRUGGIST.

THE NIGHT BELL

[Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis.]

I was on my way home at midnight and having a toothache routed out a drug clerk for a remedy. The door was opened a few inches and a pale face looked out.

"You look as if you expected an enemy," I said.

"Yes; I expected an enemy—a dead man."

"Nonsense! You never murdered any one, and even if you had the dead don't walk about pulling night bells. You've been sticking too close and got your nerves out of whack, or perhaps you use a drug of some kind to bring sleep. If you've got any real trouble on your mind, let's hear about it."

The footsteps of some belated pedestrian approached and died away. After listening intently and nervously the clerk motioned me to sit down and then whisperingly said:

"I'll—I'll tell you about it. One night at midnight long ago a man roused me up as you have done and bought carbolic acid. He lied to me as to its purpose. I had scarcely passed the bottle over to him when he removed the cork and swallowed the contents. He stood right over there, and he cursed and cursed and fought me off when I wanted to save him. I ran for help, and when I came back he lay writhing and cursing on the floor. How he did suffer! But before they took him away to die he turned on me. He cursed me for having given him the poison, and he swore he'd have revenge."

"But you were not to blame," I said. "You didn't suspect that he was going to commit suicide."

"No; but how he raved at me! His curses have sounded in my ears ever since."

"Have you told your boss of your fears?"

"No."

"Well, don't say a word to any one. You are simply off your nerve. The suicide may have cursed, but he was in agony and didn't know what he said. If you wait for a dead man to pull your bell, you'll die a very old man. Get yourself a brandy and brace up."

He drank a stiff dose and was the better for it, but before I went away he made a singular request. My trick at the office was up at 12 o'clock. The drugstore always closed at that hour. He wanted me to be with him over the midnight hour. I tried to laugh him out of his idea, but when I found him earnest and even apprehensive I fell in with it.

Every night for several weeks I reached the store at about 12:20 and remained for an hour. Now and then he had a call after I got there, but it was seldom we were interrupted. We never talked of the suicide after the first night. I realized that it was a disagreeable subject and one to be avoided. In fact, we had very little to say on any subject. My friend was nervous and preoccupied, and some nights he walked the floor and hadn't a word to say, while I sat reading a family almanac or brushed up on my Latin. It was a mystery at first—a mystery and a novelty.

As time passed, however, it got to be a bore, and I determined to draw out of it. My first move was to be fifteen minutes late. I found the clerk pale with fear that I would not put in an appearance at all. I made excuses about extra work at the office, and after four or five nights I skipped the store entirely. Dropping in next day, I found the man so upset that he would not trust himself to fill a prescription.

"You did not come last night," he whispered to me, "but he did. Yes, he came and rang the bell at midnight, and had I answered it he would have taken my life."

I laughed at him, and I think he felt a bit braver when I went away. I had to give him my solemn promise that I would be on hand that night, however, and I really meant to keep it. I was about to leave the office when I was detained by the nonappearance of the man who was to relieve me, and it was half past 12 when I reached the drugstore. I rang the bell in a peculiar way, as had long been understood, but there was no answer. I rang again and again, but with no better success. Then I happened to notice that the store door was slightly ajar. I pushed it open and called. No one answered. Then I felt for a match and struck a light and stepped in and turned up a gas burner. At my feet, lying on the floor on his back, with his knees drawn up, his tongue out and his eyes open, was my clerk. After a glance about the store to see if any one was lurking I ran out for a policeman.

"Dead," he said as he bent over the man on the floor.

"He may be in a fit," I replied.

"It's no fit. He's been flung down here and choked to death. Look at the marks on his throat.

"Some one rang the bell and got him up and then attacked him. He wasn't hit, but the murderer clutched him by the throat and choked the life out of him. See the look of horror on his face, the terror in his eyes! Why, you'd say he was looking into the face and feeling the clutch of a dead man!"

"At the hands of some person unknown" was the verdict of the coroner's jury, and I kept silence. Of what use for me to say that the assassin was the suicide who had sworn revenge; that he had come down the silent and deserted street with noiseless footsteps and pulled the bell—given my own signal, perhaps—and as the door was opened he had flung himself upon his victim and held his clutch until life went out? They would have sneered and ridiculed and jeered me.

If sufferers from kidney disease would remember that the diet plays as important a part in the treatment as medicines, much would be gained. A glance at the reason for this will be sufficient to convince the laymen why it is so.

If we bear in mind the fact that the kidneys are the great agents in the work of excreting the waste from the body, it need hardly be pointed out that if these organs are unable fully to perform their functions an accumulation of waste products must necessarily take place in the blood.

If this condition of overloading the kidneys is persisted in, the changes brought about in an organ already diseased will occur quickly and disastrously. As soon, however, as we have evidence to prove that the kidneys are laboring and are burdened by their work we must endeavor, says a writer in the Philadelphia Press, to remove the strain by regulating the diet, and one clear method is to limit and carefully select the food.

Another important thing in kidney disease besides the diet is the use of alcohol. It is very badly borne, and unless there is some urgent reason for its use it should not be taken.

Great care should be exercised in a hygienic way. Warm clothing, careful protection from cold, together with regular habits of living in every respect, should be the rule.

It may be said in general that simple drinks, such as plain water, toast water, barley water or the good old fashioned cream of tartar and lemon drink, are all useful to dilute the waste products of the kidneys. They should be sipped slowly and not gulped down in large quantities, and they should be taken between meals and not at mealtime, else they will frequently interfere with digestion and do harm instead of good.

Milk, perhaps, is the best food, and a simple milk diet is sometimes wonderful in restoring the strength of the kidney by allowing it to rest free from the irritating matter of other foods. Milk, however, when it enters into a mixed dietary does not always agree well and hampers the digestion of other foods. A purely milk diet generally suits young people, and its employment for a time is followed by an abatement of the symptoms.

It is remarkable how long a diet exclusively of milk can be maintained in the case of those with whom it agrees. I have known people to adhere to it for years, while leading active lives, with marked benefit to their health.

Heat Without Fuel.

A dispatch from Indianapolis says that Emmet Greenfield, a molder employed at Evansville, says that he has discovered an energy which will revolutionize mechanical power and solve the problem of fuel and heat for all time. By a simple device like an electric battery, the construction of which remains his own secret, he says he can extract energy from the rays of the sun and transmit it to motors for mechanical power or to stoves and furnaces for heat. He says he has a successfully working model of the battery, which is especially adapted to producing intense heat for smelting purposes.

Reanimating the Dead.

In a dispatch from Moscow the correspondent of the London Daily Mail says that a Dr. Koulatke has succeeded in his experiments in reanimating the heart of an infant which he had extracted from a child who had died twenty-four hours previously. The heart beat with normal regularity for one hour. Dr. Koulatke hopes that his discovery will assist in reanimation in cases of death by drowning.

A Marvel of Science.

During a visit to the south with an eclipse expedition some years ago an eminent American professor met an old negro servant whose duty it was to look after the chickens of the establishment where he was staying. The day before the eclipse took place the professor in an idle moment called the old man to him and said, "Sam, if tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock you watch your chickens you will find they will all go to roost."

Sam was skeptical, of course, but when at the appointed time next day the sun in the heavens was darkened and the chickens retired to roost the negro's astonishment knew no bounds. He approached the professor in awed wonder. "Massa," he asked, "how long ago did you know dat dem chickens would go to roost?"

"Oh, a long time," said the professor airily.

"Did you know a year ago, massa?"

"Yes."

"Then dat beats de debil!" exclaimed the astonished old man. "Dem chickens weren't hatched a year ago!"

No Laundries In China.

"It's the funniest thing to me," said an old sea captain who for many years was in the China trade, "that nine out of every ten Chinamen who come to this country open laundries and engage in a business which does not exist in their native land.

"As every one knows, the Chinese at home wear soft cotton and woolen garments, according to the season, and there is not a pound of starch in all China. Stiffly starched clothes are unknown, and the Chinese men do not do the washing as they do in this country. Neither is there any regular laundry in the Flowery Kingdom. Therefore it is more than passing strange that Chinamen should all come to America and engage in a trade so foreign to their home industries."—Baltimore Sun.

Disguised Hands Always Bad.

"Here is a truth," says a handwriting expert in the Philadelphia Record, "that is as widespread as the ether: A disguised hand always tries to be poorer than the real hand. That axiom is a great help to us experts. For instance, when a letter done in a disguised hand is brought to us we always know that the writer of the letter is in a higher station than the hand would lead us to infer; hence in our detective work we are able to save much valuable time by eliminating all persons socially below the appearance of the letter and concentrating our attention on those only who are above it."

Astounding Memories.

Horace Vernet is the best example of visual memory. He could paint a striking portrait of a man, life size, after having once looked at his model. Mozart had a great musical memory. Having heard twice the "Miserere" in the Sistine chapel, he wrote down the full score of it. There are soloists who during twenty-four hours can play the composition of other masters without ever skipping a note.

A Difference.

"Actors are not much like ships," remarked Hamlett Egg thoughtfully.

"Why this observation?" inquired Brutus De Trick.

"Well," answered Egg, "ships are sometimes stranded on the rocks. Actors are stranded because of a lack of rocks."—New York Times.

Parental Discipline.

Nervous Parent—Stop that! Haven't I told you the last fifty times I had to correct you for that I wouldn't speak to you again about it?—Los Angeles Herald.

By a series of elaborate experiments a scientist has come to the conclusion that bees are not so intelligent as house flies.

We seem to be getting on familiar terms with neighboring worlds, says a contributor to the columns of the London Globe. With Mars and its intricate system of canals, if not its actual inhabitants, thanks to the delicate investigations of late years, everybody is pretty well acquainted. Now Herr Arendt, who is a German and therefore not a trifler, announces the discovery of mountains on Venus.

To observers hitherto the planet has seemed wrapped in an impenetrable envelope of cloud, which, when near the earth, is the cause of its astonishing brilliancy, but Herr Arendt, who has had the instruments of the Urania observatory at Berlin to work with, considers that he has detected markings on Venus which indicate the presence of great elevations seen from time to time through the clouds surrounding it.

Novel as the suggestion is, it is but a revival of an old idea. Long ago Schroter fancied he saw evidence of mountains on Venus in the raggedness of the terminator—that is, the line where light and shade meet, such as the inner line of the crescent moon. He went so far as to measure them and announced that they were twenty-five miles high. But then no one believed him.

Markings have been noticed on the bright planet from very early times, from which it was concluded that it rotated in about twenty-four hours, its day being the same length as our own. Herr Arendt's observations point to the same results, in direct contradiction to Schiaparelli's famous theory that Venus, held by tidal influence, always turns the same face to the sun, as the moon does to the earth.

Brackett for Soule.

Senator Brackett of this district is already prominent in State House affairs. The Journal says he is unequivocally for Senator Soule for president of the Senate. This statement is authorized. Senator William A. Nye still stands by his first love. It is a funny situation. A very ardent friend of Senator Soule insists that he will yet be President of the next Senate, and there you are. At all events the present outlook is sufficient to put great zest in the Republican Senatorial caucus to be held at the State House on Tuesday evening, Jan. 6, two weeks from to-night.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and the results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take and both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

As a Christmas gift, Pattee's History of Quincy would be appreciated by many. For sale at counting room of the Daily Ledger for $3.50.

BURN ASHES.

Will Reduce Coal Bill Nearly One-Half.

Perfect Success Says A Clergyman.

But Directions Must Be Followed Very Carefully.

Rev. William W. Shene, a clergyman of Chelsea, contributes the following valuable information which will "help out" during the shortage of coal and during future years that all may get square with the coal barons. Writing to the Chelsea Record he says:

Mr. Editor: Permit me, through the columns of your paper, to give to the citizens of Chelsea the benefit of my experience in the saving of coal, which, at this time, is a supreme consideration. It is the Methodist, you know, who tells his experience. He tells what he knows. It is no guess work. So, if what I have learned by actual test, in this saving of coal, can be of any benefit to my fellow citizens of Chelsea I shall have my reward.

Not long since a certain individual was apprehended for advertising how to make fire from ashes without coal. He was right in part. Coal enough is needed to make ashes, and to keep the ashes going. How can this be done? In order that there may be no disappointment, it is necessary that my directions be strictly followed out. Those who fail to do so have no recourse, if they fail.

Last year a hint in a Western paper gave me the clue to the idea that I could burn the ashes that came from the furnace. There were but few lines, but the information furnished stated that forty-five per cent. of coal was saved by the process. All that I got of the method was that a mortar was to be made of the ashes, and this is to be put on the hot coals, for the depth of six inches. However, the hint was enough to cause me to make a trial of it. My first efforts were most forlorn. And herein may others benefit from my experience. That I at last succeeded in making the idea work, by various experiments, is enough.

That others may know the cause of my first failures let me state the result that attended the experiment I secured a box and shoveled the ashes from the furnace into it. Had a hot bed of coals. Put the ashes mixed with water upon it. The elements of water in the ashes separated, and a heavy hydrogen flame flashed out of the furnace door. To this unexpected conflagration I gave my eyebrows, and some of the hair that was left on the top of my head. But the ashes burned magnificently for about twelve hours. Then, when I went to renew the fire, I found that it had cooled, and one great clinker filled the coal pit. Here was trouble. It was with difficulty that I succeeded in breaking up the fused mass.

At length the furnace was cleaned out, and a new fire going, while feelings of disgust warmed against the hint taken from the paper. However, the sight of those ashes burning during the twelve hours so nicely gave me the inducement to try on. After a week's struggle I succeeded in bringing beautiful order and perpetual warmth through the use of the ashes, saving during the winter about one half of my usual coal bill.

This year, in a much larger furnace, the experiment of consuming the ashes is a perfect success, as anyone will see, who may wish to visit the parsonage at 162 Walnut street. Only those who use furnace are addressed in this communication. People who use coal stove burners, if they hazard any experiments on my unvarnished tale, must tell no tale of woe at my expense. Directions.

1. Secure a box two and a half or three feet long, fourteen inches or more wide and eighteen inches deep, and have it zinc lined so that it will not leak. Shovel the ashes into the box, direct from the furnace. (Do not let any red hot coals come into contact with the zinc. Melting of the zinc will result if they do.) The ashes need no sifting. Slate and slag alone need to be picked out and thrown away. Pour on water until the ashes are thoroughly saturated. I soak mine until water is seen at the surface.

2 Now to begin. Let it be in the evening, when the men are home from work, for women are not supposed to do this job. Let there be a full, strong fire of live coals in the furnace pit, with the grate clear of ashes. Shovel on the mortar made of ashes and water, from the box, till there is a depth of from four to six inches. When the ashes are put on the water should be allowed to drain off so that it does not run much from the ashes when they strike the coals. Keep away from the door of the furnace anything that will burn, in case the flame should flash out. This application of ashes will be found to last all night. Regulate the furnace just the same as for coal, with the exception that there should not be too much damper turned, in order that the gas be not forced into the rooms that are heated.

3. In the morning, when the ashes are well burned through, but before they are clinkered and while yet white hot, take the poker and tear the mass up, till no opportunity is given for clinker. Have the ashes well shaken or cranked out of the pit, so that the live coals rest upon the grate. Put on a hod more of fresh coal. Let this become quickened, or, if there is already a very hot fire, the ashes for the day can be put over the hod of fresh coal. Let the ashes be prepared, as for the night before, and put on in the same way, four to six inches being about the right distribution. This application will run the furnace all day, till the time for fixing it again at night.

A word as to the kind of coal. It must be adapted to the size of the furnace. The large furnace coal, mixed with smaller nut coal, is the ideal combination—all of it anthracite, to work with ashes mortar.

My suggestions carefully followed out, with such manipulation as experience will supply for each furnace, will give a more steady heat, better fire, more permanent keeping power, and greater satisfaction, than if coal were used alone. Among the specific benefits derived are:

1. Less attention to furnace, and the danger of furnace going out reduced to minimum.

2. No ashes to sift, or throw away, much less thinking that so valuable a material may be carted off by the city.

3. All ashes consumed, and those consumed constituting the better portion of the fire, the coal serving as kindling.

4. The burning of water as fuel. Two ordinary pails of water will be used each day, if not more, to an ordinary house furnace.

It will be found that the water in the ashes is separated into its elements, the hydrogen burning as a gas, and the oxygen uniting with the carbon. A fused mass of the most fiery and permanent heating material is formed. With the oppressiveness of the coal situation upon us, let water be brought to our aid. In days to come it will be used with far greater intelligence, and there will be increased means of meeting with comfort the stress of such times through which we are passing, known as the coal situation.

St. Mary's base ball club will hold a ball at St. Mary's hall January 15.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

Pilgrimages Almost Daily to the City of Presidents.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACE JOHN ADAMS.

Franklin street, Quincy Adams, house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

BIRTHPLACE JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.

Junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams. At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Janitor can be found at Savings Bank building or at his home Maple place. No fee charged, but janitor may be paid for his trouble.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Private house, not open to public.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished; also the big ship yard now established at Quincy Point.

ONLY TEN SURVIVORS

Details of Sinking of Schooners Palmer and Crary

MATE PERHAPS AT FAULT

For Collision Which Resulted In the Loss of Eleven Lives and Indescribable Suffering of Those Who Were Able to Withstand the Weather

Boston, Dec. 23.—Almost crazed from their sufferings, frostbitten and helpless, 10 men in a small boat were picked up by the schooner Manhassett on Sunday 45 miles off Highland Light. Then, for the first time, it was learned that schooners Frank A. Palmer and Louise B. Crary had been in collision and that both had sunk off Thatcher's island on Wednesday evening.

The survivors of the tragedy were landed here yesterday. Of the 21 men who made up the two crews, six were carried down when the two vessels sank. Four died during the terrible three days' drift in Massachusetts bay, while still another became insane and jumped overboard.

With no food or water, their clothes frozen in solid masses, their little boat steadily driven before a bitter gale out into the Atlantic, and their comrades dropping away one by one, it seems wonderful that so many managed to survive.

The two schooners were both fine boats and both being heavily loaded with coal were making every effort in the teeth of an adverse gale to gain Boston harbor. Each had been held back for some days in Nantucket sound by head winds, and so when late Wednesday afternoon they managed to double Cape Cod, a strong northwester had no terrors for either skipper. Sheets were flattened for the beat of 40 miles across the bay, each vessel making for a lee under the Cape Ann shore. When within 20 miles of Thatcher's island late Wednesday night the two vessels, which had been splitting tacks, came round and headed toward each other, the Crary holding north on the port tack and the Palmer south on the starboard tack and therefore having the right of way.

The survivors are inclined to lay the blame of the accident on J. E. Smith of Portland, Me., mate of the Crary, who had charge of the deck at the time and who went down with the ship.

Either he or his steersman thought that he could weather the Palmer, coming plunging along from the north, but as in other similar accidents the calculation was erroneous. The Crary, with all the weight of nearly 4000 tons of coal back of her, crashed into the bow of the Palmer. The cut was deep, and it was seen instantly that there was no hope for either vessel. Most of the small boats were smashed and some of the men killed by the collision, but others of both crews launched the longboat of the Palmer, into which clambered the captains of both vessels and 13 others. There was not a moment for storing food or water in the small boat and the rowers had propelled it only a short distance from the schooners when the Palmer went down, seven minutes after the accident. Three minutes later the Crary disappeared.

Without food and water, drenched to the skin, spray freezing to their garments because of the bitter cold, the 15 survivors underwent sufferings indescribable. Four men of the Crary succumbed, for despite the efforts of their captain to rouse them to action and prolonged life they lay down in the bow of the boat, and Friday night they died.

Eleven remained up till Saturday night, when Franz Banta went insane, and, under the delusion that his mother beckoned to him, he walked into the sea. The others were powerless to restrain him.

Shortly after this the two captains decided that the bodies of the four dead men should be consigned to the deep. They were all in the bow of the boat, and bending over them Captain Potter of the Crary repeated as much of the burial service as he could remember. Then the strongest of the survivors gently slid them overboard.

In the three days and a half that the men were afloat, their little boat drifted steadily off shore until at 8 o'clock Sunday morning it was 55 miles off Highland Light. There their sufferings were mercifully ended, for a bright seaman in the fishing schooner Manhassett caught a glimpse of the tossing rowboat and within half an hour the 10 men were in the little cabin of the schooner.

Captain Malone at once crowded on all sail and headed for Boston. On the way up the harbor he managed to send word ahead of the condition of the rescued men, so when he hauled into the dock three ambulances were waiting on the wharf and carried the men, most of whom had their hands or feet frozen, or both, to a hospital.

Each vessel was practically new, the Palmer being only five years old and the Crary only three years off the stocks. The Palmer was the largest four-masted schooner afloat, while the Crary was one of the modern five-masters.

Away Above a Mile a Minute

Fort Wayne, Ind., Dec. 23.—The best record of long sustained speed on the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg was made yesterday in a run from Crestline, O., to this city. The distance of 131 miles was made in 123 minutes, including four full stops.

ENGINE TURNED OVER

"Flyer" Was Running Slowly or Result Would Have Been Disastrous

Keene, N. H., Dec. 23.—A small landslide on the tracks of the Boston and Maine railroad, at a point about four miles north of this city, wrecked the "Green Mountain Flyer" last night. Nearly all the passengers were shaken up, but the only ones requiring surgical aid were James J. Healey of Worcester, Mass., who is suffering from contusion of the spine, and John Nugent, also of Worcester, who has a broken ankle, in addition to bruises.

The express was made up of a milk car, a combination baggage and smoker, a day coach and a Pullman. The express was about 90 minutes late, owing to running slowly in view of Sunday's rain and yesterday's thaw.

At the point of the wreck the grade is a descending one. From a bank around which the train skirts, a slip of land had occurred over one track for a distance of some 20 feet. Engineer Miller saw the earth and applied the brakes, but, although the train was running very slowly, the momentum was too great. The engine ploughed into the dirt, finally canting over, and 50 feet beyond the cause of the trouble rolled down an embankment, bringing up on its back. Engineer Miller and Fireman Osgood clung to their seats until the engine rolled over, when they jumped to one side and escaped injury. The engine looks like a complete wreck. The milk car turned partly over on the other side of the track. The day coach started to follow the engine, but the wheels sunk deep into the bank and held the car upright. The Pullman kept on the roadbed, but the front wheels left the iron. None of the train crew was hurt.

Burned Out For Third Time

New York, Dec. 23.—Fire which started from an unknown cause in the seven-story piano factory of Ernest Gabler & Bros. last night did damage to the extent of $250,000. A panic ensued among the inmates of the New York Truant school directly in the rear of the factory. The 44 boys in the institution were removed to a place of safety by the police. This is the third time the firm has suffered from fire. Two hundren men are thrown out of employment.

Killed Son-In-Law and Self

Allentown, Pa., Dec. 23.—Frank Schmidt, aged 62, shot and killed his son-in-law, John Grigan, aged 25, last night and then killed himself. Schmidt's wife left him some time ago and sought refuge at Grigan's house. Grigan and Schmidt had a quarrel and Grigan was arrested for assaulting Schmidt. The case was heard last evening and the prosecution was dropped. Later the men met in the street and Schmidt committed the double crime.

Hail, Snow, Thunder and Lightning

Lima, Peru, Dec. 23.—A terrible storm of hail and snow, accompanied by thunder and lightning, occurred at Cerro de Pasco, 107 miles from here. Several persons were killed, much damage was done, there was a foot of snow in the streets and the temperature fell to 3 degrees below zero. Cerro de Pasco is situated 14,200 feet above the level of the sea. The population is about 14,000.

Wanted to Kill Her Babe

Waterville, Me., Dec. 23.—Mrs. Marshall Vigue was committed to the insane asylum at Augusta yesterday, she having been adjudged possessed of homicidal insanity. She made an attack upon her 4-months-old babe with a hammer. The child's skull is fractured and cannot live. The woman has been acting strangely for weeks, but at times realizes her condition.

American Capital In Mexico

Washington, Dec. 23.—Five hundred million dollars gold is the amount of American capital invested in Mexico by 1117 American companies, firms and individuals, according to estimates carefully prepared by Consul General Barlow, at Mexico City. Practically all of this amount has been invested within the past five years.

General Vaccination Suggested

Buffalo, Dec. 23.—Owing to the fact that a man who handles the mails upon arrival here contracted smallpox recently, and to reports of similar cases from other cities, Health Commissioner Green of this city suggests that all employes of the mail service be required to be vaccinated.

Death List of Twenty-Five

San Francisco, Dec. 23.—The death list of the railroad collision at Byron Saturday night was swelled to 25 last night. The railroad officials still decline to discuss the cause of the collision, saying the reports received by them are conflicting.

Exceptions In Blondin Case

Boston, Dec. 23.—A bill of exceptions covering nearly 30 typewritten pages was filed in the superior criminal court yesterday by counsel for J. W. Blondin, who was recently convicted in the second degree for the murder of his wife.

State Senator-Elect Murdered

Asheville, N. C., Dec. 23.—Zeb Wilson, recently elected state senator from Yancey county, was killed yesterday at Burnsville by his brother, Hiram Wilson. It is reported that they quarreled over the sale of a horse.

BACK of THE BURNT CORK

By Epes W. Sargent

"Sorry to disturb you, old chap, but I am to share this pen with you for the next two weeks." And Frank Hetherington regarded with unfeigned disgust the cubbyhole styled by courtesy a dressing room.

It was Hetherington's first season in vaudeville, and after a long run as leading man with one of the New York stock companies the facilities provided performers at the Apollo theater in San Francisco did not appeal to his somewhat fastidious tastes.

The person to whom he addressed his conversation was a fellow performer, evidently a minstrel monologist, since the white of his bare arm showed in glaring contrast to the reddish pigment which stopped half way down the neck, concealing his features as effectually as if he wore a mask. Hetherington had a winning manner with men and women alike, yet after a slight start at first sound of the voice the original occupant of the room gave no sign of recognition save a curt "All right" as he moved his makeup materials to give the other more space on the plain board shelf which ran along one side of the wall.

Hetherington lit a cigarette in direct defiance of the placard tacked above the electric light and was seated before the mirror, making up, before he attempted to renew the conversation. Silence irritated him, and it was more to break the monotony than to gain the friendship of his companion that he commenced to talk.

"As long as we're to share this box stall for the next two weeks we might as well know each other's name. Mine is Hetherington. I'm new to this end of the business, but have some small reputation in the east as an actor. I'm doing a sketch with Miss Phyllis Lancaster. Now that I've introduced myself may I ask"—

The monologist disregarded this invitation for a moment while he struggled with a pair of tight fitting green trousers. Finally, having adjusted the suspenders, he turned coldly with:

"I don't think there is much in a name. Mine is Brown—Phil Brown—if you want it for the programme. I fill in the stage in one while they're striking your set and getting ready for the acrobatic act to close with."

Hetherington carefully outlined his eyebrows with black crayon before he replied with a light laugh: "Brown seems rather funny for stage use when you can pick out a name to suit yourself. But it matches your makeup and is as good as any other to travel by. It seems to me that if you are going to follow me either I am beastly late or you are horribly early, and, by the way, I thought Glenroy followed our act."

"Glenroy was switched to Los Angeles, and they brought me down from the Chutes. Yes, I've been playing the Chutes and the free house, the Olympic, the past three weeks, yet—I think the manager remembers the time when my name was worth as much on an eastern programme as yours is now—but it wasn't Brown then."

By this time Hetherington was fully dressed, and with a careless remark that he trusted they'd get along well during the week he carefully stamped out the glowing end of his second cigarette and climbed the rickety stairs which led to the stage.

There was trouble with the setting for his turn, and in the excitement of straightening the matter out there was little time for conversation with his partner before the act opened. After taking their curtain call he went directly to his dressing room. He had promised to meet a party of friends at the Bohemian club, and Miss Lancaster, known in private life as Mrs. Hetherington, was going to the hotel alone. A brief kiss and a laughing promise to be home by morning had marked their parting in the wings. He had quite forgotten his curious roommate.

It was lonely enough in the dressing room now, for most of the performers who were quartered in that vicinity of the house were early on the bill, and no friendly lights shone from their rooms as he passed.

He had almost completed his toilet for the street when Brown came down from the stage, perspiration streaming from his face as the result of his exertions. Hetherington merely glanced round and promptly returned to the intricacies of a new tie. Suddenly his ear caught a sharp click, and he looked up in astonishment to see Brown locking the door and slipping the key in his pocket. Something in the tense pose of the monologist and the flash of his eye made Hetherington feel strangely nervous.

"I say, old chap, what's the matter?" he asked in carefully modulated tones.

Brown regarded him silently for a moment, then replied slowly:

"I thought that possibly you might like to watch me take off my makeup."

"Nonsense," returned the other sharply. "Washing up is no novelty to a performer of fourteen years' experience, and besides I'm in a hurry to meet some friends at the Bohemian club."

"Yes, so I heard you tell—your—your—wife."

Hetherington stood ready now, hat and gloves in hand. He was becoming impatient.

"Come, unlock that door."

Without replying Brown stripped off the gaudy shirt and placed it on the hook above the already discarded coat and vest. Below the short sleeves of his undershirt rose superb biceps, and there was something almost contemptuous in the glance he turned on the lighter and more elegant build of his companion.

"You will find, Hetherington," he said as he sat down in front of his glass and reached for the cold cream, "that even to the actor of fourteen years' experience there are times when the removal of a man's makeup is like tearing the veil from the long dead past."

Hetherington scowled and laid a determined hand on the doorknob. The other man, still calming rubbing cold cream on his face, spoke in cool, even tones:

"We are the only actors on this side of the house, the orchestra is making such a racket that nobody could hear you if you yelled, and I shall be under the painful necessity of smashing your head with a chair if you attempt to break that lock. Sit down, man! Sit down! I've been waiting five years for just this chance. I don't mean to lose it now."

Hetherington was trembling, though he made a strong bluff at self possession. Was this new roommate a drug fiend, or was it a case of temporary mental derangement? Perhaps Brown read the thought, for he smiled grimly and suddenly reached for the large Turkish towel. Under its vigorous treatment cold cream and pigment came off together. At the same instant he sprang to his feet. The two men stood face to face, but only for a few seconds. Then Hetherington, white to the lips, cowered against the wall and breathed heavily.

"Phil Henderson!"

"Right you are! I thought you'd remember—when the cork came off. No; don't touch that door." This as Hetherington made a feeble attempt to rattle the doorknob. "We're going to talk this over. Let's see; it was five years ago, wasn't it, that you stole my wife? Yes, stole; that's the word! She was happy enough with me till you came. I don't believe she's been as happy with you. I don't believe she ever loved you." The cords in his neck were swollen, and the words came thick and hard. "It was her professional pride you appealed to. The prospect of a New York opening turned her head and made her forget how—how—I loved her. You've had five long years of happiness that belonged to me, and—now you're going to pay for them."

A look of piteous appeal came into Hetherington's eyes, but no word passed his lips. Brown looked down upon the crouching, cringing form.

"I shall have to tell the doorkeeper you went out through the front of the house. As for your wife—your wife and mine—she will not look for you till morning, and by that time I'll be safe on the Pacific Mail steamer on my way to Australia. The world will never know, unless she tells, what caused your"—

Hetherington, crouching closer and closer to the wall, moaned just once; then the man he had wronged was upon him. There was a sudden grip on his throat, tighter and tighter. The sound of a woman's voice seemed to float to his ear. A dainty feminine form passed as in a dream before his fast closing eyes, and then—blackness.

A few minutes later Brown, with the calmness of madness, picked up coat and hat. There under the narrow shelf on which were scattered makeup materials was stretched that grim and awful thing, but Brown did not see it. He turned out the light, locked the door from the outside and, placing the key in his pocket, climbed the rickety stairway and passed out into the night.

San Francisco and the whole Pacific coast were searched for the murderer of the handsome and popular leading man, and then the mystery of the Henderson-Brown murder gave way to a more exciting scandal, a huge railroad steal. A few weeks later, however, it was revived by word from Australia that a passenger on board the Pacific Mail steamship Light of Asia had gone violently insane when two days out from San Francisco and had jumped overboard. The name under which he had taken passage was Philip Henderson, but investigation of his effects proved that he was known along the Pacific coast as Philip Brown, a monologist. And while the world wondered and talked afresh of this mystery one woman knew.

Why the English Fight.

In his book "Pictures of Many Wars" Frederick Villiers tells of one occasion when he and a French traveler were guests of the Russian general, Skobeleff. The host, speaking of the Turks, said, "I wonder why these men fight like fiends?" "It's possibly their fanaticism, just as your men fight for holy Russia and the great white czar," said Villiers. "I suppose so," said the general, "and why do your countrymen fight, monsieur?" The Frenchman replied enthusiastically, "For glory." "Bravo! And the Englishmen, Mr. Villiers?" "Oh, my countrymen have the greatest incentive of all." "A greater incentive than glory? Impossible," said the Frenchman. "Oh, yes," said Villiers easily; "British interests, you know."

His Original Idea.

"Hi, there, but you can't get on this car with that bundle!" called a Fulton avenue car conductor to a man with a bundle almost as large as a bale of hay.

"But it's raining," protested the man.

"I know that."

"And it's been raining for two days."

"Yes, and it'll probably rain all day tomorrow as well. But that's got nothing to do with that bundle."

"But it has, you see. I've got 300 dry sponges here, and I'll sop most of the wet as we go along!"

The conductor was struck by the original idea and helped the bundle aboard.—Brooklyn Citizen.

THE PRINCESS LOUISE

Located In Geneva In Company With French Tutor

HER FLIGHT IS ACCEPTED

No Attempt to Be Made to Have Her Return to the Court of Saxony—She and Her Husband Possess Unenviable Records

Dresden, Dec. 24.—Advices from Geneva to the effect that the Crown Princess of Saxony is in Geneva with Professor Giron, a French teacher of languages, are confirmed. He is described as 24 years of age and of a "striking personality, with large, bright eyes."

All the theatres in Dresden are closed. The court of the fugitive princess has been dissolved.

When the crown princess left Salzburg, accompanied by her brother, Archduke Leopold Ferdinand, the princess went to Munich, where the French tutor awaited her. Her brother was also joined there by a beautiful Viennese woman and the two couples proceeded to Brussels and thence to Geneva.

It appears that when the crown prince returned recently to Dresden after his hunting accident in the Tyrol, he discovered secret correspondence exchanged between the princess and the French tutor, whose former relations with her created a scandal resulting in the tutor's expulsion from Saxony. Besides disclosing the couple's relations the letters revealed another scandal. Immediately afterwards the princess left her home and went to Salzburg.

King George and Crown Prince Frederick have decided to accept the estrangement of the crown princess and her husband as irreparable. They have made the cabinet privy to the circumstances of the princess' flight, as they view them, and a decree of divorce is talked of as a necessary sequence to the princess' resolution to leave the court forever.

This determination was announced to her husband early in November, after one of their frequent violent scenes. She confided her intention to separate herself utterly from the court and "all its wretchedness" to two or three of her intimate friends and discussed with them the impossibility of her longer enduring the artificial etiquette of the court and the "forced companionship of a man who was loathsome to her." What she complained of in the prince was his intemperance, his infidelities and, as her partisans affirm, his cruelty of disposition.

The crown princess' days at Salzburg were spent in controversy with her father and mother, who did not excuse her for a moment in her mad desire to leave her position and family. Her brother, Archduke Leopold Ferdinand, took his sister's part.

The circumstances of the princess' flight are still obscure here and no further reliable news is available. The only fact that seems clear is that the king and crown prince are in communication with her, but it is learned that she is absolutely intractable.

The crown princess had a lively Viennese manner. She was independent and high-spirited, and was inclined to ridicule the observances of the little Saxon court, which takes itself most seriously.

The whole of Archduke Leopold Ferdinand's career is redolent with scandal, dating from the time when he started to accompany the heir to the throne on a tour of the world. He only got as far as Colombo, where he was obliged to leave the ship on account of his scandalous behavior.

The archduke intends to take the name of Leopold Woelfling. Beside formally renouncing his rank and dignities as a member of the imperial house, the archduke has returned all his orders and decorations and has resigned his commission in the Austrian army. It is expected that he will marry his Viennese companion. His relatives prevented him from taking this step morganically several months ago. The archduke was at one time secretly betrothed to Donna Elvira, the second daughter of Don Carlos, who eloped with Count Filippo Folchi in 1896. He is regarded as weak mentally. He professes extreme radical and almost anarchistic views.

It is reported here that the crown prince's recent accident, ostensibly the breaking of one of his legs while hunting in the Bavarian mountains, near Salzburg, was an invention, the fact being that he had a fight with his brother-in-law, Archduke Leopold Ferdinand, and the crown prince was so badly handled that he had to take to his bed and return to Dresden so soon as he was able.

The Saxon ministers say the affair is definitely closed so far as the Dresden court is concerned. The letters of the crown princess have been seized. She is expected to give birth to a child in May.

POISONOUS POWDER

Sprinkled Over Candy Sent by Mail to a North Adams Woman

North Adams, Mass., Dec. 24.—Mrs. C. N. Beers of this city recently received through the mail a box of candy, the appearance of which so aroused her suspicions that she did not eat any of it but submitted it to a local chemist for analysis. His examination has shown that the candy was covered with a poisonous powder. The police have been working on the case, but decline to give out any information.

Mrs. Beers states that the package was delivered to her by the postman on his regular delivery, and that neither she nor any of her family can identify the writing. Neither do they know of any one who has any spite or ill feeling toward them, that would furnish a motive for sending the candy.

The postmark is so blurred that it is impossible to make out the place of mailing. Some of those who are investigating the case hold the opinion that the box was mailed in this city, although they decline to give their reasons for so believing.

Mrs. Beers is about 40 years old, and lives with her husband and daughter. She came here from Florida, Mass., about a year ago.

Lorenz Kept on the Move

Boston, Dec. 24.—Whatever opinion Dr. Lorenz may take home with him concerning America he cannot say that there is anything especially slow about Boston. Yesterday he put in a very busy day, holding two receptions, two clinics, was the recipient of a private supper, inspected the School for Crippled Children on Newbury street, put in three hours driving about the city and Cambridge, inspected the public library, the art museum, the Boston city hospital, the Massachusetts general hospital and Harvard college, went to the theatre, and caught the midnight train for New York city.

Bad Freight Smashup

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 24.—A coal train, consisting of an engine and 24 loaded cars, crashed into a shifting engine and platform car near the Bradford bridge in this city yesterday and the platform car and a box car were smashed to kindling wood, the front of the shifting engine was demolished and several of the train hands narrowly escaped death. Brakeman Smith was thrown 20 feet in the air and was badly bruised and shaken up. Engineer Wadleigh of the shifting engine was also badly bruised and shaken up. The damage to rolling stock will reach $3000.

Great Increase In Manufactures

Concord, N. H., Dec. 24.—According to the report of Labor Commissioner Carroll the value of manufactured products in this state has increased $8,503,477 over the previous year. This represents reports from 1454 manufacturing establishments. The growth of the cotton industry in Manchester is the most important single factor.

Cry of Milk Farmers In Concord and Vicinity

SLAUGHTER UNNECESSARY

Claim That Ninety-Eight or Ninety-Nine Percent of Diseased Cows Recover and In No Way Endanger the Life of Human Beings

Concord, Mass., Dec. 24.—There is a very deep-seated feeling here, which is hourly growing more intense, because of the wholesale slaughter of cattle, swine, etc., on account of the foot and mouth disease.

It may be said that this sentiment is deepest among some of the most conservative people, those who are generally the very last to find fault with official action. It is sufficient evidence that they are not sentimentalists or idealists to say that the principal ground upon which they base their protests against the government's action is that it is causing a wholesale destruction of valuable property. These people do not take exception to the adoption of drastic measures to stamp out this disease. The reverse is true—that they approve of such measures if rightly directed.

But right here is the crux of their protest—that, after careful investigation, they are able to arrive at no other conclusion than that a grievous mistake is being made in the general killing of whole herds of cattle. They quite agree that the first and most important task is to eradicate the disease. What follows? The cattle and premises are quarantined, the appraisers or other officials decide values, and soon the slaughtering begins. This the government appears to have decided upon as the proper course. In reality, however, before this becomes generally operative many cattle recover from the disease; yet the government says they must die. Statistics show that only from 1 to 2 percent of the animals which have the disease die. Ninety-eight or 99 percent recover, and would in a reasonable time regain their normal value.

The protestors believe that it is the wiser procedure to let the affected herd live, get well, as most of them surely will, eat up the food on hand, and then more calmly decide if it is wise to kill, of course keeping the premises duly quarantined. It is argued that, if the premises and contents can be so effectually fumigated or disinfected that they will be fit for new herds, the animals, after recovery, can be just as effectually fumigated or disinfected.

Careful inquiry shows that veterinarians are far from unanimous in favor of killing; in fact, the preponderance of opinion is the reverse. The thing to be considered is the welfare of society as composed of human beings. Many medical men say—and statistics uphold them—that the foot and mouth disease among animals contains almost no element of danger to humanity. Some go so far as to assert that there is not one thoroughly well-authenticated case where it has proved so.

Another ground of complaint is that there seems to be no uniformity of action among the government officials sent here. A few days ago all of a fine herd was killed, though the owner asked to be allowed to keep a part. A day or two later another large herd was killed, but only after the owner had been given the privilege of keeping some.

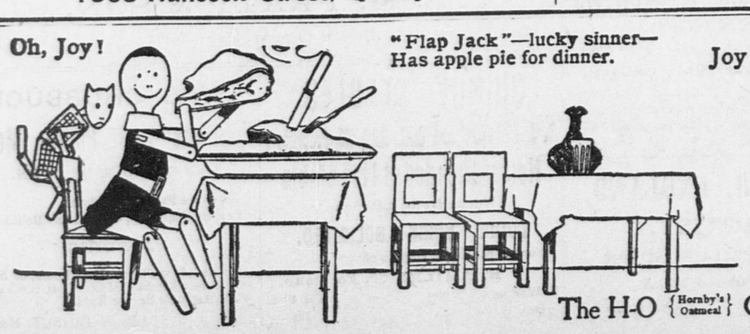

Thirty years ago the foot and mouth disease was prevalent here, and was stamped out without such drastic and uneconomic measures, and with but little harm to man or beast.

Cattle Disease Stamped Out

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Professor James Law, director of the Cornell Veterinary college, who has spent some time in conjunction with the federal authorities investigating the hoof and mouth disease among cattle in the eastern sections of the country, states that in his opinion the disease is now practically stamped out. The danger of another outbreak he regards as very slight.

Business Man Killed by Car

Taunton, Mass., Dec. 24.—Lewis Williams, one of Taunton's leading business men, was struck by an electric car last night and died on his way to a hospital. He was 62 years old, and was cashier and a heavy stockholder in the Staples Coal company. He also was connected with other large concerns.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Christmas day will be observed by the Daily Ledger as a holiday, the office of publication being closed all day. See Friday Ledger for holiday news.

Good Afternoon.

"I bring you good tidings of great joy which will be to all people." The birth of Christ brought joy to Heaven and earth.

Mayor Bryant and Chief of Police Hayden were prompt to make inquiries concerning the rumors relative to a policeman, but no one appears ready to back-up any charges.

A Boston paper quotes the prices at which coal is selling in Boston and 28 nearby cities. To the credit of Quincy dealers none are selling less than the Quincy price of $12 a ton delivered. Eight towns have none on hand. In Brookline coal is $15 a ton and cartage; in Dedham, $15 delivered; in Melrose, $13 and cartage. The Revere dealers frankly admit prices there, are governed by those of Boston.

But coal is selling in Portland for $10; in Marblehead for $9; in Halifax for $8; in New York for $7.50 and in Philadelphia for $6.75.

The strong points of the Quincy city charter are to be found in the proposed new charter for the city of Fitchburg. How similar to Quincy is the following:

The administration of all the fiscal, prudential and municipal affairs of the city shall be vested in an executive department, which shall consist of one officer, to be called the mayor, and a legislative department which shall consist of a single body, to be called the board of aldermen, the members thereof to be called aldermen, except, however, that the general management and control of the public schools of the city, and of the buildings and property pertaining to such schools, shall be vested in a school committee. The executive department shall never exercise any legislative power and the legislative department shall never exercise any executive power, except as is herein otherwise provided. The members of the board of aldermen and the school committee shall serve without compensation.

The following important referendum clause is provided with more than usual scope, as controlling large expenditures of money:

Every ordinance, order, resolution or vote of the board of aldermen which has received the approval of the mayor or which without his approval has been passed over his veto by the board of aldermen, or which has not been returned by the mayor to the board of aldermen within 10 days after presentation to the mayor, involving the estimated expenditure of $25,000 or more for the construction of any public building or specific municipal works before becoming operative and in full force, shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the city for their approval or disapproval thereof, whenever 10 per cent. or more of the qualified voters of the city shall in writing make application, therefor, as hereinafter provided.

Upon the approval of every such ordinance, order, resolution or vote by the mayor or the passage of the same over his veto by the board of aldermen, or upon his failure to return the same to the board of aldermen within 10 days after presentation to him, the city clerk shall forthwith prepare and place in his office proper papers for the signatures of the qualified voters of the city desiring to make application for a referendum upon such ordinance, order, resolution or vote, and said papers shall be open, at the city clerk's office, for the signatures of the qualified voters of the city, for a period of 10 days thereafter, excluding Sundays and legal holidays. If at the end of said 10th day less than 10 per cent of the qualified voters of the city have made application for a referendum thereon as above provided, such ordinance, order, resolution or vote shall become operative and in full force at noon of the following day.

But if within the said 10 days 10 per cent. or more of the qualified voters make application for such referendum as above provided, such ordinance, order, resolution or vote shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the city for their approval or disapproval. If a majority of the qualified voters of the city voting thereon approve such ordinance, order, resolution or vote, it shall become operative and have full effect from and after noon of the day following its approval by the qualified voters. If such ordinance, order, resolution or vote fails to receive the approval of a majority of the qualified voters of the city voting thereon, it shall not again be submitted to the qualified voters in the same municipal year.

Where a city has 5000 or more voters like Quincy and Fitchburg, it is extremely doubtful if 500 voters would in ten days visit the office of the city clerk and sign a petition for a referendum, so that the provisions for a referendum amount to but little. The percentage should be reduced to five or even three per cent. Mayors of Quincy have been elected by about 30 per cent. of the voters, and Councilmen by less than 5 per cent. of the voters.

For the Daily Ledger.

Grandmother's Christmas.

With a peaceful smile she greets the day
Her heart is full of prayer;
God has given her many Christmas Days,
And tendered her His care.

She thinks of the past, of happy years,
And the dear ones gone before;
Preparing a place for her with them,
And she does not wish for more.

On this day she misses their presence,
But feels they are happier there
In the Father's House, where none grow old,
And all is bright and fair.

She pictures the angels gathered 'round
The throne in white array;
Singing in melody soft and sweet
Of one by-gone Christmas Day,

Which was filled with gladsome tidings,
And glorified by His birth,
The little babe of Bethlehem,
The joy of Heaven and earth.

So she greets the day with cheerfulness,
A kind word and smile for all;
Content to live in His sacred love,
And ready to go at His call.

—M. A. CLEVERLY.

Tunneling Great Hill.

The work of tunneling Great Hill at Houghs Neck for the big sewer is being pushed forward rapidly. Four gangs of men are to work—one at each end during the day, and another at night; so the work goes on, day and night. Although last Monday the men were obliged to stop work for a few hours owing to the quantity of water in the tunnel, caused by the heavy rain Sunday night. The tunnel is about one-third dug, and is expected to be completed by spring.

A Shipyard Fails.

The William R. Trigg Ship Building Company of Richmond, Va., was placed in the hands of a receiver on Tuesday. The claims and liens already filed amount to about $150,000. The plant has built several torpedo boats, and is now completing a cruiser, the Galveston.

St. John's Day.

Wollaston lodge of Masons will observe St. John's day on Sunday, and Rural lodge of Quincy has accepted an invitation to attend services in the Wollaston Congregational church at 3 P. M. The address will be by the pastor Rev. Bro. E. A. Chase.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas Kilfoye was fined $3 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

James McCaulley was fined $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Herbert Arbel was arraigned for injury to a dog and for threatening to assault Mrs. Horton at Holbrook. He was fined $5 for injury to the dog, and discharged upon the complaint for threat.

B. M. Seelye was arraigned for assault on his wife at Quincy. He was put under bonds of $100 to keep the peace for three months.

☞Our custom of making gifts and all the other observances which have grown up and around Christmas and to which the hearts of the young cling so fondly, have much to commend them besides the momentary gratification of kindly impulses. Beyond all the benefit which the business of making and trading gets from this season we prize the rehearsing of the Christ story. The wonderment grows greater as the years pass. Childhood takes the precious narrative so eagerly and realistically. Why should not angels come from heaven and sing to listening shepherds? Have not angels always been near and dear to the heart of childhood, which has no difficulty in believing in them and can almost see and hear them at all times.—Exchange.

MILTON.

It is reported that there are some cases of the foot and mouth disease among cattle in Milton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McIntosh have gone to Washington for the winter.

The East Milton Congregational church Sunday school held its Christmas festival and tree at Tarbox hall Monday from 3 to 5 o'clock. There was an entertainment followed by distribution of presents.

Miss Ella Smith, a teacher in the schools at Longmeadow, is at home for the holidays.

A union service for men will be held at the East Milton Congregational church Sunday, Jan. 11.

The Sunday school of the Mission of Our Saviour church will hold its Christmas festival at Ellsworth hall next Tuesday evening.

Fred Walters, who has been visiting relatives in East Milton, has returned to Chicago where he is engaged in business.

Miss Mary Pearce of the East Milton post office is having a brief vacation.

Arrangements have been made for a course of three entertainments to be held at East Milton. The first entertainment will be given Jan. 14, by Elias Day the characterist; the second on Feb. 18, by the Boston University Glee club assisted by Percy L. Burrell, reader, and the third, on March 25, by Albert Armstrong who will give the dramatic picture plays "The Sky Pilot," which will be illustrated by stereopticon.

New President.

At the last meeting of Branch No. 129 of Letter Carriers the following officers were elected: President, John A. Welsh, of Atlantic station. Vice President, Richard Cole, of Atlantic station. Secretary, James Copland, Quincy office. Financial Secretary and Treasurer, Frank N. Benson, Quincy office. Trustee for 3 years, John D. Williams. Sergeant-at-Arms, John D. Williams. Collector of M. B. A., John J. Cunniff. Organizer and Clerk of Letter Carriers' retirement fund, Francis P. Loud.

The annual meeting and reunion will be held on the second Monday evening of January which is under the care of President John J. Cunniff, Frank N. Benson, John McGowan and John A. Welsh.

Where Independence Began.

Quincy people are reminded that this interesting book by Daniel Munro Wilson contains among its numerous illustrations several from early sketches (1822) of the "Birthplace of the Presidents," the old Adams or Vassall mansion, and a view of the town looking north from Presidents Hill which alone are well worth the price of the book. On the other hand the city of today is not neglected, one chapter being devoted to "Rambles about Quincy" which introduces many pleasant features. The reasonable price at which the book may be obtained locally from George W. Prescott & Son, ($2.00) makes it a welcome addition to one's list of holiday gifts.

Fatal Quarry Accident.

John Spain, Jr., aged about 18 years, and residing at 11 Connells avenue, was severely injured Tuesday afternoon at the Blue Hill quarry, and later died at the City Hospital.

It appears that men were at work clearing off the top of a ledge when one of the large stones became loosened and rolled onto the young man. He was knocked down and the stone rolled over him. He did not appear to be seriously injured but the police ambulance was called and he was removed to the City Hospital. There his injuries were found to be serious and he died late in the evening.

Christmas Mail.

Postmaster Hammond intends that all packages and letters received up to Christmas morning shall be delivered if possible. He will therefore put on several extra carriers Christmas morning. The post office will be closed between 10 A. M. and 5 P. M., and there will be one collection and one delivery in the morning.

NOT REMOVED.

The Cattle Quarantine Is Stil On in Quincy.

It was stated in Tuesday's Ledger that Quincy has been released from the quarantine placed upon it by the Cattle Commission. The fact is that Quincy is still under quarantine, and will probably remain so for several weeks.

Dr. E. P. Henderson, the local inspector of animals, when seen by a representative of the Ledger this morning, stated that the quarantine had been removed from the stables that had been under quarantine but not from the city, as danger of infection had not passed.

The removing of the quarantine from the stables led to the report that it had been removed from the city. No person is permitted to drive cattle or swine through the streets of Quincy without a permit.

Dr. Henderson further said that the quarantine would not be removed from the city for two or three weeks.

Rev. Mr. Wilson's New Book.

In order to accommodate the many friends in Quincy and Braintree, the Rev. D. M. Wilson's new book "Where American Independence Began," has been placed on sale with George W. Prescott & Son. This book is published by Houghton & Mifflin which is sufficient guarantee of the excellence of the work. It contains over fifty fine photographs and is really the most attractive book about Quincy ever issued. The price is $2.00.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

☞ As a Christmas gift, Pattee's History of Quincy would be appreciated by many. For sale at counting room of the Daily Ledger for $3.50.

Christmas Festival.

As in past years, the Alliance of First Church held a Christmas festival in the chapel on Monday afternoon for some of the poor children of the city. There were fifty present, but not as many mothers as usual, the hard times and other duties calling them elsewhere.

Miss Jane Reed and Mrs. Helen Dewson Stone amused the children with games, after which there was a supper of oyster stew, sandwiches, milk and oranges.

Owing to Santa Claus being busy, he sent his son to distribute the presents from the tree, which was beautiful with tinsel ornaments, frost and colored electric lights. Each child received a gift and candy. It was an afternoon of enjoyment, not only for the little ones but for the ladies of the Alliance who planned and carried out the party, and gave the children a little of their Christmas cheer.

TO ARBITRATION BOARD

President May Leave Settlement of Venezuelan Trouble

UNFAIR "CALVO DOCTRINE"

Which Is Adhered to by Latin-American Republics Will Be Put to a Crucial Test—Opposition to Referring to The Hague Tribunal

Washington, Dec. 24.—The cabinet spent its entire meeting yesterday in discussion of the Venezuelan situation. Views for and against the president's acceptance of the invitation to arbitrate were debated.

The meeting was prolonged to more than two hours. The president denied himself to all callers and remained in consultation with the secretary of war until the arrival of the other members.

Secretary Hay brought to the meeting practically nothing new relating to the situation. No response had been received to the president's original suggestion to the powers that they consent to the reference of the Venezuelan controversy to the arbitration of The Hague tribunal, and no formal request has been received that the president act as arbitrator of the difficulty. That such a request will be received formally and officially is now practically assured. It is known that the president and all of the members of his cabinet at first preferred that the whole vexatious question should be referred to The Hague tribunal.

It is understood that the president's plan, if he determines to arbitrate, contemplates the appointment of a board of arbitrators. He would not confide this important undertaking to any one man, nor does he feel able himself to spare the vast amount of time necessary for an examination in detail of each of the many claims that would be presented against Venezuela. Necessarily the president's arbitration board would include some member of a high order of legal talent, as well as others thoroughly versed in the practice of international law.

It is stated that the crucial point to come before the arbitration is the famous "Calvo doctrine." This doctrine, which was laid down by the greatest of Latin-American international lawyers and for many years has been regarded as beyond question by all of the Latin-American republics, denies the right of any nation to intervene diplomatically in behalf of one of its subjects, where the courts of the country are open to his application for justice. Thus, Venezuela has asserted that all of these claimants, British, German, Italian, French, might have gone before the Venezuelan courts, and if their causes had been just and so decided by the courts, the government would have paid the judgments.

The objection to this view is that no account is taken of miscarriages of justice and of racial antipathies, but so determined are the South American countries to adhere to this doctrine that some of them have gone to extraordinary lengths in their resistance of diplomatic efforts of foreign governments to secure justice for subjects.

A notable case is that of Salvador. Recently a United States corporation obtained, after arbitration, a judgment against the government of Salvador. The verdict was received with intense indignation in Salvador, and so intense was the anti-foreign feeling excited that a law has been passed within the last few weeks making it a criminal offence, and one to be heavily punished, for any Salvadorian to give any evidence whatever before any court in behalf of a foreigner claiming damages against the Salvadorian government.

This doctrine will be on trial before the arbitration and because of its vast importance, if President Roosevelt appoints a board, he will see that the members are men of the highest calibre.

It is known that now some members of the cabinet are opposed to referring the matter to The Hague tribunal for these reasons: In the first place they have no desire to submit the Monroe doctrine to the arbitrament of any non-American tribunal, not even excepting the august and eminently fair tribunal of The Hague. They very much prefer that if this doctrine is to be the subject of arbitration, if it is to be even brought in incidentally, that American influences shall pass on it. Not that the fairness of The Hague arbitrators is impeached, but as most of them represent European and monarchial interests, it is realized that their training may be regarded as unsympathetic where they are required to deal with such an essentially American subject as the Monroe doctrine. It is true that on its face the arbitration proposal contains nothing that indicates that this doctrine is to be attacked, but so complex and numerous are the questions which will come before the arbitration that it is apprehended here that the famous doctrine scarcely can be kept from consideration.

Another reason that animates these cabinet officers in this inclination toward acceptance is their conviction that an inordinate length of time would be consumed if the issue is taken before The Hague tribunal. The machinery is ponderous and difficult to put in motion. First these must be arranged a basis of arbitration; the arbitrator must be selected by the parties to the case and these in turn must choose an umpire of umpires, and while this is going on the blockade would continue with its ever present danger of active hostilities and bloodshed that might render nugatory all attempts at arbitration. On the other hand, if the president undertakes the settlement he can get rid of all red tape and start the work of arbitration within a few days.

COMMON SENSE AND CONSUMPTION

The treatment of consumption is every year becoming more successful. The majority of cases can be cured if taken in time. Not more medicine but more common sense is the cause of the improvement.

Fresh air, good climate, food, clothing, exercise, all these are important features of common sense treatment.

As a builder of flesh and restorer of strength Scott's Emulsion is still unequaled. The special action of Scott's Emulsion on the lungs is as much of a mystery as ever—but an undoubted fact.

Common sense and Scott's Emulsion is good treatment.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

Compelled to Leave LaGuaira

La Guaira, Dec. 24.—The Red D line steamer Caracas was compelled to leave port last night before she had unloaded more than two-thirds of her cargo. Lieutenant Commander Diehl of the United States gunboat Marietta tried to get an extension of a few hours' time so that she could finish unloading, but the allies would not consent. She is outside the harbor now and she is forbidden to enter port again. Objection was made to her passing through the blockade line yesterday morning, and it was only when it became evident that United States warships were ready to take her by force through the line that the Italian commander outside the port backed down. It is also announced that she cannot enter Puerto Cabello.

Predicts Early Adjustment

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 24.—Former President Cleveland, being asked his opinion on the Venezuelan situation, replied that he had nothing to say except that he thought the matter had been discussed pretty thoroughly already, and that the proper authorities would bring about an adjustment of the existing troubles at an early date. He declined to express an opinion of the suggestion that President Roosevelt act as an arbitrator in the matter.

Colossal Traction Scheme

Chicago, Dec. 24.—New York and Chicago capitalists are said to have joined to launch a scheme for an underground railroad combined with a new elevated railroad, the cost of the entire project to be from $51,000,000 to $55,000,000. Briefly the plan comprehends the construction of a tunnel under the down town streets, to connect with an elevated road to be constructed.

Jeffries on Monroe's Trail

Butte, Mont., Dec. 24.—J. J. Jeffries yesterday posted a forfeit of $1000 which he will pay Jack Munroe, amateur champion heavyweight of the Pacific coast, if he can stay four rounds with Jeffries in a battle for a knockout. Munroe secured the decision and $250 here last Saturday night by staying four rounds with the champion.

Cool Murder by a Woman

Jackson, Tenn., Dec. 24.—Miss Lizzie Hillhouse yesterday shot and fatally wounded a young man named Marsh. She called him from the dining table, seized him by the arm and with her disengaged hand fired six shots from a revolver into his body. Marsh was to have been married soon. He died last night.

Mrs Clark at Death's Door

Butte, Mont., Dec. 24.—Mrs. W. A. Clark, Jr., daughter-in-law of Senator Clark of Montana and mother of the newly born heir to the Clark millions, is not expected to live. Six physicians were in consultation at her bedside yesterday and a noted specialist is coming from Denver on a special train.

Charged With Killing Husband

David City, Neb., Dec. 24.—Lena M. Lillie was arrested last night, charged with the murder of her husband, Harvey Lillie, who was shot dead in his bed last October, supposedly by burglars. Mrs. Lillie was arraigned last night, pleaded not guilty and was admitted to bail.

Objection to Non-Union Man

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 24.—About 30 moulders and helpers in the iron foundry of William Highton & Son went out on strike yesterday because one of the brass moulders, a non-union man, was transferred to the iron department for a few days' work. It is believed that the trouble will soon be settled.

Her Life Crushed Out

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 24.—Mrs. Mary Gallagher, aged 40, was crushed between the bumpers of two freight cars while going home from her work at the Merrimac mills last night. The body was caught in such a way that it took a long time to extricate it. She leaves a family.

ALMOST A MURDER

Committed by Three Highwaymen For a Paltry Sum of Money

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 24.—Three highwaymen attacked George W. Blake, a book agent, 21 years of age, on the boulevard here, near the entrance to the West Boston bridge, last evening, robbed him of $18 and then, to cover up their crime, threw him into the Charles river.

About 7 o'clock Blake was met by three men, one of whom was a negro, six feet in height, who asked him for money. He replied that he had no change, but they declared he was a liar, and while the negro held him the other two went through his pockets. They took $18 in money and Blake's watch, but one of the men remarked that the latter would be a "give-away," whereupon it was thrown upon the ground and broken.

The three lifted Blake to the top of the four-foot stone wall that marks the outer boundary of the boulevard, and in spite of his struggles pushed him over into the river, 15 feet below. The men then took to their heels and all trace of them was lost.

Although terribly benumbed by the icy water and frightened, Blake was fortunate enough to get hold of one of the Humane society's ladders kept at that point for use in case of accident and dragged himself out upon the bank, where he fell exhausted. He was soon after found by a passing teamster and taken to the police station, where he related his story and was given restoratives and warm clothing, after which he went to his home.

Death of Archbishop Temple

London, Dec. 24.—Most Rev. Frederick Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury and primate of all England, who had been ill for some time past, passed away peacefully yesterday in the presence of his wife and two sons. The primate died of old age. He was born Nov. 30, 1821.

Three Men Badly Hurt

Highland Falls, N. Y., Dec. 24.—A collision between a work train and a through train on the West Shore road occurred at J. P. Morgan's private landing yesterday. Three men jumped into the Hudson river to save themselves. They were rescued with difficulty. Three Italian laborers were pinned under the wreckage and perhaps fatally injured.

Divinity Diploma For Morgan

Chicago, Dec. 24.—The directors of the Chicago Theological seminary have conferred upon Rev. G. C. Morgan of London, D. L. Moody's successor in the Northfield extension work, whose name is now being mentioned as Dr. Parker's successor as pastor of the City Temple, London, the degree of Doctor of Divinity as a Christmas present.

Port au Prince, Dec. 24.—General Nord, the newly elected president of the Haytien republic, took the oath to support the constitution yesterday. After this ceremony he attended services in the cathedral. On his way to and from church the president was greeted with acclamations.

Divorced by Death

New York, Dec. 24.—The death of George Wright, a horseman of this city, suddenly ended a divorce suit against him yesterday. While his wife's lawyer was making a motion for alimony a lawyer entered the court room and announced the death of the defendant.

Greek Steamer Lost

Constantinople, Dec. 24.—The Greek steamer Parthenon, having on board a crew of 22 men and six passengers, is reported to have been lost.

If the Difference

between Spring Wheat and Winter Wheat flours were generally known, no intelligent family, able to procure the former, would fail to do so. Flour is the article most frequently used in kitchens, yet comparatively few people know much about it. To most housekeepers flour is flour. Those who buy their bread, cake and pastry ready made, are still further away from knowing what they are eating. The standard flour of the world, made of Hard Spring Wheat, is

Porto Ricans Respect Dewey

San Juan, P. R., Dec. 24.—Admiral Dewey arrived here on board the Mayflower yesterday. Thousands of people thronged the wharf, public and private buildings were decorated and the forts fired a salute. The admiral was escorted to the palace by troops. A big reception was given last night by Governor Hunt in honor of the debut of his eldest daughter, Elizabeth.

Lorey Wants His Money Back

Indianapolis, Dec. 24.—The governor of Indiana has issued a requisition on the governor of Arkansas for George Ryan and J. H. Ashmore, indicted at Petersburg, Ind., on a charge of helping swindle Frank C. Lorey, the "Klondike King," out of $63,000 in a foot race at Colorado Springs.

Want Duty to Remain on Sugar

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 24.—The Michigan Sugar Manufacturers' association yesterday adopted resolutions protesting against the ratification of any treaty with Cuba which reduces the present tariff on sugar and notified the Michigan senators to that effect.

A Tugboat Disaster

Norfolk, Dec. 24.—While towing the barge Maple in the Elizabeth river last night, the boiler of the tug Lizzie Massey blew up and killed three of her crew, badly injured another of the crew, broke a leg of a man on the barge, and sank.

DOCTOR MAKES CHARGE

Says Patient Showed Symptoms of Poisoning

SAMPLED SOME MEDICINE

Found That It Caused Sickness, So Police Were Notified and Daughter of Sick Woman Was Placed Under Surveillance, Pending Investigation

Revere, Mass., Dec. 26.—Miss Catherine Richardson, 38 years old, living at the Morrison House, Revere, will be arraigned in the district court on a charge of administering poison to her mother, Mrs. Harley Richardson, with intent to commit murder. Miss Richardson was arrested Wednesday night upon information furnished the police by Dr. Eunice M. Kinney, a physician who was called to attend Mrs. Richardson.

According to the police Dr. Kinney detected symptoms that indicated arsenical poisoning and found that medicine other than that she had prescribed was being administered to the sick woman. The doctor, they say, in order to satisfy herself, drank some of the strange medicine and became sick, with all the symptoms she had observed in Mrs. Richardson. She accordingly reported the case to the police, who secured a warrant for Miss Richardson's arrest. When the officers went to serve the warrant they found the young woman in bed, sick with dyspepsia. No attempt was made to remove her, but an officer was stationed at the door. She is now much better.

The case is a puzzling one to the authorities, as it is understood that there seems to be but little evidence except that furnished by Dr. Kinney.

The Richardson family came to Revere from Littleton, N. H., last September, Mr. Richardson having died there two years ago. There was some litigation over debts against his estate, in which his life insurance of $12,000 figured. The money was left to the widow, Catherine, and a son, Harry, but owing to the litigation the mother, it is said, assigned the money to Catherine.

The police further state that some nine or 10 days ago Harry made a demand upon his sister for some money, and that since that time he has been sick.

Detective Dead and Murderer Dying

Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 26.—Chief of Detectives John Donahue was shot and killed on the street here yesterday by Frank Dougherty, a race track follower. Dougherty, it is claimed, had struck a woman with an axe, and as Donahue attempted to arrest him Dougherty shot the detective, killing him instantly. A boy who was in a buggy got out a gun and shot Dougherty in the face and breast. Dougherty then fired a shot in his own head. The doctors say he cannot live.

Brooklyn Firemen Killed

New York, Dec. 26.—Fire which broke out early this morning completely destroyed the large cooperage plant of the Arbuckle Bros.' sugar refinery in Brooklyn. One of the walls of the building fell, burying two members of one of the fire companies beneath the wreckage. Michael O'Toole was killed and Thomas Coppinger, a battalion chief, and Thomas McCarthy were seriously hurt, both dying later. The money loss will be heavy.

Froze at His Own Door

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 26.—George Plydell, aged 55, with his arms full of Christmas presents for friends and relatives, fell from exhaustion within five feet of his home and froze to death. Plydell lived alone in a shack near the harbor front, where he conducted a confectionery and cigar store. The thermometer has registered 20 below zero here for 24 hours.

Swift Vengeance

Pittsburg, Kas., Dec. 26.—Montgomery Godley, a colored man, was taken from the jail here yesterday and lynched by a mob because he had shot and killed Milton Hinkle, a policeman, a few hours before, while the officer was trying to protect himself against a crowd of unruly negroes.

Second Robbery of Postoffice

Asbury Park, N. J., Dec. 26.—When the postoffice at Allenhurst was opened yesterday it was found that burglars had entered it and blown open the safe. They secured $500 in cash and stamps. This is the second time in two months that the office has been robbed in a similar way.

MARLBORO'S GREAT LOSS

City Hall and Contents Destroyed by Fire, Causing $500,000 Loss

Marlboro, Mass., Dec. 26.—A fire which broke out in city hall at midnight entirely destroyed that building, which contained all of the city offices and departments, also the armory of Comany F., Fifth regiment, and the Marlboro public library. None of the contents or papers of any of the departments was saved. The library contained 25,000 volumes, and documents of incalculable value which cannot be replaced.

The building was a four-story brick structure and one of the finest in the city. It was valued at between $75,000 and $100,000.

The building was well covered by insurance. Owing to the wires being buried under falling walls, the city was cut off from telephonic communication with the outside world.

The fire is believed to have started in the city auditor's office, but its origin is unknown. Michael O'Brien, 40 years old, was buried beneath the falling walls and is thought to be fatally injured.

"Didn't Know It Was Loaded"

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 26.—Miss Begge Johnson, aged 26, was probably fatally shot Wednesday night by Peter E. Gergensen, aged 44, the affair occurring in the kitchen of a boarding house kept by Mrs. Maria Lilgegren. Gergensen said that he did not know that the revolver was loaded, and that when he placed it against Miss Johnson's head he did it only as a joke. He said he had never kept company with the girl and had simply met her as a friend at the boarding house, in which he had lived for 2½ years. The police are inclined to look on the shooting as an accident.

Father and Daughters Killed

New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 26.—David W. Grover was instantly killed and his daughter Bessie, aged 14, and another daughter, Clara, aged 18, were fatally injured in a collision of a passenger train with a buggy in which they were riding on a crossing near the North Dartmouth station Wednesday night. Bessie died on the train a few minutes after she was picked up, while her sister, Clara, died after having had both limbs amputated.

Dangerous Fooling With Revolver

Boston, Dec. 26.—As the result of fooling with a revolver, Mrs. Edith Jones was dangerously wounded and her husband, Charles, slightly injured yesterday afternoon at the house of Mrs. Jones' sister. Jones had a revolver in his pocket which his wife tried to secure and in reaching her hand to prevent her, the weapon was discharged, the ball passing through Jones' left forefinger and lodging in Mrs. Jones' right breast.

Boy Fatally Shot

Wilmington, Mass., Dec. 26.—Raymond Simonds, 11 years old, was instantly killed here, the lower part of his face being blown away. A pigeon alighted on the ridgepole of a house and as Harry Taylor, aged 12, raised a shotgun to fire at it, Simonds grabbed the end of the barrel and pulled it down. At this instant the hammer fell and the charge struck Simonds squarely in the face.

Jenkins Forfeits Championship

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 26.—Dan McLeod won the championship of America at catch-as-catch-can wrestling and the $1500 end of a $2000 purse here yesterday by getting the better of Tom Jenkins. Jenkins had a bad leg caused by blood poisoning, and the pain of this leg, caused by the points of a brass buckle entering the flesh, made him quit in the third bout.

No Further Investigation

North Adams, Mass., Dec. 26.—The local authorities who have been investigating the sending of poisoned candy to Mrs. C. N. Beers of this city have come to the conclusion that the case hardly warrants further investigation. The candy was so thickly covered with the poison powder that it could hardly deceive any one.

Used Knife on Brother

Malden, Mass., Dec. 26.—Edward Mahoney of Boston was arraigned here yesterday, charged with assault with intent to kill upon his brother, Timothy, at Wakefield, and was ordered to recognize in the sum of $5000 for a further hearing. Timothy has several knife wounds, two penetrating a lung.

Wandered Away From Home

Littleton, Mass., Dec. 26.—Active search has been made for S. W. Hartwell, an aged resident of this town, who wandered away from his home shortly after midnight Wednesday. Hartwell, who is 83 years old, has lived alone for some years. It is not expected that he will be found alive.

Her Clothing Caught Fire

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 26.—Miss Mira Strong, aged 46, one of the wealthiest women of this city, died last night as a result of burns sustained early yesterday. It is supposed Miss Strong went to the cellar to fix the furnace fire and that her night clothing caught fire from a candle.

Conry to Contest Election

Boston, Dec. 26.—Notice has been served on John A. Keliher by Congressman Conry of the latter's intention to contest Keliher's recent election to congress in the Ninth district. In his notice Conry charges fraud, forgery, repeating and illegal voting.

ACCEPTABLE TO CASTRO

Venezuelan Troubles May Go Before Hague Tribunal

A WASHINGTON SUGGESTION

Which May Result In Early Adjustment of Difficulties—Our Government, If Occasion Arises, Will Insist That Blockade Be Called Off

Caracas, Dec. 26.—President Castro has telegraphed fromm LaVictoria his acceptance of the proposal to submit all pending differences to the arbitration of The Hague tribunal, subject to certain conditions, which include cessation of the blockade and the return to Venezuela of the fleet seized by the allied powers.

President Castro's acceptance has been transmitted to the Washington government, from which the proposal emanated.

Washington, Dec. 26.—No confirmation could be obtained in Washington last night of the report from Caracas that the proposition had been made to President Castro that all pending differences between Venezuela and the European governments having claims against her be submitted to arbitration of The Hague tribunal. Secretary Hay had retired when the dispatch reached Washington, and no other official of the state department was able to give any information on the subject.

It is known that only two days ago President Roosevelt had not determined whether to accept the proposal of the allies to act as arbitrator, or to urge again that the question should go to The Hague.

If, as stated, the suggestion has come from Washington that the matter should be arbitrated at The Hague, that conclusion probably was reported at the long conference the president had with Secretary Hay Wednesday afternoon when the two officials were together for some time, considering the proposals from the allies that the president take up the question of the arbitration. The dispatch to President Castro, through Minister Bowen, suggesting arbitration at The Hague, must have followed that conference.

The officials here have refused absolutely to say anything on the subject since the receipt of the proposal from the allies, or even to give out anything bearing on the terms of that proposal. The impression here is that an early determination of the matter will be reached.

No matter by whom the matter is arbitrated, either by the president or The Hague tribunal, the feeling here is strong that the United States government, if the occasion arises, will insist that the existing blockade be called off while the arbitration is in progress. The presence of the blockading fleet along the Venezuelan coast is sure to be a menace to peaceful conditions, and differences of various kinds may arise at any time through the arbitrary action of some of the commanders of the ships of the allied fleets, or through the intrepidity of some skipper who may attempt to run the blockade. But the greatest objection to a continuance of the blockade pending arbitration will be the loss to American shipping interests, which this government does not believe should be tolerated.

The Hague Tribunal Disregarded

Paris, Dec. 26.—Baron D'Estournelles de Constant has written to Foreign Minister Delcasse, notifying him that the writer will interpellate the government on the reassembling of the chamber concerning the disregard of article 27 of The Hague convention shown by the allied powers in coercing Venezuela.

In his letter Baron D'Estournelles strongly supports the contention of the United States that the Venezuelan trouble should be referred to The Hague court. After pointing out that the between Spring Wheat and Winter Wheat flours were generally known, no intelligent family, able to procure the former, would fail to do so. Flour is the article most frequently used in kitchens, yet comparatively few people know much about it. To most housekeepers flour is flour. Those who buy their bread, cake and pastry ready made, are still further away from knowing what they are eating. The standard flour of the world, made of Hard Spring Wheat, is

Good Afternoon.

Christmas comes but once a year, and that is not the least of its blessings.

Santa Claus will but memories of good deeds well performed in the stocking of Dr. Lorenz.

The wish bone hasn't half as much magic in it as the pocket-book.

The Monroe doctrine is a policy of state, it is not a city of refuge for insolvent debtors.

It was a serious Christmas for the young city of Marlboro, which lost its City Hall, public library and probably a life by fire. We are again reminded how fortunate Quincy is in loss by fire.

So far as the Ledger is able to learn, few Quincy people were disappointed at yuletide. In gifts they generally received more than they expected. Because of storm, it was more than ever an occasion for family gatherings and good cheer.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The great traders, like the great poets and the men with twelve toes, are born so. They seem to have their place in the economy of nature, and it may be that they help civilization along, but they are strange creatures, and their careers which stir the vulgar to admiration, perplex the moralist not a little and fill the philosopher with continual surprise.—Life.

☞ One of these days, not so far distant, it is said that Gen. Chaffee may be made commander of the army. Chaffee is a genuine fighter and a real soldier of the old-fashioned business-like variety. And, as he doesn't make a specialty of speechmaking, he may be able to keep out of trouble with the higher authorities with more ease than has been the case with some of the commanders of renown.—Brockton Enterprise.

☞ The people of the United States of America have just presented Chicago university with $1,000,000. At least the purchasers of kerosene gave it to the Standard Oil company; the latter passed it on to Mr. Rockefeller, and he in turn to the Chicago institution of higher culture. As Swinburne once said: "Fiddle we know is diddle; and diddle, we take it, is dee."—Boston Transcript.

Big Contract.

The metropolitan water board has awarded the contract for Sec. 48 of the high level sewer at Quincy, for $241,000 to C. G. Belden & Co., the lowest bidder. The former lowest bidder was released, owing to an error in his bid. The work must be completed by Sept. 1 next, and the Belden plant is already on the spot, the firm having a contract on a section near by.

Verdict of $15,500.

J. E. Cotter and T. F. McAnarney as counsel, secured a verdict of $15,500 for Michael Fitzgerald of Boston, for damages on the Boston Elevated, Jan. 23, 1900, in the Suffolk Superior court on Wednesday.

J. H. Gillis drew the sleigh at the entertainment held last Tuesday evening.

XMAS FESTIVALS.

Held by Several of the Quincy Sunday Schools.

Presents Given to Institutions.

Other Christmas Festivals to Be Held This Evening.

Christmas was observed by the Sunday schools and institutions of Quincy fully as grandly as usual, and it was for most people a Merry Christmas.

QUINCY HOSPITAL.

The unfortunates at the City Hospital, although unable to celebrate Christmas day at their own homes, were not forgotten in the good cheer that characterized the day. In the afternoon the choir of Christ church were present and sang carols. Ice cream and cake were served to those who could partake of them. Friends also remembered the patients with gifts.

AT QUINCY HOME.

There was no special observance at the Quincy Home at Christmas other than an elaborate dinner, the menu being one selected by the inmates.

SAILORS' HOME.

The only observance of Christmas at the National Sailors' Home, was the serving of an extra big dinner, consisting of turkey and all the fixings.

BETHANY CHURCH.

There was a large attendance of the Sunday school and friends of Bethany church at the Christmas festival on Christmas eve at 6 o'clock, and everyone pronounced the entertainment the best ever provided. It was under the direction of Mrs. W. G. Shaw, with many willing assistants. A realistic chimney scene and elves and Santa Claus really appeared from out of the fireplace. The children of the family, the elves and even a snow-man sang, and carried on a conversation which pleased greatly. Walter C. Sampson was Santa Claus and Harry Bates the snow-man. Santa assisted in the distribution of presents, every pupil of the primary department being remembered, while everyone in attendance received a box of candy.

FIRST CHURCH.

The Sunday school of the First church had its Christmas festival Christmas eve. Miss Randall, superintendent of the school, had it in charge and the festival was very enjoyable.

The children gathered in the chapel at 6.30 and sang Christmas carols for half an hour. Then came the Christmas play arranged by Emery L. Crane. At its conclusion Santa Claus made his appearance and distributed presents from a tree.

Among the special gifts was a book to Miss Randall by the Sunday school, a purse of gold to Charles H. Johnson, from the teachers; and a purse of money to the pastor, Rev. E. C. Butler.

CHRIST CHURCH.

The Christmas festival for the Sunday school of Christ church was held Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. The exercises opened with a carol service and was followed by a brief address by Miss Emma Savil. Following this came the distribution to all the members of the Sunday school of the presents with which a large tree was loaded.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

The Universalist Sunday School will have its Christmas festival this afternoon and evening in the church vestry.

AT QUINCY POINT.

The Sunday school of the Washington Street Congregational church held its Christmas festival Wednesday evening, and a jolly time was had. A large tree, upon which were hung gifts for all, occupied a prominent place and was the centre of attraction for the young people. Before the presents were distributed there was an entertainment consisting of readings and music and a collation. Santa Claus then appeared and distributed the gifts

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

The Sunday School of the United Presbyterian church held a Christmas entertainment and festival Wednesday evening, which was followed by distribution of presents.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

There was a very large attendance Christmas evening at the festival of the Sunday School of the Swedish Lutheran church. The church was prettily decorated with many colored electric lights, and there were two trees loaded with candy, fruit and Christmas cards which were later distributed among the children. The entertainment consisted of a concert by the Sunday School.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The Sunday School of the Water Street Presbyterian church held a Christmas festival at the church Wednesday evening at 6.30. The program consisted of a concert by the Sunday School with special exercises by the primary department. The principal decoration was a large tree heavily laden with bags of candy and oranges which were distributed among the children.

WEST QUINCY M. E.

The Christmas festival at the West Quincy Methodist church will be held this evening, having been postponed from Wednesday evening.

AT WOLLASTON.

The children of the Wollaston Sunday schools appeared to take more interest in giving presents to the poor than in receiving on Wednesday evening. This was noticed especially at the Baptist and Unitarian churches.

The Wollaston Unitarian Sunday school little ones assembled at Knights of Honor hall at 5.30 and from then on until 7 o'clock participated in games and considerable romping and jolly good times.

At 7 o'clock the older ones united with little tots in their fun. Young ladies each with a sprig of holly marched about the hall very gracefully. Ice cream and cake were served and then everyone, after marching about the hall two abreast, inserted his or her gift for Morgan chapel, in a receptacle at the head of the hall. Until 10 o'clock dancing was enjoyed by all.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Space would not permit a detailed account of the Baptist concert, which was so interesting. At 7.30 the primary class marched from back of vestry and deposited in a stocking a little gift for Italion mission. Accompanied on piano by Mrs. Abbott, Masters Kneff and their sister Gertrude delighted all with their pleasing voices.

Mr. Abbott, from the balcony in rear of vestry, then announced that the unexpected mishappenings of Santa Claus and his deers had caused a delay, having been hindered on his journey at Montreal, New Hampshire and in Massachusests. After many thrilling experiences he arrived safely at Baptist church at 8 o'clock. His stay was short but he made a few remarks, and distributed boxes of candy to the little ones.

Mr. Capen, the real Santa Claus, left at 8.15 was relieved by members of Sunday school who then gave out the gifts which ladened two beautiful Christmas trees.

Before breaking up, a handsome solid gold locket was presented Mr. Albee by teachers of Sunday School. Rev. Mr. Webber and Mr. Mitchel were also remembered. The former with a beautiful black marble clock, and the latter with a $10 gold piece. All responded graciously.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

As usual at the Methodist church, a Christmas tree was held for the children. Mr. Bjorkman acted as Santa Claus, and a "Santa Claus Dream," a little Cantata, amused all.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

The Christmas entertainment at the Wollaston Congregational church Christmas eve was enjoyed by young and old. The program appealed particularly to the children. A group of songs from the St. Nicholas sung by Mrs. Alice P. Saxe was illustrated by children on the platform. Miss Beckwick carried her audience with her by clever recitations and Mrs. H. Y. Follett pleased all with several sweet songs. The presents were distributed by Superintendent Campbell and Horace F. Bates. Mrs. Chase received a handsome silver candlestick as a token of the esteem in which she is held by her Mission Study club members.

After the presents came the boxes of candy, enough for all.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S.

The children of the primary department of the Sunday School of St. Chrysostom's church are invited to a Christmas party, to be held in the parish rooms on Tuesday, Dec. 30, from 5.30 to 7.30 P. M. Miss Hamilton and Miss Sanger will take charge of the games and songs, and the Guild of St. Perpetua will help in serving the treat provided for the children.

There will be no session of the Sunday School next Sunday, Dec. 28, of St. Chrysostom's church.

General Debility

CHRISTMAS SNOW.

A Heavy Fall Prevents a "Green Christmas."

Many people dislike to have a green Christmas. That is a Christmas when the ground is not covered with snow. Such people therefore must have been greatly pleased Christmas day when it began to snow. The first snow that fell was a few minutes past eleven o'clock. It increased rapidy, however, and an hour later considerable snow had fallen. It continued to snow all day until late in the evening and at one time almost turned to rain. It was quite cold when the snow began but the weather moderated and the snow became heavy and lodged where it fell, the wind that accompanied the storm not being of sufficient force to cause any drifts. By night quite a little had fallen, and as it is packed down solid it may remain with us for a time.

Street railway traffic was but little interrupted, although the cars on some of the lines were a little late at times. By night however they were running on schedule time.

On the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. two locomotives were run on some trains.

Caught in Shafting.

John Page, the well known currier, met with a serious if not fatal accident Wednesday afternoon at his shop on Washington street.

Mr. Page was at work about one of the machines when his coat became caught in the belting and he was drawn to the ceiling, which he struck with terrific force. His clothing gave way and he fell heavily to the floor landing on his head.

The machinery in the meantime had been stopped. The employes who rushed to his aid found him unconscious. He was taken to his home and a physician summoned who said he probably had concussion of the brain. He remained unconscious all night and all day Christmas.

A Marquise.

The announcement in Wednesday's papers of the marriage of Miss Violet Twining to the Marquis of Donegal in London was received with much interest by the young lady students at the Quincy mansion school where the bride was at one time a student.

While at the school Miss Twining was a very close student, and took the three years' course of study in two years. She was of a most genial nature and was very popular with her associates.

Miss Twining was thoroughly English in her sentiments and during the Boer war she went to South Africa with her mother, who served as a nurse in military hospitals attached to the English army.

Chimney Fire.

The alarm from Box 73 at 4.55 P. M. Wednesday was for a fire in the chimney at the residence of Mrs. John L. Eldridge on Quincy avenue. The fire was extinguished without loss, although it was sometime before recall sounded. As there is a duplicate box of the same number at the works of the Fore River Co. many thought the fire must be at the works, and as the recall did not come in right away many made a hurried trip to that section.

Jolly Sixteen.

The Jolly Sixteen Whist club met this week with Mr. and Mrs. Phelan at their home on Washington street. Prizes were awarded for the best scores to the following: china cracker jar, Mrs. M. Dorley; bouquet holder silver standard, Mrs. P. P. Gomez; china cocoa pot, Mr. Wm. Hayden; spoon tray, Mr. F. Stoddard. Refreshments were served during the evening.

At Dedham Jail.

The prisoners at the county jail at Dedham were served with roast pork, vegetables and pies Christmas day, and were entertained by graphophone selections. They also were allowed the liberty of the yard, and played foot ball and games.

Next Thursday will be New Years.

Mrs. Fred E. Drake has returned from Kansas City.

A few more days in which to frame New Year's resolutions.

Paul Watson of Philadelphia visited friends in Wollaston this week.

Miss Nannie Lincoln is home from Smith College for the holidays.

There were many visitors from out of town in Quincy Christmas day.

Miss Ethel V. Merritt of Elm place is entertaining her cousin Miss Evelin Gifford of Cotuit.

A handsome new billiard table has been added to the equipment of the Granite City Club room.

Letter Carrier Mullen was given a purse of fifty dollars Christmas day by residents of Wollaston.

The new school building at Quincy Point was staked out by the City Engineers this morning.

Most of the business men of City Square are prompt to have their sidewalks cleared of snow.

Many of the Finnish and Swedish people of the city had Christmas cards with their names printed thereon.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McLane and Dennis Kelley of Schenectady, N. Y., are in Quincy for the holidays.

Leon Nash of Littleton spent Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Nash of South Central avenue.

At the meeting of the Wollaston Choral union next Wednesday night, plans for the coming concert will be discussed.

The Daily Ledger has established a new agency at South Quincy—Peter L. Litchfield in the Pinel block at 148 Water street.

The Wollaston Unitarian church begins its evening services on Sunday and is so arranged as to alternate with Y. P. R. U.

William Lynch has made a handsome electric display in the show window of Beckford's office on Saville street. The display shows what is possible with the electric lights.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met with Mrs. Jewell of Lincoln avenue, on Tuesday. Mrs. Mills of Arlington street, conducted the meeting and gave an interesting talk on "Child labor."

On Sunday at 3 P. M. there will be a meeting in People's Temple, Boston, in commemoration of the life and character of Jesse Lee, the founder of Methodism in New England. Bishop Mallilieu, Dr. Upham and other prominent clergymen will deliver addresses.

Ward One has nearly one-third the valuation of the city, and gave considerably over one-third of the collections.

All wards make a good showing.

The Ledger begins today the publication of the contributors but as there are over 2,000 in all there will be several instalments from day to day as space will admit.

A portion of Ward One is given today.

Engagement Announced.

Those who went home immediately after the festivities at Bethany church Christmes evening, missed a treat not on the program. A few who lingered were greatly surprised when the engagement of two of the young people was announced. The happy couple Miss Breta F. Mitchell of Quincy and Mr. Curtis W. Pierce of Braintree, were overwhelmed with congratulations and received from all sincere wishes for a very Merry Christmas and many Happy New Years.

The New Bridge.

The work on the new bridge at Quincy Point is progressing quite satisfactorily considering the cold stormy weather we have experienced this month. It is now expected that the company will have six spans of the bridge, out of seven, in their places by Saturday night, if the weather is at all favorable. The one where the present draw is will be more difficult, as the old work will have to be all removed before the new draw can be placed in position. But with good luck the company hopes to have the bridge completed in four or five weeks.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

TODAY'S COURT.

Walter E. Hagberg and Charles McKinnon were fined $3 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

John McCue was arraigned for drunkenness at Milton. Case continued until Saturday.

Ami and Louis E. Hockstasser were arraigned for assault on Emille W. Hockstasser at Weymouth. They were found not guilty and were discharged.

James Dean was arraigned for being a common drunkard at Randolph. Case continued until Saturday.

Christmas Vaudeville.

Quite a crowd braved the elements Christmas afternoon and evening to witness the performance presented by Capt. Eddy at Quincy Music hall. There is a good show given in Quincy three nights a week, but a great many people don't seem to be aware of the fact. They will go to Boston and take in the same kind of a show (no better) and be well pleased. Each artist took their turn well, but the singing of Miss Mason took the house by storm, she responding to three encores.

William B. Rice, C. F. Adams, Josiah Quincy and about twenty other business men of Boston have organized to demand a repeal of the duties on coal and beef.

present is just the contingency contemplated by article 27, the writer says: "The conflict exists between Venezuela and several of the signatories to The Hague convention, and the formal obligation that France and the 25 other powers signed is not only being ignored, but we observe a systematic interdiction of The Hague court of arbitration by the European governments. An explanation has become necessary. It cannot be objected by the allied powers that Venezuela took no part in the conference, and as she is asking for arbitration an occasion exists for reminding the powers of the obligations they signed and ratified. Nor can the reply be made that states, unlike individuals, are free not to observe their engagements, and that moral obligations exist only for individuals or for the weak, as this point of view is precisely contrary to the principle that The Hague conference sought to secure."

Money First; Then Arbitration

Berlin, Dec. 26.—The Lokal Anzeiger publishes the following statement, which was evidently inspired by the foreign office: "The German government has excluded from the scope of arbitration of the Venezuelan difficulty a claim of 1,700,000 bolivars, which must be paid immediately in cash before arbitration is begun."

Blockaders Use Searchlights

Willemstad, Dec. 26.—The American steamer Caracas has brought the remainder of her cargo here. The warships of the allied powers are now using searchlights to watch the coasts of Venezuela. Forty vessels are now detained at La Guaira.

Four Perished In Flames

Malone, N. Y., Dec. 26.—Four persons were burned to death early yesterday in the house of Julius King of Piercefield. Mrs. M. J. McGovern, King's eldest daughter, and her three children, who were asleep, were not able to get out, and all were burned to death.

Roast Mutton Galore

Omaha, Dec. 26.—The sheep barns of the Union Stockyards company at South Omaha burned yesterday, together with 500 sheep, entailing a loss of $50,000. An effort was made to drive out the 8000 sheep, but 500 of them ran back into the fire.

On Road to Recovery

New York, Dec. 26.—A bulletin issued last night by the physicians in attendance on Cornelius Vanderbilt reads: "Mr. Vanderbilt is holding the improvement he has made."

At Least Ten Killed

Trinidad, Col., Dec. 26.—Developments indicate that the wreck on the Colorado and Southern railroad here Wednesday night, caused by a collision between a freight train and a heavily loaded coal train, was more serious than at first reported. At least 10 men were killed, and several more bodies may be found before the wreck is cleared away.

Trip to Japan Cancelled

Washington, Dec. 26.—Miss Rebecca Knox, daughter of the attorney general, who returned from Pittsburg for Christmas, is quite ill at her parents' home here. Miss Knox, who was to have started for California on Saturday to join her aunt and uncle in a trip to Japan, has been obliged to give up the journey.

COMPLAINTS TO MILES

Of Acts of Cruelty During Reconcentration Campaign

CHARGES OF VIOLENCE

Found to Be Untrue, but There May Have Been Cases of Water Cure—Bell Called to Account—Fund to Prosecute the Augustin Case

Manila, Dec. 26.—Several official inquiries into charges of alleged cruelty to natives by soldiers are at present progressing throughout the islands. Some of these cases have been investigated previously.

When General Miles was at Lipa, Luzon, certain natives laid charges before him that during the campaign of reconcentration American soldiers had committed acts of cruelty and violence.

General Miles referred the matters to General Davis, and the latter detailed Colonel Foote to investigate. Colonel Foote found the charge of violence to be untrue, but it is believed he found that in some cases the water cure had been administered. His report will be sent to Washington.

While General Miles was in the islands Major Hunter repeated to him certain charges which had been brought against Captain Howze, when in command at Laoag, North Ilicos, Luzon, in 1900. At the time specified Captain Howze was lieutenant colonel of the Thirty-Fourth volunteer infantry.

It was stated that native officials of Laoag had whipped certain prisoners, two of whom died from the effects of this treatment. At the time of this alleged occurrence Major Hunter reported the matter in a letter to Governor Taft, who informed General MacArthur.

Captain Howze denied the charges. An investigation was ordered and the bodies of the two prisoners who died were exhumed. In their report the investigators held Captain Howze to be blameless.

Major Hunter is now in Manila. He says the investigation into the charges against Captain Howze has not yet been completed.

After leaving Manila General Miles sent a cablegram to General Bell directing him to report what cases of misconduct on the part of the enemy had led him to issue circular No. 5 in which it was charged that the enemy had boloed American wounded, made use of American uniforms, planted infernal machines, shot poisoned arrows, violated their paroles, assassinated friendly natives, accepted office under the Americans for the purpose of obtaining information and had entered the American lines by deceit.

General Bell has written an extended report, enumerating the instances which justified his action.

The inquiry into the causes which led to the death of Fr. Augustin has been completed and forwarded to Washington. The water cure was administered to Fr. Augustin at Banate, Panay island, and the priest died from the effect of this treatment.

It is alleged that a large sum of money has been raised among the natives of the southern islands and sent to Boston in aid in the private prosecution of the Augustin case.

The claim has been made that this money was intended for use against Major Edwin F. Glenn, Fifth Infantry, who is charged with unlawfully and wilfully killing seven prisoners of war and whose trial will be continued here in January. Major Glenn, however, was in no way connected with the Augustin case.

Assaulted In His Own Home

Boston, Dec. 26.—Ernest F. Wrayton, living in the Dorchester district, was seriously assaulted in his own house by an unknown man, presumably a burglar, whom he had found in the house. The police were called to the house on a report that burglars were there and found Wrayton unconscious in the cellar.

Cattle In Pitiful Plight

Denver, Dec. 26.—Thousands of cattle are reported to be starving on the range in northwestern Colorado. The cattle are snowed in on the high range without pasture and without water. It is impossible to get feed to them and equally impossible to drive them into suitable winter quarters.

Carriage Drivers Quit Work

St. Louis, Dec. 26.—Two hundred and fifty cab and carriage drivers of St. Louis are on strike because of the failure of their employers to grant a demand for higher wages.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

ALWAYS IN SIGHT

Crowded street. People passing by. Old and young. All eager about their own affairs and always somebody in plain sight who needs Scott's Emulsion.

Now it's that white-haired old man; weak digestion and cold body. He needs Scott's Emulsion to warm him, feed him, and strengthen his stomach.

See that pale girl? She has thin blood. Scott's Emulsion will bring new roses to her face.

There goes a young man with narrow chest. Consumption is his trouble. Scott's Emulsion soothes ragged lungs and increases flesh and strength.

And here's a poor, sickly little child. Scott's Emulsion makes children grow—makes children happy.

NOT A MONEY-MAKING TRIP

Dr Lorenz Corrects Impressions Concerning Alleged Fat Fees

New York, Dec. 26.—Dr. Adolf Lorenz, who returned to this city from Boston yesterday, while discussing his visit to this country, said in an interview last night:

"There is one thing I want to say, and that is in regard to finance. I see it reputed that I have made in this country $160,000. Now, as a matter of fact, I got one fee of $30,000 in Chicago, and in the four months I have been here I have earned just $30,000. My practice at home in four months is worth that.

"True, I have seen a number of private patients in each of the cities I visited, but, as you Americans say, in no instance have they more than 'paid the freight.' As a matter of fact, it has been the physicians of the various cities who have profited by my visits. They are my colleagues, and I am glad they did, but you see I remained only two, three, four or perhaps five days. During that time I was working in the hospitals, in the clinics. The private patients began to come in, and they were operated upon by the local surgeons, who had witnessed my clinics. But I am glad I came. The trip has been the crowning success of my life. My trip here has been successful ethically, but not materially."

Dr. Lorenz spoke gratefully of the hospitality he had received at the hands of the Americans.

Pretender Has Large Following

London, Dec. 26.—The correspondent of The Times at Fez, Morocco, describes the situation there as having become very serious, owing to a large increase in the number of the pretender's followers who the government troops are too weak to attack. Reinforcements amounting to 12,000 men, he says, will leave here tomorrow and an additional force of irregular cavalry has been called out. Many tribes not already in rebellion are wavering and are ready to join the rebels in the event of a serious government defeat.

Old Official Falls From Grace

Newark, N. J., Dec. 26.—Francis J. Meeker, for over 20 years treasurer of the Newark Firemen's Relief association, is a prisoner, charged with embezzlement. The specific charge is $5000, but the total defalcation, it is said, is much larger. Meeker has for years been superintendent of the salvage corps, an adjunct of the fire department, which is supported by the board of underwriters.

The Twelfth Victim

Boston, Dec. 26.—Edward Summerville, who was engineer of the schooner Frank A. Palmer, is dead from the effect of his exposure. Physicians had hoped to pull him through, but his feet and hands were in terrible shape. His death makes the 12th following the disaster. The other survivors are doing nicely, although Captain Potter of the Crary is suffering greatly from frozen feet.

Boy Wanted to Die

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 26.—Adelbert E. Lemon, the 10-year-old son of Rev. H. A. Lemon, shot himself and died shortly afterward. The boy was conscious for several hours after the shooting and said that the act was deliberate and premeditated. He told the doctors that he had bought Christmas presents, had had a good time and wanted to die.

Shipwrecked Crew Rescued

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 26.—The rescued captain and crew of the Ketch Marquise of Linlithgow have been brought to Launceston by a steamer which picked them up in Buss straits, where they had remained on a small rock 2½ miles from the mainland, without food or water and with the sea sweeping over them for three days.

Nobleman Kills Himself

Vienna, Dec. 26.—Count Stephen Bethlen, a Hungarian deputy and a member of an ancient and noble family, took a small boat, rowed out a short distance from the shore of Abbazia, and then shot himself. Before doing so he tied himself to the mast of the boat in order to prevent his body from falling overboard.

NONE WENT HUNGRY

Salvationists and Volunteers of America Looked After Boston's Poor

Boston, Dec. 26.—Christmas cheer in various forms was dispensed to thousands of Boston's poor and deserving families yesterday through the instrumentality of the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America, and a bountiful Christmas dinner was served to more than 4000 people by the first named organization in Mechanics hall. Under the direction of Colonel Evans, in charge of the Salvation Army in Boston, over 2000 baskets, each containing materials for a complete dinner and, in addition, 25 pounds of coal, were distributed throughout the day to needy families, to be prepared at their own homes. Presents from a huge Christmas tree were distributed by Colonel Evans among thousands of delighted children in the hall.

The Volunteers of America, headed by Colonel Keppel, were busy in their work of charity, and during the day they supplied well-filled baskets to more than 1000 families, while 250 suits of clothes were distributed to men, women and children. In the evening presents were distributed to a ragged army of children and they were entertained with a stereopticon exhibition.

These gatherings were the largest of the day, but in nearly all the charitable institutions of the city the inmates were given the usual Christmas dinners and entertainments.

Accidental Asphyxiation

Providence, Dec. 26.—Michael J. Carey, a mill operative, was found almost dead from illuminating gas at the St. George hotel yesterday and expired shortly after he was found. Everything about the room would seem to indicate that it was an accidental occurrence.

Lewiston Factory Burned

Lewiston, Me., Dec. 26.—The United States Bobbin and Shuttle company's factory, a wooden building about 125 feet by 60 feet, two stories high, was totally destroyed by fire last night. The loss is estimated at $15,000, with no insurance.

Since Wednesday night the storm has moved more rapidly southeastward to the south New England coast. There has been snow from the lake region and Ohio valley eastward. There will be snow and a cold wave in New England. Storm warnings are displayed on the New England coast.

APPETITES

Created and Maintained by Vinol.

THAT THE FOOD IS DIGESTED IS ASLO EQUALLY NECESSARY.

We Recommend Vinol as an Appetite Creator.

WE GUARANTEE THAT VINOL WILL AID DIGESTION

Vinol is the greatest aid to digestion that we have ever known.

It is because Vinol acts so beneficially upon the stomach that it accomplishes so much good.

Vinol contains the active curative principles that are found in cod-liver oil, without any oil or grease.

These medicinal elements act so favorably upon the stomach, that this organ obtains for itself the elements necessary for creating new flesh, muscle tissue and for making rich red blood.

When the stomach acts easily and naturally, a desire is created for good simple food and a good appetite is the sure result.

With cod-liver oil as formerly taken the medicinal elements which it contained were too often unable to counteract the harm that was done by the obnoxious grease that enveloped them.

Now that in Vinol we have those same elements separated from the vile-tasting fat, we have a tonic and rebuilder that is simply marvelous in its action.

The following is a letter that will explain itself:

"This is to certify that I have used six bottles of Vinol, and have found it of great value as an appetizer and tonic in general debility. I have received so much benefit from its use that I gladly furnish this testimonial in order that others may be induced to give it a trial and prove to themselves its recuperative powers."—MRS. ELIZABETH FEENEY, Waterbury, Conn.

We want every one in this place to know more about our Vinol, how it cures and what it cures. Certainly the greatest tonic and rebuilder we have ever sold.

We, therefore, cordially invite any one interested to call upon us, and we want all to bear in mind that we will gladly refund to any one who is not satisfied with the action of Vinol every cent they pay for it.

Canal Floater Identified

Lawrence, Mass., Dec. 26.—A body found in the North canal yesterday has been identified as that of James Brown of North Andover. He leaves a family. Brown and Daniel Shea fell into the canal Wednesday night, although they were not together. Shea was rescued, but Joseph Scott, who was attracted to the canal when Brown fell in, saw him sink before he could extend help.

Cable Will Be Spliced Today

On Board Cable Ship Silvertown, Dec. 25, via San Francisco.—The eventful trip of the cable ship Silvertown will be completed today, and the first link in the trans-Pacific cable will be laid. In making the Honolulu connection the cable will be buoyed 35 miles from the shore end and spliced. A total of 2169 knots have been laid from San Francisco.

A Medicine for Old People.

Rev. Geo. Gay, Greenwich, Kas., is past 83 years of age, yet he says: "I am enjoying excellent health for a man of my age, due entirely to the rejuvenating influences of Dr. Miles' Nervine. It brings sleep and rest when nothing else will, and gives strength and vitality even to one of my old age."

"I am an old soldier," writes Mr. Geo. Watson, of Newton, Ia., "and I have been a great sufferer from nervousness, vertigo and spinal trouble. Have spent considerable money for medicine and doctors, but with little benefit. I was so bad my mind showed signs of weakness. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I know it saved my life."

Dr. Miles' Nervine

Saved me from the insane asylum," Mrs. A. M. Heifner, of Jerico Springs, Mo., writes. "I was so nervous that I could scarcely control myself, could not sleep nor rest, would even forget the names of my own children at times. I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nervine and it helped me from the first, and now I am perfectly well."

Sold by all Druggists on Guarantee.

Oh, Coming Year! May each day's page be bright
With golden words Love's own fair hand shall write;
And may thy treasured leaves be sweet as those
'Tween which lie clasped the petals of a rose.
So shalt thou stay like some long-cherished book
Through which the heart still fondly loves to look,
And in its hours of retrospection sees
A wreath, deed-wrought, of fadeless memories.

Dr. and Mrs. James T. Tibbetts of Hyde Park, have issued invitations to the marriage of their youngest daughter Mary, and Mr. Alonzo Perry Orcutt, at Christ church, New Year's night at eight o'clock.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at a dancing party given by Mr. Waldron Schumacher and Mr. H. Houghton Schumacher at the residence of their uncle, Mr. Frank Page on Winthrop avenue, Wollaston. The German figures introduced were the special features of the evening. The spacious parlors and hall were well adapted to such a party. Guests were present from Braintree, Quincy and Boston. Ices and coffee were served late in the evening. Music was furnished by the excellent pianist, Mrs. Frank Rideout. The party closed long after midnight. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Page and Mrs. Schumacher received the guests.

Outside Sentinel,—Bernard Mullarkey.
Court Physician.—Joseph M. Sheahan, M.D.
Trustees.—William T. Shea, T. F. Mannex, James J. Doyle
Delegates to Convention,—William T. Shea, Joseph M Sheahan, M. D., William P. Hughes and John Vogel.

The court is in a flourishing condition, and has added many new members the past year.

At Home at Braintree.

Friday evening, Dec. 19, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Drollett, West street, Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Moore held their first at home. The relatives and friends arrived in all sorts of conveyances except electric cars and flying machines. Mr. William Cuff of South Braintree officiated as pianist with usual skill.

Soon after eight o'clock Mr. Cuff opened the program with a march and the happy couple proceeded to the parlor escorted by the bridesmaid Miss Dora Belyea and Mr. Arthur Drollett best man. The bride carried a large bouquet of Lawson pinks. Mr. Stephen Pratt of South Weymouth, Mr. J. E. Fahey of Ashmont, Mr. W. H. Martin and Mr. Wendall Harvey served as ushers.

After the reception refreshments were served. Misses Bertha and Cora Harvey aiding as cake girls.

A musical treat came next; Mr. Stephen Pratt rendered vocal selections, Mr. Cuff, piano solos; Mr. A. G. Ledwith, mandolin solos, accompanied at the piano by Miss Helen Qualey.

The guests enjoyed the spread of numerous gifts to Mr. and Mrs. Moore. Probably the most attractive present was five twenty-dollar gold pieces from the directors and officers of the Faneuil Hall National Bank.

ST. JOHN'S DAY.

"Christmas Lullaby," Pflueger
Violin solo, "Adoration," Borowski
Hallelujah Chorus, Handel
Quartette: Miss Hastings, Mrs. King, Mr. Boyd and Mr. Wilde; assisted by Mrs. Abbott Mrs. Blaisdell, Mr. Herbert Albee and Mr. Abbott. Miss Adelaide Thomas, violinist. Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith, organist. Mr. A. D. Albee, director.

No More Vaudeville.

Capt. Eddy has discontinued his vaudaville shows at Quincy Music hall. Although good entertainments were given at low prices, Quincy people did not seem to enthuse, and Capt. Eddy's venture was at a great financial loss. One week his box receipts were but $62 and his expenses $225 On Christmas day, amusements in other cities drew large houses, but in Quincy the box receipts were about $25.

Capt. Eddy is experienced in this line of entertainment, and advertised his shows well, and deserved success. Either Quincy is a poor show town or else Music hall has a hoodoo.

Through Cars.

The street railway began last night to use the temporary bridge at Quincy Point, built to connect Washington street with the railroad bridge on the Weymouth side of the old draw. This temporary bridge has been ready for use for some days but was not passed by the bridge inspector until late Friday afternoon. Commencing with the 6.20 trip from Quincy cars ran through to East Weymouth without change. The street cars will continue to run through until the construction of the new bridge has progressed so that the Quincy end will have to be closed.

The Cochato Club.

The second match of the open-for-all Ping Pong tournament will be played tonight with practically the same entries as in the previous match.

The Tennis Club are arranging for the production of two entertainments, one to take the form of a popular comic opera, the other a comedy, both to be given in the most finished manner and with orchestral accompaniament, the object of which is to swell the funds of the Tennis Club, and put the court in proper condition for the coming season.

Christmas Party.

John Erickson court of Foresters held a Christmas party last evening, when there was an attendance of 300 to 400 children and adults at Faxon hall. The Swedish band rendered selections and there was other entertainment. A Christmas tree was bountifully laden with presents for all.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

A Serio Comic Wedding

By Eugene Whitman Taylor

Copyright, 1901, by E. W. Taylor

"To me it is obvious that we are in an extremely unenviable position," said the hero as he looked sadly across the little hotel room at the soubrette.

"To commence with," remarked the juvenile, "the manager of the Dean Repertoire company has skipped with the cash and left us with nothing but the knowledge that we probably never will be able to draw the salary which has been due us for the last three weeks.

"Misfortune No. 2 consists in the deplorable fact that the proprietor of the Riggsville Palace hotel has confiscated all the baggage of the company and says he will hold it until our board bills are paid. Southern Indiana is many long and weary miles from Broadway, and our cash assets, as I have ascertained by trying to borrow money from each member of the company, amount in the aggregate to $8.55 cents. Now, what are we to do? We have talent, but what is talent without makeup or wigs? We have plays, but what are plays without scenery or costumes?"

"We might start a dime museum and let you be the star freak," said the comedian, who had been aroused from a quiet nap by the juvenile's prattle.

"I rather fancy that museum idea," said the juvenile, assuming an air of meditation. "Now, here's a scheme. We'll put you on exhibition," he said, pointing to the comedian, "and then start a voting contest among the unmarried ladies of Riggsville. Votes cost 10 cents, and the lady receiving the most votes would be publicly married to you in the hotel parlors next Saturday night. We could charge 50 cents admission to witness the ceremony, and—who knows?—perhaps you might bring eighty or ninety dollars."

"I'm not a bigamist," said the comedian in his most dignified manner, "and even if I were not married I certainly should refuse to spend the rest of my days in the town of Riggsville."

"You don't appreciate the glories of self sacrifice," the juvenile remarked sadly. "Now, we would give you a fine sendoff. We would borrow those costumes we used in 'Don Cæsar' from the landlord and arrange a genuine eighteenth century wedding."

"We'll talk nonsense later," growled the heavy. "I hear the dinner bell ringing. Let us eat while we may."

In a short time the little room was deserted save for the hero and the soubrette, who had professed to have no appetite. They looked mournfully at each other for several minutes before the silence was broken.

"I'd like to wring Dean's neck," was the hero's savage remark. "I wouldn't mind it so much if he owed me only my back salary, but to get me to lend him that $200 I'd saved for our marriage and then run away with it!" He put his head in his hands and looked the very picture of theatrical despair.

"Don't worry, dear," said the girl. "Perhaps we may think of some scheme which will help us all out of the trouble. I may be thinking of one now for all you know." This was said timidly and with an appealing glance at the hero.

"I'm almost afraid to tell you," the soubrette went on rapidly. "And, anyway, it isn't my scheme altogether. I hope that you won't think I am unwomanly to think of it, but what do we care for these Riggsville people? They never would see us again, and it probably would take us back to New York, and we could be so happy together."

"When you get ready to divulge this scheme of yours, you will give me my cue to listen, won't you?" said the hero sarcastically.

"It's just this, dear." The girl turned her head so that he could not see her face. "You heard them joking about the wedding and all that. Will you do it?"

"Do you mean that you will cheerfully abandon your claims and sacrifice me to the elderly maiden ladies of Riggsville at 10 cents a vote?" asked the hero, with the same sarcastic intonation.

"Don't be stupid," said the girl. "But why should we wait until next season before we are married? Why not now? Why not"— She stopped, looked up at him doubtfully and then hesitated. "Why should we not arrange our marriage as he suggested? We might make it a regular theatrical eighteenth century wedding and have the rest of the company in fancy dress. To these people we would be playing a comedy with a serious climax, but to us, dear, it would be a real romance and none the less sacred were the whole world gazing at us. It does seem to me that it would go," she added thoughtfully.

The hero sighed. "I don't know that I am so much opposed to it. As you say, it would be none the less sacred to us. Why not allow these country bumpkins the privilege of paying 50 cents apiece to see a fancy dress wedding. Society people pay admission fees for the weddings they attend, only they use salad forks and olive dishes for tickets instead of half dollars. I really think the price is too low."

"Perhaps it is, considering that this is positively our last joint appearance in this act," said the soubrette, who recovered her spirits easily.

The two were soon busy planning the details of their scheme, and when the other members of the company returned to the room the plan was unfolded.

"Hooray for your pluck and hooray for me for thinking up such a brilliant scheme!" said the juvenile enthusiastically. "I shall be the manager, of course. I've got most of my plans made already." The juvenile took out his notebook, pulled his chair to the center of the room and assumed an important air.

"I shall now cast the piece. In addition to my duties as manager, I shall also play the second lead as best man. You," he said, pointing to the old man, "will play the father part and give the bride away, and your wife shall be the matron of honor. The best I can do for you two," indicating the comedian and the heavy, "is to make you ushers. But you will have plenty of good business before the play begins, and you will be in the front of the chorus during the ceremony."

The comedian growled and the heavy looked somewhat disappointed, but they consented to do whatever might be required of them.

It would take far too long to describe in detail the herculean labors of the juvenile during the following three days. It would ruin his reputation were it to be told how he succeeded in convincing the editor of the Riggsville Palladium that the hero and the soubrette were really New York aristocrats who had given up society for the stage. But it was useful in securing free advertising, and the juvenile's conscience was elastic. His persuasive eloquence had such influence upon the hotel clerk and the hostler that they agreed to don fancy costumes and stand with crossed halberds at the door to take tickets. Even the local justice of the peace promised to perform the ceremony in a monk's cowl and gown when the juvenile hinted, with a knowing wink, that when the justice went to New York for a little trip he would be able to take him behind the scenes and show him the sights. In fact, the juvenile was indefatigable.

The wedding was truly a gorgeous affair. With the gaudy perforated paper which was placed around the dining room to attract flies during the summer the landlord created a wonderful canopy, under which the bride and groom were placed, while the Fourth of July decorations of the Riggsville Palace hotel lent a patriotic if somewhat incongruous aspect. The hero was a particularly striking bridegroom when he appeared in his wine colored doublet and hose, blue trunks and bejeweled sword. The Riggsvillians gazed with respectful wonder at the Elizabethan ruff which was the most conspicuous feature of the bride's costume, and they are still wondering if eighteenth century brides always wore skirts which reached only to their knees. When it was all over, the juvenile said as he congratulated the groom:

"It was a tremendous hit, old man. We had 'em standing up, and we're $112 to the good. The railroad agent will give us tickets to New York for $84, theatrical rates, and when we get there we're going to spend what's left on the swellest wedding breakfast we can buy."

It would be much more pleasant and perhaps more interesting were it possible to state truthfully that the hero and the soubrette have since become so successful that they are now numbered among the great ones of the stage, but it must be admitted that the hero is at present doing vaudeville "stunts" for a moderate salary, while the soubrette is educating her youngest son. But they are very happy.

Their Fortunate Escape.

They had walked half way through the park at a smart pace, and she now sank on a shaded bench. He seated himself beside her. They were entirely alone save for an old man at one end of their seat immersed in a book. Their agitated conversation continued.

"Oh, it is too dreadful!" she shuddered, covering her face with her hands, as if to shut out some unbearable sight.

"Fearful!" he agreed, deeply moved and mopping the profuse perspiration from his brow.

"Horrible!" she added. "I cannot bear to think of it. The loss of hope, happiness, perhaps even life itself"—

"Hush!" he interrupted. "Let us strive to think of it no more or it may grow to prey upon our minds."

"Pardon me," said the old man on the end of the bench, his watery eyes distended in lively apprehension. "Has there been some awful disaster? Have you been forced to look upon some awful tragedy?"

The young couple regarded each other in some confusion. Hesitatingly the youth answered:

"No, sir. You see, we have just become engaged, and we were talking of what a calamity it would have been had we never met."—Smart Set.

Game to the Last.

Two civil war veterans were talking over old fights the other night when the older of the two asked:

"Bill, do you remember the day that you thought you were dying down in a hospital in Virginia after that hard fight we had with the Confederates?"

Some way Bill could not remember.

"Well," said the other, "you were lying there on the cot, shot through the head and through the hip."

"I remember the wounds," declared Bill. "I rather do. I can feel them yet."

"As I said, you were lying there," continued the old soldier. "Some visitors came in, and there were women in the party. You had given up hope and thought you were dying, but you always were anxious for a 'grand stand finish,' as my son would say. What do you think you said to the doctors who were working over you?"

Bill had not the slightest idea.

"You said, 'Gentlemen, stand aside and let the visitors see a brave man die!'"

"Did I say that?" he asked. "And here I am, years and years after, a stronger man than you ever were, John."—New York Tribune.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS

AN ODD BOAT.

One That Is Driven by Water as Well as Through Water.

Of course any boat, unless it happens to be an iceboat, a stoneboat or a gravy boat, may be called a water boat, but I am speaking of a boat driven by water as well as through water. Its principal parts are a tin pan and a tall lamp chimney. Close the small end of the chimney with a cork, into which a rubber, bent glass or lead tube is tightly fitted; prop the chimney up in the pan with the small tube projecting over the rim, fill the chimney with water and set the chimney craft afloat.

It will move with the ease and grace of a turtle, though not so fast, until all the water has run out. You can produce a better imitation of speed by using instead of the pan a little wooden boat of more shipshape model, with the water tube projecting over the stern, but unless the vessel is very broad of beam it will capsize.

In fact, the boat is made not to go fast, but to illustrate a principle by going at all, and another example of the same principle is given by the water mill now to be described.

The mill is made of the same lamp chimney or another, with corks or plugs in both ends. Instead of one water tube it has two, three, four or more, going out like the spokes of a wheel and bent at the end, all in the same direction. The chimney is set upright between two pivots, which press against the upper and lower plugs, and is filled with water through a hole in the upper plug, which also serves to admit air when the mill is turning. The only use of the top plug, in fact, is to give a point of support, and the vessel must be open to the air at the top. As the water flows out through the little tubes the mill turns in the opposite direction, and if there is not too much friction at the pivots it will soon be spinning rapidly. The water boat and the water mill are examples of what are called reaction machines. The principle they illustrate is that, generally speaking, you cannot move anything without moving something else in the opposite direction. In both of these cases as the water is forced out in the direction of the water tube the boat or the part of the mill from which it flows is driven in the opposite direction. The recoil or "kick" of a gun is another illustration. At the instant of firing the gun moves backward, if it can, but if you are holding it against your shoulder you feel the reaction as a "kick," and if the gun is heavily loaded you may move backward with great promptness.

A vessel might be propelled by firing heavy cannon from the stern.

Cannot Find His Nose.

If you want to amuse a party of friends, ask one of them to catch hold of his nose with his right hand and of his right ear with his left hand. After he has done so, tell him to place each hand as quickly as possible in a reverse position—that is, he must catch hold of his nose with his left hand and at the same time grasp his left ear with his right hand.

Tell him to repeat this operation several times, and the more often he does it the more amusement he will furnish for the company, since he will find it ever more and more difficult to grasp his nose and ear and will spend considerable time searching for them in places where they cannot possibly be.

Two Marble Trick.

Place an ordinary marble in the palm of your left hand. Cross the first and middle fingers of the right hand (the middle over the first), so that you can feel the marble in the cross so made—that is, with the right hand side of the middle finger and the left hand side of the first finger touching the marble at the same time. Do not look at the marble while doing the trick. You will be astonished when you distinctly feel not one but two marbles. Practice a little while, and you can have lots of fun among your friends and with some of the older ones too.

Sleepers.

A sleeper is one who sleeps. A sleeper is that in which the sleeper sleeps. A sleeper is that upon which the sleeper runs while the sleeper sleeps. Therefore, while the sleeper sleeps in the sleeper, the sleeper carries the sleeper over the sleeper, under the sleeper.

Grandma's Glasses.

When grandma puts her glasses on
And looks at me—just so—
If I have done a naughty thing
She's sure, somehow, to know.
How is it she can always tell
So very, very, very well?

If I should put the glasses on
And look in grandma's eyes,
Do you suppose that I should be
So very, very wise?
Now, what if I should find it true
That grandma had been naughty too?

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 28—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Our heavenly home and the way.—John xiv, 1-6; Rev. xxi, 1-4.

Dying words are always highly prized. This is true of the dying words of great men and of our dear ones and personal friends. President McKinley's last words of sublime resignation to the way and will of God will live long after his most eloquent discussions on political topics will be forgotten. With what an interest, therefore, we come to Christ's last words to His disciples, and with what joy we read that at such a time He spoke to them of His and their and our future heavenly home and the way to it. And what Christ said at the time upon this subject is corroborated by the heavenly vision that John received upon the island of Patmos.

1. Our heavenly home. (1) We have a heavenly home. This is an assured fact. Christ said, "In My Father's house are many mansions." They are there was His testimony, and His words undoubtedly referred to an abode in the future. The Bible speaks with absolute assurance of the immortality of the soul and the resurrection of the dead. It declares that we shall live in fellowship and communion with God and Christ and all redeemed saints. Such an assurance should inspire us to faithfulness to God under all circumstances in life. (2) We shall know each other in our heavenly home. Christ says, "I go to prepare a place for you, that where I am there ye may be also." But why be together if they should not know each other and not be able to continue the friendships and fellowship of this life? Such a proposition without recognition in heaven would be absolutely meaningless. We shall know our friends in heaven and perhaps all other heavenly inhabitants, as Peter, James and John recognized Moses and Elijah on the Mount of Transfiguration. (3) Our heavenly home is a home of happiness. What we shall be and do in heaven is not entirely revealed. Perhaps it could not be. But we know that we shall be with God, with Christ, and enjoy supreme happiness. Death, sorrow and crying shall be done away with and all things shall be new. Sin and misery shall be unknown and in their place shall be joy and peace. What a comfort amid the trying experiences of this life!

2. The way to our heavenly home. Christ is the way. "I am the way; I am the door; by Me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved." Nor is there any other way to heaven. Reason and morality are powerless to save the soul. Faith in Christ that leads to repentance and forgiveness of sin is the only open sesame to the soul's future paradise. But all may enter who will believe. No easier terms could be offered, and they should be accepted by all.

Ps. xvi, 11; xxiii, 6; Dan. xii, 3; Matt. xxv, 31-46; Luke xv, 11-24; John x, 1-9; Rom. vi, 23; I Cor. xv, 51-58; II Tim. iv, 1-8; I Pet. i, 1-5; Rev. ii, 10.

Christian Endeavor In New York.

The Kingston (N. Y.) local union has had great success with a visiting committee, composed of one member from each society. The committee has visited in a body every society in the union, bringing good cheer and inspiration with it.

The Brooklyn (N. Y.) union supplies a column of local Christian Endeavor news for each Saturday's issue of one of the daily papers.

Dr. W. W. White, president of Bible Teachers' Training school of New York city, is the conductor of a Bible study class under the auspices of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) local union.

A mission study class has been started in each of the seven divisions of the Brooklyn local union. The book being studied is "The Price of Africa."

The New York Army of Endeavor.

New York state Endeavorers now number over 190,000, with 3,148 societies, representing thirty-one denominations. The amount given for missions through denominational boards is between $40,000 and $50,000.—State Secretary Kinports.

The Birthplace of the Quiet Hour.

The thought of the Quiet Hour came to Dr. Clark during a long, lonely voyage from India to Africa, in which he had much time for meditation and prayer.

Nuggets.

A thousand matters are left free and flexible in Christian Endeavor. Personal initiative, invention, resource, the constant leading of the spirit of God, are possible.—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.

You're an "I'll try" society. When the Lord asks you to do a big thing, count it a compliment.—Rev. Dr. Edward Taylor.

Just as the ore lies in the mountains for hundreds of centuries before it is discovered, so the ore of consecration and pledged service has lain in the lives of young people in all the Christian ages. It was only waiting for the Christian Endeavor society to unearth it and mold it into many beautiful forms for the Master's use.—Rev. W. Knight Chaplin.

ROOSEVELT'S PROPOSAL

To Submit Venezuelan Dispute to Arbitration Is Adopted

GOES TO HAGUE TRIBUNAL

Monroe Doctrine Will Not Enter Into the Question—Demonstrations Have Gone Far Enough to Show Venezuela That Allies Are In Earnest

Washington, Dec. 27.—President Roosevelt will not be the arbitrator in the Venezuelan controversy. The notes received from the European governments interested in the Venezuelan affair, and from Venezuela, agree to submit the question at issue to the tribunal at The Hague. A note is now being prepared by Secretary Hay in which this government announces its hearty approval of such a course. There appears to be no question that it is the general understanding that the Monroe doctrine shall not enter into the question of arbitration.

Epitomized, this was the situation as it had resolved itself at the conclusion of the cabinet meeting yesterday. The meeting was not so long as the sessions of the cabinet usually are. All the members except Secretary Root were present. The Venezuelan question was the principal and practically the only topic of general concern under consideration.

Secretary Hay presented the results of his cable correspondence with the governments at London, Berlin, Rome and Caracas. In accordance with the suggestion made several days ago by President Roosevelt, through Secretary Hay, President Castro of Venezuela has agreed to submit the differences between his government and the European powers to the arbitration of the tribunal at The Hague. The European powers also consented to submit the controversy to arbitration. While they had expressed a preference that the arbitration be conducted by President Roosevelt, they have now assented to his suggestion that the matter be referred to The Hague. The presentation of the case met the hearty approval of the members of the cabinet.

From the outset Secretary Hay has insisted that a great principle was at stake on the submission of the controversy to the international tribunal there, and, although the president could not at first assure himself that his duty would permit to keep out of the disagreeable business, he was of uncertain mind as lately as Wednesday afternoon.

Not much significance is attached here to the reported demands of Germany for the liquidation of one claim of $330,000 as a prerequisite to the arbitration of the others, as it seems to be offset by the demand of Venezuela that her fleet shall be returned to her before she meets the powers. It is thought that the president has been willing to assume responsibility for the success of this mode of settlement. He is understood to feel well satisfied that the warlike demonstrations have gone as far as they have, so that the Venezuelan people, not less than the officers of their government, may see that the allies are in earnest, and that the United States has no purpose of interfering to save them from the foes in The Hague forum. But it is believed that what really caused a shift in the outlook must have been a consent by the allies to suspend offensive operations, including the blockade, and restore the status quo as far as possible without further delay.

It is not possible to learn either whether the allies will insist upon apologies from Castro. While it is assumed that the blockade will be speedily raised, no arrangement to that end has yet been made. The energies of the negotiators are now being devoted to the framing of what will be known as a condition protocol.

Disappointment In England

London, Dec. 27.—Except by the opponents of the government, who view it as a virtual defeat and as discrediting the ministry, the latest phase of the Venezuelan trouble has been welcomed very luke warmly. Arbitration by President Roosevelt had been anticipated as so desirable an issue from a difficult business that his refusal, which is regarded as final, has caused keen disappointment. It is foreseen that even if satisfactory conditions to the submission of the disputes to The Hague court can be arranged, this method will entail endless and wearisome details, with no assurance that at the end President Castro still will be in power or Venezuela in the mood to abide by the decision of The Hague. In short, that element of guarantee which would have accompanied President Roosevelt's acceptance of the office of arbitrator is now lacking. At the same time it is readily admitted that from the American point of view President Roosevelt has acted wisely in declining to act.

The foregoing represents the general drift of newspaper comment this morning. The only paper which really welcomes the decision to refer the Venezuelan matter to The Hague is the radical Daily News, which sees a chance of making arbitration once more a reputable theory. Paying a tribute to the coolness of President Roosevelt and the correct attitude of the United States during this "sorry business," The Daily News says: "The Venezuelan crisis has done much to enhance Mr. Roosevelt's reputation and to bring home to Englishmen the essential friendliness of the American people."

Badly Hurt by Explosion

Gardner, Mass., Dec. 27.—While working on the foundation for a building here yesterday Oliver Payne, a foreman, struck a buried charge of dynamite with a pick, causing an explosion that badly cut and bruised Payne and John Declits. Payne's injuries required 70 stitches to be taken. Neither man's injuries are fatal.

Accidentally Asphyxiated

Boston, Dec. 27.—In a room filled with gas from a partially opened jet, James Chandler, 27, was found dead in bed at 292 Shawmut avenue yesterday from asphyxiation. It is thought that Chandler dropped asleep while reading and that the flame was extinguished by the reduction of pressure at the gasometer.

Probably Overwhelmed by Storm

Littleton, Mass., Dec. 27.—No trace of S. W. Hartwell, 83 years old, who wandered from home Thursday, has been found, although diligent search has been made. His friends have given up hope that he escaped death in the heavy snowstorm which prevailed.

Coal Pouring Into Boston

Boston, Dec. 27.—A total of 20,018 tons of anthracite and bituminous coal reached this harbor yesterday and of that amount 8060 tons was anthracite. By rail came an additional 381 tons of hard and 1414 tons of soft coal.

Diseased Cattle In Lawrence

Lawrence, Mass., Dec. 27.—Dr. John F. Winchester, veterinarian of the city, on behalf of the state authorities, yesterday issued an order declaring this city infected with the hoof and mouth disease.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

Pilgrimages Almost Daily to the City of Presidents.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACE JOHN ADAMS.

Franklin street, Quincy Adams, house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

BIRTHPLACE JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.

Junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams. At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Janitor can be found at Savings Bank building or at his home Maple place. No fee charged, but janitor may be paid for his trouble.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Private house, not open to public.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished; also the big ship yard now established at Quincy Point.

—The directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad have authorized the expenditure of approximately $5,000,000 for new equipment. It was thought last spring when the company placed large orders for new equipment, that this would be sufficient for some time to come, but the excellent business which it has done has made another addition necessary.

CHINESE PRINTING.

The Compositors Are Staid and Dignified and Never Rush.

A font of type in the Chinese language requires 11,000 spaces, and in the large and spacious rack each word, instead of each letter, as in English, has a place by itself. There is also a peculiar grouping or classification of symbols into groups to further facilitate the mental labors of the typesetters. Thus, in the immediate vicinity of the symbol for fish would be found the symbols of scales, net, fins, tail, gills. This simplifies the labor, which in any event must be so strenuous that it is evident that the compositor's end of the Chinese newspaper should, if perfect justice ruled, be the highest paid.

The compositor is a staid and dignified individual, and as he slowly walks from symbol to symbol, picking up those which he requires with provoking calmness, the American compositor might well wonder when the work would be completed, and to set up the type required for a small four page daily paper the constant labors of eight or nine skilled Chinamen are required for twelve or thirteen hours, the entire work in every department being the antipodes of the rush and whirl and marvelous celerity of the modern American publication. When the paper is set up, it is printed on an American press, but the type, the symbols are all made in China.

Greek Story of the First Woman.

The first woman created, according to heathen Greek mythology, was Pandora. She was made of clay by Vulcan, at the request of Jupiter, who wished to punish the impiety of Prometheus by giving him a wife. When this woman of clay had received life, all the gods vied making her presents. Venus gave her beauty, the Graces gave her the power of captivating, Apollo taught her music, Mercury instructed her in eloquence and Minerva gave her the most splendid ornaments. From these presents received from the gods the woman was called Pandora, which intimates that she had received every necessary gift.

Prometheus was too artful to marry this woman and could not be captivated by her charms, but his brother, Epimetheus, who was not so prudent, married her instead, and upon opening a box which she presented to him there issued from it a multitude of evils, which dispersed themselves over the world and still continue to afflict the human race. Hope only remained at the bottom to assuage the troubles and sorrows of life.

A Mean Insinuation.

The commencement exercises of the high school had passed off with entire success, and at the request of the principal the diplomas had been delivered by Colonel Wye, president of the school board, a worthy but somewhat pompous citizen, to whom nothing had ever happened to shake his high opinion of himself.

At the close of the proceedings the principal, with the praiseworthy purpose of saying something complimentary to his eminent colaborer in the cause of education, took occasion to observe:

"You acquitted yourself finely, colonel. Your remarks were well chosen."

"Well chosen!" echoed the colonel, turning red. "I want you to understand, sir, that those remarks were not 'chosen' at all. Every word I uttered was original, sir!"

Sorosis.

Numerous stories are told of the origin of the women's society called Sorosis. One of the best is that on the occasion of a certain banquet here in honor of a foreign dignitary women were rigorously excluded. They banded together to form a club of their own. Each called herself a "sorry sis," and by extension the name of the organization became Sorosis. It is believed that the word comes from the Latin "soror," a sister. There is a fruit genus called sorosis, but it is not much like a woman. "Sorrow-sis" would be a bad guess. One smart chap believes the word is a contraction of "sorceress," and I am with him.—New York Press.

The Irishman and the Army Mule.

General Phil Sheridan was at one time asked at what little incident did he laugh the most.

"Well," he said, "I do not know, but I always laugh when I think of the Irishman and the army mule. I was riding down the line one day when I saw an Irishman mounted on a mule which was kicking its legs rather freely. The mule finally got its hoof caught in the stirrup, when, in the excitement, the Irishman remarked, 'Well, begorra, if you're goin' to git on I'll git off.'"

How Unenviable!

"There goes De Speptic, the great financier. He looks so extraordinarily happy that I'll bet he's cornered some stock that will net him millions."

"My, he's far happier than that! His doctor has just informed him that he can eat the whole of one egg for breakfast tomorrow without hurting his stomach."—Baltimore Herald.

Fame.

"So Ambishious has achieved fame, has he?" asked the philosopher.

"He has," replied the cheerful chap. "Brilliant things said by other men are now credited to him."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Fresh Daily.

"And do you understand," asked the Sunday school teacher, "why you pray for your 'daily bread?'"

"Oh, yes," replied little Elsie. "That's so we'll be sure to have it fresh."—Philadelphia Press

Good Afternoon.

Again we are reminded that Quincy is not much of a show city.

An exchange likens Niagara Falls, now that it has been harnessed to the dynamo, to a caged squirrel chasing its tail in a turbine wheel.

With hard coal selling at $5.00 at New York docks, and soft coal at $3.50 at Norfolk docks, it is up to local coal dealers to explain why coal is so high at retail.

Notwithstanding the high price of coal, oil and other necessities, the local storekeepers report a good Christmas trade. Several of those seen said, when compared with last year the trade this year showed quite an increase. People are beginning to learn that better results are obtained by trading at home with Ledger advertisers.

Quincy is not the only place where there is a demand for more school accommodations. Supt. Southworth of Somerville in his report recommends a new Latin school, an addition to the English high school, an addition to the Bingham school, a new primary school building, an addition of four rooms to the Brown school and an addition of two rooms to the Hanscom be constructed next year.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ We believe the supreme court of Massachusetts has decided that it is illegal for a city to maintain a coal yard. Yet at least one city in Massachusetts—Malden—is doing that very thing. In that place the city is selling coal is small lots to people who cannot afford to buy coal by the ton from the dealers. And the officials are not too particular to inquire minutely into the circumstances of all the applicants. If a man comes and wants to buy a quarter of a ton of coal and has the price, he gets the coal. Naturally there cannot be much discrimination. And really, there should not be, if the city is going to sell coal at all. No line can be drawn to separate one class from another in such a matter as that. Having coal to sell under certain conditions as to price and quantity, everybody who is willing to comply with those conditions is fairly entitled to buy coal. The scheme is, of course, an emergency scheme; but it is familiarizing the people of Malden as nothing else could with the idea of a municipal coal yard: and they will be apt to ask why if this coal yard is a good thing in case of an emergency, is it not a good thing when there is no emergency, but when there may be one at almost any time. —New Bedford Standard.

I. O. O. F. Hall, Braintree.

The new quarters of the I. O. O. F. in Mellen's block, corner of Washington and Summer streets, are about ready for occupancy. The location is central and pleasant and we wish the Order at Braintree many years of happiness in its new home.

The quarters consist of an excellent suite of rooms on the third floor which is reached by means of a broad stairway and hall from the Summer street entrance. The walls of the hall look neat in a coat of terra-cotta.

The suite consists of a larger double hall lighted by thirteen large windows, two ante-rooms, two toilet rooms, and a modern kitchen.

The woodwork, including two large wardrobes or closets, is of cypress its various graining showing prominently under an excellent finish. The upper walls of the large hall are hung with green cartridge paper, while the lower portions are papered red to simulate wainscoting. The rich moulding of red, green, and bronze harmonizes well with the hangings.

The kitchen, which shows every convenience, is hung with tile paper, as are also the toilet rooms.

The suite has a fine ventilating apparatus put in by a Boston firm It is understood that the Odd Fellows will take possession of their new quarters immediately and all appearances point to a hearty enjoyment of the same.

We wish the Order a "Happy new year.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Colder Sunday.

A beautiful day.

More snow this morning.

The Candy Kitchen chocolates are all right.

Beautiful snow scenes early this morning.

Changing of Christmas misfits is in order today.

New Year's watches at Williams' jewelry store.

The F. D. Fellow's Co. invite comparisons on suits and overcoats.

A little warmer temperature would make the walking much worse.

The criminal business at the district court has been unusually quiet this month.

The place to get oil heaters is at the furniture store of Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

Dr. George Sheahan, the son of Dr. Joseph M. Sheahan, is ill with typhoid fever.

There will be a song service illustrated by stereopticon tomorrow evening at Bethany church.

The reports from Mrs. John W. McAnarney, who has been ill this week, are more encouraging.

Elmer Kidder is now employed at the power house of the Old Colony street railway at Quincy Point.

Joseph H. Finch of Boston for larceny at Quincy, Sept. 3, was yesterday sentenced to four months in the house of correction.

The January entertainment in the in the Quincy Teachers association course, will be by the Walter E. Loud concert company.

The churches have had their Christmas festivals and the children all had a good time even if they did not receive that $25 this year from Mr. Faxon.

All the gentlemen interested in having a Men's Banquet of the Universalist Society are invited to meet at the church parlor Monday Dec. 29, at 8 P. M.

Daniel McLane returns' to Schenectady, N. Y., today. Mr. McLane has charge of power plant and wire department of the street railway at that place.

The next meeting of the Fragment society will be held at the house of Mrs. John O. Holden, 5 Adams street, on Wednesday afternoon December 31st, at two o'clock.

A horse belonging to Augustus Rock, broke his leg last night, and afterward got out of the stable and lay in snow until put out of his misery this morning by N. B. Furnald.

The Sunday school of the West Quincy Methodist church held its Chriitmas festival last evening at 7.30 at which time a supper was served. This was followed by a general good time and the distribution of candy and fruit.

The funeral of Mr. Samuel F. Smith was held from his late residence on Warwick street, Wollaston yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. J. M. Durkee of Boston. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

Christmas Sunday is to be observed tomorrow at First church with special music. There will be a vesper service at four o'clock. The old church was beautifully decorated last Sunday with garlands of laurel and wreaths.

The condition of Mr. John Page of Washington street, who was severely injured Wednesday afternoon by being caught in the shafting at his shop on Washington street remains unchanged. But little hope is entertained for his recovery.

Probation Officer Francis A. Spear is having a few days' vacation this week. Clerk Churchill is also having a vacation as he is officiating as probation officer, while George E. Adams is officiating as clerk. Judge Pratt is dealing out justice to those brought before him.

One of the most attractive of this season's calendars, especially to woman and children, is that of C. F. Pettengill, the jeweler. The subject is "Wait a bit," and shows a beautiful little girl holding back a puppy from the table while she puts a napkin on it; the whole mounted on a delicate rough gray mat.

The Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance company does much to advertise its own city in the beautiful calendars which they send all over the country each year. The local subjects make very pretty calendars, especially the colored ones of the birthplaces of the Presidents Adamses, of 1902, and now for 1903 the Dorothy Q house or as it was called for many years the Peter Butler house. We have seen no prettier calendar this season.

Why He Didn't Worry.

"The first serious accident case I ever had," said an old surgeon, "was that of a young man who had lost an arm—his right arm it was, too—by the premature explosion of a blast.

"Somehow he didn't give himself the downheartedness that you might reasonably expect of a man who had suffered his loss; but, on the contrary, he was really cheerful over it, and this I didn't understand. And I said to him one day that I thought he was a pretty plucky sort of man to look at things as he did, considering that it was his right arm too.

"Why, that," he said, "is the one redeeming feature of the whole business. Suppose I'd have lost my left?"

"What?" said I.

"Why," says the man, "I'm left handed! Where would I have been now if I had lost my left arm? I'd have been up the stump then, sure enough."

The Order Pleased the Cook.

The following story is told on a missionary of the China inland mission, a bachelor keeping house for himself in the southern part of China: One morning in ordering his dinner he wished to tell his cook to buy a chicken. Instead of saying "ye" for chicken he aspirated the word, saying, "Buy me a 'che.'" His cook thought that was an eminently proper command and went about his marketing in high good humor. At noon the missionary found no chicken cooked—in fact, no dinner at all, for his cook had not returned. About dark the man came back, saying: "This was not a good day for buying wives, and I have been all day looking for one, but at last I found one for you. She is rather old and not pretty, but you can have her cheap. I have promised $40 for her."

Quenching Thirst at Sea.

Many years ago Dr. Hing suggested to Captain Kennedy that thirst might be quenched by dipping the clothing in salt water and putting it on without wringing it out. The captain, on being cast away, succeeded in persuading some of the men to follow his example, and they all survived, while the four who refused and drank salt water became delirious and died. Captain Kennedy goes on to say, "After these operations we uniformly found that the violent thirst went off and the parched tongue was cured in a few minutes when we had bathed and washed our clothes, while we found ourselves as much refreshed as if we had received some actual nourishment." — London Standard.

The Name of Stebbins.

The Stebbins family is fairly numerous. It is not now a classic name. Its owners wear it ignorantly. More the shame for them. It is by right a classic name, borne as it was by the first of Christian martyrs — St. Steven, sometimes spelled Stephen. Steven is the Dutch way of spelling it. Spell it in Spanish—Esteban. Drop the initial silent "e," and then you have Steban. Among the ignorant the step to Stebbins is very short. And the honorable name of St. Steven takes on degradation even as the fine old Norman-French name D'Aubaine becomes the homely Dobbins.

In His Father's Footsteps.

Binks—Did Smith's father leave him anything?

Jinks—Only his debts.

Binks—How is Smith getting along?

Jinks—Well, he has greatly increased his inheritance.—Baltimore American.

Ability.

Tomson—Johnson has no ability of any kind.

Jackson—Nonsense. Why, he can ask you for a loan in such a way that you thank your lucky stars for the opportunity to accommodate him.

Pleased at It.

"The fools are not all dead yet," said the angry husband.

"I'm glad of it, dear," calmly replied the other half of the combination. "I never did look well in black."—Chicago News.

Do You Need Iron?

The new preparation called

Peptiron

is an agreeable, effective and up-to-date combination of this wonderful curative metal, free from all the objectionable features of older iron preparations. Whether taken

In Pill or Liquid Form

Peptiron does not injure the teeth, nor leave any inky or metallic flavor in the mouth, and is the only iron preparation that does not cause constipation, however long taken.

Peptiron cures nerve pain, nerve tire, and all degrees of nerve debility; makes the cheeks rosy and the eyes bright—the young more vigorous and the old less feeble.

Invaluable to invalids and convalescents and to all neurasthenic, anemic, and dyspeptic sufferers.

Peptiron is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

ROUTE OF PROPOSED FREIGHT RAILWAY.

Connecting the Fore River Shipyard at Quincy, with the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

Winter Vacations.

This latter-day idea of enjoying a mid-winter vacation, not in the balmy and enervating South but in the cool and bracing North, by no means has its only devotees among "fresh air cranks." There are many people, tired out from overwork or suffering from nervous disorders, who are beginning to understand that a couple of weeks' rest in the country districts of their own New England, where they remain in practically the same climate as that of their native cities, is far preferable, from a hygienic standpoint, to a month in the South.

There is also that never-failing source of interest and pleasure, a winter trip to Montreal and Quebec, cities in which the delights of snowshoeing and tobogganing are almost the every-day enjoyments of the people. Ice palace carnivals are also frequently held, and these may be enjoyed with "all the comforts of a home," for the hotel accommodations of each of these cities are irreproachable.

The Boston & Maine Railroad provides through transportation to all of these winter resorts, whether in New England or Canada, and detailed information regarding them may be obtained on application to the general passenger agent, Boston.

MUNICIPAL COAL.

Braintree Voters Favor It and Will Petition Legislature.

The town hall at Braintree was well filled last evening to act upon articles in a special warrant.

Voted,—That the School Committee be instructed to give a public hearing to consider the South-east school, relative to keeping it open, and after said hearing take action on the same.

Voted,—That the Selectmen concur with the Selectmen of Holbrook and the board of Harbor and Land Commissioners upon the proposed change in Braintree's southern boundary.

Voted,—That we, citizens of Braintree in town meeting assembled, respectfully petition the honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts through the Town clerk and a committee of five citizens to be appointed by the moderator of this meeting, for the right and privilege of establishing and conducting a municipal fuel yard for the exclusive use of its residents, also that the right be granted of electing by popular vote at our annual town election the managel of said fuel yard.

The moderator appointed the following committee: E. J. Thomas, D. G. Doane, W. O. Pinckney, Daniel J. Gallivan and Julius Heurlin.

—German newspapers call attention to the fiftieth anniversary of bug powder, or "Dalmatian" powder. A German woman named Anna Rossner found out the fatal effects of chrysanthemum flowers on insects. She told a druggist of her discovery and the insect powder trade is now worth millions to Dalmatia.

Mystery Solved.

Supt. John L. Delano of the Dow Portable Electric Co. has made an important discovery this week at police headquarters in Brockton. He found goods valued at about $200 which were stolen from the company several months ago. These were among many other articles which Frank Bemis, alias Arthur C. Newton, had in his room in Taunton.

The following is a list of the Dow property and value:

One ammeter, value $42.50; a 12-cell oak case, $40; a two-spark coil, not finished, $6; a physician's leather case battery, which had been left at the factory for repairs just before the break and for which the company had to make good, $47.50; two pairs metal electrodes, two pieces of rubber-covered wire, a thread cutter and six dies, $6; a three dry-cell battery, several calipers, a hack saw for cutting metal $3.50; 12 blades for a hack saw; an automatic drill, $2.75; a 14-inch caliper, $2.50; a hammer; a pair of long nose pliers; scissors, tin snips and a Stilson wrench.

No games this week in the Norfolk County league.

Muscular Food....

The peasantry of Europe in general, prefer their bread made from the whole meal, because of its nutritive value. The nutritive salts of meat and of wheat are phosphates. These phosphates are indispensible to the nutrition of all higher organizations. They enter into and constitute a part of, not only the bones, but every muscle, every nerve tissue; and in each secretory organ there seems to be a special accumulation.

FRANKLIN MILLS FLOUR
A FINE FLOUR OF THE ENTIRE WHEAT

as ground by the Franklin Mills Co., is exceptionally rich in nitrogenous and phosphatic elements necessary as the sustaining force in all labor.

If your grocer does not keep Franklin Mills Flour, have him order some for you or send us his name and your order—we will see that you are supplied.

CHAMBERLAIN IN AFRICA

Makes Speeches of Strong Conciliatory Tone

GREAT FAITH IN MILNER

Says Struggle Between Dutch and British For Supremacy Was Inevitable and Asks That All Animosities of the Past Be Buried

Durban, Natal, Dec. 27.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and his wife, who left Portsmouth, Eng., Nov. 23, on board the armored cruiser Good Hope, landed here Thursday. They received a warm welcome from large crowds of people.

The long speeches made by Mr. Chamberlain in the course of the reception functions were notable for their strong tone of conciliation and as expressing his confidence in Lord Milner, British high commissioner in South Africa. Bearing in mind, seemingly, the rumors that his visit would lead to the displacement of Lord Milner, Mr. Chamberlain declared his belief that his visit would have the effect of strengthening the hands of Lord Milner, who, he hoped, would be as great in conciliation as he had been in the maintenance of the rights of the empire.

Referring to the war, the colonial secretary said the Dutch and the British had fought in courageous rivalry. Between the two races, not kindred in origin or nature, such a struggle for supremacy had been inevitable. From that struggle two proud and kindred races would grow in mutual respect, appreciating the present and lasting friendship.

"Victor and vanquished," said Mr. Chamberlain, "bravely played their parts. We scorned to glory in our triumph; the enemy need fear no humiliation in their defeat. Let us see, as Britons worthy of the name, that nothing be done to revive the animosities of the past. We must give our new fellow subjects equality of position with ourselves. We ask, however, something in return; it is with them that the issue lies. We hold out our hand and ask them to take it without thought of the past, but frankly and in the spirit in which it is offered."

Mr. Chamberlain elaborated his theme with eloquence and was loudly cheered. He announced incidentally the acceptance of the Boers' offer to fight in Somaliland.

Mascagni's Troubles Accumulate

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Signor Mascagni, the Italian composer who abandoned his American trip while playing in Chicago last week, was placed under arrest last night on a charge of embezzlement by his former manager, Richard Heard. When Mascagni decided to return to Italy he had no further use for his American manager and discharged him. Heard claims that his contract called for $5000, and tried to collect that amount. Mascagni refused to pay any such sum and the arrest followed.

Bryan Calls on Diaz

Mexico City, Dec. 27.—The papers all comment on the arrival of W. J. Bryan here, but it is understood that his visit is merely one of pleasure and recreation. He is accompanied by his wife and children. Mr. Bryan was received by President Diaz yesterday. The interview was very cordial, but of a purely personal character.

Engineers' Demands Conceded

West Superior, Wis., Dec. 27.—A conference between the members of the Marine Engineers' associations and the officials of the Pittsburg Steamship company was held here yesterday at which the latter conceded all of the demands of the engineers. The principal point involved was a 10 percent increase in wages.

Soldier Has Disappeared

Denver, Dec. 27.—Second Lieutenant Kistler, Company M, Eighteenth United States infantry, has been missing from Fort Logan for nearly two weeks. The Denver police department has been asked to assist in a search for him. Kistler is 23 years old and has seen active service in and about Manila.

Insane Woman's Bad Plight

North Tonawanda, N. Y., Dec. 27.—Mrs. Martin Woolenberg, who disappeared five days ago, was found yesterday beneath the rear portion of her home in a state of collapse from hunger and cold. Her recovery is doubtful. When rescued she was insane.

Would Be Snubbed In Europe

Vienna, Dec. 27.—It is reported on good authority that Archduke Ferdinand and the Crown Princess of Saxony and their companions purpose going to the United States, there being little probability of their finding congenial homes in Europe.

Precaution Against Plague

Washington, Dec. 27.—The United States marine hospital service authorities have decided to dispatch an expert to the coast of the Gulf of California in Mexico to investigate the reports of the appearance of plague among the immigrant Chinese there.

The Maine Ready For Commission

Washington, Dec. 27.—A marine detachment of 60 men will leave this city Monday next for Philadelphia for duty on the battleship Maine, which, it is expected, will be put into commission at the League Island navy yard on that day.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

More Business In Sight For New Year Than Ever Before

New York, Dec. 27.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Trade and speculation experienced the customary holiday quiet, except in Christmas goods, which sold freely, many packing and shipping departments being still engaged on this class of work, which could not be completed at the specified time. Industrial undertakings are interrupted in many cases by the taking of inventories, while other plants are closed because fuel cannot be obtained. Orders still come forward freely, and the new year will open with more business on the books than ever before. Prices of commodities are firmly held by the steady domestic demand, and there is a good export movement of the leading staples. In this, as in many other instances, however, there is still the drawback of inadequate transporting facilities, which restrict shipments to the seaboard. Financial conditions are satisfactory, money being in sufficient supply for commercial needs, although speculation is hampered by high rates.

New England shoe factories are in full operation and have liberal orders on hand. Quotations are firm, but without change.

An unexpectedly favorable feature has appeared in the market for cotton goods. After a long season of stagnation in the export division the demand for China suddenly became considerable. Domestic trade is limited to immediate requirements as is seasonable, yet there is sufficient buying in most lines to prevent undesirable accumulation of supplies. Collections are satisfactory both at the mills and with jobbers.

In woolen goods there is a good demand, overcoatings providing the chief feature, but cloak manufacturers have also bought freely, especially of light colored lines.

Death and Destruction by Gale

Copenhagen, Dec. 27.—The worst gale of many years visited Denmark Christmas night and yesterday and has done enormous damage to property and shipping. The telegraphic and railroad services have been interrupted and delayed. It is unsafe to walk the streets of Copenhagen owing to falling tiles, etc. Two boats have been wrecked off Elsinore and eight persons were drowned. Eleven men of the crew were drowned in the wreck of the bark G. S. Penry, which went ashore at Scaw. The hospital reports show that several persons were killed and many sustained injuries in the city.

Inspectors Say Blackmail

Defiance, O., Dec. 27.—More than 200 letters from a collecting agency in New York have been delivered through the local postoffice. The letters state that the recipient had received a year previous certain jewelry from a New York firm and that unless the sum due is remitted suit will be instituted. Postoffice inspectors have advised that the scheme is blackmail.

Guards For McKinley's Tomb

Cincinnati, Dec. 27.—Lieutenants Reece and Inglehart, with two sergeants, four corporals and 30 privates of Company M, Third United States infantry, left Fort Thomas yesterday for Canton, O., where they will serve as the special guard around McKinley's tomb. They will relieve a detachment of the Fourth infantry.

Courtesies Were Abused

Washington, Dec. 27.—Because of the abuse of the practice of extending special courtesies to arriving passengers at ports of entry the treasury department has issued a circular to agents limiting considerably the granting of such courtesies in the future.

Vanderbilt Continues to Mend

New York, Dec. 27.—"Mr. Vanderbilt has passed his best day since his serious illness. He has made a distinct gain." Dr. Flint made this statement as he left the Vanderbilt residence last night. He evinced great confidence as to the recovery of the patient.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Carl T. Francis Bitter has been appointed chief of sculpture of the Louisiana Purchase exposition, taking the place of Frederick W. Ruckstuhl, who has resigned.

General Francis V. Green, the newly appointed police commissioner of New York, announces that he will retain as his deputies the present officials, Major Ebstein and Captain Piper.

At the annual dinner of the Institute of Technology alumni at Boston President Pritchett urged the transferring of Technology building to a new site, where it would have room and facilities for expanding in proportion to the termendous increase in the numbers who are flocking to it.

Mrs. Mary Hartwell Catherwood, the authoress, died at her home at Chicago of cancer. Mrs. Catherwood is survived by her husband and a daughter.

An unknown man was struck by a train at Attleboro, Mass., and an hour later he died. He was about 30 years old, 5 feet, 7 inches tall, 155 pounds weight and of dark complexion.

George C. Anderson of Barre gained a victory of N. A. Bailey of Rutland, checker champion of Vermont, and took the championship honor.

The annual report of Commander Schroeder, governor of the Island of Guam, indicates a rather serious condition in the island finances, owing to the failure of congress to appropriate the sum asked for last year.

Clennallen, Miss., with a population of between 400 and 500, was almost totally destroyed by fire, only two business blocks and an oil mill being saved. Nine mercantile establishments were burned.

NEW STORY OF CANNON

How the Tables Were Turned on "Uncle Joe."

VICTIM OF A QUICK WITTED CLERK

Two Newspaper Men Smoked Costly Cigars at Congressman's Expense When He Called For "Two Fors." Candidate For Speaker Had but a Nickel and Was Forced to Borrow Twenty Cents to Pay For the Treat.

Since the withdrawal of all the candidates in the field against Congressman Joe Cannon of Illinois for the speakership of the house of representatives, assuring the election of the "old man," as he is affectionately styled by his political associates, his friends have been busy telling yarns illustrating the idiosyncrasies of the next speaker and predicting that there will "be something doing" when he takes up the speaker's gavel.

One of the best stories told of Cannon, a hitherto unpublished one, was related the other night to a St. Louis Republic reporter by a well known newspaper man in Washington.

"It was in the latter part of 1900, about the month of September, I think," said he reminiscently, "that Mr. George C. Hench, now local manager of the Associated Press at St. Louis, drifted into the Grand Pacific hotel, at Chicago, one morning during one of the monthly political powwows which were held at that hostelry. He ran across Hiram D. Fargo, Washington correspondent of the Chicago Evening Post, and the two newspaper men spent an hour chatting with the politicians gathered in the lobby.

"They had not been there long before they found Congressmen Cannon, Hopkins and Lorimer engaged in a quiet conversation in a nook apart from the crowd. Fargo and Hench seized the opportunity to quiz Cannon on current political topics, but he was as uncommunicative as usual, and after a few minutes the little group moved across the room with Congressman Lorimer, who was preparing to depart.

"'Now, boys,' said Cannon, 'there's nothing more to tell you. I've said all I'm going to say today.'

"This, of course, was a direct invitation to the two newspaper men to make their adieus, but they were not quick to accept it. Their little stroll brought them to the cigar stand. Lorimer said goodby and went out. Then Congressman Cannon, remarking that he believed he would have a smoke, turned to Hopkins, who he well knew did not smoke, and invited him to have a cigar. Hopkins, of course, declined.

"'Then give me a good cigar,' said the old man.

"'What kind?' inquired the clerk.

"'Well, I don't care, just so it's a good ten center,' replied the congressman as he laid a ten cent piece on the counter.

He bit off the end of his cigar, lighted it and took a few puffs in a reflective manner. Then he turned to my friends and said, as if it had occurred to him quite suddenly that they might desire to smoke:

"'Well, I won't be hoggish about this matter. I'll give you fellows a smoke, anyway. Clerk, give these fellows a good cigar.'

"By this time he presumed that he had aroused their expectations to the highest pitch. Then he added, with just the suggestion of a smile, which showed the keen delight he was taking in his little vengeance upon them for pressing him for news:

"'Two fors will do for them. That's good enough for newspaper men.'

"Probably his satisfaction would have been complete, for they were too astonished and chagrined to say anything, but for the fact that the clerk was more quick witted than they and, besides, was 'dead next' to the old man. While that grim smile still twitched the corners of Cannon's mouth the clerk dived into a box of his best two for a quarter and, giving the newspaper men the wink, passed the cigars over the counter to them. They lost no time in biting off the ends of them and beginning to smoke them. Cannon threw out a nickel on the counter in a most ostentatious manner, as if to heighten the joke. But the clerk, assuming an air of conciliation, said:

"'Twenty cents more, please!'

"Hench told me that they had their revenge right then, for he never saw such a look of astonishment as Cannon's face wore.

"'Twenty cents!' he almost shouted, with such an accent on the word 'twenty' as to convulse us with laughter. 'Why, I told you to give those fellows two fors. I'm smoking a ten center myself, but two fors are good enough for them.'

"'I gave them two fors, sir,' replied the clerk in his blandest manner, 'but I thought you meant two for a quarter, of course.'

"The joke was on the congressman already, but they did not realize for a moment how good it was. Cannon began to fumble first in one pocket and then in another for change. Finally he took out his wallet and peered into it in hopeful fashion. He was flat broke. The newspaper men saw his predicament and offered to pay for the cigars. He declined with a brusqueness that almost made them regret the whole affair. Then, turning to Congressman Hopkins, he said:

"'Hopkins, have you got any money?'

"Hopkins replied that he had, and Cannon blurted out his appeal.

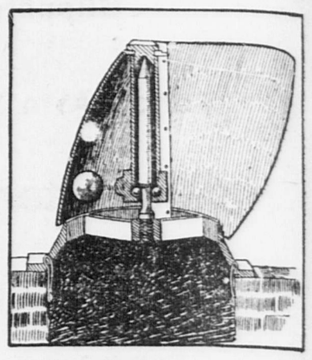

"'Well, lend me 20 cents to pay for these fine cigars these newspaper men are smoking. Boys,' he added to them, 'it's on me. Be as easy on me as you can.'"

NEW CHIMNEY CAP.

Ingenious Device to Insure a Perfect Draft.

In order to insure at all times a perfect draft in the chimneypot a novel chimney cap has been invented. The device forms a shield for the chimney top, which rotates with the wind to such position as to prevent the wind from blowing down the chimney. By its use the necessity for high smokestacks is avoided. Mrs. Anna E. Cook and Frederick J. Cook of Lawrenceburg, Ind., are the inventors of this device.

A head piece is employed which may be secured by any suitable means to the top of the chimney or smokestack. The head piece comprises a peripheral plate and a central hub supported by radial arms. Threaded into the hub is the lower end of a vertical stud or rod on which the chimney cap proper is mounted to rotate. The upper end of this rod is conical and fits into the conical recess of a cap screw. A sleeve piece is threaded at its upper end over the cap screw and is provided at its lower end with a bearing hub in which is placed a series of balls that bear against the rod.

The chimney cap proper is made in two sections. One section is of cast metal and is held in place between the head of the cap screw and the sleeve piece. The other section is much lighter, being formed of sheet metal bent to shape and riveted to the cast metal section. Projecting from the ball bearing cup is a stud on which a weight is threaded. The weight may be adjusted along the stud to balance the chimney cap properly.

In operation the wind striking the chimney cap will rotate it to the position offering the least resistance. This position will be reached when the upwardly sloping cast metal section is presented to the wind. In this position it will be seen that the products of combustion passing up the chimney are directed at an angle with the wind. A good draft is thus maintained, and the evil effects of wind blowing down the chimney are avoided.

Where Microbes Thrive.

Microbes live longer in dimly lighted than in sunny rooms and Gaffky suspects that the lessened sunshine is one reason why disease germs flourish better in winter than in summer. He notes that influenza epidemics have never occurred in Germany except when the weather has been long cloudy. He has found that in droplets such as are expelled in speaking or coughing the typhoid bacillus retains its vitality twenty-four hours in daylight, the diphtheria bacillus twenty-four to forty-eight hours in daylight and five days in a cellar, the tubercle bacillus five days in daylight and twenty-two days in a cellar, the boil microbe eight to ten days in daylight and thirty-five days in a cellar and anthrax spores ten weeks in daylight and at least three months in a cellar.

Much Aluminium Made.

The reduction of alumina to metal is now progressing in America on what would have been regarded ten years ago as a stupendous scale. With 11,000 horsepower operating at Niagara falls and 5,000 horsepower at Shawinigan falls, in Quebec, America possesses 16,000 horsepower devoted to producing this metal. This will produce aluminium at the rate of 4,500 tons yearly, or a production twice as large as the rest of the world put together.

Quick Work on Hides.

By a new Dutch process it is claimed that a moist hide can be turned into leather ready for the saddler's and shoemaker's use in from two to three days, while by following the usual method of preparation it takes about six months.

Beyond being an absolute cure for the dust nuisance oil also prevents the growth of vegetation, which on many roadbeds is a serious matter, and, although statistics are not yet available, the preservative action of the oil on the sleepers is practically proved.

The effect of the oil in preventing the "heaving" of the roadbed in winter has also been marked, owing, says a writer in the Strand Magazine, to the fact that where oil has been used water has been turned away, and injury from frost is reduced to a minimum.

Objections have been raised to the smell of the petroleum, and no doubt there is a considerable odor when the oil is applied, especially in the heat of summer, but this odor disappears absolutely in two or three days.

It might seem also as if the oil would damage the dainty fabrics worn by lady passengers, but as the oiled surface of the sand and light loam is solidly caked and as the railroad company has never received complaints of such injury it has been accepted as proved that the oiled surface is not loosened by the passage of trains.

MISS RICHARDSON HELD

For Alleged Administering of Poison to Mother

PROMISE OF BIG SENSATION

When Facts In the Case Are Brought Out—Physicians Say She Had Intimate Acquaintance With Drugs and Their Action—Held In $10 000

Chelsea, Mass., Dec. 27.—Miss Catherine V. Richardson of Revere was arraigned in the police court here yesterday on a complaint charging her with administering poison to her mother, Mrs. Harley Richardson, with intent to commit murder. She pleaded "not guilty" and at the request of the prosecuting officers the case was continued until Jan. 5, and the young woman's bail was placed at $10,000. In default of sureties she was committed to the Suffolk county jail, Boston.

Unless all signs fail this case is likely to become one of the most sensational of any of its kind since the famous trial of Mrs. Robinson, who was convicted of poisoning a Somerville family. The evidence on which a warrant was issued for the arrest of Miss Richardson was furnished to the police by Dr. Eunice M. Kinney, who had been the attending physician to Mrs. Richardson.

The Richardson family, consisting of Mrs. Harley Richardson, widow of William A. Richardson, formerly a well-known hotel proprietor of Littleton, N. H.; Miss Catherine V. Richardson, the prisoner, and a son named Harry, came to Revere early last September, having lived during the summer at Nantasket. They have occupied the entire third floor of the Morrison House, whose landlady is Mrs. Jeannette Morrison. The Richardsons have led an extremely quiet life, have made a few acquaintances and have given every evidence of the highest respectability.

Ever since their arrival in Revere all of the family have apparently been in poor health, and from time to time nearly all of the Revere physicians have been called to attend one or more of the family. The frequent changes of doctors in itself was the subject of much comment among other guests of the house.

The circumstances which led up to the arrest of Miss Richardson began when Mrs. Kinney was called to attend the mother. Her first visit was made on Sept. 22, or shortly after the family arrived in town. She did not go there again until Dec. 12. According to her story she then found Mrs. Richardson in a state of collapse, all the symptoms of which indicated arsenical poisoning.

Mrs. Laird, a professional nurse, was secured and remained about a week. Dr. Kinney treated Mrs. Richardson for the poisoning symptoms and the patient steadily improved until Dec. 18, when she again had a severe attack, with the former symptoms. When Dr. Kinney called on that date she examined the glasses of medicine she had left. The contents of one of them she suspected from its smell was not the medicine she placed therein.

Dr. Kinney took a swallow from the glass and being convinced the contents had been changed threw away the balance. This was about 11 a. m. Later in the day she says she had some symptoms of distress, but in the middle of the night she was awakened by a violent attack of palpitation of the heart, accompanied by heart burning, anguish in stomach and burning sensations in the throat and tongue.

She at once recognized these symptoms as those she had had several years ago, when she accidentally took an overdose of a solution which is a common medical preparation of arsenic. She then became convinced the case was one for police investigation.

Dr. Kinney continued to treat Mrs. Richardson, and the patient, as before, immediately improved under the administration of antidotes for arsenical poisoning. On Sunday the nurse left the case, and on Tuesday Miss Richardson announced that the family would leave town on Thursday. This fact was also made known to the police, and the warrant was secured.

To other physicians who have met Miss Richardson, but who do not wish to be quoted, it is alleged the young lady has shown an intimate acquaintance with drugs and their action. Miss Richardson was herself ill with symptoms of poisoning on Dec. 18, the date of Dr. Kinney's attack. She told the doctor she had taken some medicine by accident. Her sufferings were of a violent nature. The doctor found her washing her stomach in approved medical fashion, by drinking warm water and ejecting it by throat irritation. She kept up this treatment heroically without assistance for several hours and was greatly benefited.

Miss Richardson is slender, light-complexioned, about 27 years of age, and is very attractive in appearance. She is an accomplished musician, her fine piano playing having gained for her a number of acquaintances among some of the young Revere women.

The Richardsons are well known in New Hampshire, especially in the vicinity of Littleton. The father died rather suddenly on June 15, 1900. He left the family home in Littleton and $13,000 life insurance. He also left a large amount of indebtedness, and as the New Hampshire law makes widows responsible for their husband's debts, it is alleged Mrs. Richardson made over all the property to her daughter.

BUILT ON KITE LINES

Bell's Machine Partially Solves the Problem of Aerial Navigation

Washington, Dec. 27.—Dr. Alexander G. Bell, who has just returned to Washington from his summer home in Cape Breton island, last night made the following statement in connection with reports that have appeared in the public prints that he has invented a flying machine:

"The newspapers have been premature in announcing that I have been at work upon a flying machine. I haven't any flying machine at all and have not been trying to make one. I am, of course, interested in the problem and have come to the conclusion that a properly constructed flying machine should be capable of being flown as a kite if anchored to the ground, and that conversely a properly constructed kite should be capable of use as a flying machine if provided with suitable means of propulsion.

"My experiments have had as their object the building of a kite of solid construction capable of carrying up, in a moderate breeze, a weight equvalent to that of a man and engine, and so formed that it could be suitable for use as the body of a flying machine and with supporting surfaces so arranged that when the kite is cut loose it will come down gently and steadily, and land uninjured. I have successfully accomplished this, but do not care at the present time to make public the details of construction."

Lorenzo Still In Custody

Panama, Dec. 27.—Victoriano Lorenzo, the Indian leader who fought with the revolutionists, made a sensational attempt to escape from confinement on board the Colombian cruiser Bogota yesterday. He was captured, however, and returned to the ship. Lorenzo was a most persistent guerilla during the revolution. When General Herrera surrendered Lorenzo and his followers refused to give up their arms, but were forced to do so just as they were about to escape to the mountains. He was taken on board the Bogota Nov. 21 last.

Fatal Smashup on Grand Trunk

London, Ont., Dec. 27.—A head-on collision occurred last night at Wanstead between a Pacific express and a fast freight train on the Grand Trunk railroad. From meagre reports it is learned that five persons were killed and 15 or 16 injured. The engineer of the freight train and the fireman of the express are among the killed. The other three dead were passengers on the express train. A special train left here at midnight with 15 doctors for the scene of the accident.

Lynchers Evidently Murderers

Pittsburg, Kas., Dec. 27.—Joe Godley, a brother of Montgomery Godley, who was lynched by a mob here Thursday, is wounded and in hiding at Weir City, Kas., and later investigation of the trouble between Officer Hinkle and the Godley brothers tends to show that Joe, and not the man who was lynched, fired the shot that killed the policeman. Two other brothers, Gus and Jess, are in jail at Girard, charged with being implicated in the murder.

Obliging Storekeeper Murdered

Matthews, Ga., Dec. 27.—At a late hour Christmas night an unknown man called at the home of Edward Gay and asked him to change a bill. Gay, not having the change, walked with the man to his store. It is supposed that while there the stranger forced Gay to open the safe, which contained $1200. He then probably murdered Gay and burned the store to hide his crime. There is no clue to the perpetrator of the crime.

Congratulation to Marconi

Glace Bay, N. S., Dec. 27.—The following message was received yesterday by Mr. Marconi in reply to his wireless telegram to the Italian minister of marine: "Considering the co-operation of the navy as a duty which was owed to you, I am happy and proud to have been responsible for arranging that it should be given. I congratulate you cordially upon the great success obtained."

Preparing For Another Strike

Chicago, Dec. 27.—The 8000 railway freight handlers of Chicago, whose strike last summer interfered with the industries of this city for three days, are preparing to demand more pay. The railway clerks' organization is making similar preparations. It is said that the two organizations will take concerted action.

Heavy Christmas Mails

New York, Dec. 27.—Steamer Celtic, which arrived yesterday from Liverpool, carried the second largest consignment of foreign mail ever brought to this port by a single steamer. There were 2353 sacks of mail in her hold. The steamer Cymric holds the record, having brought last week 2600 sacks.

Natural Gas In Wyoming

Douglas, Wyo., Dec. 27.—Natural gas has been discovered 13 miles west of here, in an oil well. The gas threw gravel and sand far above the derrick, and was accompanied by a small flow of oil.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Sunday, Dec. 28.
Sun rises—7:13; sets—4:18.
Moon rises—5:52 a. m.
High water—10:15 a. m.; 10:45 p. m.

Temperatures continue to fall in the south, the line of freezing temperature extending to Georgia and almost to the middle gulf coast. They continue at 4 to 29 degrees below the seasonal average in the north. In New England and portions of New York the snowfall was quite heavy. It will be colder in New England, with snow in the northern portion.

Woman's World

MRS. S. J. ATWOOD.

A Denver Woman Who Handles Laboring Men by the Carload.

Mrs. S. J. Atwood of Denver probably excels every other woman in the world in the magnitude of her especial business. The vocation of this genial little woman is laughingly called by her "catching hoboes," but is more generally known as an employment agency. Mrs. Atwood handles all the way from 40,000 to 160,000 men annually, according to the public demand for labor. She controls all the labor on the Oregon Short Line, besides all the boarding trains and outfits on the same road, and furnishes numerous large contracting firms and railroads with men.

In 1886 Mrs. Atwood had one small office in Denver, which was the nucleus of her present extensive work, which has grown until it now includes her main office in Denver, with branch offices in Kansas City, Chicago, Ogden, Salt Lake City, Butte, Mont., and two in Omaha.

MRS. S. J. ATWOOD.

Her work extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific. She handles men not simply by carloads, but by trainloads. Imagine the unique feature of a woman having charge of a trainload of laboring men, who has them so thoroughly in hand that she never has any trouble with them! They never ask her unnecessary questions, but obey her orders implicitly and treat her with utmost respect.

Mrs. Atwood is assisted in her work by her daughter and says she is the only woman besides herself whom she has ever found who could take a trainload of laboring men from New York and land every one of them at his destination across the continent without having trouble in some manner on the way.

It is no uncommon sight in Denver, Chicago and numerous other places to see Mrs. Atwood at the head of a large following of laboring men leading them to a station for transportation.

She laughingly said, "It is no undertaking at all to handle man in the plural number, but in the singular he is absolutely formidable."

Mrs. Atwood has a large force of men at Pocatello, Ida., where the railroad is being built from Blackfoot to Mackey to open up the Thunder mountain mining district.

When, in 1886, Mrs. Atwood found herself entirely thrown upon her own resources, with a baby girl, an aged father and mother and a large amount of debts upon her hands, and absolutely nothing to begin on, not even experience in earning her daily bread, one would naturally think that she would have been despondent, and, being a woman, would have sat down and cried, or at least would have tried teaching or some other work which comes in "woman's sphere."

She, however, took up her husband's work where he had dropped it and has gone on to success. A load of debt and a baby girl to rear—not to send her out and give some one else the responsibility of bringing her up, but to give her parental love and care—is enough to daunt the courage of most any average man, yet this dauntless little woman has not only liquidated the debts and reared her own and adopted children, but has made her a cozy little home in Denver and has money on interest.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

To Make the Ankle Supple.

If you want your child to have supple ankles, have her sit down five minutes each day perfectly still. Take her foot, your left hand holding the ankle firm, and with the palm of your hand strike a few little blows on the bottom of her foot.

Then, holding the heel with your left hand, thus leaving the ankle free, take the tip of her foot and gently work the ankle, turning the foot around, first outside and then inside. During the time the child's muscles must not stiffen. If they are found to stiffen at first, after very gently exercising them in this way for some days the stiffness should entirely depart and leave the muscles so pliable that no reasonable amount of turning will affect them. Dancing is a very good exercise for making the child supple in all its muscles as well as those of the ankle, and skating a little later will be found beneficial, provided it is indulged in moderately. Standing on one foot, holding the other off the ground and moving it up and down as far as it will go, is also a good exercise.

A Recipe For Happiness.

One of the youngest looking women we have ever known was one whose principle in life was never to expect too much of people, and in this lies the great secret of happiness. A large amount of worry and trouble comes from our too great expectations of people. We expect too much of our children, for example. They must be gifted, beautiful, obedient little compendiums of all the virtues, and if they are not all this we think bitter things and sow wrinkles and gray hair and ill health for ourselves. What right have we to expect so much of our children? Blessed is the parent who looks tolerantly and philosophically on the faults of his children and who realizes that he has no right to expect too much of children as long as the law of heredity holds good. Unless we ourselves are gifted, beautiful and obedient to the will of somebody else we have no right to expect such perfections of our children.

Family Invitations.

It is a general rule that not more than three persons in the same household should accept an invitation. This rule may of course be broken when special circumstances seem to justify it. A daughter may accept an invitation to a house where her mother has never been asked, and members of a family should not feel hurt when some are invited and others left out. At the same time, in the case of weddings in church and for large general affairs a hostess should be careful to send invitations to all the members of a family which she knows well.

It is not polite to address the envelope inclosing an invitation "Mr. and Mrs. Brown and family."

There should be a separate invitation for the Misses Brown and another for the brothers in the household.

Shelf For Pet Books.

If you have already grouped your books according to your liking for them, it will be found pleasant to set apart a special shelf or a chosen part of your bookcase for your intimate book friends—the ones that you most respect, enjoy and are truly fond of. Then, when in the mood for converse with a favorite author, you can turn to this special group, sure of finding what you want, or, if you do not care to open the volumes, you can "read them by the backs"—that is to say, you can by a mere glance at the books themselves conjure up, as if by a magic charm, the scenes, personages and often the very words that lie within.—St. Nicholas.

For the Home Seamstress.

To make a pretty and comfortable petticoat cut the skirt about a quarter of a yard shorter than walking length. Make it the same length all around. Sew this on the machine. Sew on the hem a plaited silk ruffle, cut on the straight of the material, about six inches deep. On the edge of the plaited ruffles sew a narrow bias ruffle about two inches deep.

Do not set the ruffles on the skirt proper, as the skirt is easier to walk in, wears better and rustles more if the ruffles are set on the bottom. Small plaits are prettier than large ones.

Dainty Sachet Bags.

Little sachet bags of silk may be hung unobtrusively upon the backs of chairs to supply a faint, elusive scent to the room, if that is liked. These should be filled with dried leaves of sweet geranium, lemon verbena and lavender mixed, or of lemon verbena alone, if that delightful odor is preferred.

They make sweet sachets for the handkerchief box or the linen closet or the bureau drawer.

A Woman Lumber Dealer.

A Californian, Mrs. Mary Coggins by name, has shown that a woman may win success in the business of lumber dealer. She is at the head of a box factory and attends to all the details of the business, although one of her sons holds the position of general manager. She is interested also in the management of two sawmills and several thousand acres of timber land.

To Waterproof Cloth.

Take of powdered alum and sugar of lead each half an ounce and stir them into a gallon of water, and when the mixture is clear pour off the upper liquid. Immerse the cloth in this for twenty-four hours, then drain and press it. The cloth will be uninjured in color and texture and will stand any amount of rain to which you are likely to be exposed.

Ribbon Roller.

A small sized rolling pin is a handy article on which to roll ribbons and thus help to preserve their freshness. Select a roller of good wood, carefully sandpaper and then varnish, so as to bring out the grain and color. Gild the ends and give an extra touch of ornamentation by tying bows of satin ribbon on the handles.

Cozy Corner Lamp.

A brilliant shade for a cozy corner lamp is made of light amber colored satin, fringed with small glass beads in the same shade. The fringe is deep, and the effect of the light shining through the yellow beads is wonderfully soft and effective.

Don't sleep with the mouth open. Dust and gritty particles floating in the atmosphere, entering the trap thus set for them, injure the enamel of the teeth by irritation.

Tea should be kept in either a tin or glass vessel which has a lid, as it is necessary to keep it tightly covered.

After preparing onions one should wash one's hands in cold water with a little salt, but no soap.

Never permit the sun to shine on a mirror. It ruins it for all time.

CHARGES AGAINST TARBOX

Thus Far Fail to Show That He Acted Other Than In a Proper Manner

Newton, Mass., Dec. 27.—Before John W. Weeks as judge, the hearing of charges preferred against Chief of Police Tarbox by citizens and members of the police force of Newton was commenced yesterday in the aldermanic chamber at city hall.

The charges are specified as: Failure to suppress the illegal selling of liquor and disorderly houses; violation of the civil service rules on several occasions; collecting court fees which should have been paid to officers; opening letters addressed to others and appropriating the contents; inducing officers to make up stories in order to secure convictions.

Twenty-seven members of the police department were present in readiness to give evidence for the prosecution. The first day's session gave rise to no sensational incidents, there being little or no testimony brought out reflecting upon the chief.

At Least Ten Years For Smith

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 27.—Howard E. Smith, a locomotive fireman, convicted on the charge of felonious assault upon Elizabeth McGregor, 10 years old, was sentenced yesterday to not less than 10 years nor more than 15 years in state prison. Smith was taken into court on several charges of assault on women and girls, and acquitted on all charges except that in which the little McGregor girl was the complainant.

Sequel to Squire Failure

Boston, Dec. 27.—A movement to secure control of a majority of the common stock of the John P. Squire company, which failed three years ago, has been begun by persons interested in the concern, with the idea of taking the management out of the control of those who have it now and placing it in a voting trust. A banking firm is sending out circulars offering to buy stock at $15 per share.

Haverhill to Boston by Trolley

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 27.—The first official trip of a car over the new line from this city to Boston on the Boston and Northern street railway system was made yesterday by officials of the company, members of the Haverhill city government and town officers of Andover and North Andover. The line will open next week and very soon cars will run direct to Boston.

Boys Frozen to Death

Woodstock, Ills., Dec. 26.—Hilding Holm and Frank Smith, aged 8 and 10 years respectively, were found frozen to death in a cornfield near here and their companion, Arthur Carlson, aged 10, was found badly frozen, but alive. The boys ran away from the Chicago Industrial home here, having told their companions that they were going to spend Christmas at their former home in Rockford.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

BRAINTREE.

Our genial town clerk, H. A. Monk, was confined to the house the early part of the week suffering with a lame back.

Mr. Fred D. Rand and Mrs. Whitney of South Braintree Heights were united in marriage Thursday evening by Henry A. Monk, Justice of the Peace.

Mrs. C. E. Darrow arrived Tuesday morning from Grand Isle, Vermont to spend the winter with her daughter Mrs. B. L. Baker, of Liberty street. Mrs. Darrow had a thrilling experience, being in one of the coaches of the Vermont train which was wrecked six miles above Keene, N. H. at 5 P. M. Monday, when the train struck a landslide throwing engine and several cars down a steep embankment. Several of the passengers were severely hurt but Mrs. Darrow escaped with a severe shaking up. The passengers arrived at the Northern station about fourteen hours late.

Commissioners from the U. S. Cattle Bureau visited the Cottage Farm Sunday and killed fourteen cows and one horse, owned by Mr. Mattie which were infected with the foot and mouth disease.

The regular monthly social next Friday evening in Cochato hall by the Ladies' Aid of All Souls' church will be a geography party. Each person attending is to represent a town or city in New England. A prize is to be given the person guessing correctly the most of the representations.

Teaching in the Philippines.

Miss Evelyn Lewis of Hyde Park has received an interesting letter from her cousin, Frederick A. Shattuck, who is a school teacher in the Philippines, from which the Gazette takes a few extracts:

His school is far up in the mountain district in the province of Alva, and he receives his mail about once a month, and everything for the household is brought on horse back from the nearest seaport. The greatest obstacle to rapid transit are the frequent falls of rain, which often flood the streams, and as there are no bridges every one has to wait until the water recedes. Bamboo rafts are used, and much of the transportation in the interior is done by this method, a system which is always slow, with the usual elements of danger to craft and boatmen. There are no stores in the native village and when the household is out of provisions, or the necessaries of life the same has to be forwarded from the seaport on an order, and this sometimes consumes a full month. Mr. Shattuck is provided with a pony—there are no horses—and as the roads are always in a bad condition he finds the willing little animal a great convenience as well as serviceable, especially in looking up truants. All the pupils—both boys and girls—have brown faces, go barefoot all the time and seldom have any head gear. When he first took possession of the school all the pupils studied aloud, each one talking as loud as he could, which naturally was distracting; but all this has been changed to more up-to-date methods. His little wards sometime forget to wash their faces and hands and comb their hair, and the enforcement of the rule of cleanliness requires some patience and skill. They wear few clothes on account of the heat, and their appearance in their native costume is naturally picturesque. They know very little English, but are learning rapidly.

The school building is somewhat primitive. There is one large room covered with a straw roof. The walls are made of bricks, covered with a kind of plaster. The windows are always open and have wooden bars across them. There are no glass windows in the village, and curtains would be a novelty. There are no doors—simply a door-way. The floor is covered with a mat of bamboo. For seats there are a few long benches. There are no pictures or blackboards. The teacher's house is like the school building, but of two stories. He lives up stairs. All the household furniture which consists of three chairs and a table, was made on the grounds, of bamboo. The stove is a basket filled with dirt in which the cook (a native) builds the fire. The teachers wear white cotton clothes all the time, and sometimes the heat makes this breezy outfit a burden. The only white people are five miles away, and in the collection are a few Americans, the only ones in the province of Alva, which is as large as the state of Connecticut.

Everyone smokes, even the babies. Tobacco is very cheap since it grows in large quantities all over the island. The women have cigars two feet long, and smoke them all day. The first thing one is offered on entering a native's house is a cigar, and then all the household line up in a row, or squat down, and watch the visitor smoke it. The natives seldom use a chair, preferring to sit on the floor. In eating they use their fingers instead of knives and forks; and their diet includes rice, chickens, pigs, vegetables, the leaves of some trees and roots, rice being the chief article. The teacher's food comes in cans, which is bought of the civil commissary at Vigan.

DE WET'S WAR STORY.

Extracts From Boer Leader's Book on the Transvaal Struggle.

Perhaps the most significant statement in General Christian Rudolf De Wet's "Three Years' War," the title given by the author to his book on the Boer war, published recently by Charles Scribner's Sons, is the declaration that from the very outset of the war and all through the hard fought struggle the Boers knew they were fighting in vain, says the New York Mail and Express. They knew their cause was lost, but fought as God fearing patriots until every resource was exhausted.

He describes Cronje as an "intrepid hero," but declares he was too obstinate to abandon his position when trapped in the laager near Paardeburg by Lord Roberts. His capture is characterized as the catastrophe of the war, in that its disheartening effect on the burghers was felt throughout the war.

Kruger is referred to as "the statesman grown gray in his country's service," and Gladstone as the "greatest and noblest of English statesmen." General De Wet calls upon God to witness that independence was all that was asked of the British government on March 5, 1900, and Lord Salisbury is accused of misrepresenting the facts.

General De Wet complains bitterly of British breach of faith, but declares that the result was not all favorable to the "invaders." He cites the promises given General Prinsloo and his men when they surrendered, safety of property and permission to return unmolested to their farms being guaranteed. Instead of this the prisoners were deported to Ceylon, and old people were levied on for hundreds of pounds because British railroad property was destroyed in their neighborhood.

As a result of this, he says, 3,000 paroled Boers took up arms again and fought to the end of the war. He describes Lord Roberts as his (De Wet's) best recruiting sergeant because of his frequent breaches of faith.

General De Wet's state of mind throughout the war and after it is expressed by a sentence in the book:

"Everything is as it must be, and unless one is a sluggard one has no reason to complain."

BOWEN'S PLUCKY STAND.

How Our Minister to Venezuela Defied a Mob.

Herbert Wolcott Bowen, American minister to Venezuela, has been qualified by twelve years in the diplomatic service of the nation and experience in trying circumstances for any contingencies which may arise at Caracas. He went to his post there in the summer of 1901, succeeding Francis B. Loomis, who went to Portugal, but whose policy was carried out by his successor. Minister Bowen went to Venezuela from Persia, where he had been minister for two years, having been appointed in 1899 to succeed his brother-in-law, Arthur Sherburne Hardy, the novelist, who went to Athens as minister.

But it was in Spain, before the outbreak of hostilities between that country and the United States, that Minister Bowen gained the especial experience which will stand him in good stead in the Venezuela imbroglio. He first went to that country in 1890, being appointed consul at Barcelona by President Harrison. In 1895 President Cleveland made him consul general. Barcelona was the scene of manifestations of hostility toward the United States in March, 1896. The feeling was aroused by the passage by the senate of the Morgan resolution which recognized the Cuban insurgents. A mob of several thousand persons gathered in front of the United States consulate in Barcelona and with shouts and execrations demanded the destruction of the building and the death of the occupants. Consul General Bowen appeared at the entrance and defied the mob, which dispersed in a short time without harming any one and doing little damage to the edifice.

All to Be "Cannonized."

Speaker Henderson was recalling a last session anecdote about an Iowa constituent who wrote asking for copies of the Congressional Record containing obituaries and adding ingenuously that nothing pleased him more than to read "obituaries of dead congressmen," says a Washington dispatch to the New York Tribune. "Your constituent ought to be in ecstasy next session," remarked Littlefield of Maine, "for the whole house is to be Cannonized."

New War Fund.

It has just been discovered that there exists at Rapperswyl, Switzerland, a fund consisting of nearly $50,000, which has been subscribed by Poles in various parts of the world for the purpose of waging war on Russia when a propitious time shall arrive.

Snow Ag'in th' Winder.

When th' lights has blinked an' vanished
An' yer now-I-lay-me's said,
When they's silence all around ye,
'Ceptin' when some hurried tread
Out of doors melts in th' distance
An' th' wind mourns overhead,
Then's th' coziest time that ever,
Though it holds a hint of dread,
When they's snow ag'in th' winder
An' ye're snuggled down in bed.

Bare ole branches bend an' shiver,
Whimperin' 'cause th' summer's dead.
What's that thumpin'? It's th' rattlin'
Of th' down sprout 'g'inst th' shed.
Mighty good t' know th' hosses
An' th' cattle's housed an' fed,
For th' wind's a-gittin' madder,
An' th' storm king's raisin' Ned
When they's snow ag'in th' winder
An' ye're snuggled down in bed.

Sandman comes an' finds ye wonderin'
If, when gloomy night has fled,
They'll be still enough snow stickin'
Fer t' let ye use yer sled,
Or if folks must go a-spatterin'
Through th' sloppy slush instead,
Then ye go t' sleep recallin'
All th' blizzard tales ye've read—
When they's snow ag'in th' winder
An' ye're snuggled down in bed.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The Castle Square Theatre management has arranged for an elaborate production of the English melodrama "Mankind" next week and will give up the entire stage to the presentation of the great stage pictures incidental to the action of this play. "Mankind" was written some twenty or more years ago by Paul Merritt and George Conquest of London, and gained such immediate success in that metropolis that the late Augustin Daly adapted it for his own use and produced it in September, 1882 in New York City. Following a long run there it was brought to this city and proved an immense attraction at the Boston Theatre. The action of the play passes in and about London, with scenes which introduce types of many and varied classes of English life. The principal characters of the score or more introduced in the development of the plot have been assigned to leading members of the company. The usual distribution of souvenir boxes of chocolate bon bons will be made to all who at end the Monday matinee.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

The Boston Music hall continues to draw immense audiences at every performance and the system of giving daily matinees is particularly pleasing with the ladies who can combine a shopping tour in town with a visit to the theatre and enjoy an excellent performance. The Children's Theatre in the Japanese Garden is another feature of Music hall which is gaining a firm hold upon the public and the entertainments given there are of a sort well calculated to entertain and amuse the little folks. The program is changed each afternoon and so varied is the entertainment that a child might visit the theatre regularly for six weeks and never see the same thing repeated. The Sunday night concerts draw audiences that crowd the theatre to the doors and the list of talent presented there each Sunday night is of the very best. Next week's attraction at Music hall will be the sensational comedy drama, entitled, "Her Marriage Vow." The play deals with life among railroad people and the action takes place in and around Boston. The piece is said to constructed in a healthful and vigorous manner with a vein of tenderness and pathos running through it which appeals to human sentiment and in which the men and women concerned differ essentially from the hackneyed characters familiar to the patrons of the sensational drama.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Another act that will please the juvenile patrons of Keith's who will be enjoying holidays the week of Dec. 29, is that of Belle Hathaway's trained baboons and monkeys one of the most amusing animal acts ever brought to this country. Some of the more prominent entertainers in the same bill are: Freydo Brothers, European acrobats and hand-balancers, this being their first appearance in this country; Abbas Ben Omar, the noted Oriental dancer and whirling Dervish; the Romany trio, noted Gypsy singers and instrumentalists; Lena Thurber and her pickanninies, and Wenona and Frank, the most remarkable pistol and rifle shots in the world. Commencing the week of Jan. 5, the performance will not begin until 1 o'clock, but will be continuous from that hour until the close at 10.30 P. M. No acts will appear more than twice, so that there will be two shows of 4h., 45m. duration each.

TODAY'S COURT.

Patrick McDonough was sent to the house of correction for thirty days for drunkenness at Quincy.

Walter S. Rowell was fined $5 for drunkenness at Randolph.

The continued case of Bernard Moore of Randolph was called and again continued until Jan. 31.

The continued case of James Dean for being a common drunkard at Randolph was heard, and again continued until Jan. 10.

The continued case of Patrick J. Barry of Quincy for larceny was called and he was defaulted.

The continued case of John McCue of Milton for drunkenness was called and he was sentenced to six months in the house of correction.

The Almanac.

While the Almanac of today is issued primarily for advertising purposes, they must of necessity contain interesting matter and be made attractive in every way possible, else they would not be read, and the money invested would be money wasted. Chas. H. Fletcher's New York Almanac has ever been one of the foremost in attractiveness, and the 1903 edition is no exception. It has a handsome lithographed cover that almost says: "Take me home with you." It contains the usual number of jokes, much valuable information relative to the care of infants a record page in blank for baby's early days, and problems that will help to pass away many a long evening. Here is one: A child asked her father how old he was, and the father replied, "I am just six times as old as you are, but in twenty-four years you will be one-half as old as I am." What were their ages?

We understand that this Almanac may be had for the asking, either at drug stores or direct from Chas. H. Fletcher, New York City.

Generous Gift to Masons

Philadelphia, Dec. 26.—Announcement was made yesterday that William L. Elkins of this city will found a home in this city for orphan girls, daughters of Free Masons of Pennsylvania, that will cost $500,000. Mr. Elkins gave his second Christmas dinner to the residents of the Masonic home yesterday, and during the dinner the Christmas gift to the grand lodge of Pennsylvania was made known. The grand officers of the lodge, who were present, accepted the gift.

Bullets For Christmas Gift

Kansas City, Dec. 26.—W. P. Hollenback and his wife had quarreled and recently separated. He was to have been tried today on a charge of mistreating her, and he tried yesterday to effect a reconciliation. Failing in this, with the remark: "Here's a Christmas present for you," he shot his sick wife three times as she raised herself in bed to receive the gift. He then sent a bullet into his own heart. The woman may not recover.

GRAND TRUNK DISASTER

Said to Have Been Due to Cancellation of an Order

STORY OF OPERATOR CARSON

Tends to Throw Responsibility on Train Dispatcher Kerr, Who, However, Is Defended by Division Superintendent—Twenty-Eight Killed

London, Ont., Dec. 29.—There were no deaths yesterday among the persons injured in Friday night's collision at Wanstead, in which 28 persons lost their lives. While several of the injured are still in a serious condition it is expected that all will recover.

Andrew Carson, the operator at Watford, the first station east of the wreck, whose failure to deliver orders to Conductor McAuliffe of the Pacific express to pass the freight at Wanstead is said by the Grand Trunk officials to have caused the wreck, yesterday made to The Associated Press his first statement since the wreck. He says he received the order for No. 5, the express, to pass the freight at Wanstead at 9:45 o'clock, but declares positively that a few minutes later Dispatcher J. G. Kerr, at London, called him and ordered him to "bust," or cancel, the order. He said: "About 9:54, after calling Wyoming and ascertaining that the freight was there, the dispatcher called me rapidly a half dozen times. When I answered on the wire, he told me to 'bust' this order. I wrote 'bust it' across the order just as the express was coming in. Conductor McAuliffe came in and asked me what the order board was out against him for. I told him that we had an order for him, but the dispatcher had 'busted' it. He asked me to hurry and write him a clearance order, which I did. After the train had started out of my reach, the dispatcher learned that the freight had left Wyoming. I told him I could not stop No. 5, as it had left. He immediately began calling Kingscourt Junction, the station between Watford and Wanstead, on the railroad wire, and I tried to raise them on a commercial wire. We both failed to do this, however, until after the express had passed the junction."

Carson admitted that he knew it was against the rules of the company to cancel a train order without sending a substitute for it, but said that the dispatcher was his superior officer and he disliked to question his order or dispute his authority to take this action. Dispatcher Kerr's order book in the local Grand Trunk office does not show that the order was "busted," or cancelled, as Carson claims. According to the book it was still in force and should have been delivered to the conductor of the express. Kerr has not made any statement even to the railroad officials and will not until he takes the stand at the inquest.

Division Superintendent Jones of Toronto says that the rule against "busting" train orders is the strictest in the company's code. "I do not believe," he said, "that it has been violated since the standard dispatching rules went into effect. Dispatcher Kerr is one of the best and most efficient dispatchers in our service. He is the operator who accompanied the train bearing the Duke and Duchess of York on the royal tour of Canada a year ago. I have every confidence in him."

Other Grand Trunk officials who were present also expressed their confidence in Kerr. Coroner Harvey will begin the inquest at Wyoming today.

Of the patients in the Victoria hospital John Bird and Dr. C. Harvey, lecturer on anatomy at the University of Chicago, are among the most seriously injured. Dr. Harvey, who was one of the last persons dug out of the telescoped coach, is suffering from exposure in addition to his wounds.

The possibility of pneumonia developing among the injured as a result of their exposure while pinned in the wreck is feared by the surgeons. Several of them show some symptoms of the disease.

An Unsolicited Advance

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Beginning Jan. 1, practically an advance of 10 percent will be made in the wages of all conductors and motormen in the employ of the Schenectady Railway company. The increase is unsolicited.

Russian Mine Disaster

St. Petersburg, Dec. 29.—A fire occurred in a coal mine where 100 miners were underground when it started. Twenty of these have been rescued, but it is feared that the remainder have succumbed.

Pope Against National Church

Rome, Dec. 29.—The Tribuna says the pope has ordered the archbishop of Manila to excommunicate all persons who endeavor to promote the creation of a national church in the Philippines.

A TIP FOR SOCIALISTS

Object Lesson For Sleek and Well Fed People Proposed by a Minister

Boston, Dec. 29.—In the prelude to his regular Sabbath evening sermon, Rev. Charles A. Crane, the pastor of the People's Temple, declared last night:

"If I were head of the Socialist party I would parade the poor—women, babies and all—through the streets of the business section and the Back Bay district, and I'd have them sit down in the street and let the sleek, fat and well-fed gaze upon their brothers and sisters who have been hungry, and tired, and sick, and brow-beaten and cursed so long that they are ripe for many comfortable things and are in a frame of mind to bring those same unpleasant things to pass, and that right speedily."

Continuing he said: "The American tramp came in the same day the American millionaire was born. One of them will kill the other unless a peaceable and sensible society disposes of both. If the present social system is right we must seek some protective system to prevent over-production of mankind."

Unconsciously Killed Himelf

Boston, Dec. 29.—In an unoccupied house on Corning street Timothy J. Hayes, 45 years old, who had entered it for the evident purpose of robbery, was found yesterday, asphyxiated by gas which was escaping from a large break in the pipe. On the floor at his feet were a burglar's jimmy and other tools. Hayes had pried or cut off all the lead pipe in the various rooms and had severed the pipe connecting with the gas meter. In so doing he had made an opening through which the gas poured with full force, and being in poor health, he had been overcome by the fumes while at his work. He was identified by a letter in his pocket.

Breeding Place For Disease

Clinton, Mass., Dec. 29.—Accompanied by a detail of police, Health Officer Crowley yesterday investigated reports of unsanitary conditions existing in a tenement building at 21 Nashua street. In the 21 rooms, which included six kitchens, 90 people were living. The largest number in any one room was eight, and the occupants were huddled together indiscriminately, without regard to sex or sanitary conditions, the rooms being without ventilation and in a filthy condition.

Academy Destroyed by Fire

Littleton, N. H., Dec. 29.—Dow academy, at Franconia, named for the late Moses A. Dow of Boston, the founder of The Waverly Magazine, one of the best known landmarks of this section of the state, was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night. Mr. Dow presented the academy to the town of Franconia 25 years ago and at his death, in 1886, he bequeathed $60,000 to the institution, but this is said to have been lost through unprofitable investment.

Source of Smallpox Traced

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 29.—Many people of Lynn have been exposed to smallpox and yesterday four patients were taken to the contagion hospital. A foreman in one of the shoe factories here caught smallpox while on a visit to Boston three weeks ago, and since then he has been at work and visiting friends, unmindful of the nature of his illness.

His Journey Interrupted

Hartford, Dec. 29.—Inspector Collins of the Boston police arrived in this city last night to take back to Boston Martin Welch, who is charged with embezzling $2700 from his father, James Welch. Welch was taken off a train from Boston at the request of the Boston authorities. When searched $2491 was found in his clothes.

Body Reduced to Fragments

North Adams, Mass., Dec. 29.—Fragments of the body of Charles Keilty, a spinner in a mill at Williamstown, were found scattered along the Boston and Maine tracks between Braytonville and Greylock yesterday. It is supposed he was killed while walking home from this city.

Higham Foundry Strike Settled

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 29.—A representative of the Iron Moulders' union has satisfactorily settled the trouble at the foundry of William Higham & Sons, where the moulders struck a week ago because a non-union brass worker was temporarily transferred to the iron department.

Navy Yard Tug Sent to Bottom

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 29.—The government navy yard tug Sioux was sunk at the navy yard dock Saturday night by collision with a coal barge, the crew barely escaping with their lives, but losing all their personal effects. The barge struck the tug on the side.

MANY THOUSAND FELL

Pretender to Moorish Throne Routs Imperial Army

LATTER FLED IN DISORDER

Rebels Marching on Fez, Where Population Will Remain Loyal Only as Long as Sultan Can Protect and Feed Them—Civil War Impending

Tangier, Morocco, Dec. 29.—On Dec. 22, 10,000 Shereefian troops, commanded by a brother of the sultan's minister of war, received orders to concentrate and take the offensive against the pretender at Taza. Before the Sheeferians moved upon him the pretender attacked them with large bodies of cavalry. The imperial army was surrounded, completely routed and fled in disorder toward Fez, abandoning all material of war. The first fugitives arrived at Fez on the morning of Dec. 24.

The gates of Fez are at present shut, shops are closed and the population is excited, but there has been no disorder. The European colony of Fez, numbering about 20 persons, is taking no steps to leave the town, although the situation is regarded as serious. It is said that the pretender's followers have received numerous additions since his successes and he is already negotiating with the tribes of the Wedmaweh valley.

The population of Fez is said to be generally hostile to the sultan and ready to acclaim any pretender who will guarantee the town from pillage.

No details of the imperial losses have yet been received here, but it is rumored that 2000 of the sultan's soldiers were killed or wounded. The authorities here are trying to minimize the disaster. It is declared that a section of the imperial troops sent as reinforcements deserted to the rebels and aided in driving the loyal troops back to Fez.

London, Dec. 29.—In a dispatch from Fez, the correspondent of The Times says he believes the situation to be critical. "I have reasons to doubt the loyalty of the inhabitants of Fez," says the correspondent. "Both the government and the Europeans here ridicule my apprehensions of an acute crisis and my estimate of the pretender's strength. I am leaving Fez immediately."

The Times publishes also a dispatch from Tangier, dated Dec. 27, in which the correspondent says:

"I got away from Fez just in time. I arrived here this morning with the first news of the disaster. The rebels are reported to be marching on Fez, which is incapable of defense for more than a few days owing to its position, the absolute lack of a supply of provisions and the ruinous state of the town walls. The population will remain loyal only as long as the sultan can protect and feed them. A few days of siege means starvation. The sultan may attempt to escape, but in that case Fez will acknowledge the pretenders.

"The sultan's troops were disastrously routed; the remnant fled to Fez, abandoning everything, artillery, tents, rifles, ammunition, money and stores. Practically the whole army was routed, as comparatively very few troops were left in Fez. The road from Fez to Tangier is open and safe at present, but the pretender's prestige will receive an enormous stimulus and loyal tribes will join his cause. If the sultan escapes or can defend Fez the south will support him, in which case civil war is inevitable."

Mr. Harris, the correspondent of The Times at Fez, is said to be a confidential adviser of the Sultan of Morocco.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by all druggists.

Special Methodist Services

Boston, Dec. 29.—Jesse Lee day was celebrated by the Methodist Episcopal churches throughout New England yesterday with special services in honor of the founder of the Methodist church in this region. The Methodists of Boston celebrated the event at People's Temple by a mass meeting which was in the nature of a thanks jubilee offering for the successful completion of the task of raising $20,000,000, begun three years ago.

BUT TWO COURSES

Wisest One Being Pursued In Dealing With Cattle Disease

Boston, Dec. 29.—Dr. D. E. Salmon, chief of the United States bureau of animal industry, has issued a statement regarding the prosecution of the work of exterminating the foot and mouth disease and especially in answer to the efforts of "certain persons who have systematically tried to work up a sentiment against the killing of the herds affected." He says:

"We are obliged to face the fact that there are only two courses to pursue. Either the diseased animals must all be killed off and the contagion stamped out immediately, thus relieving the state quarantine restrictions at the earliest possible moment, or we must sit down and watch the disease and try to prevent its spreading by quarantine.

"How long the quarantine would be prolonged in that case and how much the disease would spread cannot be possibly foretold. It is certain, however, that everything which delays the operations of killing and disinfection will prolong the quarantine just to the extent that such work is delayed, and the $100,000 a day loss, more or less, to the state, will continue for a correspondingly longer period.

"Up to the present time, 1300 head of cattle have been slaughtered in Massachusetts, and if the work goes on as it should with continued co-operation from the state officials and with a friendly public sentiment, all of the known infected herds should be killed and disposed of within the next week or 10 days. There is every reason to believe that this will be accomplished."

No Ill Feeling Against Us

Rome, Dec. 29.—It having been reported that Commander Reeder of the United States training ship Hartford said the Hartford would not come to an Italian port, fearing an unfavorable reception on account of the incident of the officers of the United States cruiser Chicago at Venice last spring, The Associated Press has been requested officially to deny the existence of any animosity towards the United States, either among the Italian people or on the part of the Italian government. If American ships of war come to Italy they will be heartily welcomed everywhere.

Looking Up Richardson Record

Littleton, N. H., Dec. 29.—Officer Rollins of the Revere, Mass., police force, who was detailed to look up matters connected with the former residence in this town of Miss Catherine V. Richardson, now under arrest upon the charge of poisoning her mother at the latter's home in Revere, has arrived here, but will give no inkling as to the information he has secured.

Transport Struck a Rock

Manila, Dec. 29.—The United States army transport Sherman struck a rock near San Bernardino light, south of Luzon, Friday night, and sustained a heavy shock and some of her plates were damaged. After the accident 26 inches of water was found in her forward bilges. The steamer proceeded for Manila and arrived here yesterday.

Dewey Warmly Welcomed

Ponce, P. R., Dec. 29.—Admiral Dewey arrived here overland from San Juan and received an ovation. The city was decorated in honor of the admiral's arrival, which was followed by a procession, with bands of music, through the streets. Later the admiral boarded the Mayflower and sailed for Culebra.

A Confession of Guil

Brussels, Dec. 29.—The Petit Bleu has published M. Giron's own story of his relations with the Crown Princess of Saxony in which he admits the paternity of her sixth child.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Commander Thomas B. Heward, now on duty at the naval academy, has been selected to command the new monitor Nevada, which is to go into commission about Feb. 1.

The "good intent" dry dock at Algiers, opposite New Orleans, has sunk. It is not believed it can be again floated. It was built 35 years ago.

Damage to the extent of nearly $10,000 was caused by fire and water in the hat factory of T. C. Millard at Danbury, Conn. The fire started from an unknown cause.

Dolly Earle, aged 30, a member of the "Merry Widows" company, playing at a burlesque house at Philadelphia, committed suicide in her dressing room by swallowing carbolic acid.

There are 35 vacancies in the grade of assistant surgeon in the army and little prospect of filling them. The next examination will be held in Washington in April.

Colonel Samuel H. Leonard, a citizen of Newton, Mass., and one of the oldest expressmen in New England, is dead. He was born in Bolton, Mass., in 1825 and served with distinction in the Civil war.

Joseph O. Tiffany, widely known in educational circles, died suddenly at Attleboro, Mass., aged 68.

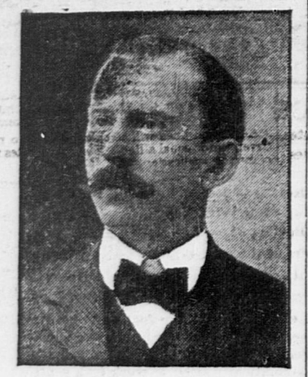

Cornelius Vanderbilt continues to improve. His temperature is slowly dropping toward normal. The attending physician is well satisfied with his patient's progress.

Arthur B. Gove, a retired Boston merchant, 79 years old, was found dead in a bath tub at a hotel in that city. Mr Gove's fortune was made in the furniture business.

Good Afternoon.

The prospects for a new executive department to be known as the Department of Commerce and Labor are now regarded as excellent.

Any attempt to prevent the ratification of the Cuban treaty by the members of the House will not be looked on as good republicanism.

Instead of having been violated, the Monroe Doctrine has been strengthened by the recent action of Great Britain and Germany in South America.

Very little indeed is heard concerning the organization of the city government of 1903. Some expect no change in department officials, but there may be one or two.

It would be a good thing to have the Quincy double Representative district divided into two districts. Now is the time to introduce a petition at the opening of the Legislature.

Col. W. J. Bryan is going to Mexico to investigate the proposed change to the gold standard. As a discredited politician in his own countr the Colonel will not have much weight with men of the Diaz caliber.

The English people are very sore over the Venezuelan situation, they feel that their politicians have played second fiddle to Germany's ill-advised comic opera.

Some deplore the fact that work locating the new Washington school house was commenced on a Friday, but Friday is often the luckiest day of the week with many, and there have been too many delays.

That was a grand body of men which completely filled the body of the Wollaston Congregational church Sunday afternoon, and a congregation which any minister would be pleased to address every Sunday. Men, usually are not so conspicuous at the churches.

Some Senators who called on the President to talk of an important appointment, found him inclined to talk of "Bill Sewall" the Maine guide, from whom he had just received a letter. Finally one of the statesmen said, "Mr. President you seem to be very much interested in Sewall." "I am," said Mr. Roosevelt. "He is the only man who addresses me as "Friend Theodore."

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The old blighting superstitions will disappear fast enough. The danger is that with them will go out of sight for a time the great truths and moral sanctions which are bound up with them.—Christian Register.

☞ The outworn old phrase "high noon" still appears in reports of weddings with tiresome frequency. Is it not time to send it into banishment together with "the fire fiend," "no reason has yet been asigned for his rash act," and "he fell with a dull, sickening thud?" What excuse for the continued existence of such tedious repetitions of words so frayed and ragged, so loopholed by the misuse of generations? And what is the difference between high noon and low noon anyway? —New York Tribune.

AN HIGH IDEAL.

Address at Wollaston on St. John the Evangelist.

Patron Saint of the Masons.

Three Lodges in Attendance at the Celebration.

The celebration of St. John's day by Wollaston lodge of Masons on Sunday was a grand success.

Wollaston lodge turned out nearly 70 members, and Rural and Massachusetts lodges about 40 each. All three organizations assembled at the lodge room of Wollaston lodge and marched in a body to the church. Many ladies and friends also attended, filling the church.

On the wall in the rear of the pastor's desk was a large square and compass with the letter "G" in evergreen, and on the platform were beautiful palms.

The church choir, composed of Mrs. Alice W. MacGregor, Miss Sarah Belle Huff, Mr. Samuel M. King and Mr. William E. Howard, added much to the service, giving several numbers of the program which follows :

Organ prelude,—"Fest Fantasie," Tschirch
Call to worship.
Anthem,—"Praise the Lord," Randegger
Responsive service, Number 30
Hymn,—"Nearer my God to Thee," No. 442
Old Testament lesson from the writings of Solomon.
Contralto solo,—"O Rest in the Lord," Handel
New Testament lesson from the writings of John the Evangelist.
Choral responses.
Prayer.
The Lord's Prayer.
Hymn,—"Jerusalem the Golden," No. 789
Address,—John the Evangelist.
Rev. E. A. Chase.
Trio,—"O Paradise," Leslie
Concluding prayer.
Benediction and Amen.
Organ postlude,—"Festal March," Calkin

Rev. Edward Abbot Chase, the pastor of the church, who is chaplain of Wollaston and Massachusetts lodges, gave the address on "Saint John, the Evangelist," a patron saint of the Masons. He welcomed the brethren, first for their loyalty to the Bible, and second because it was for the good of Masons to attend services like these. Masons have selected symbols and men to represent their belief. Among these were John the Baptist, and John the Evangelist, two very different type. The latter was the perfect embodiment of Christian affection; a man of virtue, a leader and a moulder. From his writings germane to Masonic thought, Mr. Chase took for his theme "Light" and "Love." The problem of the day was to make both practical. God is light; God is love; he said. The Masons prospered because they held to old traditions.

At the December communication of Massachusetts lodge, Chaplain Chase was presented a beautiful and valuable chaplains badge, which he wore conspicuously on this occasion.

Of Quincy Granite.

The handsome memorial to be placed upon the firemen's lot at Woodbrook cemetery, Woburn, will be cut of Quincy granite and will cost $600. It will stand 10 feet high. The base is 5x3 and will be rock face finish. On the face of the second die will be the letters, "W. F. D." The die will be polished on four sides. On the face of the plinth a fireman's helmet and crossed trumpets will be cut in bas relief, and will be surrounded by a wreath of laurel. On each corner of the plinth there will be a polished column with carved capitals. The monument will be surmounted by a polished urn.

Several Baptised.

At the Sunday morning service at the Wollaston Baptist church there was special Christmas music and at the close of the sermon the following were baptised by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Webber: Mr. Harvey Block, Mrs. Churchill, Miss Winnifred Church, Mrs. Eben Hardy, Miss Eva Sheldon and Miss Alice Gurney. Miss Florence Barbour was also baptized by her father, Dr. Thomas Barbour. The service was beautiful and most impressive coming at this season of the year.

Illustrated.

The service at the Wollaston Unitarian church Sunday evening was well attended. Some beautiful illustrations of the Christ child were given by the stereopticon under the management of Mr. Edward Cummings. The pastor, Mr. Pratt, introduced the pictures, while the Wollaston orchestra assisted by Mr. Avery Bennett at the organ furnished the music. Hymns were sung by the congregation.

BOUGHT HER TITLE.

New Light on the Marriage of Quincy Mansion School Girl.

The marriage of Miss Gertrude Twining, a graduate of the Quincy Mansion school in this city, is of international importance. A London dispatch to the Herald says:

The marriage of the octogenarian Marquis of Donegal and the 22 year-old Canadian heiress, Miss Gertrude Twining, grand-daughter of a great shipbuilder of Nova Scotia, is now said to have resulted from the peculiar advertisements which so startled London society for several weeks previous to the coronation ceremony.

While the scramble for seats in Westminster Abbey was at its height an advertisement appeared in the London and New York papers offering the title of marchioness, which, of course, included a husband and the frantically sought for privilege of a seat in the Abbey in return for the settlement of $100,000 upon the anonymous nobleman.

It was the matter of general knowledge that the Marquis of Donegal was the author of the advertisement and was willing to swap his title for a cash consideration. Mrs. Twining, who had the most ambitious aspirations for her attractive and wealthy daughter, is said to have placed herself in communication with the marquis. An arrangement was made by which the nobleman was presented to Miss Twining at the Isthmian Club. The tall, young Canadian beauty, a really regal girl, made a deep impression on the patriarchal nobleman, and he was not slow in pressing his suit. Within five weeks of the day he was presented he led the Wellesley graduate to the nuptial altar.

The pre-nuptial arrangements, it is said, provided for a settlement of $40,000 a year on the marquis for life. He is 81 years old and feeble. He cannot live long, and Mrs. Twining is credited with having driven a rather clever bargain in procuring the exalted title of marchioness for her daughter.

Eunice M. Wrisley.

Eunice, widow of Charles E. Wrisley, died at her home on Edison street, after a very brief illness of pneumonia, Thursday evening, December twenty-fifth, aged 79 years.

Mrs. Wrisley was the daughter of Lemuel and Alice Baxter, and was born in Quincy, Dec. 4, 1823, A brother, Lemuel Baxter, well known in business circles, died several years ago. Mrs. Wrisley was a direct descendant of one of the pioneers of Quincy and was related to many eminent families now living in the city. Mrs. Wrisley, however, was the last surviving member of her father's family.

In 1841, Eunice Baxter was married to Charles E. Wrisley, who died twenty-seven years ago, leaving his widow with a family of nine children, who with ten grandchildren and two great-grandchildren survive their mother. Of these children, Mary, wife of G. M. Hawes lives in South Weymouth, and Abby, wife of Dr. Walter E. Reid, resides in Boston. All the other members, Mrs. Walter W. Slade, Mrs. Danford W. Arnold, Mr. C. F. Wrisley, Mr. Frank A. Wrisley, and the Misses Martha B., Annie B. and Minnie L. Wrisley reside in Quincy, four of them being members of their mother's household.

Mrs. Wrisley was a life-long member of the First Unitarian church and a constant attendant at divine worship until her hearing became impaired, when she devoted her time to the study of her Bible and prayer book. Mrs. Wrisley was not in the least self-assertive. On the contrary, she made the home-life of her family an ideal one by the exercise of a calm and considerate spirit. She was also very thoughtful of others, ministering to their comfort in times of trouble by kindly offerings of delicacies made with her own gentle hands. Her religion was indeed exemplified by practical administration.

Mrs. Wrisley's love of flowers was so great that every plant, however puny, responded with rapid growth and abundant blossom to her kindly care. Her love for music was almost a passion. She became absorbed in both instrumental productions and singing.

The funeral was held at the late residence Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. E. C. Butler officiating.

The selections "Nearer my God to Thee" and "Lead kindly light" were tenderly rendered by Mrs. Frank Jackson Moore.

The burial was at Mount Wollaston. The floral tributes, which were many and very beautiful, completely covered the last resting place of the mother whose life passed to the great beyond as gently as passes the breath of the flowers.

☞ To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

That Pale Face Tells you that you need iron and you can have it in the most approved and agreeable form by taking Pept-iron.

This new iron tonic ironizes the blood, and that means it gives the face, lips, cheeks, and ears a good, healthy color, and strengthens and tones the whole system.

It is a specific for paleness so common to delicate women and girls, for all anemic and dyspeptic conditions in either sex at any age, for nervousness, weak, unstrung nerves, poor circulation, cold hands and feet. Needs Iron

It is pleasant to the taste, acceptable to the stomach, and does not injure the teeth nor cause constipation.

"I have now been taking Pept-iron six weeks," said a grateful lady the other day, "and am realizing great benefit, feel stronger, and know by what my friends say that I look better. I am glad my confidence in Hood's Sarsaparilla led me to take Pept-iron." Peptiron

Peptiron is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

GOVERNMENT TRIAL.

The Lawrence and Macdonough to be Speeded Friday.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the coming trials of the U. S. torpedo boat destroyers Lawrence and Macdonough, which will have their government tests on Jan. 2, says the Globe. Both of these boats were built at the works of the Fore River ship and engine company.

The Lawrence and Macdonough are sister ships and were built from designs submitted by the builders. To be accepted by the government the boats will have to make a speed equal to 28 knots an hour, this speed to be maintained for an hour. The Lawrence has already done this. In addition to the speed test, the boats will have an endurance test, which calls for a 26-knot speed to be maintained for two consecutive hours.

The Macdonough has never had an official trial yet, although she has been out on several builders' trips. It has been reported, unofficially, that she made 29 knots on one of her builders' trials. It is said that on the day when the Macdonough will have her speed test the Lawrence will have her endurance trial. These trips will be made off Provincetown, in Massachusetts bay.

The boats have been ready for some time, awaiting their final trials, and the only thing that has prevented their final runs before this has been the non-arrival of the trial board from Washington. The sight of these two boats, going at such a tremendous rate of speed, would be well worth witnessing.

The Lawrence was named after Capt. James Lawrence, whose ship, the Chesapeake, was defeated by the British ship Shannon during the war of 1812. The fight has been made memorable by Capt. Lawrence's dying words, "Don't give up the ship!" The Lawrence will have her trials in practically the same waters where the man for whom she was named fell, fatally wounded, on the deck of the Chespeake.

The Macdonough was named for Commodore Thomas McDonough, who fought and won the battle of lake Champlain during the same war.

Hewitson Associates.

The Edward Hewitson Associates ended a most productive and pleasant year's work Saturday evening when they met at the home of Rev. Edward A. Chase on Marion street.

The following officers for 1903 were unanimously elected:

President, Gordon L. Gannett.
Vice President, Lindy Fowler.
Secretary, Chester Tenney.
Treasurer, Fred Mitchell.
Executive Committee, Joseph Whittier and Gorham Nickerson.

The new president was welcomed heartily and he responded.

A club house was talked and henceforth the members will cooperate towards obtaining their desire.

An exceedingly friendly and encouraging letter of resignation from Mrs. Tenney was read and the club showed regrets in losing such an efficient head and mainstay.

After a hearty vote of thanks was extended Rev. and Mrs. Chase for their kindness. Mr. Mitchell took charge of entertainment which consisted of violin and mandolin selections by Messrs. Simmons, E. Armstrong, Brigham B. Armstrong and Wallace Bennett accompanied by his brother Avery Bennett.

Mr. Walter E. Simmons favored the club in his usual witty manner, with two readings, one an original paper and the second, a selection entitled, "Burdock's Goat."

Before leaving the fellows united in singing of college and popular songs.

Pioneer Methodist.

Rev. Jesse Wagner of Wollaston, in common with other Methodist divines, preached Sunday morning on the life and works of Jesse Lee, the pioneer Methodist preacher of New England in 1790. A collection was taken for the Jesse Lee chair of preaching in the Boston University school of Theology.

Speed of Birds.

Latest experiments show that the speed of birds is overestimated. Pigeons rarely travel over forty miles an hour. The record, and that for a comparatively short distance, is fifty-five miles an hour.

A Giant English Oak.

"Winfarthing oak," according to reliable testimony, was 700 years old at the time of the conquest. William is said to have surveyed it closely before making his famous remark, "Could I live to be but one-fourth the age of this tree the world would be mine."

—The American laundries of Boston have raised their price for laundry work, on account of the increased cost of fuel.

DIED.

HARDWICK—In Brookline, Dec. 26, Mrs. Emily Adams, widow of James M. Hardwick, late of Quincy.

DUGAN—In Quincy, Dec. 27, Mrs. Mary J., wife of Mr. James H. Dugan of Side street, aged 24 years, 2 months and 3 days.

FEE—In Hingham, at Crow Point, Dec. 25, Mr. Michael H. Fee, aged 28 years.

CITY BREVITIES.

New moon tonight.

After Wednesday, write it 1903.

Albert R. Shed is in New York on a brief visit.

Mrs. Tenney of Prospect avenue is visiting relatives in Worcester.

The ladies of the Granite City club held a matinee whist Wednesday afternoon.

A lunch room has been opened in the block on Hancock street near the High school building.

The brick block on Chestnut street is being connected with the public sewer on Foster street.

Arthur Hultman, who has been in New Hampshire for the past two months, has returned to Quincy.

It is reported that the next lot of hard coal which arrives in Quincy will cost the consumer $14 per ton.

Things are now done with dignity at the district court, as each session is opened and closed by the court officer.

Miss Bessie Kellar of Billings street is spending the Christmas and New Year holidays with relatives in Camden, Me.

The "Wollaston Glee Club" is going to repeat the "Sanctus" by "Osgood" at the first concert of the season in January.

The old French house which is being made into a detention hospital is nearly ready for use, but it is hoped it will be a long time before it is required.

Miss Carrie Pfaffman and Miss Lena Pfaffman of Wollaston have gone to Worcester to spend several days with their brother, Mr. Philip Pfaffman.

Representative elect Freeman is said to be slated for the Ways and Means Committee of the House, and Representative-elect Fallon for the Committee on Drainage.

There is to be a reception in the vestry of Baptist church, Wollaston, to the mothers of the children in the Sunday School primary department on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

The body of Mrs. Emily Adams, widow of James M. Hardwick, formerly of Quincy, who died in Brookline last Saturday was brought to Quincy today and placed in a tomb in the old cemetery.

Many people who were fortunate enough to own a horse and sleigh or had money enough left from Christmas to hire one, took advantage of the fine day and sleighing Sunday. Most people however had to be satisfied with watching the few fortunate ones.

On Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Ladies' Aid Society of the Wollaston Baptist church will meet with Mrs. G. F. Pinkham. A large attendance is urged as there is much sewing to be done for the needy. Any cast off garments will be gratefully received.

THACKERAY WAS BORED.

An Amusing Incident of the Author's Second Visit to Boston.

During Thackeray's second visit to Boston Mr. James T. Fields, his host, was asked to invite Thackeray to attend an evening meeting of a scientific club, which was to be held at the house of a distinguished member.

I was, writes Mr. Fields, very reluctant to ask him to be present, for I knew he was easily bored, and I was fearful that a prosy essay or geological paper might be presented and felt certain that should such be the case he would be exasperated with me, the innocent cause of his affliction.

My worst fears were realized. I dared not look at Thackeray. I felt that his eye was upon me. My distress may be imagined when I saw him rise, quite deliberately, and make his exit very noiselessly into a small anteroom adjoining. The apartment was dimly lighted, but he knew that I knew he was there.

Then began a series of pantomimic feats impossible to describe. He threw an imaginary person—myself, of course—upon the floor and proceeded to stab him several times with a paper folder, which he caught up for the purpose.

After disposing of his victim in this way he was not satisfied, for the dull lecture still went on in the other room, so he fired an imaginary revolver several times at an imaginary head.

The whole thing was inimitably done. I hoped nobody saw it but myself. Years afterward a ponderous, fat witted young man put the question squarely to me:

"What was the matter with Mr. Thackeray that night the club met at Mr. ——'s house?"

PRESERVATION OF YOUTH.

Scientists May Avert Inroads Made by Advancing Years.

In an article on "The Newest Conceptions of Life" in Harper's Magazine Carl Snyder intimates a belief that recent scientific discoveries will lead to others by which youth may be prolonged. Here is his argument for the belief:

There is one phase of the problem that seems nearer to our day and time. That is the realization of Ponce de Leon's quest of prolonged youth. Arrest of growth, the stunted plant, the deformed or undeveloped child, the idiot, the cripple, the prematurely senile—are these not too familiar to our daily view? Yet why should the mechanism of nature, so seeming sure, turning out a thousand perfect specimens, slip so sadly with the thousand and first? We know in part and can in part control. An impoverished soil, consumptive or otherwise diseased tissue, lack of sunlight and air—these are the producers of the physically, mentally and morally maimed. With narcotics and poisons we may stop development, whether it be that of a plant or a child.

But what may be arrested may perchance be influenced in other ways. We have seen how the whole drift of present day physiology is to reduce life to the connected and concerted play of the ferments. The identity of the two processes holds in most unexpected ways. Heat and cold, chloroform, the poisons, the toxins secreted by the virulent microbes even, act upon the test tube fermentations of the laboratory in precisely the same way as upon the living organism. Even the curious fermentlike solutions of fine platinum and gold may be "poisoned," "chloroformed" or "killed," as if they were alive. What is disease, malaction and death for the one is the same for the other.

It seems to be clear, too, that the condition of growth, whether of a grain of wheat or the germ of a man, is the production or appearance of distinct enzymes—ferments—at each stage. Cessation of growth must mean the disappearance or lapse in activity of these special enzymes. What we call growing old seems merely a series of destructive fermentations. It is probable that these are present from the beginning; that throughout all life there is a struggle, so to speak, between the two; that in some sense, as Professor Loeb once remarked, death is a physical agent, the material antithesis of life.

If the action of the malt enzyme upon starch is reversible, so is that of the ferments which convert the active tissue, the living protoplasm, into the relatively dead fatty or connective or cartilage or bone tissue, the characteristic, as the great Russian biologist Metchnikoff has shown, of advancing years. As the discovery of the constructive ferments gave at least a clew to a complete account of the whole life process, so to those who have closely and reflectively followed the development of biochemistry the discovery of reversibility in fermentation may in time disclose the reversibility of the life process—the more concrete phrase, the arrest of death, the prevention of old age, the preservation of youth.

FUSSINESS.

Medical Press Has Elevated This Into a Disease.

The medical press has conferred no small boon on many sufferers by inventing a Greek or pseudo Greek term for their otherwise democratic complaints. The latest of these inventions is now recorded. The disease is fussiness, and the medical name, according to the London Graphic, is mysophobia.

The mysophobe is he who when seated by his table lifts his glass to see if it is fingered, and if he detects a smudge uses his napkin to dispose of it. In short, mysophobia is the exaggeration of that respect for cleanliness which convinced Svengali of the madness of Englishmen when he surprised the Laird in his matutinal tub.

The lady in the play who seized on every one's watch chain and began rubbing it with chamois leather was a mysophobe, and the irritating man who begs your pardon and picks some microscopic piece of fluff from your sleeve is another. The servant, though most would benefit by inoculation with the disease, who insists on dusting papers is another, and the disease is widely prevalent among all housekeepers in the spring. It is nice to know at last just what to call it, but the medical press is more inclined to suggest scientific names than remedies.

A Cure For Seasickness.

Dr. E. Castelli of Washington calls attention to this communication concerning seasickness which has been received from the Italian ambassador to the United States:

"My Dear Dr. Castelli—Knowing that you are interested in the treatment of seasickness, I take pleasure in giving you my personal observations on the subject. After having found by experience that the only way not to suffer from seasickness was to lie in a horizontal position, I happened to notice that fixing my eyes upon a mirror while dressing, even when the sea was stormy, was sufficient to relieve the unpleasant sensations of seasickness. During my last ocean trip I tried this accidentally discovered remedy and always with good results. Take into consideration my observation and make it yours if you think it may be of benefit to science."

Novel Weather Warnings.

It is proposed to use electric light signals at night and flags by day to warn the fruit growers of the Santa Clara valley as to the approaching weather conditions. Professor A. G. Adie of the weather bureau at San Francisco has suggested that during the months of February, March and April the orchardists be warned by colored lights of the approach of frosts, which would enable them to smudge by burning oil, etc. An electric tower 220 feet in height, located in San Jose, Cal., can be seen over the greater part of the county.

Solicum.

A Copenhagen chemist has succeeded in producing a material called "solicum," which possesses qualities which will render it of the greatest importance to the caoutchouc industry. It is derived, it seems, from asphalt and can be used for the manufacture of linoleum, rubbers, insulators, etc. It is also claimed that it makes an absolutely waterproof paint in all colors.

A Race With Satan

[Original.]

We were in the square in the center of the town talking of the robberies. The moon now shone feebly behind a mist and again was hidden by clouds, leaving the sky as black as ink. The air was balmy, and at times a few big drops of rain pattered on the ground. Off in the west there were flashes of lightning and the low muttering of thunder.

Up comes little Maggie O'Brien and tells how she fell asleep in a barn and was wakened by four men lying low in the hay at the other end, talking about robbing St. Patrick's church at B., ten miles away, and how they set out an hour ago for the purpose.

"What's that you say?" queried Father Higgin, who just then came into the square, passing from the chapel to his rooms.

"The robbers have gone to git the silver service at St. Patrick's church at B. Maggie O'Brien heard 'em sayin' so."

We all made a rush for the stable, mounted Mike Monahan on the best horse we could find and started him to B. to give warning of the intended sacrilege. Some said two men would be better, but there was only the one fresh horse, the other being very tired. Mike shot down the pike, which for a moment lay white toward the valley, then was swallowed in gloom. The last we saw of him was on the crest of the hill beyond, his figure dimly shown by a flash.

"What was that movin' up behind him?" asked Tim Murphy.

"He'll no give the warnin'," said Maggie O'Brien. "It was one of the robbers."

"Tut, child," said her father; "'twas no such thing."

"Maybe 'twas the divil comin' up to hinder him," said Teddy Gallagher. "They say Satan has a foine collection of service plate an' dines off 'em every Sunday."

By this time it began to blow and to rain, and the lightning was so vivid and the thunder so loud that we all went into the inn at the corner of the square and sat there tippling for an hour, when all of a sudden the door flew open and Mike Monahan, white as a ghost and drenched with rain, staggered in and fell in a heap into one of the seats beside the fireplace.

"What is it, Mike?" shouted all at once. Never a word of explanation did we get till we had poured two glasses of brandy down his throat. Then he stiffened up and told the story:

"I'd made a matther of three mile whin the storm kem on in earnest. There was such a rattlin' an' rollin' of thunder that I couldn't hear me horse's hoofs on the stones. Then sudent, lookin' up, I saw to the east a foine bit of sky wid the moon in the middle, while the west was still black wid the grumblin' storm. An' says I, I says, 'In the fair spot there the angels is a grinnin' at Satan in the storm beyant an' remarkin' 'Ye'll not git the plate, ye spalpeen.' An' I felt happy as a pig wallyin' in a foine bit of mud at bein' the divine instrument to prevint the robbery. But what's that I was hearin' behind me—a clatterin' of horse's hoofs? I could hear it between the rollin' thunder, an' onct whin I looked back I saw it by a flash of lightnin'. Howly mither! It was Satan himself! I knew he had come out to race wid me to prevint me interferin' wid his servants. I dug me heels into me horse's belly an' laid on the whip, determaned to kill both the horse an' mesilf for the church if I might but save the holy service. But do what I could the one behind was gainin' on me. I was goin' at a mad pace, an' just as I plunged down into the hollow where the bridge crosses the creek I looked up an' saw a black cloud the exact shape of Satan's face, wid the two horns on his head, passin' over the moon. Then it was black ag'in all about me, an' I couldn't see a yard before me.

"Just as I kem on to the bridge me horse stumbled on a loose plank, an' I shot over his head. I could hear the divil shoot by me, though divil a bit of him could I see for the darkness, an' as he clattered up the road there kem back to me his fiend's laugh. Then I knew he'd got the betther of me, an', findin' me horse had gone lame, what could I do but lead him back?"

"Tut, man," said O'Brien, "ye've been scared by one in league wid the robbers. Why didn't we sind yer betther?"

"Scared, is it? An' ye don't believe my story? There's proof of it. Satan as he wint by me threw somethin' at me that caught on me horse's ear, somethin' that shines wid hell's own fire. Ivery toime the lightnin' kem it flared and went out after the dark kem back. Go outside an' ye'll get it."

O'Brien, with a growl, went out and in another moment came in, holding up something hanging to a chain.

"Howly mither!" cried the crowd. "It's a rosary."

There, true enough, was a string of beads, to which was suspended a silver cross.

Now how it was that the devil possessed a rosary no one could tell. In truth, some believed that it wasn't the devil at all. O'Brien said it was some one who knew Mike Monahan's mission and was determined to prevent his reaching the church. At any rate, we were all of a shiver at the mystery.

It was 12 o'clock when we got the explanation. We were going across the square to our homes when Father Higgin rode up, covered with mud, and told us he had been to B. and given the warning, and the robbers were caught in the act.

"I lost my rosary," he added. "I think it was in leaning over to see the way." F. A. MITCHEL.

Three Hundred Children Killed

Victoria, Dec. 29.—Correspondence of The Associated Press received from Yokohama includes details of a baby farming conspiracy in Osaka. An elderly woman, her married daughter, husband and two others have been arrested for infanticide, and it is learned that since they began operations this year 300 children were killed.

Trip to Manila Unnecessary

Washington, Dec. 29.—Secretary Root has decided that it is impracticable for General Chaffee, General Smith and other officers to go to Manila to testify before the Glenn court martial, as the purposes of the investigation can be fully subserved, so far as the testimony of the officers named is concerned, by securing their depositions.

Wiping Out Ladronism

Manila, Dec. 29.—Governor Taft's energetic expressions in the matter of the suppression of ladronism have produced unusual enthusiasm in this direction. Numerous municipal presidents in the provinces of Cavite and Rizal are assisting the native constabulary to run down the bandits.

Doctor Charged With Murder

Salt Lake, Dec. 29.—A charge of murder in the first degree is made against Dr. E. S. Payne of this city, in whose office Miss Anna D. Hill, a school teacher, was found dead. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict that death resulted from anaesthetic administered with criminal intent.

Child Hanged Herself

Failed to Find Hartwell

Ayer, Mass., Dec. 29.—An organized search for Seth W. Hartwell, the aged resident of Littleton who has been missing from his home for the past week, was started yesterday. The searching party was composed of 400 men and a bloodhound. The party broke up into small groups and continued the search, but no trace of the missing man was found.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

NOW UP TO VENEZUELA

To Complete Basis For Full Hearing Before The Hague

GERMANY RELAXES CLAIM

Will Not Press For Immediate Payment—Venezuela Willing to Make Any Concession and Expresses Intention to Pay All Her Debts

Washington, Dec. 29.—The Venezuelan government is now in possession of the complete notes of Great Britain and Germany containing the various reservations made by those governments before the decision was reached that the issues between Venezuela and the European governments having claims against her should be referred to The Hague tribunal for arbitration. The United States, having acted as an intermediary in the steps leading up to the acceptance of arbitration, now turns over to the Venezuelan government the formal work of completing the basis for a full hearing before The Hague court. The notes were transmitted to the Venezuelan government through United States Minister Bowen at Caracas.

There are no new features in the situation here. Officials are hopeful that the governments interested will work harmoniously and conscientiously to reach an early and final settlement of the trouble. It is certain this government will use every effort to have the blockade called off, pending consideration of the questions at issue by The Hague tribunal, for the double reason that its continuance is always a menace to peace and order and because of the harmful effects on American shipping to Venezuelan ports. Just what the allied governments have determined upon in that regard it is difficult to say, as Secretary Hay uniformly has refused to make public their reservations and demands as a preliminary to arbitration, feeling that such information should come from the governments themselves.

Anxious For Speedy Settlement

Caracas, Dec. 29.—United States Minister Bowen and Lopez Baralt, Venezuelan minister of foreign affairs, held a long conference Saturday night. Mr. Bowen, obeying instructions from Washington, conveyed to Senor Baralt President Roosevelt's refusal to act as arbitrator in the Venezuelan difficulty. He recommended that the matter be taken to the international peace court at The Hague, which had been expressly organized to consider questions in which the honor of a country or the disposition of territory were not concerned. He suggested the organization of a commission to sit in Washington, the allied powers to be represented on this commission by their ambassadors to the United States, and Venezuela by a delegate, and the commission to sign a document setting forth the matters to be decided at the Hague court. Mr. Bowen said also that Germany would not press for an immediate payment and that she had agreed to accept a guarantee based on a percentage of the customs receipts.

As a result of this conference Senor Baralt telegraphed President Castro to return from La Victoria. The president will reach here today and Venezuela's answer to the foregoing proposal will be given then. It is understood that Venezuela will make any concession, even abandoning her demand that her navy be returned. Through the Venezuelan delegate to the commission the Venezuelan government will ask that the blockade be lifted at once. Senor Baralt has expressed the desire that Mr. Bowen represent Venezuela on the commission. If Mr. Bowen cannot accept the post it is suggested in official circles that it be given to W. W. Russell, secretary to the American legation.

Senor Baralt prepared the following statement for The Associated Press:

"Venezuela agrees to pay all her debts, the payments to be guaranteed by a certain percentage of the customs receipts or by the flotation of a special loan, also to be guaranteed. I believe the proposal to submit the issues to The Hague will be acceptable to President Castro. I am sorry that President Roosevelt was unable to act as arbitrator."

Fresh Outbreak of Revolution

Willemstad, Dec. 29.—The Venezuelan revolutionists have resumed active hostilities against President Castro. There occurred on Saturday a lively engagement between 1200 revolutionists under General Riera and government forces at Cauyarao, in the vicinity of Coro. Details of the engagement are lacking, but it is known here that the revolutionists had artillery. The government forces were commanded by General Castillo. General Riera retained his position.

The armistice between the government and the revolutionists has just expired.

Continuance of Blockade

London, Dec. 29.—A dispatch to The Central News from Rome says it has been semi-officially announced that under special agreements the blockade of the Venezuelan coast by the allies will continue during the arbitration of the issues.

To Take In Tropical Sights

Mexico City, Dec. 29.—William J. Bryan and his family have left here on an extended trip to the tropical part of the state of Vera Cruz.

SECOND DEGREE MURDER

Bitzer Pleads Guilty and Is Sent to Prison For Life

Greenfield, Mass., Dec. 29.—At the opening of the superior court today, Louis Bitzer retracted his plead of not guilty and pleaded guilty, in the second degree, to the murder on Dec. 31, 1901, of his clerk, Ida Colombe, and his son, Louis M. Bitzer, at Turners Falls. The government accepted his plea, and Bitzer was sent to state prison for life.

The government officers held that it would not have been possible to obtain conviction for murder in the first degree. Frederick L. Greene, counsel for Bitzer, said that if his client had been acquitted on the charge of murdering Miss Colombe he would have been declared insane on the charge of murdering his son. In that case, Bitzer would have been sent to the prison for the criminally insane at Bridgewater. With a dual murder, it was impossible to escape from both, and Bitzer preferred going to state prison rather than to Bridgewater. Under the statutes, it is easier to obtain a pardon from the state prison than from the prison for insane at Bridgewater.

It is generally believed that the shooting of the clerk was accidental, and that then Bitzer became frenzied, and attempted to take the lives of the four members of his family.

Incident of Thirty Years' War

Brussels, Dec. 29.—The Dutch government has received a telegram from Batavia, Dutch East Indies, announcing the capture of the sultan's family in the mountains of Achin, Sumatra, where it had taken refuge.

The colonial troops of the Netherlands have been at war with the Achinese for almost 30 years. The trouble arose from the fact that the Sultan of the Achinese refused to recognize the suzerainty of the Netherlands. The sultan was recently reported as being killed. Achinese is in the northern part of Sumatra.

Drank Poisoned Wine

Chicago, Dec. 29.—Poisoned, it is charged, by means of a bottle of wine given as a Christmas present, Richard Cummings, 50 years of age, died yesterday at the home of Mrs. Lizzie Shanahan, where he was boarding. William Moniak, his wife, Theresa Moniak, and their 14-year-old daughter, Mary, are under arrest, on suspicion of having poisoned Cummings. A bitter quarrel is said to have taken place between Cummings and Mrs. Shanahan on one side and the Moniaks on the other.

Prelates In Elevator Accident

Pittsburg, Dec. 29.—While Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ryan and other leading churchmen were descending in an elevator at the Hotel Schenly Saturday night to meet Pittsburg citizens the cage gave way and dropped 20 feet. None of the occupants was injured, but great excitement prevailed. The concussion broke the lighting pipes at the bottom of the shaft and for a time the reception proceeded with each guest holding a lighted candle.

Death of Fremont's Widow

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 29.—Mrs. Jessie Benton Fremont, widow of General Fremont, died Saturday night at her home in this city, aged 78. For the past three years the widow of the "Pathfinder" had been extremely feeble as a result of a fall. Mrs. Fremont was the daughter of Thomas H. Benton, for 30 years a United States senator.

Miles at Chinese Capital

Pekin, Dec. 29.—The ladies of the American legation and General Miles and his party were entertained at luncheon yesterday by the dowager empress and the emperor. United States Minister Conger also gave a large diplomatic dinner in honor of the general.

Broken Pipe Caused a Death

New York, Dec. 29.—A young woman, identified as Mary Stack of Whitinsville, Mass., was found dead yesterday in a hotel here, having been asphyxiated by gas escaping from a broken pipe. With her was an unconscious man, who has not been identified.

MOTHER AND BABE

Sick mother—sick child
That's the way it works when a mother is nursing her infant

Scott's Emulsion is an ideal medicine for nursing mothers.
It has a direct effect on the milk. Sometimes the mother is weak; her thin milk does not make the baby grow. Scott's
Emulsion changes all that.
The rich cod-liver oil in Scott's Emulsion feeds the mother and gives a flow of rich, nourishing milk for the baby.

The medicine in Scott's
Emulsion not only strengthens the mother but goes naturally through the milk and strengthens the child.

Nothing to harm—all for good—Scott's Emulsion.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

He Froze to Death

Great Barrington, Mass., Dec. 29.—The body of Roger Casey, a North Egremont farm hand, was found partly covered by snow lying beside a highway in that town yesterday. The man had died from exposure. Casey had not been seen since Christmas night, when he left the home of Ephraim Baldwin, where he was employed, to go to the Harris farm house, some distance away.

Worth $50,000, but Feared Poverty

Denver, Dec. 29.—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of Mr. and Mrs. John Singer on Christmas day returned a verdict that the man administered strychnine to his wife and killed himself by the same poison. Though he was worth $50,000, Singer feared that poverty was about to overtake him.

Heavy Weather Off Newfoundland

St. Johns, Dec. 29.—Another furious gale is raging here and has caused much damage along the coast line. Steamer Peruvian passed Cape Race Saturday morning, but she has not yet been able to make port because of the storm and the fog. She has on board a shipment of cattle from Halifax.

Wireless Experiments Continue

Glace Bay, N. S., Dec. 29.—The Marconi station at Glace Bay continues to maintain daily communication with Cornwall, with constantly increasing efficiency and facility. Marconi will leave shortly for the Cape Cod station. He is sending two or three messages to Europe daily.

Lynched Both to Make Sure

Greenwood, S. C., Dec. 29.—W. K. Jay, a young farmer, was murdered in his own yard by a negro, Oliver Widemans, or his wife, both of them living on the place. Both of the negroes were lynched by Jay's infuriated neighbors

CONCESSIONS TO CUBA

Will Not Be Made Without Opposition From Senators

A DEMAND FROM GERMANY

May Be Expected For Favors Similar to Those Accorded Cuba—President Sees No Assault on Tariff System In Ratification of Measure

Washington, Dec. 30.—Considerable opposition is developing to the ratification of the Cuban reciprocity treaty now pending in the senate. It is not taking quite the form that the opposition to the Cuban legislation took last spring, but it is sufficient in substance to give concern to the friends of the treaty.

From time to time, as opportunity offers, the president is discussing the matter with senators, particularly those who are known to have objected to the enactment of legislation extending tariff concessions to the Cuban republic. Several weeks ago it appeared that the treaty, when presented to the senate, would be ratified without difficulty; but some senators now are taking as strong ground against it as they took against the legislation proposed at the last session of congress.

These senators are of two classes—those who are opposed on principle to any tariff tinkering and those who represent states whose products may be affected by the concessions extended to Cuba by the pending treaty.

Senators of the first class might be induced to support the treaty, inasmuch as it does not involve, in their view, an attack on the system of protection, were it not for their apprehension that the ratification of the Cuban treaty may lead to a demand from other countries that they, too, be accorded special tariff concessions by the United States.

It has been indicated to the president that in the event of the ratification of the Cuban treaty a demand may be expected from Germany within 30 days for concessions similar to those accorded Cuba. The most distinct desire of the German emperor, it is pointed out, is for the extension of the foreign commerce of his empire. He, of course, regards Cuba as a nation foreign to the United States. If tariff concessions are granted to Cuba, Germany, under the most favored nation clause, will request that she be given similar concessions. That request may take the form almost of a demand. If it be not granted, the fear is expressed that Germany may initiate legislation that will be inimical to the industrial development of this country so far as Germany is concerned, even if it should not curtail American commerce already established in Germany and its possessions.

The same argument is applied to other countries, Germany being used simply as an example of what may be expected of all of the great foreign nations with which the United States has extensive commercial relations.

The president had an hour's conference yesterday with Senator Scott of West Virginia, during which they discussed the reciprocity question in all its phases. Senator Scott is offering no captious opposition to the Cuban treaty, but he is particularly desirous that nothing should be done that in the end might result in any recession on the part of the United States from its present tariff policy.

The president, it is understood, believes that the pending treaty with Cuba will be ratified. He desires that it should be ratified as promptly as possible and with as little friction as may be. He sees in the proposed ratification no possible assault on the tariff system of this country and believes that it would be simply the redemption of a promise, direct or implied, made to the Cuban people when they were in the throes of the organization of their government. In this view the president is supported by a large majority of the Republican senators. While some trouble is anticipated in effecting the ratification of the treaty, it is believed generally that ratification will not be delayed seriously.

Cable Probably Not Landed

San Francisco, Dec. 30.—There has been no flash from the cableship Silverton to indicate that Hawaii is in telegraphic communication with the world. The cable may not yet be landed. The cable officials see no reason for anxiety over the matter. A heavy swell would prevent getting the cable to shore.

A DARING ROBBERY

Jewels Valued at $10,000 Stolen In Full View of Passing Crowds

New York, Dec. 30.—In full view of the passing crowds, a large plate glass window in the pawn shop of R. Simpson & Co., on West Forty-Second street, was smashed with a paving block last night and $10,000 worth of diamonds were stolen.

Only three of the gems were recovered after the capture of the robber. It is believed by the police that several men were in the job and the man who broke the window passed the jewels to confederates.

The shop was about to close, when a paving block, covered with paper, crashed through the window, and in an instant a tray of diamonds, rings and pins disappeared. One of the clerks jumped over the counter and pursued the man who broke the window. A large crowd followed and when the man was overtaken he was buried under a score of men. He yelled for mercy, but the infuriated pursuers were relentless, and doubtless he would have been more seriously injured had not a detective pulled him from under the pile. As it was he was badly battered.

The prisoner told the police that his name is Augus W. McPherson and that he is a bell boy at a local hotel. He claimed that he was heavily in debt and sought to relieve his financial stringency by robbery.

Naval Maneuvers In Philippines

Manila, Dec. 30.—The naval maneuvers have begun with the retreat of the fleet to Subig bay and the seizure of a fortification on shore to serve as a naval base. The fleet entered the bay by the west channel, which was then mined by the battleship Kentucky. In the meanwhile the transport Zafiro had landed 200 marines on Grand Island, at the entrance of the bay. The marines laid 400 yards of railroad and three batteries and a camp was established. The tug Wompatuck mined the inner channel.

Wilson Sees Nothing Humorous

Washington, Dec. 30.—Hereafter the chemically-fed boarders on whom Dr. Wiley of the agricultural department is trying the boracic acid tests will not be allowed to talk about the progress of the experiments. Secretary Wilson yesterday gave orders to admit no newspaper men to the place where the men are being fed, and directed them to refrain from giving out any information. The reason is that some writers are treating them lightly and humorously.

McKnight Keeps Out of Prison

Louisville, Dec. 30.—Judge Evans yesterday granted a motion for bail in the case of J. M. McKnight, pending an appeal from the decision of a federal jury sentencing him to the penitentiary for six years on the charge of embezzling the funds of the defunct German National bank of Louisville, of which he was formerly president. McKnight has been convicted four times on this charge.

Cummings Was Not Poisoned

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Richard Cummings, whose dying statement Saturday night charged the family of William Moniak with causing his death, did not expire as the result of drinking poisoned wine, as he alleged, but from the affects of acute alcoholism. This was developed yesterday at an autopsy held on Cummings' body. The police have released the Moniak family.

Appeal In Sharkey Case

New York, Dec. 30.—Counsel for Thomas J. Sharkey, who was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment for manslaughter in the second degree for the killing of Nicholas Fish, the banker, applied to Justice Fitzgerald yesterday for a certificate of reasonable doubt, pending an appeal from the judgment to the appellate division. Decision was reserved.

Fishermen Strayed Away

Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 30.—Advices from St. Pierre, Miq., report the loss from the fishing schooner Theodore Roosevelt of two of her crew, William Johnson and Joseph Brennan, who strayed away from the vessel on the banks. The Roosevelt was on a fresh halibut trip.

Time Ball In Operation

Boston, Dec. 30.—After a lapse of nearly 15 years the time ball service in this city for the particular benefit of mariners was resumed yesterday. The new ball drops from a flagstaff on the Ames building, at a height of about 240 feet.

Prince Henry to See Exposition

Berlin, Dec. 30.—The papers here say Prince Henry of Prussia is going to the United States in 1904 to visit the St. Louis exposition and unveil the veterans' monument in Philadelphia.

Fled In Stage Costumes

Atlanta, Dec. 30.—The Star theatre building was almost completely destroyed by fire yesterday. A vaudeville company was holding a rehearsal in the theatre when the fire broke out and the members of the company made a hasty exit in their stage costumes. All escaped without injury. The structure cost about $30,000. There is no insurance.

Farmers Must Keep Road Open

Saratoga, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Farmers having the privileges of the rural free delivery system were officially notified yesterday that country roads must be kept open and in a passable condition for carriers or the service will be withdrawn.

"PIECE OF IMPUDENCE"

Monroe Doctrine Characterized by German General

AMERICAN SELF-ESTEEM

Increased Through Our War With Spain—Waxes Wroth Over "Courtesies" Shown Us by Germany and Would Have Blockade Stand

Berlin, Dec. 30.—The German government is completely silent as to when the Venezuelan blockade will be raised, or whether it will be raised at all until every question concerning arbitration is settled. The acceptance of arbitration after the blockade was begun is certainly not received with popular favor in Germany.

General Von Boguslawski, one of the foremost military writers, has contributed to The Tagliche Rundschau his views of the Monroe doctrine. He argues that the withdrawal of the blockade at this stage would show singular weakness. After alluding to the late Prince Bismarck's expression that the Monroe doctrine was "a great piece of impudence," the general says:

"That was a true word. America is divided into many states. In varieties of race and language she is hardly second to Europe. How can one state assert that it has right of interference and protection over an entire continent and that it will tolerate only under certain conditions any action, however just, of European nations against an American state? A further question is how it happens that this doctrine, set up 80 years ago by an American statesman, has been able to justify itself in fact, with absolutely no justification in the law of nations? When the United States feels herself threatened through any occupation of territory of course it has the right, like any other nation, to raise a protest, and if necessary employ force. But there must be no talk of even an apparent recognition of the Monroe doctrine as an international law principle on the part of European nations. If the latter act otherwise they will soon feel the thumbscrew which they put on thereby.

"Through the war against ill-equipped Spain American self-importance has been infinitely increased, often showing a diseased character. The courtesies shown America by Germany have naturally not diminished that self-esteem. How little success excessive courtesy has is again shown here. Certainly the allies cannot be blamed for sparing the United States sensitiveness to the greatest extreme; and, in seeking an agreement therewith regarding the action against Venezuela, the allies not only did so, but even went to the length of offering President Roosevelt the arbitratorship after beginning military action. He refused, and indeed for the reason that the justice of the case of the allies was so self evident that his decision could only have been unfavorable to Venezuela, thereby damaging the United States' popularity with the other nations of that hemisphere.

"Now that warlike action has begun, no thumbscrews can be tolerated as to how far that action taken will extend. Giving the United States binding promises would divest the action beforehand of lasting effects. If the United States raises serious objections against this she would have to determine what means are at her disposal to give validity to her objection. President Castro's demand that the powers raise the blockade and return the captured vessels must meet with a decisive veto. Otherwise we shall have a repetition of the disgrace of Olmuetzatza."

The Lokal Anzeiger's Caracas correspondent asked President Castro if he was ready to apologize to the powers, to which the president replied: "General Castro has nothing to apologize for." The by-standers, the correspondent adds, cheered and shouted "bravo" when they heard the president's reply.

The German merchants of Caracas, it is asserted by the correspondent, say they are ready to advance President Castro the money to meet the demands of Germany, "although they know the president is able to pay himself."

Nothing New From Berlin

Washington, Dec. 30.—Ambassador Von Holleben, who has been in New York for some weeks past, called at the state department yesterday and talked with Secretary Hay on the Venezuelan situation. The ambassador was unable to throw additional light on the subject, having received no advices from Berlin. He will remain in Washington the remainder of the winter and will assume charge of the negotiations.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

EXPENSIVE WORK

Suppression of Cattle Plague Has Cost Over Half a Million

Boston, Dec. 30.—Dr. Salmon of the bureau of animal industry, who has charge of the work of stamping out the foot and mouth disease, reports to the department of agriculture that it is now practically under control in New England. The work was seriously impeded by the recent cold wave, the temperature having no effect in abating the disease, whereas the storms and snow have retarded the operations of the inspectors in burying the cattle which they have been slaughtering at the rate of about 150 a day, and in disinfecting the cars and barns which they have occupied.

The average value of the animals destroyed to date has been $33. The government pays the owners three-fourths of the estimated value of cattle condemned and killed.

The cost of suppressing the plague is computed at more than $500,000.

Injunction Covers Long Period

Hartford, Dec. 30.—Judge Platt filed a decree yesterday in the matter of the Fisheries Company of New Jersey against James Lennan and Louis P. Allyn, ordering that the defendants be enjoined for the period of 20 years from Nov. 26, 1897, from being interested in or connected with any business, other than that to be conducted by the complainant in catching upon, along or off the Atlantic seaboard, menhaden, herring or other fish used in the manufacture of oil or scrap. It is further decreed that the complainant company recover of the defendants its costs.

Miss Richardson Still In Jail

Boston, Dec. 30.—Although every effort was made by her friends to obtain security, Miss Catherine V. Richardson who was arrested Christmas day on the charge of attempting to poison her mother, was obliged to remain in Charles street jail yesterday. The Revere police expected a report from Chemist Wood of Harvard yesterday, the result of his analysis of an article found in the Richardson apartments, but no such report was given out for publication, although it was stated that the police had received it.

Railroad People Did Their Best

Norwood, Mass., Dec. 30.—Hugh A. Palmer began work as a brakeman last week. Last night, as a train was being switched into the freight yard, Palmer was caught between a car and a shed and terribly mangled. The railroad officials immediately made up a special train, got a clear track, and reached Boston within half an hour after the accident, but Palmer died just before reaching a hospital.

An Acquittal and Disagreements

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 30.—A jury last night cleared Charles A. Mawn of a charge of manslaughter, but were unable to reach a decision on similar charges against Frank M. Galucia and Frank T. Cullen. All three men were tried for causing the death of Michael Duffy in June of last year. The government attempted to prove that Duffy was so severely kicked that he died from his wounds.

State Detective Called In

Littleton, Mass., Dec. 30.—The search for S. W. Hartwell, the aged recluse who disappeared from his home on Christmas eve, received a fresh impetus yesterday by the arrival of State Detective Dunham. Under his direction, it is expected that the work will be systematized. In spite of thorough scouring of the woods and fields about the town, no trace of the missing man has been found.

Firemen Kept Busy

Boston, Dec. 30.—Over half of the Boston fire department had a lively time this morning putting out small fires and in answering false alarms in the business district. Six alarms were rung in between 12:15 and 1:20, but the heaviest loss was not over $1000. After the last alarm several of the horses attached to some particularly heavy apparatus could scarcely get back to the engine house.

Fair Warning to Liquor Sellers

Bath, Me., Dec. 30.—Judge Powers announced in the supreme court yesterday that all parties convicted of maintaining liquor nuisances, at this term of court, if summoned before him again on the same charge under similar conditions, will be given jail sentences. Of 26 indictments returned by the grand jury 23 are for maintaining liquor nuisances.

Robbed His Father

Boston, Dec. 30.—Martin Welch, a boilermaker, 30 years of age, yesterday pleaded guilty to the larceny of a large amount of money from his father and was held in $5000 bonds for the action of the grand jury. He was charged with the larceny of $2700, but told the court that half of it belonged to him.

Again Goes to Prison

Boston, Dec. 30.—After leading a blameless life for nearly 15 years, Edward A. Noble, aged 60, who has a record of three terms in the house of correction, was sent to state prison yesterday for not more than four or less than three years for buying a stolen diamond.

Didn't Know She Had Smallpox

Newport, R. I., Dec. 30.—Viola McGregor, who came here from Oregon 10 days ago, died yesterday of smallpox. She had been ill eight days without knowing the nature of her ailment. The board of health is doing considerable vaccinating.

Should Representative Freeman secure an appointment on the Committee of Ways and Means of the Legislature it would be an honor to our city.

As chairman of the Finance Committee Mr. Freeman has had valuable experience for the position. In 1897 and 1898 Representative Thompson served on this committee and was largely instrumental in securing the takings for the Metropolitan parkway from Quincy bay to Blue Hills reservation. If Representative Freeman secures an appropriation for construction Quincy will be pleased.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Princess Louise of Saxony is demonstrating to American girls, as well as to others, that the possession of a title does not always bring happiness.—Chicago News.

☞ Mayor Babbitt of Fitchburg has introduced an innovation in mayoral conduct by delivering a valedictory at the closing session of the city council for the year. It might be a good plan for general adoption for the experiences of one term of office might make these deliverances of greater value than their anticipatory speeches of the present system are regarded as possessing.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞ To the passer-by there is probably no one feature which lends more character to the general aspect of the house than do the windows. Windows are at once the eyes and the smile which light up the architectural face of a dwelling. Through the saving grace of well-designed and well-placed windows the humblest house may assume a charm all its own. They attract unconsciously, and by contrast, dignify even the plainest portions of the house. The successful home-builder must wisely consider the distribution, placing and character of his windows. Moreover, every window should receive double consideration in each of these respects, for it must look well both outside and inside.—Country Life in America.

☞ The mass of people in these times either prefer not to commit themselves to the possession of real estate or are unable to acquire such possession. They choose rented homes instead of owned homes, commonly take out some life insurance as the sole protection of the family in the future, and then proceed to live up to their incomes, saving little or nothing. They become permanently identified with no particular neighborhood and frequently change their residence; and the endless devices of modern civilization to catch the pennies and nickels and dollars of the people, making what was a luxury yesterday a seeming necessity today, insidiously draw the average person and family away from saving and accummulation, and render it next to impossible. This may be a life highly stimulating in certain desirable ways, as in intellectual quickening among the mass of people; but it must be demoralizing to an extent and certainly calculated to intensify the conditions which create classes based upon property possession. It makes for social instability, unrest and revolution. It would be better for society in the long run if the luxuries of the moment were being less, and ownership of property were being more, widely distributed.—Springfield Republican.

SHIP BUILDING.

Race Between Private Company and Government on Battleships.

Within a short time, says a Washington dispatch to the Transcript, the shipbuilding contest between the Navy Department, which is to construct at the Brooklyn Navy Yard the battleship Connecticut, and the Newport News Shipbuilding Company which is to build the sister ship, Louisiana, will begin. Within two months the keel of the Connecticut will be laid in the Brooklyn yard and an average of 400 men will be kept employed constantly on her until she is completed. The Newport News Company will start about the same time on the Louisiana on which it will be able to place from 1000 to 2500 men. A minute account will be kept of the money expended, the time required and the labor employed in the building of the two ships in order that certain questions constantly raised by labor unions and naval experts may be finally settled.

It has been stated repeatedly, for example, that the Government could not construct its own warships as rapidly and cheaply as private contractors, owing to the restrictions which labor throws about Government work. On the other hand, it has been declared as often, that although the Government yards are handicapped by shorter hours and higher wages, the employes of the Government yard can accomplish more in their eight hours' work per diem than an equal number of men in private shipyards working ten hours a day.

A $5 GOLD PIECE.

Man Who Stopped Runaway Horse Lost It in the Slush.

A runaway horse and a five dollar gold piece figured in a little episode in City Square this noon. The horse was attached to one of Fergusons teams and the five dollar gold piece was in the hand of A. F. Hayward of the Star glocery.

Mr. Hayward was on the way to the bank to make a deposit, and with his money was the piece of gold which he held between his fingers. As he reached a point opposite City Hall Ferguson's horse, which had become frightened, came down the street on the run. Mr. Hayward made a grab for the horse and caught hold of the reins with which he succeeded in stopping the horse. In doing so his gold piece dropped into the slush.

A large shovel was obtained and a systematic scraping of the street commenced. They were about to give up the job when a pair of bright eyes saw the shiner and restored it to the owner

The joke of the whole matter was that the driver of the team had just given Mr. Hayward the gold piece in exchange for a bill as he was afraid he would lose it.

FEEDING THE ANIMALS.

How Some Wild Captives Act When Mealtime Arrives.

An animal is almost as demonstrative when he is hungry as when he is in a rage. They are both natural feelings, and he sees no reason for disguising them. Human beings who are affected in the same way as animals by hunger pay tribute to civilization by not letting this appear. At an animal show in this city the wild occupants of the cages get very wild when the hour comes for them to be fed. A truck laden with meat and vegetables is wheeled around. Long before it gets to their cages the lions act as if beside themselves over the maddening prospect of food. The cages are very small, and yet a lion and lioness will often be in one. They tear from one side to the other, the lion jumping over the body of the lioness rather than make a "longer trip around." Though they ought to have learned that each will get a share, they both plunge for the great chunk of meat. Once they get it they eat it with a certain intensity, but deliberation.

The hyenas, "bounders" of the animal realm, are horribly greedy and will steal from each other every chance they get. The apes, the "snobs" of animal kind, are rather fastidious, if greedy. The ostrich, large, robust bird that it is, awaits its food with much stolidity and when it gets its head of cabbage pecks at it in a most contained, ladylike fashion. The stoical elephant is a placid eater also.—New York Times.

☞ Waltham society people who have received cards requesting "the pleasure of their absence" from a certain dancing event that is to be held in that town are said to be "mad clear through." We don't wonder. But the scheme isn't altogether a bad one from the point of view of the lover of the delicately humorous.—Brockton Enterprise.

WILL RETURN.

Quincy's Missing Girl Located in Baltimore.

Enticed Away by a Fraud.

Will Have Nothing More to Do With Pierce.

A Quincy girl figures prominently in the news of the day, but there is joy in her father's heart that his missing daughter will return.

A Baltimore dispatch to the Globe says:

Louise Morrison Cook, the beautiful young woman, who was arrested because of her companionship with David Waldo Pierce, in jail here on the charge of defaulting hotels, will have nothing more to do with the man whose fascinating influence caused her to run away with him from Provincetown, Mass.

Her illusion has been dispelled. She will soon return to her home, a sadder but a wiser women. Miss Cook, it is learned, will be released as soon as her father arrives from Massachusetts to take charge of her.

Pierce is not likely to be so fortunate as he is wanted in several states for alleged offences similar to those charged against him here. Among the other places where Pierce is wanted is Provincetown, Mass., from which place a warrant was received by the detective department tonight for the arrest of Pierce, charging him with having jumped his bail of $300 deposited in that city last August by Joshua T. Small.

Miss Cook is well known in Quincy and has always enjoyed the respect and esteem of a large number of acquaintances. In every sense of the word she was a popular young woman, and proved to be a loving and devoted daughter to her mother during the latter's illness, which ended in her death last July.

Louise, up to the end of the school term in last June, was an assistant teacher in the Cranch, John Hancock and Coddington schools. It is understood that she could have had a position as teacher in the Coddington school at the opening of the term in September and another offer was made her by the superintendent of the Worcester schools.

Miss Cook is about 25 years old, somewhat short in stature, with black flashing eyes and raven hair. She was regarded in Quincy as an exceedingly pretty girl, who might have had many admirers had she been so disposed. It is not known, however, that she encouraged attentions while here.

After her mother's death last July, Louise, worn out and unnerved from her long vigils, went on a visit to relatives in Provincetown. Last September, several weeks after Miss Cook reached Provincetown, reports concerning her began tocome to Quincy, and it was at this time that the name of Pierce began tofigure in connection with her name.

Pierce, it is claimed by the State police, is a married man, who has been rated as a Harvard man and as belonging both in Boston and New York. He spent the summer at Provincetown, representing himself as a rich New Yorker. He told the proprietor of the hotel where he was stopping at Provincetown that he was expecting his steam yacht every day from New York.

Speed of Racing Camels.

The racing camel is very carefully bred and valuable prizes are offered by a racing society at Biskra for the fleetest racer, says Pearson's Magazine. I have seen the start of a race and it reminded me, in a faroff sort of way, of a horse race. The camels were all arranged in line and they sniffed the air in their anxiety to be off. A flag was waved and they set off at a terrible pace, as if they were only racing for a short distance. They kept together until they were almost out of sight. Then they seemed to settle down to their habitual pace and the race proceeded with long intervals between the competitors. I have also seen the finish of a camel race, and it reminded me of the first motor car promenade between London and Brighton. The camels were certainly not so broken down and bedraggled, but they came in at intervals of several hours and great patience was necessary to watch them arrive.

—An Englishman has patented a brake for ocean steamships which will enable the fastest vessel to come to a standstill in twice her own length. The apparatus consists of several pairs of tin like wings on each side of the vessel, which may be moved out at right angles to the sides of the ship.

A STATE HIGHWAY.

Massachusetts Commission Seems to Have Jurisdiction.

The Fore River Ship & Engine Co. have today filed with the Massachusetts Highway Commission a petition asking for a permit to construct the proposed freight railway across Quincy avenue, which recently became a State highway.

Relating to the maintenance of State Highways, Section 11, of Chapter 47 of the Revised Laws provides that

"Said Highway Commission shall keep all State highways reasonably clear of brush, shall cause suitable shade trees to be planted thereon if practicable, and may establish and maintain watering troughs upon said highways. No opening shall be made in any such highway nor shall any structure be placed thereon, nor shall any structure which has been placed thereon be changed or renewed, except in accordance with a permit from the commission, which shall exercise complete and permanent control over such highways."

Section 13 relates to injuries sustained by persons travelling over State highways, the Commonwealth being liable for the same.

From the reading of the above, it would appear that the City of Quincy has no jurisdiction over the maintenance, permanent repairs, or change of grade of State highways; but it lies in the State Highway Commission.

DATE NOT CERTAIN.

For Trials of the Lawrence and the Macdonough.

The Fore River Co. have received no word from the trial board at Washington as to when they would arrive for the official trial of the two torpedo boat destroyers, although word is expected every day.

The Lawrence has already had her official speed trial and only awaits her endurance trial to be accepted.

The Macdonough has not had either of her trials as yet but will probably be taken out at the same time the Lawrence has her endurance trial.

Had a String to It.

The other evening a boy went into a Belfast meat market and bought 15 cents worth of bacon and started for home. In a minute or two the meat man noticed that the twine holder on his counter was wabbling unaccountably. "By jinks," he said, "I forgot to break the twine that I tied that there bacon up with." He came to the door and grabbed it, took up the slack and gave it a pull. At that instant there was a shriek in the distance. The boy had been scared out of his boots. The meat man pulled the twine in and there was the bacon. The boy followed the bacon and arrived at the market at the same time the bundle of meat did. He thought a ghost had robbed him.—Kennebec Journal.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Do you watch out the old year?

The rain almost finished the sleighing.

Harry Drake has gone to Milford, N. H., on a visit.

Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows elect officers tonight.

The Tubular Rivet works are closed on account of stock taking.

George Tupper is sick at the City Hospital with typhoid fever.

George Glover has returned from a three weeks' trip to Chicago.

The Daily Ledger secured a couple of tons of coal today and is happy.

The La France American society will hold its annual ball Wednesday night.

James Thompson, who has been confined to the house for several weeks, is out again.

Messrs. Patch & Son and J. F. Sheppard & Sons expert barges of hard coal any day.

Eugene Durgin, who has been the guest of Quincy friends, has returned to Winchendon.

Horses, whose shoes had not been sharpened, had difficulty in getting along this morning.

The Gas Company had another big car load of coke arrive yesterday, and it will be all gone today.

The Sunday school of St. Mary's church held a Christmas festival Sunday evening at the church.

Mayor Bryant says that his inaugural address will be short this year. If anything shorter than last year.

Judge Avery has just returned from a ten days' vacation. Probation Officer Spear has also returned from a brief vacation.

George Westland has gone to Worcester, where he has accepted a government position in the Agricultural department.

On Friday evening the Covenant meeting connected with the Wollaston Baptist church will take place at the usual hour.

There will be a joint instillation of the officers of Paul Revere Post, G. A. R., and the Woman's Relief Corps, at Faxon hall on Friday, Jan. 9.

A Lawrence dispatch reports the death in that city of Francis Carr Clark, a native of Quincy, aged 70 years. He was a dry goods merchant.

The rain last night carried away considerable of the snow but left the walking rather treacherous, especially on those sidewalks that had not been sanded.

The young people of West Quincy have been having some great coasting this week on Knox hill. At Brewers corner they are using Granite street which is somewhat dangerous as they have to cross the railway tracks.

More new cars arrived this morning for the street railway. They are similar to the large new cars run on the line between Brockton and Neponset. The seats are arranged similar to those used on steam railroads and are very easy riding.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

Up in Springfield the other day a man was fined $5 for drunkenness and $20 for beating a horse. In a Plymouth county court at about the same time another man was fined $10 for beating his wife. It is hardly safe to draw a general conclusion from these bare statements, but there is quite a general impression that the courts do not usually impose sentences on wife-beaters at all commensurate with the meanness of the offense.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ One of the most unfathomable mysteries of the age is: What becomes of the profits of the coal industry? The mine operators make nothing, nor do the carrying companies, nor the wholesale dealers, nor the retailers, nor the miners. It appears to be a bad business all around.—Philadelphia Record.

WOMEN AS FARMERS.

An Occupation at Which They Generally Succeed.

According to Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, professor of home economics in the Minnesota School of Agriculture, farming is a pursuit in which women may achieve a pronounced success for the reason that nature has fitted them for it.

"The work is ideal, and, contrary to the opinion of the uninitiated majority, eminently feminine," says Mrs. Meredith. "Why feminine? Because farming means infinite detail, and every woman, however unintelligent otherwise, possesses a genius for detail. Then it gives her a home, a thing almost impossible to secure in the very start—at least in most fields of feminine labor—and, most important of all, she meets not with opposition, but with chivalrous co-operation from the men in the business. Sir Charles Dudley, an eminent Englishman, writing of the Americans, says that the distinguishing thing about the farmers is their respect for women. We women who have made farming our business can gladly vouch for that.

"Another idea, now nearly exploded, however, is that a woman would find it difficult, if not impossible, to get men to work for her. For my part, I, who am both housekeeper and farmer, could sooner and more easily hire twenty farm hands than one servant girl. I think this due partly to the fact that men who work on farms know that they receive better treatment, as a rule, when in the employ of women.

"As regards the profits in the business, both my friends and myself can testify that farming pays. For instance, on thirty-three head of Shorthorn cattle which I sold last fall I made an average of $476. Other women I know are doing just as well. Some of them are married women, who, having inherited farms, are running them successfully and without any aid from their husbands either. Miss Gertrude Norrish of Hastings, Minn., a cultivated and highly educated woman whom I know, is making a brilliant success as a farmer. Other young women are running farms in partnership with their fathers and do their advertising under the heading of Mr. and Miss Blank."—Chicago Chronicle.

Cozy Barrel Seat.

A very quaint chair can be cheaply contrived from an ordinary barrel. Choose a strong one and cut it in the shape shown in the design, nailing some pieces of wood firmly in to form the seat. Four casters are fixed to the bottom, and the whole is then well sandpapered to a uniform smoothness and stained brown or green and varnished. Strips of sheet brass or copper are placed bandlike (see sketch) and copper or brass headed picture nails studded at intervals in the wood. A well padded cushion of green art serge gives the finishing touch to this useful piece of furniture.

A QUAINT CHAIR.

The Fortunate Girl.

The girl with dark chestnut hair and eyes and clear white complexion is fortunate, for she can wear almost any color; but take away her clear complexion and substitute an olive complexion and she will have to be careful in her selection of colors and contrasts. So many girls, with the aid of cosmetics, try to make their faces suit their surroundings. This is a mistaken idea, as the surroundings should always be planned and arranged to suit the face. A woman with a sallow complexion and dull brown hair and eyes has no reason whatever for looking ugly. All she needs to do is affect dull reds and browns, and, no matter what other color she indulges in, always have a touch of dull red or brown somewhere, and she will find her problem solved in the most satisfactory manner. She must give up all ideas of striking contrasts, for to her they are out of the question.

Simplicity.

The Countess of Malmesbury, discoursing on beauty, says that many women would be handsome with at least the good looks of healthy animals if they did not disfigure themselves with oddly devised and ill assorted adornments.

A simple dress of one plain color, fashioned in an easy, flowing style, short if for outdoor wear, long if for the house, the bodice loose and drawn in lightly by a belt, would adorn a slim shape and conceal a stout one far more than the most complicated production which the most celebrated man milliner ever foisted on a vain and foolish customer.

Wrinkled Cloth Gowns.

If cloth dresses are wrinkled through packing, draw the bathtub full of hot water and hang the dress above it to steam. The wrinkles will soon disappear. This also freshens lace and chiffon gowns. In packing always stuff sleeves with a little torn paper, laying the waists flat.

WORKING IN THE DARK.

Discomforts of Mining Before the Davy Lamp Was Lit.

The difficulties under which coal mining operations were carried on before the scientist Davy had invented his safety lamp must have been very great. In many times the only alternative the mediæval miner had to pitch darkness was the phosphorescent gleam from dried fish. The miner's implements, originally of stone or hard oak, gradually improved, but he was forced to work in almost complete darkness until Sir Humphry Davy by his remarkable invention enabled him to light his way through the tunnels he had excavated with comparative safety.

Agricola, an author who wrote about the middle of the sixteenth century, has left an elaborate treatise on coal mining as it was practiced during the middle ages. From this we learn that the horse gin, which survives to the present day in some of the mining districts of Great Britain and northern Europe, was the engine chiefly employed both for lifting the coal and for getting rid of the water. This latter object was also sometimes effected by means of pumps turned by windmills or by tunnels driven with great labor to an outlet at a lower level.

Tombs of the Ancient Prophets.

There exist in parts of Islam many tombs of the prophet Daniel. Of these one of the most celebrated is at Cairo. This fact need not astonish us. The Musselmans admit without hesitation the duplication or even indefinite multiplication of the bodies of holy persons without their veneration for each of the remains being diminished in the least. It is worth noting that the nature of the honorary qualifications accorded to the same saint varies in different countries. Thus, for example, Daniel has at Cairo the name of Nebi-Daniel—that is, they give him the title of prophet, as being at the same time that which suits him best and is the most honorable they can confer. In Algeria or Morocco—feudal countries—the title they give to saints is sidi, which signifies lord, which is also the title there of military and political chiefs. In central Asia they give to those canonized persons whom they respect most, as to the prophet Daniel, the title of khodja, which means in Arabic writer or lettered.

Making Marble Out of Chalk.

In nature marble is made out of chalk by water which percolates through the chalky deposits, dissolves the chalk particle by parties and crystallizes it, mountain pressure solidifying it. It has been found that similar results may be accomplished by chemical means. First slices of chalk are dipped in a color bath, staining them with tints that will imitate any kind of marble known. For this purpose the same mineral stains are used as are employed in nature. For example, to produce counterfeit "verde antique" oxide of copper is utilized. In like manner green, pink, black and other colorings are obtained. Next the chalk slices go into another bath, by which they are hardened and crystallized, coming out to all intents and purposes real marble.

A Good Policy.

The Dry Goods Economist says of one store with which it is familiar: "Every employee in it seems to be good natured. Why should there be any difference in this respect between this establishment and the average store? Is not human nature about the same the world over? True, but there is a difference. The proprietor of this store is not only a merchant, but a gentleman. He treats his employees with marked courtesy and consideration. As a consequence they feel so kindly disposed toward him and his business that their good will is reflected in their treatment of his customers." Some storekeepers never find out why it is that so few of their casual customers become regulars.

Leigh Hunt's Breakfast Bouquets.

Leigh Hunt, that early day æsthete, declared breakfast to be the meal of all others when the poetic influence of a table posy was to be desired. He would bring in a few clover heads or sprigs of grass culled from beneath the protecting bars of a park railing or city square if he could find nothing more beautiful, and with these to look at his fancy took him roaming out into boundless green fields and pastures new.

Give Him a Start.

"Now, then," said the auctioneer, holding up a pair of antique silver candlesticks, "give me a start."

"Twenty-five cents," came from a voice at the back of the room.

"What!" exclaimed the horrified auctioneer.

"Ah," said the bidder in an undertone and with a chuckle, "I thought that would give him a start!"

Signs of Prosperity.

"How do you get the reputation of being so much richer than you are?" asked the intimate friend. "Very easily. I wear my old clothes as long as possible and never admit that I have any money that I could lend. People take it for granted that I must be prosperous."—Washington Star.

How He Felt About It.

"I wish I could give up work and take a long rest."

"You'd do it if you could, would you?"

"Well, I'm not sure I'd do it if I could. It's one of those things you'd like to do when you can't."—Brooklyn Life.

It is agreed by medical authorities that the virulence of an epidemic may be increased by the element of fear in the public mind.

THE LYONS CASE.

Quincy Police Officer Had No Claim Against Boston Elevated.

In the second session of the Municipal Civil Court Monday William S. Lyons, a police officer of Quincy, sought to recover damages from the Boston Elevated Railway Company for alleged false arrest, and the Post reports the trial as follows:

The plaintiff said that on the evening of Nov. 28, 1900, he was on one of the company's cars, near Warren avenue, when a lady and gentleman got off, and he saw what he thought was a transfer check on the floor, but which, when he it up, proved to be a $5 bill.

He asked a Mr. Jones, who was on the car if he had lost any money, and he replied that he had not, but he thought the gentleman who had left the car had. Plaintiff then started to go out to look for the gentleman, and the conductor told him he had found some money and must give it over to him, as that was one of the company's rules. This Lyons refused to do, and said he would only give it, to some person higher in authority than the conductor.

He alleged that the latter kept him prisoner until the car reached Park street station, when he spoke to some officer and then asked for the name and address of the plaintiff. Then Lyons got off of the car. George A. Jones, who had been summoned by both sides, said there did not seem to be any ill-feeling about the matter and he did not see the conductor push the plaintiff. It was not denied that by the law "the finder had a valid claim against all the world except the owner."

Judge Sullivan said if he was to believe the conductor and witness Jones, there was not sufficient of a push to warrant its being called an arrest. It seemed to him no more than frequently happened on the street, when one person touched another to call his attention to something which he had to say. He gave judgment for the defence.

Salt Rheum

You may call it eczema, tetter or milk crust.

But no matter what you call it, this skin disease which comes in patches that burn, itch, discharge a watery matter, dry and scale, owes its existence to the presence of humors in the system.

It will continue to exist, annoy, and perhaps agonize, as long as these humors remain.

It is always radically and permanently cured by which expels all humors, and is positively unequalled for all cutaneous eruptions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

NEWS IN BRIEF

Miss Makala Terry of Simsbury, Conn., is dead. She was 100 years of age July 4 of this year.

Captain Robert Berry, now in command of the Norfolk navy yard, has been ordered to the command of the battleship Kentucky.

It is denied by railroad officials having headquarters at Boston that the New England railroads are so short of coal that they will have to cut down their train schedules.

Robert V. S. Samuels, a lawyer, 30 years of age and president of the Marine Journal company, dropped dead of heart disease at the meeting of the board of directors of that company at New York.

The British foreign office announces an extension of the appointments of the British commercial agents in the United States and Central America for a further period of three years from Jan. 1.

John J. Dickey, superintendent of the western district of the Western Union Telegraph company, died suddenly at his home at Omaha from an attack of grip, which later developed into pneumonia.

While attempting to reach his former residence at Hubbardston, Mass., on a freight train, John H. Brady of Athol, Mass., was thrown from the train and so badly mangled that he died in five minutes.

Cabbies Return to Work

St. Louis, Dec. 30.—As the result of conferences held yesterday the carriage drivers' strike was declared off last night. The strike was begun several days ago to enforce demands for higher wages and recognition of the Hack and Cab Drivers' union. The agreement calls for recognition of the union and a wage scale of $11 a week. Seventy-five cents a trip for funerals was agreed upon. For all other carriage trips the men are to receive 20 percent of the receipts.

Large Banks to Consolidate

New York, Dec. 30.—The Times says: Plans are being made to effect within a short time the consolidation of the National Broadway, the Seventh National and the Mercantile National banks of this city. The combined bank will be known as the Mercantile National, and it is likely that its capital and surplus will amount to $10,000,000.

Seeking Home For Boers

Monterey, Mex., Dec. 30.—General Pearson, the former Boer commander, is in Monterey as the agent of thousands of his countrymen who propose to establish colonies either in southern Texas or northern Mexico. He is now locating a route over which he will conduct a commission of Boers who are expected to arrive in New Orleans Jan. 15.

Second Charge of Forgery

New York, Dec. 30.—John Brush, 62 years old, was arrested last night for forging a check on a local bank. Brush was convicted in 1887 of victimizing the Garfield National bank of this city out of $12,000 by means of forged paper. His three companions were also sent to state prison.

THE MOROCCAN CRISIS

Spain Bestirs Herself and Prepares For Trouble

VESSELS AND TROOPS READY

To Be Dispatched to Points Where the Most Serious Difficulty Exists—Fez Invested by Rebels—British Warships Ordered to Gibraltar

Madrid, Dec. 30.—King Alfonso last night discussed the Moroccan crisis with General Weyler, minister of war, and the Duke of Veragua, minister of marine. In addition to the cruiser Infanta Isabel, which has already gone to Tangier, other vessels are to be held in readiness at Malaga and Algeciras to take reinforcements to Ceuta and Melilla.

Those army officers who were absent on furlough have been ordered to return to their posts. A regiment of infantry has left for Algeciras and another is being held in readiness to go. Forces of cavalry, artillery and engineers as well as a detachment of the hospital corps are also ready to be moved.

The government has ordered troops at Malaga, Cadiz and Algeciras to be held in readiness to promptly reinforce the garrisons at Ceuta and Melilla, Morocco, should the situation require it.

According to dispatches received here from Tangier, the rebels chased the troops of the Sultan of Morocco to the gates of Fez.

Premier Silvela says that the Spanish minister at Tangier telegraphs that he has had an interview with the minister of foreign affairs of Morocco, who, while he takes a serious view of the situation, says it is not hopeless. The defeat of the sultan's troops, the foreign minister adds, was due to a surprise. He claims there has been no serious battle. The premier added that he supposed other powers would send warships to Morocco.

The government has asked its ambassadors at Paris and London to ascertain the views of the French and British governments concerning the Moroccan situation. It appears to be feared in political circles here that some foreign power will intervene in Morocco.

The latest news to reach Madrid confirms the previous reports that Fez has been invested by the rebels.

British Warships Move

Valetta, Island of Malta, Dec. 30.—H. M. S. Bacchante, the flagship of Admiral Walker, together with the British battleships Canopus and Victorious and the cruiser Diana, have left here for Gibraltar, in connection with the Moroccan situation. The battleship Implacable will follow the other warships shortly.

Christians at Fez Are Safe

London, Dec. 30.—A dispatch to The Times from Tangier, dated Dec. 29, says a courier from Fez reports the Christians there to be safe. The missionary women are in the British consulate. The attack on the camp occurred at night. It is reported that 2000 of the sultan's troops were killed. An absurd rumor is current, continues the correspondent, that the French are supporting the rebels. As a matter of fact the anti-Christian movement is more dangerous to the French than to anybody else, as it threatens them in Algeria.

Left to His Successor

Albany, Dec. 30.—Attorney General Davies yesterday promulgated a decision upon the application for the commencement of an action against the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company and others under the so-called anti-trust law. He defers the whole question to his successor, saying that no further action will be taken during his term of office.

Lemon Kills Typhoid Germs

Chicago, Dec. 30.—That lemon juice will destroy the typhoid germs in water is authoritatively announced by the Chicago health department after careful experiments. One teaspoonful of the juice to half a glassful of water is known to be a good combination, and repeated trials have invariably produced the same result—every germ was killed.

Murdered For Breaking Promise

Moscow, Dec. 30.—An Armenian millionaire named Jambarov was murdered while entering a church here. Jambarov was captured by brigands in the Caucasus several months ago, and obtained his release by promising to pay them a ransom. This he failed to do and his captors killed him in revenge.

Settled by Compromise

Marshalltown, Ia., Dec. 30.—The switchmen's strike on the Iowa Central railroad has been settled. An increase of 2 cents an hour was granted both the day and night crews, with pay for overtime. The men asked for 4 cents an hour increase.

Two Outlaws Captured

Guthrie, O. T., Dec. 30.—Federal officers are en-route to Guthrie with two outlaws who were captured after a battle with the officers. The outlaws had robbed the postoffice at Mulhall. One of the men had $10,800 in his possession.

Big Coal Fleet at Providence

Providence, Dec. 30.—More than 50 coal-laden vessels, with about 50,000 tons of coal, arrived in Providence harbor within the past 48 hours. This breaks all previous records.

RAILWAY MEN TESTIFY

At Inquest to Ascertain Cause of Wreck on the Grand Trunk

Wyoming, Ont., Dec. 30.—When the principal witnesses in the inquest held yesterday to place the responsibility of the awful wreck on the Grand Trunk at Wanstead had given their testimony, a chain of mishaps was unfolded, the absence of any one of which would have tended to prevent the catastrophe. The principal witness was J. G. Kerr, the London dispatcher who, up to this time, had been silent. He said:

"No. 5 arrived at London an hour late. I ordered him for Watford for further orders. I knew the freight was coming. To Carson at Watford I wired to have No. 5 wait at Wanstead, but added 'wait a minute; may bust.' This was in the telegraphic code. I then started to send a regular order to Carson at Watford, to have No. 5 watch for the freight at Wanstead siding and to have him sign and get Conductor McAuliffe's signature. He told me No. 5 had gone. I then wired Wyoming to stop the freight, but he also replied that it had gone. I then tried Kingscourt, and Carson tried him, but could not get him at first. When I did he said No. 5 had just gone by. I then told the chief dispatcher that I was afraid No. 5 would meet with trouble. Then came the news of the wreck at Wanstead."

William Carson, Watford operator, said: "I received a message to have No. 5 watch for the freight at Wanstead, but Kerr said 'wait a minute' and then 'bust,' which meant to destroy the order. In the meantime No. 5 came in and Conductor McAuliffe asked for orders, as I had displayed my stop signal, the semaphore. I replied: 'I had orders, but they have been busted.' He then asked for clearance orders, which I gave him."

Thinks Baseball War Will End

Nashville, Dec. 30.—President Pulliam of the National League of Baseball Clubs says he believes the fight between the National and American leagues will be amicably adjusted next week in Cincinnati. An agreement would have the effect of restoring the old order of things, he says, and if baseball were again on its old footing it would be an immense lift to the game all over the country.

Partridge Likely to Make Removals

Albany, Dec. 30.—Attorney General Davies yesterday granted the application of John N. Partridge, police commissioner of New York city, to commence actions in the nature of quo warranto against certain police captains of the city of New York. The application is based upon charges that these captains were appointed in violation of provisions of the civil service law.

GAIN FLESH

An Absolute Necessity in Many Cases.

A DECREASE IN WEIGHT FREQUENTLY INDICATES A DECLINE.

Our Modern Rebuilder, Vinol, Will Help You Do It.

THE WAY IT ACTS ON A DEPLETED CONSTITUTION IS SIMPLY MARVELOUS.

Are you getting thin? If you are you had better watch yourself. Take Vinol. It will build you up quickly and surely.

A healthy man does not vary much from year to year in his weight This is as it should be. Vinol enables the organs of the body to renew flesh, muscle tissue, bone structure, and attends to purifying the great vital current of the human system, the blood.

Vinol contains the active curative properties of Cod-Liver Oil in a highly concentrated state, and is the most wonderful tonic that we have ever had anything to do with.

Vinol acts upon the stomach in a beneficial way, enabling it to obtain for itself the necessary ingredients from the food that is taken into it to build up the pure healthy body and increase the weight.

Mr. H. M. Stufell, who is a well-known passenger trainman on the Boston and Maine Railroad, suffered as many railroad men do, with kidney and other troubles. He writes as follows:

"My kidneys troubled me a great deal, my bowels were very irregular, I had great distress in my stomach, suffered with bilious headaches, had no appetite, could not sleep nights, and was losing flesh rapidly. I began to take Vinol, I am now on my third bottle, and it is doing wonders for me. My kidneys are better, my bowels are again regular, my stomach no longer troubles me, and no more headaches, and as for appetite, don't speak of it; I sleep like a top and have gained thirteen pounds. You can count on me always to recommend Vinol as the king of medicines."

With many such testimonials as the above coming before us, it is not strange that we endorse Vinol as strongly as we do. We unhesitatingly agree to return to any one who has taken Vinol and is not satisfied that it has accomplished all that we claim for it every cent that they have paid us for this remedy.

EDWARD J. MURPHY, DRUGGIST.

Eight Killed—No One to Blame

Trinidad, Col., Dec. 30.—The jury which held an inquest over the bodies of eight men killed in the collision between freight trains on the Colorado and Southern railroad last Wednesday night declared yesterday that it was unable to attach blame to any one.

The Weather Forecast

How About Your Heart

Feel your pulse a few minutes. Is it regular? Are you short of breath, after slight exertion as going up stairs, sweeping, walking, etc? Do you have pain in left breast, side or between shoulder blades, choking sensations, fainting or smothering spells, inability to lie on left side? If you have any of these symptoms you certainly have a weak heart, and should immediately take

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

Mr. F. H. Oaks of Jamestown, N. Y., whose genial face appears above, says: "Excessive use of tobacco seriously affected my heart. I suffered severe pains about the heart, and in the left shoulder and side; while the palpitation would awaken me from my sleep. I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and soon found permanent relief."

HARD RAPS AT TRUSTS

At a Meeting of Indignant Citizens of Boston

REMOVAL OF TARIFF DUTIES

Upon Beef and Coal and Placing of Them Upon the Free List Demanded —Gist of Addresses by Several Prominent Men In Cradle of Liberty

Boston, Dec. 31.—Fanuell hall, the old cradle of liberty, fairly rocked with demands for the removal of the duty on coal and beef yesterday afternoon at the citizens' meeting called by the American Free Trade league. A cry for justice was sent forth that is intended to rouse the nation if congress does not respond immediately with some measure of relief from existing oppressing conditions. The audience rose to its feet and fairly yelled its approval of the most vehement arraignments of the coal trust and beef trust. All argument was along the same vein, and only one dissenting voice was heard in the audience. The hall was filled to overflowing. People who came a few minutes late could not gain admittance. A mass meeting like this has not been seen in Fanueil hall for years, either in point of number or enthusiasm. It took expression in the adoption of the following set of resolutions:

Whereas, the tariff duties upon beef and coal, by assisting the extortions of monopoly or impeding relief from them, have proved a serious hardship for our people; and

Whereas, such abundant evidence is easily accessible to congress that investigation need not cause delay in the removal of this hardship;

Resolved, That, as American citizens, we ask that the tariff duties upon beef and coal be now removed.

Resolved, That, even if the consideration of tariff duties in general be postponed, we urge that an exception be made in the case of these duties on beef and coal and that they be removed and these articles placed upon the free list at the present session of congress.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each United States senator and member of the national house of representatives.

The resolutions were presented by General Hazard Stevens, secretary of the league, and he made a speech in support of them.

Rev. Edward A. Horton spoke from the standpoint of a Republican, a minister and a citizen of New England. He demanded immediate relief for the people and said he felt sure that a general expression, forcible and large, from the people of New England, of all parties, must have great weight in congress. Our day of influence has not passed by any means.

Eugene N. Foss, late Republican candidate for congress, said: "Some of our politicians seem to think that if one believes and advocates reciprocity or a revision of tariff schedules that he is a traitor to protection. Little can be accomplished until our legislators are willing to approach tariff schedules in exactly the same spirit that we approach any other subject of legislation. So long as the controlling minds of congress insist that the welfare of the country demands that we 'stand pat,' there is little hope. If to defend our industries and commerce, if to keep from freezing, is treason to protection, then let the ultraprotectionists make the most of it."

Henry B. Blackwell, one of the founders of the Republican party, disclaimed the policy of protection in its present application to the industries and commerce of the country. It was no part of the original Republican platform, which he helped to build; it was intended to produce competition at home by enabling American capital to withstand foreign competition, but it has eliminated competition altogether and become "an organized conspiracy against the rights and interests of our people." The Republican party needs a new watchword in which protection should figure as "exceptional and temporary." Said Mr. Blackwell:

"Protect our infant industries until they can stand alone.' That was the Whig platform 50 years ago. It might have been good politics then, but circumstances have changed. Are Mr. Baer and Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Armour and Mr. Morgan financial infants? Are the anthracite coal trust and the beef trust and the Standard Oil company infant industries? When a single corporation consolidates properties worth $350,000,000 and capitalizes them at a valuation of $1,400,000,000, it is a very sturdy infant indeed, against which the American people need to be protected. Competition is the natural and necessary regulator of prices. When domestic competition has been strangled, foreign competition becomes the sole alternative."

Colonel Norman F. Hesseltine said: "God made beef and coal free to the worthy laborer; politicians at Washington are keeping them from us. Not one of the trust-ridden congressmen at Washington dares tell us that the government must tax them for the revenue which it derives. Then if the tribute is not imposed for the benefit of the government it must be for the gain of those private parties strong enough to enforce their will on the congressmen whom we have elected to be our public servants."

The situation was made plain in facts and figures presented by Samuel W. Mendum, a Boston lawyer. He pointed out how duty and exportations have increased at the same time for the benefit of the "moneyed oligarchy which controls the American market."

Hon. Thomas J. Gargan, addressing the people as "fellow sufferers," said that hungry people will stand anything but injustice, and their cry will be heard and heeded in Washington.

Repeal the duty on coal was the cry of Hon. Charles S. Hamlin. He urged Republicans and Democrats to unite in a movement in congress for this purpose.

Henry L. Shaefer, who has been in the coal business, said the removal of duty would not bring one pound of coal here at present from Canada. The real trouble is with the railroads and transportation companies. If the roads in Pennsylvania would send their cars to the mines, in four weeks the prices would be down to normal figures.

Richard E. Hersom, who is engaged in the beef trade, spoke from experience. He pictured the tariff as a carcass around which the vultures had gathered. He said the coal and beef trusts were engaged in the act of freezing and starving the people, with consent of a helpless government.

HER BAIL IS REDUCED

Miss Richardson Released Under $5000 Sureties

BONDSMAN'S NAME SECRET

Doctor Attending Mother of Woman Suspected of Attempted Murder Says Case Does Not Resemble Arsenical Poisoning In Any Particular

Boston, Dec. 31.—Bail in the case of Miss Catherine V. Richardson of Revere, held upon the charge of attempting to murder her mother by poisoning, which was yesterday reduced from $10,000 to $5000 by Judge Bosson in the district court at Chelsea, on petition of J. W. Bartlett, her counsel, was secured last evening, and Miss Richardson was released from her confinement at Charles street jail. The identity of her surety is carefully guarded, those interested in her behalf declining to give his name.

Last evening Bail Commissioner McVey was summoned to the jal, where he was met by Mr. Bartlett, her brother, Harry, and another man, and the necessary details for releasing the prisoner were quickly carried out with the assistance of Clerk Gunn of the jail.

Dr. W. C. Newton of Revere, who is attending Miss Richardson's mother, says: "From the history of the case, and from the results of the present examination, I fail to see that the case resembles arsenical poisoning in any particular.

"The sickness arises from functional troubles of the heart and stomach, attendant with conditions of neurasthenia, accompanied by profound mental depression. Treatment should be instituted as soon a practical. She should be placed in a sanitarium."

A letter written by Miss Richardson to her friend, Miss Florence Cheney, at Littleton, N. H., was made public last night In it the wrier tells of her mother's illness and of engaging a sunny flat and a nurse for her. She says that the family were to move Christmas afternoon, when "this unwarranted, dreadful thing occurred, and I am very much afraid it will injure mother so she will not recover."

Miss Richardson further tells of being ill with stomach trouble and of being vaccinated. She further says: "That I am mentally unsound is false. My severe indigestion has prevented me from taking potions and I have kept in the open air more han if I were in health, but my work in helping manage the hotel after father died could not have been done by an insane woman. I haven't any fear of the final outcome, but I do fear that I cannot endure the confinement if I am held for the grand jury in February."

Mary Barber Becomes a Bride

Canton, O., Dec. 31.—Miss Mary Barber last evening became the wife of Major Ralph Hartzell. The ceremony was performed at the old Saxton homestead, formerly the home of the McKinleys, now occupied by the Barbers, and was witnessed by Mrs. McKinley. Mrs. McKinley and Mrs. Barber are sisters. Miss Barber was a favorite of the late President McKinley and spent much time at the White House.

Addicks Gets Another Vote

Dover, Del., Dec. 31.—J. E. Addicks won another assemblyman in a special election yesterday in Kent county to vote off a tie in the November election between Powell (Union Rep.) and Sapp (Dem). Yesterday's contest resulted in Powell's election. Addicks will now have 22 votes assured on joint ballot for United States senator. Twenty-seven votes are necessary to a choice.

Must Continue to Supply Gas

Indianapolis, Dec. 31.—Judge Neal granted a temporary injunction yesterday restraining the Indianapolis Gas company from cutting off its supply of natural gas to consumers in Indianapolis. The company had served notice that the supply was to be cut off. The company must now continue to furnish natural gas until the final trial.

WAS SEEN IN BOSTON

Friends of Seth Hartwell Now Believe That He Will Soon Be Found

Littleton, Mass., Dec. 31.—The friends of Seth W. Hartwell, who disappeared from home Christmas night, and for whom a constant search has been kept up ever since, were greatly encouraged yesterday by information which leads them to believe that he may be still alive. H. J. Harwood, a nephew, residing here, but doing business in Boston, states that a business friend called at his Boston office yesterday and, noticing the printed circular with Hartwell's likeness attached, hanging on the wall, declared he was certain he had seen the same old man at a railway station, waiting for a New York train. The old man said he was expecting to meet a lady, adding, "I'm sure I'll meet her, because I met Uncle Lawrence here once."

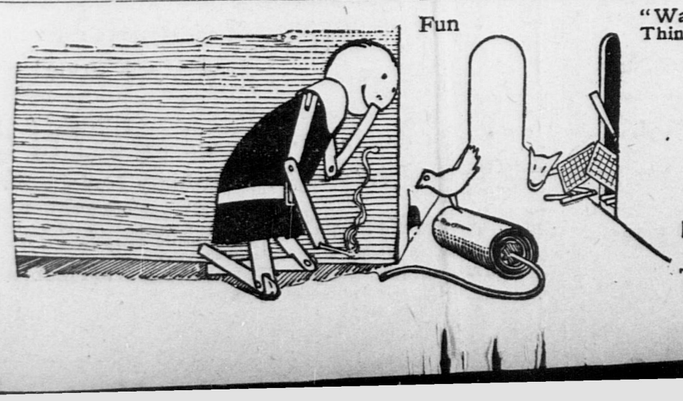

Mr. Harwood felt sure, when these words were repeated, that the old man was really Hartwell, as he had a brother Lawrence. Harwood went to the Boston station at 3 p. m., hoping that the missing man would again visit the place at the same hour, but, although he was not successful in finding him, he saw an employe of the road who was sure he had seen the old man whose photograph was shown him. Police headquarters in Boston and New York have been instructed to keep a sharp lookout, and friends of Hartwell are confident in their belief that some trace of him may be soon obtained.

Proposals for Coal.
Hancock Hall—Ten Nights in a Bar Room.

Good Afternoon.

We wish you a happy and a prosperous New Year.

The persistance of Mayor Collins of Boston in vetoing loan orders is commendable. A check is needed in cities to reckless appropriations of money.

With so many estates sold for sidewalk assessments and taxes the new City Council should go slow in making special appropriations and increasing department appropriations. The city will probably get a large assessment in 1903 for the new Quincy Point bridge.

Today completes volume 14 of the Quincy Daily Ledger. During 1902 we have issued 305 numbers besides several "extras," and during the fourteen years over 4,000 numbers have been issued, more numbers than the old reliable Quincy Patriot, which, however, has issued 66 volumes. Four thousand numbers seem a great many, and represent considerable close attention and labor. The Ledger is now firmly established and we hope to make more rapid progress during the next five years than in the fourteen during which we have struggled.

Drift of Opinion.

☞One of the most unfathomable mysteries of the age is: What becomes of the profits of the coal industry? The mine operators make nothing, nor do the carrying companies, nor the wholesale dealers, nor the retailers, nor the miners. It appears to be a bad business all around.—Philadelphia Record.

Up in Springfield the other day a man was fined $5 for drunkenness and $20 for beating a horse. In a Plymouth county court at about the same time another man was fined $10 for beating his wife. It is hardly safe to draw a general conclusion from these bare statements, but there is quite a general impression that the courts do not usually impose sentences on wife-beaters at all commensurate with the meanness of the offense.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ A Brooklyn woman gave a reception the other day nominally in honor of her pet cat which she brought from the Isle of Man some months ago. Twenty-five children were present. The idea evidently pleased the children. They admired the cat, had supper, listened to music and had a good time, quite unaware in their innocence, that such occurrences are eagerly seized upon by those eager to show that society is degenerating. — Worcester Spy.

☞It is perhaps true that a few old gentlemen try to persuade themselves that for a few years more they may stammer out some old-fashioned sentences which defame God in despising man. But, really, the world of the new century, whether on the throne of the Pope or in the appeal of the come-outer, owns God as our Father, knows he is at hand, and asks him for everything. Stated very simply, it would be fair to say that the real religion of today is the religion of the Lord's prayer. — "Memories of a hundred Years," by E. E. Hale.

SCOTTISH PLAY.

Presented at Annual Gathering of Clan McGregor.

"The Rose of Ettrick Vale."

Chief Morrison and Members in the Cast of Characters.

The members of Clan McGregor and their friends had a rare good time in Quincy Music hall Tuesday night. They met to celebrate the closing of the year and wish for one another a continuity of health and prosperity for the coming twelve months of 1903.

Besides the convivialities that attend such an occasion the "Clan Dramatic Club" appeared in their new drama, in two acts, entitled—"The Rose of Ettrick Vale" or "The Bridal of the Borders."

The scenes and incidents of the play are Scottish and refer to a time when forays on the borders of England and Scotland were common and "lawlessness was red with gore."

The incidents upon which the play is developed show with what cold cruelty those by-gone marauders harried and murdered. Red Ron ald a fierce bandit assisted by his gang of equally heartless followers falls upon the stronghold of the Leonards, puts the inmates to sword, seizes the chief of the house and murders him in a cave. In the confusion a trooper escapes with a child which he carried to a neighboring farm and hurridly handed it to care of the farmer; in his flight he dropped a pionard which the farmer picked up and remarked on the strange shield-of-arms which it bore, evidently the escutcheon of the family to which it belonged.

Act II advances the events some twenty years and shows the farm of "Old Adam" at which preparations for the nuptials of Albert, who had, when a child, been so unceremoniously deprived of his parents and home, going on. Laurette his promised bride, also a ward of old Adam, had grown up to be a sweet and handsome girl, the pride and envy of the vale. Red Ronald, who had so ruthlessly made himself possessor of Albert's heritage, was also desirous of winning the hand of Laurette. Knowing that his advances in this direction would be spurned by Laurette herself and all concerned with her, he determined to take her by force. By his own cunning and the aid of his wily followers he succeeded in his purpose. The raiders were closely followed, however, by the friends of Laurette, who after a serious of thrilling adventures and hair-breadth escapes rescues, just in the nick of time, the fair and terror-stricken bride.

In the scuffles which defeated the purposes of Red Ronald, the poniard, which old Adam had picked up at the time he was given the care of the child by the fleeing trooper, had been snatched from the girdle of Albert, and handed to "Brand o' the brae," one of the most active and daring of Red Ronald's followers. He recognized the weapon as the one which he himself had carried off from the scene of the Leonard murder and inadvertantly dropped after handing the child, which he also carried off, to old Adam, for this same "Brand o' the Brae" was none other than the fleeing trooper of that unfortunate night of twenty years before.

His idenity of the Poniard led to the identity of Albert as the heir of the Leonards. "Wandering Steenie," a cast out faithful of the Leonards, was also a witness to the indentity of the poniard, and much else that proved that Albert was the rightful owner of the lands and towered castle of the ancient Leonards.

Of course Albert and Laurette were happily married, and became possessors of their own.

The part of Albert was well played by Mr. John Gauld, while an excellent presentation of Lauretta was given by Miss Maggie Esson.

Mr. John Troup in the part of the villain, Red Ronald, exhibited to satisfaction the wild daring and heartless disposition of that character.

As "Old Adam," the kind and fatherly farmer, Mr. Peter Kerr was the real thing.

To Chief Francis Morrison was given the task of giving expression to the mental vagaries and peculiar physical oddities of "Wandering Steenie," while "Guy o' the Gap," a sharp-tongued, half-wit, whose cunning and ready action discovered the wicked designs of "Red Ronald" and afterwards led to the rescue of Laurette, though a heavy and trying part, was excellently produced by Mr. Alexander Russell.

Mrs. Jennie McKay and Miss Nellie Troup, as "Jessie" and "Amy," companions to Laurette, fitted the roles to a nicety.

Mr. David Drummond, John Wedderburn, Thomas Raleigh, David Smith and Robert Craig, henchmen, trustees, etc., of Red Ronald, performed their parts in good style.

There were on the stage numerous supers and scene handlers, all which, including the actors, were under the managemement and direction of Mr. Alex D. Booth.

During the play choruses were sung by Jennie McKay, Nellie Troup, Maggie Hall, Nellie Craig, Ethel Booth and Flora Cole.

At 10.30 o'clock the hall was cleared for dancing, and the grand march of one hundred and fifty couples was quickly in motion to the music of Marnock's fine orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Black led the march on the right, and Mr. William Beattie and partner on the left. Mr. Black was floor director, and his assistant was Mr. William Beattie. The aids were John Troup, Alex Birnie, John Wedderburn, Charles A. Ross, Robert Robertson and George Maver. John Plummer prompted for the dancing.

The committee of arrangements were: Thomas Johnston, Alex. W. Russell, Alex. Hall, Alex. M. Smith, Angus G. McDonnell, Alex. T. Black, Wm. A. Beattie, M. A. McDonald, Alex. D. Booth, Wm. Soudan, Francis Morrison, (Chief), and David T. Drummond secretary of committee.

Chief Francis Morrison and Alex. T. Booth acted as reception committee.

Refreshments were served in dining rooms adjoining the hall.

Four o'clock brought to a close the 23d annual entertainment of Clan McGregor, the gathering being one of the largest and most successful in the history of the society.

CITY OFFICES.

Some Recommendations Reported as Desirable in Fitchburg.

As a result of investigations by a committee of the aldermen of Fitchburg several recommendations relative to certain departments were reported on Tuesday. Some of the findings may be of interest to Quincy and other cities:

That all offices in the City Hall, where assistants are employed, shall be open for business continuously from the opening hour till the time of closing, in the afternoon.

That the city clerk, city engineer, board of assessors, superintendent of streets, superintendent of the water works, clerk of the board of overseers of the poor and all assistants and clerks give their entire time to the business of the city during office hours.

That all salaries, wages and vacations be fixed by the city government.

That where extra pay for overtime is given deduction should be made for lost time.

That an annual appropriation be made for the city clerk's office.

That the office of the water registrar be transferred to the water department building on River street.

That water bills be prepared by the water registrar and placed in the hands of the city treasurer for collection.

That the office of timekeeper in the water department be abolished.

That the time of the employes of the water department be kept by the foremen and overseers and returned to the bookkeeper.

That the ordinances of the city be so changed, modified or enlarged as better to regulate and define the powers and duties of the street commissioners.

That the office of timekeeper of the street department be abolished.

That the board of street commissioners, as far as possible, classify and define the several departments of work with an overseer in charge of each, under the general supervision of the superintendent of streets.

That the time of the employes of the street department be kept by the foremen and overseers and returned to the bookkeeper.

That the clerk performing the clerical work of the street department also perform the clerical work of the city engineer.

That the system of bookkeeping in the various departments be rearranged and conducted with reference to the auditing of the same.

That the assistant assessors be appointed by the assessor, subject to the confirmation of the city council.

SHY ON COAL

But Quincy Schools Expect a Supply When Needed.

New Master Elected for Two Buildings.

Resignations Accepted and Vacancies Filled by School Committee.

A regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening. The members of the board present were: Miss Adams, Messrs. Churchill, Dion, Porter, Smith and Record.

The resignation of Robert S. Atkins master of the John Hancock and Lincoln schools, and of Miss Mary H. Atkins of the Gridley Bryant schools were accepted.

Miss Emily M. Rogers was transferred from the John Hancock to the Gridley Bryant school.

Miss Mary A. Thomas was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Atkins and assigned to the John Hancock school.

NEW MASTER.

Winthrop N. Crocker was elected as master of the John Hancock and Lincoln schools.

Mr. Crocker is a graduate of the Bridgewater Normal school and has taught in Palmer, Weymouth and Dedham. He is at present supervisor of the schools of North Dartmouth and Westport.

The superintendent was instructed to make his annual report in print.

The committee then went into executive session to discuss the coal situation. While nothing was given out, it is understood that probably it will not be necessary to close the schools for lack of coal.

PROVED FATAL.

John Page Passed Away at Midnight.--Unconscious to the Last.

Mr. John Page, who was severely injured the day before Christmas by being caught in the belting at his carrying shop died at midnight Tuesday without having regained consciousness.

Mr. Page was a currier by trade and he was the last representative of that business which for many years flourished in Quincy. He was born in Quincy, May 14, 1834. He attended the public schools and then went to work for Clift Rogers, from whom he learned his trade. In 1855 he went to Haverhill where he became superintendent of a shop. From Haverhill he went to Woburn, and from there came to Quincy and opened a shop for himself. This was about 1862 and he has carried on business for himself ever since.

He was a member of Rural Lodge of Masons and Mt. Wollaston Lodge of Odd Fellows. He leaves a widow, two daughters and a son. John Harvey Page, his son, who is now a business man of London, England, was visiting his father at the time of the accident.

New Noble Grand.

Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., elected these officers at its meeting Tuesday evening:

N. G.,—Frank L. Carlton.
V. G.,—Seth W. Fiske.
Secretary,—Franklin Jacobs.
F. S.,—Arthur W. Stetson.
Treasurer,—Charles F. Pettengill.
Trustee for three years,—John W. Nash.

☞Forty steamer are reported chartered in England to bring over coal to the United States. The amount to be shipped is 200,000 tons, and that will help out the situation to some extent. The daily output of the Pennsylvania mines is about one-half of the pile the English miners will send across, or two days' supply. These purchases of coal, or rather the importations, are said to be due to some secret information regarding a hitch in the arbitration proceedings. This is news on this side of the water, but if the coal arrives it will go into the supply and be put where it will do the most good.—Lynn Item.

Warrant for Pierce.

A Baltimore dispatch to the Herald says: Edward Waldo Pierce, alias F. G. Garrett, the college student who is locked up in the Baltimore city jail charged with attempting to obtain a lot of haberdashery from Fred Helneman by false pretences, also with defrauding Louis P. Samanti of the St. James Hotel of a board bill, is wanted in Massachueetts for offences of the same character.

Marshal Farnam has received a warrant from Provincetown, Mass., for the arrest of Pierce, charging him with having skipped his bail bond of $300, deposited in that town last August by Mr. Joshua T. Small.

Marshal Farnam said today that Pierce would be handed over to the Massachusetts authorities in case he by any chance escaped the clutches of the law here.

No-License in Rockland.

A union temperance meeting of the churches in Rockland was held at the First Congregational church Sunday evening. There was a very large attendance. The pastor, Rev. Edgar C. Wheeler, presided and introduced as the speaker of the evening, Mr. Theophilus King of Quincy, a prominent co-worker with Henry Faxon, the temperance advocate of that city. Mr. King spoke on the temperance movement and made a appeal for no-license in Rockland. This was the first of a series of meetings to be held under the direction of the committee chosen by a number of the citizens who are interested in the no-license movement. During the evening there were solos by Miss Alice O'Neil, Miss Cushing and Francis Murphy.—Brockton Enterprise.

City Council Business.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held tonight at which a public hearing will be given on the petition of the Fore River Ship and Engine Co., for a location for a freight railroad.

The committee on Streets will report on the petition to widen Sea street; to relocate the easterly end of Sea street; and also the petition of the New England Telephone Co., for a location of a pole on cottage street.

Other reports will also be made by the committee on Licenses and State Aid and probably the Finance Committee.

The sidewalk assessment order will come up on its second reading.

A Mystic Volume.

A typical story is told of the Russian police, who are very careful lest any literature of an atheistic character shall fall into the hands of the peasants.

A peasant in the province of Minsk went to a publisher's shop and asked for a Bible. Unwittingly the shopman gave him an algebra primer.

On opening the book when he reached home the peasant was surprised to find it full of mystic signs and hieroglyphics. The peasant showed it to a policeman, who felt convinced that the signs were of an "extremely freethinking character," and so arrested the owner.

At the trial the peasant was discharged and the policeman, instead of being rewarded for his religious zeal, was reprimanded.

RAILROAD AT FAULT

Experienced Operators Could Have Averted Terrible Accident

Wyoming, Ont., Dec. 31.—The coroner's jury which has been investigating the wreck at Watford last Friday, in which 28 lives were lost, brought in a verdict shortly before midnight last night. The verdict finds that the collision was caused by wrong orders being given train No. 5 at Watford. Responsibility for the issuance of wrong orders was not agreed upon as between Operator Carson and Dispatcher Kerr. The jurymen say that "after No. 5 had left Watford by the issuance of wrong orders we consider that the accident could have been averted by the operator at Wyoming or Kingscourt Junction had the railway company had more experienced operators at these points (one being but a boy of 16), at each of which places the dispatcher having had ample time to do it and endeavored to get the opposing trains stopped."

The principal feature of the testimony yesterday was that of James Troyer, the night operator at Kingscourt Junction, where Dispatcher Kerr endeavored to stop the express train. Troyer, who is 16 years old, stated that he was on duty for the first time on the night of the accident and that his total previous experience as an operator was for two nights at Scrathroy, where he received only a total of four messages. He gave as a reason for not hearing Dispatcher Kerr calling him for seven or eight minutes that he was studying the timetable and did not recognize the office call, which he had heard only once before. Troyer's extreme youth and apparent incompetence made a deep impression upon the jury.

Injunction Against Boycott

Cincinnati, Dec. 31.—Judge Cochran yesterday granted an injunction against the Clothing Cutters and Trimmers' union, forbidding it to continue a boycott against Mayer, Scheuer, Offner & Co., wholesale clothiers. The complaint against the workmen was that they mailed matter to customers of the plaintiff, endeavoring to cause the withholding of trade. The court held that organizations of this kind have no right to attempt to persuade persons to withhold their custom

Worriment Causes King's Sickness

Dresden, Dec. 31.—Professor Gvrschmann of Leipsic has been called here for consultation with the court physician regarding King Albert's condition, which gives much concern to his family. Although diagnosed as influenza the king's condition has grown worse during the last few days, due to excitement over the elopement of the crown princess which, in connection with his great age and weakness, has had a depressing effect on the king's mental condition.

New Year's Gift of $50,000

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Dr. D. K. Pearsons, whose gifts to colleges have amounted to several million dollars, yesterday gave $50,000 to Illinois college of Jacksonville. About a year and a half ago Dr. Pearsons announced that he would give the $50,000 if the college authorities could secure $150,000 from other sources before Jan. 1, 1903. The last dollar of this amount was pledged to President Barnes yesterday, and Dr. Pearsons fulfilled his part of the agreement

Cadaver Trader Indicted

Indianapolis, Dec. 31.—Upon information from Rufus Cantrell, leader of the gang of ghouls, Dr. Wright, demonstrator of anatomy at the Eclectic Medical college and secretary-treasurer of the institution, was arrested yesterday. The specific charge of taking, concealing and purchasing the body of Cora Shaw on Nov. 22, 1901, was contained in the indictment returned by the grand jury. Cantrell said that Dr. Wright received the body of the woman from him, paying him $30.

Doctors Were Puzzled

Shelbyville, Tenn., Dec. 31.—Rev. Dr. Marks, a retired Methodist clergyman, aged 80, died yesterday from a disease which baffled the diagnosis of physicians from many large cities. A thin sheet of cartilage or bone, commencing its growth four years ago, had encircled the man's body from the pelvis to the chest, gradually suspending the funcions of the organs until death ensued.

Taft May Succeed Shiras

Washington, Dec. 31.—Justice Shiras of the supreme court will retire some time during the present session of congress, in order that his successor may be confirmed before the adjournment. Among the names proposed as his successor is that of William H. Taft, civil governor of the Philippines.

Now For Disinfection

Boston, Dec. 31.—The alarm among farmers regarding the foot and mouth disease is giving way to energetic efforts to get the quarantine off their premises. The bureau of animal industry insists upon a thorough disinfection of suspected barns, a process requiring two weeks' time.

Partridge's Successor Sworn In

New York, Dec. 31.—General Francis V. Greene was sworn in as commissioner of police yesterday by Mayor Low. He will assume the duties of the office tomorrow.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Thursday, Jan. 1.
Sun rises—7:14; sets—4:22.
Moon sets—7:19 p. m.
High water—12:45 a. m.; 1 p. m.
There have been local rains in the Atlantic states and light snows in the lake region, followed by general clearing weather. The temperatures are lower east of the Mississippi valley. It will be fair in New England.

HARMONIOUS WORK.

Desired by Mayor Bryant in the Police Department.

Mayor Bryant dropped into the Police station Tuesday evening at roll call and calling the men together in the guard room addressed them briefly. His talk was of a friendly nature but he wished to impress upon them some things in regard to their duty in the future.

Mayor Bryant is reported as follows: He said that he wanted the members of the force to work harmoniously together. He wanted all petty jealousies dropped and a stricter attention paid to the rules of the department.

The Mayor said he understood that in the past officers had tried to work up cases privately without notifying their superior officers of occurrences that had come under their observation. This, he said, would have to stop, and in the future all matters which were reported to officers while on their beats would have to be reported to headquarters.

Hereafter, the Mayor said, when the chief leaves headquarters the house officer in charge is to be obeyed when he issues instruction just the same as if the chief gave them. In the future if an officer fails to pull his box the Chief will be notified at his home by the house officer in charge, and he will promptly investigate the cause.

Another rule which the Mayor issued was compelling the officers to ring in telephone calls after 10 p. m. instead of their regular duty call. In one case in the past, it was said, an officer was helped to ring his calls by somebody not connected with the department.

In concluding his talk, Mayor Bryant said an officer would be publicly reprimanded for the first violation of the rules, and that a second violation would mean dismissal.

☞To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists. Every box warranted.

Heir to Fortune Dying From Assault

Providence, Dec. 31.—A fortune said to amount to several million dollars is reported to await Malcolm M. McDonald, a carpenter, employed in this city, who is dying as the result of an assault committed upon him on Christmas night. The money is in a bank in Scotland, and as McDonald is the only heir, proof of his identity is all that is necessary to make him the possessor. McDonald is 53 years old and has a wife and one daughter. In the event of his death it is not known in what direction the fortune will be diverted.

Building Wasn't Fireproof

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 31.—Fire broke out in Seelye hall at Smith college late last night and resulted in about $5000 damage. The blaze started in the basement, probably among some oily rags and other inflammable material used by painters who had been at work there. The building is supposed to be fire-proof, but the blaze got such a headway that it ate up through the first floor before being checked.

Blondin Won't Have New Trial

Boston, Dec. 31.—Joseph W. Blondin, convicted in the second degree for the murder of his wife, will waive the exceptions taken by his counsel during his trial, abandon any right to a new trial and ask for immediate sentence in order that he may seek executive clemency for freedom. This decision of Blondin's was made known yesterday afternoon and came as a great surprise.

IT'S THE TRUTH

Tell a man it's a food and he doesn't want to pay for it. Tell him it's a medicine and he says it doesn't look like it. Then tell him it's both a food and a medicine and he thinks you're playing some game on him.

Yet these are the facts about Scott's Emulsion of pure cod-liver oil. It is the cream of cod-liver oil, the richest and most digestible of foods. The food for weak stomachs. The food for thin bodies and thin blood.

But that's only half the story. Scott's Emulsion is also a good medicine. It gives new life and vigor to the whole system and especially to the lungs.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

VICARIOUS RESTITUTION.

The Preacher Got the Hens and the Decree Was Revoked.

Not long since a respectable colored preacher, who was noted for his ability to "cuss out" people from the pulpit, was hurling thunderbolts of invective against his congregation because of a great wave of lying and stealing that was sweeping over the city. Among other things, he said:

"No longer'n las' night some one come an' stole de las' two chickins dat me an' mah ole 'oman had. I b'lieves de thief is in dis house right now, an' I hereby countersigns him to evahlastin' punishment. De nigger dat stole dem chickins is a-gwinter burn fur it sho. Yo' hyeah me? De 'cree has gone forth!"

Next morning a colored man with two fine hens came up to the preacher's door. He said:

"Parson, hyeah's yo' chickins."

"No, sah," said the preacher, eying the chickens closely, "dese ain't mah chickins."

"I knows dey ain't perzactly yo'wn," explained the parishioner, "but dese is to tek de place of yo'wn. Yo' chickins wuz et up 'fo' de 'cree went forth, an' las' night atter I went to bed my conshunce hurt me so tell I had to git up an' go ovah to Marse Bob's house an' git two mo' chickins. Parson, do tek dese chickins, an' fur de Lawd's sake tek dat 'cree back too."—Lippincott's.

English Deer Hunting.

The running of the deer begins in November, and it is said they often take as keen an interest in the hunt as their pursuers. The hounds are never allowed to kill them, and the same ones are often run for several successive years. Twenty-five of the heifers and does are selected for the season's sport, and two are usually run in a week. The one chosen for the day is drawn in a queer looking two wheeled covered cart to the appointed place. The back of the cart is lowered until it is level with the ground. When the door is opened, the deer steps out, sniffs the air, with his head up, and takes a sweeping glance around before he is away like a shot. He is given five minutes' "law," while the well trained hounds and horses stand tremblingly impatient to be off in pursuit.

The old English staghounds have become extinct, and foxhounds, bred for the purpose of the chase, have succeeded them. So fleet are they that the horses become jaded in their efforts to keep up with them.—Century.

London Church Curiosities.

In St. Dionis, in Fenchurch street, there are four monster syringes, which were at one time the only form of fire brigade appliances in London. The celebrated golden tombstone in St. Katharine's, Regent's park, is very well known. It is a tombstone, or, rather, a small slab of pure gold, surrounded by an oak frame. Many people are unaware that the body of Nell Gywnn reposes in a vault in St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and a still larger number of persons are ignorant of the fact that beneath the same church there is still in existence the old parish whipping post. Beneath St. Etheldreda's church, in Ely place, is the only subterranean place of worship in London. It is a completely furnished chapel with sitting accommodations for 200 people. St. Etheldreda's is the oldest Roman Catholic church in England.

Needed a Rest.

"Rest is not quitting the busy career," says the poet. The truth of the saying was impressed on an Arkansas family by Lulu, their colored cook. She was fat, lazy and "notional," says Harper's Magazine, but her cooking was perfect, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawton ignored her whims and reduced her work to minimum.

Good cooks were so hard to get that the question of adding a feather's weight to Lulu's duties was discussed in a subdued whisper. One day Lulu resigned her position.

"Why, Lulu," asked Mrs. Lawton, "what is the matter? Is the work too hard for you?"

"Well, ma'am," replied Lulu, "I'm all tired out. I'm going home and take in washing and rest up."

An Ancient Greek Relic.

As a memorial of their victory in their final and desperate struggle at Palatea to hurl back the invading east, the ancient Greeks made a tripod from the golden cups of the Persians' table and the bronze of their soldiers' armor. It bore on its sides the names of every city whose soldiers fought and fell in the supreme moment of a nation's life. That tripod still exists at Constantinople, a national relic which has endured longer than the states whose deeds it consecrated.

Official Thanks to Lorenz

New York, Dec. 31.—Professor Lorenz was presented yesterday with the resolutions recently passed by the board of aldermen extolling the work he has done in this city, particularly for the poor. Professor Lorenz replied, thanking the aldermen, and expressing his pleasure at the reception tendered him in the United States.

Unknown Man Found Dead

Bryantville, Mass., Dec. 31.—The body of a man, as yet unidentified, was found yesterday in the woods of Pembroke. The body is that of a man about 55 years of age, 5 feet, 9 inches in height, with sandy moustache, dark hair and a week's growth of beard; clad in a black clay frock coat and vest, blue striped pants, blue overcoat and brown felt hat.

Fifty Remained Out

Ashton, R. I., Dec. 31.—A strike of 100 employes in the filling and spinning departments of the Lonsdale company's cotton mill here was brought about yesterday by the discharge of the superintendent. Fifty of the strikers later returned to their places, but the others assert that they will not return until the discharged official is reinstated.

An Anti-Trust Combination

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 31.—A union of nearly 400 tobacco dealers through the Blackstone valley has been formed under the name of the Cigar and Tobacco Dealers' PProtective association, with the object of boycotting the sale at retail of all goods manufactured by the combination. The agreement goes into effect Jan. 1.

Woman Fatally Burned

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 31.—Mrs. Simon Bell died last night, the victim of a burning accident. It is presumed that she dropped a lighted lamp in her apartments while on her way to her bed room, for she was found amid the fragments of a lamp and with her clothing afire by persons who live in the same house.

Schooners Probably Lost

Calais, Me., Dec. 31.—Hope for the safety of the Calais schooners Abner Taylor, from New York for this port, and the A. Hooper, from Boston for this port, has been abandoned. As a wreck supposed to be that of the Hooper has been reported it is surmised that the Taylor and the Hooper were in collision.

Wanted $27,000—Got $4025

Farmington, Me., Dec. 31.—An award of $4025 has been made to John A. Decker in his claim against the Rumford Falls and Rangeley Railroad company. He wanted $27,000 and left the matter of award to the county commissioners, the claim growing out of the land belonging to Decker seized by the railroad.

Furniture Firm Burned Out

Lawrence, Mass., Dec. 31.—The four-story block at 336 and 338 Essex street, occupied by F. P. Berry & Co. as a furniture store, was gutted yesterday at a loss of $25,000 The fire was caused by an oil stove tipping over in the office of F. P. Berry & Co.

FORTRESS ABANDONED

Sultan Foiled In Attempt to Escape From Fez

INTERFERENCE BY FRANCE

Postponed For the Present at Least by Assurance From That Country and England That They Only Desire Maintenance of Status Quo

Madrid, Dec. 31.—Telegrams received here from Tangier say the sultan's troops have abandened the fortress of Raselma, close to Fez. The pretender is negotiating with the tribes in the immediate vicinity of Fez to assist his advance.

The rebels have cut the aqueduct which supplies Fez with water and the city is now practically without water. Foreigners in the interior of the country have been advised to make for the coast, as provisions are scarce and communications are almost closed.

The sultan has been foiled by the rebels in an attempt to break out of the city. The hostility against the sultan is spreading in Fez itself. The Moors are exhibiting photographs of him arrayed in ridiculous garb.

The assurance to Spain by England and France that they desire only the maintenance of the status quo in Morocco postpones for the present at least the possibility of French intervention, which has been one of the disquieting elements in European diplomacy for several years.

Rumors took definite shape as early as 1900 that the French government had designs upon the country with the idea of controlling the northern coast of Africa and obtaining a stronghold opposite Gibraltar. These reports caused disquiet in Great Britain, because of the threat of rivalry they contained to British prestige in the Mediterranean.

Signs of rebellion began to appear in Morocco last year. Many of the rebellious tribes were in the southern provinces, and here it is that the French influence has been most felt. The Morocco government believes that France has serious designs upon the country. A French expedition the year before—supposedly sent out for scientific research, came in conflict with native inhabitants 300 miles south of the southernmost military station on the Algerian frontier, captured their town of Insalah, and caused it to pass under French military control. Thus the present oasis of Twat—a centre of Sahara trade, came under French influence. In the spring of the following year the French occupied Igli, another oasis.

So excited and fearful did the Morocco government become that it addressed a note of protest to the powers. France retorted that all alleged encroachments had been made upon French territory. Certain French political leaders have openly declared that the government should take possession of Morocco. Others fear an attempt at annexation may bring on war.

France, from Algeria, and Great Britain, from Gibraltar, are in a position to hurry troops into Morocco, and Spain already has garrisons at Ceuta and Melilla. The real difficulty lies in the general distrust which exists as to the intentions of the various powers.

Italy Watching Events

Rome, Dec. 31.—It is said that Italy is not making any warlike preparations relative to the situation in Morocco. From an authoritative source The Associated Press has received the following: "Italy, not being interested in the Morocco question, will limit herself to vigilantly watching events."

Kaiser Expresses Friendship For Us

Berlin, Dec. 31.—Emperor William has telegraphed to the North German sea cable works of Stettin as follows: "I have learned with special pleasure of the launching of the first cableship built at a German shipyard and I express, in connection with the new German-Atlantic cable, the hope that it will contribute toward strengthening more and more the good relations between Germany and the United States."

Cannibalism In New Guinea

Sydney, N. S. W., Dec. 31.—New Guinea natives have brutally murdered two European prospectors and many other persons. It is feared that the drought has caused the natives to resort to cannibalism. Thousands are starving or subsisting on roots. Twenty-five natives were recently killed in a tribal fight.

Minister Blew Out the Gas

Philadelphia, Dec. 31.—Rev. John B. Sellers, a Methodist minister of Guysboro, N. S., who was visiting his brothers in this city, was found dead in bed yesterday. He had blown out the gas through ignorance of its usage and was asphyxiated. Mr. Sellers was staying at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters.

Increased Sugar Crop Promised

Washington, Dec. 31.—Estimates of the sugar crop in Santiago de Cuba, transmitted to the state department by Consul Holaday at that city, place the crop for 1903 at 453,000 bags, an increase of 72,215 bags over that for the year now closing.

Lasting Prices Readjusted

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 31.—The strike of lasters at the F. M. Hoyt shoe factory has been settled and work was resumed this morning. The basis of settlement consists of a readjustment of the lasting prices.

Heirs to Miser's Fortune

San Francisco, Dec. 31.—Several weeks ago an old man named Eli Hyman was admitted to the general hospital of Toronto as a pauper. Two days later he died and an examination of his effects disclosed coin and paper to the value of $31,000. Just before his death he stated that he had a wife and daughter in San Francisco. Mrs. Rebecca Hyman and her daughter, now a Mrs. Hart, who reside here and who have been poverty stricken for years, have established proofs of those relationships. The estate is valued at $100,000.

A Chinese Strike Decision

Shanghai, Dec. 31.—Punishment of 100 blows and two weeks' imprisonment was the sentence of a Shanghai court in a case of a railroad engineer who left his employers during a strike without due notice. The company prosecuting the case contended that men employed by the month should have given a month's notice of their intention to leave, a position which was upheld by the court.

Naval Officers Mixed In Smuggling

San Juan, P. R., Dec. 31.—At yesterday's hearing of the smuggling cases before Commissioner Anderson it developed that about 100 cases of liquors had been brought from St. Thomas to San Juan on the U. S. S. Uncas in November, 1901. Some of these boxes bore the names of naval officers here. An employe of the naval station testified that these goods were sent out on army wagons.

No Renewal of Coal Contracts

Philadelphia, Dec. 31.—The sales agents of the Pennsylvania Railroad Anthracite Coal companies yesterday decided to continue the present circular prices during the month of January. The sales agents also declined to renew any of the expiring contracts with large consumers of anthracite, which action will compel all consumers to purchase coal in the open market.

McKinley Favorites Move Up

Washington, Dec. 31.—John H. Fimple of Ohio has been selected as assistant commissioner of the general land office to succeed W. A. Richards of Wyoming, who has been selected to succeed Binger Hermann of Oregon as commissioner. Both Richards and Fimple were slated for these offices by the late President McKinley.

Diamond Thief Held In $5000

New York, Dec. 31.—Augus McPherson, who stole $10,000 worth of diamond rings from Simpson & Co.'s pawn shop, after smashing a window Monday night, was held in $5000 bail yesterday on a charge of burglary. Several of the gems he lost in his flight have been recovered.

Sailors Have Chickenpox

St. Johns, Dec. 31.—Schooner Grace Strong, from Oporto, reached here yesterday with one man dead of chicken pox. Another man is dying and a third is ill of the disease. The schooner has been quarantined.

One For Mascagni

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Composer Mascagni was arraigned in court yesterday on a charge of embezzling $5000 from his former manager, Richard Heard of Boston. After hearing both sides Justice Hurley dismissed the case.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.
